...ve Newspaper
...Progressive
...Wright County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

IX. NUMBER 18 KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 7. ~~1914.~~ 1915 $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

hen You Select This Bank

banking business with, you can feel assured of t and faithful service in every department.
Our earned Surplus of $15,000.00

s proof of the success of this policy.

PRUDENT MAN" BANKED HIS MONEY WHEN HE WAS YOUNG right for a man, when he is along in years, and RD it, to spend money for luxuries, but the and the middle aged should remember that mber" comes to everyone, and that to be old is life's greatest tragedy.

vent this, begin NOW--put your money in our it STAY there and ADD TO IT every time

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

pay 5 per cent interest on Time Deposits

tate Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

tal $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
lus $15,000.00 |

Can you beat it?

eling Good?

F COURSE you are feeling GOOD after the Christmas festivities. But why not go a little farther and feel good The of the Year. It's easy when you know how. keep in touch with your druggist—he ws—and a few cents occasionally will do it.

Laxacold

Has no equal as a destroyer of cold

gist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

ICIAN SURGEON
FFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
ESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109
adiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

our Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

SHORT COURSE ENTERTAINMENTS

M. L. Howell, Prof. C. L. Fitch and Spelling Contest are Short Course Extras

Prof. M. L Howell, county superintendent of Wright. County will be here at the Short Course on the evening of January 27th, and will give us one of his best lectures but has not gave out his topic yet. Prof. Howell is the man that put Wright county on the map

Prof. C. L Fitch of the extension Department, who has charge of the farmstead planting will give a stereoptic on lecture on Thursday evening, January 28th. The title of his subject will be "Landscaping for Town and Country"

On Friday evening a county spelling contest will be pulled off and the work will be in charge of county superintendent, J. R. Baggs.

All of the above entertainments will be Short Course extras and will be free to all holders of season tickets. If you have not purchased your ticket yet, do so now. You surely want to help boost a little.

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF SHORT COURSE

President, L. Neese, Vice President and General Manager, C. A. Arnold

This committee should keep all irs rounded up well, act as a boosting committee and keep committees working in harmony with the proceedings of the meetings

Secretary and Treasurer of finance committee, A. D. Gluer.

This committee should keep a record of all bills, orders, money recieved and paid out, collect fees for tickets, door receipts, entry fees and etc.

Advertising and membership committee, M. M. Magner.

This committee must look after posters, newspaper notices, public schools, hand bills, buttons, badges, telephoning, selling tickets and etc

Domestic Science committee, J. M. Howdeshell.

This committee should provide a room with kitchen, water supply, gasoline or oil stove, two tables, dishes, lights linen, groceries and kitchen help, chairman and head of sales department of Domestic Science tickets.

Stock judging committee, C. E. Gibbs.

This committee should procure a room, feed for stock help for holding stock, stock for judging work, heating building, score cards etc.

Corn Judging Committee, C. W. Wiles.

This committee should provide a room and two hundred and twenty 10 ear samples of seed corn for class work. This corn should come from several different farmers in the community. Provide germination boxes, trimmings for tables etc.

Contest and Exhibition committee, A. Wellemeyer.

This committee should provide a room for exhibits, premiums for corn bread, tags, ribbons, entry books, rules governing contests &c.

Entertainment committee, W. E. Missman, L. R. Patton.

This committee should provide for evening programs, board and room for teachers, students, places for evening lectures etc.

Rooms for Domestic Science, stock judging, corn judging, contests and exhibits, and entertaining will be published next week.

All committees and all who are interested in the success of the Short Course shall meet at the City Hall Wednesday evening Jan. 14th at 7:30 P. M.

INTERPRETER NEEDED

"And what do you do?" inquired the prosecuting attorney of the German laborer who was in the witness chair.

"Ah vos bretty vell," replied the witness.

"I am not inquiring as to your health, I want to know what you do?"

"Vork!"

"Where do you work?" continued the counsel.

"In a factory."

"What kind of a factory?"

"It vos a bretty big vactory."

"Your honor," said the lawyer, turning to the judge, "if this goes on we'll need an interpreter." Then he turned to the witness again.

"Now Britzman, what do you make in the factory?" he asked.

"Eight dollars a week."

Then the interpreter got a chance to earn his daily bread.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Gathered From Here and There and Everywhere

Copake, N. Y.—Mrs. William Bonner awoke and saw a horse standing in the snow near the freight depot. An hour later the horse was still there and she called up constable Reynolds. He left his warm bed, walked three miles and started to lead the horse away when he discovered it was a wooden horse, consigned to a local harness maker.

Kenosha, Wis.—This city has adopted the pay-as you-go system and will pay cash for everything it buys and demand the same discounts that would be allowed to any private firm or corporation

Chicago, Ill.—Billy Sunday insists that before he will begin his evangelistic meetings in Chicago he must be assured that a $50,000 stock company be organized and incorporated to finance his religious meetings.

Spokane, Wash.—Emery O. Edwards, of Colville, Wash., died in New York recently Only after his death was it learned that he was in New York in regard to an estate estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars, to which he was sole heir

Fort Totten, N. Y.—A mosquito bite may result in blindness to Sergeant David Levine, of the 114th. Coast Artillery. The bite resulted in blood poison and surgeons fear he will lose the sight of one eye.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Aaron Misenheimer, 92 years old, is accused by his wife of being infatuated with another woman

Mt. Pleasnt, Mich.—Mrs. Warren Johnson, 82 is probaly the oldest newspaper reporter in the country. She has been reporting for 40 years and still writes good letters.

SCHULDT-SCHOENWETTER

Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Schuldt in this city took plage the marriage of their daughter, Lydia L. to Mr Victor J. Schoenwetter, Rev. Witter officiating. A large number of invited friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony and after hearty congratulations, they all sat down to a most sumptions wedding dinner.

Both of these young people are among our most highly respected young people and they take up the duties of husband and wife with the hearty well wishes of a large circle of friends.

The bride is the daughter of one of best families and was born and raised in this community where she is loved and respected by all. She will make a happy home and delightful helpmeet for the young man of her choice

The groom is a son of one of our oldest and highly respected families and he was also born in this vicinity. He is one of our young industsious and prosperous farmers and very popular among his associates.

They will soon go to housekeeping in the farm home prepared by the groom where they will be at home to their numerous friends.

The Times takes pleasure in joining with their many friends in wishing for them a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

A feature of the short course of special interest to every home in Hancock county, is the work in home making. This is a practical course outlined for the lady who desires instruction in household management which will be of use in every day work. The city lady as well as her country sister will find the course of practical benefit. For years we have paid attention to the corn crop, oat crop, colt crop and calf crop, paying little attention to the study of that all important crop—the crop of boys and girls. We do not think of feeding our young animals on the same ration as the mature individuals and yet how many pay attention to the feeding of the boys and girls to promote healthy development? These are the problems taken up in the home making course held in connection with the regular course in agriculture at Klemme, January 25th to 30th.

Mrs. J. Reichart and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wentz returned from Belmond, Wednesday, where they had been to attend the funeral of the Lippo Wessel child. The child had been suffering for some time and underwent a couple of operations at the hospital at Iowa City last fall but it did not seem to bring any relief. The many friends of the Wessel family in this community extend their sympathy to the bereaved.

¶ Learn the advantage of being able to write your own checks. They are the safest medium of exchange.

¶ They are a reciept. They are a record to whom you pay money and show the date money was paid. They are a protection against loss to the giver as well as the recipient. They are convient and the best evidence of progressiveness.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,

Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prices

Lumber, Lath.
Shingles,
Posts, Sash.
Doors, Blinds,
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Buster Brown Shoes

Are Made for Children to Romp and Play In

These shoes will wear; will please both parents and children. The parents will like the roomy toes, allowing plenty of room for the child's sensitive, growing feet. They will also like the tough soles used, and the way the points of greatest strain are protected with reinforced stitching. The children will like their handsome appearance, the freedom from pinches and all-around foot comfort.

BUSTER BROWN SHOES are made in a wide variety of styles and leathers by BROWN SHOE COMPANY, Inc., one of the greatest manufacturing institutions in the world.

Wellemeyer Department Store

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

The oyster it would appear, has been seriously maligned by investigators who were making records for themselves at the expense of the delightful bivalve that has borne in silence—dumb as an oyster—the obloquy that has been heaped upon it. It has been held that the oyster received into its organism for general circulation the germs of typhoid fever. Now comes the refutation of the calumny. A high authority has shown that during cold weather oysters rest or hibernate. Movement ceases and they cease to feed, so that they are free from sewage organisms during the months of R at least, and the remaining months of the year few persons care to eat them. This information is given in the Journal of the American Medical association.

Colonel Maurice George Moore who has been appointed to the supreme command of the military council of the Nationalist volunteers, is the son of an Irish politician who was a leader of the tenant right movement half a century ago. For many years Colonel Moore was in the Connaught Rangers and during the South African campaign he succeeded to the command of the First battalion. Soon after his promotion he helped to remedy the scarcity of mounted men among the British force. Mounting and training some 500 hundred of these rangers, Colonel Moore formed a mounted column with them and did this excellent work during the later stages of the war. It is eight years since Colonel Moore left the active list.

If the life of the old man-of-war was longer than that of the present dreadnaught, the old merchantman lived longer still. The Lively, for instance, when wrecked at Cromer in 1888 had been afloat two years over a century. The Liberty, too, built at Whitby in 1750 was in regular use till 1856 and the Bets Cains, which began life as a frigate and ended as a collier went down in her 137th year. And in 1902 according to a daily paper the Anita, then trading between Spain and America, dated from the days of Columbus.

Before Napoleon's time it had been the custom for armies to carry huge, unwieldy flags mounted on poles, which while they afforded a rallying point for their corps also drew the enemy's fire. Napoleon revived the ancient symbol of the Caesars. The Napoleonic eagle itself was eight inches in height and nine inches across the wings. It stood on a brass block three inches square.

The independent grand duchy of Luxemburg has an area of 998 square miles and is bounded by Belgium, Germany and France. It belongs to the German customs union. In American consular jurisdiction the agency of Luxemburg [illegible] Rotterdam [illegible] should not be confused with [illegible] province in Belgium [illegible].

The United States government is erecting [illegible] steel towers [illegible] canal zone [illegible] will [illegible].

One of the most amazing instances of religious stupidity is recorded in connection with Marylebone church, London. In 1860 some one cut the [illegible] I H S from the altar [illegible] was summoned to discuss the sacrilege when the vicar admitted that he had done the mutilation because [illegible] of the rector [illegible] cloth.

Hundreds of tons of peach seeds piled at fruit canning establishments in California are now to be utilized in a commercial way and a company has been organized for developing this industry. The seeds are to be cracked by machinery and the meats used in the manufacture of prussic acid and other products. The shells will be sold as fuel.

More than 200 giant searchlights, which are to be used as part of the 500 at the San Francisco exposition have arrived and are being put in place. Those received are 18-inch and 13-inch and are the smallest size that will be used. There will be 100 30-inch searchlights and many between three and four feet in diameter.

The production of essence of orange flowers and orange flower water [illegible] region of Nabeul where 200,000 pounds of orange flowers are distilled each year, the distillation yielding 200 pounds of essence of neroli valued at $26 to $30 a pound and 74,000 to [illegible] quarts of orange flower water.

A Glasgow merchant [illegible] for his [illegible] clerk [illegible].

[illegible] terms of warnings [illegible] employ [illegible] London [illegible] times. Six [illegible] eight for [illegible] three for Austria and one for England.

When [illegible] the north side of the forest trees it is a sign among woodsmen that the winter will be a severe one [illegible] this fall woodsmen in Maine report the absence of moss from the trees.

There is something like a plague of caterpillars on the Kowloon plantation in China. Twelve millions have been destroyed so far and the Hong Kong legislature has voted $6,500 to carry on the work of extermination.

Among the defenses of the Panama canal there will be several batteries of 16 and 12-inch rifles all of which will be concealed in such manner that with the use of smokeless powder it will be impossible for an enemy to locate them.

The old Moslem feeling against portraits is disappearing from Turkey even to the extent of printing the likeness of the sultan. Pictures of the reigning sovereign have at present an immense vogue in the orthodox near east and are very popular in the Turkish regiments.

The "safety first" idea which has recently come into general practice on most American roads is an old one in Germany and other European countries where the practice extends to every form of industry as well as the railroads.

TREWIN QUITS STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION; SAYS HE'S TOO BUSY

Stormy Times Have Been the Board's Portion Since Its First Organization.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 2.—James H. Trewin, of Cedar Rapids, yesterday sent his resignation as a member of the state board of education to Governor Clarke. It becomes effective today. Increasing business affairs and inability to devote sufficient time to the matters pertaining to the state educational institutions, is given as the reason for retiring.

In a personal statement of the reasons for his resignation, Mr. Trewin said:

"I should have served out my term probably," said Mr. Trewin, "but I felt that it would be for the best interests of the institutions that I retire now. The man who is to take the place on the board should be in service while the legislature is in session. On account of my private affairs I could not be present at Des Moines during the session. Therefore I sent in my resignation so as to give Governor Clarke an opportunity of appointing some one who will take up the work and who can give the time that the task requires."

Governor Clarke gives no intimation as to whom he will name as Mr. Trewin's successor.

The state board of education has encountered stormy conditions since it was first installed, due to opposition from college officials.

TANGLE CONTINUES IN AFFAIRS AT DAVENPORT

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 2.—Davenport's political squabble which followed the death of the late Alderman Steve P. Bawden two weeks ago and has thrown the city administration into a turmoil ever since was partially settled when former city treasurer Will G. Noth and Howard Power, a prominent manufacturer, were nominated to fill the vacancy.

The democrats in the council, four in number, believe they have elected Noth as the republican aldermanic strength is but three. The republicans however under the leadership of Mayor Alfred Mueller have declared that Mayor Mueller is also a member of the council and entitled to vote. They call the election a tie and say no one has been elected. The mayor was declared a member of the council in an opinion by City Attorney Carl Lamback, a republican. Noth has been administered the oath of office by City Clerk Hugo Moeller, a democrat, and will attempt to take his seat at the next council meeting.

BOY HURLED TO DEATH WHEN CAUGHT IN BELT

Humboldt, Ia., Jan. 2.—Leland Watson, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Watson, was killed when a belt which he was attempting to run onto the pulley on a line shaft became entangled and twisted him many times around the shaft before he was discovered by his father. When the motor was stopped by Mr. Watson the boy's head was torn loose from the body and lay on one side of the room, the body on the other, while the right arm and his sweater [illegible] was still entangled in the belt.

The boy and his brother were working about the elevator where the father was employed, building themselves a sled, and Leland had stepped into the motor room, being engaged in running the belt onto a grindstone with which to [illegible] drawing knife he met [illegible] It was several minutes before the thumping of the belt against the wall attracted the attention of the [illegible] who notified the father.

CLAIMS FARM SALES ARE VIOLATION OF QUARANTINE

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 2.—That many farm sales now being held over Johnson county are in direct violation of the quarantine laws for the hoof and mouth disease and that any farmer holding sales from now on will be punished by law was the substance of a message from State Veterinarian Gibson received by Sheriff Theodore Fautz.

Many sales on farms in Johnson county have been openly advertised in local papers the past several weeks and the message from the state veterinarian [illegible] general rebellion in the county. The [illegible] situation in the rural communities had already become critical during the quarantine and the denial of the right to hold sales of their stock to the county came as a final blow.

MORE DEVELOPMENTS IN "BABY FARM" OPERATIONS

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Mary J. Tilton, a well known widow of this city, active head of the Young Women's Christian association, was called upon the telephone yesterday afternoon by some unknown person who claimed [illegible] Mrs. Tilton she was going to send her a fine new born baby. Mrs. Tilton protested that she had [illegible] and did not want the baby which apparently made no impression on the person at the other end of the wire who insisted the baby would be sent to her home. Developments in the leaving of three babies upon porches of Council Bluffs homes recently indicated the work of a baby farm probably located in Omaha.

SAC CITY WEDDINGS.

Sac City, Ia., Jan. 2.—Three well known young ladies of Sac City chose December 30 for their wedding day. In the auditorium of the First Baptist church Miss Esther Lee was united in marriage to Mr. Walter W. Stewart, Rev. Norman R. Hill, pastor of the Baptist church officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by a company of about 60 relatives and intimate friends of the people.

In the evening at the home of Rev. E. S. Johnson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Storm Lake, four young people of Sac City took the marriage vows. Rev. Mr. Johnson performing the ceremony. The brides were the Misses Jennie and Minnie Skarin, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Skarin of this city. Miss Jennie Skarin became the wife of Ray C. Pierce and her sister was united in marriage to Thomas C. Tapley.

MURDERED FARMER'S WIFE HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

Mason City, Ia., Jan. 1.—Mrs. Chester Van Horn, aged 28, was lodged in jail here today, pending investigation of the death of her husband, a prosperous farmer, of Clear Lake, Ia. He was found dead in bed on the morning of November 20, with a bullet wound in his head. Mrs. Van Horn was arrested in Des Moines last night.

An American expert has been engaged by the Australian state of Victoria to reopen a long closed factory and revive the beet sugar industry.

IOWA SHORT LINE TO QUIT BUSINESS; RUSH TO LAY IN SUPPLIES

Unusual Situation Develops as Result of Unprofitable Railroad Venture.

Atlantic, Ia., Jan. 2.—The Iowa Short Line, a railroad 35 miles in length, will quit business Thursday night and the towns on the route are much disturbed over the condition.

An interesting feature of the situation is the business that the railroad has been doing the past month, and which is in full swing up to the last minute of the time given by the owners for traffic. One lumber company, having yards at all the towns on the road, has shipped in several train loads of lumber and building material to fortify themselves against the closing down of the line and every business man in these towns has been doing the same until the freight receipts from the traffic the last month of its operation will show a tremendous swelling over any previous month. To care for this increased traffic the management has had to operate extra trains nearly every day during this month.

According to a statement made by the company covering nine months' operation of the road, they lost $10,101.20. The company has a mileage of 41.6 which includes sidetracks. The authorized capital stock is $200,000. The company report for the nine months includes expenditures of $27,377 for betterments. Revenues amounted to $3?,190.20, as follows: Freight $22,801.79, passenger service $11,52?.15, mail and express, $2,718.26, rentals, $249. Expenditures include: General expense $2,?24.94, maintenance of way $15,191, maintenance of equipment $4,036.5?, transportation $25,864.99.

It is claimed by the patrons of the line that a serious error was made by the company in catering to passenger service with an expensive train service to the neglect of the freight traffic where the bulk of the revenues were to be derived. On this account, it is declared a possible profit was turned into a loss.

FARMERS WILL SEEK TO RECOVER QUARANTINE LOSSES

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 2.—Preliminary steps toward the recovery of losses sustained by cholera during the recent quarantine in Johnson county were taken at a special meeting of the farmers of this and the surrounding counties held in the Commercial club rooms yesterday.

When a final vote was called 42 stock raisers placed their names on the record books signifying their willingness to pay the expenses of bringing their losses before the state legislature. It is estimated that the farmers of this county lost in the vicinity of $10,000 due to cholera being conveyed to hogs which were healthy and ready for shipment at the time the quarantine was placed on the county. A fund of several hundred dollars was raised among the farmers today to start this work and frame a bill for presentation.

LARGE EXHIBIT OF CORN AT ANNUAL SHOW AT AMES

Ames, Ia., Jan. 2.—More than 300 of the finest ears of corn ever grown in the state of Iowa are being exhibited at the annual state corn show here this week and next making it the most notable of all the state exhibits.

More good corn of higher quality is being shown this year than ever before according to H. L. Eichling, secretary of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers association.

More than 50 per cent of the entries are from farmers who are exhibiting this year for the first time and the quality of their corn shows a big improvement in the farm methods in vogue in Iowa during the last few years and indicates that the campaign of education which has been instituted has interested farmers in the growing of good seed corn.

SOME PRISONERS IGNORE IOWA PAROLE PRIVILEGES

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 2.—How little the parole privileges of Iowa are appreciated by the prisoners in some instances is related in the case of Lyle Sturdevant, sent to Anamosa for larceny and released February 1, 1914. Sturdevant has just been arrested at Arcadia, Fla., after a long search. The records of the state board of parole show that the young man, who is only 20 years of age, has earned as high as $87 a month working in the steel mills at Bettendorf. He was injured last summer and, through the efforts of the board and friends, he collected insurance and was making money. In a short time he would have been released and by careful saving could have had some capital to start anew in the world. As it is he will be forced to serve out a sentence and perhaps an additional five years if the warden at Anamosa cares to press the penalty for violating a parole.

WOULD RELIEVE TREASURER FROM INHERITANCE TAXES

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 2.—As a means of lightening the labor of the treasurer of state's department, Governor Clarke will recommend to the legislature that the duty of collecting the collateral inheritance tax be transferred from the treasurer to the attorney general. This, with other duties which may be placed with the attorney general by the next general assembly, may require the addition of one more attorney in that department, it is said.

The collateral inheritance tax collection has been looked after for the last 11 years by Quincy Willis, deputy state treasurer. The business has grown so that at present it takes much of his time preparing cases for the presentation of the court where resistance for payment of the tax is made. During the two years ending June 30, 1912 there were 905 estates in Iowa which paid collateral inheritance taxes. The total sum collected from that source during this period was $341,000. During the two years ending June 30, 1914 there were 1,270 estates which paid collateral inheritances taxes to the extent of $657,000.

THREE MEN KILLED IN IOWA MINE EXPLOSION

Knoxville, Ia., Dec. 31.—Three men were instantly killed and four injured, two of them probably fatally, late yesterday afternoon, by a dust explosion in a coal mine at Flagler, a mining town near here.

The explosion which was caused by a "windy shot," literally blew the men from the mouth of the entry and those who escaped death were bruised and burned almost beyond recognition.

The dead are: Will Clark, Jack Cooper, and Millard Kersey.

KAISER URGES MEN TO GREATER DEEDS

Fresh Hordes of Enemies Menace Fatherland, But Germany Will Win In End, He Declares.

Berlin (via London,) Jan. 2.—Emperor William in a New Year's message to the army and navy asks them to face the New Year unflinchingly and to look forward to new deeds and new victories for the beloved fatherland. The message which was made public at main headquarters here is as follows:

"After five long months of heavy and hot fighting we enter the new year.

"Brilliant victories have been gained and great successes achieved by the German army almost everywhere on the territory of the enemy, while repeated attempts of our opponents to swarm on German territory have failed.

"My ships have covered themselves with glory on every sea and the crews have proved not only that they know how to fight victoriously, but to die like heroes when overwhelmed by superior forces.

"Behind the army and the fleet the entire nation stands in unexampled harmony, prepared to sacrifice its heart's blood for the sacred domestic hearth which we are defending against outrageous invasion.

"Much has come to pass in the old year, but the enemies are still kept low. Always fresh hordes are rolling up against our army and the army of our faithful allies, but their numbers do not frighten us. Although the time may be serious and the task before us a heavy one, we look forward into the future with the firmest confidence.

"Next to God's wise guidance I trust to the matchless bravery of the army and navy and knew myself to be as one with the entire German nation. Therefore let us face the new year unflinchingly looking forward to new deeds and new victories for our beloved fatherland.

(Signed) Wilhelm."

Munich, Jan. 1 (via Berlin, The Hague, and London).—Emperor William replying to a New Year's telegram from the king and queen of Bavaria sent their majesties the following message:

"I reciprocate your good wishes and those of all Bavarians with all my heart. You speak after my own heart when you say we all have but one thought which is that a peace worthy of the sacrifices already made and still to be made be secured for the beloved fatherland in the new year.

"How splendid in this connection is it that the German princes and the German peoples are standing together in unchangeable fidelity. With God's help, to achieve with our brave troops that victory for our just cause, which we expect with unshaken confidence. In cordial friendship.

(Signed) Wilhelm."

NO IRRITATION ON PART OF ENGLAND

Publication of Full Text of Wilson Protest Dispels Earlier Inclination to Regard It An Ultimatum.

EARLY ADJUSTMENT LIKELY

Intimations From London Are to Effect Sir Edward Grey's Reply Will Be Explicit and Friendly

London, Jan. 2.—The publication in London of the text of the American note to the British government on the question of unwarranted interference with American shipping, has dispelled any irritation occasioned by the incomplete sentences in the first summary of the communication cabled from the United States. There were certain Englishmen who saw something like an ultimatum in the cabled extracts, but a perusal of the actual context of these particular phrases has dispelled this conception.

The Pall Mall Gazette today voices the general opinion when it says:

"We could place our finger on certain contentions advanced in the note which indicate some failure to appreciate the difficulties of our position, but it is not our business to chop logic with the government of the United States. Sir Edward Grey may be trusted to give the government of President Wilson all the satisfaction it can properly ask, while at the same time indicating with courtesy and firmness the measures our position as a belligerent power compel us to continue.

"The government of the United States has shown every disposition to put itself in our place and recognize our difficulties. Our government will not show itself to be less fairminded than that of President Wilson. Short of sacrificing our best weapon for bringing the war to a successful and speedy end, nothing will be left undone to meet the wishes of the United States."

ITALY UPHOLDS ATTITUDE OF AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

Rome, Jan. 2.—The American note to Great Britain protesting against the interference with American merchantmen has produced an excellent impression here not only because it may tend to avert exactly the same difficulties encountered by Italian commerce, but also because it is hoped that it may lead to a more concrete set of international rules protecting the commerce of neutrals in their rights while still safeguarding the rights of belligerents.

SEVEN DIE IN WRECK.

London, Jan. 1.—Seven persons were killed and many others injured in a train collision this morning on the Great Western railway near Ilford, five miles from London. Some of the railroad cars were reduced to splinters. The victims of the accident are mostly city clerks.

SENATOR KENYON WILL COMBAT CHILD LABOR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Senator Kenyon will speak before a big national conference on child labor here next week. He will urge widespread agitation of anti-child labor legislation as the only way to force congress to act and overcome the opposition of the powerful mill and other interests which are exploiting the toll of children.

BRITISH WARSHIP SENT TO BOTTOM

Formidable, 15,000-Ton Craft, Carrying Crew of 750 Men, Destroyed Either By a Mine or Submarine.

LOSS OF LIFE NOT KNOWN

Nearby Cruiser Picks Up 71 Seamen—Possible Others Have Been Rescued By Passing Ships.

London, Jan. 2.—The German war of attrition found another British victim this morning and robbed the British navy of the 16 year old, but still useful, battleship Formidable, of the same class as the battleship Bulwark, which was blown up a few weeks ago off Sheerness.

Apparently the loss of life on board the Formidable has been very heavy, as only 71 members of her crew are known to have been saved. The officials, however, hold out hope that others may have been picked up.

The exact locality of this disaster has not been revealed, but the fact that it occurred in the British channel recalls the circumstances that British ships have been engaged in bombarding the German positions on the Belgian coast and that German submarines on several occasions in the past have attempted to torpedo them.

The text of the bureau's statement follows:

"The battleship Formidable was sunk this morning in the channel, but whether by a mine or a submarine is not yet certain.

"Seventy-one survivors have been picked up by a British light cruiser, and it is possible that others may have been rescued by other vessels."

The British battleship Formidable had a displacement of 15,000 tons. She was 430 feet long and carried a complement of 750 men. She was heavily armored and carried four 12-inch guns, 12 six-inch guns and 16 12-pounders. She was provided also with four submerged torpedo tubes.

Launched in 1898.

The Formidable was launched in 1898 and was a sister ship to the Irresistible and Implacable.

The Formidable was assigned on the British list for December to various fleet offices and, consequently she undoubtedly was acting as a flag ship at the time of her destruction. Her captain was Arthur N. Loxley, and her commander Charles F. Ballard. Capt. John C. Deed was in command of the marines on board, while the fleet surgeon was Godfrey Taylor, and the fleet paymaster P. J. Ling. The chaplain is given as the Rev. George B. Robinson. On board the Formidable were also 10 midshipmen.

ONLY MORAL SENSE CAN IMPROVE RACE

People Must Be Inspired to Produce Better Offspring Says Physician.

Philadelphia, Jan. 2.—How science can improve the human race by eugenics was the principal subject of discussion by the members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at today's session of the annual convention of that body.

"It is a question whether the human race as a whole has greatly improved since the old stone age, 125,000 years ago. The brain capacity of the man of that period compares very well with that of modern man," declared Dr. Henry F. Osborn, president of the American Society of Zoologists. "The elevation of the moral sense through knowledge," he added, "is the greatest contribution made by the science of biology. Genetics and eugenics must make their appeal to the human conscience. The parents of today know more than those of 100 years ago, and therefore know more about right and wrong. We must make our appeal to this higher moral sense to prevent the bringing of defectives into the world."

Dr. G. H. Parker of Harvard, advocated the sterilization of all defectives, which he declared are steadily increasing.

BIG SAN DIEGO FAIR NOW IN FULL SWING

Panama-California Exposition Opened at Midnight—Nine Governors There

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 2.—The Panama-California exposition opened to the world at midnight by the touching of an electric button by the president in Washington, D. C. It was formally dedicated today by the president's principal representative, Secretary of the Treasury William McAdoo.

Lyman J. Gage, former secretary of the treasury, presided at the ceremonies and the list of speakers included Mr. McAdoo, President Davidson of the exposition, Count Del Valle De Salazar, representing the king of Spain, John Barrett, of the Pan-American Union, and Charles C. Moore, president of the Panama Pacific exposition of San Francisco.

The governors of nine states were present.

ELDEST SON OF GERMAN CHANCELLOR IS KILLED

Berlin, (via The Hague and London), Jan. 1.—The Lokal Anzeiger says in its issue of today it has learned that the eldest son of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, was killed in action in Poland December 9. The statement published at the time that the young man had been wounded and made prisoner is erroneous.

RECOVERY OF LO[ST] TERRITORY MIGH[T BE] TASK FOR ALL[IES]

Opening of Sixth Month of [War] Finds Germany Holding C[on]quered Ground and On the Defensive.

INITIATIVE IS UP TO [ALLIES]

Neither Side Yet Victorious [in] Poland—Joffre Is Pound[ing] Extreme Ends of Kaiser's Western Lines

London, Jan. 2.—The close of the [fifth] month of the war finds Germany in occupation of virtually the whole [of] Belgium an important tract of [French] territority in the western theater [of hos]tilities and a considerable slice of [Rus]sian Poland along the eastern front 1,000 miles away. It would [ap]pear nevertheless that Germany [at] present at least, is unable to [make] further headway.

British commentators today [call at]tention to the fact that the initiative for the moment seems to be [in the] hands of the allied commanders [and] the recent German public utterances [to] the effect that Germany is waging [a] defensive war to save her territory from invasion is accepted here as [an] indirect admission that to battle [on] two battle fronts 1,000 miles apart [has] caused an unexpected strain on the great resources of the empire.

No Illusion In London

There are however, no illusions [in] London as to the difficulties confronting the allies. It is recognized [that] the task of recovering the territory seized by Germany is no less formidable than the undertaking of Germany when she found herself engaged [in] warfare against a multiplicity of [en]emies. Hence the postponement of [an] allied offensive on grand scale [until] such time as the allies are able to [put] more men in the field.

Meanwhile each side is continually feeling the strength of its opposing lines. General Joffre, the French [com]mander in chief, is for the moment [ex]erting his greatest pressure on the [ex]tremities of the line front extending from the channel to Alsace.

No Letup In Fighting.

As the year 1915 opens after [five] months of hostility in the great [war] the fighting, both in the eastern [and] the western arenas, is going on [with]out decisive result for either side. [There] has been no material let up with [the] advent of severe winter weather [and] determination and severity of the [en]counters. In Poland there are [still] active hostilities between Germans [and] Russians, between the Vistula and [the Pi]lica rivers and along the battle [line in] France, from the sea to Switzerland there are almost continuous exchanges of artillery fire, or infantry charges against trenches, followed by desperate counter attacks.

Hammering the Ends.

On the east wing the French [are] once more in possession of a portion of Steinbach, a village of much strategic importance, which they occ[upied] early in the war. Against the [Germans'] right wing the allies are slowly [mov]ing along the sand dunes border[ing the] North sea in the direction of [Ostend,] which the guns of the British fleet [pre]vented the Germans from occupying.

Large armies, now training in England will be ready to be thrown across the channel as soon as a more [rapid] development of the offensive movement of the allies is considered [de]sirable.

It is claimed at Petrograd that Field Marshal von Hindenburg's rush [on] Warsaw has been opposed with such success that it has been definitely checked, but the German war office reports that satisfactory progress is be[ing] made, except in Galicia, where what practically amounts to a rout [of] the Austrian forces, with their stiffening of Germans, is admitted. Opinions vary whether the Austro-Hungarian forces will again stir the hornets' [nest] to the southward of the dual monarchy. At present, Servia and Montenegro have fought their big neighbor to [a] standstill, but it is reported that Austria is preparing a new expedition [of] 1,000,000 men against Servia.

ARTILLERY DUEL WAGES WITH RENEWED FEROCI[TY]

Paris, Jan. 2.—The French war office today gave an official statement as follows:

"From the sea to Rheims there was yesterday hardly anything more than an artillery engagement. The enemy bombarded without result the villages of St. Georges and the head of the bridge position occupied by the Belgians at a point south of Dixmude.

"Spirited cannonading resulted advantageously for us between La Bassee and Carency; between Albert and Roye; in the region of Verneuil and in the neighborhood of Blanc Sablonk, which is near Craonne. At this mentioned point we also demolished certain German earthworks.

"In the region of Perthes and Beausejour, we have held the gains made by us on December 30. During all the day of December 31 the activity of the opposing artillery forces was interrupted.

"In the Argonne, the enemy attacked violently almost the entire front in the forest of La Grurie. At certain points we advanced for a distance of 50 yards, but counter attacks were at once delivered.

"In the region of Verdun there have been violent artillery engagements.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle to the northwest of Flirey, the Germans delivered during the night of December 30-31 and in the morning of the 31st, no less than six violent counter attacks for the purpose of retaking trenches captured by us on December 30. Each of these attacks was brilliantly repulsed.

GERMAN AMERICANS ARE WRITING TO SENATO[RS]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Senator Sterling is getting a large number [of] letters from South Dakota urging [him] to support the Hitchcock measure [to] shut off shipments of war munitions [to] the belligerents. The letters are ma[inly] from German-Americans. [Similar let]ters are reaching Senators Kenyon and other senators. Senator Hitchcock will speak on this resolution in about two weeks.

...G TO SHOW ...ES CRIME AN ...UTSIDE" AFFAIR

...vidence Merely Tends ...ow W. H. Menzie and ... Blanche Signal ...Were Murdered.

...ER HOTEL CROWDED

... of Lawbreakers to ... Attorney Beck Is ... Feature Among Partisans.

... S .D., Jan. 1.—The state is ... the effort to establish the ...urder in connection with the ...W. H Menzie, manager of the ...Co-Operative Lumber com... of Miss Blanche Signal, the ... bookkeeper. It is also seek...ve the crime was an outside ...

...Humphrey, yard superintend... lumber company, one of the ...ls at the scene of the lumber ...last April and long a trusted ...of Menzie told a well con...ry of his gruesome discovery ... ruins. His testimony, how...alculated to prove only that ...d the Signal girl were mur... not to fasten the crime on ...Brooks, the defendant ...ey told of learning of the fire ...ntermission at the firemen's ...how his first thought was of ...and of his child, left in the ...s grandmother He told of ... the lumber office and en... the churred remains of the ...odies. Menzie and the girl ...ld of the condition of the bod...e situation in the office after ... had been extinguished ...

...nding Charred Bodies.

...ey made two ineffectual ef...re definitely discovering the ...Menzie. "I felt with my hand ...back," said Humphrey, tell... find. "I knew he was dead ...fear and then struck a raised ...the left of his head After... learned of the wound, such ... have been effected by a ...blow with a hammer"

...ver and two heavy hammers, ...the wreck were introduced in ... Humphrey testified that ...amination showed the weapon had ...been fired once The ankles and wrists ...of Miss Signal's body were bound by ...wire. Menzie's ankles were similarly ...bound, but the hands were free The ...defense gained from Humphrey the ...admission that the keys of the office ...doors were found near Menzie, that ...Menzie's revolver was not customarily ...kept and that it was kept in a desk ...

... Vanderberg, aged 15 years, ...of passing the lumber office ...o'clock on the night of the ...He said he saw a flame un...ffice door, and heard a crash ...ling glass, which he believed ...window breaking His pony ...t and ran away, he said, and ...t mention the incident until ...his home two miles away.

... L. Larson motherinlaw of ...y, testified that she passed ...r office early in the evening, ...saw Menzie and Miss Signal ...within, the latter writing At ...phrey home, about 11 30 ...she smelled kerosine, but ...t discover the source Sparks ...a window later attracted her ..., but she concluded they were ...ocomotive.

... E. Fyle, who examined the ... of Miss Signal, put in testi...pected by the state to explode ...ry of relations between Menzie ...girl that might have led to a ...

...ersonalities Featured.

...ensity of bitter feeling against ...secution in certain quarters ...partially attributed by state's ... A B. Beck, to personal ani...against him. He has been a ...prosecutor and especially ac...inst bootlegging and gambling. ...his term in office 23 persons ...n sent from Charles Mix coun...e penitentiary Beck's term ...expires in four days, but he ...unced he will stick in the case ...is finished Attorney E. E. ...in examining the witnesses for ...e. Attorneys for the defense ...at business troubles may have ... Menzie a motive for suicide. ...ther asserted that the lumber ... was insolvent. There are 300 ...tockholders in the concern.

...ny court house at Wheeler is ...ing with persons who have ... by rig and automobile for dis...f 20 miles and more, through ...w drifts and zero weather, to ... trial. Wheeler is nearly 20 ...m a railroad, with one small ...hat prove utterly inadequate ...r the flood of visitors. The ...akes one trip daily between ...nd Wheeler

...IRK RAIDED BY ...RMAN AEROPLANES

Kill 15 Persons and ...nd 12—Fleet Taubes Make Escape.

...n, Jan. 1.—Four German aero...lew several times over the city ...nkirk, Wednesday, dropping ...s they went, according to the ... correspondent of the Daily ...oldiers in the streets fired on ...hines and one taube seemed to ...ut all got safely away ...fficial returns of the casualties ...t 15 persons were killed and 12 ... The bombs were filled with ...

...alf an hour the whole city ... with rifle shots and bombs, ...rew up dense clouds of smoke ...ver did one aeroplane seem to ...han another arrived Buildings ...arts of the city were wrecked ...rst bomb fell on the fortifica...ro more near the railway sta... many others in different parts ...own and in the suburbs of Ro...nd the districts of Courkeque ...nes. One child had an arm ...t and an old woman was killed ...

... ...eroplaned remained as ... the town, ready to at... the allies' aeroplanes that ...to repel the air assailants.

GREATER ARMY IS NEEDED TO DRIVE OUT THE GERMANS

Allies Have Lost Heavily In Recent Offensive Operations In West—Will Muster Overwhelming Force.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN EAST

Russia Appears to Be Master of Situation In Poland and Galicia—Italy and Rumania to Act Soon.

Amsterdam, Holland, (via London) Dec 31—What is described as an unofficial telegram but nevertheless, was issued today by the German army headquarters has been received here

It reads

"Our troops in Poland are pursuing the enemy After the battles of Lodz and Lowicz we took more than 67,000 prisoners and many cannon and machine guns

"The entire booty since the beginning of our offensive in Poland in November totals 136 600 prisoners, more than 100 cannon and over 300 machine guns"

London, Jan 1 There are increasing indications, in the opinion of British observers, of events on the continent, that a serious allied offensive movement against the whole German line in the western arena of the war will be postponed until such time that larger contingents of Lord Kitchener's new army take the field The losses of the allies sustained up to the present time in the tentative thrusts forward here and there have been heavy in proportion to the gains achieved, and it is understood that the various leaders unite in the opinion that the sacrifices entailed by a general advance at this time would be too great Need Overwhelming Force.

The turn of events in the eastern theater of hostilities where Russia appears to be more than holding her own necessitates nevertheless hard pressure against the German lines in the west to prevent them from moving any more of their troops to the eastern field.

It is pointed out that even should the allies in the west succeed in driving the Germans out of France and Belgium the kaiser's army would still be in a stronger position even than at present In that event they would move back to their own line of frontier fortifications where it would be an extremely difficult task to dislodge them. Military observers are coming to entertain the belief that only by the overwhelming superiority of numbers will the allies be able to cope with the Germans once they are fighting on their own soil

Think Offensive Broken.

The German forces in Poland appear to have found it extremely difficult to continue their advance toward Warsaw Berlin states that further progress is being made, but Petrograd believes the German offensive has been broken.

A report from Petrograd indicates one of the most sanguinary battles of the war in proportion to the numbers involved has taken place in the Trans-Caucasus The Russians state that a Turkish column was dispersed by artillery and that the Turks lost half of their number

In the west the town of La Bassee still held by the Germans, is proving to be one of the hardest problems the allied forces have to solve The invaders have thrown up exceptionally strong earthworks around La Bassee, and have two army corps quartered in the city To take this stronghold by direct assault would mean a terrible loss of life, but its taking is essential to any concerted move forward in order to afford protection to the communications of the allies

All the news reaching London from the eastern field leads to confirm the rout of the forces of Austrians which now appear to be endeavoring to make their way laboriously back over the Carpathians

There are indications in London that the entire continental political situation which involves Greece Italy, Rumania, and Portugal, is developing day by day Even the participation in the war of at least some of these states soon will become a reality, according to the view of certain of the British commentators on the situation Among the factors contributing to this situation is Italy's occupation of Avlona and the reported racial unrest in Austria-Hungary where the Russian subjects of Emperor Francis Joseph are said to be on the point of rebellion as well as Germany's continued aggression in Angola, the Portuguese possession in western Africa.

The German air raid on the channel port of Dunkirk in France gives basis for the belief that visits of this kind will be more frequent from now on It would appear that the British raid on Cuxhaven aroused in the Germans a spirit of retaliation. England judging from the expressions appearing in the newspapers is just as anxious to deliver blow for blow in this respect

GERMANS GAIN GROUND IN ARGONNE DISTRICT

Berlin, (by wireless to London), Dec 31—The official statement given out in Berlin this afternoon reads as follows

In the western arena of the war yesterday passed comparatively quietly on the coast The enemy directed his fire on Westende and destroyed parts of certain houses there, but without causing any military damage.

"An entire French company was annihilated when we blew up their line near the Alger farm

"South of Rheims strong French attacks north of Camp Chalons were everywhere repulsed

"In the western Argonne region we gained considerable ground, capturing several trenches situated behind one another, and taking 250 prisoners. French attempts to attack in the region of Flirey, north of Toul, failed.

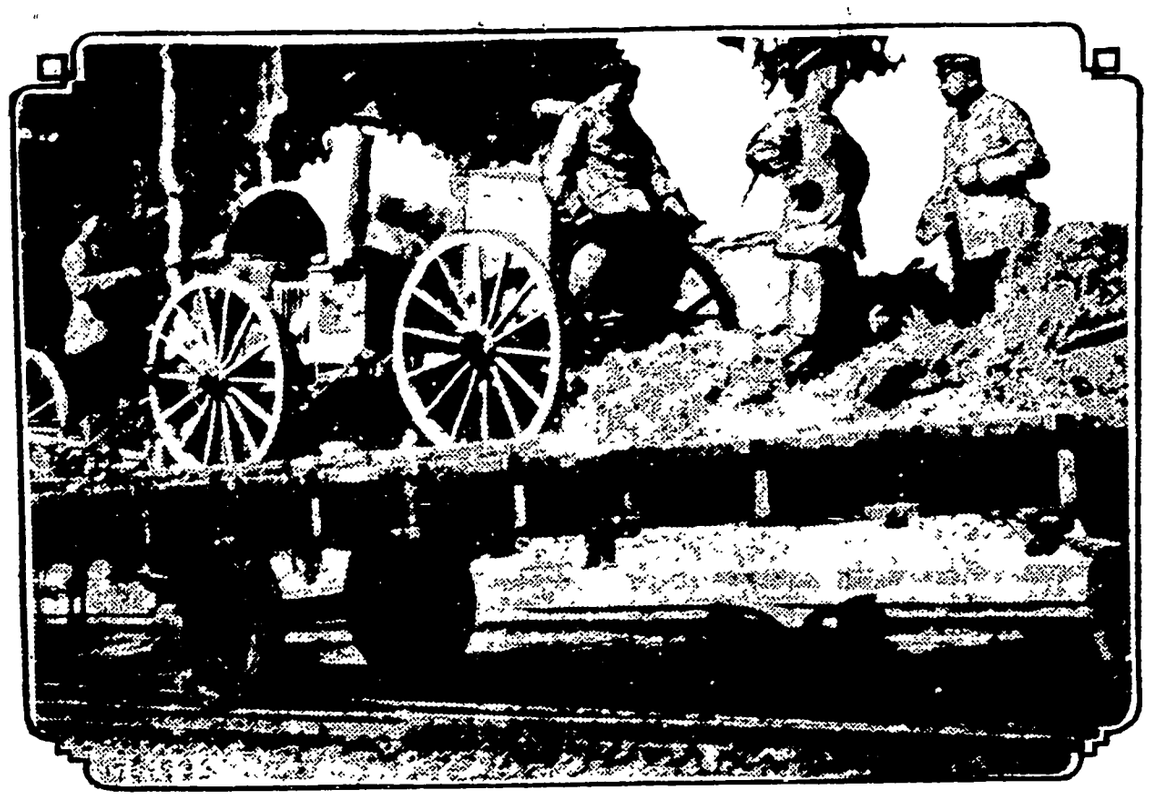
"In upper Alsace, in the region to the west of Sennheim, all the French attacks broke down under the fire of our artillery

"The enemy's artillery systematically destroyed house after house in the village of Steinbach (Alsace), which is in our possession. Our losses are slight

"It is reported from the eastern war arena that the situation in east Prussia and Poland to the north of the Vistula river, remains unchanged.

"East of the Bzura river, the battles continue. In the Rawka district our offensive has made progress. On the eastern bank of the Pilica the situation remains unchanged."

COMMISSARY DIVISION OF GERMAN ARMY WORKS IN TRANSIT



On the movement of the base of supplies of an army depends the rapidity with which the main body of men can be moved. The Germans move their base of supplies for their various army corps with an almost mathematical precision. The photo shows how the commissary division of the German army works while it is in transit. In the field kitchen mounted on the railroad truck the food for the army which this particular division supplies is being prepared so that on its arrival at the base of operations the food is ready to be distributed among the hungry soldiers.

FILIPINO REVOLT UNMASKS DANGER

Manila Editor Says the Lower Classes Are Being Roused By Politicians—Leaders at Large.

Washington, Jan 1 Private dispatches from Manila, saying the recent disturbances in the Philippine islands, though dangerous, were insignificant in accomplishments were laid before the Senate committee considering the Philippine independence bill by Dean C Worcester, former secretary of the interior of the islands. The dispatches came yesterday from Mr Worcester's friend, P G. McDonnell, a Manila editor, and for their accuracy Mr. Worcester vouched to the committee. The dispatches read

"General commanding Corregidor denies the rumor regarding disarming of scouts Mob in botanical garden scattered by the police before the time set for uprising Arrested 20 bolo men Movements wide Quite well organized. Ricarte connected with them.

"Drastic measures required to prevent it from spreading It is generally believed the disturbance is being influenced by widespread idea of government weakness Sedition not suppressed because a wrong interpretation of promises of administration in circulation by politicians among ignorant classes. Foreigners apprehensive Great many have applied for fire arms permit Impossible to do anything to corroborate many facts Witnesses are forbidden to give information. Government will not allow us to see documents seized by army Uprising insignificant in accomplishment, but dangerous on account of potential agitation of lowest classes.

"Similar to 1896. Have arrested men in Manila. Main leaders have not been apprehended. Communication secured indicating Americans were to be attacked. Property to be confiscated or destroyed. There is no evidence that property owning natives are involved. Absolutely no Americans connected with uprising

(Signed) "P G. McDonnell."

A phrase "have issued arms to civil employes" contained in the original dispatch was eliminated by Mr. McDonnell in a later message, and Mr Worcester told the committee he believed the statement cancelled was untrue.

Mr Worcester gave it as his opinion that the disturbances were what might be expected if independence was granted. He declared Philippine politicians "who love the fish in troubled waters" were in favor of immediate independence, meaning an independence for them to hold office with the United States navy lying in the harbors to prevent international complications. He added that the "vocal" sentiment of the island was in favor of independence, but the predominating real sentiment was opposed to it The witness declared that fear of vengence prevented many from uttering their true views.

Mr Worcester was asked for his opinion of what would happen if independence within the next three or four years were granted.

"Quarrels for office would spring up in the first instance," he replied.

"The elections would soon become farces Shortly the feeling between the different factions would result in bloodshed and anarchy Not very long afterward there would be aggression against foreigners growing out of the disorder and that aggression would be made a pretext by some foreign power for seizing the islands."

FIRST PROHIBITIONIST GETS SEAT IN CONGRESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec 31.—Charles H. Randall, congressman-elect from the Ninth California district, set at rest today speculation as to whether he is a democrat or a prohibitionist, by issuing a statement declaring himself a prohibitionist—the first of that party to take a seat in the national House of Representatives. He said one of his first acts would be to introduce a drastic prohibition bill, making it unlawful for liquor to be imported, manufactured, sold or given away in the United States.

At the election in November Mr. Randall's name was on both the prohibition and democratic tickets.

COTTON RATES SOAR.

Galveston, Tex., Dec 31.—Increases in ocean freight rates for cotton from Galveston to European ports since the outbreak of the war range from 45 cents to $2 85 per 100 pounds.

BLANCO IMPRISONED BY ORDER OF VILLA

Convention Forces In Vera Cruz Surrender to Carranza Commander.

Washington Jan 1 Gen Lucio Blanco, who remained in military command of Mexico City for some time after the withdrawal of the Carranza forces and pending the arrival of the Villa and Zapata forces, has been imprisoned by Villa, according to a dispatch today to the Carranza agency here from Vera Cruz. The message, dated yesterday, says

"Advices from Mexico City received by the war department from secret service men say Gen. Lucio Blanco has been made prisoner by Villa and that Blanco's staff officers have been scattered among Villa regiments against their will The state of Vera Cruz today became denuded of Villistas and Zapatistas when General Sauvirran, operating under command of Villa with 600 soldiers surrendered his force and himself to General Obregon, in Jaltipan, and offered his sword to the first chief"

Carranza forces evacuated Monterey on Tuesday taking with them the archives according to a dispatch today to the state department sent late last night from Laredo Villa forces were reported advancing on Monterey from the south. Trains arriving at Laredo last night from Monterey were loaded with Mexican refugees. The dispatch adds that the railway between Tampico and Monterey has been cut and that trains have been fired upon

A dispatch from Mexico City dated yesterday says the minister of public instruction has resigned and that the national convention will meet in Mexico City tomorrow

POLA UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Great Austrian Naval Base Being Bombarded By 30 or 40 French and English Warships.

Copenhagen, (via London) Dec 31—A private dispatch received here from Berlin says that over 30 French and British war ships are at present engaged in bombarding Pola, the Austrian naval base on the Adriatic and also the seaport of Rovigno, about 15 miles away

There is reason to expect naval aggression on the part of the allies at Pola. Recent reports have indicated activity in this field Several days ago a French submarine went into the harbor of Pola, but did not return A dispatch received in London last night described how another submarine had been successfully torpedoing the Austrian dreadnaught, Viribus Unitis, and other messages have indicated that an Anglo-French attack would not come as a surprise

SENATORS STAND BY LITERACY TEST BILL

By Vote of 47 to 12 Upper House Refuses to Strike Out Provision.

Washington, Dec. 31.—By a vote of 47 to 12 the Senate today refused to strike from the immigration bill the literacy test for admission of aliens.

Senator Reed then proposed an amendment to exclude "all aliens" not of the Caucasian race.

Washington Dec 31—The Senate today defeated, 34 to 26, an amendment to the literacy test in the immigration bill which would have enlarged the classes excepted by adding those subject to "political and racial" persecutions to those subject to "religious" persecutions.

KING HONORS PREMIER.

Rome, Dec. 31.—King Victor Emmanuel has decorated Premier Salandra with the Order of the Annonciade, the highest Italian decoration, which entitles the bearer to call himself a cousin of the king

GUARD IS PLACED OVER STEEL MILLS

Rumored Foreigners Attempted to Blow Up Big Plant at South Bethlehem—Precautions Taken.

South Bethlehem Pa. Jan 1 - Rumors are rife here of attempts to blow up sections of the plant of the Bethlehem Steel company, where war munitions destined for Europe are being turned out night and day One report is that a lot of dynamite planted under one of the shops where large armament pieces are being assembled was unearthed and that two foreigners were summarily discharged

Officials of the company from President Eugene G Grace to the superintendents of the various shops refuse to discuss the reports and no arrests have been made, but the fact remains that the whole plant of the company, which extends six miles along the bank of the Delaware river, is under close guard

One department has been entirely separated from another Workmen cannot go from one building to another without a special pass from the president. No goods can be delivered inside the plant The workmen are all identified and scrutinized before being passed in and they have to get a pass to get out Word has been passed about that the enlarged force of guards was established under orders from Washington, on account of the heavy armor plate being turned out for new dreadnaughts. But there are no more guards over the armor shops than there are at the other places.

ALIEN IMMIGRATION SHOWS GREAT SLUMP

Decrease For 1914 Is 601,410, Almost Half as Compared With 1913 Record.

New York Jan 1 Immigration through the port of New York for 1914 fell off to the extent of 601,410 persons or 45 per cent as compared with 1913, according to figures compiled by the commissioner of immigration and made public today

During 1913, arrivals numbered 1,334 914 persons, of whom 1,163,993 were aliens and 170,921 were returning American citizens In 1914 arrivals were only 733,504 of these 573,675 were aliens and 159,829 were citizens

Immigration statistics show that the number of departing aliens was greater by 37 718 than last year During 1913 there left New York on steamships bound for foreign ports a total of 381,068 persons, during 1914, departures were 418,886

During last July just before the outbreak of the war, arrivals at New York 50 546 as against 103,909 during July, 1913 June shows the greatest loss for any month of the year, the record for that month in 1913 being 136,690 aliens and 11 279 citizens while in June, 1914, 57 139 aliens and 10,390 citizens reached port

Immigration officials and representatives of the immigrant aid societies explain the falling off in immigration, aside from the war which is the chief factor as being due to the curtailing of work in the United States and to an effort on the part of the foreign countries to restrict immigration by providing work at home and bettering the condition of their working classes.

COSSON INTERVENES IN M. B. A. RECEIVERSHIP

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 31.—Attorney General Cosson today intervened in the case filed by insurgent members of the Modern Brotherhood of America, who are asking a receiver Mr. Cosson says that such procedure will injure the organization and asks delay until the state department of justice has made an investigation.

COPE CASE SET.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Preliminary hearing on the bribery charge against Miss Jessie E. Cope, of Los Angeles, complaining witness in the indictment under the Mann act of Charles Alexander, of Providence, R. I., was set for January 9 by United States commissioner Mason here today.

AMBASSADOR PAGE LEARNS VIEW OF SIR EDWARD GREY

British Foreign Secretary Outlines Position England Will Take Regarding American Protest.

ANSWER NOT MADE PUBLIC

Senate Wants Full Text of State Department's Note—Chicago Packers Caused Filing of Complaint.

London Jan 1 3 51 p m —Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador, has had an extended conference this afternoon with Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary for foreign affairs, on the subject of President Wilson's note of protest against the detention of American shipping by British warships

As the note had been discussed by the members of the British cabinet yesterday, the foreign secretary was able to present to the ambassador the combined views of himself and his colleagues

The official information bureau this afternoon gave out the following statement

"An answer to the American note will be drawn up as soon as possible. It will be in the same friendly spirit in which the American note is written."

The premium at Lloyds to insure against the outbreak of war between the United States and Great Britain was cut in half today Seven guineas per cent is now asked as against 15 guineas per cent quoted when the contents of the American note of protest regarding American shipping first became known in England

SENATE WANTS TO SEE FULL TEXT OF PROTEST

Washington, Dec 31—Strong sentiment has developed in the Senate that the American note of protest to the British government should be put in possession of members of that body. Senators want the full text of the note in order that they may know for themselves just what had been transmitted

Prominent democratic leaders today urged Senator Swanson of Virginia, acting chairman of foreign relations, to ask Secretary Bryan to transmit a copy of the note to the Senate. It was pointed out the Senate could hardly rest content with newspaper summaries of so important a document

PACKING INTERESTS HARD HIT BY BRITISH POLICY

Chicago, Dec 31 -Shipment of all food supplies handled by Chicago packers to Europe has ceased completely in the course of the last six weeks because of the seizure of meat cargoes by Great Britain

This statement was made here today by Alfred Urion, attorney for the packers, who said protests had been made to the state department previous to the presentation of the case to the British government.

"When the first seizure was made six weeks ago, we thought that it might be an error, but the continuance of this practice proved that we were in error and we have been pressing the state department for assistance," said Mr Urion

"Meanwhile our commerce with Europe has been driven from the seas and no revival seems probable until satisfactory assurances are received from London"

CARGO OF COTTON FOR GERMANY IS SEARCHED

New York, Dec 31.—Owners of the steamship Carolyn, which sailed from Boston December 14 for Bremen with 5,000 bales of cotton, aboard, received today a cable message from the British admiralty notifying them that the vessel had been examined at Falmouth, released immediately and had started for Bremen.

The Carolyn carried the first boatload of cotton shipped direct from the United States to a German port since the beginning of the war.

PERMISSION SOUGHT TO PUBLISH TEXT OF NOTE

Washington, Dec 31.—The state department today cabled Ambassador Page, at London, permission to make public immediately the full text of the American note to Great Britain unless the British authorities objected to its publication at this time. The note is in the form of instructions to Ambassador Page.

COPPER LADEN SHIPS SEIZED BY THE BRITISH

Washington, D C., Dec. 31 —Thirty-one ships bearing 19,350 tons of American copper, worth $5,500,000 destined to neutral nations have been detained and their cargoes seized as contraband of war since the European war began, Senator Walsh of Montana, told the Senate today in a speech reviewing interruptions to American commerce and highly indorsing the American government's recent note to Great Britain.

OFFICIAL MUSICIAN IS JOB TEACHERS WANT

Pittsburgh, Dec 31.—The creation of the office of official musician in the nation, state and municipality was advocated by Peter W Dykema, professor of music in the University of Wisconsin, at the convention of the Music Teachers' National association here today. The establishment in this country of what is known in Germany as the "stadt Musikant" Professor Dykema said, would be attended by benefits to the whole people The American community as a whole he added, "has realized that health and recreation are not merely matters of individual concern, but that they have definite social and civic aspects"

BRITISH FLAG RAISED OVER SOLOMON ISLANDS

Melbourne, Australia (via London, 4:40 p. m.) Dec 31—British forces have occupied Bougainville, the largest of the Solomon Islands It was announced here today that the British flag had been hoisted over the island on December 3

PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to move to Minnesota, the undersigned will sell at Public Auction at the Bettin farm, 2 miles West ¾ mile South of Klemme and 5½ miles North and ½ mile West of Goodell, on Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1915

Sale to Commence at 10:00 a. m. Free Hot Lunch at Noon.
Machinery and Small Articles Must be Sold Before Lunch.

59 Head of Live Stock

7 - Head of Horses - 7

Bay Gelding, 7 yrs old, wt. about 1300. Bay Mare, 11 yrs old, wt. about 1350. Black Mare, 11 yrs old, wt. about 1400. Bay Mare 8 yrs old, wt. about 950. Span of Mules coming 3.

40 - Head of Cattle - 40

20 Cows fresh. 11 Cows to be fresh soon. 4 Milch Cows. 2 2-yr-old Steers. 5 yearling Heifers. 8 yearling Steers. 5 Summer Calves. 3, 2-yr-old Heifers. 2 Calves.

12 - Head of Hogs - 12

Farm Machinery, Etc.

3 Separators, 11-ft. seeder, 2 mowers, 1 a McCormick and the other a Milwaukee, Acme binder 8-ft., good as new; 2 truck wagons with boxes; hay bucker; set of driving harness; cutter; Marseilles feed grinder, 16-inch sulky plow; John Deere corn planter with wire; Ohio disc, in good condition; 4-section harrow with cart, Bloom spreader, bob sled; hay loader; new Corn King sheller, three feed troughs; tank heater; top buggy with pole and shafts, some household furniture and other articles too numerous to mention.

Col. J. A. Young, Auct. F. A. Arnold, Clerk

Prepared Meat Perfection

OF course every butcher has a perfect right to brag about his sausage, bologna, chopped meat and so forth.

He knows very well that's in the blood the boner doesn't.

You could tell us things about certain kinds of sausage, for instance, that'd fairly bark with interest.

Our safe way is to trade with a reliable butcher—one whom you know will give you a fair deal. Can we serve you?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

KLEMME DRAY LINE

A. F. HUBBARD, Proprietor

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Try a Times Want Ad.

THE KLEMME TIMES
By M. M. Wagner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

"KNOCHERS" MAKE "RIVER OF DOUBT" SEEM LOCAL STREAM

By, "OBSERVER"

The other day I saw a map showing Colonel Roosevelt's "River of Doubt." It was considerable relief to me to learn that it is definitely located in South America, for until I saw it on the map I was inclined to think it ran right through the middle of this town—as well as through a number of other places not far away that I could mention. Of course I don't say that everybody here is in the habit of taking daily dips in it, but most of us are inclined to yield to the temptation now and then.

This town more than every other place has a few fellows that are always tagging every [illegible] that [illegible] proposed [illegible] beneficial it is. They say it "can't be done." They are suspicious of anybody that really [illegible] and they can't find [illegible] objection they spread the report that somebody is "getting something out of it." They have no faith in anybody or anything and are very proud of it. This seems to be what [illegible] for the Lord should wake up some morning accidentally believing in something he would sink back into his plow in a fright and send [illegible] do for. And such an unusual experience might really make trouble. Probably nobody would [illegible] if it did.

What we need here no matter how much of it we already have, is more confidence in ourselves and our opportunities—more "pull," to put it in slang. The croakers don't do us any good. You could think that in time we could get rid of bracing [illegible] with toes, pulling on the [illegible] of progress and [illegible] despite of their [illegible]. The very people that [illegible] and do enough [illegible] and their [illegible] making their [illegible]. They seem to have wallowed around in the River of Doubt until they are soaked full of it. If they could drown in it I might think the stream was of some real use.

The live citizen has to pull his own share of the load and those of the doubters besides. But of course they don't allow him any credit for it. No, they blame him for trying to do anything, whether he succeeds or fails no matter how much benefit they get out of his efforts themselves. When they think any good thing has been killed they are happy, especially if they had a hand in the supposed killing, so they [illegible] never [illegible] and then can't be called.

We have some [illegible] kind here, but it [illegible] for the rest of us [illegible] like the [illegible] But I find people [illegible] we [illegible] do splash around in their muddy ruts [illegible] and be happy.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 4—Declaration of war against Spain, 1762.

Tuesday, 5—Captain Smith captured by Indians, 1608.

Wednesday, 6—Charles I. reached for high treason, 1649.

Thursday, 7—Mary E. Wilkins author, b. born, 1862.

Friday, 8—Battle of New Orleans, 1815.

Saturday, 9—Connecticut adopts constitution, 1788. First balloon ascension in America, 1793.

Sunday, 10—Dr. Laud beheaded on Tower Hill, 1645.

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching at 10 o'clock A. M. Subject: "Why Be a Christian?"

Sunday School at 11 o'clock.

Preaching in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Subject: "Paul's Double Call."

Prayermeeting every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

REV. J. M. HOWDESHELL, Pastor.

There are some who have not paid their 1914 account, you will recieve a statement if not paid soon. Dr. Geo. Zinn.

Our Rural Neighbors

As Seen by Our Own Special Correspondents

GOODELL

Ed Waddingham from Meservey, was visiting friends here Friday.

Dennis Madison from Belmond, transacted business here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kirkwood and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkwood from Klemme came down here Wednesday to visit relatives.

Miss Frances Ruka returned from her Klemme visit Saturday.

There will be a basket sociable at Avery No. 8 on Tuesday night Jan. 12th. Everybody is invited. Ladies kindly bring baskets. Vida Houghton, teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Larsen from Klemme, spent New Year's day with Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Barnes.

Several from here attended a dance in Klemme last night and report a very good time.

AVERY CENTER

L. J. Brugman [illegible] Wednesday evening to attend the Club [illegible] and [illegible] returned home Wednesday accompanied by Mrs. Brugman who has been visiting relatives there.

E. G. Burt returned home from Clarion Sunday.

The party at the Joe Starnes home last Wednesday evening was quite well attended and all had a good time.

Nate Griggs is on the sick list this week.

Ernest Avery of Shell Rock, Ia. is here for New Year's with Fred Wilkins and wife.

Levi Knapp went to Belmond Thursday evening.

Fred Wilkins spent New Years at [illegible].

Misses [illegible] and Patrick of [illegible] spending the holidays at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes.

[illegible] Y.

[illegible] of last week [illegible] Klemme [illegible] Friday evening with a few friends.

Miss Ina J. Dutton, pharmacist at [illegible] and Miss Mrs. Chas. Daily of Grand City were over Sunday guests of the Rock Island here Saturday.

Several of the young people from here attended the Social Miner New Year's evening. They didn't have to walk either.

[illegible] Stevens has completed his work on the Hiz n farm and is once more a resident of Hayfield. The Times-Republican wishes to please all concerned. We have write reading [illegible] of Fort Dodge was in town with [illegible] with two [illegible] seekers.

The [illegible] Society was [illegible] evening.

[illegible] Missouri [illegible] Patrick of [illegible] spending the holidays at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes.

[illegible] the street car because of [illegible] and continued to [illegible] Saturday's [illegible] from his sleeping apartment. [illegible] boys said the face told that it was still small. Caddis went the round and visitors were treated to the late hours. The morning suspersed the sleepy band.

It was a memorable occasion. At the first burst of guns some of the people rushed from their beds to the scene of action, while others hastened to conceal themselves in alleys, or were they searching for tin pans? Who knows?

The horizon around our little town is becoming threatening black with wedding rumors, who can tell what may happen. Young couples are pairing off, widowers and widows are acting strange and even old bachelors look matrimonially inclined. Let the bells ring.

WHY WE SAY "SHE"

We refer to an automobile by the female pronoun because she is very much like a woman in many respects. When she is slicked up and is attractive, we all admire her; when she is silent we are pleased with true astonishment, for few are silent; when acting properly she is charming, yet we often drive her into improper actions by lack of care; when she gets old and loses her style we try to discard her and hunt up a more pleasing one.—Ex

Side-Step Danger

YOU may save three or four dollars now by belaying buying that pair of good warm waterproof shoes, but the delay may later cost you twenty-five dollars in dope for colds.

This Is the Season

of the year when every man woman and child should be well shod. A wet or damp foot in summer may mean little, but it courts danger in the winter time.

If any member of your family is getting along with a shoe that leaks, come in and see our mammoth line of new footwear. I bought my stock before the advance in price and surely can save you money.

Frank Gruetzmacher

We wish all our friends and patrons

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly. Your patronage is respectfully solicited. Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kuckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

For Sale By, F[illegible]

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

W. F. PAVEY
THE PRACTICAL BLACKSMITH

General Jobbing and Repairing In I[illegible]

Horse Shoeing in all its branches. Carriage, Wagon Plow Work a Specialty.

Corona Wool Fat For Sale. A Guarant[illegible] With Every Can.

DON'T FORGET

This store when you need anything in the line of Hardware Farm Implements. Full line of Heaters, Cook Stoves and Ranges. The best makes in Farm Machinery. We also handle the best Paints, Oils and Varnish.

Groceries, Flour and Feed

Our prices are right. You are invited to call.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

GIGANTIC SALE

Big Days of Real Bargains

Bargains Galore In Every Department

tarts Thursday Jan. 7th, Ends Monday, Jan. 18th

Again the people of Garner and surrounding country have a chance to buy

h Grade Clothing, Furnishings and Shoes at Greatly Reduced Prices

This merchandise is not old--We must clean up what we have--we do not want to carry any over.

NG YOUR FAMILY. REMEMBER THE DATES. COME!

LOOK OVER THESE PRICES

MEN'S SUITS

HART SCHAFFNER & MARX INCLUDED

to $10.	go at	$ 6.95
50	go at	8.95
	go at	10.95
and 18.	go at	12.95
	go at	14.95
2.50	go at	15.95
25.	go at	17.95
0.	go at	19.95

ig Cut on Fur Coats

DY'S SUITS and OVERCOATS

95	go at	$1.45
5 to 3.00	go at	1.95
5 to 4.00	go at	2.95
0	go at	3.85
0	go at	5.45
0	go at	6.95

UNDERWEAR

25c	go at	19c
$1. and $1.25	go at	85c
1.50 and 1.75	go at	$1.29
2.50	go at	1.69
3.00	go at	2.19
5.00	go at	3.95

MEN'S OVERCOATS

$8.	go at	$ 5.95
9.50	go at	6.95
10.	go at	7.75
12.50	go at	8.95
15.	go at	10.95
17. and 18	go at	12.95
20.	go at	14.95
22.50	go at	15.95
25.	go at	17.95

Sheep Lined Coats Reduced

BUY NOW

SHIRTS

50c	go at	39c
$1. and $1.25	go at	79c
1.50	go at	$1.15
2.50	go at	1.65
4.00	go at	2.95

Big Cut on all Shoes

$5.00 Shoes, go at	$3.95
3.50 Shoes, go at	2.75

are not cleaning up old stock, but we need the room for new merchandise soon coming in. Lots of Winter weather yet. Come in early. Stock Up and Save Money

Get To Know

ILDNER BROS. & AYRES

THE GARNER HOME OF HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother' If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy, they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle Adv

His Regular Cue

Many a man who permits himself to be led forth to musical entertainments he does not care for will appreciate the following

What made you start clapping your hands when that woman stepped on your foot in the tramcar"

I was doing answered Mr Cumrox I thought mother and the girls were having a musicale at home and one of them was signaling that it was time to applaud"

The Size

Mother asked Davie one morning to fetch a small cabbage from the grocer

What would you call a small cabbage" Davie asked

Oh, about the size of Jackie's head, answered the mother referring to the younger brother A few seconds later a voice came from the doorway

Mamma I'm taking Jackie with me to measure by

STOP EATING MEAT IF KIDNEYS OR BACK HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Clean Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges severe headaches acid stomach, constipation torpid liver, sleeplessness bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease —Adv.

All There Was for Him.

A poor shoemaker's apprentice was sent to his master's home with some work It was early in December and when the lad arrived at the house he found the good wife engaged baking the spiced bread ready for Christmas

The smell was delicious and sniffing strongly the apprentice exclaimed heartily

Eh missus but your spice loaf smells grand

Ah, well lad thee mun tak' some good smells for it will be all thou will get London Tit Bits

CARE FOR YOUR HAIR

By Frequent Shampoos With Cuticura Soap Trial Free.

Precede shampoos by touches of Cuticura Ointment if needed to spots of dandruff itching and irritation of the scalp Nothing better for the complexion hair, hands or skin than these fragrant supercreamy emollients Also as preparations for the toilet

Sample each free by mail with Book Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept XY, Boston. Sold everywhere —Adv.

That Would Be Plenty.

Well, my good woman said the slummer I must be going Is there anything I can do for you?

Only that, responded the submerged one wearily

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red Weak Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids No Smarting—just Eye comfort. Write for Book of the Eye by mail Free Murine Eye Remedy Co Chicago.

It's Nature.

"I've got work with a circus, tending to the animals"

"What a beastly job'"

WAR PROVES CAVALRY IS THING OF PAST

Mad Charges and Daring Raids Are Foolish In Day of Machine Guns.

In Austro-Hungary, as in Germany, a tenacious adherence to tradition rather than the lessons of recent military history has been responsible for the various cavalry organizations which were intended to take part in war very much in the manner of the campaigns of 1866 and 1870

Though the Boer war, the campaign in Manchuria, and more recently the operations in the Balkans have demonstrated as military experts claimed, that cavalry was a thing of the past in this era of machine guns, the Austro-Hungarian and German governments continued to maintain large numbers of these expensive troops. Their value now has been proven to be slight, it is asserted, already most of the Austro-Hungarian and German cavalry regiments have modified their field work considerably so that now they are little more than mounted infantry

For reconnaissance purposes, and what is known as "screen" work, the cavalry remains now as in other wars, a very important arm It may also still be used when reinforcements must be sent hurriedly, or when a flank movement of the enemy is to be frustrated, but the old cavalry charge would seem to have been relegated to oblivion The losses of the cavalry organizations have been frightfully heavy in the war, it is said so heavy, in fact, that they finally have overcome the strong hold which the cavalry traditions had on the military work of Europe

GERMAN COLONIES ARE OUTPOSTS OF SCIENCE

From the Scientific American

While perhaps not commercially successful German colonies have offered opportunities for increasing the scientific knowledge of the world that have been fully utilized to the general advantage of mankind, and in this respect Germany has certainly set a notable example to other countries where scientific information that does not promise immediate monetary profits is not encouraged or supported

German colonization in Africa began just 30 years ago about the time when the great journeys of exploration in that continent were beginning to give place to intensive research Here was a new world for German science to conquer Germany sent out her soldiers her traders and her missionaries, just as other colonizing countries had done but she also sent to each of her colonies a strong corps of servants, whose work was for the most part done under official auspices Just to cite one phase of this work each colony was soon dotted over with meteorological stations the observations at which were taken by petty officials, planters, missionaries and others, and ultimately published in great detail at Berlin so that at the present day we possess more complete climatic statistics for German East Africa, German Southwest Africa Kamerun and Togo than for any country in the Balkan peninsula except Rumania

In short the acquisition of a virgin country by Germany means the prompt accumulation of an immense fund of scientific knowledge concerning that country—collected with conscientious thoroughness, digested by experts and presented to the world in a form that is a delight to the eye as well as to the understanding

Bravery In War

From the Scientific American

That physical bravery is necessary in the men making up an army in the field is accepted by everyone and it appears to be particularly essential in the present conflict where every visible body of men is met by showers of projectiles of every size To calmly meet such conditions it has been customary to assume that a particular class of men were necessary men of callous disposition, of hardened minds but this is far from the case in the present war

Man need not be brutal to be physically brave

Never since the time when men first marched into battle have armies taken the field in which there was such a high average of education and refinement as in these contending hosts on the French and Belgian battle grounds. Among those 4,000,000 or more of men we doubt if a corporals guard can be found that is not able to read and write. And the grade of culture extends from that of the state schools up to the highest erudition of the colleges and universities

War may be brutal but the deeds of the citizen soldier in this unparalleled test of the Twentieth century have proved that there is not the remotest relation between brutality and bravery Rather we have learned that the mental, moral and artistic uplift of the age we live in so far from stripping the race of the sterner qualities of manhood has stiffened immeasurably its pluck, tenacity and courage.

A Quarrel Over Patronage.

From the New York World

No other one thing has done so much to debauch the federal service as senatorial courtesy

It is a form of political blackmail which patronage-mongering senators are permitted to levy upon the president of the United States in order to stuff the payroll with their own followers

There is no recorded instance in which the rule has been employed to keep in unfit man out of office for the purpose of putting a fit man into office Senators of the first rank seldom if ever appeal to it It is the citadel of the second and third rate job-jobbers by means of which they maintain a political base for their campaign operations.

Whenever the issue is raised in the Senate the American people instinctively sympathize with the president but it is an issue which the president ought not to meet unless it is absolutely unavoidable The constitution gives the Senate the power to reject nominations. This power has been perverted by senatorial courtesy into a rule under which the senator from any state can reject the nominations from his state but it is a rule under which many presidents have had to work and the presidents who have fought it have brought upon themselves and their party much trouble without accomplishing much good. Garfield lost his life by resisting this rule, and the sacrifice was out of all proportion to the benefits.

Another Prodigy.

From Collier's.

We reiterate The days of miracles are not all past. In darkest Manhattan, on a Twenty-third street crosstown car, we have "met up with" a conductor who—when a lurch of the car threw him against us—distinctly said: "Beg, pardon" If that's not a miracle in New York we never heard of one. This conductor's number is 4172. We wish Friend 4172 a long life of health, prosperity, and happiness. Also, we're giving odds of 3 to 1 that he wasn't born and brought up in New York city

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

15

CHAPTER XXVIII.—(Continued).

Then he signed to the two men to take up the cabinet, and himself laid a protecting hand upon it as it was carried through the door and down the steps to the van which was backed up to the curb It was lifted carefully inside, the two men clambered in beside it, the driver spoke to the horses, and the van rolled slowly away up the avenue

M Armand watched it for a moment, then mounted into the cab which was waiting, waved a last farewell to me, and followed after the van We watched it until it turned westward at the first cross street

"Mr Godfrey's occupation will be gone," said Parks, with a little laugh "He has fairly lived with that cabinet for the past three or four days. He was here last night for quite a while'

"Last night?" I echoed surprised "I was sure he would be here today," I added reflecting that Godfrey might have decided to have a final look at the cabinet "He half promised to be here but I suppose something more important detained him'

The next instant I was jumping down the steps two at a time, for a cab in which two men were sitting came down the avenue and rolled slowly around the corner in the direction taken by the van

And just as it disappeared one of its occupants turned toward me and waved his hand and I recognized Jim Godfrey

CHAPTER XIX

"LA MORT"

That my legs without conscious effort of my own should carry me up the avenue and around the corner after the cab in which I had seen Godfrey was a foregone conclusion, and yet it was with a certain vexation of spirit that I found myself racing along for I realized that Godfrey had not been entirely frank with me Certainly he had dropped no hint of his intention to follow Armand but I told myself that might very well have been because he deemed such a hint unnecessary I might have guessed, in spite of his seeming unconcern the he would not allow the cabinet to pass from his sight if he had been willing for me to turn it over to Armand it was only because he expected developments of some sort to follow that transfer

And it suddenly dawned upon me that as I did not know the cabinets destination it had not occurred to me to inquire where M Armand proposed to take it and he had volunteered no information

So after a moment, I took up the chase more contentedly telling myself that Godfrey would not have waved to me if he had not wanted me along and I reached the corner in time to see the van turn northward into Sixth avenue As soon as I and the cabs which followed it were out of sight I sprinted along the sidewalk at top speed and, on arriving at the corner had the satisfaction of seeing them only a little way ahead Here the congestion of traffic was such that the van could proceed but slowly, and I had no difficulty in keeping pace with it without the necessity of making myself conspicuous by running Indeed, I rather hung back burying myself in the crowds on the sidewalk for fear that Armand might chance to glance around and see me in pursuit

I saw that Godfrey and Simmonds had the same fear for the cab in which they were drew up at the curb and waited there until the van had got some distance ahead At Sixteenth street it turned westward again and then northward into Seventh avenue

What could Armand be doing in this part of town I asked myself? Did he propose to leave that priceless cabinet in this dingy quarter" And then I paused abruptly and slipped into an area way for the van had stopped some distance ahead and was backing up to the curb

Looking out discreetly I saw the cab containing Armand stop also and that gentleman alighted and paid the driver The other cab rattled on at a good pace and disappeared up the avenue. Then the two porters lifted out the cabinet and, with Armand showing them the way carried it into the building before which the van had stopped

They were gone perhaps five minutes from which I argued that they were carrying it upstairs, then they reappeared with Armand accompanying them He tipped them and went out also to tip the driver of the van. Then the porters climbed aboard and it rattled away out of sight. Armand stood for a moment on the step, looking up and down the avenue, then disappeared indoors

An instant latter I saw Godfrey and another man whom I recognized as Simmonds come out of a shop across the street and dash over to the house into which the cabinet had been taken They were standing on the door step when I joined them

It was a dingy building entirely typical of the dingy neighborhood The ground floor was occupied by a laundry which the sign on the front window declared to be French and the room which the window lighted extended the whole width of the building except for a door which opened presumably on the stairway leading to the upper stories

Godfrey's face was flaming with excitement as he turned the knob of this door gently -gently. The door was locked He stopped and applied an eye to the key hole.

The key is in the lock," he whispered

Simmonds took from his pocket a pair of slender pliers and passed them over.

Godfrey looked up and down the street saw that for the moment there was no one near, inserted the pliers in the keyhole grasped the end of the key, and turned it slowly.

"Now'" he said, softly opened the door and slipped inside I followed, and Simmonds came after me like a shadow closing the door carefully behind him.

Then we all stopped, and my heart, at least was in my mouth, for, from somewhere overhead, came the sound of a man's voice talking excitedly

Even in the semi-darkness. I could see the look of astonishment and alarm on Godfrey's face, as he stood for a moment motionless, listening to that voice I also tood with ears a-strain but I could make nothing of what it was saying, then suddenly I realized that it was speaking in French And yet it was not Armand's voice—of that I was certain.

Fronting us was a narrow stair mounting steeply to the story overhead, and after that moment's amazed hesitation, Godfrey sat down on the bottom step and removed his shoes, motioning us to do the same. Simmonds obeyed phlegmatically, but my hands were trembling so with excitement that I was in mortal teror lest I drop one of my shoes, but I managed to get them both off without mishap, and to set them softly on the floor at the stair foot

When at last I looked up with a sigh of relief, Godfrey and Simmonds were stealing slowly up the stair, revolver in hand. I followed them, but I confess my knees were knocking together, for there was something weird and chilling in that voice going on and on. It sounded like the voice of a madman, there was something about it at once ferocious and triumphant * * * *

Godfrey paused an instant at the stairhead, listening intently, then he moved cautiously forward toward an opendoor from which the voice seemed to come, motioning us at the same time to stay where we were. And as I knelt bathed in presperation, I caught one word, repeated over and over

"Revanche' Revanche' Revanche'

Then the voice fell to a sort of low growling, as of a dog which worries its prey and I caught a sound as of ripping cloth

Godfrey on hands and knees, was peering into the room Then he drew back and motioned us forward

I shall never forget the sight which met my eyes as I peeped cautiously around the corner of the door

The room into which I was looking was lighted only by the rays which filtered between the slats of a closed shutter In the middle of the floor stood the Boule cabinet and before it, with his back to the door, stood a man ripping savagely away the strips of burlap in which it had been wrapped, talking to himself the while in a sort of savage sing song, and pausing from moment to moment to glance at a huddled bundle lying on the floor against the opposite wall For a time I could not make out what this bundle was then straining my eyes I saw that it was the body of a man, wrapped round and round in some web-like fabric

And as I stared at him, I caught the glitter of his eyes as he watched the man working at the cabinet—a glitter not to be mistaken the same glitter which had so frightened me once before

Godfrey drew me back with a firm hand and took my place As for me I retreated to the stair and sat there feverishly mopping my face and trying to understand Who was this man What was he doing there against the wall What was the meaning of this heroic scene

Then my heart leaped into my throat for Godfrey with a sharp cry of

Halte la sprang to his feet and dashed into the room Simmonds at his heels

I suppose two seconds elapsed before I reached the threshold and I stopped there staring clutching at the wall to steady myself

That scene is so photographed upon my brain that I have only to close my eyes to see it in every detail

There was the cabinet with its wrappings torn away but the figure on the floor had disappeared and before an open door to another room stood a man—a gigantic man his hands above his head his face working with rage and hate Godfrey his lips curling into a mocking smile pressed a pistol against his breast

He was standing there staring it seemed to me that there was a sort of ticker in the middle of the man's head

Then he spoke La mort

For a dreadful instant longer he stood there motionless his hands still held aloft his eyes staring horribly then with a strangled cry he pitched forward literally at Godfrey's feet

CHAPTER XX

THE ESCAPE.

I have a confused remembrance of Godfrey stooping for an instant above the body staring at it and then, with a sharp cry hurling himself through that open doorway A door slammed somewhere there was a sound of running feet and before either Simmonds or myself understood what was happening Godfrey was back in the room, crossed it at a bound, and dashed to the door opening into the hall, just as it was slammed in his face

I saw him tear desperately at the knob then retreat two steps and hurl himself against it But it held firm and from the hall outside came a burst of mocking laughter that fairly froze my blood

Come here you fools' cried Godfrey between clenched teeth Don't you see he's getting away'"

Simmonds was quicker than I and together they threw themselves at the door It cracked ominously but still held again they tried and this time it split from top to bottom. Godfrey kicked the pieces to either side and slipped between them, Simmonds after him

Then in a sort of trance I staggered to it and after a moment's aimless fumbling was out in the hall again I reached the stairhead in time to see Godfrey to the front door and then turn along the lower hall leading to the back of the house An instant later a chorus of frenzied women's shrieks made my hair stand on end

How I got down the stair I do not know but I too, turned back along the lower hall expecting any instant to come upon I knew not what horror I reached an open door, passed through it and found myself in the laundry in the midst of a group or excited and indignant women, who greeted my appearance with a fresh series of screams

Unable to go farther I sat limply down upon a box and looked at them I dare say the figure I made was ridiculous enough, for the screams gave place to subdued giggles, but I was far from thinking of my appearance or of caring what impression I produced And I was still sitting there when Godfrey came back breathing heavily chagrin and anger in his every line The employes of the laundry conscious that something extraordinary was occurring, crowded about him, but he elbowed his way through them to the desk where the manager sat.

A crime has been committed upstairs, he said "This gentleman with me is Mr Simmonds, of the detective bureau, and at the words Simmonds showed his shield We shall have to notify headquarters," Godfrey went on, and I would advise that you keep your girls at their work. I don't suppose you want to be mixed up in it."

Sure not agreed the manager promptly, and while Simmonds went to the 'phone and called up police headquarters the manager dismounted from his throne, went down among the girls, and had them back at their work in short order

Godfrey came over to me and laid his hand on my shoulder.

"Why, Lester," he said, "you look as though you were at your last gasp."

"I am," I said. "I'm going to have nervous prostration if this thing keeps up. You're not looking particularly happy yourself."

"I am not happy. I've let that fellow kill a man right under my nose—literally, under my nose!—and then get away!"

"Kill a man?" I repeated. "Do you mean . . . ."

"Go upstairs and look at the right hand of the man lying there," said Godfrey, curtly, "and you'll see what I mean!"

I sat staring at him, unable to believe that I had heard aright; unable to believe that Godfrey had really uttered those words . . . the right hand of the man lying there . . . that could mean only one thing . . .

Simmonds joined us with a twisted smile on his lips, and I saw that even he was considerably shaken.

"I got Grady," he said, "and told him what had happened. He says he's too busy to come up, and that I'm to take charge of things."

Godfrey laughed a little mocking laught

'Grady forsees his Waterloo!" he said. "Well, it's not far distant But I'm glad for your sake, Simmonds—you're going to get some glory out of this thing, yet'"

"I hope so," and Simmonds' eyes gleamed an instant. "The ambulance will be around at once," he added. "We'd better get our shoes on, and go back upstairs, and see if anything can be done for that fellow"

"There can't anything be done for him," said Godfrey wearily, "but we'd better have a look at him, I guess," and he led the way out into the hall.

Not until Simmonds spoke did I remember that I was shoeless. Now I sat down beside Godfrey, got fumblingly into my shoes again, and then followed him and Simmonds slowly up the stair

I thought I knew what was passing in Godfrey's mind he was blaming himself for this latest tragedy, he was telling himself that he should have foreseen and prevented it, he always blamed himself in that way when things went wrong—and then, to have the murderer slip through his very fingers' I could guess what a mighty shock that had been to his self-confidence'

The latest victim was lying where he had fallen, just inside the doorway leading into the inner room Simmonds stepped to the window, threw open the shutters, and let a flood of afternoon sunshine into the room Then he knelt beside the body, and held up the limp right hand for us to see.

Just above the knuckles were two tiny incisions, with a drop or two of blood oozing away from them, and the flesh about them swollen and discolored

"I knew what it was the instant he yelled La mort'" said Godfrey quietly "And he knew what it was the instant he felt the stroke. It is evident enough that he had seen it used before, or heard of it, and knew that it meant instant death"

I sat down, staring at the dead man, and tried to collect my senses. So this fiendish criminal, who slew with poison had been lurking in Vantine's house, and had struck down first Drouet and then the master of the house himself' But why why' It was incredible, astounding, my brain reeled at the thought And yet it must be true'

I looked again at the third victim, and saw a man roughly dressed, with bushy black hair and tangled beard, a very giant of a man, whose physical strength must have been enormous and yet it had availed him nothing against that tiny pin-prick on the hand'

And then a sudden thought brought me bolt upright

'But Armand'" I cried "Where is Armand?"

Godfrey looked at me with a half-pitying smile

"What, Lester'" he said, "don't you understand, even yet? It was your fascinating M Armand who did that," and he pointed to the dead man

I felt as though I had been struck a heavy blow upon the head, black circles whirled before my eyes

"Go over to the window," said Godfrey, peremptorily, "and get some fresh air'

Mechanically I obeyed, and stood clinging to the window sill, gazing down at the busy street, where the tide of humanity was flowing up and down, all unconscious of the tragedy which had been enacted so close at hand And, at last, the calmness of all these people, the sight of the world going quietly along as usual, restored me a portion of my self control. But even yet I did not understand.

'Was it Armand," I asked, turning back into the room, "who lay there in the corner?"

"Certainly it was," Godfrey answered. "Who else could it be?"

(Continued next week.)

The Year's End.

From the Saturday Evening Post.

We come to the end of the year with cost of living decidedly below the mid-August peak, money easier, business better On the material side we have fairly digested the war shock and adjusted ourselves to the big change it caused in trade currents From being a thing of incalculable potentialities it has become a factor the effect of which, for the time being we can count on with considerable assurance We again have that tolerably stable outlook which is essential to business progress There is a better feeling and we are on better terms with ourselves.

Probably there will be no more experimental legislation for an indefinite period. The November elections, by reestablishing a fairly even balance between the two big parties tend to put politics on its best behavior

On the largest view confidence has been deeply wounded because civilized mankind has fallen under a staggering indictment the validity of which no one can question It is as though, amid a wonted discussion of trade and politics, several of the participants suddenly rose and blew out their brains. The survivors have the old problems of trade and politics to deal with in much the same way, but they can not help being deeply disconcerted.

As a reaction from that, every citizen of the United States may feel more vitally than ever before how fortunate among nations this nation is. His citizenship is an asset that is now tangibly worth life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to him No merely theoretical or debatable advantages now mark the difference between citizenship in America and in Europe The difference is measurable in concrete terms of life, limb, freedom to further his real interests, and security in its possessions.

Pondering that in humble gratitude, Americans may well go into the new year with nigh courage.

The Wise Office Boy.

From the Indianapolis News.

Mr Linch called again this morning," said the new office boy as Mr. Wilson entered the office.

"Did you tell him I had gone to California as I told you, Frank?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he say?"

"He asked when you would be back and I said, 'After lunch.'"

I Took Cold It Settled My Kidneys

I Used Peruna. Am all Right Now. I owe my Health to Peruna.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R F D [illegible] sel, Meeker Co., Minn, writes two years I suffered with that rible disease, chronic catarrh.

"Fortunately, I saw your tisement in my paper I got advice, and I took Peruna. am well and the mother of children. I owe it all to Peruna

"I would not be without that tonic for twice its cost, for I am and strong now. I cannot say too high terms of its value medicine."

The Censor

The Washington Star [illegible] Mayor Baker of Cleveland of a political movement that [illegible] attacked, said the other day

"It's an honest movement straightforward movement and who attack it are as censorious Seabright old maid

"A Seabright old maid was to a sunburned college boy beach. A pretty girl passed old maid said

"There goes Minnie Summers took her to the hop last evening you?"

"Yes,' said the college boy added politely 'As I was taking of Miss Summers after he dawned upon me—'

"'It dawned'" said the old 'You kept her out till dawn what these new dances lead

OVERWORK and KIDNEY TROUBLE

Mr James McDaniel Oakley writes "I overworked and myself, which brought on Kidney Bladder Disease My [illegible] Backach and in the stomach der, who and had hurting all the broken sleep ing, nervousness ed and swollen shortness of breath Rheumatism J. McDaniel. fered ten months. I was treated physician, but found no relief started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills now feel that I am permanently by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c per box your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Free Hints, also music of Nation's (English and German words) cipes for dainty dishes All free —Adv

No Room for a Third.

Ex-President Taft was on occasion in consultation with Senator rose of Pennsylvania Now as body knows, Mr. Taft is gigantic the senator is taller and weighs than any other member of the

While the two were in earnest versation an aggressive politician deavored to enter the room alert secretary politely interfered

"What are they doing in asked the politician, inquisitive

This pertinent question netted secretary and he answered tersely

"Holding a mass meeting sume"

"CASCARETS" AC ON LIVER; BOWE

No sick headache, bilious bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box.

Are you keeping your bowels and stomach clean, pure and with Cascarets, or merely forcing passageway every few days Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and ulate the stomach, remove the and fermenting food and foul take the excess bile from the and carry out of the system constipated waste matter and in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make feel great by morning. They while you sleep—never gripe, or cause any inconvenience, only 10 cents a box from your Millions of men and women Cascaret now and then and have Headache, Biliousness, Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach Constipation. Adv.

Hadn't Noticed It.

Tomdix—Your wife is certainly spoken, isn't she?

Hojax—Not that I know of. met any one who could outspeak

Life is made up of surprises. you ever noticed that the things don't seem possible happen so

Canada is Calling You to her Rich Wheat Lands

She extends to Americans a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help to feed the world by tilling some of her soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think what you can make with wheat around $1 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. Military service is not compulsory in Canada but there is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and the railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. For literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.;
W. V. Bennett, 220-17th St., Room 4, Fee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and H. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents.

Willie Knew.

ago the teacher of a pub- as instructing a class in nd when it came time to few questions she turned ith.

she said, "can you tell me of the principal products Indies?"

m," frankly answered Wil- oment's hesitation.

k a bit," encouragingly re- teacher, "where does the from that you use at your s from the store," an- e, "and sometimes we bor he next-door neighbor."

TURNING RAY, USE SAGE TEA

Old! Try Grandmother's Darken and Beautify Faded, Lifeless Hair.

her kept her hair beauti- ed, glossy and abundant of Sage Tea and Sulphur. her hair fell out or took on faded or streaked appear- simple mixture was applied derful effect By asking at store for "Wyeth's Sage and ur Hair Remedy," you will get a bottle of this old-time recipe, y to use, for about 50 cents. This ple mixture can be depended upon restore natural color and beauty the hair and is splendid for dan- dry, itchy scalp and falling hair. l-known druggist says every- Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, darkens so naturally and nobody can tell it has been so easy to use, too. You en a comb or soft brush through your hair, taking at a time. By morning ir disappears; after an- tion or two, it is re- natural color and looks nd abundant. Adv side Criticism.

re going to be married, m. and I'll be leaving you ." ope you are getting a " any better than the one won't keep him long."

Her Solicitude.

dear Dora, let this thought for your lover's death. at other and better men gone the same way. One—They haven't all ey?—New York Sun.

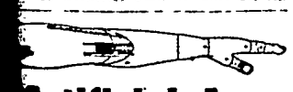
Liver gged Up

ou're Tired—Out of Sorts Appetite. ITTLE

ght digestion and Sick Headache MALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. must bear Signature

Carter Wood

LOSSES SURELY PREVENTED by Cutter's Blackleg Pills. Low-priced, fresh, reliable; preferred by Western stockmen, because they protect where other vaccines fail. Write for booklet and testimonials. 10-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills $1.00 50-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills 4.00 Use any injector, but Cutter's best. Cutter products is due to over 15 in vaccines and serums only. If unobtainable, order direct. Berkeley, Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.



Artificial Arms free catalog "B 10." ficial Limb Company STREET. KANSAS CITY, MO

Directory

DEVELOPING and PRINTING ue and Finishing Price List. THERS, 608 Pierce St., Sioux City, Ia

Supplies

Supply Co., 618 Pierce St., at your right. Write them.

P. G. CO., NO. 2-1915.

ARMORED CAR IN WARFARE

European Armies Have Found It of the Greatest Value in Their Operations.

Although an engine new to warfare, the armored motor car has proved extremely useful, especially for outpost and scouting duty Fast, silent, and mobile, it covers a vast amount of ground on the splendid roads that crisscross the field of war in western Europe. Most of the cars are incased in a light frame of tough steel plate that ranges in thickness from three-sixteenths of an inch to a quarter of an inch, and that is impervious to rifle and machine-gun fire. All the vulnerable parts of the motor, such as the radiator and steering gear, and in some of the newest cars the wheels, are protected by the steel covering. The wheels, both wood and wire, are said to withstand the roughest sort of usage. Accidents to the tires are much less common than anyone would expect. The cars carry a light armament—one or two machine guns so mounted that they can be swung through a complete circle—and a large supply of ammunition. The crew, which may number from four to eight or more men, are armed with rifles and revolvers. Some of the cars have a steel superstructure that rises from the chassis frame high enough to enable the crew to stand upright, and that is capped with a domed roof, from which bullets and shrapnel usually fly off at a sharp angle without even denting the steel.—Youth's Companion.

NOT THE TIME FOR A SMOKE

Old Lady, Filled Up With "Cartridges," Was in Natural Fear of an Explosion.

A robust old woman in the mountains of north Georgia was ill for the first time in her life and a doctor was sent for. Partly by persuasion and partly by force, the physician induced his patient to swallow some big quinine capsules—a simple enough operation, which, however, scared the old woman almost to death. She was soon able to sit up and her daughter thought she would give the convalescent a treat. She took her mother's corncob pipe from the "shelf" or mantel, filled it with tobacco, and picking up a live coal between two sticks, started with it toward the bed.

"Ma," she said, brightly, " jes' look what I got for you."

"Git away from me, Sary," she screamed in terror. "Take away dat fire! Take hit away! Don't yer know I's done plum filled up wi' cartridges?" —Chicago Ledger

People seldom try to sit down on the man who stands up for his rights.

STICK TO IT

Until Coffee Hits You Hard.

It is about as well to advise people to stick to coffee until they get hit hard enough so that they will never forget their experience.

A woman writes and her letter is condensed to give the facts in a short space:

"I was a coffee slave and stuck to it like a toper to his 'cups,' notwithstanding I frequently had severe attacks of sick headache; then I used more coffee to relieve the headache, and this was well enough until the coffee effect wore off.

"Finally attacks of rheumatism began to appear, and ultimately the whole nervous system began to break down and I was fast becoming a wreck.

"After a time I was induced to quit coffee and take up Postum. This was half a year ago. The result has been most satisfactory.

"The rheumatism is gone entirely, nerves practically well and steady, digestion almost perfect, never have any more sick headaches and am gaining steadily in weight and strength."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum — must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum — is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

—sold by Grocers.

TESTED RECIPES.

Tyrolienne Sauce.

Empty one can condensed tomato soup into a saucepan, bring to boiling point and boil for five minutes; take from fire, stir in one cupful mayonnais dressing and allow to get cold Mix in a half cupful whipped cream, and season to taste with salt and paprika. Serve with cold meat, fish or salads.

Tomato Soup Jelly.

To one can of condensed tomato soup add one-half can of boiling water, one teaspoon of sharp vinegar, or sherry if preferred; one-half of a grated onion, one-half of a green pepper, not to finely chopped, and bring all to the boiling point. Season to taste with paprika and salt. Dissolve one-half box of gelatin in cold water, then pour the boiling soup over the gelatin and stir well. Pour into soup cups and place in refrigerator until chilled. Serve very cold

"Emergency" Shelf In Your Pantry.

There ought to be, Mrs. Anna B. Scott, the famous expert on practical housekeeping, declares that every housewife should have a special shelf reserved for handy prepared food products, all ready to "help" out in an emergency. Among the items she recommends for this shelf is a supply of condense soups, including specially pea soup and tomato soup. "These may be creamed," she says, "and there is nothing nicer to start a meal than a cream soup of this sort." The tomato is particularly well suited to go with a great variety of different menus. It is sure to make an appropriate and appetizing course with almost any meal you have planned. It is easily made ready in three minutes. Yet its delightful quality gives every effect of having been prepared with the utmost care and deliberation.

"The Party Dish."

Some call it "Rum Tum Ditty" and others "Red Rabbit " but it seems to be very popular and more appetizing than the old-style "Welsh Rarebit." Try it tonight. Pour contents of one can condensed Tomato soup into chafing dish or double boiler When hot add one pound cheese cut in dice. Cook until cheese is thoroughly melted and mix with soup. Add red pepper to taste, and one egg, slightly beaten. Stir well a few minutes and serve hot on crackers or toast.

Bring one can of condensed tomato soup to the boiling point, and thicken with a heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch moistened with one-third of a cup of water. Add a saltspoonful of salt and sprinkle with paprika. Pour into a flat pan to cool and place on ice. Just before serving cut the jelly into cubes an inch and a half square, and dip each cube into a batter made of one egg, a cup of milk, salt to taste, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and flour to make sufficiently stiff to mask cubes thoroughly Fry in boiling fat, drain and serve on a platter sprinkled with grated cheese. This is a nice substitute for meat at luncheon.

The Unexpected Guest.

It may be "dear old Jack" whom hubby brings home without warning—just in time for dinner, or perhaps, some other good friend, relative or neighbor, who "happens" in at the most unexpected moment. That is a familiar situation for almost every housewife. But now-a-days this should not cause undue embarrassment Make it a point to keep your larder supplied with about a dozen cans of condensed soup from the grocery And when 'Mr or Mrs. Unexpected" arrives, just add an extra can of condensed tomato soup to the meal. Prepare it as a cream-of-tomato for a first course, and you ll find that this wholesome, satisfying dish is a long step out of your difficulties.

Blasting Barbed Wire.

From the Scientific American.

The French instructions for the removal of barbed wire obstacles definitely call for the use of explosives. For this purpose long rods of melinite are fastened in bundles of three to a pole 16½ feet long, 3 inches wide, and 1¾ inches thick. At the end of the pole is a collar which projects forward eight inches, and to which the end of a second pole is fitted, if the extent of the explosion is to be more than the length of a single pole. Each pole has a wooden head of almost conical form, with a steel cap and two little wooden wheels, five inches in diameter. The pole is pushed straight into the maze of barbed wire or along the ground beneath it. Thanks to its form and to the little wheels, with which the head is provided, it glides in easily enough. If necessary, another pole is fitted into the collar of that already in the network of wire. The charge is ignited by means of a fuse connected with the last bundle of melinite in the pole. Each pole supports 99 bundles or packages of explosive, equivalent to about six pounds of melinite per meter (3.28 feet) and is carried by two men. A single pole will blow open a passage about 13 feet wide.

The Boys Who Never Work.

From the Kansas City Star.

We can only wonder at the silly way in which some men waste their lives.

One day it is a man in Cincinnati who enters a bank, shooting this way and that, scoops the money into a bag while the employes hide, leaps into a stolen motor car, enacts the robbery again in another bank, and at last, when cornered kills a policeman and is himself killed.

Enough of adventure, excitement and tragedy to last a lifetime crowded into a few hours, with murder at the end.

But what for? The chances of the man getting away were so remote that only a fool would have undertaken the job.

The next day it is in Kansas City Two men rob a shopkeeper of diamonds and money and try to escape by running through crowded streets, a silly and futile thing to undertake.

The end of their folly will be years and years of hard work, hard living, lonesomeness and heart-breaking monotony in prison.

The man who undertakes to live by his wits, to get money without working for it, is foreordained to failure. And yet there are always men starting on that road.

In general they are men who failed in youth to learn the lesson of industry They got the idea that the end of life was to get on with as little effort as possible. The boys who are spared all work by indulgent parents, who expect everything to be done for them and to do nothing for anybody else, are on the wrong road. They are getting the demoralizing ideas that are responsible for such wrecks as come daily to the criminal court.

Betraying the Public Service.

A politician indorsed an unfit man as a candidate for a judgeship under President Cleveland. After the appointment was made and the unfitness discovered, the politician wrote the president explaining that he had signed the petition to gratify a friend, "not for one moment believing the appointment was possible." Cleveland made this scathing reply:

"I have read your letter with amazement and indignation. The idea that this administration, pledged to give the people better officers and engaged in a hand-to-hand fight with the bad elements of both parties, should be betrayed by those who ought to be worthy of implicit trust is atrocious, and such treason to the people and to the party ought to be punished by imprisonment. Your confession comes too late to be of immediate use to the public service, and I can only say that, while this is not the first time I have been deceived and misled by lying and treacherous representations, you are the first that has so frankly owned his grievous fault. If any comfort is to be extended from this assurance you are welcome to it."

GIRL TRAMP LIKES ROAD'S PHILOSOPHY

Pretty, Convent Bred and of Good Family, Irene Lane Prefers "Freedom."

St. Louis, Mo., (special)—An attractive girl with every indication of education, but with hair cut close to her head and a strange masculine carriage and manner of speaking has provided an interesting study for the police of this city. She gives her name as Irene Lane, admits that her real name, if known would "astonish the east" and boasts of the fact that she is and has been for more than a year a "tramp." Not a common tramp, but an associate of the leaders of the tramp world.

"Miss Lane" was arrested on Monday by a policeman who saw her running near the railroad tracks. She was dressed in feminine attire for the first time in many months, and as she jumped over the railroad ties, ran up a coal pile and dragged herself quickly up by the handles of a freight car the policeman decided that there was something strange about the matter and decided to investigate.

"Miss Lane" went to police headquarters without complaint, and when there amazed the police officials with her description of the life she had been living and of the philosophy which she had developed in her contact with "the road."

She explained that she was a convent graduate and readily convinced her questibners of it. Tired of teaching school and instructing class after class of foreign pupils in the use of English she said, she had made an arrangement with a young man of her acquaintance who was in ill health to take "a fling about the country in the open." He became discouraged after a few weeks, she explained.

CAN WOMEN STOP WAR?

In the Woman's Home Companion great emphasis is laid on a chapter reproduced from Olive Schreiner's "Woman and Labor" in which the suggestion is made that women can stop war if they are given greater voice in the management of governments. A brief extract from Mrs. Schreiner's argument follows:

"There is, perhaps, no woman who could look down upon a battle field covered with slain, but the thought would rise in her, 'So many mothers' sons' So many young bodies brought into the world to lie there! So many months of weariness and pain while bones and muscles were shaped within' So many hours of anguish and struggle that breath might be' So many baby mouths drawing life at women's breasts—all this, that men might lie with glazed eyeballs, swollen faces and fixed, blue, unclosed mouths, and great limbs tossed!' And we cry, Without an inexorable cause, this must not be!' No woman who is a woman says of a human body, It is nothing'

"Woman will end war when her voice is fully and clearly heard in the governance of states—because, on this one point, and on this point almost alone, the knowledge of woman, simply as woman, is superior to that of man. She knows the history of human flesh; she knows its cost, he does not.

"In a besieged city, it might well happen that men in the streets might seize upon statues and marble carvings from public buildings and galleries and hurl them in to stop the breeches made in their ramparts by the enemy, unconsideringly and merely because they came first to hand, not valuing them more than had they been paving stones. One man, however, could not do this—the sculptor He, who, though there might be no work of his own chisel among them, yet knew what each of these works of art had cost, knew by experience the long years of struggle and study and the infinitude of toil which had gone to the shaping of even one limb, to the carving of even one perfected outline, he could never so use them without thought or care. Instinctively he would seek to throw in household goods, even gold and silver, all the city held, before he sacrificed its works of art!

"Men's bodies are our women's works of art. Given to us power to control, we will never carelessly throw them in to fill up the gaps in ambitions and greeds. The thought would never come to us as women, 'Cast in men's bodies: settle the thing so!' "

The Turk As a Fighter.

As a result of the showing made by Turkey in the late Balkan war, the impression has been created that her army is composed of poor material, and that her presence in the present hostilities will be of little moment. That this is a mistaken idea is the opinion of a military expert who writes on the military resources of Turkey in the fourth war issue of the Scientific American of December 5. Of the Turk, as an individual, he says:

The Turk, when properly officered, is a redoubtable fighter; and we say this in spite of his overwhelming defeats in the Balkan war; for in that struggle he was taken unawares, and the leadership was poor. Under German guidance at headquarters and German control in the field, he will undoubtedly give a good account of himself in the present war, in which his chief handicap will be his numerical inferiority to his Russian enemy. For it is the opinion of the best informed military men in this country that if the Stamboul government places 500,000 well equipped regular troops in the field, that figure will represent its maximum effort.

A Parable of Life.

From the Smart Set.

I will tell you a little parable. Each life is like a wonderful castle, with hundreds of mysterious rooms. Through the whole expanse of that castle runs a broad, comfortable passage—ultimately leading to the small room that contains an honored and peaceful deathbed. * * *

If you would be safe, you must stay in this passage. You must pass by without opening them the hundreds of alluring doors. You must pass by without following them the secret winding stairs leading up or down to unknown places——

You will never know all you really own. You will never see the festive hall with its brilliant revels, nor the taper lit chapel with its mystic ecstasies—you will never find the hidden chamber with its lotus joys, the romantic balcony with its bizarre assemblage—you will never reach the tiny tower room with its view across land and sea and up into the skies. * * *

And you will never see the dark cells where weird things are kept—nor the ghastly dungeon deep down below the ground, where one lies sobbing and bleeding and broken, and whence there is no returning.

I have opened many a door in my castle —said Christine—and I fear I shall never find my way back to the broad, comfortable passage. * * *

Fooling the Germans.

From the New York World.

The London censor now has the opportunity of his life. As the Germans have bombarded the English coast, he will see that they have no information on the subject by suppressing all details addressed to American newspapers.

Effeminate.

Gabe—Why do you say he is effeminate? He doesn t act that way

Steve—He always wants the last word.

Transients All.

Mrs. Exe—How many servants do you keep?

Mrs. Wye—None My record for the year, so far, is twenty-two I didn't keep.

Clean Haul.

"A shrewd rascal skipped town the other day, after being in society here for several years."

"I think I understand his method."

"Yes?"

"He got into society for the purpose of going through it."

A Surprise.

Old Maid (who during a short trip had to put her pug dog in board at a neighbor's family)—Well, children have you always been kind to my pet?

Chorus—Yes

Little Carl (blurting out)—And he can swim, now, too!—Fliegende Blaetter.

Backache Warns You

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year.

Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame—if it hurts to stoop or lift—if there is irregularity of the secretions—suspect your kidneys. If you suffer headaches, dizziness and are tired, nervous and worn-out, you have further proof.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills, a fine medicine for bad backs and weak kidneys.

A South Dakota Case

Mrs. C. Friederich, Alexandria, S. D., says "Kidney trouble started in my back and it gradually grew worse. It was torture for me to stoop or straighten. I suffered for five years. After I had taken a great deal of medicine without benefit, I began with Doan's Kidney Pills. The pains in my back left, the kidney weakness went away and I had no more dizziness. I never used another medicine that did me so much good."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

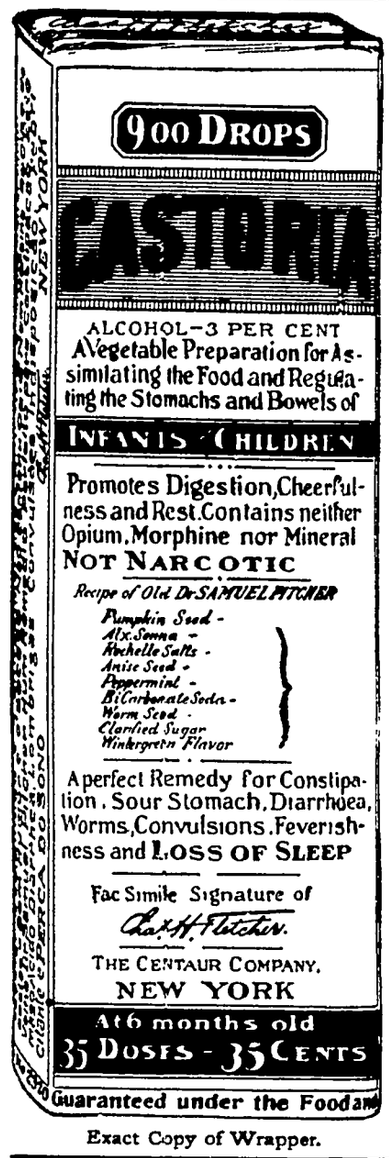
In Use For Over Thirty Years



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral
NOT NARCOTIC
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP
Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY,
NEW YORK
At 6 months old
35 DOSES - 35 CENTS
Guaranteed under the Food and

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Born Diplomat.

"Harry, I am beginning to believe the baby looks like you."

"Are you, dear?"

"Yes, I notice it more and more every day. I'm so glad."

"Do you really want him to look like me?"

"Of course I do. I've been sorry ever since we had him christened that we didn't give him your name."

"Sweetheart, you don't know how happy you make me by saying that."

"And, Harry, dear—I found the loveliest hat today. I don't believe I ever saw anything that was so becoming to me. It's $25. Do you think I ought to pay that much for a hat?"—Chicago Herald.

A man may be justified in thinking his wife silly—considering the kind of man she married.

The Real Thing.

Little Lemuel—Say, paw, what is persistency?

Paw—Persistency, my son, is the trait a woman develops when she attempts to remove a wrinkle.

Put to the Test.

His Daughter's Beau—Yes, I'm a Socialist. I believe that those who get the benefit from the labor should be made to perform the labor.

The Old Man—Fine! You might begin by setting up the parlor stove for the winter.—Town Topics.

Fewer young men would sow their wild oats if they should first stop to look for a needle in a haystack.

Many a man has been carried under by the sheer weight of his own dignity.

Rheumatism Sprains Lumbago Sciatica

Why grin and bear all these ills when Sloan's Liniment kills pain?

"I have used your Liniment and can say it is fine. I have used it for sore throat, strained shoulder, and it acted like a charm."—Allen Dunn, Route 1, Box 88, Pine Valley, Miss.

"I am a painter and paperhanger by trade, consequently up and down ladders. About two years ago my left knee became lame and sore. It pained me at nights at times till I could not rest, and I was contemplating giving up my trade on account of it when I chanced to think of Sloan's Liniment. I had never tried it before, and I am glad to state that less than one 25c. bottle fixed me up apparently as good as ever."—Charles C. Campbell, Florence, Texas.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

All Dealers 25c.

Send four cents in stamps for a free TRIAL BOTTLE.

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa. Dept. B

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BABRER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHUEMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No 19 KLEMME IA:
Office in Building East Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or 'phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

W. F. Pavey has been on the sick list the past week.

Wm. Sampson is visiting Garner relatives and friend.

C. A. Larsen visited Buffalo Center friends from Friday uhtil Monday.

The Misses Agnes and Gretchen Blank were Garner visitors, Wednesday.

Mrs. J. M. Howdesheil was an over Sunday visitor with Thompson friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kirkwood returned to their home at Ringsted, Saturday

Ed Yahnke was down from Buffalo Center this week for a short visit with relatives.

Mrs. George Shroeder and daughter, Miss Selma, were Garner visitors, Wednesday.

Clifford Schawrtz and wife enjoyed a visit from his brother and wife of Miller, New Years day

FOS SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas F Busch

Miss Lena Coobs returned the latter part of laat week from a visit with relatives and friends at Forest City.

Mrs. Wm F. Lau and children of Garner are here for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank.

Yep! Old man prosperity is on the road, shuffling this way, but let us hope he doesn't find a feather bed enroute

O. N Peterson of Sioux Falls, South Dekota, arrived Thursday for a couple of days visit with his friend, Oscar Larsen.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate.—J. P. Larsen & Sons.

Miss Nelson of Forest City visited at the W. F Pavey home, Wednesday, and attended the Schuldt-Schoenwetter wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W Kluckhohn of this place and Mr and Mrs. Ashpole of Thompson were Mason City visitors New Years day

Mr and Mrs Fred Knoke returned Wednesday from Elkader where they had been during the holidays visiting relatives and friends

A large number of out of town relatives and friends were were here Wednesday to attend the Schuldt-Schoenwetter wedding

Mr and Mrs. John P. Christians recieved a handsome New Years gift this year, as a bright baby girl was born to them the 31st ult.

I will sell my residence property consisting of a house and 4 lots at a right price, providing same is purchased soon. A. F Hubbard.

Ralph Ludeke returned to his school duties at Drake University, Des Moines, after spending the holidays at the home of his parents.

A stray yearling steer came to my place some time ago. Owner can have same by proving property and paying charges. Adolf Schlichting

Mrs W C. A. Gast returned to her home at Garner, Wednenday, after a days visit at the house of her brother, Leonard Sampson and to see that new boy.

Irvin and Dewey Ohler of Thompson, stopped off here Saturday, while on their way home from Iowa Falls, for a short visit at the Rev Howdeshell home

Carl Suckow, Paul Stille and Lester Stille departed for Des Moines, Monday evening where they will attend school at the Capital City Commercial College.

Mr and Mrs. J B Kinden and children of Thompson, returned to their home Monday after a few days visit with her niece, Mrs. Fred Kluckhohn.

Dr R. W. Schultz.
Osteopath, Garner, Iowa.
How is your back?
If its "on the bum" Osteopathy will help you.

Rev Howdeshell was at Rowan, Tuesday and Wednesday, where he delivered two sermons in the M. E. church before the Wright County Holiness Association

Do not miss the Victoria Lynn Concert Company at the opera house next Wednesday evening, January 13th. They are exceptionally good and are sure to please.

H. P. Yahnke accompanied by Elmer Fuller departed for Eagle Bend, Minnesota, Monday, where they will get the Yahnke household goods ready for shipment to this place

Ted Duthridge departed Saturday evening for Morris, Illinois, for a short visit and his wife who has been visiting her parents at that place for some time will return home with him.

Go to the north elevator for to sell your hogs and all kinds of grain and get some good coal to keep you and your family warm.
A C. Lau & Son.

Remember that after February 1st, 1915, the subscription price will be $1.50 per year. Renew your subscription now and save 50 cents per year. After February 1st, the $1.50 rate will be strictly adhered to.

Mrs. M Palmby of Eagle Bend, Minnesota, arrived Monday evening among relatives and numerous friends. She stopped off at Mason City on the way down for a short visit with Mrs. Henry Palmby who is at the Park hospital.

We in thank you advance for that dollar you are going to send us in renewal of your subscription to this paper. And we'll thank you again when we get it. Surely a double dose of thanks ought to hustle it along our way.

C. W Wiles and family have moved into their new home, and certainly have an ideal place and one of the finest homes in the city, and is modern in every respect. Mr. and Mrs. Henr Metzgar will occupy the rooms vacated by them.

S. Freeman returned from Waterloo, Monday, where he had been recovering from his recent accident, when he fell from a scaffolding and broke his colar bone while working on the C. A Arnold home. He is again working for contractor Larsen

Mr and Mrs. Henry Wille returned to Iowa City again, Wednesday where on Thursday, Mrs Wille will undergo another operation She is recovering nicely from her recent operation. Mrs. C. J Kraus will accompany them and may undergo an operation

We handle the "McDonald Pitless" wagon and stock scales. The original pitless—22 years on the market. 10 year gilt edge guarantee Guaranteed U. S Standard Complete scale above ground. Protected bearings—never freeze. Don't buy a scale of any kind until you see this. H. Lau & Son.

We neglected to mention last week the birthday party held at the F. H. Ridder home in honor of little Miss Neota. A large number of her playmates were invited, games were played, refreshments were served and the young people enjoyed a very fine time.

The Victoria Lynn Concert Company is the next number of the Lecture course and will be here on the evening of Wednesday, January 13th. The personal of the company is Victoria Lynn, reader; Daisy Johnston, Soprano and Cassandra Wallace, violinist. The company is very highly reccomended and is sure to please the most sanguine.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS
GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay Demand "5-Drops." Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., [illegible] 5-Drops

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it far lovelier and more satisfying than Europe.

Don't miss the biggest events of a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited," foremost transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions 1915
Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment
Rock Island
For tickets, reservations and information see
T. F. Mitchell, Agent

Mrs. Henry Palmby is in the Mason City hospital where she underwent an operation and last reports from her bedside bear out the information that she is not recovering as rapidly as her many friends would care to have her. We hope that she will soon take a turn for the better.

The postoffice was moved Saturday evening from the Gruetzmacher building into the new Waterman building, and the new location is certainly fine, there being more room and light. The balance of the building will be ready for use before long and when completed Mr. Waterman will certainly have a fine place.

The Klemme Auto & Light Co. held their annual meeting at which time the following officers were elected for the ensuing year; President, H. J. Stille; Vice President, Thos. Nelson, Jr.; Secretary, Al. Koerner, Treasurer, P. M. Griesemer. Directors, H. J. Stroemer, Herman Stroemer, Aug. Lau, Jr., H. J. Schlichting and Wm. Katter.

On Saturday, January 26th the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sampson was made much happier by the safe arrival of a bouncing baby boy. The young man may be able to talk by this time but our congratulations are no less sincere. He and his mother are being cared for by his aunt, Miss Emma Sampson who recently returned from Winslow, Illinois.

The Society ladies of Lake Shore Drive and Sheridan Road, Chicago have intruded into the municipal dancing halls of that city and insist upon chaperoning the dancers and censoring the dances. The young women who attend the dances resent the interference.—News note.

Eegnatz, in dot hesitation,
Hold me loose like some relation
Fff dee choperone Sots mad
Dot veel mek me feel so bad
Oye! I got it such a feelink
Dot it makes my head go reelink
Mrs. Potter Palmerstien veel not like dot dip of mine.

FIAETTA TO TONIO.

Joost-a wait-a one-a minute-a, Tonio.
Dees-a hug-a me tight-a beez-a, he no go
I got a for you-a joost-a leet-a tip-
Dees a – what-a you call-a? lame a duck an' dip
You gotta cot out-a, queek yo' leak a me sore.
Noboty dance-a dees-a way to mor' Hesitaish? eh, dat's-a ro'
You gotta do-a da fox-a-tro'
An jump-a, pumd-a, bump-a round da floor

HULDA TO OLE

AY know all dose ladies f ces
Vy bane maid at lots o places.
Av skall tall you, Ole Benso.
Ven dee do deer Tango densen
Dee don't kaar hoe tight men hold 'em-
No von ever came to scold 'em
Ven dee go avay from hoar
Ve vill dense da grizzly baar

MAYME TO STEVE

Listen, kid I'm good and sore
Say we beat it off the floor.
These here dames from Lake Shore Drive
Get's my goat. Let's do a dive.
If the hens stick 'round an' snoop
Me for some place in the Loop
I can't dance Y M C A.,
Lead me to a cabaray —Ed McIntyre.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once We need the money Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing Henry Lau & Son.

MINNESOTA LAND FOR SALE

I have the agency for a number of choice pieces of Minnesota land and anyone interested will do well to see me before investing elsewhere.
C. L. Yahnke.

At the Hancock county short course which will be held at Klemme Jan. 25th to 30th, practical instruction on study of corn and small grain, alfalfa, clovers and soils will be given. Thorough discussions on all these problems will be offered all week. Handling of seeds and seed bed preparation will come in for their share of attention. The growing of alfalfa and clovers will be studied, the need of inoculation and the method of handling each in the farm rotation. The need of a variety of grasses in the permanent pasture is a question of importance to every farmer who raises live stock. The sowing of clovers in the old sod bound pastures and the disking of pastures will be discussed in the regular class periods. In many places soils are becoming worn out, due to constant cropping resuling in decreased yields. However, many in this community are not raising the crops they should because of poor preparation of seed bed, poorly drained sour soils. The grain and soils study will be full of interest the entire week. Arrange to be on hand early at each class. Bring your soil and crop problems with you.

AS The Year 19 with it's ups a downs, joys a sorrows becomes a thing of past, our thoughts of appreci go out to our customers who h helped us in making the busi which we have had pleasant successful and we want to this opportunity to thank you the favors of 1914 and extend most sincere wishes that the 1915 will be a most Happy
Prosperous one to you.

J. N. DA

PUBLIC SA

Having decided to move to Minnesota, I will sell auction on the D. D. Ross farm 3½ miles South a Klemme, on

Thursday, Jan. 14, 1

Sale to Commence at 10:00 a. m. Free Hot Lun

73 Head of Live S

14 - Head of Horses
Span of White Driving Ponies, wt. about 1500. Ro
4 yrs old, wt. 1240. 2-yr-old Brown Mare Colt. Bl
Mare Colt. Buckskin Mare, wt. about 1350, with fo yearling Mare Colt, Bay yearling Mare Colt. Bl yrs old, wt. 1300. 2 Bay Mares, 9 yrs old, wt. abou
Black Gelding, yearling colts. Bay Mare Colt, 1 yr

59 - Head of Cattle -
20 Milch Cows, some fresh, others fresh soon. 12
Heifers. 10, 2-yr-old Heifers. 16
Registered Bull

Farm Machinery, Etc.
6 ft. Deering Binder; Deering Mower; 3 riding corn c
Dain Hay Loader; 16 inch Case Sulky plow; 5 se
Harrow; 2 Hay Racks; Hay Rake; Sharpless Cream
Many other articles too numerous to ment

15 Ton of Hay. Holden's Seed Corn Tester, capacity.

Terms: $10.00 and under, Cash, on all sums amount 10 months time will be approved notes bearing 8 per cent interest. No pro removed until settled for.

HENRY IHDE, Propr
Young and Koster, Aucts. P. H. C

...Newspaper
...Progressive
...Kossuth County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

...IX. NUMBER 20 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21. 1914. | $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

...hen You Select This Bank

...banking business with, you can feel assured of ... and faithful service in every department.
Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

... proof of the success of this policy.

...UDENT MAN HIDES HIS ... IN OUR BANK

... to point out that not only is your money ab... safe when behind our thick walls and strong locks, ... that the GOOD NAMES of men of high standing ... responsibility are also behind our bank.

... strictly to SAFE, sound banking business; ... indulge in unsafe speculation.

... our customers against far-away risky invest... ... us build up our own community.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

...pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

...tate Savings Bank.
Klemme, Iowa
...l $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
...us $15,000.00
Can you beat it?

...eling Good?

...F COURSE you are feeling GOOD after the Christmas festivities. But why not go a little farther and feel good The ... of the Year? It's easy when you know how. ...keep in touch with your druggist—"he ..."—and a few cents occasionally will do it.

Laxacold
Has no equal as a destroyer of cold

...ist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN
...CIAN — SURGEON
...FICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
...IDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109
...diographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

...ur Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Gathered From Here and There and Everywhere

Bellevue, O.—Charles W. Ziegler veteran railroad conductor, was never late. He made his last run recently. His train was on time, but Ziegler was dead.

Allentown, Pa.—Cupid is the star boarder in the boarding house run here by Mrs. Celia Alspach. Ten couples, all boarders in the house have wed within the past three months.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Earl Fratz was being searched by detectives for two stolen diamond rings. He had successfully passed the inspection when he started to walk away. He showed a slight limp and when the detectives took off his shoes they found the diamond rings on two of his toes.

Palmerston, Ont.—A penny in-the-slot gum machine standing innocently outside of a business house in this city, has aroused the ire of the Lord's Day Alliance, the secretary, stating that "its removal will be approved b the best citizenship." The machine has been removed, not only for Sundays' but for all time.

Pasadena, Calif.—Mrs. George E. Bowman, aged 36, has eleven children and two grandchildren. She was married when fourteen and became a grandmother at 32.

Tacoma, Wash.—Miss Nelda Jaeger is now police judge at this place.

Trenton, N. J.—Mrs. Harriet Fisher Andrews is the only woman iron manufacturer of America of international fame.

Chicago, Ill.—Chicago recieved its supply of Christmas trees this year on a boat captained by a woman, Mrs. Barbara Schuneman. Her two daughters acted as her crew.

Ottawa, Ill.—Dwiht Cook and G. P. Gepherd are making experiments in irrigation in this vicinity. The experiment is being watched with a great deal of interest.

Coswell, N. C.— ...s. West Gaaves has just presented her husband with the eight consecutive set of twins. There are eight children living, one of each set of twins having died,

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Floyd Trayer, 19, threw his aunt's teeth in the river for a joke. He has just been sentenced to from one to five years in prison for the "joke."

An After-Supper Dialogue

Hiram—"What is all that stuff that fool Klemme editor has in his dirty sheet about that Short Course? It reads like we farmers do not know our business."

Molly—"Why Hiram how you do talk. I believe those Short Courses are alright."

Hiram—"Of course you do, never seen anything that you did not disagree with me on."

Molly—"Well Hiram, there you go again. Why shouldn't those instructors who are hired by the Extension department know a few things that would be helpful to the farmer and his wife when they have made a life study of such things."

Hiram—"Yes that sounds alright in print but they are not practical."

Molly—"Well look here Hiram, we have lived on this same farm for the past twenty years, and if it was not for the raise in our land we would not be one cent better off than when we started in; after all our hard work."

Hiram—"Yes there you are complaining again about all the hard work."

Molly—Well do as you please, but I want to take in that Domestic Science for I if can learn anything to make my share of the work easier and more profitable, I wish to do so."

Next morning at 9:00 a. m

Hiram—"Well Molly, I have been thinking it over and I believe we will take in the course. I am going to town today and you can go along if you wish and while I am in we will buy a ticket for both you and I, and also John and Kate."

Molly—"Well for goodness sakes, Hiram, what has struck you? that is the first time in ten years you have asked me to go to town with you. But I sure would like to go, as I have to get a few things to wear for both Kate and myself, and we will not miss a single number."

We handle the "McDonald Pitless" wagon and stock scales. The orgiral pitless—22 years on the market. 10 year gilt edge guarantee. Guaranteed U. S. Standard. Complete scale above ground. Protected bearings—never freeze. Don't buy a scale of any kind until you see this. H. Lau & Son.

SHORT COURSE FEATURES

Are you making plans to attend the Short Course, which will start Monday? It will be one of the biggest weeks in the history of Klemme, and you sure will want to make it. Besides the regular program which will be found elsewhere in this issue, there will be the evening entertainments that will be free of charge to all holders of season tickets.

On Wednesday evening, Prof. M. L. Howell of Clarion, will be here and writes that he will give us the best that he has--and that sure will be well worth hearing, as Mr. Howell is a very gifted talker and very entertaining.

Later; Word has been recieved from M. L. Howell that the subject for his lecture on Monday evening, in connection with the Short Course will be "Agencies For Indivdual and community Welfare."

On Thursday evening, Prof. C. L. Fitch will give an illustrated lecture, entitled, "Landscaping for Town and Country." Most every farmer takes pride in having a neat appearing place and Mr. Fitches views and illustrations will surely give you many good points along this line. This lecture alone will be worth the price of the whole course to some of you, who are now starting a new set of buildings or making improvements.

County Engineer, A. J. Lilly will also speak the same evening, and his subject will be "Road Work for 1915."

On Friday evening, the big county spelling contest will be pulled off. This work is in charge of County Superintendent Baggs, and a large number of pupils from diffrent schools throughout the county will be represented. Valuable prizes are being offered to the best spellers and this surely will prove a very entertaining and instructive feature of the course.

The weeks course is a big undertaking for a town the size of Klemme, and the business men and officers of the course are lending their time and work free of charge and you surely will at least purchase a ticket and help that much.

These courses are being held all over the state but this is the first one to be held in Hancock County and let's pull together, so as to make it a success and a yearly event.

Many Valuable Premiums

The Short Course is for the purpose of assisting farmers and their wives and children in solving the numerous problems of the farm particularly to help them make a goodly profit on the high priced Iowa land. Old fashioned methods will not pay interest on land worth from $100 to $200 per acre while careful attention to details, the application of methods which absolute tests have proved the best, bring the largest results and profits and will add much to the comforts of country life.

The Short Course is not a town affair. Except for the women and girls of the town who attend the domestic science school the town people get little benefit. The Klemme business men are backing up an educational enterprise which is for the improvement of farming conditions. They are not only public spirited in this, they are moved by the knowledge that the best interests of the town depend absolutely on the success and well-being of the farmer.

The managers of the Course wish it clearly understood that this is not a money making scheme. The officers and committees give their time to this work absolutely free. The business men of Klemme are co-operating cheerfully in this matter and have donated many valuable premiums in merchandise and cash.

SHORT COURSE NOTES

Miss Mabie Beatly and Ette Townsend will be the instructors of Domestic Science which will be held in the English M. E church.

Mari McDonald and D. A. Hunt will have charge of the Farm Crops department in the new Waterman building.

W. A. Buchanan and E. G. Mead will be the instructors of Fine Stock to be held in the Ridder Garage.

All exhibits of corn will be shown in the basement of the First National Bank.

The Northern Lumber company will give the use of their shed for the stabling of teams during all sessions of the short course.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas. F. Busch

There's no time like the present While you're thinking about starting a Bank account, others are doing it."

¶ Do you realize that a bank account means more than the mere saving of money?

¶ It gives you standing in the eyes of those that know you and is better than an arm full of letters of introduction or recommendation in the eyes of strangers. You are a better man the very day you start a Bank account, be it ever so small, and we urge you to start now with $1.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time
To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here
THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

WHY NOT BUY YOUR TICKET NOW?

Hancock County
Short Course
Klemme, Iowa
January 25 to 30

The State Agricultural College Brought To Your Door

DON'T YOU WISH TO HELP BOOST?

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

[illegible] L. George finds himself in an unusual position. Having British parents and having lived for the last 10 years or so in England he is practicaly a British subject and hence naturally an eligible candidate for the British army. On the other hand, he was born and brought up in France and served his time in the French army.

Miss Olivia P. Tescott, of Espy, Pa., is believed to be the only bride in America in whose wedding cake only ostrich eggs were used. Employes of the African Ostrich Farm & Feather company, which has its farm near Espy, furnished the eggs and hired a baker to made the unusual wedding confection.

Among other sacrifices which the war imposes on us, says the London Tit-Bits, is the loss of horseradish with our roast beef. Horseradish is an "alien enemy" vegetable, and most of Covent Garden's supplies come from Germany. The root does not take kindly to British soil and hardly pays for cultivation.

The odor of cloves has been known to destroy microbes in [illegible] minutes, cinnamon will kill some species in 12 minutes, thyme in 35 minutes. In 45 minutes common [illegible] verbena is found effective, while the odor of some geranium flowers has destroyed various forms of [illegible] minutes.

George [illegible] of Reading, Pa., won the [illegible] standing [illegible] Pennsylvania [illegible]. He is a member of [illegible] the ex[illegible] average [illegible] work.

At the present time the United States is Mexico's [illegible] on account of the suspension of [illegible] Atlantic steamer services. Many [illegible] export firms which formerly traded with Europe are now beginning [illegible] to the market [illegible] United States.

The French [illegible] sen, Prussia [illegible] paper entitled [illegible]. The journal is produced [illegible] tration [illegible] to the prison [illegible] fined there.

Recent experiments [illegible] rough [illegible] of the [illegible] of [illegible] eliminating [illegible] were formed [illegible] ed with [illegible] that the [illegible] and Sitka [illegible].

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible] speak [illegible] French Messa[illegible] decay and [illegible] gown [illegible].

The [illegible] coming [illegible].

This country [illegible] supporting [illegible] population [illegible]. The commerce of [illegible] $300,000,000 [illegible] more than [illegible] United States [illegible].

Victoria scientists in testing [illegible] in the human system [illegible] containing [illegible] ing several [illegible] ron from the soil than [illegible].

Russia is 20 times larger than [illegible] and Germany [illegible] together [illegible] square miles [illegible] and her [illegible] supposed to number 167,000,000 [illegible] 000 more than that of Germany.

Education [illegible] ines are [illegible] in the [illegible] North Borneo [illegible] children to [illegible].

On the [illegible] Me[illegible] there are [illegible] foxes, numbering [illegible] brought [illegible] pelts of the [illegible].

Among [illegible] conspicuous [illegible].

[illegible] is the [illegible] lish [illegible] the [illegible].

The [illegible] ties [illegible] the [illegible].

In [illegible] Ireland [illegible] at the [illegible] employed numbered about 300.

Bridges built of timber and particularly [illegible] of the Howe truss type have shown [illegible] remarkable [illegible] extent [illegible] where they [illegible] in [illegible] the [illegible].

When [illegible] industry [illegible] Turcos are hard pressed during [illegible] hand fighting they [illegible] in the [illegible].

The cable [illegible] between New York and [illegible] by a [illegible] will [illegible] each made up of 3[illegible].

[illegible] tributed [illegible] of the quantity and value [illegible] ful earth marketed in 1912.

It is proposed that a war medal of uniform [illegible] bearing the simple inscription [illegible] should be distributed among all the allied troops.

Scientists have figured that about 36,000,000 babies are born each year, or at [illegible] about 70 a minute.

In Bavaria, Germany, a number of towns have decided to introduce unemployed insurance.

CAPITOL EXTENSION ACT TO BE SUBJECT OF WARM STRUGGLE

Resolution to Repeal the Law and Sell the Land May Be Introduced.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 16. The first gun of the fight that will be waged in an attempt to have the capitol extension act repealed probably will be fired when the Thirty-sixth general assembly reconvenes next Tuesday after a recess over Sunday.

Here is what the resolution will attempt to do, it is rumored:

Repeal the capitol extension act as passed by the Thirty-fifth general assembly and provide for the sale by auction of all land so far acquired by the state under its provisions.

It is understood that up to the time the senate adjourned Thursday afternoon no democratic member of the upper house had been found that would introduce it. There is little likelihood of its being passed, the republicans declare, but its defeat will forestall any future attempts to hinder the workings of the act, it is believed.

For the Father

Free but dignified hilarity attended the opening of the senate following the inauguration of Lieut. Gov. W. L. Harding in view of the domestic honor that had come to the Harding home in the birth of a girl. Senator E. P. Farr, of Woodbury, presented the lieutenant governor with the badge of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Ancestors, a baby crib. It was placed directly in front of the presiding officer's desk. Other senators made humorous speeches containing advice to the new father, who replied in a speech that kept the senate in an uproar.

WATERLOO IN THICK OF FIGHT ON SALOON QUESTION

Waterloo, Ia., Jan. 16. Business men of Waterloo have taken the liquor problem of this city into their own hands and say they are determined to make Waterloo wet. They say they are dissatisfied with the business conditions of the two years dry regime.

The movement started with a meeting of 200 business men at the new Hotel Russell Lamson. An organization called "The Greater Waterloo association" was formed to be incorporated at $50,000. As the first step to making a greater Waterloo with 50,000 population the men at the meeting unanimously decided to circulate a consent petition. These men were elected officers of the association: J. T. Sullivan, attorney, president; A. M. Ploe[illegible], president First National bank, vice president; Horace Martin, wholesale [illegible], vice president; Ira Hoover, secretary and treasurer of the Iowa & Dominion Land company, secretary; Ben R. Lichty, Smith, Lichty & Hillman company, wholesale grocers, treasurer. A board of directors consisting of [illegible] business men was also appointed.

The [illegible] opposition to the petition [illegible] the Iowa Business Men's Temperance association, a league of [illegible] sympathizers. This association has started [illegible] pledge campaign [illegible].

"There are different issues and different parties in the fight now than there were before," said John W. Arbuckle, one of the dry leaders. "We haven't the saloon keeper and bartender to oppose now. Instead, we have the [illegible] of the town."

[illegible] signers will make the petition sufficient. Over [illegible] signed the petition at the [illegible] meeting.

Waterloo has been dry for two years [illegible] majority of voters [illegible] consent petition which was declared sufficient by the supreme [illegible] to an alleged forgery [illegible] list of signers, which the [illegible] invalidated that entire list. The failure of the court to declare the petition of 1912 sufficient caused 26 saloons in Waterloo to go out of business.

BROTHERHOOD OFFICERS PLEASED BY COURT ACTION

[illegible] The head [illegible] Modern Brotherhood of America with headquarters in this city [illegible] optimistic today than [illegible] some time. When [illegible] granted a temporary [illegible] which restrains for [illegible] insurgents getting [illegible] of members of the order [illegible] hoped [illegible] just published [illegible] assets [illegible]. Their net [illegible] $2,000,000 [illegible] now in force [illegible]. Their total [illegible] and they [illegible] the United States. [illegible] started over [illegible] by the supreme [illegible] Denver meeting in [illegible] was some dis[illegible].

MASON CITY BASEBALL FANS PLEASED WITH OUTLOOK

[illegible] Mason City [illegible] jubilant to[illegible] from Waterloo [illegible] into the Central Association baseball [illegible] had been carried [illegible] success [illegible] meeting [illegible] number of [illegible] been supporting [illegible] and the [illegible] games warranted the fans going after the position they secured today.

MARSHAL AND STRANGER STAGE EARLY MORNING DUEL

[illegible] Marshal Cook of Missouri Valley engaged in a pistol duel with some unknown man near the James coal and implement office at an early hour yesterday morning. Two shots were fired by the stranger [illegible] by Officer Cook, and so far as known none taking effect. Shortly before the shooting some one entered and robbed the J. C. Williams' meat market.

TRAVELING MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Red Oak, Ia., Jan. 15. R. B. Cromwell of this place, was taken by Sheriff Jackson to Bedford on a charge of bigamy. The warrant was issued at Bedford, following his marriage to Mrs. Eldora Hindman, of Bedford at Maryville Mo. Saturday.

Cromwell is traveling for a St. Louis house. He has lived here three years with a woman he now claims is not his wife.

Canada last year exported dried apples valued at $411,980.

LEGISLATURES ARE TARGETS FOR MEAN CRITICISM—CLARKE

Governor at Inaugural Laments Tendency of Public to Sneer at Lawmakers.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 16.—"The Thirty-fifth was perhaps the most violently condemned legislature in the history of the state," said Governor Clarke of Iowa in his inaugural address yesterday afternoon, "yet I venture to say that there is not more than one other than can for a moment stand in comparison with it."

Governor Clarke devoted much of his speech to a defense of legislatures, which he said are submitted to much unjust and unwarranted criticism and ridicule by persons who do not know what they are talking about. He said, in part:

Criticised.

"You start, senators and representatives, into this session under the fire of criticism. Every legislature so starts. Before you have introduced a bill, even before you came to the capital city, the discrediting talk about the legislative session and what may or may not be done begins. It is one of the most unfortunate things of our American life that with an air of superciliousness and superior wisdom a large part of our citizenship assume to speak of state legislatures, and the congress of the United States as well, with at least poorly disguised ridicule. Men who have never given any time at all to the consideration of public questions and who have seldom or never seen any bad effects of the completed work of a legislature will begin, and have already begun to discount your work. It has actually become a habit. It brings into contempt with young people especially the law-making department of the state—by far the most important, bearing a greater weight of responsibility than any other department of the government.

Laws Not Respected.

"It is all a part of our want of respect for law. Indeed it breeds the want of such respect. It brings about the failure to enforce the law. If the people and the newspapers assiduously but perhaps, sometimes, thoughtlessly by slighting reference and sometimes open condemnation bring about the impression that the legislature is more an instrument of evil than anything else there will not be much reverence for the lawmaker's law. There are men who do this and then talk about good citizenship, forgetting that this is the very worst sort of citizenship. I am not talking about fair dignified honorable criticism or corrective suggestions but I refer as you know to the I-am-the-superior-curled-lip contempt sort of suggestion and criticism. This ought not to move you but I am frank to say you start with this handicap—the handicap that makes a man hesitate and makes some men afraid. Be not afraid.

What else has the Thirty-fifth general assembly, the violently condemned, to its credit? Just to instance a few measures by the briefest statement:

- Against unfair discrimination in trade.
- Fraudulent advertising.
- Books of accounts photographed for depositions, used in evidence.
- Carrying concealed weapons.
- Board of arbitration to settle disputes, prevent strikes.
- Instructions to jury submitted to counsel before read to jury.
- Weights and measures law for protection of people.
- Public recreation and play grounds for schools.
- Right to acquire up to five acres for school grounds.
- State aid to consolidated schools.
- Providing for Normal courses in high schools.
- State colony for epileptics.
- Establishment of hog cholera serum plant.
- Reorganization of state board of health—now the most effective in the state's history.
- Strengthening law as to bureau of labor statistics as to inspections, accidents, etc.
- Custodial department at Knoxville and payment of inmates for work.
- Employers liability and workmen's compensation act.
- Department of insurance.
- Employment of prisoners on public highways.
- Election of United States senators by the people.
- Shortening ballot by making clerk and reporter of supreme court and state superintendent appointive.
- Reorganization of state superintendent's department.
- Capitol extension bill.

"The list might be much extended. The Thirty-fifth was, perhaps, the most violently condemned legislature in the history of the state, yet I venture to say there is not more than one other than can for a moment stand in comparison with it. The future will thoroughly and completely vindicate it in spite of some mistakes it made. You men of the Thirty-sixth are successors to those of the Thirty-fifth. You are good, honest, true, faithful patriotic men, proud of Iowa, loving her, devoted to the common good, to human betterment and your constituents known it. They ought not to assume the attitude I have described and I speak of it thus publicly because it is a public wrong and good citizenship, on reflection, will see that it is."

COUNTRY ATTORNEY NOT JUDGE OF THE EVIDENCE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 16.—The opinion of the county attorney that the defendant has a good defense is not a sufficient excuse for dismissing a liquor injunction case, so the supreme court holds today in a case from Polk county. Inasmuch as H. H. Sawyer said he had been employed to assist in the prosecution, the case should have been tried, the court held.

DR. GEORGE ROWE DIES AT HOT SPRINGS, ARK

Boone, Ia., Jan. 16.—The death of Dr. George D. Rowe, one of the pioneer physicians and surgeons of Boone, occurred Wednesday afternoon at Hot Springs, Ark. Dr. Rowe was preceded in death by his wife only a few months. He has been in poor health for several years. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon from the home in this city.

MOTHER WILL NOT ALLOW SON TO SPEND $222,000

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 14.—Alleging that her son, William Leet, 19 years old, is incompetent as a business manager and a spendthrift, Mrs. Lida Leet had herself appointed as his guardian today. She estimates his property mostly in Iowa farm lands, as worth $222,000. This act comes as culmination of young Leet's elopement last Monday to Blair, Neb., where he was married to Miss Anne Robertson, of Omaha. They plan to make their home here after returning from their honeymoon trip to Chicago.

PROLIFIC LOVER IS BROKE, HE ALLEGES

Marshalltown Man, Who Has Had Many Heart Affairs, Now Bankrupt.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 15.—Hardy Friend, son of Postmaster Friend, of Marshalltown, and the hero of several love escapades, filed a petition in bankruptcy here today. His chief liability is a claim for $10,000 granted in a breach of promise case to Miss Ione Stoneman of Hartford, Wis. His total liabilities are $13,720 and his assets $1,900 claimed to be exempt. Friend's last appearance in Des Moines was when he caused the arrest of Gladys Perkins, vaudeville actress, on a charge that she stole a $300 diamond ring which she says he gave to her. He once eloped to Chicago with Hazel White, of Marshalltown, whom he later married after serious charges had been preferred against him.

CAN'T EVEN SMOKE IN CARS THAT GO TO AMES

Ames, Ia., Jan. 15. Should the Ames campus ever become a battleground the enemy will have a very tedious time locating the trenches of the other enemy by means of ascending curls of smoke. The campus a year ago capitulated to the puritanical notion that smoking is very bad form, even on 1,000 acres of state land where the zephyrs have a clear sweep to blow it away, and now the college committee on something or another has dictated to the college car trolley road that it must not permit smoking on its cars. One student yesterday, standing on his supposed rights to smoke a cigar in the closed vestibule of a nearly empty car, was threatened with violent ejection from the rolling stock for being out of harmony with the new anti-smoke rule. The college is rapidly acquiring a reputation for innovations.

MASON CITY AUTHORITIES CONDUCT ANTI-DOPE CRUSADE

Mason City, Ia., Jan. 15. County and city officials are hot on the trail of heroin users in this city and just what will be unearthed is hard to tell. Back of the movement is Secretary Hibbard, of the Y. M. C. A. Some four weeks ago three young men, who had secured the drug from an Omaha wholesale dealer, were up before Judge J. J. Clark and were placed on probation. Then it was thought that the local users of this dope were getting it entirely from outside, but the probe is now being made so thorough that much more will be known than was heretofore [illegible].

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

[illegible] affirmed.

Johnson [illegible] Minnesota Land Co. [illegible] Warren court [illegible] reversed.

MRS MARY BYERS, MOTHER OF H. W. BYERS, IS DEAD

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 15. Mrs. Mary Byers, aged 80 years, died [illegible] today at the home of her son, H. W. Byers, formerly attorney [illegible] corporation counsel of Des Moines. The body will be taken [illegible] for the funeral.

Mrs. Byers was born on the ocean while her parents were coming from Scotland to America. Her children are H. W. and H. C. Byers of Des Moines, [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] of Garner, [illegible] Byers of Council Bluffs, and William Byers of Sioux Falls, S. D.

WEST [illegible] CITY [illegible] ing [illegible] asking [illegible] district to support the [illegible] gress forbidding the shipment from the United States [illegible] of the belligerent nations of Europe. Prominent Kamrar citizens started the movement among the many Germans who live there.

DES MOINES.—E. G. White, of Sioux City, supreme court reporter and former representative from Woodbury county, made a brief address to [illegible] of the [illegible] Mr. White urged the [illegible] to give grave consideration to every step taken in legislation.

DENISON.—Tuesday, January [illegible] will be observed by the Woman's Christian union [illegible] day of fasting and prayer for the success of the [illegible] cause in state and nation. There will be an address by [illegible] president of the Crawford [illegible] league.

FORT DODGE.—Mac [illegible] Michaelson of Duncombe, [illegible] years of age, committed suicide at a local hotel [illegible] yesterday by taking six grains of [illegible]. No cause for the action can be learned. He refused to allow physicians to [illegible] his life. He left a wife [illegible] children.

FORT DODGE.—The [illegible] grand jury [illegible] late yesterday [illegible] Mae Wilson [illegible] degree [illegible] they killed [illegible].

TOP BUGGY STILL CHOICE OF CUPID

Farm Boys Go Courtin' In Honored Vehicle as in Days of Old.

[illegible] buggy [illegible] go courting is just [illegible] was despite the [illegible] of the [illegible] report made by [illegible] committee [illegible] investigating the subject to the Western Retail Implement, Vehicle and Hardware Dealers' association [illegible] here today.

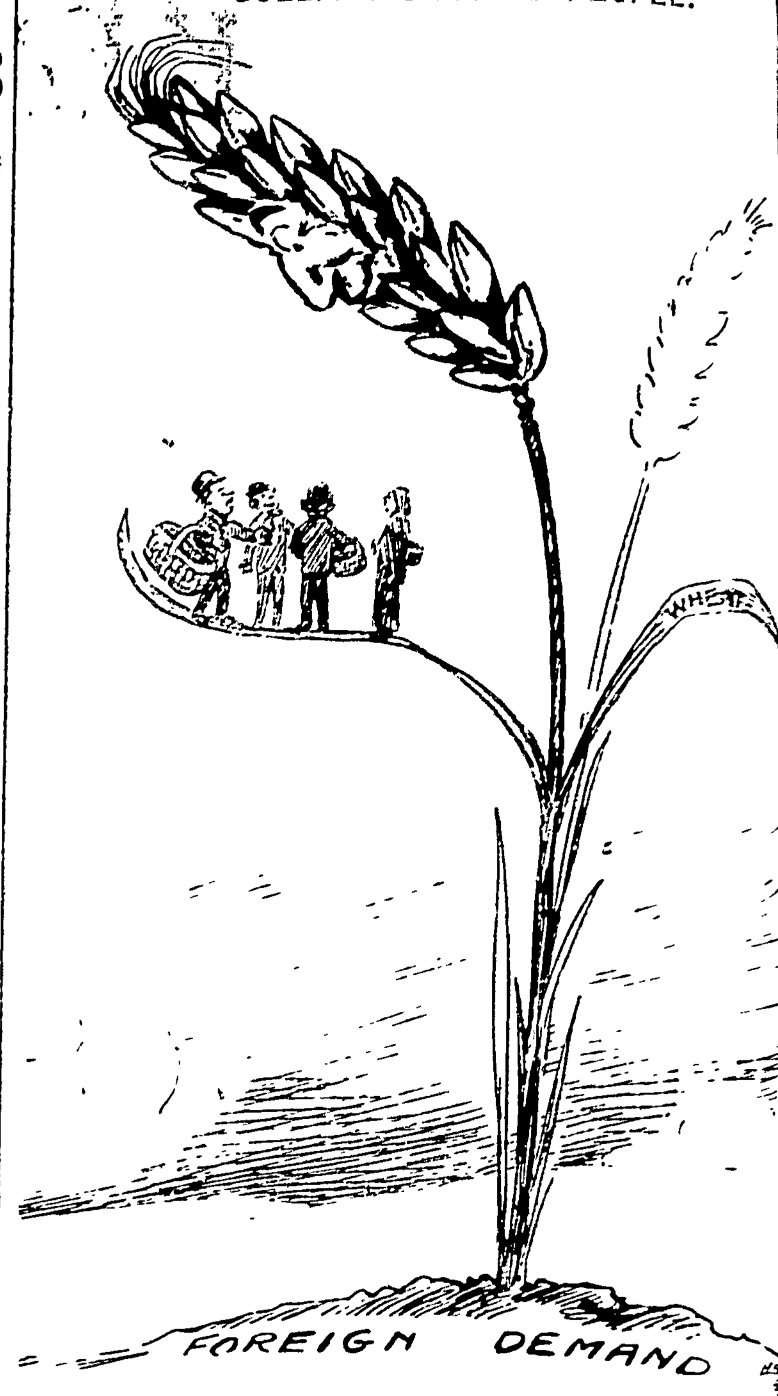
While it was admitted that no farm is considered complete [illegible] without [illegible] 2,200,000—the largest production on record [illegible] in the United States last year. It was asserted that the automobile is a luxury while the horse drawn vehicle is a necessity.

Contrary to general belief, the Babes in the Wood were not innocent darlings but outlaws who infested the hills of County Wicklow, Ireland, many years ago.

The staple crop of China is said to be sweet potatoes. There is no region which does not raise them, and they are a substantial part of the diet of a greater part of the Chinese people.

The famous Gobelin tapestries, still made in a factory owned by the French government, are woven from the reverse side, a workman watching the design through the web as it is reflected in a mirror.

GULLIVER'S LITTLE PEOPLE.



WILL INVESTIGATE ALL JOB HOLDERS

Finding at Inside Pie Counter of Reporters Who Tip Things Off Flabbergasts the Legislators.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 16, 1915.

A resolution was adopted in the senate yesterday afternoon providing for a committee of five to investigate the contention that several newspaper [illegible] on the legislative pay roll as committee clerks, have ulterior notions of dodging the clerical duties to which they were solemnly and remuneratively assigned. No complaint is made of book company representatives, insurance representatives or railroad representatives, but newspaper connection seems to be a mark of disgrace in legislative circles. The newspaper habit of giving inside information to the public, rather than to special interests, does not arouse enthusiasm.

The present outbreak is due to articles in The Sioux City Tribune, which a Pierre newspaper erroneously credited to one of the legislative clerks who supplies a couple of South Dakota newspapers as a side line. It so happens that The Tribune representative is a [illegible] man from the home office, absolutely unfettered by any "pie" considerations and who has had no hesitation in stirring the animals."

These press representatives who are affected by the pending investigation assert that they will decline to play the goat role and that any unfriendly action against them will be followed by a demand for the removal of every legislative and state house employe who is not giving complete and necessary service to the state.

Complains of Normal.

Henry Peters, superintendent of the Scotland Mining company at Spearfish, S. D., was tarred and feathered and severely beaten by the students at Spearfish normal because he made some critical references to the institution and its management while he was in Pierre on business a few days ago. Peters arrived here this evening accompanied by his wife to seek redress at the hands of the governor and members of the state legislature.

Although the Spearfish normal receives [illegible] annual maintenance fund of about [illegible] from the state, Peters alleges that there are only 58 academic students in the school and that many of these are from Wyoming and North Dakota. The remainder of the 267 registered students, he asserts are merely eighth grade pupils. In practical effect he contends that the state is financing a high school for Spearfish instead of operating a state normal as [illegible] title of the school indicates.

Take Up Auditor's Report.

The statement of the retiring auditor of state Henry B. Anderson, that the state could save $500,000 yearly by economical administration is to be analyzed. Following the introduction of a resolution in the house for a committee to investigate the accounting system of the state, Senator McLean, of Day county, has introduced a similar resolutions in the senate. Complaints in the secretary of state's office in the past year will turn the investigating committee in that direction for part of their inofromation, and the auditor's system of keeping check on the departments where there was such alleged waste and extravagance will properly receive attention.

HAITI REBELS SEIZE CITY WITHOUT FIGHT

Cape Haitien, Jan. 16.—The Haitien revolutionists today entered and took possession of Cape Haitien. This followed an understanding between the rebels and the local garrison.

There was no disorder. Gen. Vilbrun Guillaume, a candidate for the presidency, is in command of the local forces.

LIFE OF SHAME O[illegible] STARVATION—W[illegible]

In New York 125,000 [illegible] less and In Dire Need [illegible] port Shows

New York, Jan. [illegible] 000 jobless women [illegible] who have the alternative [illegible] tion or accepting a li[illegible]

"The vital question [illegible] city is whether New York [illegible] stand idly by and [illegible] of innocent women [illegible] into the vortex of [illegible] the charitable organization [illegible] tigating to determin[illegible] are really deserving of a[illegible]

The statement was made [illegible] Samuel Stodel, who has [illegible] pleted a count of the unem[illegible] New York for the [illegible]

In his report which he will [illegible] the city chamberlain probably [illegible] day, Stodel will urge the estab[illegible] of a municipal loan bureau, [illegible] ly for women, until this [illegible] what he terms "econom[illegible]" passed.

EMPEROR ASKS TH[illegible] FEASTS BE DRO[illegible]

Has Sufficient Evidence o[illegible] ple's Love, He Says—[illegible] mony Money For Char[illegible]

Berlin (via The Hague and [illegible]) Jan. 16.—The Reichanzeiger [illegible] lished a decree signed by [illegible] William, according to which his [illegible] esty in view of the serious [illegible] present situation, asks that all [illegible] tivities formerly held on the [illegible] of his birthday be omitted this [illegible]. An exception is made, however, [illegible] celebrations usually held in [illegible] and schools.

The emperor asks even [illegible] many letters and telegrams [illegible] sent to him on his birthday [illegible] cieties and private individuals [illegible] always highly appreciated, be [illegible] pensed with. His majesty [illegible] fears these communications might [illegible] terrupt the telegraphic and postal [illegible] tems and interfere with his [illegible] general headquarters.

For this reason, the decree [illegible] am obliged to beg that especial [illegible] sions of good wishes be omitted [illegible] are these needed, for in these [illegible] tribulation which have come [illegible] fatherland, I am often aware, [illegible] greatest satisfaction, of the strong [illegible] of love and confidence which unite [illegible] with the German people. I thank [illegible] vance each person whose loyal [illegible] tion will, on my birthday, be [illegible] the throne of the highest, as well [illegible] one who will think of me in a [illegible] spirit.

I am one with the whole German [illegible] ple and their princes. The one [illegible] which sways our hearts is for the [illegible] land, that God will graciously g[illegible] further victories over our enemies [illegible] after that a peace with honor, a [illegible] future for our country.

Emperor William's birthday [illegible] uary 27. It is understood here [illegible] the customary court balls will [illegible] abandoned. The money usually [illegible] ed to these entertainments will [illegible] year be applied to charitable pur[illegible]

TWO SHIPS SAIL WITH FOOD FOR THE BELG[illegible]

New York, Jan. 16.—With the [illegible] ture of the steamship John Hardie [illegible] Norfolk, Va., and the steamer [illegible] from Baltimore, the commission [illegible] lief in Belgium will have eight [illegible] crossing the Atlantic with food [illegible] to feed the Belgians for nearly [illegible] weeks, the commission announ[illegible]

The Kassala carries a cargo of [illegible] valued at $300,000 or more. The [illegible] of the John Hardie, which [illegible] aground at the Virginia capes last [illegible] urday and was taken into Ha[illegible] Roads on Monday, has been dela[illegible] the necessity of a survey to dete[illegible] her seaworthiness.

Under British rule alone there [illegible] more than 325,000,000 dwellers [illegible] tropics.

ZONE VAST E; MISERY IS SED BY COLD

Victims Are Being Rapidly as Re- of Italian Gov- ment Permit.

BY AMERICANS

es Support Early hat Dead Number 0,000 and In- About 40,000.

n. 18 A correspondent agero who has been rough the devastated phs his paper that, ex- zano and number of es, the number of dead 16,000 His estimate of number of dead is 30,000

Jan. 18 The Messaggero there are no fewer than at Pesina and 3,000 at that at Cerchio only ved out of a popula 000. At Mirsi the dead Most all the sur are injured and they ing grievously from d and lack of care

18 Famine and intens to the sufferings of the ttins and slowly increas- death toll Food there is t its transportation to fected is all but impos- of obstructed roads is going ahead feverish- our of delay means death for exhaustion for buried town after town come avation that was too late radually is turning from center of the disturban e atest suffered to small r an almost equal percentage ation was destroyed In far that of Sora late re- that the effect of the earth- were less disastrous than had feared Only 360 of Sora's 17 000 ons appear to have been killed

Early Estimates Confirmed

While train loads of injured continue arrive in Rome additional details of horror come in all tending to con- n earlier estimates of the tendous loss of life Reports in- ate that next to Avezzano the towns it suffered most are Pescina with 00 victims; Paterno with 1,000 dead Gamelino with 600 of its population 000 killed All are near Avezzano. error of possible flood added to suffering from cold exists borhood of the Fucino canal been dammed up by a land- ate of Avezzano Sol- villians are working des- clear the canal Though it ely established that the quake will not rival that 1908 in the number of cent. ge of casualties in the population affected much higher due it e dry constru tion of t was almost universal he stricken district d 76 483 dead and 95 470 ent reports indicate 200 000 twice as many injured in ophe.

Buildings not levelled by this were the few made with concrete ica Vast Cemetery.

severely the Marsica dis- ffered, in which Avezzano is lo- best, told in a terse telegram Monsignor Bagnoli bishop of the region, sent to Pope Benedict ram reads

Marsica diocese has been trans- to a great cemetery Avezzano Paterno razed and almost nts dead Ecclesiatics some wounded villages in the diocese are ut generally desolation an immense and distress- he.'

In reply to this distressing wired the bishops her of all the faithful, but unfortunate I am pierced this immense misfortune my arms to my unhappy am praying for peace for comfort for the sur-nded having been brought Marta hospital, which is Vatican the pope again patients there to comfort h he gave a medal

Comforts Victims.

r Emmanuel and the queen garita, made the rounds ltals in Rome yesterday injured, of whom numbers hourly ican ambassador Thomas will visit the earthquake y or tomorrow The am- agreed with the mayor, na, that the best way for o participate in the relief ms is to do so as private The kind sympathy, gen tact of the Americans, by will not infringe on Italy's decline foreign official as- ugh they will still largely private individuals to al- ring, is causing a profound gratitude car, with the staff from an embassy, visited the district yesterday and wit- work of rescue They saw victims extricated alive ins and also visited the e refugees are centered. such help as they could, eceived gratefully They in- the victims and gained the that there were no Ameri- them, although some are claimed American citizen- had lived in the United time an. 16.—Louis Schonborn, a aguan, who is reputed to d a fortune in the Alaskan was murdered in Bonanza, January 5, according to a d yesterday by police of- were requested to search ves.

ASKAN KILLED; TIVES ARE SOUGHT

RUSSIANS MAKING VIGOROUS ATTACK ON WEST PRUSSIA

Grand Duke Nicholas Hurls New Army Against Germans, Hoping to Relieve Poland.

SOME PROGRESS REPORTED

Violent Fighting Still Continues Along Aisne Where Teutons Have Made Further Advances—Turks Active

London Jan 18 Out of the state of virtual deadlock which for weeks has existed in the east and west there have sprung during the last few days military events of more importance than followers of the war expected at this time They are briefly

The Russian offensive toward new points on the frontiers of east Prussia and Posen the fighting at Soissons, the expected Turkish advance on Egypt and the plans for a renewed attack on Servia by combined Austro-German forces

To the west of Warsaw large German forces are still concentrated but they are gaining little ground and it is thought likely that the fighting which will develop is a result of the new Russian movement may for the time being overshadow the fighting for the Polish capital It is even suggested that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg fell in line along the Bzura and Rawka rivers is about to initiate a fresh movement of German troops either from Thorn or from east Prussia and the new Russian advance to the German frontier is intended to forestall this attempt

Starting on their new year the Russians have commenced a forward movement in northern Poland, on the right bank of the lower Vistula river, and have reached the Skrawa river some 40 miles east of the German fortress of Thorn west Prussia, driving a small force of German cavalry and infantry before them

Vast Russian Army.

It is believed that Grand Duke Nicholas commander in chief of the Russian forces intends to use in this region an entirely new army consisting according to Petrograd dispatches, of from 800 000 to 1 000 000 men operating in conjunction with an army which is advancing in east Prussia.

This army would place the German troops at Mlawa in a vise and at the same time threaten the rear of the Germans in front of Warsaw The latter still are making occasional attacks on the Russian line and, according to a Berlin report have taken a Russian vantage point northeast of the Rawaka river Concede German Victory.

The British press with unusual candor concedes that the Germans were victors in the recent fighting near Soissons remarking that it is a relief from the customary contradictions to find the official communications in agreement on so many important points Military writers, speculating as to the reason for Emperor William's presence at the front during the fighting near Soissons, suggest that General Von Kluck "either requested the emperor to come and inspire enthusiasm among the weary troops, or else felt so sure of his ability to force back the French over the river that he desired to have the emperor witness the victory"

A third theory is that Emperor William is visiting various points along the western front, feeling out the situation with a view to selecting the most likely spot for an attempt to break through in the spring

Still Hope to Take Calais.

Dispatches, reaching London today, assert that the Germans have not abandoned hope of reaching Calais and are planning a new offensive in Belgium and northern France. According to these advices, train after train loaded with troops, is moving into Flanders. With the touch so often added heretofore on the occasion of any approaching holiday or anniversary, these dispatches say that the German soldiers hope to present Calais to Emperor William for a birthday present

Only a small fraction of the British military writers profess to see in the German advance at Soissons any new threat against Paris They pay more attention however to the cumulative indications that the Turks have determined to attempt an invasion of Egypt The general feeling is that any such raid could be checked as the Turks would have to reckon with not only the British troops but with warships, which operating in the Suez canal off Akabah Arabia, and at other points will be able to share in the work of opposing the invaders

Turks to Strike at Egypt.

Aware of the fact that it is less difficult to cross the desert in winter than in summer, the Turks are said to be massing troops with all possible speed south of Syria

Latest advices relative to the prospective Austro-German attack on Servia say that Bavarians and Prussians are on the way to Budapest to effect a junction with the remnants of the four or five Austrian army corps which suffered so severely at the hands of the Servians

FRENCH LOSS OVER 10,000 IN BATTLE NEAR SOISSONS

Berlin (by wireless to Sayville L. I.), Jan 16 The German main army headquarters announces that as a result of the three days' fighting northeast of Soissons about 5,200 prisoners, 14 guns, six machine guns and some revolver guns were captaured.

"The further announcement is made that the French suffered heavy losses, from 4,000 to 5,000 dead French soldiers being found on the battlefield."

REPORTED TURKS PLAN AN ATTACK ON SUEZ GUARDS

London, Jan. 16.—The Cairo correspondent of the Daily News says it is virtually certain that Turkey has decided to make what he terms a rash attempt to invade Egypt German engineers are doing everything possible to overcome the difficulty in moving heavy artillery over the sandy wastes and rocky defiles to cope with the guns guarding the Suez canal he continues. One, at least, of these experiments ended disastrously in the temporary abandonment of large caliber guns in the soft soil.

Girl Wife Seeks Divorce From Preacher With Too Many Wives

DORIS VAUGHN DARNELL AND REV. JAMES MORRISON DARNELL (PHOTOGRAPHED SINCE HIS EXPOSURE.)

Following the sensational disclosures concerning the dual life of the Rev James Morrison Darnell of Kenosha Wis Mrs Doris Vaughn Darnell his 17-year-old bride has brought divorce proceedings At first she declared she would remain faithful to him but later decided to sue

Darnell's exposure came when his child wife refused to remain away from him She insisted that she join him at Kenosha Then Ruth Sopet Darnell and her baby who is supposed to have been his wife was bundled up and sent to her home in Owatonna Minn Another woman Ethel Spurgeon Darnell a telephone operator at Avon Ill says she was married to the young pulpit orator in Chicago three years ago

TO STAND BY TWO BATTLESHIP PLAN

Small Craft Good For Coast Defenses, But Not For Maintaining Control of the High Seas.

Washington Jan 16 Informally reporting the $148,000 000 naval bill to the House today the naval committee said that "while in the European war the submarine has been effective in harbor and coast defense, it has not been able to control the sea as the superior battleship fleet has done, causing an enemy with an inferior battleship fleet to suffer great loss of merchant ships blockading its ports and driving its commerce off the seas"

The committee reported that therefore the two battleship program had not been changed It added that the "effectiveness of the submarine in the European war demonstrated it to be a naval weapon of great value" and that the airship for scouting purposes, likewise has demonstrated its effectiveness.

The bill probably will be reached for debate about February 1 It carries an increase of $8,492 006 in the building program over what the navy department recommends.

The committee commended Secretary Daniels for economies, strongly endorsed the proposed new office of chief of operators and urged the provision for creating a naval reserve which would provide 25,000 trained men within a few years. "The organization of a naval reserve is necessary to the adequate defense of the country, said the committee.

QUEEN CONSENTS TO MARRIAGE BY PROXY

Wilhelmina Aids Cupid's Little Game and Ceremony Will Be Performed.

St Louis Jan 18—Papers authorizing the marriage by proxy of Miss Eugenia Campbell of Denver, Colo., and John Pieter Scholten, a mining engineer living in Sourbaya, Java, were signed today by Dr J J Houwink, Dutch consul here Scholten is a reserve officer in the Dutch army.

Miss Campbell has been trying for eight months to get permission to marry Mr Scholten by proxy. The subject finally was carried to Queen Wilhelmina.

The wedding will take place next Wednesday. Miss Campbell will stand at the altar in Denver with Harvey Duell, a Denver newspaperman, who will be bridegroom by proxy. During the ceremony Mr Duell will hand the bride a glove sent by the bridegroom.

Miss Campbell is the granddaughter of Alexander Campbell, founder of the Church of the Disciples.

Although Turkey opened hostilities against Russia by a naval bombardment, her sea strength is not at all formidable Turkey has about four dreadnoughts, three cruisers and a number of old battleships of obsolete type. Recently Turkey strengthened her navy by the acquisition of the German ships, the Goeben and the Breslau.

MEAT PACKERS MAY STOP ALL EXPORTS

Threaten to Drop Foreign Business Unless Shipping Situation Clears.

Washington Jan 18 American meat packers unwilling longer to stand losses inflicted upon them by Great Britain's detention of ships carrying meat in their cargoes are sending a representative to London to see what can be done A R Urion attorney for Armour & Co, went to New York this afternoon with a view to reaching London as speedily as possible

Unless some arrangement can be made whereby ships carrying meat are allowed to proceed without appreciable loss of time there is a probability of the packers withdrawing from the business of supplying Great Britain or any other part of Europe with meat

CONQUERORS TREATED WITH COLD DISDAIN

Germans In Belgium Given "Silent Treatment" By Inhabitants of Country.

Brussels, Jan. 6. (by mail)—The "silent treatment" of the German landsturm in this city by the Belgian people, is one of the most striking features of the situation here It is spreading even to the children who turn their heads away or cross the street whenever they see a German soldier approaching.

If a soldier enters a shop the Belgians either quit the building or move away as far as possible If one of the landsturm enters a street car the Belgians leave, or else turn their eyes away There are no words of greeting, no smiles not the slightest look of recognition that the soldier is a human being

Whether this is having any effect on the soldiers is not certain but an American, who, today stopped a fine looking German soldier who was off duty and talked with him, was surprised at what he heard

"You are the first person who has spoken a civil word to me in this town for a month," said the soldier

EYES OF NATION CENTER ON WASHINGTON DRY FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—Letters and telgrams from Iowa and other states in behalf of prohibition in the district of Columbia are pouring into the capital today. They are coming from various temperance organizations and friends of prohibition. Senator Sheppard declared the movement to make the district "dry" had become national and even though defeated now would soon succeed

In the district prohibition debate today when Senator James Sprung a letter of President Wilson dated 1911 for local option, Senator Kenyon responded by putting into the record the latest Commoner editorial by Secretary Bryan. In this Mr Bryan strongly denounced further alliance between the democratic party and liquor interests.

All of Switzerland's glaciers are receding perceptibly one notable one having shrunk more than 1,000 feet in the last 10 years

WHEAT SLUMPS AS PRESIDENT ORDERS FEDERAL INQUIRY

Prices Drop Five Cents Per Bushel, Later Making Partial Recovery—Gregory Begins Investigation.

MAY DECLARE AN EMBARGO

Wilson Calls Upon Cabinet Heads For Detailed Information Concerning Food Supply.

Washington, Jan 18 -The demand that the government take action to prevent illegal boosting of flour and wheat prices and even to lay an embargo on foodstuff is getting more serious

Under orders from the president the department of justice is probing to find evidence of law breaking in the skyrocketing of wheat prices A small army of special agents are busy

The department of agriculture answering demands in the House is preparing to furnish statements showing the available grain and food supply of the country If a serious shortage is shown there is no doubt the movement for an embargo will become strong

The department of commerce will be asked by the president to furnish information showing what decrease or increase in exports of wheat and flour followed the outbreak of the European war

Chicago Jan 16 Wheat dropped 5 cents in the first 15 minutes of today's session of the board of trade on reports that a congressional movement was on foot to prohibit exports May wheat which closed at $1 45 yesterday sold down to $1 40

For a brief time trading assumed an almost panicky aspect A storm of stop loss orders from ill protected bulls came on the market and found the pit temporarily without buyers At the extreme decline several of the larger houses began to purchase on a liberal scale The result was a quick rally, but only to about half the extent of the break When comparative calm had been restored the May option was steadying around $1 42½

In the later dealings generous export sales here and at the seaboard including considerable amounts for ocean shipment in March put relative firmness into the market The close, nevertheless was unsettled at 2⅛@2⅜c under last night with May at $1 41⅝

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE KEEPING EYE ON MARKET

Washington Jan 16 Prompt prosecutions will follow the discovery of any evidences of illegal combinations back of the recent increases in the cost of wheat and flour Attorney General Gregory said last night He added that the instructions sent to all United States district attorneys at the direction of President Wilson following the increase in food prices after the outbreak of the European war still stood and that the latest developments in the situation would be closely followed

Mr Gregory said that the federal investigation into the flour and wheat situation being carried on in Chicago was in accordance with the instructions from the department of justice Up to the present however he had received no information that illegal practices had been resorted to

The suggestion of Mrs Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league to President Wilson that an embargo on the exportation of wheat from the United States be imposed if the prices continued to go up was laid before the president but no action was taken

WARNING NOTE SENT CARRANZA OFFICIALS

Bryan's Message About Oil Embargo Causes Flutter In Mexican Circles.

Washington D C, Jan. 16—Secretary Bryan's warning to the constitutionalists to refrain from interference with the oil producing plants near Tampico, Mex caused a flutter in the local Mexican agencies.

At Carranza headquarters it was contended that the foreign oil producers in the Tampico district have involved themselves in trouble because about two months ago they had withheld the taxes on production they had been paying to the Carranza government in the belief that Villa would soon be in possession of the place

Enrique C Llorente, head of the Villa agency said he was authorized to state that the Carranza government would respect all concessions granted by all previous constitutional governments in Mexico and would restore any properties confiscated

The oil situation was discussed by representatives of General Carranza with Secretary Bryan and the British ambassador

While the state department has no official notice that the Mexico City convention has determined to continue President Gutierrez in office until December 31 one dispatch disclosed a plan by Zapata delegates for that purpose which would hold Gutierrez and all his acts completely under the orders of the convention.

The official dispatches are all three days old

TWO YOUNG BURGLARS MAY DIE FOR MURDER

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 16.—Two youthful burglars probably will be hanged for, the murder of William Alexander, retired millionaire attorney, of Dallas, Tex., who was shot in his home here on the night of December 21

Charles T Oxnam, 17 years old, fired the fatal shot, but a jury yesterday convicted his companion in the burglary, Glenn Witt, 23 years old, of murder in the first degree, so he, as well as Oxnam must lose his life unless repricved

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

LARGE SOUTH AFRICA SNAKES

In Swaziland, According to Traveler, the Reptiles Grow to a Really Amazing Size.

The largest snakes in the world, so far as I know, are to be found in South Africa, though I am told that there is a species of python in South America that equals in size the rock snake in the low country of Swaziland, writes Temple Manning. Near Johannesburg two or three years ago a hunter and just come in with four snakes which he had captured alive and he and his kafir servants were engaged in measuring them. The longest measured a few inches less than twenty feet and was 24 inches in circumference, and the smallest was 11 feet in length and 12 inches in circumference

In order to get photographs we tied the head of the snakes to pegs set in the ground and then, stretching the tails back as far as we were able, had the kafirs hold them—a job that they were loth to undertake, as they have no liking for the reptiles, though they hunt them fearlessly.

The snakes are not poisonous, and do not bite Of course, with their tremendous powers of constriction they could squeeze a man to death in a minute or two, but they never attack a man and only fight in self-defense. The hunter got 14 gallons of oil from his catch worth about fifteen pounds nearly seventy-five dollars in our money

Napoleonic Ruse.

There have been rumors of German flat-bottomed boats at Zeebrugge for the invasion of England It is timely to recall that Admiral Montagu reported about Napoleon's flat bottomed boats after he had captured one of them. "In short, sir, these vessels to my mind are completely contemptible and ridiculous, and I therefore conclude that the number collected at Boulogne are to keep our attention on the qui vive and to gloss over the real attack meditated from other points." If Napoleon ever seriously contemplated subduing England by means of these craft, the admiral would have agreed with the Parisian wits, who dubbed their emperor "Don Quixote de la Manche"—London Chronicle

New Tautologies.

"That proposition is self-evident," said W P Hutchinson, the Japanese consul at Mobile, in the course of a military argument. "It is so self-evident as to be almost tautological

"A boy," he added, smiling, 'asked his father the other day what tautology meant

"'Tautology, son,' the father answered, 'is any such phrase as broken resolution," "indicted director," "poor author," "generous magazine editor' or "retiring Austrians"'"

On the Rocks.

Robinson—I hear you fell out with the bank.

Jackson—Yes; but I lost my balance.

An Ohio Druggist

Wm. Vogel, 867 May St., Akron, Ohio, writes:

"Through cold and exposure and improper food during the flood, I was taken with appendicitis and acute intestinal catarrh. In June and July my life was despaired of, but recovered sufficiently to be up and around. My bowels seemed paralyzed. Could eat no solid food.

"The first of last December I decided to try Peruna. My appetite improved, and very soon solid foods could be taken. In two months time I gained 18 pounds. Now I am heavier than I ever was before. When I began to use Peruna my bowels commenced to move at once."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna in Tablet form.

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to assure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited

All work attended to promptly and carefully

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Try a Times Want Ad.

THE [illegible] TIMES

M M Magner

Publi[illegible] Thursday at [illegible] w

Subscription [illegible] year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

SEEKING IDEAL LOCATION IS FOLLY; OUR TOWN GOOD AS ANY

(By "Observer.")

A man by whom I was once employed said: "When I was in school I heard a lecture entitled 'Stay Where You Are,' and practically all my boyhood friends who decided to take the lecturer's advice and remain in the old home town are now well off, while I have been in business at several places and have made very slow progress."

It seems to me there is a lesson in this for a number of our young people that I have talked with in the last year. Probably it is natural for them, at their time of life, to overlook the opportunities which lie near at hand, but the tendency should be guarded against. Remember that distant hills are never as green as they appear. Forget the disadvantages of your home town, nome state or the part of the country where you are now located.

And above all, don't get the ideal climate craze. The chances are all in favor of the assumption that we have just as good climate right here as there is anywhere, and if you go chasing over the earth after something better, you will simply waste your time and money. You may find places where they have more sunshine than we do, but they also have earthquakes or malaria, or some such item on the wrong side of the ledger You may find a place where they have more rainfall to keep the landscape looking better and make heavier crops, but they also "enjoy" thunderstorms that would frighten a statue, and visitations of lightning to destroy life and property. You may find a climate that is mild and equable all the year around, but on the other [illegible] that few [illegible] hear, of course, about more wonderful lands than ours, but you don't hear of the rainy season, the chigger, the hookworm and other features of life there.

But if you should feel yourself succumbing to the siren song of some promoter, you can save yourself much grief by going personally to look over the prospect before breaking away from lifelong ties. When you do so, take my word for it, all the inhabitants of the place, if you point out to them the disadvantages of their locality as to climate, soil, markets, society or what not, will be sure to say "Well, the conditions just now are very exceptional; it is not often like this." I've heard that everywhere I've been. But don't be deceived. These people mean well, but they have lived with their disadvantages so long they don't notice them until they are pointed out by some visitor

As far as I can judge, this town is just as desirable a place to live as any other We have the good and the bad—so does every town. Don't say, 'This is the worst town in the state for gossip" That simply shows you don't know the other towns in this state Any town or city [illegible] small, has just about so much gossip to the cubic inch Don't complain of narrow mind[illegible]ss and wish you could move away to escape it. You can't very well escape i The best we can do is to keep our mind clear from prejudices and so set a good example for our neighbors. That should keep us pretty busy.

THE LETTER

All day mother listened for the postman's ring.

She was expecting a letter from her boy.

When he had left home to take his new job in the distant city, to begin for himself the battle with life to which all mothers must one day send their sons, send them with a smile to hide the bitter tears, he had promised faithfully that he would write—write regularly and often.

At first he did. He was homesick then. Alone in the little room at night, his soul poured forth in volumes to the loved ones he had left behind. But by and by new friendships formed, new interests drew him on and the letters home became fewer and briefer.

Not that he meant to be neglectful, cruel. Deep in his heart the love for mother and kin remained fine and strong. But he was a man, now; and men are prone to be careless about such things—men have never known, can never know, how the mother's heart yearns.

So simple a thing is a letter; so easy to write, so inexpensive to mail!

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 18—Daniel Webster born, 1782.

Tuesday, 19—Patent for trolley car issued, 1892.

Wednesday, 20—First English parliament, 1265.

Thursday, 21—Small pox scare and vaccination, 1799.

Friday, 22—Panama canal treaty signed, 1903.

Saturday, 23—Alliance formed between England, Spain and Sweden, 1668.

Sunday, 24—Gold discovered in California, 1848.

Cleaning With Salt

Did you know that salt, the plain kitchen variety of salt, is excellent for cleaning boys' or mens' clothes, cloth coats or dresses and skirts? Crush the salt with a rolling pin and run it through a wire sieve to remove lumps; then, after laying the garment flat on a table, sprinkle a light layer of salt over it.

Use a fair sized piece of clean white linen, a large handkerchief serves nicely, folded into a pad of convenient size to rub the salt into the garment. Rub only one way of the goods with the nap, not against it, rubbing with long even strokes. When thoroughly covered, shake the salt off, then with a stiff brush go over the garment to remove all superfluous salt.—New York Telegram.

AN INVESTMENT

The best investment you can make today, if you haven't already made it, is a pair of rubbers.

The next best is a cake of soap.

Feet that are clean and dry prevent colds.

It's odd how sensitive the feet are to moisture. Your face, your hair, most of your body can be dripping, and a brisk rubbing with a coarse towel will ward off all ill effects.

But let your feet get wet, and, even though you quickly dry and warm them, the chances are you will soon be sneezing.

A general who wants to keep his soldiers in fighting trim makes care of the feet a prime essential. Armies on practice hikes sometimes pass [illegible] shoes may [illegible] but [illegible] be "[illegible]

[illegible] cost of a new pair of [illegible] [illegible] that a special [illegible]

Be careful therefore, that the youngsters don't leave for school with shoes that [illegible]

WHEN THE EDITOR GETS MAD

A Kansas paper says: Down in Kansas City, Kan. Saturday, they kept pecking away at J B. Hipple, the editor of the Press, until they got him mad The chief of police came in and took a poke at Mr. Hipple early in the day and Hipple let it pass. Then when he went on the street several disappointed candidates began to take pokes at him—so finally he just lost his patience—clean lost it. He broke the arm of the county auditor, knocked another candidate down the court house steps and later in the day whaled a brawny blacksmith, who hadn't heard that Mr. Hipple had lost his temper. It takes a lot to make an editor mad but it can be done if one cares to take the time.

No Vacuums in the Household.

"I could [illegible] you our new [illegible] the night [illegible] so women is [illegible] clean," snapped the hard-faced wo[illegible] as she slammed the door.

[illegible] on

A gentleman [illegible] approached the [illegible] and asked [illegible] me see some ladies' hosiery." The floorman was astonished to hear the clerk reply "Do you want it for your wife or something more expensive?"

Mr. Stubb's Mean Warning.

"One-half of the women in this world retail gossip," remarked Mr. Stubb, as he lit his after-supper cigar. "Quite considerate of you not to say all of them is all gossip," snapped Mrs Stubb, as she washed the dishes "Oh no, only half, Maria. The other half wholesale it."

Daily Thought.

Nature, purity, perspicuity, simplicity never walk in the clouds. They are obvious to all capacities, and where they are not evident they don't exist.—Voltaire.

Painless Death.

On one occasion a well-known public man described the act of dying as "a great adventure that must be much more interesting than setting out for the north pole." While few will agree with him, it is a great thing to know that science has robbed death of its terrors, and has taught us that no matter how much a dying person may appear to be suffering, he or she, immediately before death, can feel no pain whatever.

Side-Step Danger

YOU may save three or four dollars by delaying buying that pair of good, waterproof shoes, but the delay may later you twenty-five dollars in dope for colds.

This Is the Season

of the year when every man woman and should be well shod. A wet or damp summer may mean little, but it courts in the winter time.

If any member of your family is along with a shoe that leaks, come in and our mammoth line of new footwear. I my stock before the advance in price and can save you money.

Frank Gruetzmac

We wish all our friends and pa

A Happy and Prosperous New Y

A. KIRKWOOD & S

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and pr
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kuckhohn, Pro

Coal Hauling Done

Costs but a [illegible] let us prove to [illegible] money back. [illegible]

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOH
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me

If you wish to buy ask me about some good farms.

W. F. PAVE
THE PRACTICAL BLACKSMI

General Jobbing and Repairing

Horse Shoeing in all its branches. Carriage W Plow Work a Specialty.

Corona Wool Fat For Sale. A Gu With Every Can.

DON'T FORGE

This store when you need anything in the line of Hards Farm Implements. Full line of Heaters, Cook Store Ranges. The best makes in Farm Machinery. W also handle the best Paints, Oils and Varnish.

Groceries, Flour and Fe

Our prices are right. You are invited to call.

GRUETZMACHER B

[illegible] TIMES

[illegible] by Our Own Special Correspondents

HAYFIELD ITEMS

Laurence Torkelson has employed Joe Fred Gus Schultz and Wm Cambelly to assist him [illegible] hay

Mr. M. A. Agnew returned Saturday, from a business trip to Buffalo Center

J. J Brown of Minneapolis was a business visitor here, Saturday, his daughter and sister were accompanying him

Geo Newman had a try-out at bronco busting, Tuesday When George emerged from the fray the rear of the buggy was still intact

Peter Jensen and Laureece Torkelson, two local mat artists had a best two out of three wrestle, Saturday evening Torkelson coming out victorious.

The blizzard of Saturday placed all restrictions on business here Business men were long while others were longer

[illegible] Wednesday, his family to [illegible]

The Brotherhood of America in Yorkmouth met Tuesday evening, January 15th and installed officers

The Hayfield Concert Band gave a concert at the Center School last Saturday evening.

Jack Sullivan was a solemn but pleasant caller at the M. Johnson home, Sunday evening. Why, Jack?

L. Larson of San Juan, Texas, was a business visitor here Saturday, in the interests of Rio Grande Valley lands.

There was a good attendance at the Literary Friday evening On account of the expected revivals it was decided to postpone the next session until January 29th

On Saturday morning the Klondike dragged in at 11:00 o'clock a. m., only four hours behind time. A fiery light shown in eyes of the conductor as he shouted "all aboard" before the train had fairly stopped. A few commercial countenances glared reproachfully from the frosty windows of the "crummy car"; Oscar gestured wildly at the hog head who responded with two faint blasts of the whistle, and they were off for Hayfield Jdt. with the customary way freight, a few old empty boxes, gentle reminders of by gone time, traveling on their long, weary way back to John Gund,

AVERY CENTER

Mr. and Mrs. L. J Bugman were Belmond callers Wednesday evening

[illegible] telephoning [illegible] Sunday [illegible] cents.

[illegible] and [illegible] on have been on the sick list [illegible] week.

Sister Rock [illegible] Margret Fitz Patrick have been visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. George Buseman, for the past couple of weeks

Bessie Quiggley spent Sunday at the home of her parents, near Goodhill

Ray Wilkins who has been suffering from a severe attack of blood-poison in his left hand, is improving.

Nettie Bachman spent Sunday at her home

Albert Brugman from near Belmond is spending a few days at the home of his brother, Bud.

Quite a number from this vicinity attended the masquerade Thursday evening, a good time was reported.

Nellie Gregg who has been sick for the past few weeks is quite well again

GOODELL

[illegible] and Ya[illegible] [illegible] hours ay was [illegible] ly callers [illegible] to his native country [illegible] his missionary work

[illegible] Wesenberg and Frank [illegible] Garner, on business, Monday

Bert Butcher [illegible] Belmond visited his parents here, Saturday

Miss Elizabeth Bond from Belmond was a business caller here, Thursday.

The Y. P. choir went out to the school taught by Miss Vida Houghton on Tuesday and furnished several selections for a program at a basket social.

There will be a dance here Friday night January 22, a good time is anticipated.

In the Darkest Hour.

When weary life, breathing reluctant breath, hath no hope sweeter than the hope of death; then the best counsel and the best relief to cheer the spirit or to cheat the grief, the only calm, the only comfort heard, comes in the music of a woman's word.—Edwin Arnold.

"Newly Discovered Evidence."

"And here is some further evidence." "Better bury that. We'll leave that to be discovered if the trial goes against us."—Kansas City Journal

That Cynic Again.

The cynic believes the bonds of matrimony would be more popular if they paid cash dividends.

ort Course Program

lemme, Iowa, January 25th to 30th

NDAY
anization and regis-

.—Horse judging.
horse conformation
the most common good draft horse
ound animals.
Farm management.
use of better busi-
Iowa farms, involv-
n of fields, farm ac-
tures and meadows,
and credits.
.—Farm buildings.
d erecting of farm
rn cribs, hog and nd machine sheds to nient, durable and

TUESDAY
—Rope work.
m.—Horse judging
four draft geldings
ed and students will their placing.
m.—Modern silo con-
lue of silage to farm sentials of a s kinds of silos a
ics. The testing making of corn s en sons on breeding, ating

.—The modern farm
dern farm house with es which make life
nt and effective. Water heating systems, gas and elec-lighting plants, power for the household machines, refrigeration, garding the water supply and ry disposal of sewage. (Illuswith lantern slides.)
-3:00 p. m.—Horse judging of three or four draft mares of breed. Class will be placed from type standpoint.
-4:00 p. m.—Corn study. Prac-n judging samples, discussions of seed bed, planting

—The use of concrete.
he essentials of good use of steel for reinforcement. The construction of concrete feeding floors, troughs, tanks, foundations, walks, fence posts, etc.

WEDNESDAY

8:00-9:00 a. m.—Rope work.

9:00-10:30 a. m.—Dairy cattle judging. Class of three or four dairy cows. Lecture on dairy type and its relation to production. Testing dairy herds.

10:30-12:00 a. m.—Alfalfa and clovers. Discussion of best methods of seeding, soil, seed bed, and use in rotations.

1:00-2:00 p. m.—Lecture on care, feeding and management of milk cows.

2:00-3:00 p. m.—Sheep judging. Class of three or four mutton wethers or ewes. Lecture on sheep management and feeding.

3:00-4:00 p. m.—Small grain study. Study with samples of improvement by treating, grading, rate of seeding, and using better varieties.

4:00-5:00 p. m.—Soils. Testing soil for acidity, use of lime, drainage and humus.

THURSDAY

8:00-9:00 a. m.—Rope work.

9:00-10:30 a. m.—Beef cattle judging. Class of 3 or 4 beef cows and heifers. Lecture on beef type and market classes of beef cattle.

10:30-12:00 a. m.—Soils. Discussion of rotation of crops, use and care of manure.

1:00-2:30 p. m.—Hog judging. Class of 3 or 4 breeding hogs. Discussion of care, feeding, and management of hogs.

2:30-4:00 p. m.—Advantages and disadvantages of hogging down corn.

The above program will be followed closely. It is urged that classes be attended promptly so that no time will be lost.

Domestic Science Program

Monday A. M.—No work for classes.

2 P. M. Study of foods to suit age, occupation, climate and condition of [illegible] children. Demonstration: table setting.

Tuesday, A. M. Muscle building foods. Demonstration puddings, omelets.

2 P. M. Fuel foods. Demonstration: cooking of starchy foods.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Study of vegetables: Their choice and value in diet. Demonstration: cooking of vegetables.

[illegible]

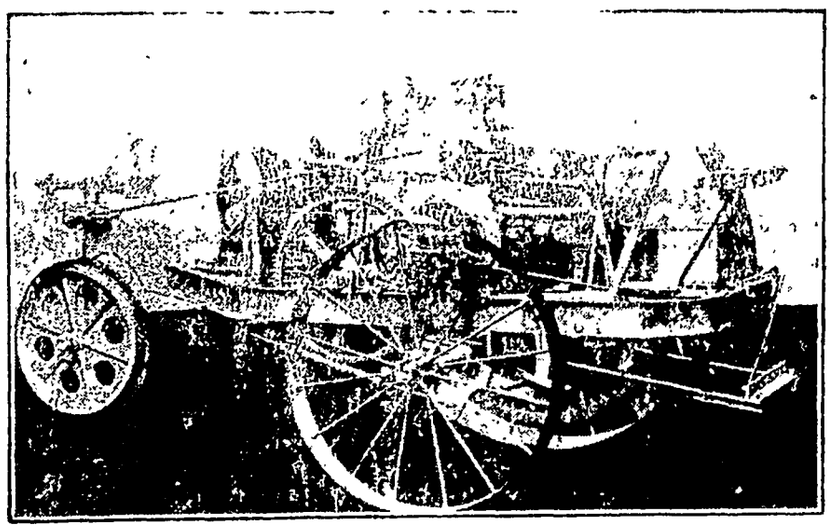
Thursday, 9 A. M. Study of cereals in diet. Special emphasis. Methods of cooking. Demonstration: cooking of meat.

2 P. M. Bread making. Study of yeast, baking powder and bread scored. Demonstration: test baking powder and soda bread.

Friday, 9 A. M.—Practical Dietetics. Demonstration: foods for special cases.

2 P. M. Home care of sick. Emergencies, disinfectants. Demonstration: bed making and arranging linen. Personal hygiene.

This does not include all of the Home Economics program. Besides the above there will be numerous demonstrations and other helpful articles which will interest the ladies.



ATTENTION EVERYONE!!

$405.00

We have a deal for those who want to Buy an engine or tractor. We will take for the Bull Tractor at $405. including freight to Klemme, [illegible] to be given the first of February 1915. You must act at once. Give us a check for one hundred dollars and set the date when you want the tractor, and pay the balance when the tractor arrives here this is an engine and tractor that is worth $500. to any one. It has 12 to 16 horse power in the belt, and will pull your grinder, also many other articles. It is a dandy and just the thing to pull heavy loads with.

Henry Lau & Son

Klemme, - - Iowa

A Good Hearted Man

By SAMUEL E. BRANT

When Sam Tolliver came out west he was much run down. I took him into my store more from sympathy than anything else. I paid him a small salary. He was a good enough worker [illegible] attentive to business. But it wasn't long before I saw that Sam wouldn't prosper in my service any more than in his own. He had a failing, a heart that was altogether too tender.

He didn't spend any more on himself than he should, but he spent a good deal more on other persons. All any one had to do was to tell him a tale of woe, [illegible] and out would come any funds there might be at the bottom of it. One day on returning from an absence I found several dozens of baskets on the floor of the store. I asked Sam where they had come from, and he said that a peddler had come along and offered him the lot so cheap that he didn't dare to refuse to buy them for fear I would turn him away for a fool.

He had paid more than they were worth, and I knew I was stuck with them. I wouldn't have minded the transaction if I had had room for the bulky baskets. I learned afterward that the peddler had told Sam a sick wife and hard luck story about a sick wife and seven small children with nothing to eat in the house.

I suppose I must be a trifle soft-kneed myself in such matters, for I let getting rid of Sam at once. [illegible] off such persons as could not pay for their goods, but I complained much of Sam when they came in with pitiful tales of needing a pound of sugar or coffee, a dozen candles and many other articles from trusting them for the goods. Finally I made a list of persons on no account to be trusted and hung it up in the office telling Sam that if he gave any one of them credit the amount should be charged up against him and deducted from his salary.

Nevertheless, despite the list and the warning, Sam kept on giving out goods to those on the blacklist. When a woman couldn't move him in any other way she would bring in a hungry looking child or two. This was sure to break the thin shell about his heart. It wasn't long before these accounts amounted to more than would pay my clerk's salary for a year. At the end of the first month his salary was balanced by bad debts he had made. I told him on his promise to do better that I would let him off for thirty days more, when if he had reformed I would surely deduct my outstanding accounts from his pay.

One day, when the charges for bad debts against him had grown very large, a very pretty, tidily dressed young woman came into the store and asked if I [illegible] working for me. [illegible] her that I had, but [illegible] dinner. Then she asked [illegible] thus: "Don't you know [illegible] all the [illegible] an adult [illegible] debts, and I was mad. I told her that he would get on well enough if he would obey orders, and I explained what he was doing for me.

The young woman listened till I had finished, then asked me the amount charged up against Sam. I looked at the amount in the ledger and gave it to her. It was $3.472.49. What did she do but take out a pocket check book and write me a check for the amount and accept an assignment of my claim against Sam.

"You're to say nothing to Sam about this," she said, handing me the check.

"Thank you, ma'am," I replied. "Mum's the word."

When Sam came back from dinner the lady was gone. The next morning he didn't show up. I then wondered what the young lady wanted to buy my claim for, and was very sorry I had sold it to her without knowing. Then it occurred to me that she might be some one that Sam had jilted or something like that, and I fancied she had come down on him for payment and driven him out of town.

Just as I was shutting up Sam came in in fine spirits, saying that he had received a letter from the east notifying him that somebody had died and left him some money. He asked me what was the amount of the bad debts that were charged up against him, and when I told him, gave me a draft on the attorneys for the amount. Before I thought of my promise to the young woman I told him that the indebtedness had been paid that morning.

I expected him to look pleased, but instead he looked puzzled. He asked me to show him the check I had received, and when he saw the signature he looked up at me like a schoolboy whose sweetheart had done his sums for him unknown to him.

All Sam told me then was that the young woman was an old flame of his; then he went out to find her. The next day he came into the store with her and told me they had been married. It was the girl who had come into a fortune, and, since she couldn't enjoy it without Sam, she had hunted him up. I was obliged to part with my tender hearted clerk, [illegible] after all been stuck only with [illegible] baskets he had bought. I saved [illegible] by his young [illegible] of the [illegible] and unfort[illegible] in [illegible]

A MISSING LETTER

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

My wife, who is predisposed to auctions, was perambulating the street one day when she came to a dwelling with a red flag at the door. She went in and bought a small library of books. It was brought home [illegible] family collection. My wife [illegible] the books one by one and dusted them all, giving each a cursory examination. Between the leaves of one of them was a letter, sealed and stamped, addressed to James Overaker, in a neighboring city, which had not been mailed.

I was appealed to for an opinion as to what should be done with it. I advised that it be taken to the house from which it had come. This was done, but the place was deserted. I then advised sending it on its way through the mail, but since it might be lost I wrote our address on the upper left hand corner. In a week it was returned. My wife then insisted on making a dead letter office of ourselves, opening the letter, learning the address of the sender and returning it to her. I say her for the address had been written in a feminine hand.

Before I could stop my wife she had opened and read the letter.

"The brute!" she exclaimed, handing the letter to me.

The writer was evidently [illegible] young girl who had had a spat with her lover and either had sent [illegible] had left her of his own [illegible] he wrote that he was [illegible] of their separation and [illegible] to ask the [illegible] to come back. I [illegible] a good [illegible] so.

It looks to me, I said, [illegible] She is the mischief maker [illegible] I wonder if she didn't [illegible] trouble in the first place."

"What makes you think that?" asked my wife.

"My most cogent reason is your finding the letter in the book. Evidently the writer was bent on posting it, but was unable to withstand Sue's influence. It was laid away for consideration as to whether it should be mailed or not—and never mailed."

"I am going to send it back to the poor girl and advise her to send it. No man could resist such an appeal."

"Send it to her without the advice."

The letter was inclosed in an envelope addressed to the location given, which was the house where the books had been bought, with a statement of its finding. I inferred that the postmaster had been advised of the new address and would deliver the letter accordingly. I was right. In due time a letter came from the writer of the one returned thanking me for sending it. Her name was Winifred [illegible] she signed her full [illegible] Marbury. She said [illegible] posed the letter had been [illegible] or in Sue's fountain [illegible] put it for her, but had [illegible] so thankful she [illegible] been forgotten.

I [illegible] dexterously.

"No one can doubt the poor [illegible] artlessness.

I do not doubt that she is [illegible] fiding than bright. This Sue instead of posting the letter, hid it in the book. Her explanation is a falsehood."

"I wonder if that is so? I'll write back and tell the Winifred Marbury that she has been duped."

"She'll not believe you. If you wish to do some altruistic work find the man and tell him to find the woman."

"What woman?"

"Sue."

"Explain."

"Tell him to get his girl from under Sue's influence. No, it's no business of yours. Send him the correspondence. If he is too stupid to perceive where the trouble lies he is no loss to any girl."

This got me into trouble. My wife started me on a hunt for the lover. I finally secured his address, and my wife mailed him the correspondence, including a copy of the original letter. The very next day the gentleman called on my wife when I was at business to thank her for having interested herself in the matter. He told her that he had been wavering between the two cousins, though he really wished Winifred. He was convinced that Sue had acted [illegible] in the matter, and he was sure he could convince Winifred of the truth.

Doubtless if he had seen me instead of his sympathetic wife he would have confined himself to thanks.

"You men," she said to me, "are brutally unsympathetic. If it had not been for me these lovers would have never been reunited."

"If it had not been for my discretion," I replied, "they would have been further apart than ever. Sue would have got the fellow, and you would have been hopelessly mixed up in it."

"Not at all. If I had had my way the matter would have been settled long ago."

I am not in the habit of holding a prolonged argument with my wife, for I consider myself incapable of breaking down her logic. I therefore made no reply to her last statement. When cards came to the wedding she said to me:

"That couple whom I reunited are going to be married. We're invited to the wedding."

"Indeed," I replied. "When does it come off?"

Next week.

Brought To Terms

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Mr. Wackerly?"

"At your service, sir."

"I have a case for you if you care to take it."

"I must first know what it is."

"I have been sued for a breach of promise to marry."

"H'm! I do not usually have anything to do with such cases. Are you prepared to pay a large fee?"

"About a dollar. I think I have $1.67, the sum total of my assets."

The lawyer looked at the man with an amused surprise.

"You will get a good fee, however," continued the other.

"From whom?"

"The plaintiff."

"The plaintiff?"

"Yes, sir, the plaintiff will pay you liberally. The case will be settled out of court."

"Explain."

"Did you ever ride a horse used to a mountain trail? No? Well, if you had you would know that you must give him his head or both you and he will come to grief."

"I see."

"Women are peculiar. If one man [illegible] age one of that sex two men can't. The British government has found that out."

Just so. I will take your case. Mr [illegible] Skinner [illegible] Mr. Wackerly, and [illegible] to be copied by [illegible] of you to [illegible] it, took a pen [illegible] Skinner dictated [illegible] Mr. Reuben Sco[illegible] [illegible] Mr. [illegible] of promise of marriage has [illegible] case in my hands and desires me [illegible] to you that he will spend his [illegible] in defending it. I am your obedient servant.

HOWARD WACKERLY,
Attorney-at-Law.

"No need, I suppose," said the lawyer "to mention the $1.67?"

Mr. Skinner smiled and admitted there was not; then he departed. The next morning but one he called at Mr. Wackerly's office and asked if a reply had come to the letter dictated by that gentleman. Mr. Wackerly handed him one that had just come in by post. It read:

Please tell Mr. Skinner that had he treated me with proper courtesy I would have shrunk from bringing this case to the public. As it is I shall spend my entire fortune, if necessary, in showing him up before the world.

Mr. Skinner dictated the following reply:

My client desires me to say in reply to your favor received this morning to say that [illegible] left off to [illegible] men at the [illegible] or in a position [illegible] for trespassing further [illegible] at direction.

Before leaving the office Mr. Skinner wrote the initials of two men on [illegible] of paper and handed it to Mr. [illegible] requesting you to make [illegible] You will then [illegible] to [illegible] letters on this [illegible] of the lawyer a [illegible] paper which he had written [illegible] ters "W. C. A." and "H. K. I." Mr. Wackerly looked up from it and asked:

"Have you proof?"

"No, but I know that she has gone far enough with each one of these men to be engaged to him. I know that she engaged herself to me, and without warning, to get ahead of my rivals, I wrote her breaking our engagement. In her indignation she threatened to sue me for breach of promise."

"You are playing a bold game."

A request for the names of those to whom she was accused of engaging herself came, and the initials were forwarded. Another letter came which read as follows:

I pronounce the accusation false, but you will please say to Mr. Skinner that he had no business to assume that I would sue him for breach of promise just because I threatened to do so. You need concern yourself no further with this case, because I have no intention of suing Mr. Skinner and never had any such intention. I do not consider him of the slightest importance and would not marry him if he were the only man on earth.

"That's all right," said Mr. Skinner. "Write her that she can't withdraw the case without paying the costs and my indebtedness to you for your professional advice."

"Since the lady has not sued you there are no costs. And, as for my professional advice, I have given you none."

"That doesn't matter. The lady doesn't know anything about law, and she wouldn't ask any one's advice."

"What shall I make the bill?"

"Ten thousand dollars."

The lawyer laughed, but Mr. Skinner before leaving secured a promise that he would obey instructions.

Miss Fuller wrote for the attorney's bill and costs. He dared not mention costs since there were none, but offered on the part of his client to settle for $10,000. The lady sent him a check for the amount, which he turned over to his client. The client mailed it to Miss Fuller, with an indorsement that he preferred to pay it himself.

This was the beginning of the end. The case was settled out of court, and Mr. Skinner and Miss Fuller were married. After the wedding Skinner called for the attorney's bill, but he declined to accept a fee. Skinner blew him off at a $100 dinner with two or three of his own intimate friends present and told the story of how the greatest woman flirt in the city had been brought to terms.

Rheumatism

For Young and Old

The acute agonizing pain of rheumatism is soothed at once by Sloan's Liniment Do not rub—it penetrates to the sore spot, bringing a comfort not dreamed of until tried. Get a bottle today.

RHEUMATISM

Here What Others Say:

"I highly recommend your Liniment as the best remedy for rheumatism I ever used. Before using it I spent large sums of money trying to get relief of the misery and pains in limbs and body, so I tried your Liniment both internal and external and I found quick relief, and now am well and strong again "—Geo. Curtis, 226 N 16th St., Springfield, Ill.

Here's Proof

"I wish to write and tell you about a fall I had down fourteen steps, and bruised my neck and hip very bad I could not sleep at all I sent my wife for a 25 cent bottle of your Liniment and in two days' time I was on my feet again "—Charles Hyde, 1526½ Prairie Ave., St Louis, Mo.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

for neuralgia, sciatica, sprains and bruises.

All Druggists, 25c.

Send four cents in stamps for a TRIAL BOTTLE

Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Inc.
Dept. B. Philadelphia, Pa.

He Knew

The teacher was giving the geography class a lesson on the cattle ranches She spoke of their beef all coming from the West, and wishing to test the children's observation, she asked

And what else comes to us from these ranches?"

That was a poser She looked at her shoes, but no one took the hint She tried again

"What do we get from the cattle besides beef"

One boy eagerly raised his hand

"I know what it is Its tripe" he announced Youth's Companion

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray, also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark thick and glossy and you look years younger Adv

"Allies"

Should we say allies' with a stress upon the first syllable or on the second? Of course, the second is in either case long, but what about the stress" To put it on the first syllable is to make one of the few good English spondees we have On the other hand, this manner of pronouncing will not do for Wordsworth's greatest sonnet - "Thou hast great allies It is to be noted that the American custom does not accord with Wordsworth London Chronicle

Stop That Backache

There's nothing more discouraging than a constant backache You are lame when you awake Pains pierce you when you bend or lift It's hard to rest and next day it's the same old story

Pain in the back is nature's warning of kidney ills Neglect may pave the way to dropsy gravel, or other serious kidney sickness.

Don't delay—begin using Doan's Kidney Pills—the medicine that has been curing backache and kidney trouble for over fifty years.

An Iowa Case

Mrs. L A. Games, 1106 Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Iowa, says "A severe attack of typhoid fever left my kidneys weak and my back ached terribly My sight often blurred and when I stooped, I got very dizzy I felt languid, nervous and run down Doan's Kidney Pills have fixed me up in good shape, never failing to give fine results when I have used them."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Activities of Women

by Winifred Short

Interesting Jottings Concerning the Doings of the Feminine Sex the World Over.

The Woman's Trade union of America has over 65,000 members.

Three out of every four nonagenarians in Berlin, Germany, are women.

Miss Anna B. Crocker is curator of the Portland, Ore., Art museum.

About 35 per cent of the electorate in Sweden at present are women.

Over 50,000 working girls in New York city attend night schools

Over 132,000 women in New York city are employed in mechanical trades.

New York has nearly 7,000 women boarding and lodging house keepers.

Over 50 per cent, of the females in the United States are unmarried.

Women school teachers in Denmark receive from $364 to $520 a year salary.

Suffragists claim the credit of electing United States Senator Curtis in Kansas

If Michigan establishes a woman's reformatory it will be controlled and operated by women

Women "clergymen" increased 183.8 per cent, in the United States during the past 10 years

Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder receives $5,000 a year as superintendent of public welfare in Chicago

Mrs Betsey Story, of Carmi, Ill., has never worn a corset in her life and she is now 102 years of age

Mme Sembrich the opera singer, is at the head of the Polish relief committee in the United States

Over $5 000 000 will be paid out this year by the various states to mothers who are entitled to pensions

Kansas women are asking for laws that will make them equal partners in business with their husbands

Three German soldiers taken as prisoners by Russia proved to be women wearing the regular uniform

Washington society women are now having their gowns made in a color to match that of their pet dogs

Of the total number of shareholders in the Pennsylvania railroad, 43,913, or 48 17 per cent, are women.

Mrs. Anna M Wilkinson has sailed for Russia where she will display samples of more than 50 different American manufacturers.

Mrs Emma E. Wilbur who has just been elected a Councilman in Stayton, Ore., is the first woman to hold office in that city

Commissioner of Corrections Katherine B Davis of New York has a plan for organizing a farming colony for women prisoners

Great Britain is refusing the proferred help of English women doctors while Russia is gladly accepting such assistance

Of the 1,000 women in New York city who have undergone the "twilight sleep" treatment 80 per cent declare their ordeal to have been painless

Mrs Thomas F Hart the "millionaire policewoman" of Muncie, Ind has resigned because her health would not permit her to continue her work

Chorus girls in New York city object to being sensationalized and have asked for the privilege of censoring matter before being sent to the newspapers

The woman's legislative congress recently voted down eugenics but passed several other measures, including an eight hour day for working women

Women are now employed as cashiers in the Waldorf hotel in New York city because it is claimed they are sharper about their work than men

Quebec Canada nuns have a complete looking establishment in their convents where girls entering are taught and trained in the rudiments of printing.

Although she is only 19 years old, Miss Ethel McCurdy has been appointed post mistress at Ebing, Kan, having won out over several men competitors in a civil service examination.

In Denmark the widow of a public school teacher is entitled to a pension of one-eighth of her husband's average salary during the last five years of his office

Mlle Renaudiere has been awarded the Order of the Leopold by King Albert of Belgium as a reward for her bravery under fire while serving with the Red Cross ambulance

Mrs Anna Moore, of Chicago has just discovered that she is an adopted daughter after 52 years belief that she was the daughter of a Minnesota farmer

Among the laws of France which have been suspended because of the war is the one that requires that the banns must be posted in the city hall two weeks before the weddings take place

Mrs Harry K Carson who has been in the dry goods business in Shelbyville Ind for the past 30 years, is to retire, after amassing a considerable fortune She owns the biggest store of its kind in that city

The Intercollegiate Bureau of Occupations managed by the New York alumnae associations of nine eastern women colleges has already found 846 positions for college women in 28 distinct fields of work

Emperor William of Germany, has broken his ironclad rule against feminine advice since he now allows his only daughter, Princess Victoria Louise to express her opinions concerning the military operations being carried on in that country

Miss Frances Hopkins of Jefferson City Mo has been appointed probate judge in Clay county, to succeed her father, who died recently This is the first time a woman has ever been appointed to such a high office and is without precedent in that state

Miss Jean T Moehle, an automobile saleswoman, recently showed that she could handle machinery as well as sell cars In a leather apron and blue jean coat she stood on a platform in a New York salesroom and dismantled and assembled a motor taken from a car she had driven over 10,000 miles

The wearing of a skirt which was so tight that it interfered with the free use of her limbs caused Mrs Della Wilson, of Kansas City, to lose her suit for $5.000 damages against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The jury contended that a skirt which was only 32 inches wide was entirely too narrow for the free use of the feet in boarding a train

Over 2,000 Canadian women have applied for positions as war nurses

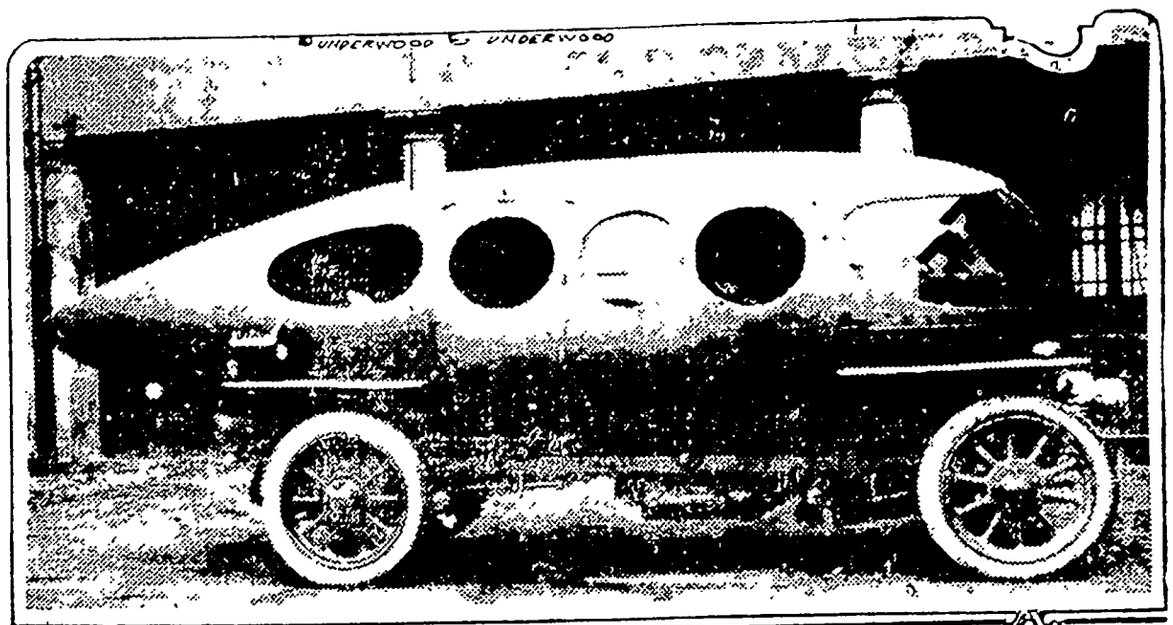
Nearly 8,000 females are employed in the tobacco industry of Pennsylvania

Women are now allowed to register as members of the American Athletic union, but the concession applies only to swimming

In Japan a woman has no particular lord, but must look to her husband as her lord and must serve him with all worship and reverence

The Girls' Guides of England are proving to be of much value to the government, since they are making quilts for the soldiers at the front.

NEW CAR PROMISES A REVOLUTION IN AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY



This car, which is the product of the brain of Count Marco Ricotti, one of the high aristocracy of Milan, promises to change the entire science of motor car building. With a comparatively medium powered motor (50 H. P.—4 cylinders) this model has easily raced at a speed of eighty miles an hour.

The Sunken Galleon

By Henry James Forman, in Collier's.

On every coast, in every land, are legends of hidden treasure. Not a bay or inlet of the sea but some sunken galleon, some long-lost treasure ship is moldering upon the bottom with golden doubloons and yellow ingots pouring from her ribs. But the sea has no monopoly of hidden wealth. Write a tale of buried riches, a "Gold Bug" or a "Treasure Island," and the popular fancy rises to it as to an alluring bait. Scarce a grange or farmstead, scarce a thorp or village, but a rumor of buried gold has touched it with romance. Truly, the tradition of hidden riches is part of the consciousness of all the races of men and, could we but trace it out, no people would be found devoid of it But deeper still in the human soul at the very center of our being beyond the mind's material pictures of wealth, the heart contains and cherishes a less tangible a more spiritual form of the same belief. The golden doubloons become the wealth of the soul, the jewels and the ingots are the rich human qualities that transcend poverty, that transcend success Without them evolution from the beast had been impossible That is the inner kingdom of heaven that founders of religions proclaim, that is the treasure of the heart compared with which all other are worthless From every soul there shines, bright or dim, the gold among the wreckage And the business of right living is in reality a kind of great salvage enterprise. Send your will down like a diver to the foundered galleon, and, if it be but strong enough it will return laden with the the wealth of the Indies Send it and never will it return quite empty handed. And greater salvage still send the diver into other hearts' Always beneath the hulk of the galleon, however deep, however covered over with weeds and barnacles, the gold lies gleaming for the seeker and if you find one his treasure, you make him rich indeed and you are a sharer in his riches. And surely this is a truth If you will raise for everyone at least a fragment of his deep-incrusted, sand-bespattered gold, will you not people the earth about you with the grateful ones you have enriched from their own treasures?

DEMONIACAL BOXERS HAD HEALTHY FEAR OF GERMAN SOLDIERS

Simple Tactics Cost Many of Maddened Chinese Their Lives.

TERROR OF TEUTON NAME

Later When a Wild Chance Shot From Beleaguered Christians Killed Magician Chief, Besiegers Fled.

Charlest Ernest Scott in the Sunday School Times

I had walked over to a village where one of our Christians was sick - a young graduate of our medical school who had nearly blown out his eyes experimenting in the manufacture of mine remarked "These revolutionary times are not as dangerous for us here as the Boxer days" And he added, with a humorous twinkle, you see the German troops are known now bombs to use against the 'Manchu tyrants.' His uncle, a dear friend of In those days they were not" This put him in reminiscent mood and over our Chinese dinner he told me a tale that is worthy a place in church history

His village is heathen, but his own clan there resident is, in solid phalanx Christian Though its members have the brains and education, the acres and the money, the push and the grace, they are but a handful Perhaps because of this fact they, during the early days of the Boxer movement, were marked for destruction There was no other village safer than their own to which they could flee as every Christian was well known, and all the countryside was alive with Boxers Everybody, apparently, had become either a "Big Knife society" brave on the warpath, or an active, spying sympathizer

Under such circumstances it seemed necessary to the German government, in the interests of law and order in and near "Gebiet" to send out a punitive expedition into the surrounding villages. On the approach of the troops to this place, the Boxer warriors, rendered fatuously reckless by their incantations, which were supposed to render them bullet-proof, mounted the village wall there with bows and arrows, spears and clubs, and some muskets to annihilate the "black hearted barbarians"

When but a few rods from the wall the German captain, who understood some Chinese, heard the command given to fire. He instantly ordered his men to lie flat on the ground in position for sharpshooting Just as they dropped, the venerable guns on the wall, accompanied by the clatter of a choice miscellany of medieval weapons, banged harmlessly at them And the Boxers, seeing the rows of soldiers prone and motionless, thought their foes killed to a man With the temerity of "know nothing, fear nothing," they forthwith sprang to their feet, capering about in wild jubilation at the destruction of the 'foreign devils

It was one of those errors of heathen superstition irremediable Their bodies silhouetted against the sky, were perfect targets for a much practiced soldiery Every form that appeared above the parapet fell dead or wounded Survivors and pals robbers and thieves all were captured and held for official execution And the heathen were disgraced by seeing the idols in which they and the Boxer defenders trusted hauled out of the village temple, buried in the yard and flung into the pond face lost beyond recovery

But that was the beginning of trouble for the Christians Boxer avengers sprung up like the armed men from Jason's sowing The secret edict went forth The second degree devils (the local Christians) must all die and their church and house be burned and their land divided So one black night, when all was prepared a band of men fit for black deeds crept forth to wreak vengeance upon the little band of faithful and apparently doomed followers of Him whom they traduced in posters representing a pig on the cross'

Suddenly out of the darkness the flames of the burning house of God—the largest in our field and built by the Christians themselves—began to creep and crackle and curl themselves skyward as if flaunting defiance to the God whom they ignorantly hated

The Christians hastily left their houses and fled to the walled yard of the elder It was death for any Christian to appear and they knew it So they all gathered together inside the flimsy barred gate of wood—and prayed Outside in the lurid glare of the fire-crumbling church figures more demoniac than human danced in a frenzy of Satanic glee Confident that the innocent upon whom they expected soon to wreak their vengeance were inescapably theirs one gang lingered and gloated over the charred ruins Another like a band of Apaches surrounding an emigrant wagon ringed in the devoted company and having howled and reviled them to their hearts content proceeded to business

At a given signal kerosene, as by magic was produced from somewhere—there were not lacking fellow-villagers zealous to abet the raiders from outside and simultaneously it was applied before each Christian door These doors and their thatched hoods, leading into each yard were dry as tinder And what pretty blazes the houses inside each would make covered as they were with sun-burned straw The Christian forsooth would be roasted in their homes like rats in a hole'

The flames had begun to lick the yard door-lintels when something happened Indeed something had already happened There was, as has been said no sense in trying to flee—the country was alive with Boxers on the still hunt for Christians as the immediate producing cause of the foreign invasion. Neither was there hope in armed resistance So the believers locked inside the elder's yard like those in the fiery furnace prayed-prayed desperately They knew the promise of God through Isaiah and they pleaded it 'When thou walked through the fire, thou shalt not be burned neither shall the flame kindle upon thee for I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One, thy Savior'

As they prayed one of the family felt irresistibly drawn to take down and fire an old rusty flintlock, such as the better to do keep on hand for firing into the air as evening approaches, to warn thieves that a gun is inside. What overt act could he commit to put them in more fearful straits" So he quickly poked the muzzle over the wall Outside a jeering, taunting mob of enemies whose faces were lit up by flames of their own kindling. He pulled at a venture, and fired into the darkness.

The student of the campaigns of armies needs no corroboration from God's Word to understand what could happen In view of the facts of secular as well as sacred history, it is not difficult to conceive how the Almighty can use a very little thing to "panic" a body of men—even so harmless utensils as lamps and pitchers.

The bullet that was aimed at a venture by the hard-pressed Christian had struck the invulnerable Boxer chief, even the one panoplied in an apron of magic characters. He reeled Followers leaped to him But the man was dead—shot through the heart. The braves were too scared to use their weapons. Instantly through their minds there flashed a thought that froze their blood "Horrors' There must be German soldiers inside. Can't we forget them? Sharpshooters' Who knows how many" These devils of the second rank have cunningly concealed them there' No villager could shoot like that' We are all dead men!"

But the thought that at first numbed their limbs now unlimbered them. Not even waiting to rescue their bleeding fellow, they went pell-mell down the narrow, dirty streets, shadowy now with new terrors. Their gait increased. They 'hit it up" to a dead jump. Who knew but what the entire German army was after them' None stopped to investigate

The flames were soon extinguished. The Boxers came not again And from that day no man dared touch them And thereafter throughout the days of fierce alarms and fiercer deeds, the Christians of the "Big Bitter village" rested in a security and a peace that was the marvel of all

That Holy Thing.

They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high;
Thou cam'st a little baby thing
That made a woman cry

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but Thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road Thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea Thy sail.

My how or when Thou wilt not heed,
But come down Thine own secret stair,
That Thou may'st answer all my need—
Yea, every bygone prayer

—George Macdonald.

Details of a curious family complication come from St. Gall, Switzerland. A naturalized Swiss citizen, German by birth is married to a Hungarian His brotherinlaw is fighting against the Servians and the husband of his sisterinlaw is fighting against the Austrians. Of the man's two brothers, one is in a Prussian regiment and the other is serving France under General Gallient.

That animals are sensitive to the approach of earthquakes is a fact frequently observed, and the more recent seismic troubles in various countries give numerous examples of this singular faculty which many animals possess For instance, in Japan horses set up an unusual agitation whenever a seismic shock is near at hand. In central America dogs and cats flee from houses, and the inhabitants have become so accustomed to this that they follow the example of the animals and leave their dwellings, so as to escape danger In Italy it has been observed that birds left their nests and flew up to a great height in the air, but this without noise, before the earthquake took place However, at the time when the earthquake shocks were produced the birds uttered cries which lasted for all the duration of the earthquake. It is asserted that in Sicily cocks crow and dogs howl just before an earthquake

Work.

Work'
Thank God for the might of it,
The ardor, the urge, the delight of it—
Work that springs from the heart's desire,
Setting the soul and the brain on fire.
Oh what is so good as the heat of it,
And what is so glad as the beat of it,
And what is so kind as the stern command
Challenging brain and heart and hand?

Work'
Thank God for the pride of it
For the beautiful conquering tide of it,
Sweeping the life in its furious flood
Thrilling the arteries, cleansing the blood,
Mastering stupor and dull despair,
Moving the dreamer to do and dare.
Oh, what is so good as the urge of it,
And what is so glad as the beat of it,
And what is so strong as the summons deep
Rousing the torpid soul from sleep?

Work
Thank God for the pace of it
For the terrible, keen, swift race of it;
Fiery steeds in full control
Nostrils aquiver to greet the goal.
Work the power that drives behind,
Guiding the purposes, taming the mind,
Holding the runaway wishes back,
Reining the will to one steady track,
Speeding the energies faster, faster,
Triumphing over disaster.
Oh, what is so good as the pain of it,
And what is so great as the gain of it,
And what is so kind as the cruel goad,
Forcing us on through the rugged road?

Work'
Thank God for the swing of it,
For the clamoring, hammering ring of it,
Passion of labor daily hurled
On the mighty anvils of the world. * * *
Oh, what is so fierce as the flame of it,
And what is so huge as the aim of it,
Thundering on through dearth and doubt,
Calling the plan of the Maker out;
Work, the Titan, Work, the friend,
Shaping the earth to a glorious end;
Draining the swamps and blasting the hills,
Doing whatever the spirit wills,
Rending the continent apart,
To answer the dream of the Master heart
* * *
Thank God for a world where none may shirk,
Thank God for the splendor of work!
—Angela Morgan in Outlook.

"CASCARETS" R... LIVER, BO...

For sick headache, bad ... Sour Stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now

No odds how bad your liver ... or bowels, how much you ... aches, how miserable and un... able you are from constipation ... tion, biliousness and ... —you always get the desired ... with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, li... bowels make you miserable ... Cascarets to-night; put an end ... headache, biliousness, dizziness ... qusness, sick, sour, gassy ... backache and all other ... cleanse your inside organs of ... bile, gases and constipated ... which is producing the misery

A 10-cent box means health ... ness and a clear head for ... No more days of gloom and ... if you will take a Cascaret ... then. All stores sell Cascarets ... forget the children—their ... sides need a cleansing, too.

Remarkable Dredges.

Bowlders of great size were ... ly lifted bodily out of the ... canal by the two massive ... which were built to cope ... Cucaracha slide in the Culeb... says Popular Mechanics ... instances rocks of tremendous ... were handled by the steel-arm... gine almost as if they were ... Recently one of these bowlders ... ing 40 tons, was lifted out of the ... and swung to one side free ... channel in one load. The bucket ... held it has a capacity of 15 cubic ... or approximately 12 wagonloads

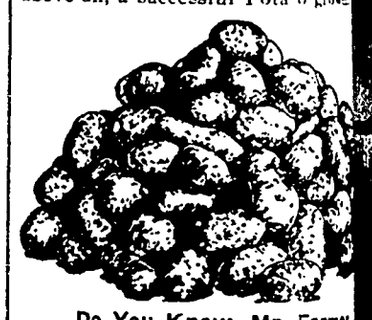
His Whereabouts.

A minister who recently called ... a young widow to condole with ... on the loss of her husband placed ... siderable emphasis upon the fact ... the separation was only of a ... porary character, and painted in ... colors the happiness of friends ... united after death When he ... for breath the sorrowing one ... a deep sigh, and quietly remarked ... "Well, I suppose his first ... got him again, then'

A POTATO KING

"If I were a farmer boy ... out capital, and wanted an early ... tency, I'd start right out growing ... toes," said Henry Schroeder the ... king of the Red River Valley who... in the John A. Salzer Seed Co. ... reads stranger than a romance

That advice of Mr. Schroeder's ... made Potato king, comes from ... heart, a level head, an active ... above all, a successful Potato grow...



Do You Know, Mr. Farmer, ... there is more money in five acres of ... toes year in and year out than in any ... you can grow on your farm, and the ... ing of Potatoes now, with present ... ery, etc., is easy. It's regular Fourth ... July fun!

Salzer's Creations in Seed Corn ... Wisconsin on the Corn Map with ... tonishing yields!

Headquarters for Oats, Barley, Co...

For 10c In Postage

We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder." Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, etc., etc.

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box '06, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their ... catalog

The Way of It.

"Why are you so angry, my ... about such a trifle as my ... my mustache?"

"It isn't a trifle; a waxed mustache is a cereous matter.

Obvious.

"I suppose you have heard of ... Fool Killer?"

"Yes, but I've never met him."

"That is quite obvious."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Occasionally a man laughs at a ... on himself, but he never really ... it.

Experience comes high Still ... automobile factories are busy.

...RS HAVE BAD ...EYS AND BACKACHE

...s of Salts at Once If Your ...Hurting or Kidneys and ...der Trouble You.

...ican men and women must ...ntly against Kidney trou... we eat too much and all ...rich. Our blood is filled ...acid which the kidneys ...er out, they weaken from ...come sluggish; the elimi... clog and the result is ...le, bladder weakness and ...cline in health.

...r kidneys feel like lumps ...r back hurts or the urine ...ll of sediment or you are ...eek relief two or three ... the night; if you suffer ...adache or dizzy, nervous ...tomach, or you have rheu... the weather is bad, get ... pharmacist about four ...Jad Salts; take a table... a glass of water before ... a few days and your kid...en act fine. This famous ...e from the acid of grapes ...ice, combined with lithia, ...n used for generations to ...timulate clogged kidneys; ... the acids in the urine so ... is a source of irritation, ... bladder disorders.

...is inexpensive; cannot in... a delightful effervescent ...beverage, and belongs in ... because nobody can make ...y having a good kidney ... time.—Adv.

...HE FOUND THE GUM

... Desire for a "Chew" ... Her to Forget Ma... ...rnal Injunction.

...ille woman who is some... rank on hygiene and who ...er small daughter accord... latest methods, took the ...day train to a nearby lit... The mother sighed as she ... the dusty velvet seat and ...ows. The youngsters, how... her manicured fingers in ... pique lap and apparently ... absorb as little dirt as pos... Looking up from her maga... the immaculate parent was hor... to find the small daughter's ... working violently.

"What have you in your mouth?" ...he demanded at once.

"Gum," said the child.

"Where did you get it?" gasped the mother.

The child pointed to a clean, round ... on the grimy windowsill.

"...," she said.—Louisville Times.

The Idea!

...ndure Twobble's presump...

...e doing now?"

... to tell me who's to blame ... in Europe when he knows ...broad and he hasn't!"

Fancy Fare.

... has no luck catching ...

...r why?"

... know, unless it's because ... on baiting the trap with im...se."

The Point.

... beauty in this portrait ...

... is by no means a speak... of her."

... the beauty of it."

The Reason.

...'s pet dog is always get... a pickle."

...k if it's a chow-chow?"

...u the mistletoe in place ...an?

...BAD DREAMS ...caused by Coffee.

...een a coffee drinker, more ...r since I can remember, un... months ago I became more ...nervous and irritable, and ...ld not sleep at night for I ...y disturbed by dreams of ...d a species of distressing ...

... after hearing the experi... ...mbers of friends who had ...and were drinking Postum, ...g of the great benefits they ...d, I concluded coffee must ...e of my trouble, so I got ...m and had it made strictly ...o directions.

...tonished at the flavor and ...entirely took the place of ... to my very great satisfac... ...n to sleep peacefully and ...y nerves improved, and I ...d wean every man, woman ...om the unwholesome drug... ...e.

...o not really appreciate or ...t a powerful drug it is and ...e effect it has on the hu... If they did, hardly a ...fee would be sold. I would ...t of going back to coffee ...ould almost as soon think ...my hand in a fire after I ...been burned. Yours for ...

...omes in two forms: ...Postum — must be well ... and 25c packages. ...ostum—is a soluble pow... ...spoonful dissolves quickly ...hot water and, with cream ...makes a delicious beverage ...0c and 50c tins. ...per cup of both kinds is ...ame. ...a Reason" for Postum. ...—sold by Grocers.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

CHAPTER XXI—(Continued).

"Why, Lester," protested Godfrey, "it's as plain as day. Who was that bearded giant who was killed? The traitor, of course. We will find that he was a member of Armand's gang. He followed Armand to America, lay in wait for him, caught him in the act and bound him hand and foot. Do you suppose for an instant that Armand was ignorant of his presence in that house? Do you suppose he would have been able to take Armand prisoner if Armand had not been willing that he should?"

"I don't see how Armand could help himself after that fellow got his hands on him."

"You don't? And yet you saw yourself that he was not really bound—that he had cut himself loose!"

"That is true," I said, thoughtfully.

"Let us reconstruct the story," Godfrey went on rapidly. "The traitor discovers the secret of the cabinet; he follows Armand to New York, shadows him to the house on Seventh avenue, waits for him there, and seizes and binds him. He is half mad with triumph—he chants a crazy sing-song about revenge, revenge, revenge! And, in order that the triumph may be complete, he does not kill his prisoner at once. He rolls him into a corner and proceeds to rip away the burlap. His triumph will be to open the secret drawer before Armand's eyes. And Armand lies there in the corner, his eyes gleaming, because it is really the moment of his triumph which is at hand!"

"The moment of his triumph?" I repeated. "What do you mean by that, Godfrey?"

"I mean that, the instant the traitor opened the drawer, he would be stabbed by the poisoned mechanism! It was for that that Armand waited!"

I lay back in my chair with a gasp of amazement and admiration. I had been blind not to see it! Armand had merely to lie still and permit the traitor to walk into the trap prepared for him. No wonder his eyes had glowed as he law there watching that frenzied figure at the cabinet!

"It was not until the last moment," Godfrey went on, "when the traitor was bending above the cabinet feeling for the spring, that I realized what was about to happen. There was no time for hesitation—I sprang into the room. Armand vanished in an instant, and the giant also tried to escape, but I caught him at the door. I had no idea of his danger; I had no thought that Armand would dare linger. And yet he did. Now that it is too late, I understand. He had to kill that man; there were no two ways about it. Whatever the risk, he had to kill him."

"But why?" I asked. "Why?"

"To seal his lips. If we had captured him, do you suppose Armand's secret would have been safe for an instant? So he had to kill him—he had to kill him with the poisoned barb—and he did kill him, and got away into the bargain! Never in my life have I felt so like a fool as when that door was slammed in my face!"

"Perhaps he had that prepared, too," I suggested timidly, ready to believe anything of this extraordinary man. "Perhaps he knew that we were there all the time."

"Of course he did," assented Godfrey grimly. "Why else would there be a snap lock on the outside of the door? And to think I did't see it! To think that I was fool enough to suppose that I could folow him about the streets of New York without his knowing it! He knew from the first that he might be followed, and prepared for it!"

"But it's incredible!" I protested feebly. "It's incredible!"

"Nothing is incredible in connection with that man!"

"But the risk—think of the risk he ran!"

"What does he care for risks? He despises them—and rightly. He got away, didn't he?"

"Yes," I said, "he got away; there's no question of that, I guess."

"Well, that is the story of this afternoon's tragedy, as I understand it," proceeded Godfrey, more calmly. "And now I'm going to leave you. I want you to think it over. If it doesn't hold together, show me where it doesn't. But it will hold together—it has to—because it's true!"

"But how about Armand?" I protested. "Aren't you going to try to capture him? Are you going to let him get away?"

"He won't get away!" and Godfrey's eyes were gleaming again. "We don't have to search for him, for we've got our trap, Lester, and it's baited with a bait he can't resist—the Boule cabinet!"

"But he knows it's a trap."

"Of course he knows it!"

"And you really think he will walk into it?" I asked incredulously.

"I know he will! One of these days, he will try to get that cabinet out of the steel cell at the Twenty-third Street station, in which we have it locked!"

I shook my head.

"He's no such fool," I said. "No man is such a fool as that. He'll give it up and go quietly back to Paris."

"Not if he's the man I think he is," said Godfrey, his hand on the door. "He will never give up! Just wait, Lester, we shall know in a day or two which of us is a true prophet. The only thing I am afraid of," he added, his face clouding, "is that he'll get away with the cabinet, in spite of us!"

And he went away down the hall, leaving me staring after him.

CHAPTER XXII.

"CROCHARD, L'INVINCIBLE!"

It seemed for once that Godfrey was destined to be wrong, for the days passed and nothing happened—nothing, that is, insofar as the cabinet was concerned. There was an inquest, of course, over the victim of the latest tragedy, and once again I was forced to give my evidence before a coroner's jury. I must confess that, this time, it made me appear considerable of a fool, and the papers poked sly fun at the attorney who had walked blindly into a trap which, now that it was sprung, seemed so apparent.

The Bertillon measurements of the victim had been cabled to Paris, and he had been instantly identified as a fellow named Morel, well known to the police as a daring and desperate criminal; in fact, M. Lepine considered the matter so important that he cabled next day that he was sending Inspector Pigot to New York to investigate the affair further, and to confer with our bureau as to the best methods to be taken to apprehend the murderer. Inspector Pigot, it was added, would sail at once for Havre on La Savoie.

Meanwhile, Grady's men, with Simmonds at their head, strained every nerve to discover the whereabouts of the fugitive; a net was thrown over the entire city, but, while a number of fish were captured, the one which the police particularly wished for was not among them. Not a single trace of the fugitive was discovered; he had vanished absolutely, and, after a day or two, Grady asserted confidently that he had left New York.

For Grady had come into the case again, goaded by the papers, particularly by the Record, to efforts which he must have considered superhuman. The remarkable nature of the mystery, its picturesque and unique features, the fact that three men had been killed within a few days in precisely the same manner, and the absence of any reasonable hypothesis to explain these deaths—all this served to rivet public attention. Every amateur detective in the country had a theory to exploit—and far fetched enough most of them were!

Grady did a lot of talking in those days, explaining in detail the remarkable measures he was taking to capture the criminal, but the fact remained that three men had been killed, and that no one had been punished, that a series of crimes had been committed, and that the criminal was still at large, and seemed likely to remain so; and, naturally enough, the papers, having exhausted every other phase of the case, were soon echoing public sentiment that something was wrong somewhere, and that the detective bureau needed an overhauling, beginning at the top.

The Boule cabinet remained locked up in a cell at the Twenty-third street station; and Simmonds kept the key in his pocket. I know that he was as much in the dark concerning the cabinet was, and the general public was very much in the dark indeed, for the cabinet had not figured in the accounts of the first two tragedies at all, and only incidentally in the reports of the latest one. As far as it was concerned, the affair seemed clear enough to most of the reporters, as an attempt to smuggle into the country an art object of great value. Such cases were too common to attract especial attention.

But Simmonds had come to see that Grady was tottering on his throne; he realized, perhaps, that his own head was not safe, and he had made up his mind to pin his faith to Godfrey as the only one at all likely to lead him out of the maze. And Godfrey laid the greatest stress upon the necessity of keeping the cabinet under lock and key, so under lock and key it was kept. As for Grady, I do not believe that, even at the last, he realized the important part the cabinet had played in the drama.

But while the Boule cabinet failed to focus the attention of the public, and while most of the reporters promptly forgot all about it, I was amused at the pains which Godfrey took to inform the fugitive as to its whereabouts and as to how it was guarded. Over and over again, while the other papers wondered at his imbecility, he told how it had been placed in the strongest cell at the Twenty-third street station, a cell whose bars were made of chrome-nickel steel which no saw could bite into; a cell was worked not only by a key but by a combination, known to one man only; a cell isolated from the others, standing alone in the middle of the third corridor, in full view of the officer on guard, so that no one could approach it, day or night, without being instantly discovered; a cell whose door was connected with an automatic alarm over the sergeant's desk in the front room; a cell, in short, from which no man could possibly escape, and which no man could possibly enter unobserved.

Of the Boule cabinet itself Godfrey said little, saying his story for the denouncement which he seemed so sure would come; but the details which I have give above were dwelt upon in the Record, until, happening to meet Godfrey on the street one day, I protested that he would only succeed in frightening the fugitive away altogether, even if he still had any designs on the cabinet, which I very much doubted. But Godfrey only laughed.

"There's not the slightest danger of frightening him away," he said. "This fellow isn't that kind. If I am right in in sizing him up, he's the sort of daredevil whom an insuperable difficulty only attracts. The harder the job, the more he is drawn to it. That's the reason I am making this one just as hard as I can."

"But a man would be a fool to attempt to get to that cabinet," I protested. "It's simply impossible."

"It looks impossible, I'm free to admit" he agreed. "But, just the same, I wake every morning cold with fear, and run to the 'phone to make sure the cabinet's safe. If I could think of any further safeguards, I would certainly employ them."

I looked at Godfrey searchingly, for it seemed to me that he must be jesting. He smiled as he caught my glance.

"I was never more in earnest in my life, Lester," he said. "You don't appreciate this fellow as I do. He's a genius; nothing is impossible to him. He disdains easy jobs; when he thinks a job is too easy, he makes it harder, just as a sporting chance. He has been known to warn people that they kept their jewels too carelessly, and then, after they had put them in a safer place, he would go and take them."

"That seems rather foolish, doesn't it?" I queried.

"Not from his point of view. He doesn't steel because he needs money, but because he needs excitement."

"You know who he is, then?" I demanded.

"I think I do—I hope I do; but I am not going to tell even you till I'm sure. I'll say this—if he is who I think he is, it would be a delight to match one's brains with his. We haven't got any one like him over here—which is a pity!"

I was inclined to doubt this, for I have no romantic admiration for gentlemen burglars, even in fiction. However picturesque and chivalric, a thief is, after all, a thief. Perhaps it is my training as a lawyer. Or perhaps I am simply narrow, but crime, however brilliantly carried out, seems to me a sordid and unlovely thing. I know quite well that here are many people who look at these things from a different angle. Godfrey is one of them.

I pointed out to him now that, if his intuitions were correct, he would soon have a chance to match his wits with those of the great unknown.

"Yes," he agreed, "and I'm scared to death—I have been ever since I began to suspect his identity. I feel like a tyro going up against a master in a game of chess—mate in six moves!"

"I shouldn't consider you exactly a tyro," I said, drily.

"It's long odds that the great unknown will," Godfrey retorted, and bade me good bye.

Except for that chance meeting, I saw nothing of him, and in this I was disappointed, for there were many things about the whole affair which I did not understand. In fact, when I sat down of an evening, and lit my pipe and began to think it over, I found that I understood nothing at all. Godfrey's theory held together perfectly, so far as I could see, but it led nowhere. How had Drouet and Vantine been killed? Why had they been killed? What was the secret of the cabinet? In a word, what was all this mystery about? Not one of these questions could I answer; and the solutions I guessed, it seemed so absurd I dismissed them in disgust. In the end, I found that the affair was interfering with my work, and I banished it from my mind, turning my face resolutely away from it whenever it tried to break into my thoughts.

But though I could shut it out of my waking hours successfully enough, I could not control my sleeping ones, and my dreams became more and more horrible. Always there was the serpent with dripping fangs, sometimes with Armand's head, sometimes with a face unknown to me, but hideous beyond description; it's slimy body glittered with inlay and arabesque, its scaly legs were curved like those of the Boule cabinet; sometimes the golden sun glittered on its forehead like a great eye. Over and over again I saw this monster slay its three victims; and always, when that was done, it raised its head and glared at me, as though selecting me for the fourth * * * But I shall not try to describe those dreams, even yet I cannot recall them without a shudder.

It was while I was sitting moodily in my room one night, debating whether or not to go to bed, weary to exhaustion and yet reluctant to resign myself to a sleep from which I knew I should wake shrieking, that a knock came at the door—a knock I recognized; and I arose joyfully to admit Godfrey.

I could see by the way his eyes were shining that he had something unusual to tell me; and then, as he looked at me, his face changed.

"What's the matter, Lester?" he demanded. "You're looking fagged out. Working too hard?"

"It's not that," I said. "I can't sleep. This thing has upset my nerves, Godfrey. I dream about it—have regular nightmares."

He sat down opposite me, concern and anxiety in his face.

"That won't do," he protested. "You must go away somewhere—take a rest, and a good long one."

"A rest wouldn't do me any good, as long as this mystery is unsolved," I said. "It's only by working that I can keep my mind off of it."

"Well," he smiled, "just to oblige you, we will solve it first, then."

"Do you mean you know—"

"I know who the Great Unknown is, and I'm going to tell you presently. Day after tomorrow—Wednesday—I'll know all the rest. The whole story will be in Thursday morning's paper. Suppose you arrange to start Thursday afternoon."

I could only stare at him. He smiled as he met my gaze.

"You're looking better already," he said, "as though you were taking a little more interest in life," and he helped himself to a cigar.

"Godfrey," I protested, "I wish you would pick out somebody else to practice on. You come up here and explode a bomb just to see how high I'll jump. It's amusing to you, no doubt, and perhaps a little instructive, but my nerves won't stand it."

"My dear Lester," he broke in, "that wasn't a bomb; that was a simple statement of fact."

"Are you serious?"

"Perfectly so."

"But how do you know—"

"Before I answer any questions, I want to ask you one. Did you, by any chance, mention me to the gentleman known to you as M. Felix Armand?"

"Yes," I answered, after a moment's thought, "I believe I did. I was telling him about our trying to find the secret drawer—I mentioned your name—and he asked who you were. I told him you were a genius at solving mysteries."

Godfrey nodded.

"That," he said, "explains the one thing I didn't understand. Now go ahead with your questions."

"You said a while ago that you would know all about this affair day after tomorrow."

"Yes."

"How do you know you will?"

"Because I have received a letter which sets the date," and he took from his pocket a sheet of paper and handed it over to me. "Read it!"

The letter was written in pencil, in a delicate and somewhat feminine hand, on a sheet of plain, unruled paper. With an astonishment which increased with every word, I read this extraordinary epistle:

"My Dear Mr. Godfrey:

(Continued next week.)

SALVIA KEPT THROUGH WINTER

It is not generally known that the scarlet salvia which has brightened our parks and lawns during the summer bears transplanting to the house, and will serve to make beautiful the window for several of the winter months, says Good Housekeeping.

Select one of the most symmetrical specimens, with plenty of buds and blossoms. Water freely a few hours before disturbing it, thus giving the plant a chance to absorb an abundance of moisture. Put in rich soil and keep on a shaded porch for a few days. It will scarcely wilt during the process, and may be left on the veranda until cold weather requires the protection of the house.

If placed in a sunny window after it is well established in its new quarters it will continue to bloom until the holidays. It may rest then for a few weeks but with the return of the sunny February days new buds will appear, and soon again it will be a blaze of beauty.

Early in spring slips may be taken off, and rooted by placing them in a glass of water in a sunny window. Those with a scant purse for buying rooted plants of the florist will thus have a nice windowful of beauty during the winter.

Rose of Pierrot.

When Pierrot to your window comes a-singing,—
When Pierrot comes a-rapping at your door,
Miladi, heed his singing and the roses he is bringing—
Perchance Pierrot will come again no more!

For Pierrot of the starlight knows the laughter
Of love, and treads the paths of heart's delight;
His songs are youth and laughter; and the joys that follow after
Are roses . . . Ah, the roses of the night!
—Kendall Banning.

Mrs. Nancy Corwin, of Carmi, Ill., who has just celebrated her 100th birthday, attributes her longevity to hard work and simple dressing. She has never owned a corset and smokes her pipe every day.

EXACTLY AS MOTHER SAID

Young Wife Followed Instructions Explicitly and Yet Hubby Was Not Pleased.

"Now, dear," hesitated John, "what about cooking?"

"Well, Jack," confessed the two-day-old bride, "when we get back from our honeymoon your mother is going to tell me just how to cook the things you like."

"I say, old girl, you're an awful sport to let the mother give you a hint or two."

The wise one merely smiled mystically.

Three weeks later, Jack, hardly so jovial of countenance, superintended the disposal of their evening meal.

"Say," he grumbled, as he glared, knife in hand, at a minute specimen of cookery for two, "what the matter with the crust of this pie? It doesn't half cover it!"

"Why, dearest," answered the anxious young wife, as she came and gazed at it, "I thought you'd be pleased! Your mother said you always liked the crust rather short."—Answers.

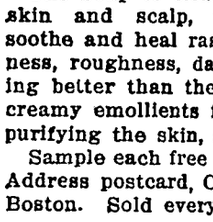
Longfellow's Granddaughter.

Few of us are there indeed who do not know and love the poems of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, especially that known as "The Children's Hour," in which the poet gave the world a glimpse of his own happy fireside circle. The poem referred to his children, but some of us do not know that the grandchild of Longfellow, while not able to express herself in verse, is no less a lover of children and as the wife of the principal of a large New York school is putting her interest and understanding of children to a practical test in conducting the kitchen of a settlement school.

Mrs. Hutchinson, as she is now, is well qualified for her work, not only having studied social problems abroad, but also having passed through the Training school of the Boston Children's hospital and a post-graduate course at Johns Hopkins. Since then, she has been at the disposal of charitable institutions in New York, and as she says, she attends to the children's bodily needs.

THE PROFESSOR'S STATEMENT.

Prof. Aug. F. W. Schmitz, Thomas, Okla., writes: "I was troubled with Backache for about twenty-five years. When told I had Bright's Disease in its last stages, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was somewhat relieved and I stopped the treatment. In the spring of the next year I had another attack. I went for Dodd's Kidney Pills and they relieved me again. I used three boxes. That is now three years ago and my Backache has not returned in its severity, and by using another two boxes a little later on, the pain left altogether and I have had no trouble since. You may use my statement. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills when and wherever I can." Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.



Prof. Schmitz.

He Was Right.

Teacher—Tommy, how is the earth divided?

Tommy — Mostly by earthquakes, ma'am.

CARE FOR CHILDREN'S

Hair and Skin With Cuticura. Nothing Easier. Trial Free.

The Soap to cleanse and purify the skin and scalp, the Ointment to soothe and heal rashes, itchings, redness, roughness, dandruff, etc. Nothing better than these fragrant supercreamy emollients for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp and hair.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

The Modern Way.

"You seem very proud of your daughters."

"Yes, they have all divorced so well."

A young man is not justified in taking an eyeopener because he is blind, in love.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. RESCH, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Army of Constipation

Is Growing Smaller Every Day.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are responsible — they not only give relief — they permanently cure Constipation. Millions use them for Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

BLACK LEG

LOSSES SURELY PREVENTED by Cutter's Blackleg Pills. Low-priced, fresh, reliable; preferred by Western stockmen, because they protect where other vaccines fail. Write for booklet and testimonials. 10-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills $1.00. 50-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills 4.00. Use any injector, but Cutter's best. The superiority of Cutter products is due to over 15 years of specializing in vaccines and serums only. Insist on Cutter's. If unobtainable, order direct. The Cutter Laboratory, Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago.

The Likely Way.

"Have you finished your holiday shopping?"

"Yes, and it has finished me."

Their Occupation.

"What are all these poor men doing here in prison?"

"They're mostly doing time."

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids; No Smarting—just Eye comfort. Write for Book of the Eye by mail Free. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Long Ago.

Barber—Hair dyed, sir?

Customer (bald headed)—Yes; it died about ten years ago.

Where the Shoe Pinched.

"Why, that rich old fool doesn't know he's living."

True, but his relatives feel it keenly."

Heredity.

"My! that's a bouncing baby."

"Yes; his father's in the rubber business."

CORN-OATS-RYE

Wisconsin yields on top—Salzer's specialties helped do it. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE. John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 4-1915.

Canadian Wheat to Feed the World

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's fearful devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and there is an unusual demand for Canadian wheat. Canada's invitation to every industrious American is therefore especially attractive. She wants farmers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves while helping her to raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands can be bought at remarkably low prices. Think of the money you can make with wheat at its present high prices, where for some time it is liable to continue. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate excellent.

Military service is not compulsory in Canada, but there is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government this year is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain.

Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, 220 17th St., Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BABRER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers
At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

[illegible] BAUMGART [illegible]
[illegible] Toasorial Artist
Mar[illegible] [illegible] easy shave or a neat hair cut
New Bath Tub
[illegible] Savings Bank

[illegible] P. PARSONS
DENTIST
[illegible] No 48
[illegible] Iowa

[illegible]SIANA
[illegible]
DIESART
[illegible]
M[illegible]

PRIMMS
[illegible]ctioneer"
[illegible] IOWA
[illegible] of any kind
[illegible]m Sales a
[illegible]cialty.
[illegible]atisfaction. 20
[illegible]Experience.
[illegible]te Me For Dates.

J. J. Wilson
[illegible]ivestock Auctioneer IOWA
[illegible]VEY
[illegible]SFACTI[illegible]

[illegible]os can be made at the Sc[illegible]
[illegible]Savings Bank [illegible]
[illegible] Mea[illegible]sey. [illegible]
[illegible] no expe[illegible]

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 90 days 70cts per load. No small amounts strictly cash
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 - Population in 1915

H P Yahnke is building a barn on his newly acquired premises.

A few choice Plymouth Rock Roosters For Sale. Mrs. G. O Miner.

F. J. Wenck went to Chicago, Saturday evening, on a business mission.

Misses Hulda and Esther Gruetzmacher were Garner visitors, Tuesday.

Oscar Larsen and Clarence Kluckhohn were calling on Ventura friends, Sunday.

If you have not yet purchased that Shortcourse ticket, do so now and avoid the rush at the last moment.

FOR SALE - Two roan bulls, eighteen months old, at $60 up to Gibbs Bros.

The masquerade dance held last Thursday evening was very largely attended and a very good time was had.

Mr and Mrs. Henry [illegible]ann, Jr, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a [illegible] which came to them [illegible] Saturday.

Mr and Mrs. Leo [illegible] were visiting at the home of Mrs Harry [illegible]

Miss P. Lee was over from Mason City, Tuesday, on business connected with the [illegible]

We are sorry to learn of the illness of [illegible] and children. [illegible]

[illegible] M. Peters [illegible] shipments to [illegible] Saturday, returning [illegible]

[illegible] having returned to [illegible], Monday after [illegible] the home of her [illegible] Kluckhohn

[illegible] his residence property [illegible] and Lewis [illegible] the [illegible] same is pleasantly situated

[illegible] Mrs. H. C. Schepers [illegible]

WANTED—One of the large magazine publishing houses desires to employ an active man or woman in this community to handle a special plan, which has proven unusually profitable. Good opening for right party. Address with two references, Publisher, Box 155, Times Sq. Sta., New York City.

January 20th at 4:30 p. m. Mr Harry J Wilkens of St. Marys, Ohio and Miss Matilda Straatmann of Klemme were quietly married at the parsonage of the German Reformed church, by Rev. Wm. Thiel. They are for the present staying with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm Straatmann, but intend to make their future home in St. Marys' Ohio

The horse buyers, Cole & Morrison who were here Tuesday, succeeding in purchasing 12 head and no doubt bought a full carload if the weather had been favorable. The high st price paid, of which we learned was $160, for a heavy draft team from Herman Stroemer. Herman always has good horses and never has any trouble in receiving the top price for any he may have to sell.

The Domestic Science Short [illegible] Hall [illegible] an opportunity for [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] home keeping together the [illegible] meeting of the [illegible] Supt. [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] what they are [illegible] with the times. It is the [illegible] for the teacher to see her work in its [illegible] to [illegible] to keep [illegible] and [illegible] of this [illegible] to [illegible] size the [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Prices [illegible] 2th to 30th

The [illegible] of Mr and Mrs Ekel [illegible]ss was a [illegible] surprise part [illegible] the following friends and neighbors came unannounced [illegible] the less welcome Mr and Mrs Joe [illegible]olsen and family, Mr and Mrs [illegible] Mabry and family, Mr and Mrs. Andy Fuller [illegible]

Notice Of Probate Of Will

STATE OF IOWA [illegible]
Hancock County [illegible]
To Whom it May [illegible]

Notice is hereby given that the instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Jacob M Walz deceased was filed in the office of the undersigned on the 9th day of January A D 1915 and that March 1st 1915 was fixed for hearing proof in relation thereto

WITNESS my hand and the Seal of the District Court affixed at Garner in said County this 11th day of January A. D 1915

E L Stillson
Clerk of the District Court.
Hancock County Iowa

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

TEACHERS EXAMINATIONS

The regular January Teachers Examinations will be held at the Court House in Garner, January 27, 28, and 29, 1915

J R. Baggs,
County Superintendent.

AN OPTICAL ENIGMA.

Why Is It the Human Eye Sees Things Right Side Up?

Just why we are able to see things right side up is a mystery which science has not yet been able to explain.

We know that the human eye involves the same optical principles as a camera. Owing to the fact that light always travels in a straight line and never in a curve, the rays which emanate from any object within our range of vision have to descend and ascend in order to travel into the narrow opening in the eye which corresponds to the camera's lens.

These rays finally reach a point where they intersect. Continuing on in straight lines, their relative position becomes just the reverse of what they were when they left the object seen

Thus the image register on the retina of your eye is topsy turvy, just as it is on the photographic plate in a camera. If you are looking at a house, for instance the image your eye gets will show the chimneys down below, the foundation worn up above and so on

But the instant your brain gets reveals the house right side up unless you happen to be afflicted with a rare disorder which results in everything always appearing topsy turvy [illegible] the [illegible] desired [illegible] should [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in the image seen [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] back in their [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] sees [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] as it really is—and not in the [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] was [illegible] reversed on [illegible] [illegible] his article is [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] would like [illegible] New York American.

GRAVESTONE LUNCHEONS.

One of the Curious Sights of New York's Historical District

In the [illegible] [illegible] where [illegible] [illegible] Hamil [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] can be [illegible] through the [illegible] [illegible] of the bronze [illegible] every [illegible] [illegible] their noon [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] New [illegible] [illegible] About are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] being over [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by the trolley's [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to the roar of the [illegible] Within the [illegible] churchyard all [illegible] [illegible] It is here that the [illegible] from the [illegible] [illegible] buildings [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

...gressive Newspaper
Most Progressive
In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

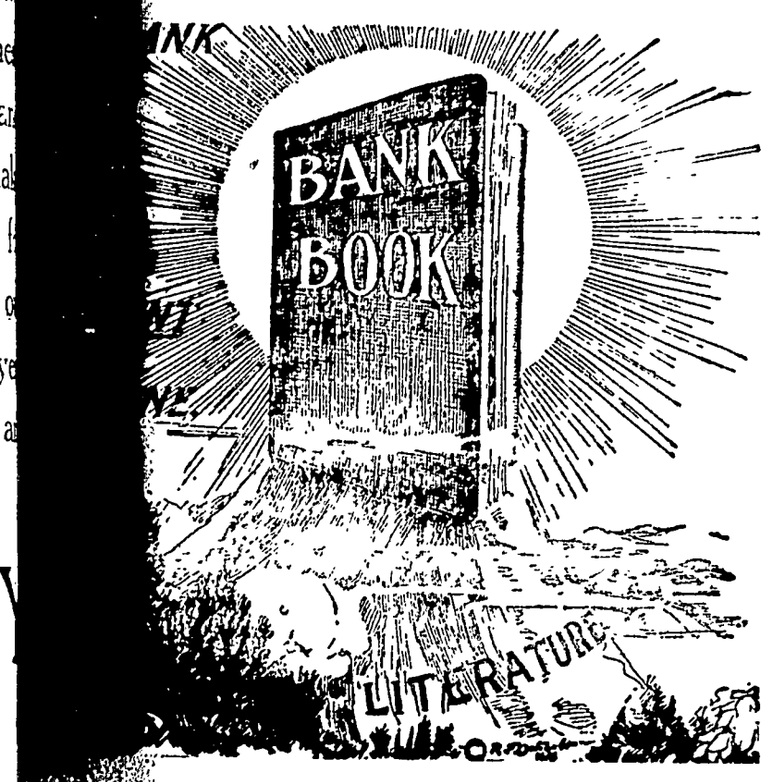
XIX. NUMBER 21 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1914. | $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

...r banking business with, you can feel assured of ...pt and faithful service in every department.
Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy.



...Those who ... account ... to START one. Those who are already our customers know the value of always keeping their bank balance growing. Money put into our bank right here at home stays in our own community, and this helps develop and helps everybody to prosper.

Why send money away when we can increase the value of OUR OWN property by building up our own town?

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

...tate Savings Bank.
Klemme Iowa

...tal $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
...lus $15,000.00 |

Can you beat it?

...eling Good?

OF COURSE you are feeling GOOD after the Christmas festivities. But why not go a little farther and feel good The ...f the Year? It's easy when you know how. ...keep in touch with your druggist---"he ..."---and a few cents occasionally will do it.

Laxacold
Has no equal as a destroyer of cold

...st G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN
...IAN SURGEON
...CE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
...DENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109
...ographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

...r Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Gathered From Here and There and Everywhere

Meadeville, Pa.—A coasting party, the youngest member of which was 8½ and the oldest 92, was held on Terrace Hill, Saturday. The members of the party were John Fox, Haisey Terrill, John King and Johnathan Smack.

Wichita, Kans.—S. F. Jocelyn, divorce proctor, refused to give Mrs. Ivy May Warner a divorce because her present husband is her ninth Hastings, Neb.—R. H. T. Dressler, a merchant, served notices through display advertisements that he would sue for $25,000 damages anyone who calls him by his nickname "Jack."

Austin, Texas.—The stringent Allison liquor law, prohibiting shipment of liquor into "dry" territory in Texas, has been practically invalidated by a decision of the court of criminal appeals which Judge Prendergast said "wiped out the statute books."

Providence, R. I.—So many people answered a help wanted advertisement at a suburban factory recently that extra cars were run to carry them. Three hundred women and two men were hired.

...Pittsburg, Pa.—A family moving here from ... a matter of their goods ... the first time on record ... the piano has been put to this use.

Pittsburg, Pa.—There are 30,000 men on the pay roll of the U. S. Steel corporation.

St. Louis, Mo.—Screech owl is the latest addition to ... menus in first class cafes ... is said that this breed of owl makes very good eating.

A Letter from Germany

Our bandmaster, J. F. Granzow, has favored us with a copy of the letter he recently recieved from a former classmate in a German music school. The letter is of recent date and is from the German war zone which will make it of interest to our readers.

Wiesbaden, Dec. 8th, 1914

J. F. Granzow,
Algona, Ia, U. S. A.
Friend Fritz.

It is about a ... age that I write you and I did not ... answer, but perhaps you are as busy as ever.

I send you and ... a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year wish and hope best ... you in good ... and ... is split up ... just now we have eight boys, the oldest is in China yet, and we have not ... since he left home. The second one was in the battle when they captured Antwerp and was shot through the hand, he is in the city hospital now and getting along fine. The third boy is in Ostend. The fourth is a musician in the Lieb Grenadier Regt. and has seen no battle as yet, but anxious to see one. The fifth boy is guarding prisoners (doing field work) and the sixth is in government aeroplane school and will graduate next spring and can scarcely wait for the time to come when he can do his share in the government military service.

Well Fritz, we have plenty of strong willing men here to enlist and believe me it is wonderful how these men, singing in a body when they leave home and when they go to the front. Just think of it Fritz, for instance myself, I am the proud father of one of those 2700 German soldiers at Chin Tau, who held off 60,000 Japanese soldiers for 91 days and if it were not for being starved out, I believe they would be holding the Japs off yet.

Give our best regards to your family and let us hear from you soon.

Herman Suhr,
(Gerichs Castellan)

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Sunday School at 11 o'clock.

Preaching in evening at 7:30, subject: "The Woes of Ruin."

With these services we begin the revival meetings, to which we especially urge every member to come, for we need your presence. We cordially invite all to these meetings. Services every evening excepting Saturday.

Preaching by the pastor.

Mrs. Wm. Milligan and Mrs. J. M. Howdeshell will entertain the Ladies Aid Society at the home of Mrs. Milligan, Thursday afternoon, February 4th.

REV. J. M. HOWDESHELL,
Pastor.

FUTURITY

Items Taken from the Times Files Not Yet In Existence

President V. S. Filbert of the State Agricultural College at Ames was here this week and gave one of his principal speeches at the annual Short Course. He remarked that time had certainly changed conditions considerably since his first visit to our town as advance man for our first full weeks course for at that time, the farmers let the business ... all the work of preparing for the course, and now he is told that fully fifty farmers were in town Friday and Saturday getting things in readiness for the course. He also complimented them on the fine stock pavilion that had been erected.

Gruetzmacher Bros. new 3 story wholesale hardware building was the scene of a fire Monday evening. Fire was discovered on the top floor by assistant manager Winters, and had gained considerable headway. He turned in the alarm and the auto truck fire engine was playing a stream on the flames exactly 23 seconds after the alarm was turned in. Fire captain, James Missman certainly made a very commendable record

Senator ... es Moines to ... over Sunday visit with his family and he told the editor that he was framing a bill to have all fire up stations heated by electricity in order to prevent explosion that might occur if one of the government Dirgeables might escape gas. One can certainly see the good point of the bill and should give Senator Ell a word of encouragement.

The Grand opera house, seating capacity of 5,000, was not enough to hold the crowd that was out to see the farewell performance of "Ben Hur" Saturday evening and standing room was at a premium and fully 5300 were housed while at least 200 were turned away.

The St. Marys hospital at the corner of Main and Third is nearing completion. It will house two hundred patients and Dr. Missman, head physician tells us he has enough appendicitis operations booked to keep it filled to capacity for some time.

Mason City has at last acknowledged our right to be called the metropolis of Hancock-Cerro Gordo and asked the city councilmen that she be taken in as a suburb

(If you can hold this down until next week, we may have another bit.)

Pressing the Ship Bill

The bill now being discussed in the Senate for issuing thirty million dollars in Government Bonds with which to buy and build ships with which to carry on our commerce, is being heartily approved by the people of the country. The American people have realized that since the war began, what a shame it is, that the greatest commercial and industrial nation in the world has no Merchant Marine with which to carry our commerce over the seas. Europe wants our lumber, cotton grain and other farm products, but we have no ships with which to get our goods over there. The ship bill will supply this great need, and it is believed the bill will become a law in the near future, although several senators are trying to talk it to death, as they fear that if the U. S. Government will own ships, that very soon it will own railroads too, and run them in the interest of the American people instead of the stockholders, just as the Post Office and Parce Post are run in the interest of the people.

Notice Of Probate Of Will

STATE OF IOWA } ss.
Hancock County, }

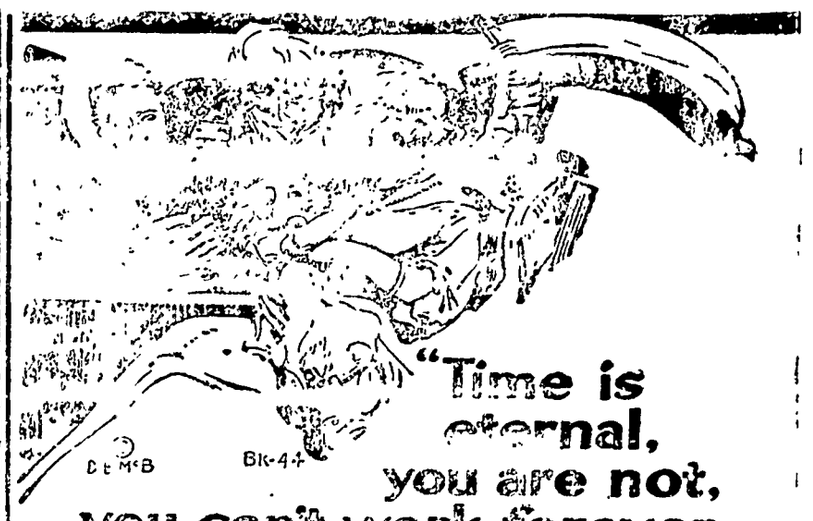
To Whom it May Concern:

Notice is hereby given that an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Jacob M. Walz deceased was filed in the office of the undersigned on the 9th day of January A. D. 1915 and that March 1st 1915 was fixed for hearing proof in relation thereto.

WITNESS my hand and the Seal of the District Court attached at Garner, in said County this 11th day of January A. D. 1915.

E. L. Stilson.
Clerk of the District Court,
Hancock County Iowa.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.



"Time is eternal, you are not, you can't work forever Start a Bank account now."

A Bank account protects you. It prevents you from running in debt, when your income has been cut.

It saves you humiliation and discomfort. Next to health it is the best asset you can possess and it is in the power of every human being who earns money to have one. You will be surprised to know how fast small savings grow. We want you to start an account with us. Begin with $1.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prices

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is the Time
To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

PUBLIC SALE

Wednesday, February 10

Sale to Commence at 10:00 a. m. Free Hot Lunch at Noon

132 Head of Live Stock

15 - Head of Horses - 15

57 - Head of Cattle - 57

60 - Head of Good Shoats - 60

175 Chickens. Farm Machinery, Etc.

Wm. Bachman, Prop.

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

[illegible] Gardi a Naples hairdresser married his sweetheart subject to an undertaking on the part of her father to spend $60 for tonsorial attentions within two years of the wedding in place of a dowry, otherwise the wife is to be returned to her parents.

Of all animals, birds are among the largest eaters. This means, of course in proportion to their weight. The heron, which has an average weight of only four pounds in spite of its size has been known to eat three and one-half pounds of fish at one meal

The total number of emigrants from the whole of Sweden to the United States was 12,688 in 1912 and 17,202 in 1913 from the three Scandinavian countries 31,601 in 1912 and 38,737 in 1913, and from Finland, 6,641 in 1912 and 12,756 in 1913

The barbers' guild of Moscow has offered to shave wounded soldiers and cut their hair free of charge and at Vilna 1,500 cab drivers have tendered their services for the gratuitous transport of those disabled in action

Having no money to pay his fare, George Spencer, a paroled prisoner, walked from Gardner, Ore., to Portland, Ore., covering the distance of 250 miles in six days in order to give his testimony in a larceny case

Statistics show that in the early days of American colleges about one-half the graduates adopted the ministry as a profession. At the present time only about 5 per cent of the [illegible] graduates become ministers

Figures compiled by the Austro-Hungarian and German consulates in New York show that [illegible] reservists [illegible] registered themselves for service [illegible] unable to obtain transportation

Emile Combes former premier of France and still a powerful figure in French politics in spite of his 79 years has undertaken the direction of the military hospital at Pons his birthplace

There was an increase in 1913 of the number of insane people in Ireland from 24,839 to [illegible] These figures do not include wanderers at large or residents in private dwellings

Countess Mohtor an English woman will shortly start on a perilous trip across the Rub-al-Khali the great sandy desert of South Arabia done using only native guides

The lakes of oil in the western oil fields prove death traps to the ducks which [illegible] under the impression [illegible] The birds rarely [illegible]

[illegible]

Stovewood costs 1 cent a stick in British Honduras

Italy [illegible] 1914 government [illegible] receipts $ [illegible]

As far as known at present the giraffe is the only animal which is entirely dumb.

In six months in the Seventeenth century 380,000 persons died in Naples of a plague

There are 300 [illegible] mines in operation in Sweden and 60 mines of other metals

There are 1,400 telephone calls daily between New York and Philadelphia

Each year the import of opium from India into China is reduced by 5,100 chests

Norway last year exported 146,106 tons of paving stones

Canned whale meat is used extensively in Japan

Elephants are [illegible] in India at about [illegible] each

Chi[illegible] goods valued at [illegible]

ALL IOWA RAILROADS TO BE INSPECTED BY STATE COMMISSION

Tour Will Take Several Months and Will Cost State of Iowa About $3,000.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 23 - The state railroad commission will make an inspection of all of the railroad lines in Iowa during 1915, according to James Wilson, member of the commission. There are 10,000 miles of railroad in this state. It will probably take several months for the board to finish the inspection trip. The cost of the tour will be something like 3,000.

It is said that the law requires the railroad commission to make annual inspections of the railroad lines and bridges in the state though it has been three years since such an inspection has been made. Probably the commission will have to have a special train for its work as it must stop to look over every bridge. This sort of inspection work cannot be handled on regular train. Some sort of a railroad bicycle or gasoline car may be used.

According to state officials the effort in the legislature to take the railroad passes away from the railroad commission has been attempted several times before. When told that if the commission must give up its passes and pay regular passenger fares an additional appropriation of about $5,000 would be necessary the general assembly has backed down on the proposition in the past. The members of the commission say they have no objection to giving up the free transportation.

[illegible] that it is all the same to them as the state must pay the expenses of the commission if the change is [illegible] However one member said that he does not like the proposition of having the expense money and waiting [illegible] days or more for the state to audit the bills before reimbursement. He says that a better system should be arranged.

INSURGENT TREASURER OF M B A QUITS FIGHT

Muscatine, Ia., Jan 23 - In a letter made public yesterday Homer Pitner of Cedar Rapids resigned as treasurer of the insurgents of the Modern Brotherhood of America. The letter came out following a turned visit of J. H. Hughes, Cedar Rapids president of the insurgents to the home office here yesterday. Pitner, who is cashier of the Cedar Rapids National bank stated in his letter of resignation he found the accusations against the present supreme officers without foundation.

Pitner further stated that he did not care to be longer associated with the organization the leaders of which apparently [illegible] to misconstrue facts. [illegible] the matter of the [illegible] misappropriation of $60,000 [illegible] He said [illegible] the truth of the matter [illegible] critics to obtain [illegible]

G A BRITCH NAMED AS IDA GROVE POSTMASTER

Ida Grove, Ia., Jan 23 - G. A. Britch [illegible] notified that he has received the appointment as postmaster of Ida Grove. Word to that effect having been received here yesterday afternoon. For [illegible] the postmaster question [illegible] interest here. I. N. Searle, former county treasurer, [illegible] active and aggressive [illegible] the other and the outcome has been considered doubtful.

The successful candidate located in this city in the early 80s, establishing a [illegible] in 1882 and until [illegible] that line of business in connection with a general [illegible] himself with the democratic party [illegible] first [illegible] here and for over a [illegible] has held the office of [illegible] of the democratic county central committee.

His [illegible] in political matters has been most successful for at no time has the court house been without [illegible] democratic [illegible] at the present time there is only one republican office holder in the county capitol [illegible] is the man whom Mr [illegible] postmaster [illegible] all to the office [illegible] although [illegible] republican by several [illegible]

[illegible] to the postmaster [illegible] active one by the [illegible] their friends, there has been [illegible] and the recog[illegible] will in no wise [illegible] the party or [illegible] the first of [illegible] courts and has [illegible] of both

SENATOR KENYON LISTED IN "FATHER" COFFIN'S WILL

[illegible] 23 In the [illegible] probate yesterday [illegible] $66,700 Buena [illegible] gets $20,000 [illegible] $10,500 [illegible] $2,000 [illegible] college [illegible] college [illegible] prohibition [illegible] and $2 [illegible] prohibition [illegible] to the local [illegible] given $2,000 [illegible] $1,000 each [illegible] are made [illegible] half of what [illegible] No [illegible]

SHORTHILL COMPANY SAID TO BE BADLY INVOLVED

[illegible] That the [illegible] the A. L. Shorthill company, [illegible] the Shorthill Steel and [illegible] of Perry, Ia., are hopelessly [illegible] and that the two companies [illegible] facts disclosed [illegible] of T. I. Shoe[illegible] in the district [illegible] to the report of the receiver and his attorney C. H. E. [illegible] of the company has [illegible] startling and almost [illegible] the receiver and his attorney say the [illegible] plant is now shut down.

JUDGE NOYES, NEW YORK, FOR ANCILLARY RECEIVER

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan 22 Walter I. Smith, United States circuit judge at a hearing in chambers, appointed Judge Walter C. Noyes, of New York, ancillary receiver for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company in Iowa. This is the holding company and does not affect the operating company known as the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company. The appointment gives Judge Noyes jurisdiction in the state of Iowa. Bond was fixed at $10,000.

AFFAIRS OF FORMER COLBY MOTOR CO. TO BE AIRED IN COURT

Will Attempt to Annul $200,000 In Notes Signed By Aged Woman.

Mason City, Ia., Jan 23 - A case involving $275,000 will be heard before Judge Joseph J. Clark in the district court of this county commencing next Monday. It is the case growing out of financial difficulties in the management of the Colby Motor company.

William Colby was the promotor and James Colby his brother was his assistant. Among other things which will doubtless be aired in court will be the policy adopted by William Colby in securing funds with which to conduct the business. It is stated that he secured close to $200,000 from Mari and William Walsh, and all sorts of rumors are afloat to this matter. The Walshes are ruined if the notes which they signed are held to be legal. Among other things the defense will claim, if reports are reliable, that the company paid excessive discounts, paid cash commissions to cashiers, and in some cases gave automobiles as inducements to banks to carry the Walsh securities.

Nearly eight months ago Pizan and Welsh expert accountants, were put to work on the books by Samuel Schneider who was appointed trustee. The books will reveal some startling surprises, it is said. The company gave a large assessment to the assessor so that it would be more easy to sell stock. Then there will be a number of automobiles to be accounted for.

In order to establish the invalidity of the notes given by Mrs Mari Walsh, an effort will be made to establish the fact that on account of age and education she was not able to transact business and was, in fact, of unsound mind when the notes were signed.

MRS JEFFERIES CORROBORATES HUSBAND'S TESTIMONY

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan 23 Mrs Charles C. Jefferies, formerly of Glidden, went upon the witness stand in court here and bravely testified to the relations once existing between her husband and a female barber named Pearl Christian, of Omaha, as told her by her husband corroborating his story of the alleged conspiracy by which they lost their home and $3,500 in cash. Mrs Jefferies told of mysterious visits to her home by a man and a woman who on various occasions carefully detailed to her stories which she said were intended to shatter her faith in her husband and wreck her home. She was asked she said if she knew that he husband was deeply interested in Pearl Christian the woman barber. She replied that she did that he had himself told of his interest in the girl.

She was then asked if she knew of automobile rides and kisses purchased by her husband with clothing and other articles for the girl, and in each instance she replied that she did that her husband had told her. She related at length a number of such stories leading up to the visit of Lloyd Longnecker to offer his services as head of detective agency to run down and prosecute the gang of blackmailers who, she said, he told her were trying to work her husband for a large sum of money.

COURT REFUSES TO ENJOIN SALOONS IN IDA COUNTY

Ida Grove, Ia., Jan 23 - Judge M. I. [illegible] has been holding court here for the past three weeks, and one of his last official acts before adjourning was to refuse to grant the injunctions against the five saloons in the county as asked in petitions filed some time ago by John F. Joseph a Sioux City attorney in the interests of the W. C. T. U. of Ida Grove. Attorney M. M. White, of this city, in behalf of the liquor dealers, had filed an answer in which he had set out that as the owners of the saloons had voluntarily closed their places of business prior to the filing of the actions brought by Attorney Joseph and were now operating under new permits by the town council bodies there were no grounds in the petitions under which the saloons could be closed. Judge Hutchinson in his decree held that the contention was good and refused to grant the injunctions. There are five saloons, one in each town, and the present permit will extend their time of operation until December 28, which is the expiration of the life of the petition of consent.

WRONG BODY AT FUNERAL: EXPRESSMAN MAKES ERROR

Cedar Falls, Ia., Jan 22. With preparations for the funeral complete and the mourners gathered at the William Babcock home at 416 Walnut street for the last rites for Hiram W. Babcock civil war veteran, services were hastily postponed yesterday afternoon when upon opening the casket it was found the corpse was that of some one else.

Babcock died at the Soldiers home in Marshalltown at the age of 82 and his body was shipped here for burial in his home town. There were two corpses in transit on the same train and the baggageman got them mixed sending the body of the Cedar Falls veteran to Oelwein and unloading the corpse of an Oelwein man here.

The shift of bodies was not discovered until within half an hour of time for the funeral service, when the casket was opened. Relatives immediately got busy on the wire and arranged for the return of the right body late yesterday. The funeral will be held today.

A. B. KNOX, OF CHEROKEE, DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

Cherokee, Ia., Jan 23 - A. B. Knox, a prominent Cherokee merchant and head of the Knox Mercantile company died suddenly at his home this morning from bronchial trouble. While he had been in ill health for the past year and had submitted to an operation last summer, he was attending to his routine duties as usual yesterday. Mr Knox who was 54 years of age, had resided in Cherokee for a period of [illegible] years. He is survived by a wife and four children.

YOUNG WOMAN, IN LOVE AND DESPONDENT, SUICIDES

Clarion, Ia., Jan 21 - Maude Ashby, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs R. M. Ashby, committed suicide at her home on a farm near here.

She had been keeping company with a young man, Jesse Wyman. Her parents objected to him. A few days ago he was accused of stealing some money. The charge made the girl very despondent.

She drank strychnine shortly before noon while her parents were away from the farm, and was dead when they returned. She left a note which plainly shows she was despondent.

COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS IN IOWA LEGISLATURE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 20. The senate and house committee chairmanships follow

In the Senate.

Ways and Means—Allen, of Pocahontas.
Judiciary No 1—Frances, of Dickinson.
Judiciary No. 2—Chase, of Hamilton.
Appropriations—Savage, of Adair.
Schools—Boe, of Winnebago.
Railroads—Larrabee, of Webster.
Agriculture—Doran, of Boone.
Cities and Towns—Kimball, of Pottawattamie.
Banks—Jones, of Montgomery.
Highways—Balkema, of Sioux.
Insurance—Hilsinger, of Jackson.
Telephones and Telegraphs—Perkins, of Delaware.
Corporations—Parker, of Polk.
Manufactories—Foster, of Guthrie.
Constitutional Amendments—Enger of Winneshiek.
Public Health—Grout of Blackhawk.
Military Affairs—Whitmore of Wapello.
Suppression of Intemperance—Eversmeyer, of Muscatine.
Penitentiaries and Pardons—Heald of Linn.
Elections—Darrah of Lucas.
Labor—Wilson, of Appanoose.
Educational Institutions—Arney of Marshall.
Public Utilities—Fralley of Lee.
Board of Control—Robinson of Franklin.
Public Libraries—Laffer of Keokuk.
Printing—Helmer of Carroll.
Commerce and Trade—Enger of Winneshiek.
Congressional and Judicial Districts—Eversmeyer of Muscatine.
County and Township Affairs—Taylor of Van Buren.
Public Lands—Nye of Taylor.
Food and Dairy—Thomas of [illegible].
Mines and Mining—Clarkson, of Monroe.
Pharmacy—Jackson of Floyd.
Fish and Game—Fellows of Allamakee.
Public Buildings—Crist of Clarke.
Senate and Representative Districts—Hendgbaum of Scott.
Rules—Thompson of Des Moines.
Enrolled Bills—Foskett of [illegible].
Claims—Schrup, of Dubuque.
Charitable Institutions—Quigley of Clayton.
Federal Relations—Hageman of Bremer.
Horticulture—Fitz of Woodbury.
Engrossed Bills—Gillette of Cherokee.
Retrenchment and Reform—Allen of Pocahontas.

In the House

Ways and Means—Barry of [illegible].
Appropriations—Anderson of [illegible].
Judiciary—Ring of Linn.
Munro of Washington.
Agriculture—Brady of Dallas.
Railroad and Transportation—Griffin of Woodbury.
Municipal Corporations—Kimberly of Scott.
Schools and Text Books—M[illegible] of Buena Vista.
Insurance—Brammer of Polk.
Constitutional Amendments—K[illegible]ker of Crawford.
Public Utilities—Kopp of H[illegible].
Suppression of Intemperance—W[illegible] of Fayette.

Other house chairmen are: Elections, Doran of Hancock; public health, Slaught of Wapello; labor, Buxton of Warren; board of control, Anderson of Montgomery; [illegible] Jones of Dickinson; commerce and trade, McFarlane of Blackhawk; [illegible] Jackson; [illegible] state [illegible] Robert [illegible] Johnson of [illegible] Jones of Cerro Gordo, penitentiaries; [illegible] of Jones, pharmacy; Becker of Clayton, [illegible] Miller of [illegible] printing; [illegible] woman suffrage; Norelius of [illegible] telegraph and express; [illegible] Phares Greene [illegible] Rome of Worth [illegible] bills; Sawyer of Lee [illegible] Clay [illegible] Nicholson of Winneshiek [illegible] Wilson of [illegible] Reasoner of Muscatine [illegible] Neff of Pottawattamie [illegible] and township organization, Hall of Taylor [illegible] lands and drainage; McFarland of Hamilton [illegible] charities; Bauman of Van Buren, state university; Steelsmith [illegible] Story [illegible] Jamison of Des Moines [illegible] Grason of Pottawattamie, college for blind [illegible] Sullivan of Kossuth, domestic manufactures; Bronson of Blackhawk, federal relations; Bingham of Emmet, private corporations; Roberts [illegible] Elwood of Howard.

CLINTON—Knocked down and run over by an engine and tender and escaping with only a few bruises and a wrecked suit of clothes Harry Riggs of this city declares that the age of miracles is not yet past. Riggs was on his way to work and was walking in the middle of the track. He did not hear an engine backing up on him. He was struck in the middle of the back and knocked to the ground. He says he does not know what caused him to throw up his feet but he did so, and they caught in some part of the gearing. He was shoved forward over the ground face down and for more for nearly 50 feet. Then his feet became disentangled and he [illegible] passed [illegible] over him.

IDA GROVE—Word has been received in this city of the death of Oscar Rieger at his home in Seattle, Wash. He was one of the pioneer settlers of Ida county, having been engaged in the mercantile business here [illegible] was cashier of the [illegible] 1911 or until July [illegible] Lake and [illegible]

IDA GROVE [illegible]

BURLINGTON—George [illegible] Bingham, the original [illegible] of the old Bostonians died suddenly here of heart failure. He was [illegible] years old. He had appeared here Monday in a revival of the comic opera "Robin Hood." He had played the part of the Jolly Friar more than 4,000 times in the last [illegible] years.

[illegible] Funeral services were held here Tuesday for Dr. [illegible] the oldest man in Clinton county and probably in the state. He was [illegible] He died [illegible] Saturday of pneumonia. Previous to that time he had been [illegible] full possession of his faculties.

The noted Parisian dressmaker Worth owed his early success to the patronage of the [illegible] personage of the third empire, Princess Pauline de Metternich, [illegible] wife of the Austrian [illegible] by her wit and [illegible] at the [illegible] Eugenie. Therefore it was easy for Worth to become the most sought of the world's dressmakers when the princess approved his styles. Charles Worth while so long the creator of French fashion was an Englishman born in Bourne, England, in 1825, and died in Paris in 1895.

ALLIES NEGOTIATING THREE BILLION LOAN

French, English and Russian Ministers Meet to Discuss Big Bond Issue.

Paris, Jan. 23 — A conference was ehld in Paris today by the British chancellor of the exchequer, David Lloyd-George, and Alexander Ribot and P. Bark, the French and Russian ministers of finance. It is said that the meeting was arranged to consider a joint loan of 15,000,000 francs to bear interest of 3½ per cent.

NO STAR CHAMBER FOR GRAFT PROBE

Reporters Allowed to Attend All Sessions, Insuring Publicity For the Facts Brought Out.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 23 As a means of getting away from the criticism that Iowa has too many laws and is making more all the time, Representative Jamison, of Des Moines county, today introduced a bill in the Iowa legislature to amend the constitution so that the assembly shall convene every six years, instead of every two years. The bill provides that intermediate sessions may be held each three years to pass appropriations. In case of emergency, the governor may call a special session at any time.

"I believe we have too many laws as it is," Mr Jamison declared. "We should start out to enforce those we have before enacting any more." Under the constitution it will take six years to put the admenment in force, so that the first general assembly under the plan would be held in 1919 and every sixth year thereafter. The terms of senators and representatives would be six years.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 23 - No "star chamber" sessions will be allowed in the work of the committee named by the senate Tuesday to investigate the charges made by Governor Clarke that graft was practiced in the hiring of legislative employes.

At the first meeting of the body, called by Chairman Crist Thursday afternoon it was decided that all sessions will be open to reporters. This is a radical concession in view of the fact that all deliberations of the retrenchment and reform committees and temperance committees in the past have been strictly secret. The appropriations committee of the senate, which was just organized has also voted in favor of secret sessions. It is said the vote stood 14 to 5 in favor of secret sessions and no record of the votes on each measure.

Startling disclosures are promised when the "graft" committee once gets busy. Those who predicted that the investigation would be a dead issue in a few days are to be disappointed. The [illegible] and two democratic members of the body are determined to present a full and complete report of conditions.

Talk of Retaliation

The republicans are just a little nettled that the democrats, through Senator Quigley should have won their fight for the probe of the governor's [illegible]. Here is the way they propose [illegible] back at the minority. They claim to be able to point out a half dozen prominent democrats who in the past have hired their wives, daughters or relatives as committee clerks. On the other hand, the democrats say the majority is responsible for all patronage and that an exposure will reflect on the republicans only. Either way it is viewed, interesting developments are sure to come.

The first move of the committee will be to find out just what powers it has under the resolution. To that end Chairman Crist will confer with Governor Clarke and find out just what the chief executive meant when he made the charge of graft. The committee may ask the senate in a resolution to outline the powers to call witnesses and otherwise investigate the alleged extravagance. Senator Hilsinger democrat has been made secretary of the body.

ROGERS AND AFFINITY NOW FACING CHARGES

Woman Held For Poisoning Two Babes — Betrayer Arrested For Violating Moral Code.

New York, Jan [illegible] Lorlys Elton Rogers, the New York lawyer whose [illegible] affairs have been [illegible] since December [illegible] Mrs [illegible] Walters mother of his [illegible] children [illegible] the children [illegible] at the [illegible] station of the district [illegible] of Bronx county [illegible] $7,500 bail for [illegible] next Thursday.

Rogers was arrested after [illegible] indictment against [illegible] today charging him with violation of the penal code in inducing Mrs Walters to live with him for immoral purposes. After returning the indictment the grand jury continued its investigation into the circumstances attending the death of the two children [illegible]

[illegible] Walters was still at the [illegible] She faces a charge of murder in connection with the poisoning of her two children, who died. The [illegible] Mrs Walters with [illegible] did not have effect. It [illegible] at Powers and Mrs Walters lived together for years, though the lawyer was keeping his lawful wife [illegible] other establishment. Mrs. Walters had become despondent because Rogers had supposedly repudiated his promise to marry her when he could obtain release from Mrs. Rogers, his second wife.

Chopped hair has been successfully [illegible] for skin in skin grafting by a French surgeon due to the fact that hair cells can be transformed into skin.

CUMMINS AT[illegible] SHIP BILL; [illegible] WILSON'S S[illegible]

President Has Turned Progress Back, He [illegible] Marine Bill Characterized as Vicious.

SCORES BANK LEGIS[illegible]

Says Executive Is Re[illegible] Instead of Progress[illegible] Unmindful of Dign[illegible] His Office

Washington, [illegible] attack upon Presid[illegible] upon legislation [illegible] expressed in th[illegible] olis speech was [illegible] mins today in the [illegible] the administration [illegible]

"One of the most dangerous proposals [illegible]," was his [illegible] bill. The president [illegible] ed at length.

"Its effect has [illegible] and continue to be, to str[illegible] then [illegible] lican cause," he said, [illegible] pass into history [illegible] tempt of the pres[illegible] courtesy and dignity [illegible] always for in one who occupies [illegible] alted office in the world and [illegible] mal effort of a man [illegible] change the habit [illegible] to win momentary [illegible]

Predicts Wilson's Def[illegible]

He declared it [illegible] judgment, that [illegible] course of the pr[illegible] years, turned back [illegible] hand dial of progress so far [illegible] will not again be trusted with [illegible] piece of the Twentieth century.

At length he attacked the [illegible] influence on congress and de[illegible] with the exception of the tariff measures of general interest ered since the beginning of the [illegible] istration had "been initiated White House or in the office [illegible] net minister."

"Somehow the [illegible] tions has been trans[illegible] tor Cummins, [illegible] branch of the gov[illegible] a mere recorder [illegible] really wants is a [illegible] of a congress."

"The attitude of [illegible] senator asserted, [illegible] character and destructive [illegible] cles."

Senator Cummins [illegible] principal reform [illegible] cratic administration [illegible] will have imposed [illegible] shipping bill should become [illegible] most reactionary [illegible] tion, which so far [illegible] goes, has ever appeared [illegible]

He called both the [illegible] currency laws reactionary [illegible] that instead of relieving the [illegible] currency measure had [illegible] combine of capital [illegible] securely the chains of those [illegible] relief.

Republicans of the Senate [illegible] mal conference determined [illegible] government ship purchase [illegible] the resources they could [illegible] to continue the opposition [illegible] —until March 4 or [illegible] should one be called.

Senator Williams asserted [illegible] tor Townsend and the repub[illegible] erally were attempting to [illegible] "purely sectional feeling [illegible] side." The thought that such [illegible] gram could be successful, [illegible] founded in the "arrogant as[illegible] of the average republican [illegible] average democrat is a fool.

ZEPPELINS USE[illegible] IN BRITISH [illegible]

Latest Type of Craft In[illegible] England—British Air[illegible] Bombard Essen, Home of Krupp Plant.

Copenhagen, Jan. 22. (via [illegible]) Messages received here from [illegible] declare that the airships which [illegible] England the night of Jan [illegible] Zeppelins of the latest type [illegible] forth from a secret base on the [illegible] frontier, carrying a full [illegible] men, heavy guns and ammunition.

Arnhem, Netherlands [illegible] passenger arriving here today [illegible] Germany, asserts that allied [illegible] yesterday, threw bombs upon the [illegible] of Essen, destroying a number of houses. Essen is the home of the famous Krupp steel works.

London, Jan. 22 — Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent sent the following from Berlin, giving the German version of the airship raid on the English coast:

"Our airships, in order to attack fortified town of Great Yarmouth obliged to fly over other towns which, it is stated, they were fired [illegible] These attacks were answered [illegible] throwing of bombs.

"England has no right to be [illegible] nant, as her flying machines and [illegible] in broad daylight have attacked towns, such as Freiburg, Dar-a-[illegible] and Swakopmund.

"Aircraft are acknowledged to [illegible] gitimate weapons in the carrying [illegible] modern warfare as long as their [illegible] ations are conducted in accordance with the rules of international [illegible] This has been done by our dir[illegible]

"The German nation, forced by [illegible] land to fight for its existence, [illegible] be compelled to forego the employ[illegible] of legitimate means of self defense [illegible] will not do it, relying upon her [illegible] right."

The debris left from [illegible] has been made into articles [illegible] etc., is crushed, [illegible] and [illegible] tooth powder at a high price by [illegible] perfumers.

...MAKING ...UT STEADY ...IN POLAND

...New Army Push... German Frontier Holding Lines of Vistula.

...TING IN WEST

...In Progress Be... ...d and Nieuport ... of Refugees Starving

...23 News dispatches ... situation in Poland, ...orth of the Vistula, in ...lipse Russian advance ...within 20 miles of the ...ier while to the northeast ...have evacuated Skempe ...25 miles from the Prus... ...and Eduse, east of Thorn ...Russians follow up their suc... ...and continue their for... ...if will give Germ... ...in the ...sion of Pri... ...gers... ...near German

...as High Hopes

...allies ... watching this ...with great interest and ...Petrograd say that the ...winning fight hopes on ...hr... ...ar for a Germa... ...the ... ...re... ...ov... ...course, ...to ... ...but not ...us... ...the ...rsea ...or ... ...them... ...the ...ttempted Austrian ...er ... ...spatches tell ...of ... ...enforce... ...check the Russian d...

...ng In Belgium

...ng ... progress once ...the western front. Unof... ...from Amsterdam tell of ...in Belgium between Os... ...port, which has been rag... ...bombardment for three days, ...sending the ... flooded ...and almost ... all roads ...the other end of the ... ...near Ger... ...land. Thann, in Alsace, ...is ... ...ry fighting of the ... ...encounter ... ...the Lorraine ...ers is increas... ...severe, and ...account of the ... ...type of the is... ...may develop into a battle of the ...portions of that at Soissons last ...k.

...he Germans have halted the French ...ance designed to cut communica... ...with the important fortress of ...in Lorraine, and isolate the Ger... ...forces in the St Mihiel region The ...statement from Berlin today ...the French lost heavily in ...near Port a Mousson and ...The French statement ...that the Germans have ...of their lost trenches. ...ent battle is in progress ...which troops are engaged ...d struggles The Berlin ...rts that the French were ...e heights near Sennheim ...aim to have arrested the ...ce in the Caucasus, but ...tails The British press ...ssert that the proposed ...on of Egypt is doomed ...t gives credence to many ...effect that such invasion ...attempted

...ing Widespread

...ing in Belgium, which the ...erica has gone so far to ...for the moment in the back... ...compared with the desti... ...combatants in Palestine, ...and the Carpathians From ...Jewish colorists continue to ...Egypt, being conveyed as rapid... ...by the American cruiser ... ...The devastation of Poland is ...terrible and a new appeal ...been issued by Ignace Pad... ...of Henry Sienkiwicz, who ...factions It is said that ...in Poland is far worse ...Belgium The fleeing peo... ...are living like animals ...fighting with wolves for ...ce as the snow covered ...ds

...IP TO RISK ...SE TO GERMANY

...Company Will Main... ...s Can't Stop Ship... ...Non-Combatants

...[illegible] ... shipped by an ...and consigned to an ...citizen in Germany the ...med steamer Wilhelmina ...clearance today from this ...burg and is expected to ...arrive ... The ship is as... ...food is meant only for ...by civilians

...first food carrying Ameri... ...to leave an American port ...since the war began in ...she is seized by warships of ...her consignees, the W L ...mission company, of St ...file a protest with the ...state department, according ...torneys of the company. ...the rules are not within ...under international law in ...the shipment of conditional ...to noncombatants in a ...war with the allies ...controvert in advance a ...by Great Britain or any ...allies, that the Wilhel... ...is intended for use by the ...ernment or its naval or ...es, the cargo is consigned ...an citizen who will be in ...the date on which the ...rive if she escapes seizure ...both the consignors and ...government guarantee, ...the attorneys that the ...ended for consumption by ...its only

...ACIA TO SAIL.

...Tex Jan 22 -Clearance ...issued for the steamship ...the United States cus... ...is afternoon, and she is ...sail ... today or early ...r Rotterdam.

Grand Opening of Hotel De Gink Is Swell Affair for Elite of New York's Hobodom

Believe Me, Bo, It Was Some Event and All the Road Stiffs Were There.

NEW CHARITY LAUNCHED

New York, Jan. 22—It was strictly a stag affair, the formal opening of the Hotel de Gink, New York's newest hostelry, whose doors were thrown open to the public last night. But do not for one moment entertain the thought that absence of the fair sex retarded the unalloyed enjoyment of the evening Oh, deah, no' Nuttin like it

There were dancing ladies with nicely painted faces, and waitress girls who smiled and made no disgusting suggestions having to do with woodpiles when a guest advanced that mere pie would not be amiss

There was also food loads of it and smokes of all weights and shades and drinks served by barmen who were never cross and who didn't hold out for pay in advance

'Some party, ney 'bo

The gent to the right of the forward south answered not the gent to the left being pressed, grunted Both glanced reproachfully at the bum who insulted food by talking over it

After 40 minutes of hard going and after cigars had been distributed Jeff Davis, manager of the Hotel de Gink, which will harbor the unemployed and the despised of labor alike began his schedule address He was received with loud cheers by mellow voices some of which broke off in hiccoughs

Davis spoke of his own plans and intentions of the hotel's purpose and of a man's duty toward his fellowman, the while two-thirds of his guests slumbered audibly

Taken as a whole the hotel opening was a most auspicious occasion and will long furnish topics for campfire discussions on the road

FOUR MEN KILLED ON U. S. WARSHIP

Boiler Tube of Cruiser San Diego Blows Out—Nine Other Seamen Injured By Terrific Explosion.

On Board U S S San Diego, Lapaz, Mex, Jan 22, (by wireless via San Diego, Cal, Jan. 23)—Four men were killed and nine seriously injured Thursday afternoon on board the armored cruiser San Diego when a boiler tube blew out after a steaming trial of four hours had been completed

The dead
OSCAR J WYATT, El Centro, Cal.
AMBUS J HARDEE, Joplin Mo
WILLIAM F ELLIOTT, Brooklyn, N Y
CLIFFORD A WESTERN, Davenport, Cal

All were firemen
The injured
Benjamin H Tucker,
H B. Glidden,
Darrell L. Varnado,
William H. Miller,
Ernest A Ledwith,
Charles W Peterson, firemen.
George Ohm, water tender
Emanuel A Shippi, seaman
Patrick A Merriman, coal passer

Immediately after the accident the cruiser left for Guyamas where she arrived at 2 o'clock this (Friday) morning

The San Diego is the flagship of the Pacific fleet and is in command of Capt Ashley H Robertson

Washington Jan 22—A brief official report to the navy department on the explosion aboard the cruiser, San Diego, added no details to the news dispatches, except to say that some of the nine injured were in a grave condition The next of kin of the dead were notified at once by the department

Rear Admiral Howard's report gave this account of the accident

"The San Diego completed her four hour full power trials and made 21 45 Just at the completion of the trials a tube in No 4 boiler ruptured, due to low water No endurance runs were attempted A full investigation has been ordered. And proceeding to Guaymas."

MURDERED TO MARRY; GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Bride of Percy Tugwell Fails In Sensational Effort to Prove Him Innocent.

Los Angeles Cal, Jan. 22—In a sensational attempt to prove that a similar quantity of chloroform would not cause death, Mrs Thelma Tugwell, bride of Percy Tugwell, charged with murder, drank a vial of the drug in court here. The sacrifice failed The jury returned a verdict sentencing Tugwell to life imprisonment.

Five members of Tugwell's family collapsed after the verdict was returned and were placed in five cots in a row at a receiving hospital One was the girl wife, who expects soon to become a mother

Mrs. Maud B. Kennedy for whose murder Tugwell was sentenced was lured from her home on the night of August 31, and robbed of diamonds and jewelry valued at $1,000. She was chloroformed Tugwell needed money to finance his marriage and a honeymoon trip, it was alleged

One of the little towns in Ontario has organized a company for the production of candied fruits, like the sweets and preserves produced in France and Italy

FORD WANTS CHANCE TO MAKE MEN OF CONVICTS

Auto Manufacturer Offers to Take All Prisoners In Sing Sing and Turn Them Into Citizens—Finds Liberal Pay System Has Worked Wonders Among Employes.

New York, Jan. 22 Henry Ford, of Detroit, millionaire manufacturer of automobiles, will guarantee to take every convict out of Sing Sing prison and make a man out of him He so stated today when he appeared to testify before the United States commission on industrial relations, which is investigating the great philanthropic foundations of the country and the cause for industrial unrest.

"The philanthropic foundations may do some good," said Mr Ford, "but they are not adequate. My idea is justice and not charity. I have little use for philanthropies as such. My idea is to aid men to help themselves Nearly all are willing to work for adequate reward. We have all kinds of cripples in our employ and they are making good We have a great many who have been in prison, who are outcasts from society Every one of them is making a good showing and is gaining in self respect and strength of character We will guarantee to take every convict out of Sing Sing and make a man out of him

Mr Ford a year ago installed in the concern of which he is the head, a system of profit sharing and a minimum wage scale of $5 a day

The plan, he asserted today, has done wonders. No more are his employes arrested for infraction of the laws. Instead of spending their time at vicious or unprofitable pursuits, they spend their time in their homes and at their employment There has been an increase of 130 per cent in the bank accounts of employes in the past year. So great is the interest of the men in their work that executive heads of the concern are constantly having to hold them back in their activity, he declared.

INAUGURATE SCHEME TO STARVE ENGLAND

Sinking of British Ship Bearing Gift Supplies to Belgium Believed to Mark Beginning of Effort to Surround Britain With Submarines and Cut Off Her Supplies.

The Hague, Jan. 23 It was stated here today that the British steamer, Durward, had on board 40 tons of provisions belonging to the American relief commission when she was sunk by a German submarine.

London, Jan 23.—The British steamer, Durward, says a Rotterdam dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company, has been torpedoed by a German submarine. The crew was saved

The Durward was bound from Leith to Rotterdam and was struck by the torpedo, according to the Reuter correspondent, while 22 miles of the Maas light ship. The crew took to the boats and reached the light ship from which a Dutch pilot boat conveyed them to Rotterdam.

The Durward was a vessel of 1,300 tons and was built at Glasgow in 1895. She was owned by G Gibson & Co., of the Leith Scotland.

It was the German submarine U-19, according to advices from Amsterdam, which torpedoed the Durward

The London newspapers interpret the sinking of the Durward as the beginning of a German naval policy alleged to have been urged by Admiral von Tirpitz, the German minister of the navy, against British merchant vessels.

The Evening Standard today prints a special article on the subject, pointing out that two small English merchant ships were recently sunk off Cherbourg, which together with the present episode, the newspaper says, tends to show the policy now being enforced "in an endeavor to starve England"

Amsterdam, (via London), Jan 23.—Members of the crew of the Durward say that they first sighted the German submarine in midafternoon and stopped the vessel in response to a signal German officers boarded the Durward. Covering the crew and captain with revolvers, they ordered all on board to quit the vessel immediately Boats were lowered and, after all hands had left the vessel, the submarine towed the boats to a safe distance They were ordered to wait The submarine returned to the Durward and sent three torpedoes into her It was 20 or 30 minutes before the vessel sank

The submarine then picked up the small boats and towed them for six hours, until they reached the Maas lightship. Then the Germans cast them adrift and went off at full speed.

POPULATION NEARING HUNDRED MILLION MARK

Washington, D C, Jan 22—April 2 the population of the United States will have reached and passed the 100 000 000 mark, according to C D Sloane geographer of the census bureau, who estimates the population at that date will be 100,000,059. J. S. McCoy, actuary of the treasury department, however calculates the population will be 100,016,000 on February 1 and that the 100,000,000 mark will be reached on January 27 or 28

DANISH SHIP HELD UP.

London, Jan. 22.—The Danish steamer Arkansas, which sailed from New York December 11, for Copenhagen and was taken to New Castle by a British warship January 2 after an investigation of her cargo sailed for Denmark Wednesday last no contraband having been found. The cargo consisted chiefly of apples and flour.

LODZ WITHOUT FOOD AND FUEL, SUFFERS

Germans Trying to Relieve Situation—Railroads Are All Destroyed.

Lodz Poland, Dec 31, by courier to Berlin and Holland (by mail)—Lodz might almost be called a city without food or fuel The coal supplies are almost exhausted and what remains has been levied upon for the use of the hospitals The price of bread has risen to three times its normal figure The factories in this great center of the wool and cotton industry with its 500,000 inhabitants are closed and its great industrial population is idle, cold and hungry

The city, which for months has been alternately in Russian and German possession has been cut off from normal railroad communication since the beginning of the war No coal has been brought in and only a limited quantity of food for the civil population The American relief work which has done so much for Brussels and other Belgian cities would be impossible here until more adequate means of communication are available

Only one hotel in town is heated and that is occupied as headquarters by the military governor and his staff Guests in the others must shiver The streets are jammed with the idle and unemployed Lodz has always been a city of many beggars but now they are encountered at every step-non-professionals, it can plainly be seen, driven by real need to appeal to German officers and soldiers and other visitors for help A 'tag day' was held a day or so ago to raise money for the most pressing needs and tags were seen on practically every uniform

There is little kerosene left in town and the stock of candles is exhausted Residents of means still have gas or electric light but the poorer people either sit in darkness or burn turpentine and other substitutes The German authorities are devoting full attention to Lodz needs

Artillery Development.

From the Scientific American

The character of the artillery disclosed in the war, from the machine gun to the great siege mortars, has introduced largely new methods of warfare and the strategy of the campaigns is a subject gaining rapidly in public interest as people begin to realize how meaningless, although thrilling isolated engagements are in the present conflict and that the result is not likely to be settled in any single battle

The big development of this war has been the great improvement in artillery and in the supply service. Indeed it is well named a machine-made war Like any other machinery, the new highly developed types require fewer men to accomplish equal or even greater results

Especially is this the case with the German machine gun, or automatic rifle, that has been quoted so often in the dispatches It fires the same cartridge as the rifle, but has them mounted in long bands from which they are fed into the gun Its fire for short periods at the rate of five shots a second gives it great value in stopping charges or in shooting up any bodies of the enemy that expose themselves

The Germans have these guns posted so as to cover the ground over which attacks will probably be made. When the signal is received from the observing station that the enemy has reached the danger zone, the gun that covers this part of the front can then turn loose a storm of bullets that will wipe out any troops in its path Ten men can in this way deliver as much fire with machine guns as can 100 men with rifles

Besides the advantage in machine guns the Germans have so far had an additional advantage, in that their 6-inch siege guns could outrange most of the field guns of the French and British But such equipment wears out rapidly in service, the bores get worn and the shooting is inaccurate, guns are captured, any are broken or destroyed It is doubtful whether Germany can replace this great drain upon her equipment in spite of her great ordnance factories. The allies, on the other hand, have not only their own gun works, which are working night and day, but they are also calling on most of the arms and ammunition factories of the world to aid in increasing their mechanical fighting equipment

At present the Germans are counting on their superior equipment to enable them to hold back the western allies, while Germany and Austria prosecute their campaign against Russia The French and British have had to fight for time to complete the equipment of their armies. France now has nearly caught up with Germany, Great Britain, though far behind, is steadily gaining The situation in France seems to point to an early assumption of the aggressive by the French and British

A Legislative Reform.

From the New York Evening Post

New Jersey is considering another legislative reform She has radical-minded citizens who favor lawmaking in the open At present the title of a bill may tell nothing specific about its contents. What is a member of a legislature to gather from a title like this "An act to amend an act which is supplemental to an act to amend an act applying to court's having criminal jurisdiction?"

In New York, the law provides that the title of a bill shall define it but the New Jersey reformers would go farther than this and have the introducer of a bill file with it a brief setting forth its purpose, including the name of the law, if any, it intends to alter If by this proposal it is meant that the legislator who introduces the bill shall himself draw up such a brief, New Jersey has found an effective way of reducing the number of measures appearing at Trenton

But we hardly suppose that the advocates of this innovation contemplate so drastic a result The folly of trusting wholly to any device, however, is plain from the fact that "jokers" or "snakes" are known to find their way even into accurately titled bills at Albany

Opposes Nepotism.

From the Topeka Journal.

President James, of the university of Illinois, is among the few who practice what they preach. So opposed is he to nepotism that one of the professors in the university had to resign his position before Dr James would consent to the professor marrying his daughter "No soninlaw on a faculty of which I am the head" was the unalterable verdict of Dr James. Did President Wilson happen to have like scruples. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo would have been hunting another job long ago.

As an example of the intense rivalry existing between the greater cities of America, one notes the bitterness in this slurring paragraph in the St. Joseph Gazette: "While it is true that Chicago has just lost 96,000 bad eggs, a lot of slum children are growing up to fill the vacancy."

For Five Years

I was Troubled with a Chronic Disease. Peruna Cured me Sound and Well.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 209 Victory St, Little Rock, Ark., writes: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease I tried everything I heard of but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me. I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good. A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well. I can recommend Peruna to any one, and if any one wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

MEN OF LAW AT A PREMIUM

Legal Lights Were Comrades in Misfortune of Man Who Was Inveigled Into Card Game.

'One of the boys put me on to a little game,' said the dry goods drummer 'and I went around to see what it was like There was about thirty respectable looking people in the room, and one of them was trying to teach me the value of the cards when the police broke in and made a clean sweep of everybody Next morning when arraigned at the police court I wanted a lawyer, and there was a general laugh in the court when his honor replied with a smile

I don't know where you'll get one There are several in town, but all are in the pen with you"

"It was so," continued the drummer, "and things might have gone hard with us had it not been for the fact that the judge was there, too, but had just stepped out as the raid was made Nothing was said about it, of course, but he let us off with a fine of $2 each and a lot of fatherly advice"

It's an Ill Wind, Etc.

'Poor Mr Hennypeck!" exclaimed Brownson sympathetically "It wasn't enough that his wife should own and operate him body and soul, Mrs Hennypeck has now joined the suffragettes."

Don't breathe a word,' replied Smithson, "but Hennypeck is tickled to death His wife speaks at all the outdoor meetings and is so hoarse when she gets home that she can't raise her voice above a whisper"—Puck.

Never Grows Up.

"It is rather discouraging to own a runabout, said the ambitious motorist

'Why so?" asked the man who travels by trolley

'No matter how long you keep it, there isn't the slightest possibility of its ever increasing in size."

Its Unpleasant Suggestion.

"My friend, the real estate agent thought he had landed a big political agent as a tenant for a desirable property, but, unfortunately, he scared him off."

"How?"

"By inadvertently mentioning it had exposures all around."

Anyway, it's none of a man's business how old a woman is.

A really handsome woman is one whose mirror backs up her vanity

A broken heart is more easily mended than a love-cracked brain.

THREE REASONS, Each With Two Legs and Ten Fingers.

A Boston woman who is a fond mother writes an amusing article about her experience feeding her boys.

Among other things she says: "Three chubby, rosy-cheeked boys, Bob, Jack, and Dick, respectively, are three of our reasons for using and recommending the food, Grape-Nuts, for these youngsters have been fed on Grape-Nuts since infancy, and often between meals when other children would have been given candy.

"I gave a package of Grape-Nuts to a neighbor whose 3-year-old child was a weazened little thing, ill half the time. The little tot ate the Grape-Nuts and cream greedily and the mother continued the good work, and it was not long before a truly wonderful change manifested itself in the child's face and body. The results were remarkable, even for Grape-Nuts.

"Both husband and I use Grape Nuts every day and keep strong and well and have three of the finest, healthiest boys you can find in a day's march"

Many mothers instead of destroying the children's stomachs with candy and cake give the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts when they are begging for something in the way of sweets. The result is soon shown in greatly increased health, strength and mental activity.

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in pkgs, for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to assure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Revival Meetings

To Begin at the English M. E. Church

Sunday, January 31st

Good Singing by the Choir

The full Gospel will be preached by the pastor each evening at 7;30.

All Are Cordially Invited

(ME---"For It Is Time To Seek The Lord"

Rev. J. M. Howdeshell

Pastor

Every Farmer

Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

USE THE NEWSPAPERS

Don't advertise on trees or rocks
afar from haunts of men.
You cannot sell the woodchuck clocks
or pictures for his den.

The squirrel may observe your sign
About your cure for chills,
And on it he may try to dine,
But that won't pay your bills.

The possum buys no breakfast foods,
We may as well confess.
So if you want to sell your goods
You'd better use the press.

—NEW YORK MAIL.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter

Observations

By "Our Man About Town"

We know a young girl living in this town who will do well to lower the shades on the windows of her home of evenings—especially Sunday evenings.

We know of at least one man in this town—a hard working man who seldom makes more than nine dollars a week, and yet he owes no man a penny. Some of our more fortunate citizens would do well immulate him.

From conversations heard on our streets these days, it would seem our town is to enjoy quite a building boom the coming spring and summer. And well it might. We have all the requisites of a comfortable, peaceful, place in which to live, and we certainly should be proud to see many of our citizens move into town and add another beautiful home to the many already here.

[illegible] I believe every time I think of my first experience.

So far as I knew, I had good health, but some of my friends whom the bug had bitten were sure I was failing, and that I needed more fresh air. Finally, I decided to try it. That night I opened every window in the house. It was one of those nights when the moonbeams seem frozen and your breath leaves your mouth and nostrils like streams of smoke. But I slept soundly enough. In fact I think I was frozen to death for six or eight hours. The experience cost me two dollars worth of quinine and the confidence of several friends.

A little fresh air in the bedroom is all right. I like it. But no more deluges for mine. Especially in the winter time.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 25.—Louisiana seceded, 1861.

Tuesday, 26.—Michigan admitted to union, 1837.

Wednesday, 27.—Emperor of Germany born, 1859.

Thursday, 28.—Death of Sir Francis Drake, 1596.

Friday, 29.—William McKinley, born, 1843.

Saturday, 30.—Ericson's Monitor launched, 1862.

Sunday, 31.—Charles IV, France died, 1328.

LOVE

Love is that indescribable something that gets into a fellow's system about the time his moustache begins to come out, and generally stays with him until after he is married. It makes him sick in a way that he likes, and instead of doctoring for the germ, he does all he can to give it a nice, fat living. Having never been a girl, we don't know how they feel when in love, but we imagine they feel just like big chunks of candy wanting someone to come along and eat them up.

GROUND HOG DAY

Next Tuesday, February 2, is "ground hog day." According to old superstition if the ground hog sees his shadow on this day, winter will continue for six weeks. Should the day be cloudy throughout that objects cast no shadow, we may expect fair weather and the opening of spring.

"Ground Hog" is the name given the English woodchuck.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

FEBRUARY

Although one naturally would think he would pick more comfortable weather in which to fly around over housetops, history shows us the short has been a busy old bird in February that have passed. For instance there are Horace Greeley, Charles Dickens, [illegible] Sherman, William Henry Harrison, Abraham Lincoln, Joe Jefferson, George Washington, Victor Hugo and Longfellow who sent their first infant cries out upon a February night. Oregon, Ohio, and Vermont also were born in February.

To students of the almanac, the second day of the month is the most important of the twenty eight. This is "Ground Hog" day, when the little rodent is supposed to come out of his hole and take a look at the weather. Should the day be cloudy that no shadows are cast, we may as well grease up the spade and sharpen the hoe, for "spring is come." But if the mammal sees his shadow he will go scampering back into his hole and take all chances of spring weather with him.

Our weather forecasts: The month will open on the first. From 1 o'clock a. m., to 2:30 p. m., fair, followed by cold wave and warm, gentle rain. Second to third, warm, followed by sleet and snow storm on the 4th and 5th, dry and sultry. Sixth, still dry but better take your umbrella [illegible] Seventh high winds and much [illegible] These prognostications for the month, if memorized, will serve throughout the month and will come [illegible] as any other [illegible] obtainable. The fact remains about February weather is that there are only twenty-eight days of it.

No. 6559 Report of the Condition of

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

At Klemme, in the State of Iowa, at the close of business, Dec., 31, 1914.

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts		$136,171 53
Overdrafts, unsecured		1,682 35
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		25,000 00
Premiums on U. S. bonds		132 75
Bonds, Securities, etc		104 68
Subscription to stock of Federal Reserve Bank	$1,700.00
Less Amt unpaid,	1,410.00	290.00
Banking house	8,313,57
furniture and fixture	2,700,00	11,013 57
Due from Federal Reserve Bank		2 400 00
Due from approved reserve agents in central reserve cities	$7,190 72
Due from approved reserve agents in other reserve cities	9,197 30	16,088 02
Fractional currency		145 75
Checks on banks in the same city or town as reporting bank		911 03
Notes of other national banks		650 00
Lawful money reserve in bank:
Specie	6,833 35
Legal tender notes	290 00	7,123 35
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		1 250 00
Total		258,178 70

LIABILITIES

Capital stock paid in		25,000 00
Surplus fund		2, 000 00
Undivided profits	$7,412 84
Less current expenses interest and taxes paid	6,661 80	751 04
Circulating notes	$25,000 00
Less amount on hand and in Treasury or in transit	805 00	24,195 00
Individual deposits subject to check		51,412 24
Certificates of deposit payable within 30 days		18,665 14
State or municipal deposits		9,884 60
Time certificate of deposit payable after 30 days or after notice of 30 days or longer		126,270 59
Total		258,178 70

STATE OF IOWA, } ss
Hancock County, }

I, F. A. Arnold, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

F. A. ARNOLD, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of January, 1915.

FRANK M. HANSON, Notary Public.

[SEAL]

Correct—Attest:

O. H. WIEGMANN
FRED GREIMANN
AUGUST LAU
} Director

Side-Step Danger

YOU may save three or four dollars by belaying buying that pair of good waterproof shoes; but the delay may later you twenty-five dollars in dope for colds.

This Is the Season

of the year when every man woman and should be well shod. A wet or damp summer may mean little, but it courts in the winter time.

If any member of your family is along with a shoe that leaks, come in and our mammoth line of new footwear. I my stock before the advance in price and can save you money.

Frank Gruetzmac

WE ARE HEADQUARTER

Warm Meals and Lun

A. KIRKWOOD & S

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and p
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable

Fred Kuckhoh, ...O

Coal Hauling Do

It Makes I

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over—let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at ...

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOH

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

W. F. PAVE

THE PRACTICAL BLACKSMI

General Jobbing and Repairing

Horse Shoeing in all its branches. Carriage, W Plow Work a Specialty.

Corona Wool Fat For Sale. A Gu
With Every Can.

DON'T FORGET

This store when you need anything in the line of Hard
Farm Implements. Full line of Heaters, Cook Stove Ranges. The best makes in Farm Machinery. W also handle the best Paints, Oils and Varnish.

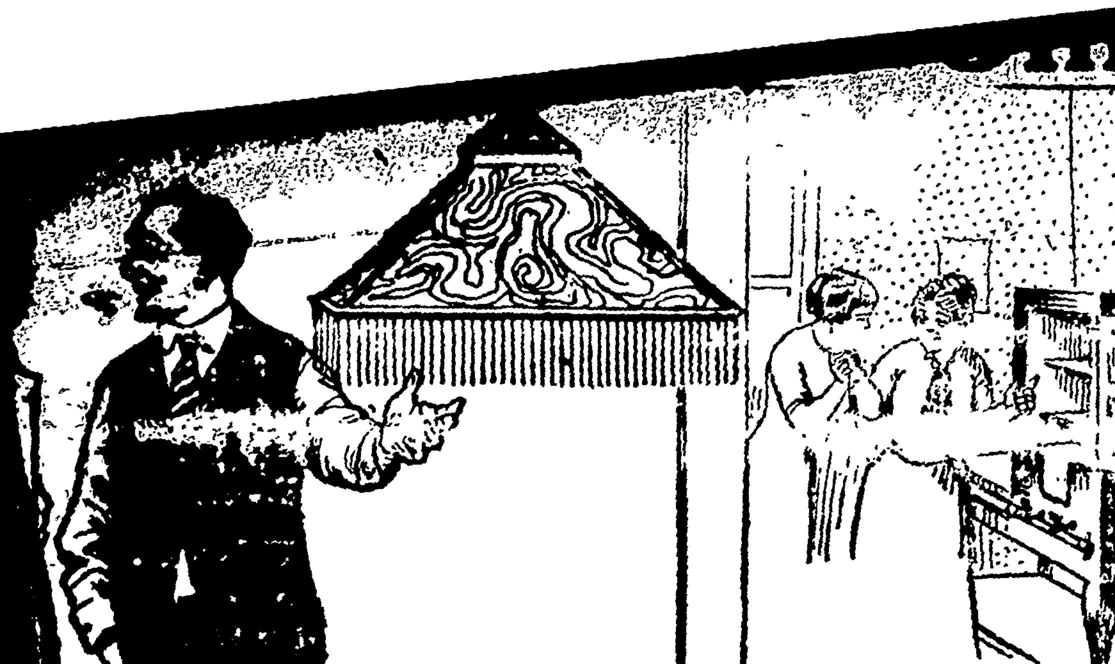
Groceries, Flour and Fe

Our prices are right. You are invited to call.

GRUETZMACHER B



A Modern Lighting and Cooking System

...as lighting and cooking system in ... new or old, contributes more than ...ing to the joy, happiness, comfort ... entire family.

...tdoor Lighting Plant brings this ...y homes everywhere.

..., bright, clean light of acetylene ...hours with comfort and cheer—

...rn, city-like gas fixtures, in copper or ...ntire home—

...liminate forever the Daily Grind of filling, ... oil lamps about the house—

...tylene gives mother the comfort of a cool ... It cuts the kitchen work in half—the dis... over a broiling hot stove—and clean...ies afterward.

... remove the hazard of many individ... ...sily tipped over or upset—

...s remove [illegible] matches—

...t barn lights, securely [illegible] to iron ...strong, durable globes, make [illegible] his work ...anter. [illegible] do away entirely with ...ches in [illegible] and outbuildings.

... and c[illegible] are today available ..., in the country, by the simple instal... Lighting Plant.

...-Made a New Way

...is a simple, compact, perfectly con... on a new principle. It stands out... ...und—away from the house or build...

...ther acetylene machines. Different ...installed in cellars of buildings, and ... pit or hole in the ground.

Around the entire machine is built a heavy, durable shell of substantial sheet steel. The spaces between are filled with a wonderful, new, frost-proof insulating material. This keeps the warmth inside the machine and the cold outside.

It furnishes gas for lighting and cooking just the way city homes get the gas they use—from the outside.

With a Pilot-Outdoor Lighting Plant, house and barn piped, fixtures hung, and the cooking appliance in place, you are ready to enjoy the comfort and convenience that the city home has enjoyed for upwards of 80 years.

This entire installation work can be done in a couple of days without disturbance or inconvenience.

And when it is completed you have a permanent improvement to your property.

A Permanent Improvement

So the installation of a Pilot-Outdoor Lighting Plant is not an expense but an investment, paying daily dividends in added comfort, happiness and safety to your entire family.

Gas for lighting and cooking—conveniences everybody wants—are today brought right out to the farm home. [illegible] the reach of every[illegible] the Pilot-Outdoor Lighting Plant, which supplies a better light [illegible] the city home [illegible] —and at lower cost.

This service has been installed in more than 250,000 [illegible] try homes and thousands more are taking advantage [illegible] every year.

Worth your careful consideration?

Then write or phone and I'll give you more interesting facts [illegible] can be shown in one advertisement. Do it today. This [illegible]

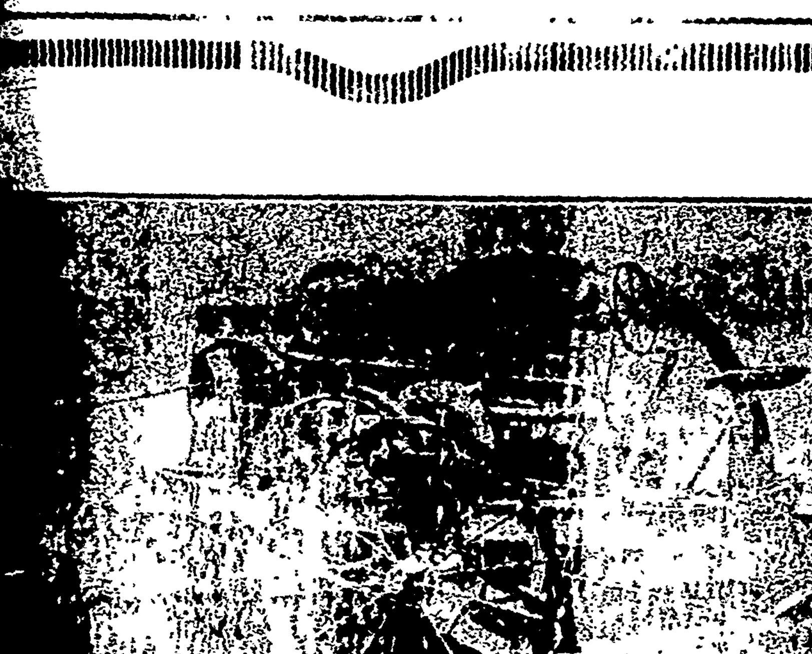
GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Klemme, Iowa—or

George H. Young, 611 Indiana Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

Managing Salesman for

OXWELD ACETYLENE CO., CHICAGO



...NTION EVERYONE!!

$405.00

...e who want to Buy an engine or a tractor We will take ...t $405, including freight to Klemme, order to be given ...915. You must act at once. Give us a check for one ...lote when you want the tractor and pay the balance ...th is is an engine and [illegible] worth $500. to any... ...wer in the belt, and [illegible] under, also many ...nd just the thing to p[illegible]

...y Lau & Son

... Iowa

...D GORTON

...ERTAINER

...riday Eve., Feb. 5th

"...DOGS OF WAR."

They Used to Wear Coats of Mail and Carry Firebrands.

"Dogs of war" is a phrase which once meant a thing as real as the war horse. [illegible] in the old wars between England and Scotland dogs were used by both combatants for pursuing and killing fugitives after a defeat.

It is related that Wallace and Bruce each had close escapes from capture by English bloodhounds. Bruce is said to have thrown the English dog off the [illegible] to baffle the pursuers, and Wallace evaded the hounds by having recourse to a trick more or less common in those bloody times of killing a [illegible] and leaving the body in the dogs' path for them to come upon. The dogs finding a body believed that their task was done and discontinued the hunt.

In the history of the wars of the middle ages one finds reference to the use of big dogs against cavalry for the purpose of throwing the horses into confusion and not alone for causing panic but casualties, for these fierce canine partisans were clothed in coats of mail studded with spikes and having scythes fitted to their harness.

Instances are recorded where war dogs with fire brands fastened to their coats of mail have been set on an enemy's camp with destructive results.

Henry VIII must have found dogs useful in military ways, because in English history it is written that he offered the use of 40,000 auxiliaries and 4,000 war dogs to King Charles V of Spain to aid that monarch in his war with Francis I.

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth when the Earl of Essex entered Ireland for the purpose of suppressing insurrection there his army was accompanied by a hundred bloodhounds.—Detroit News.

A LITERARY GLUTTON.

Magliabecchi Was Too Busy With His Books to Draw His Salary.

The most picturesque figure in the annals of Italian librarianship is undoubtedly Antonio Magliabecchi. While his official position as librarian to Cosmo III., grand duke of Tuscany, gave him considerable prominence, he is remembered more especially for his personal characteristics and his vast store of self acquired learning. He has been described as a literary glutton and the most rational of bibliomaniacs, inasmuch as he read everything he bought. His own library consisted of 40,000 books and 10,000 manuscripts. His house literally overflowed with books. The stairways were lined with them, and they even filled the front porch. In worldly matters Magliabecchi was extremely negligent. He even forgot to draw his salary for over a year, says the North American Review. He wore his clothes until they fell from him and thought it a great waste of time to undress at night. "life being so short and books so plentiful." He welcomed all inquiring scholars provided they did not disturb him while at work.

Perhaps the most extraordinary librarianship was that enjoyed by Diderot, who about 1765 decided to sell his library in order to provide a dowry for his daughter. The Empress Catharine of Russia heard through Grimm of the straits to which Diderot had been reduced and instructed her agent to buy in the library at the owner's valuation. In this way Diderot received not only 16,000 livres, but he was graciously requested to consider himself the librarian of the new purchase at a salary of 1,000 livres a year. Moreover—and this begins to sound like a fairy tale, Diderot was paid the salary for fifty years in advance.

Beginning War.

There was a great difference in the manner of commencing a war centuries ago to what there is now. Now the blow is frequently struck before the word, and there is no obligation to issue a formal declaration at all, the act of war constituting the declaration. But in medieval times no war ever began without a formal declaration by a herald, who in a most leisurely manner breathed defiance on the part of his royal master exchanged innumerable bows with his enemies and departed in as dignified a manner as he came.—London Chronicle.

Where Was Wales?

Spencer Leigh Hughes, M. P., tells of the following amusing experience: He was once [illegible] the [illegible] office building in Aldwych [illegible] pointing to the emblematic devices [illegible] over the door, [illegible] the Scotch thistle, the English [illegible] and the Irish harp. "Where is the emblem of Wales?" asked his friend. "Oh, Mr Hughes replied, "I expect there is a leek in the roof."—London Express.

Easily Scared.

"Were you frightened during the storm?"

"[illegible] the windows were all open and I was so afraid of the lightning [illegible] stop to wake up [illegible] up and closed them myself."—Detroit Free Press.

Prohibitive.

"What's the matter, [illegible]?"

"Father [illegible]"

"That can [illegible] dear. I was afraid [illegible] want a baseball pitcher."—Boston [illegible]

There is [illegible] that which [illegible]—Spurgeon.

COROT'S BIG HEART.

An Incident Illustrating the Great Artist's Generosity.

Corot, the great French landscape artist, was a man of the temperament traditionally associated with genius—irritable, impetuous, careless, generous and lovable. M. Albert Dubuisson, whose father was the great painter's friend, has published some interesting reminiscences of him in the Studio, in which he tells of a day he spent with the artist in his studio, when a knock at the door—the last straw after several really annoying interruptions—caused Corot to fling the door open abruptly with flushed face and fire in his eye.

"What is it now? Come in! Who are you? What do you come and disturb me for?" he demanded angrily. The caller, much disconcerted, stammered his explanation:

"I came, M. Corot, I—it's about an accident. A workman engaged on the the building has had a fall. His condition is very grave. They have just taken him off to the hospital. We know the poor chap. He's a workman who leaves a wife and four children. We are getting up a subscription among the lodgers in the building for the family. I thought you would perhaps like to join us."

Corot's expressive countenance showed clearly his quick regret for his roughness to the messenger and his deepening sympathy for the injured man. He made prompt amends.

"The poor fellow!" he exclaimed. "The unfortunate family—a wife and four children. We must do everything that is possible to help them. Now how can I be of use to you, I who only know how to amuse myself with painting trees and streams? They must be assured food and shelter, and they'll need money. Here! You see that little bureau? Do you mind going to the first drawer? Good. Now take out what you think necessary, and I beg you not to use too much discretion. My back is turned and I won't look. You can't think how glad I am to be allowed to share in your kind efforts on their behalf."

Obeying these directions, the visitor opened the drawer and paused thunderstruck, for it was full of gold and bills, tossed in helter skelter as the artist had received them. With some embarrassment, while Corot worked away busily at his easel, the visitor helped himself to as large a sum as his conscience permitted him to take, murmured his thanks and departed. Corot never inquired what he had taken or looked to see, although, indeed, he would not have known if he had.

REPAID THE FAVOR.

Grant Did Not Forget the Man Who Did Him a Good Turn.

"General Grant's most pronounced characteristic, perhaps, was his reward of the friends who had stood by him in his early days," said Colonel S. A. Holmes of St. Louis. "While Grant was doing the best he could after he had quit the army and was down and out he wanted to get the job of county surveyor of St. Louis county. This job was in the keeping of the three county judges, and Grant could get only one of them to vote for him, so he didn't get the place.

"After the war, when Grant was serving his first term as president, a delegation of Missourians visited the White House to urge the appointment of a St. Louis man for collector of internal revenue, the most lucrative position in the state. Grant listened to the arguments and looked over the petition presented. Then he scratched his head and remarked:

"'Isn't there an old fellow out there of the name of Long, who used to be a judge of the county court?'

"Nobody in the delegation could recall Long, but Grant told them to go back and find out. Some time later he was told that Judge Long was still living in the county, but was not conspicuous.

"'Get up a petition for him,' advised the president, 'and I will appoint him internal revenue collector.'

"The friends of Long lost no time in presenting the requested petition, and the old judge was appointed.

"Grant had never forgotten the favor done him when he was less prosperous."—Washington Post.

Rules For Saving.

Pay cash for everything.

Do your own buying and marketing.

Be careful in your selection of food.

Figure out at the beginning of the week just how much you can spend that week.

Manage your own household, do not leave it to servants.

Figure out a system of utilizing all materials. Even the left overs from a meal can be made into something the next day.

Do not regard the system of economy as a burden, but as a pleasure and a duty.—Chicago News.

Buds In Reserve.

When a large branch of a tree is cut off small branches are frequently shoot out round the stump. These branches are from reserve buds, of which all trees have a great number at every portion of their surface. Under ordinary circumstances these never come to maturity, but when the tree is wounded or cut off or loses some of its branches the reserve buds at once come into play and renew the foliage.

Woman's Capes.

Cape of Good Hope: Sweet sixteen.

Cape Flattery: Twenty.

Cape Lookout: Twenty five.

Cape Fear: Thirty.

Cape Farewell: Forty.—Ladies' Home Journal.

CLANNISH MANXMEN.

They Still Use Their Own Tongue In Promulgating Their Laws.

The Isle of Man is in the Irish channel, about equidistant from England, Scotland and Ireland and is famed for its lovely scenery, excellent climate and the quaint old world flavor of its places and people.

Home rule has been enjoyed by the Manxmen for many years. Although there are fewer than 60,000 Manxmen, they have their own parliament and courts. The house of keys and the house of lords hold annual sessions in Douglas, the capital, and the [illegible] pass are read aloud every year from Tynwald hill. The statutes are proclaimed in the Manx tongue, a language as distinct from English as Italian or German.

The Isle of Man was long a bone of contention among the kings of Northumberland, Scotland, Norway and England. The government, as it is in operation today in Hall Caine's island, was established by Orry, a Scandinavian adventurer who made himself king of the island. He divided his kingdom into six sheadings, and this division, with four municipal districts, still serves in the election of members of the house of keys. The bishopric of the Isle of Man is declared to have been founded by St. Patrick, who stopped off and established the see while on his way to Ireland.—New York World.

A FAMOUS OLD FLAG.

The Star Spangled Banner of Fort McHenry In 1814.

Hanging from the walls of the National museum in Washington is one of the most famous flags in the world—the star spangled banner that floated over Fort McHenry during the attack in September, 1814, [illegible] than 26 by [illegible]

At the time of the battle [illegible] Henry, just outside the city of Baltimore, was in command of Ma[illegible] Armistead. The garrison flag [illegible] from its ramparts was made by a Mrs. Mary Pinkersgill, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Caroline T. Purdy.

In the battle one of the stars was shot away by a British shell. After the war the banner became the property of Major Armistead and was left by him to his daughter, Mrs. Appleton. It was from the son of that lady, Mr. Eben Appleton, that the museum received it two years ago. The arrangement is that the flag shall remain permanently in the custody of the museum and must not be permitted to leave the building to be exhibited anywhere else. Time has somewhat marred the beauty of the banner, but no American can look at the fading and worn fabric without a thrill. That is the flag that gave birth to the national anthem of his country.—Youth's Companion.

Doughty Berbers.

The ancient Berbers, who still live in the mountain territory of Kabylia, were never conquered by Roman, Goth, Vandal, Arab or Turk. They made their first obeisance [illegible] to the firearms of the French under [illegible] second empire. Through all [illegible] have lived in [illegible] per[illegible] of [illegible] Around [illegible] is a zone of trees, [illegible] beginning at [illegible] of the oft conquered [illegible] below. Here for [illegible] the Berber has lived among and from his trees. There are four staples of life in Kabylia—dried figs, olives, bread and meat. For miles there is one unending succession of villages set in this open forest of figs and olives.—Argonaut.

Cordovan Leather Boots.

At the court of Elizabeth the wide topped Spanish boot, handsome and, to our eyes, theatrical, became popular among the rival courtiers, each endeavoring to outvie the other in the queen's eyes. The most handsome and admired of all were made of white Cordova leather, edged with costly lace and having gold spurs. Sometimes buff and red and much more rarely the now prevalent black leather was the material. Boots for men seem to have gone out of fashion during the Stuart era, so far as the upper classes went. Your plain citizen always adhered to a more or less substantial shoe when at home and seldom drew on boots save when on a journey.—London Saturday Review.

Gentle Reminder.

A gentleman, on a visit to another city, entered a restaurant and on leaving took away with him by mistake a hat belonging to another man. The hats were so nearly identical that the mistake was not detected, and the surprise of the gentleman may be imagined when, reaching home, he glanced at the lining of the hat and found written there the words, "You darned fool, what did you take this hat for?"—Lippincott's.

Willie Wants to Know.

"Pa, how can guns kick when they have no legs?"

"Don't ask absurd questions."

"Guns haven't any legs, have they, pa?"

"Certainly not."

"Well, then, what's the use of having breeches?"—Boston Trans...

Sunflowers.

The old name for the sunflower ... solsece, the sun follower, ... cient sunflower [illegible] ... the marigold. The tall ... present day are of America.

Weak men never yield ... time.—Latin.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on — castor oil, calomel, cathartics How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded Their tender little "insides" are injured by them

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy, they know children love to take it, that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies children of all ages and for grown ups plainly on each bottle Adv.

LOGIC AS HE UNDERSTOOD IT

Arthur Could Marshal Many Good Reasons Why He Should Not Attend School

As young Arthur was now six, his parents decided that it was time he went to school Arthur had other views on the subject and these views were in direct opposition to those held by the older people

In short Arthur refused point-blank to go within a mile and a half of any school

Father threatened dire punishment mother held out a drear prospect of jamless meals, even grandmother the most kindly of mortals and a great friend of Arthur's even she deserted him and talked about discontinuing the weekly bag of sweets This was a great blow to the young rebel but he stuck to his guns

At last grandmother decided to go to the office and plead his heart

"Now Arthur dear why can't you be a nice sensible boy and go to school like the other children" she asked

"Listen you wise grandma" he retorted indignantly "I can't read and I can't write I can't draw and I can't sing' So what's the good of me going to school I should like to know

A GLASS OF SALTS WILL END KIDNEY-BACKACHE

Says Drugs Excite Kidneys and Recommends Only Salts, Particularly If Bladder Bothers You

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood In 24 hours they strain from 500 grains of acid and waste so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active

Drink lots of water you can't drink too much also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness

Jad Salts is inexpensive cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache —Adv

No Place for Fido

Mrs Nextdoor (angrily) I want you to keep your dog out of my house it's full of fleas

Mrs Naybor Your house is? Mercy' I certainly shan't let Fido go in there again Boston Evening Transcript

TENDER SENSITIVE SKINS

Quickly Soothed by Cuticura. Nothing Better. Trial Free.

Especially when preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap Many comforting things these fragrant super-creamy emollients may do for the skin, scalp, hair and hands and do it quickly, effectively and economically. Also for the toilet, bath and nursery. Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Christmas Grist.

Michigan has an antiprofanity law, which makes it a misdemeanor to swear in the presence of a woman. It does not, however, forbid a man to swear at their presents — Judge.

"CAN PROVE I'M WHITE, AND HE'LL LOVE ME THEN," SAYS WOMAN WHOSE HUSBAND, THINKING HER NEGRESS, ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Alma Boone Little.

"I believe that I can convince my husband that I am white, and if I succeed I think that all our differences may be reconciled," says Mrs. Alma Boone Little, the Detroit woman whose husband is seeking a divorce on the ground that she has colored blood. The young woman shows to the ordinary observer not the slightest indication of negro blood

THE LOSING SIDE OF MAIL ORDER TRADING

Iowa Farmer Lost Over $5,000 ---Saved Money on One End But Lost on Other.

Hans Carbus a German farmer of Iowa has discovered that the benefits which appear on the surface as attaching to the mail order plan sometimes lead disaster and has written a very interesting story of his views in a certain farm paper Here is a part of his story

We farmers need awakening to the fact that we have unmistakably reached the period where we must think and plan I am one of the slow farmers that has to be shown and I am now giving my experience that others may profit for knowledge is more expensive now than 10 years ago

Twenty-nine years ago I began my farm career I had an old team and $50 My furniture was mostly home made—a bed a chest and lounge made from goods boxes neatly covered with cretonne by my girl wife We lived 80 acres Being a boy of good habits I got all needed machinery and groceries of our home merchants on credit until fall crops were sold The first year was a wet season and I did not make enough to pay creditors I went to each on day of promise and explained conditions paying as much as possible and they all carried the balance over another year They continued to accommodate me until I was able to buy 40-acre piece of my own

As soon as I owned these few acres the mail order houses began sending me catalogs and gradually I began sending my loose change to them letting accounts stand in my home town where I had gotten my accommodation when I needed it

We then had one of the thriftiest little villages in the state good line of business in all the branches merchants who were willing to help an honest fellow over a bad year and a town full of people who came twice a week to trade and visit Our little country town supported a library high school, ball team and we had big celebrations every year

A farm near a live town soon doubles in value I sold my 40 acres at a big advance and bought an 80 gradually adding to it until I had 200 acres of the best land in Iowa. I then felt no need of asking favors, and found it easy to patronize the mail order agents that came almost weekly to our door I regret to say that I was the first in the county to make up a neighborhood bill and send it to a mail order house. Though we got bit every once in a while we got in the habit of sending away for stuff

"Gradually our merchants lessened their stock of goods for lack of patronage Finally we began to realize that when we needed a bolt quickly for machinery, or clothing for sickness or death we had to wait and send away for it which wasn't so pleasant One by one our mechants moved to places where they were appreciated, and men of less energy moved in Gradually our town has gone down our business houses are 'tacky' in appearance, a number are empty our schools, churches and walks are going down, we have no band, no library nor ball team There is no business done in the town and therefore no taxes to keep things up Hotel is closed for lack of travel Go down to the depot when the freight pulls in and you will see the sequel in mail order packages

"Nine years ago my farm was worth $195 an acre today I'd have a hard matter to sell it for $167 an acre. It is 'too far from a live town'—so every farmer has said that wants to buy. He wants a place near schools and churches, where his children can have advantages. I have awakened to the fact that in helping to pull the town down, it has cost me $5,600 in nine years."

Peace With Honor.

By E. S., in the Atlantic.

Are our civilization and our religion, bound inextricably as they are with all the things which make life dear to us, to be deprived forever of life's last incentive? Christianity may so believe, but Christ die not. Violence He hated It is transitory and must fail, but the passive unresistance of the body while the emancipated mind and spirit pursue their undeviating course, against this He knew no earthly power can prevail and his chiefest saints, St Francis, George Fox, and their unconquerable train have never ceased to preach and to believe it Complete self sacrifice has been their perfect victory But for Christ the war of the soul was no figure of speech Agony and bloody sweat came over Him, not because He feared Gethsemane, but because He wrestled wit' temptation No virile feeling which ever roused warrior or patriot was absent from his soul He fought, and He died fighting When the street preacher of the Salvation Army calls up the devil, horned and hoofed into his presence, and then attacks him with clenched fists and shouts of battle, he is making to his audience the supreme appeal Cannot we, to whom such illusion is but childishness spiritualize that recourse, and, when need calls, spend, like the race of conquerors, the last reserve of our soul's energy? Only thus can we meet the final argument of war Only thus can we win the last desire of the brave and good—peace with honor

Barber Shop Musings.

From the Atlantic

To the barber's soothing snip snip, and the gentle tug of the comb I dreamed of the barber shop of my boyhood, and of Clarkie Parker's in particular Clarkie's shop was in Lyceum hall block, one flight up—a huge room, with a single green upholstered barber's chair between the windows where you could sit and watch the town go by below you The room smelled pungently of bay rum Barber shops don't smell of bay rum any more Around two sides were ranged many chairs and an old leather couch. The chair arms were smoth and black with the rubbing of innumerable hands and elbows, and behind them making a dark line along the wall, were the marks where the heads of the sitters rubbed as they tilted back Nor can I forget the spittoons—large shallow boxes, two feet square—four of them, full of sand On a third side of the room stood the basin and water-taps, and beside them a large black walnut cabinet, full of shelves. The shelves were full of mugs, and on every mug was a name, in gilt letters, generally Old English. Those mugs mugs were a town directory of our leading citizens. My father's mug was on the next to the top shelf, third from the end on the right The sight of it used to thrill me, and at 12 I began surreptitiously to feel my chin, to see if there were any hope of my achieving a mug in the not too distant future.

RUSSIAN WAR PRISON IS VAST FROZEN PLAIN

One small squad of Russian soldiers is serving as the guard for 100,000 Austrian and German prisoners, whose prison walls consist of 4,000 miles of frozen steppes, separating them from the borders of their own countries

These prisoners are interned at Semipalatinsk, on the Irtish river, near the borders of Western Mongolia. They were brought by rail to Omsk, where they were embarked on steamboats for the 1,000-mile trip down the Irtish river to Semipalatinsk. Here splendid quarters were found in the big barracks erected for the mobilization of the Russian army and unoccupied since its departure for the front.

Every morning at 8 o'clock the prisoners are released from the barracks and permitted to wander about at will When they depart in the morning they are told that unless they report at the barracks by nightfall they will be locked out, and at this time of the year in that bleak country this would mean certain death, as there are practically no places where they could obtain shelter The freedom of the prisoners during the day is absolute, even to the extent of accepting employment from local mining companies.

The problem of caring for the German and Austrian prisoners in Russia is already becoming acute, as the number increases and the Russian government probably will welcome any plan which will enable the prisoners to be self supporting. An attache of the Russian government, now in London, states that he was informed by an official of the department of the interior that there are now in Russia, exclusive of the Germans reported as captured in the operations now under way in Poland, 750,000 Austrians and German prisoners of war.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

18

CHAPTER XXII.—(Continued)

"I have been highly flattered by your interest in the affair of the cabinet Boule, and admire most deeply your penetration in arriving at a conclusion so nearly correct regarding it. I must thank you, also, for your kindness in keeping me informed of the measures which have been taken to guard the cabinet and which seem to me very complete and well thought out. I have myself visited the station and inspected the cell, and I find that in every detail you were correct.

"It is because I so esteem you as an adversary that I tell you, in confidence, that it is my intention to regain possession of my property on Wednesday next, and that, having done so I shall beg you to accept a small souvenir of the occasion.

"I am, my dear sir,

Most cordially yours.

"Jacques Crochard.

"L'Invincible'"

I looked up to find Godfrey regarding me with a quizzical smile.

'Of course it's a joke," I said. Then I looked at him again. "Surely, Godfrey, you don't believe this is genuine'

'Perhaps we can prove it,' he said quietly 'That is one reason I came up Didn't Armand leave a note for you the day he failed to see you?"

'Yes, on this card. I have it here" and with trembling fingers, I got out my pocketbook and drew the card from the compartment in which I had carefully preserved it

One glance at it was enough The pencilled line on the back was unquestionably written by the same hand which wrote the letter

And now you know his name Godfrey added tapping the signature with his finger 'I have been certain from the first that it was he!"

I gazed at the signature without answering I had of course, read in the papers many times of the Gargantuan exploits of Crochard —"The Invincible," as he loved to call himself and with good reason But his achievements, at least as the papers described them seemed too fantastic to be true I had suspected more than once that he was merely a figment of the Parisian space writers a sort of reserve for the dull season or else that he was a kind of scapegoat saddled by the French police with every crime which proved too much for them Now however, it seemed that Crochard really existed, I held his letter in my hand I had even talked with him and as I remembered the last time I met the distinguished feature of M Fenix Armand I understood something of the reason for his extraordinary reputation

There can be no two opinions about him said Godfrey, reaching out his hand for the letter and sinking back in his chair to contemplate it 'Crochard is one of the greatest criminals who ever lived full of imagination and resource and with a sense of humor most acute I have followed his career for years it was this fact that gave me my first clue He killed a man once before just as he killed this last one The man had betrayed him to the police He was never betrayed again'

'What a fiend he must be' I said, with a shudder

But Godfrey shook his head quickly.

'Don't get that idea' he protested earnestly Up to the time of his arrival in New York he had never killed any man except that traitor Him he had a certain right to kill according to thieves' ethics anyway His own life has been in peril scores of times but he has never killed a man to save himself Put that down to his credit"

"But Drouet and Vantine I objected

"An accident for which he was in no way responsible" said Godfrey promptly

You mean he didn't kill them"

"Most certainly not This last man he did kill was a traitor like the first Crochard I think reasons like this, to kill an adversary is too easy it is too brutal it lacks finesse Besides, it removes the adversary And without adversaries, Crochard's life would be of no interest to him After he had killed his last adversary he would have to kill himself"

"I can't understand a man like that' I said

Well look at this said Godfrey, and tapped the letter again He honors me by considering me an adversary Does he seek to remove me" On the contrary, he gives me a handicap. He takes off his queen in order that it may be a little more difficult to mate me!"

"But, surely, Godfrey I protested, "you don't take that letter seriously' If he wrote it at all, he wrote it merely to throw you off the track If he says Wednesday he really intends to try for the cabinet tomorrow

'I don't think so. I told you he would think me only a tyro And, beside him, that is all I am Do you know where he wrote that letter Lester? Right in the Record office That is a sheet of our copy paper He sat down there right under my nose wrote that letter dropped it into my box and walked out And all that sometime this evening when the office was crowded"

But it's absurd for him to write a letter like that, if he really means it You have only to warn the police"

You'll notice he says it is in confidence'

'And you're going to keep it so?'

"Certainly I am I consider that he has paid me a high compliment I have shown it to no one but you—also in confidence

"It is not the sort of confidence the law recognizes" I pointed out "To keep a confidence like that is practically to abet a felony

'And yet you will keep it, said Godfrey cheerfully "You see I am going to do everything I can to prevent that felony And we will see if Crochard is really invincible'"

"I'll keep it," I agreed "because I think the letter is just a blind And, by the way" I added, 'I have a letter from Armand & Son confirming the fact that their books show that the Boule cabinet was bought by Philip Vantine Under the circumstances, I shall have to claim it and hand it over to the Metropolitan"

I hope you won't disturb it until after Wednesday" said Godfrey, quickly 'I won't have any interest in it after that"

"You really think Crochard will try for it Wednesday"

'I really do.'

I shrugged my shoulders What was the use of arguing with a man like that"

"Till after Wednesday, then," I agreed, and Godfrey, having verified his letter and secured from me the two promises he was after, bade me good night

CHAPTER XXIII.

WE MEET M. PIGOT.

I was just getting ready to leave the office when Godfrey called me up.

"How are you feeling today, Lester?" he asked.

"Not as fit as I might," I said

"Have you arranged to start on that vacation Thursday?"

"I don't think that's a good joke, Godfrey."

"It isn't a joke at all. I want you to arrange it. But meanwhile, how would you like a whiff of salt air this evening?"

"First rate. How will I get it?"

"The Savoie will get to quarantine about 6 o'clock. I'm going down on our boat to meet her. I want to have a talk with Inspector Pigot—the French detective. Will you come along?"

"Will I'" I said. "Where shall I meet you?"

"At the foot of Liberty street at 5 o'clock"

"I'll be there," I promised And I was.

The boat was cast loose as soon as we got aboard, backed out into the busy river, her whistle shicking shrilly, then swung about and headed down stream It was a fast boat—the Record, which prided itself on outdistancing its contemporaries in other directions, would of course try to do so in this—and when she got fairly into her stride, with her engines throbbing rhythmically, the shore on either hand slipped past us rapidly

The New York sky line, as seen from the river, is one of the wonders of the world, and I stood looking at it until we swung out into the bay There were two other men on board—the regular ship reporters, I suppose—and Godfrey had gone into the cabin with them to talk over some detail of the evening's work, so I went forward to the bow, where I would get the full benefit of the salt breeze, with the taste of it on my lips The statue of Liberty was just ahead, and already the great searchlight in her torch was winking across the water Craft innumerable crossed and recrossed, their lights reflected in the waves, and far ahead, a little to the left, I could see the white glow against the sky which marked the position of Coney Island

Godfrey joined me presently, and we stood for some time looking at this scene in silence

"It's a great sight, isn't it?" he said, at last "Hello' look at that boat'" he added, as a yacht, coming down the bay drew abreast of us and then slowly forged ahead "She can go some, can't she This boat of ours is no slouch you know, but just look how that one walks away from us. I wonder who she is? What boat is that, captain?" he called to the man on the bridge

"Don't know, sir," answered the captain, after a look through his glasses. "Private yacht—can't make out her name—there's a flag or something hanging over the stern She's flying the French flag There come the other press boats behind us, sir," he added. 'And there's the Savoie just slowing down at quarantine"

Far ahead we could see the great hull of the liner, dark against the horizon, and crowned with row upon row of glowing lights

"One doesn't appreciate how big those boats are until one sees them from the water," I remarked "Isn't she immense'"

"And yet she's not an especially big boat, either," said Godfrey. "To swing in under the really big ones—like the Olympic—is an experience to remember"

The Savoie had by this time slowed down until she was just holding her own against the tide and one of her lower ports swung open. A moment later, a boat puffed up beside her, made fast and three or four men clambered aboard and disappeared through the port

"There go the doctors said Godfrey "And there is that French boat going alongside"

The tug from quarantine dropped astern and the French yacht took her place. After a short colloquy, one man from her was helped aboard the Savoie. Then it was our turn, and after what seemed to me a tremendous swishing and swirling at imminent risk of collision, we swung up to the open port, a line was flung out and made fast, and a moment later Godfrey and I and the other two men were aboard the liner,

My companions exchanged greetings with the officer in charge of the open port, and then we hurried forward along a narrow corridor, smelling of rubber and heated metal then up stair after stair, until at last we came to the main companionway Here the two men left us, to seek certain distinguished passengers, I suppose, whose views upon the questions of the day were (presumably) anxiously awaited by an expectant public. Godfrey stopped in front of the purser's office and passed his card through the little window to the man inside the cage.

I should like to see M Pigot, of the Paris Service du Surete," he said. "Perhaps you will be so kind as to have a steward take my card to him?"

"That is unnecessary, sir," replied the purser, courteously "That is M. Pigot yonder—the gentleman with the white hair, with his back to us. You will have to wait for a moment, however; the gentleman speaking with him is from the French consulate, and has but this moment came aboard."

I could not see Inspector Pigot's face, but I could see that he held himself very erect, in a manner bespeaking military training The messenger from the legation was a youngish man, with waved moustache and wearing an eyeglass. He was greeting M Pigot at the moment, and, after a word or two, produced from an inside pocket an official looking envelope, tied with red tape and secured with an immense red seal. M. Pigot looked at it an instant, while his companion added a sentence in his ear; then, with a nod of assent, the detective turned down one of the passageways, the other man at his heels.

"Official business, no doubt" commented the purser who had also been watching this little scene "M. Pigot is one of the best of our officers, and you will find it a pleasure to talk with him. He will no doubt soon be disengaged."

"Yes, but meanwhile my esteemed contemporaries will arrive," said Godfrey, with a grimace. "They are on my heels—here they are now!

In fact, for the next 20 minutes, reporters from the other papers kept arriving, till there was quite a crowd before the purser's office. And from nearly every paper a special man had been detailed to interview M. Pigot. Evidently all the papers were alive to the importance of the subject. There was some good natured chaffing, one of the stewards was brought to carry the cards of the assembled gratitude to M. Pigot's stateroom request for an audience

The steward went away and came back presently to say that Pigot would be pleased to see them a few minutes But when five minutes more passed and he did not appear impatience broke out anew The men of the press were not accustomed to being kept waiting

"I move we storm the cabin" suggested the World man

And just then, M Pigot stepped out into the companionway an instant he was surrounded

"My good friends of the press" he said, speaking slowly in a very faintest accent, and he smiled at the faces bent upon him, "I beg pardon me for keeping you waiting, but I had some matters of great importance to attend to, and a bag to pack. Steward will find my bag outside Please bring it here so that I will be ready to go ashore at once" The steward hurried away and M Pigot turned back to us Now, gentlemen," he went on "what is it I can do for you?"

It was to Godfrey that the task of spokesman naturally fell

"We wish first to welcome you to America, M. Pigot," he said, "and hope that you will have a pleasant and interesting stay in our country

"You are most kind" replied the Frenchman, with a charming smile "I am sure that I shall find my most interesting especially wonderful city, of which I have heard many marvelous things

"And in the next place" continued Godfrey, "we hope that in this sistance, our police may be able to clear the mystery surrounding the deaths of the three men recently killed here and to arrest the murderer or murderers they seem to be able to do so"

M. Pigot spread out his hands with a little deprecating gesture

"I also hope we may be able to do so" he said, "but if your assistance has been, my poor help will be of small account. I have a profound admiration for your police the results which they accomplish are wonderful when one considers the difficulties under which they labor"

He spoke with an accent so strong that I was almost convulsed by every word of it, but Godfrey never smiled

"It is a proverb he said that the French police are the best in the world You, no doubt have a theory in regard to the death of these men"

"I fear it is impossible" replied M Pigot, regretfully. "To answer the question at present or to discuss the case with you I have no report to make to the chief of your detective bureau Tomorrow I shall be most happy to tell you all that I can but tonight my lips are closed sadly and it makes me to seem discourteous"

I could hear behind me the sharp drawn breath of disappointment at the failure of the direct attack My position was, of course, absolutely correct, but nevertheless Godfrey chose to attack it on the flank

"You are going ashore tonight" he inquired.

"I was expecting a representative from your bureau to meet me here M Pigot explained. "I was hoping to go with him to the city I have no time to lose. In addition, the more quickly we get to work, the more likely we shall be to succeed Ah' perhaps this is he," he added, as a voice was heard inquiring loudly for Moosseer Pigott

I recognized that voice and so did Godfrey, and I saw the consternation which fell upon his disappointment which fell upon his

An instant later, Grady with Simmonds in his wake, elbowed his way through the group.

"Moosseer Piggott'" he cried, and veloped the Frenchman's slender in his great paw, and gave it a which was no doubt painful "Glad to see you, sir. Welcome to our city we say over here in America I certainly hope you can speak English I don't know a word of your language Commissioner Grady, in charge of the detective bureau, and this is Simmonds, one of my men

M. Pigot's perfect manners were even ruffled.

"I am most pleased to meet you and you, Monsieur Simmons" he said "Yes—I speak English—though as you see, with some difficulty

"These reporters bothering you, I see out, I see," and Grady glanced at the group, scowling as his eyes met Godfrey's. "Now, you boys might as well fade away. You won't get a thing out of either of us tonight Moosseer Piggott?"

"I have but just told them that my first report must be made to you" assented Pigot.

"Then let's go somewhere and have a drink," suggested Grady

"I was hoping," said M Pigot gently "that we might go ashore at once I have my papers ready for you"

"All right," agreed Grady "After I've looked over your papers I'll show you Broadway, and I'll bet you agree with me that it beats anything in gay Paree. Our boat's waiting, so we can start right away This is your bag? Yes? Bring it along Simmons" and Grady started for the stairway

But the attentive steward got in front of Simmonds.

(Continued next week.)

About the "Terrible Turk."

George Marvin, in World's Work

The popular western conception of the Turkish army is something in the nature of a wild Zouave, marshaled in battalions and fired with a fanatical homicidal mania. But nowhere in the key will you find such a conception realized. The great majority of Ottoman regulars are singularly plain, unromantic, unpretentious soldiery On their heads they wear either gray baggy fez or wound turbanwise, or plain fez with "kalpaks" of a yellowish brown color corresponding to their German-cut uniforms of rough, woolen cloth The legs are wound in a bulky way with the same material in a Turkish combination of a puttee, and on their feet they wear short boots or the soft leather moccasin-like shoes of the Balkans give them a comfortable agricultural look. Singly or in bulk there is nothing at all striking about them, but they look exceedingly equal to the delivery of goods. I thought they appear as well able to fade indistinguishably into the landscape as anything human could be Many of them are Anatolians and some are ruddy faced Kurds from the Caucasus others come from the Taurus mountains, back of Konia and Aleppo, and many thy Syrians and Arab types. Among all of them will fight at the drop of a hat He would not have to change anything There is nothing about him to polish or to be kept clean. As he stands he sleeps and eats, drills, marches and goes into battle.

Under the direction of Commissioner John K. Robinson, U. S. N., commanding the naval torpedo station at Newport, R. I., a test, was recently made which seems to prove that the torpedo net is no longer a secure defense against the torpedo. In the experiment a torpedo with a heavy charge of guncotton was fired from the torpedo boat Morris while she was moving at full speed at a steel net which was suspended to protect the target. The torpedo went through the net, struck the target and exploded.

N IN CONDITION

To Health by Lydia ham's Vegeta- Compound.

Vt. — "We have great remedies. I was very ir- regular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would bloat. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vege- table Compound has done me lots of good l fine. I am regular, my tter and my pains have all can use my name if you roud of what your reme- e for me." — Mrs. MARY Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

Dependable Medicine admitted by every fair- gent person, that a medi- ive and grow in popularity y years, and to-day hold housands upon thousands es, as has Lydia E. Pink- able Compound, without reat virtue and actual medicines must be looked med both standard and by every thinking person.

ve the slightest doubt E. Pinkham's Vegeta- nd will help you, write Pinkham Medicine Co. al) Lynn, Mass., for ad- letter will be opened, nswered by a woman, strict confidence.

the Liver Duty

in ten when the liver is ach and bowels are right. LITTLE LS y com- ver to After Eating.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. must bear Signature

Genuine

m? You need not suffer with rheumatism. Send for free sample KING'S CALI- MATISM REMEDY. CALIFORNIA 8, 3108 Stevens Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

ey Were Attentive.

n preaching in a country e first time was delighted ngregation very attentive verger so after the serv- ger replied:

you, sir, we was all look- to disappear."

t do you mean?" said the you see, the pulpit is rot- 't been preached in this more."

Mixed.

did your wife stay

esses."

ten days. She carried only

Old-Fashioned.

she is old-fashioned?"

lessly so She is still collection of picture post-

Treasure.

What's troubling you, my mislaid an egg

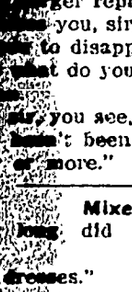
tch in Time

rs and germ diseases are o overwork the kidneys and weak. In convalescence, in time when suspicion is lame, aching back, rheu- headaches, dizziness or dis- , the use of Doan's Kidney tch in time that may avoid y disease.

edicine is so widely used, so mended or so generally suc-

th Dakota Case



J. A. Ward, con- tractor, 123 E. 12th St., Sioux Falls, S. D., says: "My prin- cipal trouble was pain in my back, along with lame- ness and weak- ness. Often the complaint got so bad that it was hard for me to stoop. I was also annoyed by the kidney secretions passing too fre- quently. I have used Doan's Kid- ney Pills for these attacks and there kidney medicine to be had er failed to give me relief."

at Any Store, 50c a Box
N'S KIDNEY PILLS
URN CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

ATO LOW PRICES

otatoes helped put Wisconsin way enormous potato yield. We can BIG SEED CATALOG FREE. d Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

s: saves your old batteries. My S: recipe makes them better cheap, 35c. POLKERYS, Wheatley, Ark.

PTG. CO., NO. 5-1915.

WOMEN IS AT HEAD OF GERMAN SPY SERVICE

Frenchman Tells How He Received Money From Her to Give Information About French Army, Then Escaped and Made His Way Back to Boulogne.

Boulogne, France, Special: The report that a woman is at the head of the German secret service department in the eastern war zone, is revived in a statement published here from the pen of a Frenchman who says he was offered a position in the German secret service at Lille.

This Frenchman says he was a cigar merchant in Lille before the war, and after the German entry, made a good living, hawking cigars and cigarets. Evertually he clashed with the German authorities and was compelled to abandon his trade. The German military officials, however, noticed that he spoke German fluently, and offered him a post as interpreter. When he reported for duty he was asked if he would not like to enter the secret service at $5 a day and expenses. He replied in the affirmative and a week later; he was taken to Antwerp in a military motor car.

"At Antwerp I was taken before two officers," he says, "who were accompanied by a handsomely dressed woman, I soon discovered she was the most important person of the three. She questioned and cross-questioned me searchingly, and finally instructed me to proceed to Hazebrouck and other points in Northern France to report what troops were stationed there, where they come from, and what was their condition. She concluded her talk by a tempting offer of money if I was able to secure any valuable information, supplementing this with a frightful picture of the fate that would befall a traitor

"She gave me $125, for my expenses and directed me to report at Lorach when I had finished my work I left Antwerp and crossed through Germany to Switzerland. On reaching the French frontier, I presented myself to a police official and told him my story."

THROWING BRICKS AT THE CHURCH.

BY CHARLES STELZLE.

Church Efficiency Expert and Consulting Sociologist. Formerly Head of the Social Service Bureau of the Presbyterian Church.

It is popular sport to shy bricks at the church. Everybody takes more or less exercise in this way It is almost as popular as knocking the boss. The same old bricks have been used so often that the sharp corners have been worn off. They no longer jolt the church.

Some of the bricks thrown by its critics never did jar the church, because they did not hit the mark. The criticism was unjustifiable, and therefore the church did not take the bricks seriously.

No doubt the church deserved many of the bricks that came its way. It appeared at times that the church deliberately invited them, because it made itself such a shining mark on account of ecclesiastical stupidity or indifference.

At such times a good many bricks were also thrown by people inside the church. And the church, has always been angrier because of these internal assaults than because of attacks from without. Perhaps this was perfectly natural. But the fact that bricks were thrown by the church people themselves proved that the church is not dead.

If there were no readjustments within the church excepting those that come as a result of criticism from without, the situation would be hopeless. If the church made no move toward self improvement excepting when outside students of its work find fault with it, then it would be a sure sign of inefficiency or general delibility.

There is no doubt that the critics inside the church have been more specific in their diagnosis than those outside, largely because their study was more intelligent and based on a larger group of facts.

He is a foolish man who would denounce the physician who tells him about the disease that is slowly but surely undermining his health and destroying his usefulness. The truth may not be very palatable, but it is very necessary.

It is unfortunate that when it becomes needful to point out to the church those things wherein it lacks, it involves a certain amount of publicity that may seem to bring the church into disrepute among those whom it is desired to attract to the church.

But for the church to claim infallibility or perfection in its program would be absurd. We are not discussing the question of doctrine; this is not involved in the matter under consideration, although it may well be included.

It would greatly strengthen the proposition of the church among sensible and sincere people if it were openly to acknowledge that it has been in error regarding certain practices or methods of work. but the church should make this confession before outsiders begin to charge it with failure

Such an attitude on the part of the church would certainly disarm most of the criticism one hears of the church. The ability to discern one's errors and the courage to confess that one has made a mistake are the indications of a big soul. After all, the church is composed of many big-souled people, but they are just people. Don't forget this.

Even the group that composed the church in the days when Peter and the rest of the disciples were in immediate control sometimes made mistakes. Do you recall the economic system introduced by some large-hearted Christians in this company who believed that they should hold all property in common? This communistic proposition did not work very well. It bred deceit and fraud, it pauperized certain of the Jerusalem "saints" and was soon given up.

On another occasion the Jewish converts to Christianity had been insisting that the converts from among the Gentiles should subject themselves to the same forms and ceremonies observed by the Jews. A general conference was held, at which the entire subject was discussed, and it was decided that this practice was wrong and unfair and should be discontinued. A proclamation was sent out to this effect. It would have been absurd to have insisted upon infallibility in either of these cases, particularly as they both had to do merely with methods of work and general customs.

The practices of the church are the result of an evolutionary process. It is necessary for the church to adapt itself to changing conditions. It is a cheap sentimentalism, and often a sure sign of laziness, when a representative of the church declares that the church is "the same yesterday, today and forever," and that it cannot change its attitude toward modern social and religious problems.

It may be a comfortable thing to shut one's eyes to things as they are, but a leadership that does so is very suggestive of something that was once said about "the blind leading the blind."

With relation to the practice of throwing bricks at the church, it should be borne in mind that this perogative belongs by right only to those who are identified with the church. Those who are "outsiders" have no business to criticise an organization that they neither support nor believe in.

This applies with peculiar force in this country, where we permit the utmost freedom in religious thought and practice. If an individual church, or the church as a whole, engages in work because of certain clear-cut convictions and is willing to pay the bill, who may deny it that right? An outsider may dispute and argue with regard to the beliefs and practices of the church, but he has no right either to ridicule or insult the church because of these things.

By the same token the church has no right to abuse those who are outside and who may honestly differ from the church. There is no room for argument on this point.

But if you must throw bricks at the church, come in and get a license. The church itself will give it to you. It may be that when you see from the inside the institution you have been throwing bricks at, you'll see an entirely different kind of organization from what you saw from the outside.

POWERFUL CANAL GUNS

Washington Correspondence New York Sun

Projectiles capable of piercing 11.2 inches of steel armor at a distance of more than 10 miles can be fired from new coast defense guns to be installed by the United States army in the defenses at the Panama canal and Manila bay, according to the annual report of Brigadier General Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance, made public here today.

These are new 14-inch guns of greater caliber than those heretofore installed in American defenses and of greater power. They will discharge shells weighing 1,660 pounds each with a maximum effective range of 18,000 yards, or a little more than 10 miles.

The guns of this type already made have been thoroughly tested and found wholly satisfactory, General Crozier asserts. In the manufacture of these and other guns for the army and arsenal at Watervliet has been working on a day-and-night for more than a year

Twenty-three of the latest type of 12-inch mortars were made during the last year and all were sent to the Panama canal. These have a maximum range of about 11 miles. A new two-inch gun and a new type of 3 8-inch field howitzer have been delevoped by the ordinance bureau Another howitzer of still larger size has been also constructed for use at the Panama fortifications. It is a wire-wound gun, fireing a 60-pound projectile.

General Crozier defends the system of scientific shop management in operation at some of the army arsenals. He declares that much of the opposition to what has been done in the arsenals is unwise, as he contends both the employes and the government have profited by the system.

He says there is no undue crowding of the workmen or driving them to too great a speed under the system as installed in the war department shops. General Crozier recommends that no legislation be enacted until the commission on industrial relations, which is including scientific shop management system in its investigations, has made a report.

Hopeful, Versatile California.

From the Indianapolis News.

By touching a button in Washington, sending a spark 3,000 miles across the continent, the president started "things moving" in San Diego. The first of the two famous California expositions is now open —and will continue to be open all the year. By opening early San Diego has actually got the better of San Francisco. The larger exposition—the Panama-Pacific—will not open in the Golden Gate city for some weeks. In the meantime San Diego has everything its own way.

Most states have heretofore been satisfied—satiated, perhaps—with one world's fair. "Never again," said Chicago, St. Louis and Buffalo. And as for Jamestown, the Virginia hotel proprietors weep at the mention of the name. But California is different. Heretofore it has successfully maintained—with the help of the tourists—two big cities, a range of mountains, a desert, a bowl of fruit, a basket of flowers—and sundry Japanese, not to mention the late bull moose candidate for vice president.

Now it attempts to maintain two expositions. We frankly confess to the belief that in any other state such a feat would be impossible. No one would go to any other place than California—in these wise days—to see one exposition, let alone two. But California has it all planned out. Geographically it is well placed. It has even gone so far as to co-operate with the cities of Oregon and Washington in the matter of railroad excursions. A careful program has been devised, and if it works out well there will be more money in the west on January 1, 1916, than now.

The idea, first of all, to put on two fine shows, with a boulevard between. Tourists may be received first by steamer at San Diego, cared for temporarily at the small show, shipped to Los Angeles for cafeteria treatment, and then transshipped to Frisco by way of the old missions and the prune country Rail tourists are to be welcomed at Frisco, entertained as long as it is satisfactory, scurried over the seashore to the south and given into the care of Los Angeles and San Diego. Portland and Seattle are included in the railroad itinerary, and Portland plans to exhibit one of its famous rose festivals as long as the roses bloom—and that is about all the year round. Travel westward ought to be heavy this year.

Britain's Latest Call.

From the London Globe.

In the past the war office has been criticized for the stilted phraseology of its recruiting posters, most of which do not make an inspiring call to the colors. No one can find fault in this respect with the newest poster, which is headed, "Avenge Scarborough! Up and at 'em now!" and exhorts the manhood of the country to enlist and avenge the "innocent victims of German brutality." We trust that those prelates and others who still cherish "sacred" memories of their intercourse with the head of the German navy will not be unduly shocked at this official sanction of the word "Avenge."

The belfry of Bruges is probably the most famous in the world. It was built at the end of the Thirteenth century. It was 353 feet high, and possesses a carillon of 48 bells, regarded as the finest in Europe.

TALK ON WESTERN CANADA

Facts Don't Lie—Western Canada Is Full of Facts—Here Are Three of Them.

1. C. T. Moore, Underhill, Man. Came from Bruce County, Ontario, 1882, with a capital of $2.00. Homesteaded quarter section. Now owns 2,800 acres for which he paid average of $20.00—worth today $40.00 per acre.

2 James Steel, Battleford, Saskatchewan. Came from Perthshire, Scotland, 1904. His fare advanced to bring himself and family to Canada. Took up homestead, which he sold later $25.00 per acre, buying 1,000 acres at $15.00 per acre. Has been very successful in mixed farming. Values land now at $40.00 per acre, and is worth $60.00. "If I had remained in the Old Country my gray hairs would have been a passport to the poor house," he says.

3 H J Smith, Clover Bar, Alberta Came from North Michigan, 1893, without capital. Now farming 800 acres, valued at $200 per acre. Purchased originally at $15.00 per acre. Engaged in mixed farming Cows average him $150.00 a year

All this talk about the exploitation of labor by capital, class distinction, living wage, high cost of living, and so forth, doesn't hold the slightest interest for the Canadian farmer Why? Because he has proved that you can't begin too poor to become rich in Canada; that free homesteads preclude the possibility of being robbed of freedom and independence; that the high cost of living can t hurt the man who grows most of his own necessities; that his labor brings reward in exact and just proportion to time and intelligence invested.

If those who whine at urban conditions would give a little time to investigating those suburban, they would likely spy a clear way out of their difficulties. For the first step, drop a card to any Canadian Government Agent.—Advertisement.

Couldn't Stump Father.

One night a man was reading a volume of highly colored fiction to his family. With his spectacles on his nose he droned along. 'Gwendolen de Vere Hastings lowered her limpid blue eyes, and Lord Algernor Manners took her slim white hands in his, and crushed her to him in a passionate embrace. At that moment five minutes past twelve sounded from the castle belfry, and——"

But here his youngest daughter interposed.

"No clock could strike five minutes past twelve," she said.

"Don't criticize unless you know. Certainly it could," replied Paterfamilias "It was five minutes slow!"

BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK "CASCARETS"

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Adv.

Thoughts and Words.

"I always think twice before I speak," said the loquacious person.

"I should think," replied Miss Cayenne, "that you would have to think oftener than that in order to think of so many different ways to say the same thing."

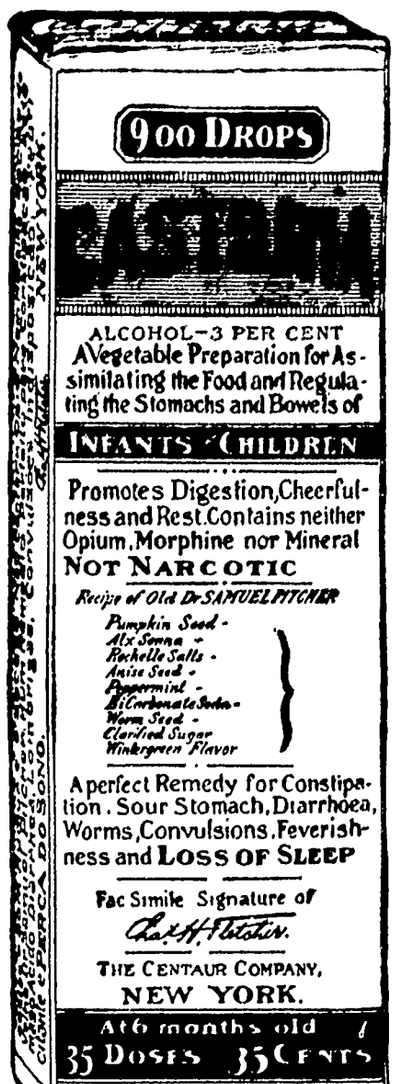
Extreme Measures.

Knicker—Is Jones on the water wagon?

Bocker—He has gone in deeper than that, he is on a submarine.

And occasionally a woman makes a fool of a man and then rubs it in by marrying him.

Many a man turns over a new leaf one day and turns it back the next.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral
NOT NARCOTIC
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP
Fac Simile Signature of
THE CENTAUR COMPANY,
NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 DOSES 35 CENTS
Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria

Always Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Borneo Pirates.

Brunei, Borneo, is one of the strangest cities in the world Once the headquarters of the Borneo pirates, it is a kind of eastern Venice, being built entirely over the water This remarkable city is the capital of the state of Brunei, Borneo All the houses are built over the River Limbang, constructed on slender piles made from the Nibong palm, a wood that resists the action of water for many years The inhabitants of Brunei are Malays, Kadayans Orang-Buskits and a few Muruts They earn their living mostly by trading with other tribes in the interior of Sarawak and British North Borneo. Some of them are very skillful brass workers, and the Brunei women make beautiful cloth, interwoven and embroidered with gold thread Sago is grown in the valleys nearby, and a small quantity of rice is also raised. In the early part of the nineteenth century Brunei was the rendezvous of the dread Borneo pirates, and a market for the slave trade —Wide World Magazine

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. No Smarting—Just Eye comfort Write for Book of the Eye by mail Free. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Latter-Day Romance.

Miss Up to Date (breathlessly)—Have I arrived in time?

Mr. Adorer (suitor)—Eh? In time for what?

Miss Up to Date—I hear that you and Mr. Lovem are going to fight a duel.

Mr Adorer—We are.

Miss Up to Date—And it's about me?

Mr Adorer—It is.

Miss Up to Date—It must not be

Mr. Adorer—One or the other must die We can't both marry you

Miss Up to Date—No, but you can compromise.

Mr. Adorer—How?

Miss Up to Date—Play poker till one or the other gets all the money, and then I will marry the winner—New York Weekly.

Some persons never miss the water 'till the booze gives out.

Did a Lasting Work.

If the proper study of mankind is man, then history must have the foremost place in any truly liberal education. In the broad, collective view, it is one of the most practical of studies. The men who founded this republic knew little of science, they never had the advantages of a university extension course, nor had they learned finance or plumbing or short-story writing in a correspondence school. But they were profoundly versed in the history of mankind, and particularly in the history of the institutions which man has devised for the purpose of maintaining his freedom, and the work which they did in nation making endures unto this day.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER GRAY HAIR

She Made Up a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to Bring Back Color, Gloss, Thickness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of the famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—Adv.

American Indians.

There are about 125,000 Indians in the Dominion of Canada. In the United States the Indians number 305,000, more than a third of them being in the state of Oklahoma.

A real guarantee on roofing!

A useless risk is to buy roofing not guaranteed by a responsible concern. When you buy our roofing you get the written guarantee of the world's largest manufacturers of roofing and building papers

Roofings, like most people, prove their worth by the test of time

Buy materials that last

Certain-teed

Ask your dealer for products made by us—they bear our name.

Asphalt Roofings (All grades and prices)
Slate Surfaced Shingles
Asphalt Felts
Deadening Felts
Tarred Felts
Building Papers

Roofing

1-ply guaranteed 5 years
2-ply guaranteed 10 years
3-ply guaranteed 15 years

Insulating Papers
Wall Boards
Plastic Roofing Cement
Asphalt Cement
Roof Coating
Metal Paints
Out-door Paints
Shingle Stains
Refined Coal Tar
Tar Coating—Pitch

General Roofing Manufacturing Company

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City Boston Chicago Pittsburgh Philadelphia Atlanta Cleveland Detroit St. Louis Cincinnati Kansas City Minneapolis San Francisco Seattle London Hamburg Sydney

BIG MONEY IN ONIONS!!

In 1914 an acre Salzer's Cabbage brought $350; an acre Onions, $900.

Special Introductory Collection for 12c

When Gideon marshalled his hosts at Kedron, he selected but 300 QUALITY men to win his great victory. So Salzer for forty-one years has been selecting, improving and originating new Vegetable varieties, until to-day his list contains only the cream, the very best! Only QUALITY SEEDS! We do want you to test them and hence gladly mail you, for 12c postage, our big Seed Catalogue free, with one generous package each:

Phila. First Early Cabbage; May 1st Carrot; Early Cucumber;
All Summer Long Lettuce; A Mixture of Onions; Juicy Radish.

All six packages for but 12c, contains enough seed to supply you with rich, juicy vegetables, and lots and lots of them, during the early spring and summer.

Read the Red River Potato King's Romance in Salzer's Catalogue.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. BOX 706, LA CROSSE, WIS.

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. F. BAUMGART
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut
Try our New Bath Tub

DR. L. P. SIMMONS
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48
Klemme Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHUEMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. WOOD
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be secured at the State Savings Bank
Will be pleased to have a call from you my expense

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

Don't miss Willard Gorton, entertainer, February 5th.

Few Thoroughbred Pekin ducks for sale. Mrs. G. O. Miner.

Miss Esther Gruetzmacher was a Garner visitor, Tuesday.

Pure Bred Hampshire Boar for sale at right price. G O. Miner.

Pure, cleaned timothy seed for sale.
Wm. Baack

"Slim" Brinkman was up from Rowan for an over Sunday visit with friends

Mrs H. Thrun and two children were over Sunday visitors with Belmond relatives and friends.

FOR SALE—Two roan bulls, eighteen months old, at $65 apiece
Gibbs Bros.

A crew of the Highway Commission was here Monday with County Engineer, Lilly adjusting a road matter.

Farmers doing work in Garner and Klemme say they can't afford to have their horses idle while waiting for the frost to leave the ground.—Garner Leader.

For sale—Some property consisting of two second floors at a bargain price, Dwelling same is purchased by A. F. Hubbard.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas. F. Busch

J. P. Larson & Sons started this week to harvest their ice crop from the river west of town. The ice is of good quality and about 22 inches thick.

If local news seem scarce this week, which they are, blame part of it onto the short course, and the rest on the editor who could not see anything on the short course.

The Short Course which opened up Monday, has certainly been a far greater success than the most optomistic ever looked for and we will endeavor to give a full report in our next issue.

The most contagious sickness in the county, and has been for the past several days, is lagrippe. In fact it was so severe in a few cases that it was feared it would mean pneumonia following.

Tomorrow, February 1st, our subscription price will be $1.50 per year on subscriptions received after that date. After the first of March the $1.00 rate will positively be withdrawn.

We have a short line of spring stock that we are closing out at first class reduced prices. Come and see us before you purchase. The same applies to our horses and mules. Mrs. Richard Hall.

Wonderful discovery of drugs as a cure for all diseases and sickness is useless to you unless you know R. W. Schultz, Druggist, Garner, Ia.

Miss Grace Gibson, a trained nurse from Mason City, returned to her home Monday, after caring for Mrs. Herbert Smith who has been suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, but is improved at this writing.

Advertising space today at the rate of Mayor George Urich, Miss Lavina Larson to Mr. Walter Wood will give full particulars in the meantime congratulations

If you get a copy of this paper and find that we have failed to mention your name in the write up of business, you will please forget it at the office.

Wanted—Horses, Cattle, Hogs, Grain, Feed, Live Stock, Poultry, Eggs, Etc.
Henry Lau & Son.

The following births have been reported from Germania: January 22nd, son to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sadler; The 24th to Mr. and Mrs. George Bussman; January 25th, a son to Mr. and Mrs. George Griggs, and the 26th a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Anderson. Congratulations.

WANTED—One of the large magazine publishing houses desires to employ an active man or woman in this community to handle a special plan which has proven unusually profitable. Good opening for right party. Address with two references, Publisher, Box 155, Times Sq. Sta., New York City.

J. Gus Thaves was down from Germania, Tuesday, endeavoring to make a deal with the Idle Hour Theatre Co., whereby he could come into possession of the local moving picture and opera house business. Mr. Thaves is experienced in this line of business and if he succeeds in making a deal will put on a "movie" every night the opera house is not used for some other purpose. He would move his family here and we know would make one of our best boosters. He is also an excellent band and orchestra man and would be a welcome addition to our musical circles.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

Willard Gorton, entertainer—is the last and last number of the lecture course and will be at the opera house Friday evening, February 5th. He is one of the highest salaried men on the American platform and his program is so varied it will please any audience. Don't miss the last and best number.

I have a splendid, improved level, half section 3½ miles from Barton that I offer at only $40. per acre—It's a bargain. Why buy $200. per acre land when you can get this good, North Dakota farm at $90. per acre? It is bound to more than double in price quickly and will make you a fine home and a good profit. Write for particulars, address C. H. Gilmore, Barton, N Dak

The weekly newspaper promotes the interests of the town in which it is published to such an extent that it becomes impossible to place an estimate upon its worth. There is no enterprise that is too much for the co operation of the individual citizen as the paper is always pushing for the welfare of the town and boosting for new industries for it stands as a unit for the upbuilding of the community. The paper has not yet come into its own, however, because it is never appreciated to its fullest worth by the people at large. It is when battles are to be fought for town or country a rush is made on the newspaper office always to find the loyal editor ready, frequently without hope of reward. Many other enterprises are encouraged by a bonus, but rarely is the newspaper offered any such help and still more often not given the support it is entitled to. Communities frequently lose sight of their real booster editor when they fail to recognize the weekly journal as such. The editor and his paper stand as the bulwarks of defense against the attacks of evil or designing schemes affecting the good of the individual or the town. For these and other reasons the newspapers of the town and country should receive the support of the public at large in a very much greater degree, for it is really the business men, as well as the community.

END OF THE EARTH.

The Latest Figuring Puts It Only Two Million Years Away.

Scientists tell us that life on the earth began about 2,000,000 years ago. It has generally been accepted that life will last for 95,000,000 years.

Ninety five million years is a fairly long time. None of us who are alive today need worry about what will take place 95,000,000 years hence. Even the most altruistic can scarcely be inspired by love for an inconceivably remote posterity.

But the French savants are altogether disturbing. Here comes one, M. Verronet, who says that the earth will permanently freeze within the next 2,000,000 years and that life will vanish. This is bringing the tragedy nearer home. We would gladly accept the older reckoning.

Verronet places mankind of today about midway between the beginning and the end. He computes that in the future life will exist as long as it has already existed. He specifies only one forty eighth as long a life as those who have studied in the past.

There is only one consolation to be derived from the Verronet reckoning. As the inheritance of today is concerned 2,000,000 years is as good as 95,000,000. In either event those who are comfortably housed today cannot expect to be long remembered when the atmosphere of ice makes the earth a barren wilderness.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HIS TWO TENSE MOMENTS.

One Was a Ninth Inning and the Other at a Dinner Table.

I heard a prominent Cambridge man tell of the two most tense moments of his life yesterday. But the tension in each case was different.

"I doubt if I ever shall forget either occasion," he said reflectively. "They were big moments.

"The first was when I was in college. I was captain of the baseball team that year. We came to the end of the ninth. We needed one run to tie the score and another to win the game. Two men were down and two on the sacks when I came to bat. And for, once in my career I did it. I lined out a three bagger, right over the railroad track. When I felt it go—well, that was one occasion.

"And the other." He chuckled, but a slow flush crept over his cheeks. "It was thirty years ago, soon after I left college. I went over to see a girl I thought was pretty nice and to meet her folks for the first time. I went on a Sunday. All the men were away. And they had duck for dinner." He stopped. "Ever carve a duck?" he asked meaningly. "No, neither had I before. Nor have I since." His flush deepened. "I never even went to see that girl again," he added plaintively.—Boston Journal

GOODELL

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkwood and Mr. and Mrs. Eza Boren from Klemme were visitors here Friday and Saturday

Mrs. Gilberts and daughter from Algona, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Amron Avery, this week.

The new restaurant held their opening Friday and treated ice cream and cigars.

Miss Emma Feltham from Belmond, spent Sunday at the Hans Beilson home.

A large crowd attended the masquerade dance here Friday evening, there will be another dance here, Friday evening, February 5th.

Guy Thomas from Clear Lake, was here, Saturday, to attend the creamery meeting

Leo Ahrenkiel and wife visited at the Harry Bidwell home, Tuesday.

Miss Mabl. Wilkins from near Klemme visited her aunt, Miss Lulu Wilkins, Friday.

AVERY CENTER

Mr. L... M... day, from Dows, Pa., where he is transacting business.

Mrs. ... Sheffield, ... are the future address.

Mrs. He... left Tuesday, on a visit with relatives in Clayton County

Mrs. Walter Ross enjoyed a visit from her brother the fore part of the week.

Quite a number from this vicinity attended the masquerade at Goodell, Friday evening

Nettie Bachman who has been attending school in Dist. No 4, returned to her home Saturday

John Stauffer of Mason City, was transacting business in this vicinity, Thursday

Pete McGuire and Mr. Van Buskirk were business callers in this vicinity, Friday

Jack Walmsley is suffering with chicken pox

ELLSWORTH

Main ... Course ...

... last week ... 2 ...

... cattle ... and Monday ...

J. F. Simmons ... quietly spent Sunday ... home ...

... are proud parents of a boy, born last week

Hod Lowhorn made a trip to Mason City, Saturday

Mr. and ... Sunday at the home of the latter's parents in Klemme

Frank Rosenthal is slowly recovering from his fall. He is able to sit up in bed

Cornelius Wilde has moved on the Mrs. Schmidt farm, two miles northeast of Klemme.

Mr. and ... J. T. Granville's children are sick with Tonsilitis and under a doctor's care.

Mrs. Frank ... extended visit with ... Wisconsin

Fred Grieman and his bride returned, Wednesday, from their wedding trip to Wisconsin and have begun housekeeping on the groom's farm, south of ...

Herb ... hauling lumber for a hog house.

Lou ... from Otho are here visiting with relatives and old friends and ...

HAYFIELD ITEMS

Miss Anna Phillips and Miss Bessie Sheral were visiting with Mrs. D. N. Kellog, Sunday evening.

The home of Ray Hawley took fire about the chimney last Saturday evening, but the timely arrival of the local bucket brigade prevented a serious fire.

Mrs. John Kraus was a caller in Hayfield, Thursday. She expects to operate the hotel here next year.

Almost the whole community south of town attended the wedding at Duncan, Tuesday, of Miss Mary Paca to Mr. Joseph Brca, with Mr. Ed Brca and Miss Barbara Paca as assistants. The event was followed by a grand ball, with a large attendance. Many of the guests returned late Wednesday morning, reporting a splendid time.

A. V. Geddis has opened a private pool hall back of ...

G. P. Scott has exchanged his farm north of town for a large livery business and a hardware store at Webster City.

The weather man turned on his tropical fan, Saturday, and Jack Frost beat to quarters for some time.

Rev. Witter, of Pearl, Ill. is helping Rev. Paulau with the revival

AS The Year 19... with it's ups ... downs, joys ... sorrows becomes a thing of ... past, our thoughts of ap... go out to our customers ... helped us in making the ... which we have had pleasant ... successful and we want to ... this opportunity to thank you ... the favors of 1914 and extend ... most sincere wishes that the ... 1915 will be a most Happy ... Prosperous one to you.

J. N. DAY

RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves as if by magic you begin using Drops," the famous remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia and hundreds of It goes right to the spot, stops the pain and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "Rheumatic" A booklet and letter giving directions for

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it lovelier and more satisfying than Europe.

Don't miss the biggest event in a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited," the most transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

The Baldwin Piano
(Grands and Uprights) received the Grand Prix (the very highest award) at the great International Exposition in Paris—an honor coveted by all manufacturers of the world, but which has never been bestowed upon any American piano except the Baldwin.
M. M. Magner

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are requested to come and pay same at once We need the money. Everybody pay up We thank you in advance for so doing
Henry Lau & Son.

...gressive Newspaper
...Most Progressive
...n In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

...E XIX. NUMBER 23 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1914. | $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

...our banking business with, you can feel assured of ...mpt and faithful service in every department. Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy.

The peace of mind which you will get from having your jewels, heirlooms, papers and other valuables securely stored away in one of our Safety Deposit Vaults will be worth many, many times the small sum the box will cost you. Burglars cannot rob you, fire cannot destroy them and you cannot lose or injure them. It will cost you only a small amount per year for a private box.

We shall gladly take care of your money in our Bank Department.

...MAKE OUR BANK YOUR BANK

We pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Surplus $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

...eeling Good?

OF COURSE you are feeling GOOD after the Christmas festivities. But why not go a little farther and feel good The ...est of the Year? It's easy when you know how. ...t keep in touch with your druggist---"he ...ows"---and a few cents occasionally will do it.

Laxacold

Has no equal as a destroyer of cold

...ggist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

...YSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

...y Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

...Your Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

FUTURITY

Items Taken ...Times Files Not ...

County Attorney ... Gruetzmacher stated that he is of the opinion that the court house can be removed from Garner owing to the fact the petition filed is now illegal. Very nearly all of the signatures on the petition are not binding as the parties are now dead. Klemme is the logical location as she is now the metropolis of Hancock county.

G. A. Pabst & Co., wholesale drug company, have just added another traveling salesman to their force. Chas. Gibbs, Jr. starting on the road for them, Monday. They now have a force of ten traveling salesmen and report a thriving business.

P. M. Griesemer, President of the street car company called a meeting of the directors Monday evening to talk over the matter of extending the tracks into the A. ...hite addition.

Artist, Joe Miller ...as just refused $5,000 for his painting of "Mona Lisa." The offer being ...e by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., ...was here Monday and examined ... painting.

Clarence "Fatty" ...kholm, traveling salesman for ... Gruetemacher Bros. wholesale ha...re, visited his family and other ...atives in this city, over Sunday.

Harry Bonwell re... added two more "Jitney Hack... his livery. The street car comp... admits that Harry is strong competition.

Wm. Trafford, foreign buyer for the Wellemeyer Department Store, returned from his European trip last night.

THE JURY LIST
Grand Jurors

Anderson, A: Twin Lake Township
Conway, C R: Concord Township
Faust, John, Erin Township
Kramer O R Bingham Township
... Crystal Township
... Township
... Township
... Township
Knutson, ... Township
Pike Hiram, Ellington Township
Wellemeyer, Arthur, Ell Township

Petit Jurors

Drawn for the March term of the District Court, which convenes on March 1st 1915. C H. Kelly, Judge.

Nels Anderson, Avery Township.
Irv. Applegate, Major Township.
Wm. Brower, Amsterdam Township.
C. A. Frrb, Britt Township.
Frank Faloda, Garfield Township.
S. W. Ford, Amsterdam Township.
S. G. Fuller, Avery Township.
Joe Geible, Boone Township.
A. C. Hanson, Britt Township.
B. C. Harris, Magor Township.
A. G. Hanson, Concord Township.
L. A. Hendricks, Britt Township.
Albert Nurbes, Garfield Township;
Nels Hendrickson, Britt Township;
Fred Jakoubek, Garfield Township;
Frank Kris, Concord Township;
Charlie Kuller, Garfield Township
R. S. Lawrence, Major Township;
F. T. Lapitz, Garfield Township;
F. McNulty, Avery Township;
John Peterson; Ellington Township;
Lee Pulz, Boone Township;
Thos. Quinn, Bingham Township;
Frank Paulson, Britt Township;
Fred Runge, Ell Township;
Gust Schultz, Madison Township;
John Sheridan, Erin Township;
Albert Sheral, Garfield Township;
J. N. Sprole, Concord Township;
Jim Ward, Britt Township;

SCHWICHTENBERG-BALL

Ben Schwichtenberg of Twin Lake township and Miss Adaline Ball of Guttenberg, Ia. were united in marriage, Tuesday evening February, 2, at the parsonage of the German Methodist church by Rev. W. J. Witter.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schwichtenberg and is well and favorably known in the vicinity as a young man of tact and ability. The bride, although not known in this vicinity is a highly esteemed and worthy young lady.

They will make their home on the farm in Twin Lake township. May joy and success follow them throughout their life's journey.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

STATEMENT of the condition of the State Savings Bank

organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the county of Hancock, at the close of business on the 2nd day of February 1915, made to the Auditor of State.

ASSETS

Amount of Bills, Bonds and other evidences of debt discounted or purchased actually owned by this Bank		$182,682 71
Gold coin in Vault	$ 890 00
Silver coin in Vault	499 11
Legal tender, National Bank notes & Subsidary Coin	3,168 00
Drafts, Checks and other Cash Items not dishonored	338 04
TOTAL		4,895 15
Amount subject to be drawn at sight on deposit with solvent banks		24,374 20
Overdrafts		4,679 90
Value of Real Estate		14,790 18
Value of Personal Property		1,685 00
Total Assets		233,106 14

LIABILITIES

Amount of capital stock		15,000 00
Amount of Deposits subject to check	66,282 51
Amount time deposits	123,966 86
Total Deposits		190,249 37
Bills Payable		7,500 00
Surplus fund		15,000 00
Other profits after deducting expenses		5,356 77
Total Liabilities		233,106 14

STATE OF IOWA } ss
HANCOCK COUNTY }

We, W. R. Bloom, President, and P. M Griesemer, Cashier of the Bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct to the best of our knowledge and belief that the assets therein set forth are bona fide the property of said Bank in its corporate capacity and that no part of the same has been loaned or advanced to said Bank for the purpose of being exhibited as a portion of its assets

W. R. BLOOM, President
P. M. GRIESEMER Cashier

...
...
Notary Public in and for Hancock County

...
Wm Kotter,
Joe E. Johnson, } Directors.

Would Aid Unfortnnates

W. C. Graves, superintendent of an Illinois reformatory, recommends the purchase of more land for that institution. He would have more of the inmates trained in outdoor work.

"It is an acknowledged fact," he says in his annual report to the governor, "that placing inmates on honor farms and teaching them scientific farming, where they can be taught to work and have the open air, is the most scientific way of reforming young men.

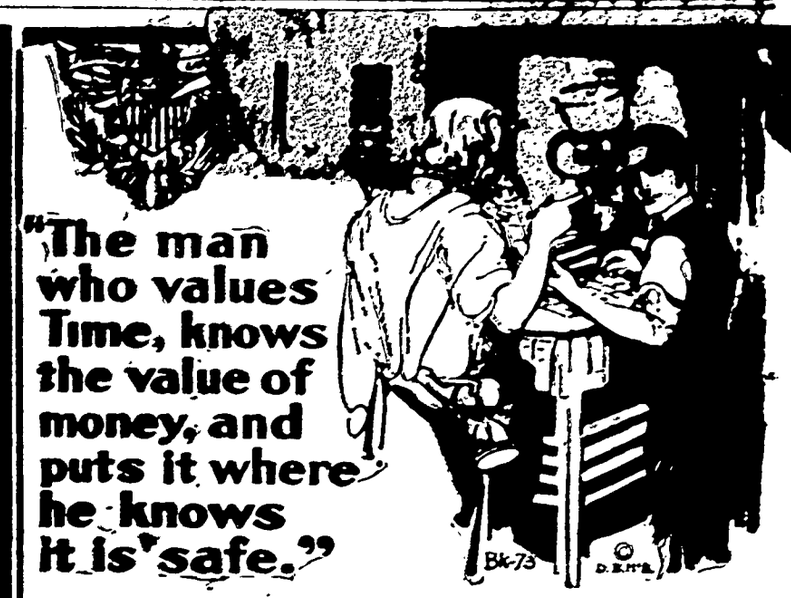
It is astonishing to know the number of boys who have been raised on the streets of our large cities, and who are inmates of this institution, who are anxious to become farmers, and love that kind of work. Statistics show that ninety per cent of the boys paroled as farm hands, after having been taught art of farming at this institution, make good farmers and substantial citizens."

Another recommendation made by the superintendent has to do with classifying and dividing defective inmates from the others. He believes there should be a separate institution for defectives. He would, too, change the age limit so that first offenders between the age of sixteen and twenty five may be admitted. Offenders under sixteen should be excluded, he says.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to announce to the public and my many customers that I will have a very large assortment of millinery about or after March 1st. Since I have not procured a successor I will continue giving my many customers the best values and latest styles at greatly reduced prices. Our two large rooms will be filled with goods. Watch for opening announcements. Mrs. John Josten.

Report has it that Ed Papousek is married. We are not acquainted with the lady of his choice but she is highly spoken of. Their many friends congratulate. The groom has lived in Garner about all his life and is a respected industrious young business man being part owner of the Papousek Wood Working establishment. The happy couple will go to housekeeping in Garner. — Garner Signal.



¶ A Bank's position is one of trust and you can judge its safety by the loyalty of its costumers.

¶ No Bank offers better protection, better facilities than we extend to our patrons and we invite accounts large or small from merchants and indivduals who are not aware of the advantages here, other than the mere costudy of funds.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath.
Shingles,
Posts, Sash.
Doors, Blinds.
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Short Horn Cattle Sale

We the undersigned, offer for sale on our farm, 2½ miles West and 3 miles South of Garner, on

Tuesday, February 16

Beginning at 1:00 o'clock, a. m. Free Lunch at 11:30.

26 Head Registered Short Horn Cattle

Consisting of 5 cows, of which 3 will have calves at side, one is fresh, the other will be fresh soon. Two 3-yr-old Heifers Three 2-yr-old Heifers. Seven 1-yr-old Heifers. Nine Bulls, six 1-yr-old, three 6 months old. These cattle are mostly all dark reds. Pedigree furnished with everything, old or young.

7 Head of Horses
Consisting of 4 work horses and 3 colts.

12 Chester White Brood Sows. 14 bu. of Clean Clover Seed. Some Machinery.

Parties coming from a distance will be met at either depot at Garner if notice is given of your arrival. Usual Terms.

WM. BREDLOW & SON, Props.

Young & Kester, Aucts. J. F. Vrba, Clerk

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

Dr Doyen the French surgeon, is generally considered to be the wealthiest medical man in the world He is also one of the busiest, and it is proverbial in Paris that no healthy man can ever get a talk with him. Patients come from every part of the world to his private hospital in the Rue Duret, and in recent years he has had all his more important surgical operations cinematographed with the object of leaving exact records of his work for the aid of other surgeons.

In one of the young ladies' schools in a suburb of Berlin the pupils sent a committee to the principal asking her to discontinue instructions in French and English, as it would be unpatriotic to learn the language of nations who, in such an infamous manner had dragged Germany into war It took the principal considerable time to show the girls why their request could not be complied with.

Wonderful changes have been wrought in the transmountain thoroughfare in the state of Washington. In seven months the tortuous, narrow path across the Cascades has been transformed into a splendid 16-foot highway with a maximum grade of 5 per cent The state of Washington spent approximately $335,000 on the 38 miles from North Bend to Lake Keechelus.

At a Christmas festival in South Paris Me [illegible] were taken from the tree b[illegible] who had recently been [illegible] During the distribution [illegible] package with [illegible] packages his [illegible] to wonder where [illegible] realized that the [illegible] new [illegible]

St Paul's [illegible] of London has had a strange association with fire. The first [illegible] on the present site was erected [illegible] by Ethelbert King of Kent [illegible] was destroyed by fire [illegible] when the great fire [illegible] of London St Paul's was [illegible] its fifth [illegible] church was built by Chr[illegible] at a cost of more than $7,500,000

Four [illegible] Mass [illegible] the [illegible] the letters spelling S T A R [illegible] State of [illegible] the stage from [illegible] when the turn[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Kingdom [illegible]

[illegible]

Two [illegible] the Philippine [illegible] farming stock [illegible]

Upon [illegible] smallest [illegible] a mysterious [illegible] marble [illegible] patches [illegible] The ston[illegible] an infallible [illegible]

It is [illegible] Transbaikal [illegible] gold [illegible] on lands [illegible] region of [illegible]

An [illegible] shops in [illegible] Anglicized [illegible] moving [illegible] delicat[illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible]

Not [illegible] to the [illegible] speculators who usually take the profits [illegible] money

During the year ending last July 808 persons in the United Kingdom were sentenced to penal servitude as against 881 in the previous year

From Atchison Kan comes the tale that a woman returned a bag of salt to her grocer because the flavor of the salt was not good

In Sweden the drinking places are closed on Saturday because it is pay day and the savings banks are kept open until midnight

In the printing of the acts of the British parliament the old spelling of the word "entitled" is still preserved, i. e., "intituled"

Juniper from the Indian reservations of New Mexico and Arizona may prove an excellent source of material for lead pencils

A 20-ton bell at the Church of the Sacred Heart, in Paris, is tolled by electricity. A choir boy operates the mechanism

The Chinese like bagpipe music.

DES MOINES ITALIAN WOUNDS SELF; KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN

Action Said to Have Been Due to Jealousy—Was Employe In Railroad Shop.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 6.—Frank T Amadeo, an Italian employe of the Wabash railway roundhouse, in Des Moines, shot and killed his wife, his 8-year-old daughter and his 1-year-old son at his home here today. Then he turned his pistol on himself. He is expected to die

The police say jealousy of a boarder at the home of Amadeo was the cause of the act Amadeo works nights He had been home only about an hour when he made the attack. Two other children escaped from the house

FORMER IOWA EDITOR MAKES RICH GOLD STRIKE

[illegible] Ia., Feb 6 [illegible] K Gay[illegible] a former Iowa City newspaper [illegible] "struck it rich" at Breckenridge Colo., according to a message received by his relatives here. He and three confreres have discovered four pockets in their gold mine, newly developed One yielded $30,000 worth of free [illegible] and the other three, $70,000 [illegible] It is believed there is $1,000,000 worth yet uncovered judging from the character of the vein The owners are not selling stock Henry and Allison Gymon of Hastings, Neb are brothers of the lucky newspaper man.

ANTI-WADE FORCES HARD PRESSED FOR CANDIDATE

[illegible] Feb 6 Anti-Wade democrats in Iowa are finding much difficulty in getting a strong candidate for national committeeman to [illegible] Judge Wade in case he goes on the bench E T Meredith as the result of conferences with friends here deems it inadvisable to run He does not want to drop his directorship in the federal reserve system Homer Johnson [illegible] has been talked of [illegible] doubtful whether he can be elected The anti-Wade forces today are not hopeful of finding a candidate [illegible]

WOMAN FALLS ON SAW. BODY ENTIRELY SEVERED

[illegible] Ia Feb 6 Mrs James [illegible] aged 52 wife of a prominent farmer living three miles from here was instantly killed Thursday While Mrs [illegible] was watching her husband and a neighbor operate a wood saw [illegible] caught in the machinery She was thrown almost directly across the saw [illegible] her body severed in an instant [illegible]

PROMINENT IOWA LAWYER DIES ALONE IN OFFICE

[illegible] railroad lawyer [illegible] Iowa was found dead in [illegible] his office from heart failure [illegible] was not alarmed when [illegible] return to his suburban [illegible] last night but [illegible] his office yesterday [illegible] to get a response [illegible] his dead body

GEORGE BOWERS, OF ALTON, NAMED REVENUE COLLECTOR

[illegible] George Bowers of [illegible] returned this morning from a trip to Dubuque with the announcement that he had been named by Louis [illegible] deputy revenue [illegible] Iowa Mr Bowers formerly [illegible] newspaper business and [illegible] publicity man in the [illegible] campaign last fall

[illegible] farm house [illegible] David Pitt [illegible] Logan Thursday at [illegible] the zero weather [illegible] bad roads the neighbors responded to the call for help and a part [illegible] of the house was saved [illegible] insurance

[illegible] lumber and coal [illegible] in Iowa Minnesota Nebraska [illegible] states will [illegible] Rapids February 22 and 23 [illegible] annual convention of the [illegible] lumbermen's association [illegible] have been extended to [illegible] lumbermen's as[illegible] meets in Dubuque [illegible] not meet this year [illegible] entire membership [illegible] Rapids to the Central [illegible] and

OMAHA BANK TELLER SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

Trying to Be "Good Fellow" He Runs Behind $6,400—Says He Will Repay

[illegible] Foltik [illegible] the Live Stock National [illegible] left this city for [illegible] an investigation [illegible] shows that he is short [illegible] admission that the [illegible] the condition was [illegible] of a letter from Foltik admitting [illegible] and stating that he [illegible] in the hope of earning [illegible] to pay the shortage.

Foltik was well known locally, was [illegible] of several fraternal societies [illegible] generally liked He was active in gun club circles and was rated as one of the best local amateurs. He came to the Live Stock bank about seven years ago from Morris & Co Kansas City Mo. He was with the packing concern for a number of years as traveling auditor He was an expert accountant That he was able to cover up shortages for a period of more than three years indicates just how expert he was

In his letter to bank officials Foltik stated that he was too ready to spend when he was out with a crowd of friends

"I was a good fellow and this is the result" Foltik wrote "I did not realize what I was doing until I had got in too deep to make it up. I always hoped to make some money in various ways so that I could pay back what I owed the bank If you will give me a chance I will make every cent of it good I am leaving with $12.50 in my pocket."

Bank officers stated that he could have taken a large amount of money with him when he left if he had wished.

SPECIAL TRAIN TOOK FUNDS TO CHECK RUN ON BANK AT CORNING

While Storm Raged Mysterious Scramble Started By Numerous Depositors.

Corning, Ia., Feb. 6.—Had the blizzard continued for any length of time it is difficult to say what might have been the fate of the Okey-Vernon Nation bank, of this city, upon which a run started, and the officers of which at once began negotiating for an extra amount of cash to pay depositors. Trains were stalled and telephone and telegraph wires down However train schedules were partly resumed and an officer of the besieged bank was able to reach Omaha from where a special train was run to carry $15,000 gold and currency for the bank An additional $50,000 was secured by express from banks in Omaha and Council Bluffs, and when this great pile of money was presented and the action of the bank became known the nervous feeling gradually gave way to one of confidence the run out started into a run back and cash that had been withdrawn by excited depositors was practically all returned The bank has deposits of approximately $750,000 and had cash resources of over $300,000 when the run started The cause of the run is a mystery It came just at a time when the first dividend was being paid depositors of the failed First National bank of Corning a 30 per cent dividend amounting to about $75,000

"DRYS" CLAIMING VICTORY IN DES MOINES CONTEST

Des Moines Ia Feb 6 A deposition which may sweep 250 more names off the saloon petition was filed by "dry" attorneys in Judge Utterback's court yesterday morning

The deposition is that of Hugo Levitt of Kansas City and will be read in court probably next week

In the deposition Levitt swears that he signed the petition in Kansas City some time in November or December 1913 and that no other person was present at the time He testifies [illegible] did E B Wilson a state bank examiner, who was examined Monday that he received the petition in the mail and returned it to Des Moines

The section of the petition bearing Levitt's signature was certified to by C B Elliott a bartender for Billy Allen There are 250 names on the section According to the supreme court ruling the testimony of Levitt will invalidate every one of the 250 signatures, practically all of which have been declared valid by the supervisors

Attorney H M Havner of the temperance forces declared confidently today that the case is won

"That petition is gone" he said "[illegible] worth the paper it is written [illegible] say honestly that I have [illegible] whatever that we will knock the daylights out of it I think that there is no question about it

DEGREES FOR 22 AT NEXT UNIVERSITY CONVOCATION

Iowa City Ia Feb 6 Twenty two students will be candidates for degrees at the University of Iowa when the first convocation is held February [illegible] list follows

[illegible] of Arts Anna M Barr [illegible] G W Bann Silve Bo[illegible] Mert [illegible] Cooper H[illegible] in [illegible] Das Malda India John [illegible] Hawarder [illegible] I. Horstall Iowa Falls Inez [illegible] Denison Alice A Loos Iowa City Charlotte Loveland Iowa City Alve H Moon Cresco Edith L Riggs Des Moines [illegible] Robert Iowa City Mary B Ryan Muscatine Addie Max Sa[illegible] [illegible] Bachelor of Science [illegible] J Silver Warsaw Russia Bach[illegible] of Laws Horace Kent Vasey Grundy [illegible] Doctor of Dental Surgery [illegible] P Wagoner Seattle W[illegible] Bachelor of Science in Chemistry [illegible] H Conroy Cedar Rapids Leo A Stebbings Spencer Bachelor of Engineering Glenn J Konvalinka M[illegible] City Master of Arts Homer W Anderson M[illegible] Master of Science Jesse W Doolittle Sibley

MONTGOMERY AGAIN HELD AS ALLEGED PAL OF BOYSE

Council Bluffs Ia Feb 6 Upon suspicion that he was a partner of Roy Boyse in the attempted robbery of Albert Erickson 12 miles from Onawa on January 13 Charles Montgomery was arrested here and taken to Onawa yesterday He was arrested just as he was given a letter by H Maloney who was released from the Monona jail Tuesday after serving 60 days for bootlegging The letter is said to have been from Boyse Montgomery however succeeded in disposing of the missive and it has not yet been located Maloney was also held for investigation and taken to Onawa Montgomery was arrested on suspicion before but nothing could be proved against him and he was released after being held three days

STORM CAUSES RELEASE OF ACCUSED MURDERER

Mason City Ia, Feb 6 Rollo Van Horn arrested at his home near Clear Lake and brought to the county jail was released from custody late yesterday afternoon Van Horn was charged with the murder of his brother, Chester Van Horn for which Mrs Chester Van Horn is now in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury

Officers said the severe snow storm made it impossible to bring witnesses here for a preliminary hearing and it was impossible to hold him longer His attorneys, who demanded his release or a hearing, claimed the state would not give him a hearing because they had no evidence

GOEORGE ENGEL DEAD.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 4.—George Mengel a wealthy Davenport brewer, died last night Mr Mengel was married a week ago for the third time His divorce suit with his second wife had been in the courts for 10 years and had been taken to the United States supreme court three times

IDA GROVE—Bruce Anderson and Miss Cora Priest, well known residents of Correctionville, were united in marriage here in the county clerk's office by Judge Carl E. McCutchen

PERRY—W A Parsons, a Milwaukee switchman, who has been working in the Perry yards, is laid up at the Kings Daughters' hospital suffering with injuries which may prove fatal The drawbar on a freight car pulled out and he was caught between two heavy cars.

FORT DODGE—Clyde Davenport found a perfect specimen of a pearl in a clam shell he picked up along the banks of the Des Moines river near here He has refused offers of $500 made for it The pearl is conical in shape and weighs about three karats. Local jewelers say it is worth from $1,000 to $5,000.

KEEPING QUIET ONLY OFFICIAL DUTIES OF STATE HOUSE "COPS"

Humorous Admission Made By Custodian Before Senate Investigators.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 5.—Testimony given before the senate graft committee yesterday afternoon tended to show that the services of the following persons on the state's pay roll could be dispensed with at little inconvenience:

One special policeman drawing a salary of $70 a month.

One janitor on the senate side at $70 a month

One janitor on the house side at $70 a month

Two extra janitors about the state house at $65 each

One mail carrier at $90 a month.

One cloak room man on the senate side at $90 a month.

Two doorkeepers in the senate at $90 each

W A Duckworth, custodian of the capitol, was the principal witness examined by the investigation committee. He informed the members as to five of the nine persons which the evidence tended to show were not needed

It developed from Mr Duckworth's testimony that four special policemen were employed two years ago while the legislature was in session at a salary of $70 a month each This year the custodian said he had placed but one special policeman on the job, who works independently of the chief of police at the capitol

Some humor was injected into the inquiry when Senator Crist questioned Captain Duckworth as to the duties of the so-called special policeman

"I want to know who instructs this man and what he is required to do," queried Senator Crist.

"Oh! I instructed him" said the witness, after hesitating for a moment "I told him to make himself as quiet as possible

PUBLISHERS URGING LIBEL LAW CHANGES

Want Chance to Clear Error By Prominent Retraction—Only Actual Damages

Des Moines Ia Feb [illegible] Several [illegible]

[illegible] of the Leon R[illegible] D M [illegible] of the Mason City [illegible] Gazette [illegible] R[illegible]

Mr Cowles [illegible] the true sense libel [illegible] Mr Cowles held that if a newspaper [illegible] full retraction as prominently as the original article against which an action for libel had been brought [illegible] that newspaper should [illegible]

[illegible] newspapers [illegible] wholly out of [illegible] for the damage done without taking in consideration to any degree the fact that the act of the newspaper was not deliberate

NO ATTEMPT TO ARREST "DISAPPEARING MINISTER"

Iowa Falls Ia Feb [illegible] The Rev Louis R Patmouth the disappearing minister delivered two sermons before large audiences in this city It was reported by Minneapolis papers that he was wanted in Milwaukee on a charge of arson in connection [illegible] church with which he was formerly associated at Newark N J [illegible] statements were true he [illegible] as he appeared before Mayor Puck and stated that he was [illegible] to give himself up to the authorities if they had charges against him [illegible] for he [illegible] arrest and he was allowed to leave the city [illegible] for a number of days

DES MOINES ATTORNEYS "ROAST" JUSTICE COURTS

[illegible] Des Moines [illegible] criticized [illegible] yesterday [illegible] committee [illegible] to establish [illegible]

[illegible] Keithley [illegible] Des Moines [illegible]

We have [illegible] justices and four constables [illegible] Des Moines and they get [illegible] $11,000 a year Keithley told the committee The salaries are paid them for the criminal cases they are supposed to handle yet practically all the criminal cases are heard in the city police court except those taken to justice courts on change of venue It is a fact that about nine of every 10 cases taken to justice court in this way are [illegible] called up or are dismissed With no one to prosecute them it is rare that conviction is secured Practically all of the civil cases in justice court are handled by a certain justice, and as all the criminal work goes to the police judge, practically all the minor court work is handled by two men and three of the justices do little or nothing

RECEIVER NAMED FOR IOWA FALLS LIGHTING PLANT

Iowa Falls Ia Feb 3 A B Mill[illegible] of this city has been appointed as receiver of the electric light plant here, and has taken possession of the property The appointment was made by Judge McHenry of Des Moines, and prevented the hearing that was to have taken place before Judge Wright of the district court the day following. The property has been in the hands of O. F Peterson, of Des Moines, who has the opportunity of again securing hold of the plant at the sale sometime the last of May by paying the first two mortgages, amounting to $30,000. The third mortgage at the present does not seem to figure in the sale.

EDWARD TILDEN, NOTED PACKER, DIES SUDDENLY

EDWARD TILDEN

Chicago, Feb 5 - Edward Tilden, banker and packer, died at his home here last night Death was due to throat trouble. His death was unexpected and he had been ill only a few days

SAYS 'WETS' ERRED IN HOLDING BILL

Francis Tells Savage Action Will Result In Repeal of Mulct Law—Test Vote on Withdrawal.

Des Moines [illegible] Feb 5 The alleged [illegible] committee on suppression of temperance to pigeon hole the Wilson-Francis prohibitory amendment has found the "dry" forces to vigorous action Senator Francis will [illegible] a fight on the floor to call the measure out of the committee, and declares he is sure of success

"The wets have over-reached themselves in this action," said Senator Francis, "and as a result we are going to repeal the Iowa mulct law"

According to the claims of the "drys" the [illegible] expressed a willingness to have the bill sent back with any kind of a recommendation, but they do not intend to have it held up and sifted out of business in the closing days of the session They offered to accept a report either for passage, for indefinite postponement or without recommendation Each time the vote against reporting the bill was 7 to 5, showing the "wet and dry" alignment in the senate committee

Those reported by the "drys" as voting "wet" were Thompson of Des Moines, Jackson of Floyd Farr of Woodbury Schrup of Dubuque Quigley of Clayton, Sheean of Jones, and Savage of Adair Those voting "dry" were Francis of Dickinson Roe of Winnebago Wilson of Appanoose, Doran of Boone and Enger, of Winneshiek

ALLEN WOULD DISCHARGE LARGE NUMBER OF CLERKS

Des Moines, Ia Feb. 5 -Senator Allen of Pocahontas appeared before the "graft" committee yesterday afternoon and recommended that the committee report favorably on discharging 25 committee clerks, four janitors, two doorkeepers one cloakroom attendant and one assistant file clerk from the senate pay rolls The committee probably will make its report on the investigation Saturday or Monday Members propose to get this question out of the way before they begin their investigation of the administration offices in the capitol which was authorized in a resolution adopted yesterday

STEAMER ARIZONA STUCK FAST IN ICE

Skipper Warned Not to Try to Move Her Until Relief Ship Arrives

Chicago Feb 6 Orders were sent by wireless to the captain of the steamship Arizona which is jammed in the ice in Lake Michigan two miles off this port to make no attempt to force her way through the ice until joined today by the Alabama which was speeding to the rescue from Grand Haven, Mich

Officials of the Goodrich Transit company owners of the Arizona, feared that if the ship attempted to fight its way into Chicago, it would meet the same fate as the steamship Iowa, which yesterday foundered, three miles off shore in 40 feet of water

There are 70 persons, members of the crew, on board the Arizona. She carried no passengers when she left Milwaukee Wednesday it was announced.

The steamer, City of Racine, which also was caught in the ice, docked here safely last night, after a 12-hour battle to release herself

PORK BARREL BILL IS REPORTED TO CONGRESS

Washington, Feb. 5.—With an increase of $4,489,300 over the bill as it passed the House, the Senate commerce committee today reported the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, carrying a total of $38,637,880. Senator Fletcher announced that he hoped to call the bill, as he did at the last session, if it is reached before adjournment.

CZAR'S A[illegible] HURLS B[illegible] DEATH CO[illegible]

Terrific Assaults on [illegible] and Austrian Frontiers [illegible] to Furious Bayo[illegible] Fighting.

Petrograd [illegible] Not since the [illegible] Russian Poland [illegible] December have [illegible] such vicious attacks [illegible] yesterday, when they [illegible] through the Russ[illegible]

Probably never [illegible] arena of the [illegible] centrated su[illegible] point.

In a distance [illegible] Himin and Borjim[illegible] threw 105,000 [illegible] with heavy forces [illegible] supported by [illegible] or 600 guns. [illegible] this short line [illegible] 900 men to the [illegible] or 12 lines like [illegible]

The Russians [illegible] of previous days [illegible] had concentrated [illegible] heavy forces to [illegible] vance. So close [illegible] ing this narrow s[illegible] ery became practi[illegible]

The battlefield [illegible] obstructed by [illegible] The latter already [illegible] by shell fire The German advance [illegible] bayonet, the first [illegible] ward and backwa[illegible] trench.

At some places [illegible] only a few hund[illegible] closeness of the lin[illegible] extraordinarily [illegible] companies were [illegible] most desperate Germ[illegible] at Wola Szydlowi[illegible] sians succeeded in [illegible] in the morning [illegible] lasted all night

German prisoners [illegible] German camp the division [illegible] read this undertaking [illegible] "division of death" [illegible] to be a foregone [illegible] would survive R[illegible] fevers with the [illegible] them are likening [illegible] ale of Borodino [illegible] his Russian camp[illegible] Borjimow is [illegible] en hated violence

DESPERATE HAND TO HAN[illegible] FIGHTING IN EAS[illegible]

Petrograd, Feb 5 [illegible] of the Russian arm[illegible] February 3, has issued [illegible] fighting which reads [illegible]

"In east Prussia we [illegible] progress by fighting on both banks of the R[illegible] in the vicinity of P[illegible] east of Tilsit

"On the left bank of the [illegible] ula, the fighting between [illegible] and Wola Szylowiecka has [illegible] with extraordinary ferocity [illegible] emy has brought into the [illegible] compact masses of men [illegible] deavor to penetrate our front [illegible] mans have introduced [illegible] 10 versts (about six miles [illegible] than seven divisions supported [illegible] batteries of artillery [illegible] advanced on a front of [illegible] wide

"Our counter attack beg[illegible] of February 3 and was [illegible] followed by a series of encounters [illegible] the point of the bayonet [illegible] ceeded in compelling the enemy [illegible] sume the defensive At a [illegible] Borjinow, we took possession [illegible] lines of German trenches and [illegible] the enemy out of Goumine [illegible] perate fighting, which has las[illegible] days, our troops entered Wola [illegible] wiscka. The fighting here is [illegible] ing on with desperate stubborn[illegible] particularly around a neighboring [illegible] tillery which was still in the [illegible] sion of the enemy the night [illegible] ruary 3.

"In the Carpathians the fighting [illegible] tinues along the front which is [illegible] the Dukla pass and Mount W[illegible] moving in the direction of [illegible] took 2,000 prisoners and 10 [illegible] guns

"At Mount Toukcholka a[illegible] Mount Beskid our troops dur[illegible] last few days have been con[illegible] the enemy with a desperate res[illegible] They accepted no less than 10 [illegible] ments at the point of the bay[illegible] February 3 we resolved to wi[illegible] our soldiers from the mountain [illegible] sitions to others previously [illegible] and organized by us The [illegible] strength of the enemy in this [illegible] s very considerable

"Offensive operations of the [illegible] in the vicinity of Mount Wyszkow [illegible] been repulsed with the inflict[illegible] heavy losses"

GREAT GERMAN ARMIES POURING INTO HUN[illegible]

Venice, (Via London), Feb 5 [illegible] patches from Vienna state that German troops have arrived in [illegible] on the way to Korosmezo in the [illegible] pathians, to assist Hungarian [illegible] said to be threatened with [illegible] ment by the Russians

Austrian forces dispatches say [illegible] attacked the Russian left flank [illegible] Jacobeni, in southern Bukowina, [illegible] ing the Russians to retreat to Radautz.

It is stated also that an Austrian [illegible] vance guard has been annihilated [illegible] zsok pass.

Confirmation is given the report [illegible] 00,000 German troops are being [illegible] from Poland to assist in attempting [illegible] relief to Przemysl

HUGE QUANTITIES OF ANTI-TOXIN TO EU[illegible]

New York, Feb. 5.—In a lecture [illegible] night before the academy of me[illegible] Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., announced [illegible] New York city is sending 2,000,000 [illegible] of tetanus anti-toxin a month to [illegible] warring nations in Europe. Enough [illegible] the cultures to immunize 250,000 [illegible] belligerents has already been for[illegible] ed.

ENGLAND HAS 3,000,000 MEN SERVING IN A[illegible]

London, Feb. 5.—The army est[illegible] to which parliament will devote [illegible] first part of next week's session [illegible] the number of effective men in the [illegible] my, exclusive of those serving [illegible]

R PROCLAiMS CKADE AROUND THE BRITISH ISLES

That Submarines ce Order Gives Scare and Up- ll Neutrals.

GIVEN WARNING

n-Belligerents Will f They Fail to onditions, Says Post Today.

CKADE MEANS.

—The German admir- red a blockade around sles and notified the ter sufficient time has all neutral vessels to English waters, ships of ill approach the British own peril They either or captured Subma enforce the order

AT BRITAIN—Official Eng- frankly worried by the Ger blockade which threatens to England's food supply Re measures are being con order declaring all food and possibly including contraband, is expected de order has brought ngland's door as noth

STATES—The cabinet ington today to discuss 'blockade of England no plan of action There ent in international law sal submarine blockade ippers probably will be avoid British shores mmerce seems destined mense damage as a re- new war measur

Feb. 5 Although refer- tastically to Germany's bottle up the British Isles of submarines as a "pa- ckade," England is stirred this latest development in ine situation as she seldom since the outbreak of hos-

The press unanimously subor- dinates all other war news not ex- cepting the Turkish attempt to cross the Suez canal to give prominence to the dispatches from Berlin while the foreign office statement follow- ing quickly the publication of the German decree, indicates that the government authorities take the German threat as one requiring a prompt counter stroke

As the statement says, the au- thorities are considering "more stringent measures against German trade." The ministers are treating the subject as a particular urgency and a full official statement as to the attitude of Great Britain should be forthcoming shortly

(via London Feb 6 The h press greets with satis- Admiralty's declaration that surrounding England, Ireland have been in- war zone The headlines pape s speak of the an s a blockade The Post a blockade and must be so ipping," says the Post, "is take refuge in safe har- er a measured period chantmen going to and from Isles run into danger Then men and freight not only on ships but under a neutral flag ed to sink' rlische Bundsbau, says have accepted England's battle tions. * * * We let Eng- play its role and assumed our with its rights and obligations. Let him himself who feels like coming een us."

Using Own Weapons.

Lokal Anzeiger declares Eng- own weapons are being turned her and when Germany des- English yoke under which has suffered for centuries," it accomplished a high histor- ion and freed the world from most dangerous enemies.

reblatt says England's con- which the new decree is an an- been an admission it could t Germany with weapons many realizes are not incon- The paper expresses the neutral powers will suffer the new declaration, but se will be small compared which England imposes nstorff the German ambas- e United States yesterday state department to in- merican ships to avoid the orth coast of France The ment pending further ad- t inclined to regard the no- rmal declaration of a block- gh that is the interpreta- upon it by the German

OF ENGLAND AISES NEW QUESTIONS

on, Feb 5 Germany's of a naval war zone around nd and Ireland including the nnel and the northern pass- Shetland islands is regarded of the most serious develop- e war. It was regarded as ible for one thing, that it n the movement begun by merican countries for a ference of neutral states to s to reduce losses to neutral to a minimum here were some intimations ration circles that it might ect of a protest by the Uni but the official view de- t there was little or no that and it was recalled otest was made when the was strewn with mines.

utrals May Protest.

Norway, Denmark and Hol- repeatedly addressed the ment here to gain Ameri- g for measures to relieve their own commerce and the an proclamation is expected redoubled effort for measures themselves.

Lansing, of the state de- took Secretary Bryan's e cabinet meeting today. he state department, nor the bassy had received the lat- admiralty statement and it t the German embassy that foreign office probably er copies to diplomatic rep- resentatives in Berlin and regard that notice as sufficient Yesterday's proclamation is an extension of a former one delivered by Ambassador Gerard applying to the north and west coasts of France

There is no precedent in dealing with the question because heretofore submarines have played no important part in warfare and all the rules of international law are framed with special reference to ordinary ships. The ordinary practices in taking prizes and dealing with the merchant ships of an enemy, which it is not feasible to take as prizes are clearly set out and established by long usage The merchant men must be halted boarded and either made prize or sunk But in the latter case crew and passengers must be taken off.

Threat Is Implied.

While it was noted that the proclamation is directed against "enemy ships" and applies to neutral ships only when the attacks were meant for enemy ships," through suspicion of misuse of the neutral flags, officials expressed grave concern over the implied threat to sink merchant vessels, probably without warning or taking off non-combatant passengers and crews.

After consideration of the subject by the state department American mariners probably will be expected to heed the German warning and enter forbidden waters only at their own risk, precisely what they have been doing in the North sea since notices several months ago from both the British and German governments that owing to the planting of mines it would be regarded as within the war zone

The notice from Britain that it is contemplating retaliation against German trade, though not formally before the state department has given rise to much speculation on the part of officials as to what the British have in mind

England Plans Blow.

Although it has been denied that any official declaration that food supplies are contraband has been issued, it is believed the British notice forecasts the speedy issue of some such declaration And in addition to this trying to cut off Germany's food supply by water, it is believed to be possible that the British may make the blow more severe by prohibiting the transportation of cotton to Germany

Cotton is a base of some forms of smokeless powder, as well as the high explosion guncotton used in the heads of torpedoes and submarine mines. Aside from depriving Germany of that necessary article the British enforcement of such an order would deal a heavy blow to the German textile factories which are now just beginning to receive almost normal supplies from the United States Officials did not view the German proclamation as a threat to destroy neutral ships if found in the war zone, but as warning that all ships entered there at their own risk.

ELECTION PROBES ARE AUTHORIZED

Senate Votes to Investigate Penrose, Sullivan and Others Where Suspicion Prevails.

Washington, Feb. 5 —By unanimous vote the Senate elections committee today recommended investigation of senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania and Illinois and in any other states, where charges of corruption have been made.

The original resolution by Senator Norris, progressive republican from Nebraska proposing inquiry into the campaigns where Senator Penrose was re-elected from Pennsylvania and Roger Sullivan was defeated by Senator Sherman republican in Illinois, was adopted, but at the insistence of republicans on the committee, it was amended to authorize similar investigation into any such charges from other states. Chairman Kern said the committee's recommendations would be at once put before the Senate

Senator Sutherland, republican, offered an amendment specifically naming Alabama, Indiana, California and South Dakota, but it was rejected and the amendment was made to provide for inquiry into campaign expenditures in "any other states, which evidence brought before the committee may justify."

Shouldt the Senate adopt the resolution the inquiry probably would be conducted during a recess of congress.

The order may include South Dakota if any showing of wrongful expenditures or trafficking in patronage is made. Allegations of this sort have been made in a general way, but whether there is evidence to back them up is another question

THREE WOMEN SLAIN WITH SLEDGE HAMMER

New York Police Search For Former Boarder In Connection With Killings.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb 5.—The bodies of Mrs. Lizzie Drake, 65, Mrs. Irene Spencer, 35, and her daughter, Gertrude Spencer, 12, were found in their beds at their home at Salamanca today Their heads had been crushed in with a sledge hammer.

The hammer smeared with blood and hair, was found on the floor in one of the rooms.

Boys passing the Drake homestead made the discovery The bodies were in separate rooms and there was not evidence of a struggle Apparently the victims had been slain as they slept. Physicians who examined the bodies, said that the murder had been committed three or four days ago. The police have sent an alarm for a former bourder at the Drake house.

Mrs Drake was Mrs. Spencer's mother.

QUAKE IN ILLINOIS.

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 5.—A slight earth tremor was felt here at 1 o'clock this morning. No damage was done.

CHRISTIAN INHABITANTS OF PERSIA ARM TO FIGHT THE TURKS

Christians of Mavana ready to meet invading Turks.

The people of Mavana, a town on the Turco-Persian frontier, fifteen miles from Ourmiah City, the only Christian inhabitants of Persia with the privilege of carrying arms, valiantly defended their homes when the Turks invaded this neutral territory in order to turn the flank of the Russian army in the Caucasus.

GOOD SECURITIES IN BRISK DEMAND

New Issues Sell Rapidly—Cheap Money and Lots of It Render Financial Situation Easier.

JANUARY OUTPUT OF NEW SECURITIES

Railroads.

	1915	Change from 1914
Bonds	$ 94,948,000	+$64,741,000
Notes	39,960,000	+ 3,906,000
Stock		— 7,265,000
Totals	$134 908,000	+$61,382.000

Industrials.

	1915.	Change from 1914.
Bonds	$ 32,433,000	—$ 8,162,000
Notes	38,889,000	+ 35,889,000
Stock	8,723,000	— 3,543,000
Totals	$ 80,050,000	+$24,184,000
Grand totals	$214 958,000	+ 85,566,000

New York Feb 6 —The flood gates have opened, and already $214,958,000 new securities have been issued since January 1, an increase of $85,566,000 the first month of last year

Railroads have put out $134 908 000 an increase of $61,382 000

Industrial corporations have offered $80,050,000, or $24 184,000 above 1914

Present prospects are that total flotations for the first quarter of 1915 will reach an abnormally high figure

A healthy feature has been the marked increase in the amount of railroad long term bonds without any corresponding increase in the amount of short term notes.

Money has accumulated so pronouncedly here that short loans are quoted at 2½ per cent, six months' loans at 3½ per cent, commercial paper at 3¾ to 4 per cent, and acceptances at a much lower rate

An outlet must be found for idle surplus funds, and safe bonds, naturally are usually chosen

The bulk of current and prospective financing is for the purpose of paying off maturing obligations.

The United States is gradually reducing its indebtedness to Europe without being compelled to remit one ounce of gold—our excess of merchandise exports exceeded $130,000,000 in December, the latest month for which complete figures are available.

CHINESE TONG LEADERS EXECUTED FOR MURDER

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 5.- Lee Dock and Eng Hing, two Chinese, were put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison early today Both Chinese were members of the Hip Sing tong. They were convicted of the murder of Lee Kay, the aged leader of the On Leong tong, on February 17, 1912

HORN IS SENT TO JAIL FOR DESTROYING PROPERTY

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 5 — Werner Horn, who says he is a German officer and in that capacity, tried to blow up the International railway bridge here, was removed to Machias today to serve sentence of 30 days for the damage the explosion caused on this side of the Canadian border

The case is now ended, so far as the state is concerned. The next move, it is expected will be by the federal authorities who are concerned with the application for the extradition of the dynamiter to Canada.

THORNE WILL OPPOSE HIGHER PASSENGER RATE

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 5.—Clifford Thorne, chairman of the Iowa railroad commission, will file a petition with the Interstate Commerce commission asking that the proposed advance in passenger rates in Iowa be suspended. Thorne has been informed, by J. M. Jones, chief of the division of tariffs of the Interstate Commerce commission, that the railroads have filed notice that they will increase the passenger rates to 2½ cents a mile, March 1. The schedule affects passenger rates in the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, the Dakotas, Iowa and others.

PRESIDENT'S VETO UPHELD BY HOUSE

Lower Body of Congress Fails By Five Votes to Repass Immigration Bill.

Washington Feb 6 - An attempt to pass the immigration bill prescribing a literacy test for the admission of aliens over President Wilson's veto failed in the House, the affirmative vote lacking the necessary two-thirds. Of 399 members present 261 voted to override the veto, 136 voted to sustain the president and two answered 'present"

The final test came at the close of a day of debate, in which party lines temporarily were obliterated Majority Leader Underwood made a vigorous speech criticising the president's reasons for vetoing the bill and urging the House to override executive disapproval

The 261 votes for passing the bill over the veto were cast as follows:

Democrats, 166, republicans, 78, progressives republicans, 16, independents, 1.

Against the bill the vote was:

Democrats, 101, "insurgent" democrat, 1, republicans, 32, progressives and progressive republicans, 2

Members who were in the House when the bill passed last February and who changed their votes last night were

Voting for the bill and against overriding the veto Bailey, Bartlett, Brumbaugh, Maguire of Nebraska, Park Whaley, Reed, Smith of Maryland, Taylor of Alabama

Voting against the bill and for overriding the veto Representatives Cooper, Johnson of Utah, Kinkead of Nebraska and Scott

Representative Garner, of Texas, who voted 'present' when the bill was passed, voted against overriding the veto.

Although defeated yesterday in their attempts in the House to repass the immigration bill over President Wilson's veto, because of the restrictive literacy test provision, champions of the measure declared today that the fight for the proposed legislation would be renewed in the next congress

HIGH COST OF BREAD TO BE INVESTIGATED

Government Seeks Reason For Increase — Bakers Must Show Their Books.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Federal investigation in Chicago of food prices was directed today to the bread situation.

Charles F. Clyne, United States district attorney, planned to confer with leading bakers in an attempt to learn the causes back of the increase from 5 to 6 cents in the price of the small loaves of bread

Statements have been made that many of the large baking concerns have a supply of flour on hand bought several months ago at the lower prices then prevailing The bakers will be asked to show their books and records in order that the government may obtain figures on the subject

MADE SPECIAL ORDER FOR NEXT TUESDAY MORNING

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 5.—Senators of the 36th general assembly will line up in the first formal battle over the liquor question next Tuesday By action of the senate today a resolution offered by Francis, of Dickinson, asking that the concurrent resolution on a constitutional prohibitory amendment be forced out of the committee will be a special order of business at 10:30 next Tuesday morning. The motion to defer action on the resolution was made by Wilson, of Appanoose There was no debate and no roll call. Both "wet" and "dry" were content to await the specified time before testing strength.

The resolution by Francis set forth in strong terms what the "drys" contend was a holdup by "wets" in the committee yesterday when the constitutional amendment resolution was completely smothered. The "wets" refused to report the measure favorably, unfavorably or without recommendation.

The government of Chile has established an aviation school near Santiago, where army and navy officers are being trained with good results. It is proposed to fly for a sustained flight for an hour or more at an altitude of about 15,000 feet

SENATE MAJORITY WAITING SUPPORT

Hope to Delay Vote on Ship Bill Until Smith and Newlands Arrive, Then Force the Deadlock.

Washington, Feb 5 Senator Kenyon holds the key to the ship purchase bill situation Senator Gore gave notice today he would ask a vote tomorrow on a motion to discharge the commerce committee from consideration of a ship purchase bill which he introduced yesterday This bill is satisfactory to Kenyon and Norris Senator Kenyon is pledged to vote for the Clarke motion to recommit the pending bill

This motion will be put and carried. Then Kenyon will be free to vote for the Gore motion to discharge the committee With Kenyon's vote the Gore motion may prevail This test may be delayed until next week when Newlands returns

Washington, Feb 6 —Democratic leaders in the Senate in a further effort to save the administration ship purchase bill, were today drawing new lines of action. Outnumbered by the opposition, the majority leaders yesterday failed to carry out their plan to recommit the bill with instructions for amendment

Meantime the democratic leaders are waiting for the return here next week of two democratic senators—Newlands, of Nevada and Smith of South Carolina Then with the vote 48 to 48 on a motion to recommit the bill with instructions to amend they would count on Vice President Marshall to break the tie in their favor

SIR ROGER CASEMENT IS TREASON SUSPECT

Leader of Irish Separatist Party Thought to Have Intrigued With Germans.

London Feb 6 —Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, announced in the house of commons today that Sir Roger Casement's pension had been suspended, pending an investigation of allegations that he was disloyal

Reports last November that Sir Roger, the leader of the separatist faction in Ireland, had gone to Berlin and conferred with the German imperial authorities, caused a sensation in England A dispatch from Berlin, which was attributed to the German foreign office, said that it was Sir Roger's intention of opening negotiations between the German government and the anti-English party in Ireland. Assurances were said to have been given to him that if German troops should land in Ireland all native institutions would be respected

SENATE VOTES $75,000 FOR AN IOWA EXHIBIT

Des Moines, Ia Feb 5 -After a heated debate, lasting two hours, the senate today passed the bill to appropriate $75,000 for an Iowa exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco

A desperate effort was made by friends of the measure to have the amount increased to $107,000, so as to include the cost of the Iowa building which has been erected by private subscriptions A motion to amend the bill to that effect was made by Senator Heald and warmly defended by him. The amendment brought on the most

HUGE CHARITY DEMAND ON FRENCH GOVERNMENT

Paris, Jan. 23, (by mail).—Official statistics give the number of applications for government aid as 2,116,000, of which 261,600 were refused. At present daily allowances are paid to 1,857,000 persons, the average per family being 2 francs, 10 centimes (42 cents)

The daily outlay is 3,900,000 francs ($780,000).

BLAST KILLS 20.

Madrid, (via Paris), Feb. 5.—Twenty persons were killed and many injured by the explosion yesterday of a boiler in a furniture factory at La Guardia.

POTATO BREAD NOW FAD OF BIG HOTELS

Price of White Flour May Be Met With Nutritious Substitute.

Recipe For Potato Bread.

The Recipe by Which Albert Stalle, German Chef Makes Potato Bread

Chief ingredients Cold boiled potatoes whole wheat flour, whole rye flour

The potatoes must be thoroughly boiled, and equally thoroughly dried Then they must be grated very fine

Combine the ingredients in the proportion of one cupful grated potato, one-third rye flour and one-third whole wheat flour

Make a sponge with half of the wheat flour, and one-half ounce of yeast and enough water to make soft dough Let sponge rise to double the volume and add one ounce of salt. Add grated cold potato and the remaining flour and lukewarm water Make a stiff dough and let it rise to double the volume Work it down and shape in loaf form. Let it rise to double the volume bake in hot oven for one hour.

Loaves of bread weighing two pounds five ounces can be baked from this recipe at a cost of five cents each. They are both palatable and nourishing

Caroline Coe in Milwaukee Journal

White bread is no longer the cheapest food.

Potato bread is cheaper — and has more nutritive value. Moreover, to eat it is to be in the height of fashion and to taste the food of emperors'

Potato bread—or "kartoffelbrod," as the Germans call it—won worldwide fame when the kaiser called on all patriotic Germans to conserve the fatherland's flour supply by using this war bread instead of white bread And practicing his preachment, the kaiser began eating potato bread exclusively himself, according to dispatches.

The emperor's edict on the edibility of "kartoffelbrod" was seized on in exclusive cafes as a pretext for a new fad

Albert Stalle once stirred the pot in a German army motor soup kitchen He is now chef in a leading Chicago hotel. But, though far from war, he still remembers his German war bread recipe. And the other day he made a batch of potato bread loves. Other hostelries, hearing of the sensation they made requisitioned. Stalle's potato bread prescription Then came wires from exclusive New York cafes, demanding at once the correct and original receipe.

Today leading hotels in most of the eastern cities would be out of style if they couldn't supply you war bread on demand But, strange to say, the potato bread is not only a fad; it's a real economy In using it you are not only in fashion, but meet the menacing rise of white flour prices with a cheaper substitute and you have a more nutritious food in the bargain.

How Doctor Rates It.

Dr Maximillian Herzog, a widely known Chicago physician, passed official medical judgment on the bread as follows

"Potato bread, with whole wheat and rye flour," he said, "has more than an average nutritive worth True, it is not so rich in proteins as whole wheat bread, but what the potato lacks in this respect, is pretty well balanced by the fact that whole rye flour is practically as well endowed with proteins. And the value of the potatoes for their carbohydrates must not be underrated."

Serve the potato bread in your own home. You'll find it appetizing, delicious and nutritive—a perfect form of the "white bread substitutes" which housewives are industriously seeking everywhere now that their pocketbooks feel the drain of the ballooning price of white flour

The Virility of Europe.

From the Outlook.

The pessimists have been telling us for years that the old France had perished, and the vulgarities of the Caillaux trial on the very eve of the great struggle seemed to justify this prediction; but on the first day of August that superficial France of the pessimists disappeared and the real France came into view, the France of patriotic passion, of self-forgetfulness, and of self-control, a silent France, sending the very flower of its citizenship to die on the frontiers.

The pessimists have told us for years that the Belgians were a comfortable, materialistic people, concerned only with the things that make for ease and pleasure; but on the first day of August Belgium went to the stake without a murmur, and has suffered death without flinching. In all the history of the world there never has been a more sublime illustration of the capacity of the human soul to suffer and die for something that is better than life.

For decades past the decline of the English empire and the decay of English character have been announced or predicted by scores of cynics and pessimists, who have read in current history the lesson of a great lost genius for rule. On the first day of August England began to gather her children about her. They came from all quarters of the globe. Her nobles, often accused and often guilty of leading luxurious lives and of indifference to social injustice, put their lives in her hands, not only with alacrity, but with glowing enthusiasm. Even the races that have been subject to her rallied about her; and never in her long history, full of peril and vicissitude, has England showed a more heroic mood than in this day when she is fighting for her life

Just as a reminder of carelessness, the health officer at Manhattan, Kan., is preparing to have insanitary back yards in that city photographed and placed in a sort of rogues' gallery

The Snow Storm.

Announced by all the trumpets of the sky,
Arrives the snow? and, driving o'er the fields,
Seems nowhere to alight; the whited air
Hides hills and woods, the river, and the heaven,
And veils the farm house at the garden's end.
The sled and traveler stopped, the courier's feet
Delayed, all friends shut out, the housemates sit Around the radiant fire place, enclosed.
In a tumultuous privacy of storm
Come see the north wind's masonry:
Out of an unseen quarry, evermore
Furnished with tile, the fierce artificer
Curves his white bastions with projected roof
Round every windward stake or tree or door,
Speeding, the myriad-handed, his wild work
So fanciful, so savage; naught cares he
For number or proportion. Mockingly
On coop or kennel he hangs Parian wreaths
A swanlike form inves's the hidden thorn;
Fills up the farmer's lane from wall to wall,
Maugre the farmer's sighs, and at the gate
A tapering turret overtops the work.
And when his hours are numbered, and the world
Is all his own, retiring as he were not,
Leaves, when the sun appears, astonished art
To mimic in slow structures, stone by stone,
Built in an age, the mad wind's night-work,
The frolic architecture of the snow
—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to assure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to quit farming I will sell on the Henry Wade farm, 4 miles North-West of Klemme, 7½ miles South-West of Garner, on

Wednesday, February 17

Sale to Commence at 11:00 a. m. Free Hot Lunch at Noon

28 Head of Live Stock

5 - Head of Horses - 5

Bay Mare, 12 yrs old, in foal, wt. 1300. Sorrel Gelding, 6 yrs old, wt 1250 Gray Mare 9 yrs old. Colt coming 2 yrs old. Bay Gelding, 4 yrs old, wt. 1100.

15 - Head of Cattle - 15

5 Milk Cows, fresh with calf by side, balance fresh soon. [illegible] 5 Spring Calves

8 - Head of Brood Sows - 8

Farm Machinery, Etc.

Deering Binder McCormick Mower. Hay Rake. Spader Disc. Round Wheel Disc. 2 Wagons. Top Buggy. Hay Rack. 4-section Harrow. 2 Corn Plows. 2½ Horse Power Gas Engine 2-hole Corn Sheller. Pump Jack. 2 sets back-pad Harness Single Harness. Sharples Cream Separator.

75 to 80 Chickens. All Household Goods.

Terms: $10 00 and under, Cash, on all sums over that amount 10 months time will be given on approved notes bearing 8 per cent interest. No property to be removed until settled for.

Henry M. Palmby

Cols. J. A. Young, and R. R Kester, Aucts. P. M. Griesemer, Clerk

Every Farmer

Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

USE THE NEWSPAPERS

Don't advertise on trees or rocks
Afar from haunts of men.
You cannot sell the woodchuck clocks
Or pictures for his den.

The squirrel may observe your sign
About your cure for chills,
And on it he may try to dine,
But that won't pay your bills.
The possum buys no breakfast foods,
We may as well confess.
So if you want to sell your goods
You'd better use the press.

—NEW YORK MAIL.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

By M. M. Magner.

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

Observations
By "Our Man About Town"

It always looks funny to us to see a fellow buy fifty cents worth of tobacco when he needs a hair cut much worse

Is the cigarette gaining in favor The Saturday Evening Post and Collier,s advertising pages would indicate as much

Young man; take that hat off yo right ear and balance it squarely o your head. Your acquaintances will like it better—as you will, yourself after you get used to it

A local sportsman tells us he went hunting last week—hired a livery rig shot away a dollars worth of ammunition, wasted a day s time and all he got was--back Then his wife took fifteen cents and ten minutes time and bought a couple of rabbits for supper

If I were in the retail business in this town or any other town, I d notice every customer as they came in, and whenever a child entered that child would have my earnest possible attention. There s [illegible] own go [illegible] gets it

If we were some of the bisiness [illegible] have to do something to [illegible] of callers No man, we think can harm by loafing, but he is injured his loafing place nevertheless Women do not like going into a place filled with men and especially if all of them are smoking as is generally the case The business man does not like loafing even though he may not have the courage to say so He appreciates a visit from anyone whether they buy or not—but there's a big difference between visiting and loafing.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Being an Eloquent Oration by Our Office Devil

Abraham Lincoln was a man and split rails. He also split up what states there was when he was, and then tied them together again tighter than ever

Abraham Lincoln wrote the Ex planation Procrastinat on He wrote lots more, too, but what I just said was the greatest what he ever wrote It meant that all negroe slaves didn t have to be slaves any more, and they ain't Nearly every negro man and boy has been named Lincoln since it done what I said

Abraham Lincoln wasn't a pretty man. I don't think any men are Only Abraham Lincoln was more so He was a good man, though, and got to be elected president All good men don't get elected president, and all presidents don't seem to have to be good men.

I don't want to be president of America, but I wish I could be president of a big base ball team.

That's all I know about Abraham Lincoln.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 8.—General Sherman born, 1820. Mary, Queen of Scots executed, 1587.

Tuesday, 9.—Harrison born, 1773.

Wednesday, 10.—Bread riot in New York, 1837.

Thursday, 11.—Mesmer announces Mesmerism, 1766.

Friday, 12.—Lincoln born, 1809.

Saturday, 13.—China becomes a Republic, 1912.

Sunday, 14.—Oregon admitted to union, 1829.

Farmers Have Golden Opportunity

The United States Department of Agriculture, the state boards and the experts all over the country are urging the farmers of America to cultivate every available acre during the coming year. The war in Europe assures the sale of almost everything that can be raised. Every article that is exported to feed the soldiers and the citizens and the stock of Europe means just that much less for home consumption, therefore, even with big crops of everything, the prices will be high If it is not a good crop year the farmer will at least raise enough for home use and will not have to pay the high prices that will prevail. Utilize every available acre for grain, grasses and vegetables In many sections farmers are urged to try a double acreage of potatoes. It should not be necessary, under proper conditions, to import potatoes into any agricultural country. Put the hens and the turkeys to work and give them a square deal Raise pigs, cattle and horses in as large numbers as the accommodations of the farm will justify and any losses that any farmer, planter or rancher may have sustained last year will be more than made good The war in Europe may last for months or years but when it ends there will be an active demand for everything we produce [illegible] the war end this week the nations engaged will need all our surpluses for a year at least Take our advice for once and do not put a good tillable acre to lie idle

FRIENDS OF LONG AGO

[illegible] days
[illegible]
We [illegible] Fields of
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible] and sang
[illegible]
[illegible] Sashes sped they on
[illegible]
[illegible] sled [illegible] the
[illegible]
[illegible] the tradesman's double
[illegible]
Away [illegible] from dreams of [illegible] spring
My letter box was stuffed and flowing over
[illegible] lessons [illegible] upon the floor.
[illegible] two ecstatic thrill
[illegible] as I read that Bill
[illegible] Jake Ned, Roy and Ruth and Joe [illegible] other friends of long ago
And [illegible] every one sat down to write
[illegible] old chair were they were that night
The Reverend Haskins boy, long-legged Joe,
[illegible] tango lessons now, at ten per throw
[illegible] the Mail the shrinking violet
[illegible] a window-smashing suffragette
While ragged Ned, who oft had [illegible]
His [illegible] up a million [illegible] wheat
Old Jake, who cracked my eye with fine effect
Now [illegible] me by telegraph—collect
And Cyd, who wore curls till he was eight,
Has just knocked out the champ, Young Kid McPhate.
And Roy, the smartest boy in town by far,
Now gathers nickles on a Broadway car
Poor Bill! I feared that he'd go wrong some day—
He's in the senate now,—perhaps to stay.
While Ruth, my sweetheart once,—excuse these grins—
Sends photos of her kids—and six are twins! E F McIntyre.

NOTICE

Just think of it! You can get three big monthly magazines with the Times, all one year, for only $1.25. Don't miss this bargain. Just remind us that you want three magazines when you renew your subscription.

Side-Step Danger

YOU may save three or four dollars now, by delaying buying that pair of good, warm, waterproof shoes, but the delay may later cost you twenty-five dollars in dope for colds.

This Is the Season

of the year when every man woman and child should be well shod. A wet or damp foot in summer may mean little, but it courts danger in the winter time.

If any member of your family is getting along with a shoe that leaks, come in and see our mammoth line of new footwear. I bought my stock before the advance in price and surely can save you money.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

[illegible] a healthy relish to the feed
Costs but a trifle [illegible] Let us prove to you that it will [illegible] If it [illegible] money back. 25 lb pail only $2.25 [illegible]

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

W. F. PAVEY
THE PRACTICAL BLACKSMITH

General Jobbing and Repairing In Iron

Horse Shoeing in all its branches. Carriage, Wagon and Plow Work a Specialty.

Corona Wool Fat For Sale. A Guarantee With Every Can.

DON'T FORGET

This store when you need anything in the line of Hardware and Farm Implements. Full line of Heaters, Cook Stoves and Ranges. The best makes in Farm Machinery. We also handle the best Paints, Oils and Varnish.

Groceries, Flour and Feed

Our prices are right. You are invited to call.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

WANTED!

ARTILLERY and CAVALRY HORSES

Cole&Morrison

The St. Louis Buyers

Will Be At

Clemme, Tues., Feb. 6

with Headquarters at the Feed Barn

Discription of Horses We Buy

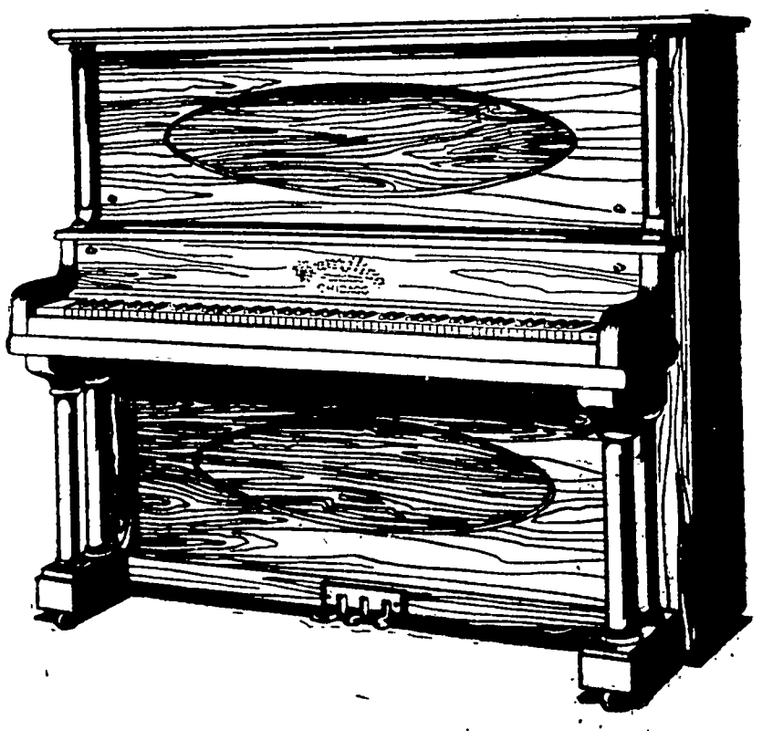
Artillery Horses: We will buy Horses or Mares from 5 to 9 years old, weighing from 1150 to 1400 pounds each, standing from 15 to 16 hands high. These horses must be thick made, with good bone, good eyes, good feet and good wind. A slight blemish will be no objection. We will buy any color except light greys. Dark greys and dapple greys will pass O. K.

Cavalry Horses We will buy Cavalry Horses from 5 to 9 yearrs old. They must weigh from 1000 to 1100 lbs each and from 15 to 16.3 hands high. These horses much be thick made, with good We do not want light slivers of horses.

Draft Horses We will also buy good draft chunks, weighing 1500 to 1700 pounds, and pay every dollar they are worth.

Cole & Morrison

Baldwin-Made Instruments



For Sale at Right Prices
and Reasonable Terms By

M. MAGNER

At The Times Offie

Special Prices During February

BELGIAN KONGO SAVAGES.

Cannibals In War Paint Whose Past Is Black Mystery.

In his book "Hunting and Hunted In the Belgian Kongo" Mr. R. D. Cooper speaks of the remarkable people who live in the forest wilds:

"Threading our way down the stony path, winding in and out among the trees, we began to walk the remaining few miles along the sandy shore to Butiaba. A slight breeze sprang up from the southwest, and very shortly the sun had kissed the Bulegga mountain peaks that rose thousands of feet sheer from the water's edge in the west.

"Gaunt forbidding sentinels of the Kongo! What strange people dwell behind you—the dwarfs and others, with their poisoned implements of war—cannibalism with all its attendant horrors—a people that cannot tell us of their past. The ages gone by are all a blank to them. These people are akin to the beasts of the forest, inasmuch as they care only for the present. They live for the present. The past is gone. No records have been written of them.

"The war paint of vermilion colored pigments which is smeared all over their bodies adds to the hideousness of these savages, darting from rock to rock, hiding behind trees, lying hidden in the foliage overhead, waging war with all. Tragedy follows tragedy behind those Bulegga mountains in the Kongo, to the south of which lie the snow capped crests of rugged Ruwenzori."

QUEER JOURNALISTIC FEAT.

It Hit the London Times and Boomed the Manchester Guardian.

Once there was an obscure subeditor of the Manchester Guardian in England. It was a long time ago, and the Guardian was scarcely known outside of its own city.

The subeditor had a habit of drinking ale until he was so drowsy that he could not lift his head from his desk. On one occasion the composing room was yelling for "copy," as the editorial page was absolutely vacant.

The subeditor had been asleep on his desk for hours and his pen had been idle. The foreman of the composing room finally succeeded in arousing the man and yelled in his ear that something must be done for copy.

Whereupon the sleepy one grabbed a pair of shears and clipped one whole column from the editorial page of the London Times. At the top he wrote in a crabbed hand:

"What does the London Times mean by the following?"

It was printed, column and all. That single quizzical introduction made the Manchester Guardian famous. People began to ask what the Times did mean by the editorial, which was on a rather revolutionary subject. The subeditor slept for several hours, but John E. Wilkie says his paper's greatness began from that moment.—Washington Star.

"Engaged Man's Panic."

"Engaged man's panic" is as familiar a phenomenon as the squawking of a captured chicken or the flopping of a hooked fish. And woman instinctively anticipates it, feels it before it actually begins, deals with it according to her abilities. No woman ever feels that this is a slur upon her. She knows that it does not involve her, but is only the nervousness of the free at the touch of the matrimonial bridle—and that bridle, as she knows and as he knows, is not in her hands, but in the hands of society. Even the man marrying for a home, even the man marrying for children or for money, even the man marrying because only by marriage can he hope to get some one to associate with him, bear with him, listen to him on terms of his own arranging—even these men feel the nervousness as the bridle drops over their heads and the bit presses their quivering lips.—From "Degarmo's Wife," by David Graham Phillips.

"Knotty" History.

Tying knots in a handkerchief to jog one's memory had its origin in China thousands of years ago. Before writing was invented in that country, which did not happen until 3000 B. C., memorable and important events were recorded by long knotted cords. The most ancient history of China is still preserved as told by these knots. When Emperor Tschang Ki invented writing the entire system of "knotting" was abandoned. And today the memory knots made by us in handkerchiefs are the only surviving descendants of that ancient custom.

Cooper's Hawk.

The almost universal prejudice against birds of prey is due to the activities of a few members of the hawk family, chief among which is the Cooper's hawk. Cooper's hawk usually approaches under cover and drops on unsuspecting victims, making great inroads on poultry yards and game coverts. This bird, together with its two near relations, the sharp shinned hawk and the goshawk, should be destroyed by every possible means.

He Wanted to Know.

"Charles," said the teacher, "do you know the causes of the Revolutionary war?"

Charles looked interestedly at his instructor and replied, as if carrying on a social conversation, "No, do you?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Amber.

Amber is believed by the Turks to be an infallible guard against the injurious effects of nicotine; hence its extensive use for mouthpieces of pipes

An Episode of Travel

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Marriage in Europe has always been brought about in different ways from those prevailing in America. With us the great bulk of the marriages are made for love; in Europe they are largely arranged by the parents. With us the bride is not expected to have a stated dowry; in Europe the amount must not only be fixed, but settled upon the bride before marriage. In America there are no marriage brokers, or, at least, there is no such institution; in Europe there are places, notably Geneva, where most of the marriages are brought about by this craft.

Jim Wilson, a young American, finding himself in a place where such was the prevailing custom, was much interested in it. Jim was one of those fellows who are not content with observing odd ways, but must try them. He went to a marriage broker and gave him an order for a wife. Not that he expected to marry; his purpose was to experience a case of wife negotiation. The broker told him that the man was expected to deposit sufficient money to pay all expenses; that when introduced to a lady, the object being matrimony, he might, after seeing her, withdraw, and she had the same privilege.

All classes availed themselves of the brokerage system, from the highest down to those who could not afford the expense. Jim was introduced to the daughter of a colonel in the army. He found a very ladylike and a very comely young person who received him, ignoring the purpose of the meeting entirely, but chatting with him frankly and with charming manner.

Jim could not understand how a girl of her refinement could depend upon a broker to find her a husband, and yet he knew that in the place where she lived such was considered about the only process by which girls could find husbands. He felt ashamed of himself for entering upon the matter since he had done so merely from curiosity.

Thinking that the best way out of the matter was to withdraw at once, he told his broker to say to the lady that he had decided that marriages between different nationalities were not likely to be happy and if he married he would mate with one of his own countrywomen. He had been told that it was the privilege of either party to withdraw and felt no compunction at doing so.

One day while walking in a park, where a military band was playing as people promenaded or sat about in groups, he came upon the young lady he had met for the purpose of gratifying his matrimonial curiosity sitting at a table with her father, who was sipping wine and smoking cigarettes. He expected to be recognized, if at all, with reserve, perhaps embarrassment. To his surprise she bowed to him with a smile. He did the proper thing by advancing and expressing himself charmed to meet her again. Her father, the colonel, rose, bowed very low and invited him to take a seat and partake of a liter of wine.

Jim was immensely pleased. After all, the matrimonial brokerage custom was not so bad. At any rate, here was a girl who had the good sense to consider the preliminaries in the light of a business transaction and not feel hurt that he had not proceeded in the affair. He chatted with her for some time, when her father took her away, giving him a cordial invitation to call upon them.

Jim was much pleased to make a pleasant acquaintance in this peculiar manner. When he reached home it would be one of the episodes of travel to tell his friends. He determined to accept the invitation for once at least and within a few days made the call. The lady, though as modest as before, seemed to feel a greater freedom that the matrimonial business was no longer between them. Contrary to European customs, he was left alone with her and when he departed felt that he had spent one of the most delightful evenings of his life.

Three weeks from that evening he left the lady again feeling that for him the bottom had dropped out of the universe. He had fallen desperately in love with the lady he had declined to marry and proposed to her. She had refused him, giving him to understand that she would not marry a foreigner and on no account an American.

If Mr. Wilson had any curiosity it was to know why she had received him cordially at first as a suitor and now that he was ready to complete what the broker had begun would not accept him. He knew that her father had nothing but his pay in the army and had felt certain that the marriage on that account alone might have been arranged. He concluded to go to the broker who had introduced him with a view to learning what had brought about the change. That person said to him:

"Monsieur, the lady could not be expected to meet with a refusal on your part to marry her. She has punished you for that."

"But," said Jim, "I thought you said that after one of your introductions either party is at liberty to withdraw."

"So I did, but this is the business part of it—a woman is privileged to take another view of it, and in this case mademoiselle was evidently offended."

Jim went back to America with a broken heart. He does not tell of his adventure as one of the episodes of his tour abroad.

"Good Morning" And "Sweetheart"

By SAMUEL E. BRANT

I had been running a locomotive for ten years, my runs always covering those hours when persons are free to mingle with one another sociably.

I was getting old—that is, what I thought was old in those days. I was thirty-four, and I didn't like the prospect before me. I'm a domestic man, and home is the only place for me when I'm not busy. I used to envy every snug cot I passed on my line, and my heart sank that I couldn't have one of my own. I had the money saved up, but if I got the home I had no woman to put into it, and what's a house without a woman? And, what's more, there's no use in a man's trying to make a home without a wife.

There was one place beside the road that I thought if I got a wife I would like to buy and fix it up to live in. It wasn't far from my starting point, and between runs I could spend my time there in comfort. Ever since I had gone on to the route it had been shut up. It was a two story cottage with a big porch. I thought how nice it would be to sit on the porch in summer and smoke my pipe while my wife was cleaning away things after getting supper.

But one morning when I passed the house I saw that my dream had been spoiled. Some one had taken my prospective home away from me. At any rate, a man was repairing it, another was painting it, and a third was mending the fence. A few days later when I went by I saw an old lady sitting on the porch.

One Sunday I saw a young woman fixing up the grounds. I concluded that she was the old lady's daughter and was at work in a store or an office, leaving Sunday her only day free for working about the house. When July came on she used to work about the place Saturday afternoons, but when September came she stopped this. I didn't see any man about the place and concluded the young woman was a spinster.

One day during the winter she was starting out from the house just as I was drawing near it. I didn't give her time to cross the track, for I wished to see her close by. When I reached her she was waiting for my train to pass, and I looked right down on her from the cab window. It happened that she looked up and saw an expression of admiration on my face. It was only a passing glimpse for either of us, but it was enough.

After that I saw the young woman quite often when I passed. I noticed that on my outward run on Sunday, when I passed her house about 11 o'clock, she was always on the porch with the old lady or working in the garden. But this was when the weather was warm. And I could see that she knew my train, and I fancied she was looking out for me.

When spring came on I noticed her out making a flower garden. When she had got the ground in order she put in some seed. In March the plants began to come up, and it looked to me as if they were going to make letters. And so they did. They were tulips and spelled "Good morning."

Now, there was no reason to suppose these words were intended for me any more than any one else, but somehow I couldn't get it out of my head that they were. At any rate, I just thought I'd risk making some sort of reply. There was an embankment not far from the house and in plain sight from it. One night I went out with some seeds and, making a bed on the side of this embankment, planted them. In a couple of weeks they were up and spelled "Sweetheart."

I took my train out one Sunday morning about the time my letter flowers got big enough to be read from the house. The girl was on the porch and as I passed threw me a kiss and ran into the house.

This was all the flower courting there was, for it was too slow. At any rate, it was too slow for me. I didn't want any more encouragement. The first spare time I had I got myself up in a clean boiled shirt and a decent suit of clothes and went to the house to get welcomed or snubbed, as the case might be, for there are girls who will be up to a lot of skylarking that won't stand to be approached except in the regular way.

The only weapon I took with me to make a fight with was a posy. I knew she was fond of flowers, and I relied on this considerably.

I went to the door and knocked. It was opened by the girl herself, and when she saw me she sort of shrieked and was going to shut it when I held my posy under her nose.

That did the business. She laughed and blushed and invited me in.

The old lady was there, and the girl introduced me to her, calling her mother. I began by saying a lot of nice things to the old lady, telling her what a cozy place she had and how often I had admired it.

Well, there isn't much more to tell. The rest of the courtship was very much like other courtships, all rather, although ours was, I think, a little more delightful than any other. At the end of it I moved my traps to the house, my wife stopped work, and now I have a run that lets me off at 4 p. m., and about 5 I go into the gate for the rest of the day. The click of the latch is the signal for a lot of little ones to come out and climb all over me.

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomachache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again.

Millions of mothers use "California Syrup of Figs," because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask at the store for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Trying to Forget

"Don't you remember me?"

She: "Why should I?"

"We were engaged to be married last summer at the beach."

"Yes, but don't you recollect you told me to forgive and forget you?"

SOFT WHITE HANDS

Under Most Conditions If You Use Cuticura. Trial Free.

The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal. Nothing better or more effective at any price than these fragrant supercreamy emollients. A one-night treatment will test them in the severest forms of red, rough, chapped and sore hands.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard: Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Simple Truth

The editor of a reporters: What do you mean by writing: "Among the prettiest girls at the dance was Captain Fitzhall"? The captain is a man, I presume.

Reporter: Yes, but he was among the prettiest girls there the whole time.

Tolstoy's Teachings

"If people would but understand that they are not the sons of some father landlord or other nor of governments but are sons of God, and can therefore neither be slaves nor enemies, one of another—those insane, unnecessary, worn-out, pernicious organizations called governments, together with their offerings, violations, humiliations and crimes which they occasion would cease." Leo Tolstoy.

Sentiment Jolted

Last night, the happiest I shared a few months ago, about to leave home for the daily office grind, I was placed a hand upon his arm.

"Harry, dear," she softly said, "haven't you a lock of my hair somewhere in your pocket?"

"I have indeed, sweetheart," was the prompt response of hubby as he affectionately embraced the sharer of his sorrows and joys. "I have it right here in the pocket close to my heart."

"That's fine, Harry," delightedly returned little wifey. "Won't you please take it and see if you can match me some puffs when you go downtown?"

Philadelphia Telegraph.

"I Eat Grape-Nuts the Year Round and it agrees with me" writes a doctor, "better than any breakfast food on the market - unless there is one I have not tried."

Grape-Nuts is scientifically prepared to agree with both strong and weak digestions. Long baking—about 20 hours—partially pre-digests the starch cells for quick, easy assimilation.

Besides, Grape-Nuts supplies, in concentrated form, all of the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the invaluable mineral elements often lacking in ordinary food.

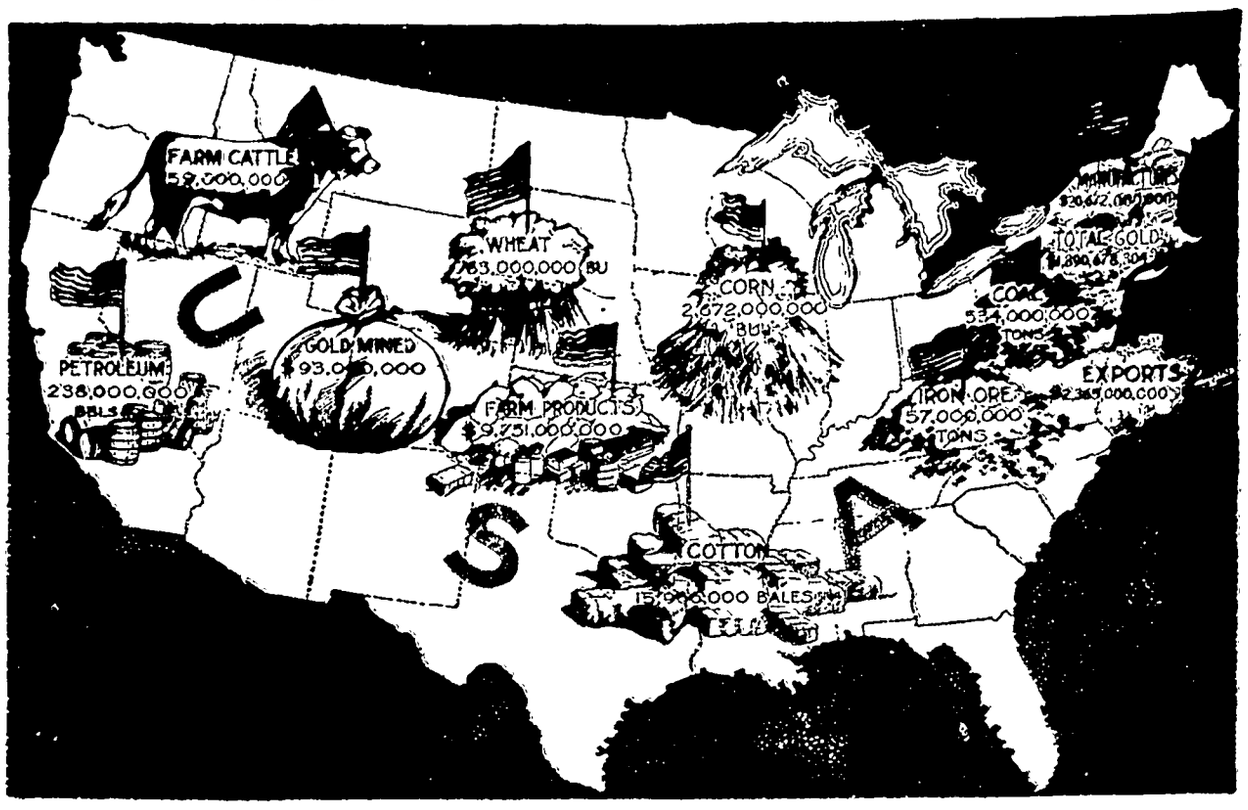
Wax-sealed—crisp—ready to eat—and economical.

"There's a Reason" for

Grape-Nuts

—sold by Grocers.

WE HAVE HAD ENOUGH WAR MAPS—HERE IS A "PEACE" MAP FOR 1915



The United States occupies only one-sixteenth of the globe and has only about one-fifteenth of its population. Yet we produce 68% of the world's corn, 63% of the world's petroleum, 61% of its cotton, 65% of its copper, 42% of its iron ore, 40% of its coal, 35% of its tobacco, 30% of its lead, silver, and live stock, and 20% of its gold, wheat, and timber. More than 23% of the world's stock of gold is in the United States. The figures in the above map are not the final figures, but they will be less, rather than more, than the country's output when the accurate statistics are compiled — S. W. Straus in The Investors Magazine.

COLD-WEATHER CARE OF THE SKIN.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Wind, grime and sudden changes of temperature work havoc with the skin in winter. One of the most common winter ailments is chapped lips, and many who suffer therefrom, especially young people, irritate the trouble further by biting off bits of the lacerated outer skin. This is a grave mistake. The sufferer should exercise self control. Remedies will fail of their purpose if the skin is not permitted to heal.

Here are two simple but effective pomades to rub on the lips three times a day after meals and on retiring:

Cocoa butter, 24 grammes; white wax, 4 grammes; essence of bergamot, 1 gramme; essence of white geranium, 1 gramme.

Place all the ingredients in a double boiler and allow the water in the lower vessel to simmer; not to boil too rapidly. When the wax and butter have melted turn the mixture into a bowl and beat until smooth, creamy and cold.

If camphor pomade is preferred, use this formula:

Expressed oil of almonds, 4 ounces; white wax, 1 drachm; spermaceti, 1 drachm; camphor, ½ drachms; oil of rosemary, 9 grains; oil of peppermint, 9 grains; rose water, 4 ounces.

Melt and mix as described above.

Cleanliness of the pores is an important preventive of chapping in either hands or face. When the delicate skin of the face is whipped and cut by sharp winds, germs settle along with the flying dust of oily grime and cause a variety of ailments.

The best safeguard against this condition is the use of cold cream and powder, combined, applying these before going out. Make your own cold cream and be assured that it contains no lanoline, for a cream with lanoline used in the quantity demanded to protect the skin in winter is liable to induce a growth of fine hairs on the face.

If you wish to make your own cream employ this formula:

Rose water, 4 ounces; almond oil, 4 ounces; spermaceti, 1 ounce; white wax, 1 ounce.

Orange flower water, lilac, violet or elder flower water can be substituted at pleasure for the rose water and the addition of one drachm of tincture of benzoin or half a drachm of salicylic acid will insure the cream from becoming rancid. It should always be put up in small open mouthed jars that can be tightly closed to exclude the air.

Work this cream into the pores until not a vestige of oil remains on the surface.

And bear in mind that when you are in good health, water will do much to prolong that happy condition. Drink hot water night and morning if you are too stout or have a tendency to headache or indigestion. Sip it very slowly and add lemon juice if you like the tartness. But if your digestion is good and you want to keep it that way, or if you are a trifle too thin, drink cool not iced, water a quart between each meal, a full glass on arising and another on retiring.

NOURISHING AND INEXPENSIVE SOUPS.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Salmon Soup.

Cut up one large potato and half a large onion into very small pieces, boil in one cupful of water. Add red pepper and a dash of Worcestershire sauce, and one quart of milk. Just as the milk comes to a boil add one cupful of salmon, flaked and two hard boiled eggs chopped fine. Serve with large soda crackers which have been buttered and set in the oven to heat.

Chicken Soup.

If you have boiled a fowl for salad or fricassee, take out three cupfuls of the water in which it was cooked. Put this in a porcelain pot and add to it three slices of carrots cut in cubes or dice, one stalk of celery cut in small pieces, half of an onion chopped finely, six pepper corns, a bay leaf. If the flavor is liked by the family and lastly two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped lean boiled ham. Let it all come to a boil gradually, simmer and then strain through a colander and add three tablespoonfuls of boiled rice. If this proves too rich, add a little water.

Tomato Bisque.

Strain the juice from a can of tomatoes and press the tomatoes through a colander. Boil in porcelain saucepan with a pinch of soda, add to it a tablespoonful of butter, and a scant half cupful of cracker crumbs or dry bread crumbs. At the same time, in another porcelain saucepan, boil one quart of milk, and when boiling vigorously turn into the tomatoes, stirring constantly until it thickens. Add salt and pepper to taste and serve with hot toasted crackers.

Scotch Broth.

Buy two pounds of mutton from the neck and add to it two quarts of water. Let it stand for an hour. Heat slowly and add half a cup of barley; let it boil and skim again, then simmer for an hour. Add to it half a cupful of chopped onions, half a cupful of chopped carrot, half a cupful of chopped turnips, half a cupful of celery which has been fried for five minutes in clean drippings. Then let the entire soup simmer for three hours. Season highly, thicken with a little flour, and serve with chopped parsley on the top.

FROCKS FOR THE DAUGHTER.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The newest models in girl's frocks are cleverly arranged one-piece dresses, the skirt made without a placket hole, the belt being large enough to slip on over the head and the waist which is fastened on the skirt being open from the neck to the belt line in front. Sometimes this front opening is arranged surplice fashion and sometimes it buttons quaintly right down the front.

The chief advantage of these frocks is that the little girl can don them and fasten them without assistance. They are also easy to wash and iron and have the great advantage that a one-piece dress always possesses. The waist of these frocks is long coming somewhat below the normal belt line. Sashes tied either on the front, side or the back are worn with them.

A few white frocks of this description that could be made at small expense at home or could be bought at a reasonable figure at this season will serve very nicely for dancing school and party wear now. Then when the freshness is gone they can be washed and used for every day afternoon dresses all summer.

The old fashioned challis dress for little girls has come back into fashion. And it is the old fashioned challis—small figure and quaint of design. These frocks are trimmed with colored ribbons and touches of lace at the sleeve and neck.

For school frocks the guimpe has come in again, but it is usually a guimpe that opens in the front, more like an old fashioned chemisette than anything else.

A frock made of plain blue serge or one of the small plaids or checks would be very serviceable now for school days and as spring days come it could do for an outdoor frock without a coat.

For girls between 10 and 15 there are many school frocks made of blue serge with long black satin sleeves for all the world like the frocks of grown ups.

For practical school wear there is nothing more suitable than the Russian blouse model made usually of dark blue serge and worn with a pique or lawn guimpe, hemisette.

Ute Widow Greets Dodge.

Letter to the New York Sun from Council Bluffs, Ia.

Fifty years ago Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, of Council Bluffs, and Ouray, the great peace chief of the Ute Indians in western Colorado, swore eternal friendship to each other. A few weeks ago this vow of friendship was renewed between the general, now past 80 years of age, and Chipeta, widow of Ouray and queen of the Ute tribe, when the two met by accident at Glenwood Springs, Colo., beside the same spring where the original friendship oath was sworn by the Indian and the white soldier.

"How," exclaimed Chipeta, extending her hand to the general. "You General Dodge, you Chief Ouray's friend. Me Chipeta, his squaw."

Then the dignified Chief McCook stepped forward with many "Hows" to shake the hand of the friend of the Utes. Afterward the three old persons sat in a corner of the hotel and renewed their friendships and the vows which had been binding on both sides for half a century.

Chipeta is now 93 years old, and except for a rheumatic pain now and then she looks as young as any other Indian squaw who has arrived at the 50-year mark. At the time of the making of the original pledge a third member of the party was Chief McCook, Chipeta's brother, and brotherinlaw of Ouray. And old McCook, wearing moccasins, a white man's shirt and suit of clothes, a collar, a derby hat and with hair hanging to his waist, was with his sister when she and General Dodge renewed their friendship.

General Dodge, who is commander for life of the army of the Tennessee, is the only major general of the civil war yet alive and is the only civil war corps commander living in this country. Chipeta is one of the oldest women in the country and she and her brother constitute the only link between the Utes of frontier days and the present half-civilized tribe of red men.

When General Dodge was placed in command of the United States troops in the district in which are now Kansas, Colorado and the other Rocky mountain states, about the only order issued to him by the commander in chief was to guard the few settlers in the country and prevent raids upon the wagon trains passing back and forth between the gold country and the towns along the Missouri river. In those years, the Utes, a mountain tribe, ranged from Pike's Peak to Great Salt lake, but the central village was at the medicinal hot springs now known as Glenwood Springs.

The Pie Goes On Forever.

From the New York Herald.

A New York manufacturer declares himself a bankrupt and informs the court that his financial embarrassment is due to a decline in the demand for pie. His inability to balance his liabilities with his assets is the pie-maker's own affair. Bankruptcy is not uncommon enough to be interesting. But when the pie-maker assures us that the public has lost its taste for pie that pie is no longer in favor and gives this as an excuse for his failure, we encounter something that is not common.

Pie we had believed was set upon a foundation as firm as the rock of ribbed terror.

Pie is an American institution. It is the one pastry that makes the whole country kin. Rich and poor, urban and rural, east and west know it, revere it, devour it. It graces mansion and hovel, bar, buffet, table and lunch counter. It is the dessert of millions in the course of its long and honorable career it has been the friend of the hungry and the mainstay of the harried. It has followed the flag, advanced with advancing frontiers, served in peace and in war, fed soldier and preacher, and oiled the wheels of commerce by casting its precious flavor upon the unappreciative palates of traveling salesmen. It has brought fortune to some, fame to others and added glory to the name of mother. It has proved a blessing and a benediction.

We can not believe, in short, that the bankrupt pie-maker has read the signs aright. His pies were wrong and he is wrong, and the fault lies not with the public.

Grand Duke Nicholas

From the World's Work.

At the age of 7 the Preobrazhensk regiment of St. Petersburg, shortly after the Russian-Japanese war, Sir Ian Hamilton was watching the great world arrive one after another. He himself was present as a distinguished British general. Of individualities and colorful Russian Grand Dukes, officers are a fine lot. But he said only ejaculated: "By Jove, what's that?" He pointed to a towering figure at least 6 feet 4 inches in height with close cropped black hair shot through with gray, short pointed and ke beard, been of extraordinary length of limb, but lean and graceful with exceptional ease and power of movement, a magnificent figure of a man. It was the Grand Duke Nikolas Nikolaievitch.

The grand duke now commander in chief of the armies of Russia, was born [illegible] after the Crimean war and was 58 last October. But he still radiates an impression of easy power and strength. His grandfather was the son of that Czar Nikolas I. whose physique was famous in Europe. When a mob gathered in the Sadovaya in those early days a story is still current of how the great czar drove to the scene got out of his carriage and strode out alone, gigantic and threatening, and with a single mighty roar produced a stunned silence through which he lectured the huddled crowd like a stern but just father and sent them away, tamed. His great-grandson inherits much of his physical power. Although the military career of the Grand Duke Nikolas has attracted little attention outside of Russia largely because he has concentrated whole heartedly on each phase as he met it, his supreme command is nevertheless the logical result of a consistent rise through all ranks not because but almost in spite of his imperial blood.

STARTING LATE IN LIFE

Men Use Wreck of One Temple for Materials to Build Another

Girard in Philadelphia Ledger.

Edison starting late in life to rebuild his works after a fire finds plenty of parallels in history.

Jay Cooke, caught in the maelstrom of a panic, lost a fortune. His resolution, backed by industry, paid every debt he owed and made another new fortune.

Sir Walter Scott in his old age, wrote some of his most famous novels to pay debts for which he was not legally responsible and he died fairly wealthy.

The best money maker of any book written by an American was partly dictated on his death bed by General Grant.

Mark Twain's experience was similar to Scott's and like him he refused to allow a burden of years to stop him. Twain wrote himself out of debt when an old man.

George Westinghouse "came back" with a rush after the 1907 panic had plunged his affairs into a state of disruption.

No, siree, one misfortune, however big, is not sufficient to drown the courage in men like Edison, Scott, Grant, Twain, Cooke, Westinghouse and scores of others who used the wreck of one temple for materials with which to build another.

The capacity to produce big things doesn't diminish with age nearly so much as is commonly supposed. The desire and the necessity may grow less in many instances but ability very often does not decrease with them.

George F. Baer was never an abler or more active railroad president than when he was three score and 10. His former associate, Samuel Rickson, at 77, is still as keen witted, industrious and busy as when in his prime he was helping to bring fame to the legend of "smart as a Philadelphia lawyer."

His 72 years do not prevent Christopher Stuart Patterson from presiding over the affairs of one of America's great savings banks, besides engaging actively in the management of a railroad and many other things.

Some of the most conspicuous generals in the present war are 60 or more. Lord Roberts died at the front when 82. I should say that if Mistress Necessity were to use the lash, Thomas E. Edison could create a couple of new fortunes.

What of the Night.

Master, what of the night?
Child, night is not at all
Anywhere fallen or to fall
Save in our star-stricken eyes,
Forth of our eyes it takes flight,
Look we but once nor before
Nor behind us, but straight on the skies,
Night is not then any more.

—Swinburne.

RAILWAY CONTROL DENIED BY MORGAN

Does Not Direct Half of Lines, But Would Like To, He Says—He Favors the "Open Shop."

New York Special: Witnesses called to testify recently in the inquiry being conducted here into the causes of industrial unrest by the federal commission on industrial relations were T. Costigan, attorney, who represents organizations in the Colorado coal fields; Jerome D. Greene, executive secretary of the Rockefeller foundation, and Wallace Butterick, executive secretary of the general education board.

At the inquiry yesterday J. P. Morgan made his first public appearance as spokesman for the Morgan financial interests. He was on the witness stand less than an hour, following John Mitchell, a member of the New York state workmen's compensation commission and former president of the United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Morgan denied a statement attributed to Sam Untermyer that two banking firms virtually controlled a large part of the railroads.

"We certainly do not control half of the roads?" Mr. Morgan asserted. "I should like to think that we did."

The witness confessed his lack of knowledge regarding labor in the corporations of which he is a director.

The officers of corporations, as executive officials, were responsible for labor conditions among the employes, Mr. Morgan said. He was in favor of the "open shop."

Philanthropic foundations had done considerable good, he believed.

THE NEWSPAPER THAT WINS PUBLIC APPROVAL

From a talk on "Reasonable Restrictions On the Freedom of the Press," given by Charles H. Grasty, formerly editor of the Baltimore Sun before the American Sociological association.

Only men thoroughly experienced in the workings of journalism can keep in the straight and narrow path when, according to the ordinary business view, there lies another and less difficult road to success. No business man ever yet succeeded in journalism without first forgetting all that he previously knew about business. In all dealings with advertisers there must be the strictest adherence to public standards. If he is entitled to the ordinary consideration of a business customer, his enjoyment of such consideration will establish precedents and analogies that logically lead to the utter destruction of the public character of journalism.

The paper that is dickering and swapping with the advertiser can never be on such terms with the reader as to make the advertiser's use of its columns profitable to him. The paper that puts commercialism first will never have a place in the family circle. The esteem and affection without which no newspaper can be a successful salesman are not bestowed on the newspaper that concerns itself chiefly about salesmanship. And the newspaper that barters away one iota of its independence loses no only its own soul but the whole world as well.

When I speak of public opinion I mean the common thought and common sense of most—and it is this which should give shape and direction to journalism. The editor of today does not go about his work with a consciousness of the laws of libel, but at all times he is sensible of the same forces that are maturing public judgment all around him. The newspaper that offends the prevailing sense of right and good taste inevitably suffers a loss of prestige and it is through the play of forces of this kind rather than the restrictions of constitutions and laws, that newspapers are held to their obligations.

The substantial assets of a newspaper are not physical—they are not presses, type and real property. The big figure on the credit side of the ledger is always the figure opposite "good will." Good will is accumulated public approval. The history of every successful paper will be found to lead back to an idealist, who clearly understood and unflinchingly carried out the public obligation on the part of the newspaper first, to print the news, and second to comment fairly on it.

In recent times men have had to bring to this work moral and intellectual qualities approaching genius. They had to be martyrs and heroes—men who were willing to deny themselves friends and humanly speaking many of the dearest things of life, in order to print the news without fear or favor. We should now be approaching a clearer common ground, where public opinion and journalism can meet eye to eye.

For the Thin Woman.

The thin woman is usually nervous and active, and nips her budding pounds before they have time to add the faintest suggestion of a curve to her figure. It is as important for her to learn to restrain her activity to put, as it were, a brake on her movements, and to observe stated periods of relaxation, as it is for Madam Embonpoint to exercise her fat away.

If only they could change prescriptions, what joy there would be! For the woman who weighs too much is prone to welcome an easy-chair and / lounging-robe with ecstasy, while the bony maid considers 10 minutes of opened-eyed repose an ingenious form of torture. Yet there can be no swapping of horses in crossing this stream.

The thin maid who really wants to add pounds of plumpness must register a solemn vow that she will observe a 10-minute "period of rest" at least twice a day. Neither is this to be any ordinary rest, say the Mother's Magazine. Every binding article of clothing is to be removed and, with the body clad in nothing more confining than a loose lounging-robe, she is to sink back in a chair, and let the energy actually ooze from every inch of her body. This is not so simple as it sounds. First the fingers should be made limp, then the wrists should relax as if they were dead weights, next the arms then feet, ankles, legs. Next the head should be allowed to drop heavily, to the side, front, other side; and finally, the whole body should be made as limp as the proverbial dishrag. Having attained this enviable condition, close the eyes, making the lids heavy, and rest quietly, without movement and with as little mental activity as possible. Ten minutes, morning and night, of this deliberate relaxation will lessen the body tension, and, therefore reduce the waste of energy.

A Gigantic Siphon.

From the National Magazine.

The conveying of the aqueduct under the Hudson river at Storm King and Break Neck was a wonderful piece of engineering. In order to strike solid and enduring rock, the great tube was bored from 1,000 to 1,400 feet under the river and up on the opposite side, thus creating a great siphon, the head of water 610 feet above the level of the sea in the Ashokan reservoir being sufficient to carry it up and over the grade. The head of water will be so great that no pipe would hold it, and it is necessary to lead it through an aqueduct built on the solid rock.

CANADA ONE WORLD PRO

Although [illegible] tional develop[illegible] the Buffalo Com[illegible]ly and late as [illegible] the United States [illegible] der way and ve[illegible] a marvelous expa[illegible] mining and manufactur[illegible]. The paper above men[illegible] that heretofore he [illegible] Canada, like that of the [illegible] has been reserved [illegible] country, the Dominion [illegible] territory to [illegible] regarded as [illegible] in which [illegible] there are [illegible] ment almost [illegible] making [illegible] the resources [illegible] to the Hudson [illegible] opened up when [illegible] der construction [illegible] Commercial further [illegible] those living toda[illegible] neighbor on the [illegible] powerful nation and a [illegible] cant industrial and [illegible] of the United States [illegible] retard, but it cannot [illegible] future. And in this expansion will more heartily [illegible] people of the United States [illegible] the prosperity of the [illegible] bound to increase [illegible].

Herein is the [illegible] the Dominion [illegible] extends an invitation [illegible] assist in developing [illegible] Canada possesses [illegible] mineral, forest [illegible] or agriculture. Upon [illegible] benefit and the United States [illegible] a gainer by having as a [illegible] country whose resources [illegible] and varied as are those of [illegible].

In comparing the United States along with other nations [illegible] in producing and exporting foodstuffs, the Agricultural Yearbook published by the United States Department of agriculture says:

The United States is [illegible] has been as large [illegible] imported foodstuffs as exporter [illegible] not be classed as a surplus country of foodstuffs. This is a popular impression. [illegible] is an exporter of [illegible] she is an equally large [illegible] other articles. In the case of tea and coffee are included foodstuffs. In edible grains the proportion is 23 per cent, [illegible] amount retained for consumption. In meats is six per cent; that is, exports of meat equal six per cent of that retained in the country for consumption. The proportion for dairy products is 20 per cent [illegible] than consumed. The proportion of poultry is just about equal to consumption, of vegetables one-half less.

An investigation of the production, imports and exports of the products of various countries shows that England produces about 45 per cent of her food requirements, imports (net) about 47 per cent; Belgium produces 57 per cent, imports 43 per cent; Germany produces 88 per cent, and imports 12 per cent; France produces 92 per cent, imports eight per cent; Australia produces 98 per cent and imports two per cent; Russia produces 97 per cent of her requirements and has an equivalent of about 10 per cent; Canada produces 23 per cent more than she consumes. Argentina produces 48 per cent more than she consumes; the United States produces practically no more than it consumes (i. e. exports and imports of foodstuffs almost balance).

With this information before the reader, it is not a difficult matter to direct attention to the fact that Canada stands in a pre-eminent position in the matter of grain and other production, and with a large area yet unoccupied she will always maintain it.—Advertisement.

Misfit.

Knick—Doesn't Jones fit in somewhere?

Bock—No; that man would be a square peg in a doughnut.

SAGE TEA DARKENS GRAY HAIR TO ANY SHADE.

Keep Your Locks Youthful, Glossy and Thick With Sage and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, nobody can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can get at any drug store the ready-to-use article called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully darkened, abundant and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and scalp has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though it may come with age, is a sign of old age, and as all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.—Adv.

A woman isn't necessarily [illegible] because she is set in her ways.

...AN'S ...ICKNESS

...d To Lydia E. ... Vegetable ...ound.

..."I want to thank you ... for the wonderful ...ood Lydia E. Pink... ...am's Vegetable Compound has done ...or me. I suffered ...ery much from a ...emale trouble. I ...ad bearing down ...pains, was irregular ...nd at times could ...ardly walk across ...he room. I was ...nable to do my ...ad to my baby I was ... Pinkham's Vegetable ...a world of good, and ...nd healthy, can do my ...y baby. I advise all ... to take it and get ...rs. FANNIE COOPER, ..., N.J.

...m's Vegetable Com... ...n native roots and ... narcotic or harmful ... holds the record of ... successful remedy for ...w of, and thousands ...monials on file in the ...y at Lynn, Mass., ... fact.

... it has been the stand... ...emale ills, and has re... ...of thousands of women ...oubled with such ail... ...ments, inflammation, ..., irregularities, etc.

...s special advice ... E. Pinkham Med... ...nfidential) Lynn, ...tter will be opened, ...wered by a woman ...trict confidence.

...ation ... Forever ...—Permanent Cure ...LITTLE ... never ... ... after ... cure, ...ove the complexion, brighten the eyes. ...LL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. ...genuine must bear Signature

Genuine Must Bear Signature

Carter's Little Liver Pills

...e to Say.

...e awfully cold outdoors, ...days it is"

..."

...er."—U. of I. Siren.

...EYS ACT BAD ... GLASS OF SALTS

... Kidneys Hurt or You ... for Bladder Misery ... Forms Uric Acid.

... woman who eats meat ... make a mistake by flush... ...kidneys occasionally, says a ...rn authority. Meat forms ...d which clogs the kidney pores ...sluggishly filter or strain only ...the waste and poisons from ...od, then you get sick. Nearly ...matism, headaches, liver trou... ...ness, constipation, dizzi... ...ness, bladder disorders ...sluggish kidneys.

...t you feel a dull ache in ... your back hurts, or if ... cloudy, offensive, full of ...regular of passage or at... ...cation of scalding, get ...ces of Jad Salts from ...harmacy and take a ... a glass of water be... ...or a few days and your ...en act fine This fa... ...made from the acid of ...n juice, combined with ...been used for genera... ...clogged kidneys and ...to activity, also to neu... ...s in urine so it no ...rritation, thus ending ...s.

...expensive and cannot ...a delightful effervesc... ...drink which all reg... ...s should take now and ...e kidneys clean and ... thereby avoiding se... ...mplications.—Adv.

...ge a la Mode.

...eir marriage be solem ...

... is financed."

...nt to Mothers

...efully every bottle of ...fe and sure remedy for ...ldren, and see that it

...A. H. Fletcher.

... 30 Years.

...or Fletcher's Castoria

... Reason.

...erk appears to be very ...work."

...because he's green."

...Granulated Eyelids, ...Eyes inflamed by expo... ...sure to Sun, Dust and Wind ...quickly relieved by Murine ...Eye Remedy. No Smarting, ...just Eye Comfort. At ...c per Bottle. Murine Eye ...For Book of the Eye Free ask ...e Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

CHAPTER XXIV.—(Continued).

More and more fascinated, I stared at him. What secret was safe, I asked myself, from this astonishing man? Or was he merely piecing together the whole story from such fragments as he knew?

"But even yet," I stammered, "I do not understand. We have opened the secret drawer of the cabinet—there was no poison. How could it have killed Drouet and Mr. Vantine?"

"Very simply," said M. Pigot coldly. "Death came to Drouet and M. Vantine because the maid of Madame la Duchesse mistook her left hand for her right. The drawer which contained the letters is at the left of the cabinet—see!" and he pressed the series of springs, caught the little handle, and pulled the door open. "You will notice that the letters are gone, for the drawer was opened by Madame la Duchesse herself in the presence of M. Lestaire, who very gallantly permitted her to resume possession of them. The drawer which Drouet and M. Vantine opened," and here his voice became a little strident under the stress of great emotion, "is on the right side of the cabinet, exactly opposite the other and opened by a similar combination. But there is one great difference. About the first drawer, there is nothing to harm any one; the other is guarded by the deadliest poison the world has ever known. Observe me, gentlemen!"

Impelled by an excitement so intense as to be almost painful, I had risen from my chair and drawn near to him. As he spoke, he bent above the desk and pressed three fingers along the right edge. There was a sharp click, and a section of the inlay fell outward, forming a handle, just as I had seen it do on the other side of the desk.

M. Pigot hesitated an instant—any man would have hesitated before that awful risk!—then, catching the handle firmly with his armoured hand, he drew it quickly out.

There was a sharp clash, as of steel on steel, and the drawer stood open.

CHAPTER XXV

THE MICHAELOVITCH DIAMONDS

M. Pigot, cool and imperturbable, held out to us, with a little smile, a hand showed not a quiver of emotion—his gauntleted hand, and I saw that on the back of it were two tiny depressions. At the bottom of each depression lay a drop of bright red liquid—blood red. I told myself, as I stared at it, fascinated. And what nerves of steel this man possessed! A sudden warmth of admiration for him glowed within me.

"That liquid, gentlemen," he said in his smooth voice, "is the most powerful poison ever distilled by man. Those two tiny drops would kill a score of people, and kill them instantly. Its odor betrays its origin"—and, indeed, the air was heavy with the scent of bitter almonds—"but the poison ornothing compared with this. This poison dinarily derived from that source is as is said to have been discovered by Remy, the remarkable man who brought about the death of the Duc d'Anjou. Its distillation was supposed to be one of the lost arts, but the secret was rediscovered by this man Crochard. No secret, indeed, is safe from him; criminal history, criminal memories—the mysteries and achievements of the great confederacy of crime which has existed for many centuries, and whose existence few persons even suspect—all this is to him an open book. It is this which renders him so formidable. No man can stand against him. Even the secret of this drawer was known to him, and he availed himself of it when need arose."

M. Pigot paused, his head bent in thought, and I seemed to be gazing with him down long avenues of crime, extending far into the past dismal avenues like those of Pere Lachaise, where tombs elbowed each other, where, at every step, one came face to face with a mystery, a secret or a tragedy. Only, here, the mysteries were all solved, the secrets all uncovered, the tragedies all understood. But only to the elect, to criminals really great, were these avenues open, to all others they were forbidden. Alone of living men, perhaps, Crochard was free to wander there unchallenged.

Some such vision as this, I say, passed before my eyes, and I had a feeling that M. Pigot shared in it; but after an instant, he turned back to the cabinet.

"Now, M. Simmon," he said briskly, in an altered voice, "if you will have the kindness to hold the drawer for a moment in this position, I will draw the serpent's fangs. There is not the slightest danger," he added, seeing that Simmonds very naturally hesitated.

Thus assured, Simmonds grasped the handle of the drawer, and held it open, while the Frenchman took from his pocket a tiny flask of crystal.

"A little farther," he said, and as Simmonds, with evident effort, drew the drawer out to its full length, a tiny two-tined prong pushed itself forward from underneath the cabinet. "There are the fangs," said M. Pigot. He held the mouth of the flask under first one and then the other, passing his other hand carefully behind and above them. "The poison is held in place by what we in French call attraction capillaire—I do not know the English; but I drive it out by introducing the air behind it—ah, you see!"

He stood erect and, held the flask up to the light. It was half full of the red liquid.

"Enough to decimate France," he said, screwed the stopped carefully into place, and put the flask in his pocket. "Release the drawer, if you please, monsieur," he added to Simmonds.

It sprang back into place on the instant the arabesqued handle snapping up with a little click.

"You will observe its ingenuity," said M. Pigot. "It is really most clever. For whenever the hand, struck by the poisoned fangs, loosened is hold on he drawer the drawer sprang shut as you see, and everything was as before—except that one man more had tasted death. Now I open it. The fangs fall again; they strike the gauntlet; but for that, they would pierce, the hand, but death no longer follows. By turning this button, I lock the spring, and the drawer remains open. The man who devised this mechanism was so proud of it that he described it in a secret memoir for the entertainment of the Grand Louis. There is a copy of that memior among the archives of the Bibliotheque Nationale; the original is owned by Crochard. It was he who connected that memior with this cabinet, who rediscovered the mechanism, rewound the spring, and renewed the poison. No doubt the stroke with the poisoned fangs, which he used to punish traitors, was the result of reading that memoir."

"This Croshar—or whatever his name is,—seems to be a 'strordinary feller," observed Grady, relighting his cigar.

"He is," agreed M. Pigot, quietly, "a most extraordinary man. But even he is not infallible; for, since the memoir made no mention of the other secret drawer—the one in which Madame la Duchesse concealed her love letters—Crochard knew nothing of it. It was that fact which defeated his combinations—a pure accident which he could not forsee. And now, gentlement, it shall be my pleasure to diplay before you some very beautiful brilliants."

Not until that instant had I thought of what the drawer contained; I had been too fascinated by the poisoned fangs and by the story told so quietly but so effectively by the French detective but now I perceived that the drawer was filled with little rolls of cotton, which had been pressed into it quite tightly.

M. Pigot removed the first of these unrolled it and spread it out upon the desk, and instantly we caught the glitter of diamonds—diamonds so large, so brilliant, so faultlessly white that I drew a deep breath of admiration. Even M. Pigot, evidently as he prided himself upon his imperturbability, could not look upon those gems wholly unmoved; a slow colour crept into his cheeks as he gazed down at them, and he picked up one or two of the larger ones to admire them more closely. Then he unfolded roll after roll, stopping from time to time for a look at the larger brilliants.

"These are from the famous necklace which the Grand Duke inherited from his grandmother," he said, calling our attention to a little pile of marvellous gems in one of the last packetz. "Crochard, of course, removed them from their settings—that was inevitable. He could melt down the settings and sell the gold; but not one of these brilliants would be marketable in Europe for many years. Each of them is a marked gem. Here in America, your police regulations are not so complete; but I fancy that, even here, he would have had difficulty in marketing this one," and he unfolded the last packet, and held up to the light a rose-diamond which seemed to me as large as a walnut, and aglow with lovely color.

"Perhaps you have stopped to admire the Mazarin diamond in the galerie d Apollon at the Louvre," said M. Pigot. "There is always a crowd about that case, and a special attendant is installed there to guard it, for it contains some articles of great value. But the Mazarin is not one of them, for it is not a diamond at all; it is paste—a paste facsimile of which this is the original. Oh, it is all quite honest," he added, as Grady snorted derisively. "Some years ago, the director of the Louvre needed a fund for the purchase of new paintings; needed also to clean and restore the old one. They decided that it was folly to keep 3,000,000 of francs imprisoned in a single gem, when their Michael Angelos and da Vincis and Murillos were encrusted with dirt and fading daily. So they sought a purchaser for the Mazarin they found one in the empress of Russia, who had a craze for precious stones, and who, at her death, left this remarkable collection to her favorite son, who had inherited her passion. A paste replica of the Mazarin was placed in the Loupvre for the crowds to admire, and every one soon forgot that it was not really the diamond. For myself, I think the directors acted most wisely. And now," he added with a gesture toward the glittering heaps, "what shall we do with all this?"

"There's only one thing to do," said Grady, awaking suddenly as from a trance, "and that's to get them in a safe deposit box as quick as possible. There's no police safe I'd trust with 'em! Why, they'd tempt the angel Gabriel!" and he drew a deep breath.

"Can we find a box of safe deposit at this hour of the night?" asked M. Pigot, glancing at his watch. "It is almost 1 o'clock and a half."

"That's easy in New York," said Grady. "We'll take 'em over to the Day and Night bank on Fifth avenue. It never closes. Wait till I get something to put 'em in."

He went out and came back presently with a small valise.

"This will do," he said. "Stow 'em away, and I'll call up the bank, and arrange for the box."

Simmonds and Pigot rolled up the packets carefully and placed them in the valise, while I sat watching them in a kind of daze. And I understood the temptation which would assail a man in the presence of so much beauty. It was not the value of the jewels which shook and dazzled me—I scarcely thought of that; it was their seductive brilliance, it was the thought that, if I possessed them, I might take them out at any hour of the day or night and run my fingers through them and watch them shimmer and quiver in the light.

"The Grand Duke Michael must have been considerably upset," remarked Simmonds, who, throughout all this scene, had lost no whit of his serenity of demeanor.

"He has been like a madman," said M. Pigot, smiling a little at Simmond's unemotional tone. "These jewels are a passion with him; he worships them; he never has parted with them, even for a day, where he goes, they have gone. In his most desperate need of money—and he has had such need many times—he has never sold one of his brilliants. On the contrary, whenever he has money or credit, and the opportunity comes to purchase a stone of unusual beauty, he cannot resist, even though his debts go unpaid. Since the loss of these stones, he has raved, he has cursed, he has beat his servants—one of them has died, in consequence. We are all a little mad on some one subject, I have heard it said; well, the Grand Duke Michael is very mad on the subject of diamonds."

"Why didn't he offer a reward for their return?" queried Simmonds.

"Oh, he did," said M. Pigot. "He offered immodiately his whole fortune for their return. But his fortune was not large enough to tempt Crochard, for the Grand Duke really has nothing but the income from his family estates, and you may well believe that he spends all of it. It will be a great joy to him that we have found them."

The thought flashed through my mind that doubtless M. Pigot was in the way of receiving a handsome present.

"There they are," said Simmonds, and closed the bag with a snap, as Grady came in again.

"I've arranged for the box," said Grady, "and one of our wagons is at the door. I thought we'd better not trust a taxi—might turn over or run into something, and we can't afford to take any chances—not this trip. Simmonds, you go along with Moosseer Piggott, and put an extra man on the seat with the driver. Maybe that Croshar might try to hold you up."

The same thought was in my own mind for Crochard must have learned of M. Pigot's arrival, and I could scarcely imagine that he would sit quietly by and permit the jewels to be taken away from him—to say nothing of his chagrin over his unfulfilled boast to Godfrey. So I was relieved that Grady was wise enough to take no risk.

"You'd better get a receipt," Grady went on, "and arrange that the valise is to be delivered only when you and Moosseer Piggott appear together. That will be satisfactory, moosseer?" he added, turning to the Frenchman.

"Entirely so, sir."

"Very well, then: I'll see you in the morning. I congratulate you on the find. It was certainly great work."

"I thank you, sir," replied M. Pigot, gravely. "Au revoir, monsieur," and with a bow to me, he followed Simmonds into the outer room.

Grady sat down and got out a fresh cigar.

"Well, Mr. Lester," he said, as he struck a match, "what do you think of these Frenchmen, anyway?"

"They're marvelous," I said. "Even yet I can't understand how he knew so much."

"Maybe he was just guessing at some of it," Grady suggested.

"I thought of that, but I don't believe anybody could guess so accurately. For instance, how did he know about those letters?"

"Fact is," broke in Grady, "that's the first I'd heard of 'em. What is that story?"

I told him the story briefly, carefully suppressing everything which would give him a clue to the identity of the veiled lady.

"There were certain details I added, "which I supposed were known to no one except myself and two other persons—and yet M. Pigot knew them. Then again, how did he know so certainly just how the mechanism worked? How did he know which roll of cotton contained that Mazarin diamond? You will remember he told us what was in that roll before he opened it."

Grady smiled good naturedly and a little patronizingly.

"That was the last roll wasn't it?" he demanded. "Since that big diamond hadn't shown up in any of the others, he knew it had to be in that roll. It was just one of the little plays for effect them Frenchies are so fond of."

"Perhaps you are right," I agreed. "But it seemed to me that he handled that mechanism as though he was familiar with it. Of course, he may have prepared himself by studying the drawings which no doubt accompany the secret memoir. He may even have had a working model made."

Grady nodded tolerantly.

"Them fellers go to a lot of trouble over little things like that," he said. "They like to slam their cards down on the table with a big hurrah, even when the cards ain't worth a damn."

He certainly held trumps this time, anyway," I commented. "And he played his hand superbly. He is an extraordinary man."

"And a great actor," Grady supplemented. "Them fellers always behave like they was on the stage, right in the spot light. It makes me a little tired, sometimes. Hello! Who's that?"

The front door had been flung open, there was an instant's colloquy with the desk sergeant, and Godfrey burst in upon us.

He cast a rapid glance at the Boule cabinet, at the secret drawer standing open, empty, and then his eyes rested upon Grady.

"So he got away with it, did he?" he inquired.

"Who in hell do you think you are?" shouted Grady, his face purple, "coming in here like this? Get out or I'll have you thrown out!"

"Oh, I'll go," retorted Godfrey coolly. "I've seen all I care to see. Only I'll tell you one thing Grady—you've signed your own death warrant tonight!"

"What do you mean by that?" Grady demanded, in a lower tone.

"I mean that you won't last an hour after the story of this night's work gets out."

Grady's color slowly faded as he met the burning and contemptuous gaze Godfrey turned upon him. As for me, an awful fear had gripped my heart.

"Do you mean to say it wasn't Piggott?" stammered Grady, at last.

Godfrey laughed scornfully.

"No, you blithering idiot!" he said. "It wasn't Pigot. It was Crochard himself!"

And he stalked out, slamming the door behind him.

(Continued next week.)

The Farmer's Opportunity.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

This is the farmer's day. It only remains for him to make the most of it. The demand for food stuffs is his opportunity.

There is sound economic reason for the present high levels of prices of wheat and other grains. The various official investigations set on foot will scarcely be able to blink the facts that support the markets. Speculation there is, no doubt, and this may have some temporary influence on prices one way or the other. But the upward trend of the past few months has been caused by the steady depletion of our surpluses to feed combatants and noncombatants in Europe.

If the allies batter open the way through the Dardanelles, it will let out some Russian wheat, no doubt. Argentina's crop is also to be reckoned with. There are other factors that may influence the situation one way or the other. He who speculates must take his chances on these factors. But nothing can prevent the farmers from receiving high prices for what grain they have remaining, nor should anything prevent it. The farmer is entitled to his day.

What of the future? Doubtless, a huge acreage of wheat and corn will be planted by the time the seed is all in. This is the natural effect of high price levels, and is to be expected.

But what about live stock? Here is a wonderful opportunity for sound, profitable farming.

Eight years ago there were 51,000,000 cattle in this country, valued at almost $900,000,000. A year ago we had less than 39,000,000 cattle, but their value had increased $1,250,000,000. Despite the growth of population, our beef supply goes down and its value goes up. J. Ogden Armour is right when he says:

"There is no problem before this nation today more important than the rehabilitation of the beef industry. The farmer must receive practical encouragement to put the beef cattle back on his lands and to conduct his business in such a way that the cattle and agricultural branches will balance so that there will be an ample object in the success of each."

Cattle and hogs, balanced against the great agricultural crops—that is the true opportunity of the sagacious farmer.

Involuntary Chivalry.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

Wife—Ah! The days of chivalry are passed.

Husband—What is the matter now?

Wife—Why, Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over, but you get angry simply because poor, dear mother sat down on your hat!

The torpedoes used in the British navy are of three diameters—14 inch, 18 inch and 21 inch—and they vary in length from 16 feet to 18 feet. As soon as a torpedo hits its mark it explodes automatically. Every torpedo fired in action represents an expenditure of from $3,000 to $4,000.

KING GEORGE PAYS VISIT TO SIR JOHN

England Didn't Even Know Boss of the Army Was at Home.

London Special Correspondence of the Associated Press. Again unknown to the British public, Sir John French, commander in chief of the British forces in France and Belgium, has paid another flying visit to London, conferred with the king and the war council and returned to the front without a word of his trip appearing in the newspapers. Contrary to precedent the king called on Sir John at his residence, 90 Lancaster gate instead of Sir John going to Buckingham palace.

Sir John crossed the channel and reached London Tuesday morning, January 12. Dressed in a brown suit and a derby, no one recognized him either on the train from the coast or when he stepped from a motor car in front of his house. His first caller was Premier Asquith, who remained about an hour. The premier was followed by Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty and he by Lord George.

It was dark when the king arrived by motor. No one knew of his coming and there was no crowd to greet him. It is doubtful even whether Sir John's butler for the moment recognized the distinguished visitor.

For more than an hour the king remained with Sir John in a conference in which the two participated.

The king's departure was an unostentatious as his coming.

Next day Sir John took the train from Charing Cross station for Dover. There he boarded a cruiser for Calais. To guard against mines or sudden attack, a destroyer preceded the cruiser and at each side of her steamed a battleship.

SNAPPY SAYINGS FROM YOUTH'S COMPANION

Wild oats will take out of your soil what no system of crop rotation can ever put back.

The best way to make sure of your job is to stop feeling sure of it.

It is bad enough to be a doddering old man but it is worse to be a doddering young one.

Your needy friend may some day be a friend indeed.

What a man is depends largely on what he does when he has nothing to do.

A housekeeper is known by the trumperish she keeps.

The ostrich hides its head in the sand not only fails to hide itself, but it also gets sand into its eyes.

To run after sorrow you must lose a long way behind.

Look for the leaks in your cash account. They are the little foxes that spoil the vines.

Poor Salesmanship.

From the Omaha Bee.

Did you ever hear such a remark as this: "I've gone into that store for the last time. I've been in there two or three times and each time I go in with my mind made up as to what I want and come away with exactly the thing I don't want."

The answer is that some clerk more zealous to make a sale than to please has messed things up very badly for his establishment by inducing or persuading this patron to buy an article which he did not want. Most any skillful clerk is eloquent enough to do such a thing if he sets his head to it. But the clerk who appreciates the indispensable value to his store of a satisfied customer will hesitate to use his powers in that way. While it is strictly the business of the clerk to make the best possible immediate sale it is a larger part of his business to build up and hold trade, and that is not done by cunningly forcing a patron to choose between two articles the very one he especially objects to, even though the margin of profit be wider on the other.

Salesmanship is something of an inexact science, as successful merchants and salesmen, of course, realize, and the more of the sound theories that get into practice over the counter the better for both the man behind the counter and the one behind him. No store can have a more valuable asset than a satisfied customer.

Bred in the Bone.

From the Youth's Companion.

That the Irishman's tendency to make bulls is inborn is well illustrated by the following anecdote:

Five-year-old Pat's mother was telling her small son the story of herself and her twin sister.

"One morning when we were a week old the nurse was bathing us, and she took the blue ribbon off of Della's wrist and the pink ribbon off of Stella's wrist. When she was ready to put them on again she could not remember which one of us was Della and which was Stella so she took us in to mother; but mother could not tell, either, and no one ever did know whether or not we had our right names. Then, when we were 7 years old, one of us died, and nobody knows whether it was Della or Stella."

Little Pat burst into an agony of tears, and sobbed out, "I just know it was my own mother that died when she was 7 years old!"

Mysteries.

Twenty bad men in the bar one night,
Each one shoving his foot on the rail;
None of them sober and most of them tight,
Everyone cussing to kick up a fight,
Each one a devil and swinging his tail;
Most of them dead when the scrap was done—
Nobody knew how the row begun!

A squally day and a celluloid boat,
Launched on a river of gasoline;
"As freaky a craft as was ever afloat,"
The captain swore in his husky throat,
"With her firebox next to her magazine,"
He lighted his pipe and tossed his match—
Now how could the conflagration catch?

Generals, admirals, emperors, kings,
And babes from the cradle trained to kill;
Davids swinging Goliath slings,
Navies filled with eagle wings,
Nations of armies, life a drill,
Courtiers cunning in wild excuse—
What a surprise when the war broke loose!

—Edmund Vance Cooke, in Munsey's Magazine.

The province of Almeria lies in the southernmost part of Spain bordering on the Mediterranean sea. It comprises 3,360 square miles, and in 1909 had a population of 359,013. Almeria, with a population of over 50,000, is its capital and principal seaport.

The Mexican Indians derived from their ancestors, the Aztecs, the method of making the poison of Talavatchi. It is a subtle drug, the constituents of which are not known. The peculiar effect of the poison is to destroy the mind, while only slightly affecting the body.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH BOWELS

No sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

The Requirement.

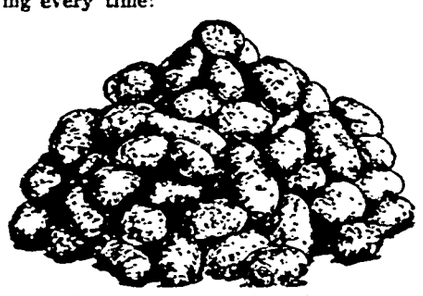
There are many methods of punishing naughty children"

Yes, but spanking takes the palm"

A RICH MAN'S ROMANCE.

Would you believe it, the ordinary Potato has made Henry Schroeder, a poor emigrant boy, the Rich Potato King of the Red River Valley and wound around him a romance which every ambitious farmer boy will want to read in Salzer's Seed Catalog.

Among Mr. Schroeder's strong statements are "In years of Potato plenty, plant plenty Potatoes!" Or, in other words, when Potatoes are plenty and cheap in Fall and Winter, plant plenty Potatoes the following Spring, and look for 70, 80, 90c Potatoes in Summer and Fall. Good common sense advises that. Worth following every time!



Ten bushels enough seed to plant an acre of Schroeder's Famous Ohio—that great Potato—good in early Summer, good in Winter, good in Fall, good all the year around—the 10 bushels blood blue seed stock cost but $15.00. Order now of us. Headquarters for Alfalfa.

For 10c in Postage

We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder;" Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, etc., etc.

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their big catalog.

Only a foolish man will kick himself when he is down.

For the treatment of colds, sore throat, etc., Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops give sure relief.—5c at all good Druggists.

Some men have brains but never know when to use them.

The General Says:

Why accept a doubtful guarantee on roofing when you can get one signed by the largest manufacturer of roofing and building papers in the world, with a saving in cost in the long run?

Certain-teed

Roofing

is guaranteed in writing 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply, and 15 years for 3-ply, and the responsibility of our big mills stands behind this guarantee. Its quality is the highest and its price the most reasonable. For sale by dealers everywhere.

General Roofing Mfg. Company

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Seattle, London, Hamburg, Sydney

CLOVER BEST ON EARTH

Wisconsin grown seed recognized the world over as hardiest, most vigorous. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE. John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

WANTED to hear from owner of good farm for sale. Send description and price. Northwestern Business Agency, Dept. A, Minneapolis, Minn.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 7-1915.

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 36 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Over 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHUEMATISM AND HEART
MASON CITY IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

CORRECTION

Cole & Morrison's ad on inside page should be dated February 16th instead of February 6th.

F J. Wenck was a Forest City visitor, Thursday.

John Kline of North Dakota is here visiting friends.

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale. Mrs G O Miner

Look up Wm. Bredlow & Sons Short Horn sale ad in this issue.

Pure Bred Hampshire Boar for sale at right price. G O. Miner.

Dick Swalve and John Henschen left for Chicago. Tuesday evening.

Pure cleaned timothy seed for sale. Wm Baack

Cecil Bradfield of Dows, visited his sister, Mrs. M M Magner, Monday.

County Sheriff A. E Baumgartner was here on business Tuesday

FOR SALE—1 good young milk cow and five steers H J Bailey.

P M Griesemer left Tuesday for an extended business trip at Mason City

Paul Grange went to Ruthven for a few days visit with parents and friends.

Joe Johnson Dick Swalve and W. P. Brown shipped stock Tuesday evening.

A Kirkwood & Son are putting a new steel ceiling in their restraunt building

The Wm Bachman sale was well attended and everything brought good prices.

Miss Alma Lau left this week for Strawberry Point, where she has secured a position.

Little Miss Wilma Barrows was quite sick the first of the week but is improving nicely.

Henry Ludeke and Chas. Stiehl were Belmond visitors, Tuesday returning Wednesday

Mr Gus Thaves, Germania's successful "movie" man was here on business Thursday

Dr R W Shultz Osteopathic Physician of Garner, made a professional call here Thursday.

FOR SALE—3 Red Bulls ready for service in the spring, $65. to $75. Gibbs Bros

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place. Chas. F. Busch

I am now ready to do all kinds of violin repairing and organ cleaning. 4td H. F. Ludeke.

Mrs. John Josten is in Chicago selecting her spring stock of millinery and also getting a competent trimmer.

Dr L G Herbert, lecturer, the next number of the lecture course will be here on Monday, February, 22nd.

Mr and Mrs Ed. Yahnke of Buffalo Center were down a couple of days this week visiting relatives and friends

Marion Elder was a Garner visitor, Tuesday, going up principally to see Grandma Upton who recently broke her elbow

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate —J. P. Larsen & Sons

E A Yahnke of Windom, Minnesota was here a couple of days this week visiting relatives and renewing old acquaintances

W M Kirkwood of Ringsted, came from Mason City, Thursday, where he had been attending the State Grain Dealers Convention

Mr. and Mrs. C L Bluner returned Friday from New Knoxville, Ohio, where they have been visiting at the home of her parents for some time

Harry Behringer of Eagle Grove, who is now a brakeman on the C. & N. W. Ry. arrived recently for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Behringer.

FOR SALE—5 h.p. Stickney gas engine with clutch pulley, on old truck. It is practically new and is guaranteed for 10 years. $130 cash or bankable note. Karl Kraus.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kneer who have been staying at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. D. Barrows for some time, departed Tvesday for Minneapolis, where they expect to make their home.

Willard Gorton, the last number on the lecture course failed to appear last Friday on account of the trains being annuled and will fill his date later on. One more number will be added to the course.

Mrs. C. F. Beier is in the Twin Cities visiting her parents, and purchasing a millinery stock. Mrs. Beier and Miss Hulda Johnson will open up a millinery parlor in the old postoffice building about March 1st.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefullness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia.

When you want it you get it. When you don't want it you don't get it, and don't you forget it at the North elevator.
Yours for business,
Grain, Coal and Live Stock,
A. C. Lau & Son.

Business is good, bull sales will continue until March 1st at the same prices but will raise after March 1st. We now average one sale a day, Take our advice and buy a bull while the sale is on and save money.
Gibbs Bros.

FOR SALE—One 1914 Ford Touring car fully guaranteed, one pair of mules 3 years old in May, 9 mule-foot hogs, 6 barrows and 3 sows, weight about 100 lbs each. Must sell at once. Cal. Newman,
Phone 106. Klemme, Iowa.

F J Granzow was here Tuesday evening and gave his three hours instruction to the band Unusual interest is being taken in this orginization and a few of the "old timers are coming back They are playing a good grade of standard music and it is an assured fact that our band will in time be as good as any amateur band in this part of the country.

I have a splendid, improved level half section 3 miles from Barton that I can sell at $30. per acre. It's a bargain Why pay $200. per acre land when you can get this good North Dakota farm at $30. per acre? It is bound to more than double in price quickly and will make you a fine home and a good profit. Write for particulars, address C. H. Gillmore, Barton, N. Dak.

GOODELL

The Frank Quiggley baby and the Henry Christensen baby are both on the sick list. Dr. J. E. Marek is in attendance.

M. L. Grover left for his home in Lealand, Illinois Tuesday, after spending several days with friends here.

There will be a "hard times" dance here, February 11, also a valentine social at the Doty home, Friday evening.

John Raph, Harold Neilson, Herman Wenzel and Albert Schlichting were at Belmond, Tuesday.

Kenneth Robbins went to Havelock, Wednesday to visit his sister.

Our creamery will reopen on February, 15. Mr. E. P. Conway having rented it himself,

Miss Mae Conway and Mr. Lloyd Cline were married at the home of the bride's parents in Belmond, on Wednesday. Rev. E. J. Doty from here officiating This young couple have a great many friends here who wish them a happy wedded life. They will start housekeeping on the Cline farm west of town.

AVERY CENTER

Martha and Henrietta Meinderts returned to their home, Tuesday, after a visit with relatives at Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

L. J. Brugman was a Belmond visitor, Tuesday.

When attempting to step from a high granary door, Monday morning, Monte Atherton slipped, fell and broke his thumb. He is getting along well at present.

Mrs. H. Idhe returned, Thursday, from her Postville visit.

Tonsy Knipp returned from his visit with relatives at Peoria, Ill., Saturday.

Mrs. W. L. Sheerwood and Maude and Nellie Griggs were called to Hampton on business the latter part of the week.

Despite the stormy weather Wm. Brooks had a very successful sale last Friday.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kearney who has been quite sick is reported better.

Adrain Beulefelt was a Meservey caller, Friday.

Thos. Nelson and family were Sunday visitors at the Helps home.

ELL CENTER

Miss Nettie Flint of Ellington Twp. was visiting last week with her sister, Mrs. James Gilbert.

Chris Anderson's sale was well attended considering the condition of the roads.

George Lowhorn has been suffering with a swelled head or rather a gathering in his ear.

Several of the schools were closed at noon Friday, being forewarned of an approaching blizzard.

Elsie Henschen was unable to get home from school Friday on account of the storm. She stayed at the Wittenberg home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yohn drove up to Madison Center. Saturday to visit at the home of Mrs. Yohn's parents and to help them celebrate their thirty fifth wedding anniversary.

PANTHER AND BEAR.

A Vicious Battle to the Death With a Thrilling Climax.

"When my grandfather was a young man he used to hunt a great deal," says a writer in the American Magazine. "He had a brother living in Montana, and in the fall of 1858 he decided to go and spend the winter with this brother and hunt. One day his brother was telling about a large cave in the mountains where some panthers lived. He thought it would be a good chance to try to get one. So one morning a few days later he started out to find the cave. When he came in sight of it he didn't see any stir, so kept creeping closer.

"He finally came to a path; there seemed to be a lot of different tracks. He began looking for a place to hide and finally discovered a ledge and climbed up and sat down to rest. Suddenly he heard a sound of cracking brush. He got his rifle up ready when down the path came an old bear and three cubs, the little cubs were playing like kittens. The old bear walked up to the cave, sniffed a few times and went in. In a few minutes she came out with a little panther, killed it and gave it to the cubs. She repeated this three times, and every one she killed would scream and the old panther would answer away off in the woods, and each time nearer

"After she had killed them all she cuffed the cubs and sent them up a tree. Then she began digging a hole in the ground and sniffing the air In a few minutes the old panther screamed and it seemed just a little distance away. The old bear lay down on her back in the hole she had dug. She was ready for fight. The panther came straight for the bear She gave one leap and struck on the bear There was a fierce struggle, with screaming and snarling, and in less than ten minutes the bear was torn to fragments. The panther walked into the cave and came right out again and gave a scream that was bloodcurdling. Just then she saw the cubs. She gave a leap and brought one down and killed it, and went after the rest and killed them

"She sniffed the air again and began coming toward my grandfather, who had been watching from the ledge above. He raised his rifle, took good aim and fired.

"That was the last he knew until he became conscious again, for he fainted as soon as he shot, but the panther was dead—he had hit her between the eyes.

"He didn't wait to pick up his lunch box, but went fast for home.

"He often says that is the most game he ever got with one bullet, but he wouldn't want to see it all over again."

Falling Up Out of a Balloon.

If a man falls out of a rising aeroplane or balloon he will not go toward the earth, but will continue rising into the air for an appreciable time. If the air machine were stopped in its ascent at the time it could catch the man as he came down. If the airship were ascending at the rate of thirty two feet a second the man would rise sixteen feet before beginning to fall toward the earth. Thus, by reducing the speed of its ascent, the vessel might keep by the side of the man and rescue him.

The reason why the man rises is the same as the reason for a bullet's rising when shot from a gun into the air—both the man and the bullet are given a velocity upward, and it takes some time for gravity to negative that velocity.—Glasgow News.

His Definition.

A Liverpool teacher asked her class to write an essay on London.

Later she was surprised to read the following in one attempt:

"The people of London are noted for their stupidity."

The young author was asked how he got that idea.

"Please, miss," was the reply, "it says in the textbook, 'The population of London is very dense.'"—London Answers.

London's Old Cathedral.

St. Paul's cathedral of London has had a strange association with fire. The first edifice on the present site was erected in 610 by Ethelbert, king of Kent, but in 1087 this was destroyed by fire. Finally in 1666, when the great fire devastated most of London, St. Paul's was wrecked, this being its fifth fire. In 1675 the present church was built by Charles II. at a cost of more than $7,500,000.

"Corpse Coins."

"Corpse coins" are treasured in the north of England. They are the coins that have lain over the eyes of their dead. By this means infection has been spread, but superstition causes the custom to continue. A poor collier or peasant would never think of doing anything important unless he had on his person coins that have been upon the eyes of his dead relatives.—Westminster Gazette.

Egotistical.

"You sometimes disagree with these scientific experts?"

"Not at all," replied the serene egotist. "Notwithstanding the fact that I have thought a matter out to a sound conclusion they frequently insist on disagreeing with me."—Washington Star.

Beginning February 6th

You will find some splendid values in

Winter Blankets at Prices that will Surprise You at the General Merchandise Store of

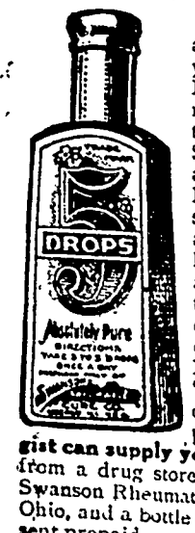
J. N. DAY

KLEMME DRAY LINE
C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR
A share of your patronage is solicited.
All work attended to promptly and carefully.
Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS GIVEN QUICK RELIEF



Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use Don't delay Demand "5-Drops" Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Newark Ohio, and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent prepaid

Daily Good.

We are too apt to underrate the moral quality of a man's regular vocation, his daily task, his business to look somewhere apart from this for his opportunity for achieving character and doing good. But there is nothing else that is so determinative of a man's character, nothing else that so furnishes hands for his beneficence and feet to run his errands of good will.—John W. Chadwick.

Thatched Huts Are of the Past.

The disappearance of the picturesque roofs of Samoan huts is attributed to the increasing wealth of the natives and the partial destruction by insects of the wild sugar cane used for thatch. Corrugated iron is taking the place of the old material.

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find lovelier and more satisfying Europe.

Don't miss the biggest event in a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited" is a most transcontinental train, providing every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agt.

We Print Calling Cards

...cessive Newspaper
...Most Progressive
...Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

...IX. NUMBER 24 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1915. | $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

...hen You Select This Bank

...banking business with, you can feel assured of ... and faithful service in every department.
Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

...is proof of the success of this policy.

Don't you see strong, healthy men taken down with ...ckness every day?

...this a lesson to teach YOU to have MONEY ... in our bank so you can tide through your ...

...d you DIE would you leave your family helpless.

...your money it is your DUTY.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

...pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

...tate Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

...ital $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
...plus $15,000.00

Can you beat it?

...p Those Sick Kidneys

...times have you had your work, your sleep, or your leisure ...errupted by recurring pains in the region of the kidneys?

...ever experience anything more unpleasant and annoying?

...obably neglected it too—let yourself believe it wasn't serious ... it in a day or two. When the kidneys give you warning of ... them in every way—help them ... wards off Bright's disease, dropsy, uric acid ... matter they advance ... Foley Kidney Pills are strengthening. See that they are ... and it won't be many days until you are ... enjoying your rest and leisure hours. It's ... for you.

All you need do is take

...l's Stone Root Compound

...s a wealth of wisdom in that assertion—this preparation is ... most prompt and effective preparations we have and we are ... that it will do as represented. Make us prove it. If we ... your money refunded; 50c and $1.00 the bottle.

...ver a good drug store ought to have—and many things that ...ug stores don't keep—you'll find here. Come to us first and ...t what you want.

...gist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

...CIAN SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

Photographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

...Your Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

FUTURITY

Items Taken from the Times Files Not Yet In Existence

F. H. Ridder, at one time a local machinist and auto dealer arrived from Detroit, Tuesday, for a short stay. He is now general manager of the Ford Motor Co. with a salary of $35,000. He reports the Ford business very rushing and Old Henry expects to dispose of 650,000 cars this season. The new Ford eight cylinder is certainly there, and that car alone should make a record breaking sale.

H. D. Barrows is being spoken of as the new manager of the local league ball team this year. Harry has had considerable experience and used to be one of the fast players twenty years ago. "Bally" Kluckhohn who has been leading the team and has given very good satisfaction has resigned on account of an over dose of flesh and will go to Hot Springs to take treatment.

President Gilmore of the Federal League and President Weegham of the Chicago club in the Federal League were in town, Tuesday interviewing local magnates and lovers of baseball and endeavoring to induce them to put a team in the Federal's. It looks like we are getting to be too large to stay in the Western,

Ambassador to Sweden, Hon. Aug. Arvidson, and Ambassador to Denmark, Hon. Martin Jensen arrived from Europe, Monday, to visit relatives and renew old acquaintances. They will attend a conference at Washington, D. C. before returning to their official duties.

"Fatty" Kluckhohn has been offered the management of the Chicago White Sox but will stick to his post as traveling salesman for the Gruetzmacher Bros. wholesale hardware.

Financial Statement of the Independent School District of Klemme

Klemme, Iowa, February 17, 1915.

TEACHERS' FUND

Bal. on hand last report		$ 659.58
Rec'd from County Treas.		2,206.00
Rec'd from Tuition		233.50
Total		$3,099.08

Items of Expenditure

Paid Teachers salaries	$2,160.00
For Library Books and Tuition Returned	11.13	2,171.13
Balance on hand		$ 927.95

CONTINGENT FUND

Balance on hand		$ 13 30
Rec'd from County Treas.		1,740.00
Rec'd sale of Books		83.71
Interest on moneys		21.65
Old Iron		1.50
Total Rec'd		$1,860.20

Paid Out

For Furnace	$412.50
Janitor Salary	250 00
Coal and Kindling	228.33
Books	120.50
Maps	30.10
Secretary and Treasurer Salary	50.00
Lumber for Out House	65.25
All other expense	143.12	$1,303.80
Balance on hand		$ 556.40

Estimated expenditure for the coming year:

Teachers' Fund	$2,300.00
Contingent Fund	$700.00

Lew Lewis,
Secretary,

For nomination papers for director, call on the secretary.

THE "JITNEY" INVASION

All that is required to be a transportation magnate now is to own a Ford car. In nearly all of the large and many of the small cities the "jitney" bus is cutting into the profits of the street car companies and making owners of the autos rich. When it was at first suggested that owners of machines could make any money carrying passengers for a five cent fare it was thought to be impossible, A few, wiser than the rest, started "jitney" lines with their machines. It has been demonstrated in San Francisco that the owner of a car can clear from six to ten dollars a day by carrying passengers at the "jitney" rate. In most of the cities these busses follow the routes of the regular street cars and are making trips on regular schedules. A "jitney" by the way, is a nickle,—five cents.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Chicago, Ill.—The department that caused the most comment at the fashion show that opened here this week was the one devoted to smoking apparel for women. Although the Blackstone, Chicago's most exclusive hotel, has permitted women to smoke in the public dining halls for several months, but two or three women have made use of the privilege.

Chicago, Ill.—When "Ben" Rosenstein died here recently it was discovered that "he" was a woman and had been married for several years. "His" wife was at the bedside when "he" died. The two young women had "married" so that the "husband" could do a man's work and make more money.

Petrograd. Russia—During the half year since vodka has been prohibited in Russia more than 1800 secret distilleries have been discovered. Many of them have been refining shellac and converting methylated spirits into alcoholic beverages.

Oxford, N. Y.—The only woman civil war veteran, Mrs. Robert S. Brownell, died here a few days ago. She enlisted in the First Rhode Island Battery of volunteers and saw active service for nearly three years.

Post, Tex.—This town has the most complete cotton factory in the world. The cotton is taken from the farmers' wagons, ginned, spun, woven into cloth and made into sheets and pillow cases in the one factory.

Vernon, Pa.—Spontaneous combustion in a piece of dried cheese set fire to a house here recently. The cheese had become dry on a shelf and the fire was discovered in time to save the house.

Winsted, Conn.—Miss Elizabeth M. Kilbourn, the first woman in the world to take a stich on a sewing machine, died here recently at the age of 86.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

FOUR GREAT HEROES.

Their Fall From the Giddy Heights of Ambition and Power.

History records that Alexander the Great, who was the pupil of Aristotle at fourteen, and who reigned over the Macedonians at sixteen, while his father was absent, and who succeeded Philip when he was nineteen, after climbing the heights of his ambition, fell from his lofty eminence. Alexander, with his temples bound in chaplets dipped in the blood of countless nations, looked down upon a conquered world and wept that there was not another one for him to conquer, then set a city on fire and died amid scenes of debauch!

Hannibal, one of the greatest soldiers who ever lived, after having passed the Alps, to the amazement of Rome, and having successfully fought and conquered the armies of the mistress of the world, stripping three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of her slaughtered warriors, fled from his country. He died by poison administered by his own hand, unlamented, in a foreign land.

Caesar, victorious on a thousand battlefields and a ruler, has had few equals and probably no superiors. After conquering 800 cities and dyeing his hands in the blood of millions of his enemies, after having pursued to death the only rival he had, was assassinated by those whom he considered to be his best friends.

Bonaparte, the greatest general of modern times, after having filled the earth with the terror of his name deluged it with tears and blood and clothed the world, as it were in sable cloth, ended his days in banishment upon a lonely island in the South Atlantic.

Another Way to Get Even.

"I want to sue Dr. Blank for heavy damages" said the angry citizen entering the lawyer's office.

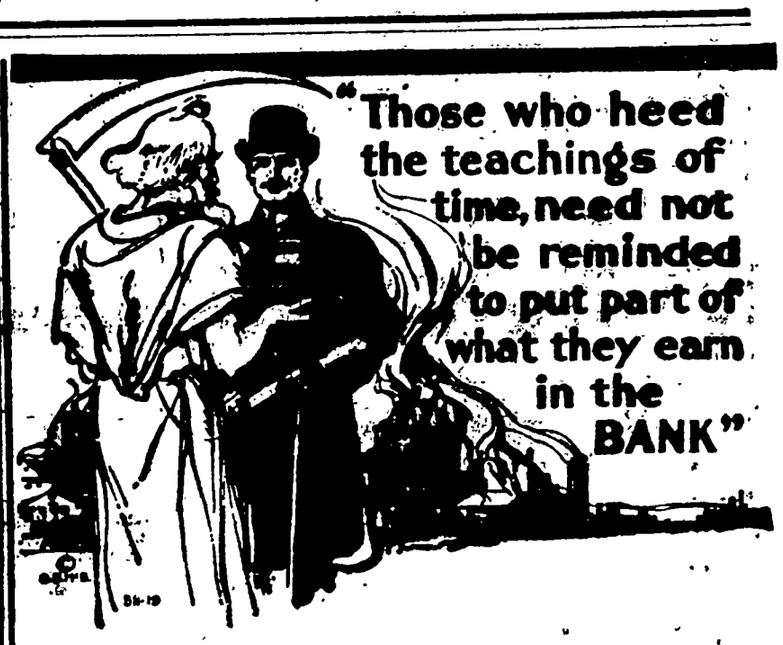
"What has he done?" asked the attorney.

"When he operated on me he left a pair of surgical scissors in me. How much can I sue him for?"

"Oh, don't sue him at all," recommended the lawyer; "just send him a bill for storage."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Strange Works to Him.

The hostess asked the solid man of her guest list to take a talkative young woman in to dinner. The girl did her best to keep up the conversation, ranging from Wall street to the crops and back. Only once did the solid man desert the unfailing affirmative, and that was when she asked, "Do you like Beethoven's works?" "Never visited them," he replied. "What does he manufacture?"—Argonaut.



¶ The foundation of many a prosperous and paying enterprise has been the hard earned savings of a poor but determined boy.

¶ You can establish a useful banking connection with us and we urge you to come in and get acquainted. Give us a chance to know you. Make this your Bank, it is here to serve your best interests always and cheerfully. One dollar will start you.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath,
Shingles,
Posts, Sash,
Doors, Blinds,
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Kansas Buys Liberally of Iowa's Corn Crop

Grain merchants in Kansas City and dealers throughout the state of Kansas are buying corn liberally from Iowa. It is being estimated that Kansas will have to buy on an average of three thousand cars or about 100,000 bushels of corn daily from outside cities in order to carry through the live stock of the state. It is estimated that their purchases for corn will amount to $95,000 a day every day for six months. Kansas was unusually hard hit by drouth last year the corn crop being estimated at only about twenty-five million bushels as compared to 174,235,000 in 1913. In fact they produced less corn last year than has ever been known since 1871. There was a very light crop in 1901 which was a dry year the total that year amounting to 42,605,000 bushels.

Success In Iowa

A brief comparative study of the statistics as put out by the Iowa Department of Agriculture or the United States Department of Agriculture will show that the products of the Iowa farm out [illegible] of any other state.

Iowa is not considered a sheep state and yet in 1913 the sheep in Iowa were worth twice over the entire Oregon apple crop of 1913.

Success In Iowa

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

In the ancestral home of the family of Sir Francis Drake the famous drum of the great English sea fighter is still preserved. This drum beat the signals of Drake's flagship when he sacrificed the Spanish armada and tradition says that he commanded that it be sounded, after his death, whenever danger threatened Great Britain. Twice has it been thus beat, says the legend—once when the Dutch swept the English channel, and once when Napoleon threatened invasion. Will the drum again be sounded in the present war? is a question that some of the admiral's countrymen are asking

The Pelican Petroleum gusher 170 miles from Edmonton Alberta has given off an average of 4,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily for the last 16 years Attempts made to cap it have proved futile the enormous pressure blowing off all valves Indians occasionally camp in the neighborhood, and as the gas seeps through the ground they merely heap a pile of stones over some crevice, touch a match to it, and cook their food on this improvised heater

In memory of the countless cats which have been slaughtered since the invention of the samisen, or three-stringed Japanese guitar, which has catskin as one of its principal materials, a number of Japanese philanthropists have caused a tomb in the form of a cats statue to be erected in Tokio.

The hammer used at the sale of German prize ships in London was the same as that used in 1805 when the enemy's ships seized were sold At the close of the sale the auctioneer presented the hammer to the marshall of the admiralty, H W Lovell A gold lettered inscription on the hammer recalled the Crimean war

The late John Alvah Blaisdell of East Lebanon Me lived on his farm without a human companion for more than 40 years but had at times 18 or 20 cats He read every newspaper he could get and is said to have read every book in the East Rochester library and some of them three or four times

Amos Perkins, of Penobscot Me is the third generation of Perkinses to occupy his home which is 106 years old The chimney which is three feet in each dimension, is built of bricks which were made by hand on a neighboring farm Among the relics of the owner is an old flintlock gun captured from the English 100 years ago

Daniel Sapp of Gardenville Md. after losing many bees because of the appetite of bee martins placed a large hornets nest over the hives The next time the bee martins came for its breakfast in keeping at the bees it nosed the hornets out and as a result was attacked and killed by the angry insects

The National Civic federation has instituted inquiries into the methods in foreign countries of insuring wage earners against misfortune and as a result the social service department of the federation is considering the desirability of recommending legislation to provide for compulsory insurance for illness

A witty barrister says an English paper who did not object to a joke at his own expense was asked on returning from circuit, how he had got on Well,' was the reply I saved the lives of two or three prisoners Then you defended them for murder' 'No,' was the rejoinder I prosecuted them for it'

The late John Alvah Blaisdell of East Lebanon Me lived on his farm without a human companion for more than 40 years but had at times 18 or 20 cats He read every newspaper he could get and is said to have read every book in the East Rochester library and some of them three or four times

Amos Perkins, of Penobscot Me is the third generation of Perkinses to occupy his home which is 106 years old The chimney which is three feet in each dimension, is built of bricks which were made by hand on a neighboring farm Among the relics of the owner is an old flintlock gun captured from the English 100 years ago

Daniel Sapp of Gardenville Md. after losing many bees because of the appetite of bee martins placed a large hornets nest over the hives The next time the bee martins came for its breakfast in keeping at the bees it nosed the hornets out and as a result was attacked and killed by the angry insects

The National Civic federation has instituted inquiries into the methods in foreign countries of insuring wage earners against misfortune and as a result the social service department of the federation is considering the desirability of recommending legislation to provide for compulsory insurance for illness

A witty barrister says an English paper who did not object to a joke at his own expense was asked on returning from circuit, how he had got on Well,' was the reply I saved the lives of two or three prisoners Then you defended them for murder' 'No,' was the rejoinder I prosecuted them for it'

The Los Angeles bureau of markets established last year at a cost to it met the approval of householders to such an extent that 50,000 people on market days come with their own baskets to carry their purchases home

Greece is practically without home industries says consular report and because of the cutbacks of war any first class American article of Yankee manufacture could be sold there now if properly brought to the attention of buyers

Pot toes cabbage cauliflower celery lettuce carrots and turnips of an quality are extensively grown in Yukon territory Canada Potatoes are the principal crop yet big yields of cabbage a pound

Arthur Warhill of Skowhegan Me is said to have the largest lilac tree in the country It measures 15 around the circumference more than 75 feet straight and the branches spread a space of

The heart of the average human is about one three thousandth part of a pound of electricity it gives out and in the instrument so sensitive enough to register it has been myste

After extensive tests doctors in New York have decided that the benefit to be derived from injections of cocaine which it grows by one ounce of cocaine to a pound

To compete with the automobile the street railway system of Los Angeles has been formed which will place motor buses and jitneys cars to travel over the city within a year

Motion pictures of insects in flight show that they regulate their speed by changing the rate of motion of their wings rather than by altering the rapidity of the motion

The lakes of oil on the west coast of Africa prove death traps to the birds which alight on them under the impression that it is water The birds cannot escape

For sorting fruit as it is picked from the tree there has been invented a tube that separates the steam from the large as they slide down it

Rhodesia in the first six months last year produced gold worth about $1,500,000 more than in the corresponding period in 1915

Mukden Manchuria is to have a water works system to cost $1,000,000 to be controlled by a Chinese private corporation

A British beef extract company will develop a tract of 500,000 acres of land north of the Transvaal for cattle raising

Under German patent laws an inventor is obliged to develop his patent within three years or suffer annulment.

The population of French Indo-China is about 20,000,000, of whom 20,000 are Europeans, chiefly French

The finest of Japanese so-called "rice" cigaret paper is made from the trimmings of flax and hemp.

A clock built by a California electrician plays a different tune on a series of pipes for every hour

IOWA EDITORS WILL ORGANIZE INTO NEW STATE ASSOCIATION

At Largely Attended Session Decision Made to Revive Former System.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 13 Revival of the Iowa State Editorial association on a firmer basis than ever before, to exist independently of the district associations and to occupy a large place in the determination of newspaper affairs of the state, was assured by the enthusiastic reception given the proposals offered by Bernard Murphy of the Vinton Eagle He addressed the joint meeting of the four editorial associations of Iowa at the Elks' club yesterday afternoon on the subject, "How Can We Make Our Editorial Association Better?"

Immediately following his speech a motion was put and carried for the appointment of committees to draw up plans for the formation of a state association to nominate its officers and report their work to the business session that met this morning

According to the oldest representatives of the newspaper business in Iowa yesterday's meeting was the largest ever held in the state Almost 150 editors registered with the secretary O E Hull, of Leon who declared that he had attended all meetings for many years back and that this meeting doubled the largest previous gathering of this nature and was by far the best meeting ever held in Iowa

FORMER PSYCHOLOGIST SENT TO INSANE ASYLUM

Iowa City Ia Feb 13 A message from Chicago to university of Iowa authorities announced the confinement in the Chester hospital for the insane by Judge O'Connor of the Chicago circuit court of Luther F Widen, formerly an assistant instructor in the psychology department here Widen was a campus figure in his school days at Iowa two years ago because of his many and varied eccentricities

He was first arrested in Chicago for passing bogus checks and when confronted with the charge declared that he did it deliberately in an effort to be lodged in jail so as to continue his studies in penology When told he was to be confined in the hospital for the insane he manifested great interest and expressed the hope that he would be permitted to remain there for some time so as to study insanity in all its aspects

SALOON PETITION NAMES STILL UNDER COURT GRILL

Des Moines Ia Feb 13 —Thirty witnesses were examined yesterday in the trial of the saloon consent petition The witnesses all were called by the temperance side and nearly all for the purpose of stating whether they had signed the petition Most of them denied that they had done so

Chief of Police Crawford testified that his son T L Crawford was residing with him on an acreage north of the city when he signed the document The son admitted signing it

The case was interrupted somewhat in the forenoon when two attorneys for the wets went to the city hall to argue for a stay for the saloons J D. Wallingford was left in charge however and the case proceeded

FARMER NEED NOT PAY LOSSES TO "BUCKET SHOP"

Shenandoah Ia Feb 13 The local board of trade was put in the class of a 'bucket shop' when after an hour and a half deliberation the jury in the suit brought by Charles Replogle, agent for the Updike Commission company against H Norton for $3,000 yet due on a deal made through the board brought in a verdict favoring Norton The deal made by Mr Norton a Page county farmer is not binding the court decided

This is the first of a number of suits that sprung from trades made through the local board which has been discounted Evidence showed that Mr Norton had placed a sum on wheat for May delivery and was caught for a loss of about $3,000 by the raising market He refused to pay the sum to Mr Replogle hence the suit

FORMER COFFIN GUARDIAN NOW IS ADMINISTRATOR

Fort Dodge Ia Feb 13 The formality of dissolving the guardianship of the late L S Coffin now is before the district court C V Findlay has been guardian and he will step out of that position He also has been appointed temporary administrator of Mr Coffins estate which is valued at more than $100,000 He left about $78,000 in bequests of promissory notes but after his death

Mrs J J Rutledge his only daughter will contest the will when it comes up for probate March 27 By the terms of the will she is to divide equally the bulk of the estate remaining after other bequests are paid the Y W C A. here to receive the other half If she fails to break the will she will get nothing

SAMPSON STORE, ODEBOLT, IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Odebolt Ia Feb 12 The William Sampson general merchandise store here was damaged by fire Wednesday evening just as the store force was about to close up for the night The fire started in the basement and followed the elevator shaft to the first and second floors Merchandise in all parts of the store was badly damaged by the fire and there was a large amount of additional damage from smoke and water The stock is valued at $20,000 and the loss is fully covered by insurance Mr Sampson is the pioneer merchant of Odebolt, commencing business here in 1878 The local fire department did effective work in handling the blaze

FORMER LE MARS RESIDENT TAKES MINNESOTA BRIDE

Worthington Minn Feb 13.—Harry S Clarke a resident of LeMars, Ia., up to four years ago, was united in marriage here Wednesday to Miss Jennie Rust The bride is a niece of H Rust, county treasurer, and has lived in Worthington for the past year Mr Clarke's present home is at Kinbrae, Minn where he located about four years ago

STEER FALLS FROM TRAIN; NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

Logan, Ia Feb 12 -An eastbound stock train, running at top speed, lost a big steer between Logan and Woodbine, when the side door of the car jarred open The steer, after performing a series of acrobatic stunts, picked itself up, minus one horn, and walked to the F C. Hodges yards, on the Plumer farm, where it is reported as quitely chewing its cud Railroad men assert that the accident is without a parallel The drifted snow along the track may account for the steer escaping serious injury.

GRAIN DEALERS HOLD MEET AT DES MOINES NEXT; NEW OFFICERS

Clifford Thorne Says Inroads on Trust Control So Far Are Imaginary.

Mason City, Ia. Feb. 13.—At the business session last evening of the Farmers' Grain Dealers' association, Des Moines was selected as the place for the 1916 convention Sioux City was included among the bidders for the next convention, but made no strong fight for it The new officers elected are President Ira D Vickers Eagle Grove, vice president, B Hathaway Kingsley secretary W J Ray, Colo treasurer G M Dyer Gillett Grove

The independent manufacturer and shopkeeper rapidly giving way to the sway of the corporation is marking an epoch in the industrial history of the human race according to Clifford Thorne chairman of the Iowa state railroad commission, in an address last night before the convention He urged that in this transaction human rights should be safeguarded

"We have been led to the belief,' said Mr Thorne "that a substantial step had been taken toward the protection of the public against big business whereas we find that precisely the opposite has been accomplished We have taken a substantial step toward the protection, not of the public against the trust but a protection of the trust against the public Attorney General Hadley made a national reputation by destroying the Standard Oil trust in Missouri and driving it out of the state But the Standard has been there ever since Monett drove the Standard out of Ohio but she has been there ever since They drove the Standard out of Texas, but she has been there ever since

Just Slap On Wrist.

Discussing the change he said was at present working out in the industrial world Mr Thorne said

What are we accomplishing today of any practical value along these lines' One day I was coming home from Washington, D. C., and I chanced to meet on the train the general attorney of one of the largest corporations in the United States, a company commonly known as a part of a trust dominating one of the important industries of the nation I asked this gentleman what he thought of the trade commission bill and the anti-trust legislation recently passed by our national congress. His reply may astound you He said "Thorne that anti-trust legislation is a godsend to us Then in explanation of this amazing declaration, he continued "I helped to prepare those laws. Let me show you how different things will be Today I am on the anxious seat constantly worrying about some employe or agent, that may violate the laws in his zeal to help the company I am watching cautioning and warning them daily If some fellow makes a slip we are yanked up before some court or jury and somebody is liable to a large fine or possible imprisonment It makes us too careful When these new laws become operative all these things will be changed I can sit back in my office chair in peace and safety If some person claims we are violating the law that fellow is called up before a commissioner The limelight is turned on the accused If he is wrong, the commissioner says 'Go hence' and that ends that fellow If he is right the commissioner whacks me gently on the wrist with his pencil and says 'Now don't you do that again Oh that law is a peach it's a godsend

DIES IN ASYLUM FROM WORRIES OVER DOG BITE

Ida Grove Ia Feb 13 E W Volz a well know citizen of Arthur in the eastern part of this county, died at the hospital for the insane at Cherokee yesterday and the remains will be brought to this city for interment Volz was a painter and decorator and had followed that line for a number of years in Arthur About two years ago he was bitten by a pet dog of the family and the animal was afterwards killed while apparently in a spell of the rabies This preyed on Volz' mind and about a year ago he told his family that he was going to southern Illinois to visit relatives He never reached the town for which he started and his wife began making inquiries. Through the aid of the police in Chicago he was located in an asylum for the insane at Kewanee having been picked up in Chicago by the police As there was no identification papers on his person and he could not give his residence he was sent to the asylum

After several weeks Mrs Volz succeeded in having him removed to Cherokee in the hope of having his reason restored He never rallied mentally and his physical decline had been marked during the past few months

ANIMAL HEALTH BOARD DEFENDS ITS ACTIONS

Cedar Rapids Ia Feb 13 The Iowa health commission came to a vigorous defense of itself and its methods in connection with the hoof and mouth disease before the state convention of veterinarians at the commercial club here, and attempted to explain away much of the opposition that has been made Dr J I Gibson state veterinarian whose resignation has been demanded by irate farmers' protective associations held the floor during a good part of last evening Dr J B. Paxton federal inspector in charge of the disease in Iowa, and Dr N S. Mayo, secretary of the American Veterinarian Medical association, also defended the stand taken by the state authorities Many veterinarians are here for the convention

RELIEF COMMISSIONER SENDS THANKS TO IOWA

Des Moines, Ia Feb 13 -D S Chamberlain has received the following cablegram from H C Hoover former Iowa man who is at the head of the International Belgian relief commission

"London, Feb. 6 1915, L C O., D S Chamberlain, Des Moines To Iowa through you, the people of Belgium send their grateful thanks for the suffering from which you have saved them The generosity of Iowa has brought happiness to thousands of desolate people and preserved countless innocent women and children from the hands of desperate hunger Belgium still cries aloud to the neutral world for the bare existence which she is now denied Can Iowa in the fullness of a great heart give still more and avert the horror of famine"

Hoover
"Chairman Commission for Relief"

STRIEF IN ARGUMENT FOR FREE TEXT BOOKS

Des Moines, Ia Feb 11 J H Strief, of Sioux City, president of the State Federation of Labor, appeared before the senate committee on schools yesterday afternoon in behalf of the Beam free text book bill C W Gibson, a representative of railroad employes also spoke for the measure

Letters from residents of states where free text books are provided were read by Mr Strief to refute arguments that free text books are a burden to the people the pupils

URGES CO-OPERATIVE SELLING AS PLAN TO HELP FARM PROBLEM

Investigator Says Time Coming When Producers Will Control All Distribution.

Mason City, Ia., Feb 12.—Co-operative selling of grain and methods by which farmers' elevator companies can be increased in efficiency were discussed here today before the Farmers' Grain Dealers' association of Iowa by W H Kerr, an investigator of markets and business practice attached to the office of markets and rural organization of the federal department of agriculture

"The co-operative selling of grain is in its infancy," he said "The time will come when practically all of the grain raised by the producers will be marketed by organizations owned, controlled and operated by the producers. The most important question that confronts us today is that of bringing the efficiency of these organizations to the highest possible point

"This involves determination of the relation of cash prices of wheat to further quotations and especially a study of the benefits of hedging" he said "It is necessary to make a comparison of the various grading and inspection methods in use to determine their relative efficiency and economical marketing"

According to the latest reports Iowa now has 367 of these elevators, most of them running lumber and coal in connection Farmers of Iowa have invested in the way of stock in these institutions nearly $4,000,000, this paid in cash These elevators have cost the stockholders $3,899,375. These elevators have handled on an average of 329,898 bushels of grain per year which means that there is a grain movement through the farmers' elevators of Iowa amounting to $46,004,490

The directors taking part in the meeting are R Clay Rock Valley B Hathaway Kingsley G M Dyer Gillette Grove J H Lawrence, Rockwell City J H Nelson Garner Thomas McManus, Dougherty Ira D McVicker Eagle Grove D S Coughlin Fort Dodge and Simon Kemmerer Boone

EMMETSBURG MAYOR RESIGNS FOLLOWING ROW

Emmetsburg Ia Feb 12 Mayor Bickford of this city did not like the way a majority of the city council acted and voted and in consequence, laid down his official robe and is again in the common walks of life The council by a vote of 4 to 3, decided to hire a consulting engineer at a remunerative salary to assist the city engineer with 24 blocks of contemplated paving The mayor thought that this cost could easily be eliminated The paving was to have been let Saturday night and it was thought everything was in readiness But when the test came four members of the city council were found to be opposed to two members of the city council and the mayor and there was a family jar which finally resulted in the mayor tendering his resignation which was accepted This was immediately followed by the two councilmen resigning which was not accepted The councilmen in casting about for a good man to take the place of Mayor Bickford decided upon Col W E G Saunders who has accepted the position

DECLARED LEGALLY DEAD AND ESTATE IS SETTLED

Bonaparte Ia Feb 1. R E Meek recently brought suit in the Van Buren county district court for $5,000 on a policy held in the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York by Harold C Meek and which had been assigned to him Fifteen years ago Mr Meek was clerk of courts in this county When elected to that office his home was Bonaparte After finishing his term at Keosauqua he entered the University of Michigan and studied law

After his graduation he went to Texas, later going to Waterloo Ia After a brief stay there he went to Tacoma, Wash assigning his life insurance policy to R E Meek before he left

Soon after going to Tacoma he ceased communication with his relatives here and when inquiries were made it was found that he was no longer in that city What became of him is not known A year or so ago an administrator was appointed for his estate, and now a settlement has been made for his life insurance He is legally dead The case is one of the most mysterious ever known here

MONONA COUNTY FARMERS' SHORT COURSE, FEB 11-13

Castana Ia Feb 12 The Monona county farmers short course and institute will be held here February 11, 12 and 13 Arrangements are being made for the largest exhibit ever held in the county The instructors from Ames are Charles Dorchester, grains and silos H H Hart animal husbandry Miss Jessie Campbell domestic science

On Thursday evening Rev T Jorgansen of Onawa will give a lecture on 'Farming in Denmark,' and on Friday evening the program will be in the hands of the local public school pupils

The officers for the year are C M Perrin president Perry Livengood, vice president W J Donlin treasurer, Rev E D Calkins, secretary

CLOTHING ON FIRE, SAVED BY BATH IN SNOWBANK

Marshalltown Ia Feb 1. When he poured gasoline into a cook stove to light the kitchen fire, John E Crouse, a rural mail carrier of Albion, came nearly being burned to death, and also set fire to his home

Crouse did not think there was very much of the liquid in the can and set what he supposed was the empty can down in front of the stove The gas was ignited and spread to the can, which exploded, covering Crouse with burning gasoline and setting fire to the house. Mrs Crouse assisted in covering her husband with snow in the yard and extinguished the flames that enveloped the man, but not until his hands and arms were badly burned and his hair singed off Mrs. Crouse then turned her attention to the house and saved it from much damage

ATTORNEY GENERAL AFTER GAMBLERS AT IOWA CITY

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 10 —John Fletcher, assistant attorney general, yesterday received word from Iowa City that as the result of the activity of the state department of justice the grand jury returned indictments for gambling against six persons of that city. There are three counts against "Goat" Abbott, the assistant attorney general says. Three wagonloads of gambling apparatus were secured in raids on the six joints. The state officials are trying to rid Iowa City of the gambling houses on account of the students.

PROTEST RENDERS PRESS OF BERLIN VERY BELLIGERENT

"America Cannot Handle German Government By Pressure and Threats," Says Leading Publication.

NOT INCLINED TO YIELD

If U. S. Ships Are Sunk In War Zone, Only Americans Are to Blame, They Say of President's Note.

Berlin (via London), Feb 15.—The American note of protest to Germany concerning the new war zone about the British isles has been presented to the German government by Ambassador James W Gerard. The Berlin press is inclined to adopt a belligerent tone in discussing the American note, which intimates that an attack on any ship carrying the American flag without a previous inquiry as to its right to fly the flag could lead to serious complications.

German newspapers and the public are insisting, in spite of Washington's protest and in spite of possible consequences that the German submarine policy must be pursued relentlessly.

The gist of German opinion, as it has thus far been transmitted to London would appear to be that the neutral powers have been sufficiently warned to keep out of the military area and, inasmuch as Germany is facing starvation at the hands of Great Britain, there is no other course for her to pursue

The Kreuse Zeitung, commenting on this, says

This note would amount to a breach of neutrality unless America informed Great Britain that complications of a most serious character would result from the misuse of the American flag'

Text Not Published.

The text of the American note has not yet been made known to the German press and the comment up to the present time has been based entirely on news agency dispatches from Washington giving a brief synopsis of the communication

The Koelnis he Zeitung has republished prominently from the Tages Zeitung, an article by Count Von Reventlow the naval critic concerning Germanys declaration of a marine war zone around the British isles In this article Count Von Reventlow refers to the report that the Washington government intended to ask how Germany purposed to make neutral shipping safe in these waters, and says

This war zone was announced by the German government for the very reason that safety of navigation therein cannot be guaranteed The vessels of neutrals enter upon this war zone all at their own risk This condition of affairs and the consequences it may bring after February 18, cannot be changed or influenced by any representations or demands from Washington It is equally out of the question that the identity of every ship with neutral flag be ascertained A submarine mine cannot learn this identity and, such a course is equally impossible for a submarine boat'

Can't Be Bulldozed.

In concluding his article, Count Von Reventlow says

'The German declaration in itself must furnish proof to Americans that the possible destruction of American ships after February 18, cannot afford the Washington government any ground for complaint of any nature against the German government, but that the American government and the shippers themselves must bear the responsibility if they permit their vessels to enter this war zone

'We gather the impression here from expressions reaching Germany from across the water that if the American people believe they can handle the German government as they desire by pressure and threats they will fool themselves"

BERLIN PRESS ACCUSES U S OF UNFRIENDLINESS

Berlin Feb 13, (via London) - Disappointment, that neutral powers have not asked specific guaranty from England that she desist from the misuse of neutral flags, is expressed by the Kreuz Zeitung, which says such guarantees are improbable now since 'the most powerful' neutral has not even protested decidedly The paper asserts that sales of arms and ammunition, "not to mention ample support of our enemies now tolerated" cannot be reconciled with President Wilson's unobjectionable interpretation of true neutrality at the beginning of the war The Kreuz Zeitung declares that although Great Britain's reply to the protest of the United States' complaint concerning the detention of merchantships was almost wholly negative, it was accepted quietly in America as is the present misuse of the flag The paper then asks

Is it any wonder that England now shows not the slightest consideration for the United States, as is illustrated already by the seizure of the Wilhelmina" Let nobody say America proves its neutrality by accepting Germany's declaration of submarine warfare in the same spirit as England's abuse of neutral flags"

LONDON PRESS FORESEES AMERICAN-GERMAN CLASH

London, Feb 13.—That the British government will have no difficulty in giving a satisfactory reply to the American note on the use of the American flag by British merchantmen, is the contention of the afternoon papers of London, which virtually unite in expressing the opinion that a neutral flag will be used by British vessels only as an intimation to German warships that there are neutral passengers and goods aboard

The Pall Mall Gazette attaches "immense significance" to the phrase in the American note to Germany—"or cause the death of American citizens"—as meaning that Americans aboard British ships will be equally protected by the home government as those on board American ships

The Evening Standard, basing its judgment on the tenor of the American notes, says:

"It is plain in which direction America looks for the possibility of trouble. If Germany does not now understand the meaning of the note and realize the false position into which she has been led by the arrogance of the official minds in Berlin, she must abide by the issue."

SENATE VO... OUST MULC... JANUARY

This Action Separa... tinct From Pro... Submit Prohi... Amendmen...

HOUSE MAY FOL...

Some Temperance L... to Rely on Statu... and Want It Fi... Constitution...

PRESENT STATUS OF IOWA LIQU...

Senate passed joint re... submit to voters question... ing prohibitory ... state constitution ... under Iowa pro... come before voters ... election of 1916

Senate later passed ... peal mulct law (statute ... ment) under which ... loons now are ... measure, if ... and signed by Governor ... would go into effect ... but an amendment was ... putting it into effect ... 1916.

These two measures are separate and distinct but conflicting. Many of the drys fear to rely upon prohibition alone which, if wiped out at a subsequent legislative session For this they want it to afford constitutional provision left be disturbed

Iowa's former prohibitory ment, approved in 1894 ... clared ineffective by the ... account of decisions of ... legislature, either intentional ... accidental, by which ... of the two houses failed ... the same record

The present mulct law ... acted in 1894 and provides ... tions under which persons ... manufacture or sell liquor ... not be liable to the penalties ... in the statutory prohibitory ... ment.

If the mulct law were ... the legislature ... "dry" after ... the terms of ... to the mulct law ... amended

Even if the voters ... the prohibitory amendment ... submitted, that would ... the code restrictions ... it might show ... might induce legislation ... saloons.

If the voters should ... prohibitory amendment ... make a constitutional ... additional to the code ... The constitutional ... could not be removed ... proved at two sessions ... legislature and later ... the voters

Des Moines Ia Feb ... scored twice, and decisively ... ate yesterday Following ... of the resolution for submission ... voters of a prohibitory amendment ... senate, by a vote of 27 to 23, ... Clarkson bill, which provides ... repeal of Iowa's famous and ... mulct law Following the ... the bill, Senator Clarkson ... down" with a motion to recommit ... preventing any likelihood of ... bers backing up on the measure

It is claimed that the house ... whelmingly "dry" and that the ... itory amendment resolution ... Clarkson repeal bill will both ... in the lower body The "ten" ... committee of the house, like the ... senate, is in control of the ... it seems probable that another ... fight may be necessary to ... house committee from withholding ... report on the two temperance ... ures. The "drys" are on the ... however, and claim they will ... hesitation in forcing the bills ... action if the committee continues ... hesitating spirit.

The senate vote on the mulct ... peal bill was as follows:

Yeas—Allen, Arney, Balker, ... Clarkson, Crist, Darrah, Dorr, ... lows, Fleck, Foskett, Foster, ... Grout, Heald, Jones, Laffer, ... Lindley, Nye, Parker, Robinson, ... lor, Thomas, Voorhees, Whitmore, ... son—27.

Nays—Caswell, Eversmeyer, ... Farr, Frailey, Gillette, Greene, ... mann, Helmer, Hengbaum, ... Jackson, Kimball, Perkins, ... Ream, Savage, Schrup, Sheean, ... son, White of Benton, White of ... 22

Absent—Chase

Heald Turned Scale.

Senator Francis Heald of Lin... ty, made the passage of the ... bill possible. It was he who ... to extend the time for the measure ... ing into effect from July 4 to ... 1 This amendment was adopted ... won to the dry column Senator ... M. Wilson who was opposed to ... peal otherwise.

Senator L. E. Francis, of Dub... balked at the Heald amendment ... declared that for political reasons ... state should go dry as soon as ...

In arguing for his amendment ... the bill Heald declared he is t... with politics after this session ... assembly. He declared that he ... care what the political effect of ... passage of the Clarkson bill is, ... conscience rather than expe... guide him in his actions.

Senators Clarkson, L. W Boe... H. Allen spoke in support of the ... amendment.

Referred To Platform.

Senator Hagermann, of Bremer ... ty, tried to whip the republican ... line by cautioning them about ... political platform of last summer, ... declared that enactment of the ... son bill would be a great asset ... democratic party.

Senators Perkins and Schrup ... speeches against the bill Both de... they are for real temperance and ... the way to get it is through a pro... tory amendment and not by repeal ... the mulct law.

Senator Clarkson closed the ... ment He took shots at both Fra... and Thompson. The former for ... ring to the political phase of the ... tion, and the latter for impugning ... tives of senators back of the ... Dramatically he turned to Lieut. ... Governor Harding. "Great God ... President, has the time arrived ... a man's party is greater than his ... try" he asked.

OOK AT TONGUE

h, constipated, nia Syrup s" saves a sick child simply will not lay to empty their e clogged up with luggish, stomach

e, mother! If coat- listless, cross, fev- estless, doesn't eat or has sore throat n's ailment, give a alifornia Syrup of orry, because it is and in a few hours n poison, sour bile waste will gently owels, and you have ild again A thor- sing" is ofttimes all It should be the ven in any sickness. counterfeit fig syrups or a 50-cent bottle of of Figs," which has babies, children of grown-ups plainly tle. Adv.

Made Laws.

ust of the Ancient Or- in Mobile, Ala., Mrs. said that equal suf- ncient right given to Ireland, who had full time of St Patrick. At parliament it was left decide upon the laws of the family, and s are our inheritance Under the direction and a thousand nuns hen laws of Ireland together, amended and Carbon Paper.

paper has been used preparation becomes in some parts, while of the paper are as good as The process of renewing is very le, and it can be done by anyone out special apparatus All that is ssary is to hold the paper in front fire or over a radiator a few sec- The heat will cause the prepa- on to dissolve and spread over the er, so that when it is dry the paper have a new coating This can be ated, and in some cases will dou- the life of the carbon paper

TEA AND SULPHUR ENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

ger! Try Grandma's and Sulphur and Will Know.

one knows that Sage r properly compound- the natural color and r when faded, streaked ends dandruff, itching falling hair. Years way to get this mixture it at home, which is troublesome.

we simply ask at any for Wyeth's Sage and Sul- Hair Remedy." You will get a bottle for about 50 cents. Every- old, famous recipe, be- can possibly tell that your hair, as it does it and evenly. You dampen or soft brush with it and through your hair, taking strand at a time; by morn- hair disappears, and application or two, your beautifully dark, thick you look years younger.

Was Neutral.

n went into a well- restaurant a short time lunch Among other er some cold meat; r—when he served the d:

ve the French of Ger- sir?"

was the Irishman's "I'm neutral Bring h!" e Right Way.

uarreled with his wife g his clothes?"

hey patched it up"

This One.

eems to have a mania the other nations."

time it is Ru-mania."

aturally So.

re very expensive, are make the money fly."

the wise is said to be did you ever notice rds people use in talking eople who stand up for hts might prefer to sit luxury.

ist may believe in heav- pt to have his suspicions d with gold bricks.

an make his model stand he happens to be mar-

man never lacks a circle

HERO OF LATEST GERMAN VICTORY.

GENERAL VON HINDENBURG.

General Von Hindenburg, known as "the Man of the Lakes," because of his knowledge of the Mazurian lake region, has just driven the Russians out of East Prussia the second time since the war began. German soil is now free of the enemy, except in Alsace and Lorraine, where the French still hold their positions. General Von Hindenburg's first victory over General Rennenkampff made him a national hero. Today he has added new laurels to his name. The extent of the German success in Prussia is not yet known, but Berlin believes the kaiser's army has won one of the greatest victories of the war

PRICE ON HEAD OF IRISH STATESMAN?

Sir Roger Casement, Charged With Disloyalty, Declares British Minister Sought to Have Him Killed.

Berlin, Feb 13.—(wireless to Sayville)—Sir Roger Casement the leader of the separatist faction in Ireland published here today a letter to Sir Edward Grey British secretary of state for foreign affairs alleging that he, Sir Roger has documentary evidence to substantiate charges which he makes that the British government is in a criminal conspiracy to have him captured or killed, says an item given out by the Over Seas news agency.

Sir Roger made a statement, continues the news agency, charging Mansfeldt De C Findlay, British minister to Norway with conspiring with Sir Roger's man servant Adler Christenson, a Norwegian for the capture or killing of Casement, for which Christenson would receive at least $25 000 Sir Roger showed a photographic copy of what purports to be a letter written on British legation paper at Christiania in the minister's handwriting and over his signature. The writer of this letter promised "on behalf of the government" if that through information given by Christianson Sir Rogers should be captured, either with or without his companion, Christenson would receive "from the British government $5,000"

Christenson personally declared, according to Sir Roger that Mr Findlay told him to lure Sir Roger to a point on the coast where a British ship could run in and get him "or still better, to knock him in the head"

Sir Roger said that he had asked the Norwegian government to promise him protection and that after this promise was received he would go to Christiana and lay before the government proof of the British minister's conspiracy with the Norwegian subject on Norwegian soil

Sir Roger's letter has been submitted to the American ambassador and representatives of other neutral countries for their governments and a copy also has been directed to Secretary of State Bryan at Washington.

On February 4 Sir Edward Grey announced in the house of commons that the pension allowed to Sir Roger Casement who was formerly in the consular service had been suspended pending an investigation of allegations that he was disloyal A sensation was caused in England last November when it was reported that Sir Roger had conferred with the German imperial authorities in Berlin concerning what attitude German troops would have toward Ireland if they landed there. It was stated that he was assured that if German troops should land in Ireland, all native institutions would be respected.

FOREIGNERS TOLD TO GET OUT OF ALSACE

German Order May Forecast Vigorous Campaign In That Part of Empire.

Geneva, Feb. 1, (by mail) – The reported expulsion of all foreigners from that part of upper Alsace still occupied by the Germans has been confirmed, and it is also stated that a complete evacuation by the civilian population has been commenced All young boys already have been sent across the Rhine and now old men, women and children are leaving, many crossing the Swiss frontier at Basel and other points where special relief committees have been organized to take care of them

The bombardment of Thann greatly increased in intensity in the last 10 days and in spite of the deep fall of snow the flames continue their ravages. The large cotton spinning and weaving sheds, constituting the most important industry of the town, are now only heaps of stone. Cernay also has been virtually destroyed. About Altkirch the artillery has been particularly active, the guns on both sides being hidden under the snow to conceal them from reconnoitering air craft constantly cruising over this part of Alsace.

The great fire of London in 1666 started in a house on Pudding lane and ended at Piecrust alley Thirteen thousand two hundred houses were burned, including 89 churches.

34 AEROPLANES IN RAID ON BELGIUM

British Flying Squadron Attacks German Positions—Grahame-White Falls Into Sea and Is Rescued.

Berlin, Feb. 15 (by wireless to Sayville, Feb. 13).—The war office made the following statement today:

After a long interval hostile warships yesterday reappeared off the coast. Enemy airmen dropped bombs over Ostend without doing military damage"

The foregoing statement is identical with a statement received yesterday from Berlin by way of London, with the exception that the London version did not include the words "without doing military damage," which evidently were eliminated by the British censor Dispatches by way of Sayville do not pass through England The British admiralty's account of the aeroplane raid said that the Ostend railway station probably had been burned, but made no mention of the military establishments of the Germans in that city

London, Feb 15 –Just what was accomplished by the British flying corps in a daring raid executed by 34 aeroplanes, upon the German positions in Belgium yesterday is not yet fully known Several important places were attacked including Zeebrugge Ostend, Bruges and Blankenberghe The raid was intended to destroy submarine bases Warships stood by to support the air craft

The fact that a British air raid in such force as was shown in the aerial expedition of yesterday has been carried out successfully over the German positions in Belgium is taken in London to indicate that such aerial activity against German submarine bases, promised at the time when the German policy of blockade was announced, is to be continued Great Britain has many new aeroplanes under construction and many pilots in training, and it is now predicted that yesterday's raid was only a forerunner of more extensive visitations.

Several British ship owners are offering a prize of 1,000 pounds to any merchant ship which rams and sinks a German submarine

Official Statement.

A description of the raid was given out by the official information bureau as follows

"During the last 24 hours, combined aeroplane and seaplane operations have been carried out by the naval wing in the Bruges, Zeebrugge, Blankenberghe and Ostend districts, with a view to prevent the development of submarine bases and establishments

"Thirty-four naval aeroplanes and seaplanes took part

"Great damage is reported to have been done to the Ostend railway station, which, according to present information, has probably been burned to the ground The railway station at Blankenberghe was damaged and the railway lines were torn up in many places

"Bombs were dropped on the positions at Middelkerke and also on the power station and on the German sweeping vessels at Zeebrugge, but the damage done is unknown

"During the attack the machines encountered heavy banks of snow

"Flight Commander Graham-White fell into the sea off Nieuport and was rescued by a French vessel, although exposed to a heavy gun fire from rifles, anti-air craft guns, machine guns, etc.

"All of the pilots are safe. Two machines were damaged.

"The seaplanes and aeroplanes were under the command of Wing Commander Samson, assisted by Wing Commander Longmore and Squadron Commanders Porte, Courtney and Rathorne."

FASTER MAIL SERVICE WILL BE INAUGURATED

Washington, Feb. 13.—New arrangements for faster mail train service between Chicago and the Pacific coast were announced today by Postmaster General Burleson. The changes will affect the service in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

One new mail train between Chicago and Los Angeles will make the run in 64 hours and 10 minutes, over the Santa Fe. The time of other trains through various states will be arranged in conformity to improve connections. The Missouri Pacific and Pennsylvania have arranged new schedules to agree.

26,000 RUSSIANS ARE CAPTURED BY GERMANS

TWO SHIPS SUNK BY PLUNGERS IS BELIEF

Havre Shipping Circles Conclude Oriole and Trader Met Up With Submarines.

Havre (via Paris) Feb 15 Shipping circles here now consider it practically certain that the British steamer, Oriole, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine The last time the vessel is known to have been seen was at 2 p. m., January 30, near Dungeness, in company with the London steamer, London Trader which is also missing.

There is equal certainty that the London Trader shared the fate of the Oriole A telegram from Rouen says James Cullen, a surviver of the Trader was landed there by the steamer, Poland, the captain of which stated another ship whose name he could not give had saved three other sailors from the Trader.

The Oriole left London for Havre on January 28 Her crew numbered 21 men The British admiralty expressed the opinion on February 9, that she had been struck by a German torpedo

The London Trader was a vessel of 684 tons built in 1913, awn owned by the London Welsh steamship company of London

LIMIT FOR EVIDENCE OF PLUMBERS' CONSPIRACY

Des Moines Ia Feb. 13 A ruling that the prosecution must continue itself, in the introduction of evidence relating to the affairs of the National Association of Master Plumbers of America to the period since June 4 1911, was made by Federal Judge Pollock at today's session of the trial of the 36 master plumbers charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law

"The tree as it grew from 1883 to 1910 does not concern this court," said Judge Pollock "The only evidence to be taken into consideration by the jury is that which has to do with the association's affairs after June 4, 1911 But if evidence is to be introduced to lead up to acts of that date and thereafter, very well"

NORRIS PUTS ONE OVER THE SENATE

Clever Maneuver Brings Up Cloture Question to Be Disposed of Before Proceeding With Ship Bill.

Washington D C Feb 15 The purchase bill today continues to toss about on uncertain and shifting seas It is only a guess as to what will come of it in this session

The most important fact in the situation just now is that Senator Norris has the whip hand in the Senate to the extent that he has proposed a general rule for cloture of limiting debate, that he has put this proposal into a parliamentary situation where it has to be voted on and that he has turned a deaf ear to the pleadings of the Senate democratic leaders who want him to withdraw it in order to permit a vote on a special cloture rule proposed by Senator Reed to end debate on the ship bill and vote February 19.

Senator Norris looks on cloture as more important than ship purchase, and he has cleverly maneuvered things so that he can get a vote on it unless it is debated until March 4 or unless Senator Reed withdraws his special rule Of course by majority vote the Senate could turn its attention to other business

The ship purchase bill by what the Senate democrats now view as a blunder, has been displaced from the calendar as the unfinished business and cannot be put back except by majority vote, and it is uncertain whether Senator Norris will permit it. The democrats need his vote if they are to replace ship purchase on the calendar as unfinished business, and he prefers to consider cloture

Filibustering Again.

While the administration democrats were reframing the ship bill for a new drive in the House, the republican filibuster blossomed out anew today in the Senate, where Senator Gore tried to have the commerce committee discharged from consideration of his substitute, which is to be used as one of the bases of compromise Senator Burton took the floor for a speech that promised to last all day and it was apparent that the republican opposition was prepared to hold its lines firm until the administration compromise took a thoroughly definite form Senator Weeks, author of the bill, which is also a part of the compromise, predicted it could not be accepted in the Senate with the amendments proposed by the administration in the House

Administration leaders on the House side went ahead with the drafting of a compromise bill in accordance with plans approved by President Wilson The new bill would organize a shipping board with an appropriation of $40,000,000 to engage in the shipping business for a period ending two years after the close of the European war

Chairman Padgett of the naval committee, prepared a special rule for consideration of the administration proposal and arrangements were made for a caucus of House democrats, Monday night, to bind the majority to support it.

The rule would discharge the committee from further consideration of the Weeks naval auxiliary bill, take in the Gore bill and the other amendments as outlined by the administration, cut off all other amendments and allow six hours of general debate, so the entire measure could be put through the House in a single session

It was expected the plan would bring the ship bill before the House Thursday or Friday.

Senator Cummins today announced he would present an amendment to the Norris general cloture rule providing that cloture should not apply when a party caucus has bound senators to support a bill or measure before the Senate. Senator Kenyon will support it and it will receive general republican support.

Kaiser Witnesses Retreat of Enemy, Following Smashing Blows Dealt By General Von Hindenburg's Army.

NATION IS CELEBRATING

Believed That Sweeping Victory Has Been Won In Mazurian Lake Region—Details Are Lacking.

PETROGRAD ADMITS BLOW

Austro-German Advance Said to Have Been Halted In Bukowina—Artillery Duels Continue In West.

London, Feb 15 Emperor William received Field Marshal Von Hindenburg on the eastern battle front on Friday and it was decided to make a renewed dash for Warsaw next week, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph company

The German emperor, the message adds is said to be anxious that the Polish capital be taken before the next meeting of the reichstag, in order to induce the house to vote a new war loan without opposition

London Feb 13 The event of immediate importance in the east is the German victory in east Prussia, which according to Berlin reports, was an imposing one It is assumed in Germany that danger of Russian invasion in that region is ended, but it is not yet clear to what extent the conduct of the campaign will be affected

In the Carpathians the battles for possession of the passes are still undecided A Geneva dispatch states that the Austrians have suffered heavily from Russian bayonet attacks in Dukla pass 200,000 Reinforcements.

The army which the Germans flung so suddenly into east Prussia is believed to have numbered 200,000 men and to have been made up of soldiers who have been fighting on the Bzura and western fronts and of units of the new army which has just completed training in central Germany

The following official communication from the Russian general staff was made public last night

"On the front between the Niemen and the lower Vistula separate actions have taken place at five points west of Marggrabowa, near Lyck midway between Ostrotenko and Myszyniec, west of Myszyniec and in the region of Sierpec

"In the Carpathians we have repulsed attacks on the enemy in the region of Svidnik near Wyszkow and Porogui, in the vicinity of Rostoka near the Bukowina frontier

Claims Conflicting.

As in other important encounters in the eastern arena of the war, the claims of the opponents disagree as to the strategic importance of the German advance into East Prussia The Germans are hailing it as a great victory and Berlin is decorated with flags, while Petrograd declares that the Russians are deliberately realigning their forces on their own territory supported by their own forts and that the decisive conflict is yet to come

The battling in the Carpathians is going on in the snow but the information from this field of activities is most scant and the indications reaching London are that it is a see-saw affair with both sides sustaining enormous losses Further to the south, the Austrians contend that they are continuing their advance into Bukowina. Military experts in London are of the opinion that the Carpathian front still remains an area of prime importance in the east, where a decisive victory by either side would force the abandonment by the other of territory in East Prussia or Poland

Emperor William is still on the East Prussian frontier, according to the latest advices reaching London, but Emperor Nicholas has just made a visit to Sebastopol, where he inspected the Russian warships in port and made an address to the assembled sailors

Berlin, Feb 13, (via London) – The morning papers hail the victory in east Prussia particularly as removing further danger of an invasion of that province They point to the Russian report of the battle as an indication of the completeness of the defeat, as it admits that the Russians are falling back to the protection of their chain of fortresses Emperor William witnessed the fighting

The victory is especially prized because of the frustration of plans for a strong offensive which the Russians are believed to have been preparing in this region

The capture of 26,000 prisoners reported in the German official communication, means that practically an entire army corps has been put out of the fighting The fact that the number of guns captured is comparatively small is commented on in some quarters as indicating that the Russians, who are said already to have lost a third of their artillery through capture, are now insufficiently equipped in this arm of the service

The Lokal Anzeiger's military contributor says, in commenting on the results in East Prussia

"We believe that the Russian general staff is not far astray when it assumes that our troops in East Prussia have been reinforced"

The press expresses hopes for further good news from the battle still proceeding in some parts of the eastern line

The children in the schools were given a holiday today and flags are flying all over the city in honor of the victory.

The news that the Russians were being driven from the Mazurian lakes district came as a big surprise to the people of Berlin, their attention having been long concentrated on the Warsaw front. Persons in the confidence of high military officers knew, however, that Von Hindenburg had quietly gathered a strong force for an offensive movement in East Prussia. In unofficial quarters it has been said that eight army corps were gathered for this purpose

HEAVY FIGHTING RESUMED IN ARGONNE AND VOSGES

Paris, Feb. 13.—The French war office this afternoon issued a report on the progress of the fighting, which reads as follows

"From the sea to the Lys, the Germans yesterday bombarded violently Nieuport and the country of the dunes. Their artillery fired on Ypres during the night of February 11-12, and on our positions to the east of Ypres during the day of February 12. Our artillery replied to this fire effectively.

"From the Lys to the Somme yesterday witnessed intermittent cannonading. In the region of Arras, near Carency, we caused the explosion of two mines situated at outposts held by the enemy

"On the Somme between the Oise and the Aisne, as well as in Champagne there was yesterday great activity on the part of the artillery of both sides.

"Some 10 aviators have flown over the region of Verdun The bombs thrown by them did no damage During the night of February 11-12, there were two German attacks on our trenches in the forest of Caures to the north of Verdun, which were repulsed.

"In Lorraine the German attack on our positions at Arracourt, mentioned in our report of last night, was led by one company, while at the same time another Germany company endeavored with no greater success to occupy our positions at Renzey

"In Alsace the enemy has bombarded the positions which we took February 12 in the vicinity of Mount Sudelkopf. Because of the thorough organization of our trenches, the effects of this bombardment were insignificant"

SWEEPING OPPOSING FORCES EAST AND WEST IS CLAIM

Berlin Feb 13, (by wireless) - The official statement, issued today by the German army headquarters, says

'In the western theater of war Enemy aviators again dropped bombs on the coast yesterday as they also did Thursday The bombs caused regrettable damage to the civil population, while, from the military point of view, we suffered only slight losses.

"On the extreme front artillery ammunition was found, which doubtless originated in American factories

"The number of prisoners taken during the attacks, which were repulsed yesterday to the west of Souain was increased today by four officers and 478 men Before our front 200 of the enemy's men were found killed while our losses in these engagements in killed and injured amounted to 90 men

"North of Massiges, to the northwest of Ste Menohould, another 1,200 metres of the French positions were taken in continuation of our attacks of February 3.

"The enemy attempted to make an attack on the Sudelkopf, in the Vosges, but was everywhere repulsed without difficulty

'In the eastern theater of the war On both sides of the east Prussian frontier our operations are everywhere progressing successfully. Wherever the enemy attempts to resist us his opposition is quickly broken

"In Poland On the right bank of the Vistula our attacking troops crossed the lower Skrwa and are proceeding in the direction of Racioue

"On the left bank of the Vistula there is nothing of importance to report"

FLAY EFFORT TO END ELECTION INQUIRIES

Those Behind Norris Resolution Angered By Attempt to Sidetrack Quiz.

Washington D C, Feb 15 Members of the Senate, democratic and republican, who want the Penrose-Sullivan campaign fund investigation held are much wrought up over the action Friday of the committee on contingent expenses and will force the committee to reopen the matter The committee Friday decided adversely to the Norris resolution of investigation on the grounds this congress did not have authority to investigate questions relating to the title to seats of members of the next congress.

The committee consists of Senators Williams, Reed and Shafroth, democrats, and Dillingham and Bristow, republicans. Reed and Shafroth were absent at Friday's meeting. Williams and Dillingham voted against the Norris resolution and Bristow for it.

Senators Norris, Kenyon, Owen and others got busy last night when they found out what the committee had done. The supporters of an investigation today declared the inquiry was far from dead.

SHORTAGE OF WORKMEN IN BRITISH SEA TRADE

Liverpool, Feb 13.—The Liverpool Steamship Owners' association, which 4,500,000 tons of steam shipping or 21 per cent of the total British steam tonnage afloat, in its annual report states that the main cause of congestion at the ports of the United Kingdom is the shortage of labor. The heavy demands of the admiralty on the mercantile marines for officers and men and the demand for tugs, lighters and warehousing accommodation, have been contributory causes. The association strongly urges state organization of labor It claims to have good grounds for the belief that there are sufficient men in the country to deal with at least the normal traffic of the quays and railways if the labor was properly organized

PLANNING INDUSTRIAL FREEDOM FOR ALLIES

Paris, Feb. 13.—"The meeting of the finance ministers of the triple entente was not merely to organize for an economic victory, "declared P Bark, the Russian minister of finance in an interview with the Matin "We must not be obliged some day after the war is ended," he continued "to pay a sort of indemnity to the Germans by leaving open to them a means of recouping and enriching themselves at our expense in our own markets

"Germany having demolished the factories in Belgium, Poland and northern France, perhaps thinks to force us to buy from her goods we cannot make ourselves. Let her be quite sure our markets are closed to her forever"

In one block in Chicago 538 families exist, consisting of 1,596 persons, of whom 805 are children. There is one bathtub to each 200.

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to assure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

USE THE NEWSPAPERS

Don't advertise on trees or rocks
Afar from haunts of men.
You cannot sell the woodchuck clocks
Or pictures for his den.

The squirrel may observe your sign
About your cure for chills,
And on it he may try to dine,
But that won't pay your bills.

The possum buys no breakfast foods,
We may as well confess.
So if you want to sell your goods
You'd better use the press.

—NEW YORK MAIL.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations
By "Our Man About Town"

A man doesn't have to smoke or chew very much for his tobacco to cost him a dollar and a half a week. But what would he say if his wife spent a similar sum for chewing gum and candy.

We are glad to see the comic valentine passing. Some of them are still used, to be sure, but the mails are not flooded with them on valentine's day as they once were. It always seemed cowardly to us for a fellow to take advantage of such a silly practise when he wanted to "roast" someone.

I did not "observe" this in our own little town, but saw it in a paper a few days ago and feel sure you will say the idea is not only clever, but a good one.

The town in question, like all other towns, had been over-run with tramps for several months. The city officials were unable to cope with the situation and housewives were being continually pested by them. Finally, some one hit on the idea of the city council having tickets printed, each ticket good for a meal at some local restaurant. A supply of these tickets were then placed in every home. When a tramp called and asked for something to eat, he was offered one of the tickets, which read "good for one meal when indorsed by street commissioner." If the tramp was hungry, he would present the ticket to the commissioner, who would give him a job of public work sufficient for him to earn the meal. Then the ticket was redeemable at the restaurant. The owner of the restaurant then presented the tickets to the city council and collected his money.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington was born in Virginia, the mothering state of presidents until Ohio took up the job. Regarding the Peck's Bad Boy stage of Washington's life little is known except the cherry tree incident. Concerning this, there is wide variance of opinion, the muckrakers declaring it all piff and piffle, while the ordinary mortals consider it a priceless heritage of history.

Washington married Martha Curtis out of a possible choice of Betsy Ross, Molly Pitcher, Janice Meridith and the Goddes of Liberty. Shortly after this he took up his military career, fighting many battles outside his own hearth and home. The closing years of his life were spent in declining the presidency, the kingship of America and similar jobs.

Washington was the founder of a city of magnificent deficits and was the only man ineligible to membership in the Ananias club or the Press Agent's Association. It is to be regretted that the tendency of the times is to name bull pups, sections of triplets and fourth-class postoffices for the immortal George, while the more creditable honors go to Hans Wagner, Ty Cobb and other rounders.

Newspaper men, more than any other class, immulate the veracity of Washington. With the possible exceptions of obituaries, weddings, and when speaking of their circulation, most publishers adhere to the straight and narrow about as closely as we imagine George did.

CORNS

A corn is a little lump of agony placed on the foot to instruct us what size shoes we shall wear. In days past, when a person with a number ten foot wore a number ten shoe there were no corns. The average crop today is about three corns per foot with now and then a bunion or two thrown in on the side. Corns probaly have severed as many friendships as have hearts. To intrude upon one's heart may be wrong, but to intrude upon a corn is a crime.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 15.—Battleship Maine blown up, 1898.

Tuesday, 16.—Fort Donnellson surrenders, 1862.

Wednesday, 17.—War of 1812 ends, 1815.

Thursday, 18.—Vermont admitted to Union, 1791.

Friday, 19,—Ohio admitted to Union, 1803.

Saturday, 20.—Jos. Jefferson born, 1829.

Sunday, 21.—Peace with Spain ratified, 1899.

If your subscription to the Times is due, better pay up now and get three magazines for 25 cents extra.

Side-Step Danger

YOU may save three or four dollars now by belaying buying that pair of good, warm, waterproof shoes, but the delay may later cost you twenty-five dollars in dope for colds.

This Is the Season

of the year when every man woman and child should be well shod. A wet or damp foot in summer may mean little, but it courts danger in the winter time.

If any member of your family is getting along with a shoe that leaks, come in and see our mammoth line of new footwear. I bought my stock before the advance in price and surely can save you money.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 50c and $1

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

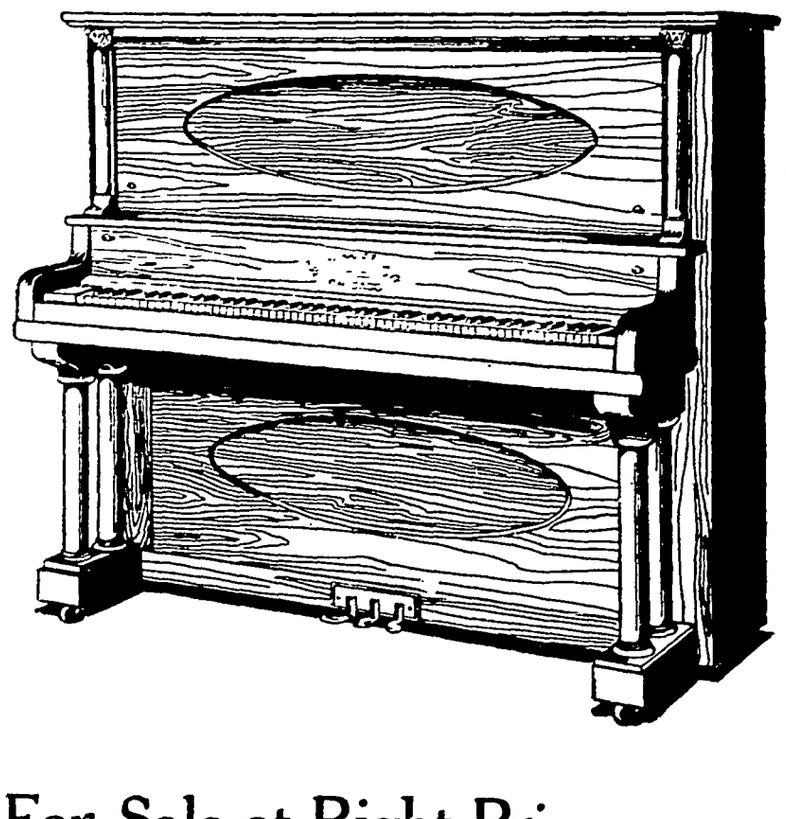
W. F. PAVEY
THE PRACTICAL BLACKSMITH

General Jobbing and Repairing In Iron

Horse Shoeing in all its branches. Carriage, Wagon and Plow Work a Specialty.

Corona Wool Fat For Sale. A Guarantee With Every Can.

Baldwin-Made Instruments Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices
and Reasonable Terms By

See Me First and Save Money

M. M. MAGNER

At The Times Offie

¶ Special Prices During February

DON'T FORGET

This store when you need anything in the line of Hardware and Farm Implements. Full line of Heaters, Cook Stoves and Ranges. The best makes in Farm Machinery. We also handle the best Paints, Oils and Varnish.

Groceries, Flour and Feed

Our prices are right. You are invited to call.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to move on a smaller farm, we will sell the following property without reserve on the Stiehl place, 6 miles West of Klemme and 6 miles South and 6 miles West of Garner, on

Wednesday, February 24th

Commencing at 10:00 O'clock a. m. Free Lunch at Noon.

57 - Head of Stock - 57

12 - Head of Horses - 12

Black Mare, 12 yrs old, wt. 1150. Bay Mare, 6 yrs old, wt 1200. Brown Gelding, 3 yrs old, wt 1000. Black Gelding, 3 yrs old, wt 1000. Sorrel Mare, 6 yrs old, wt 1700. Gray Mare, 11 yrs old, wt 1100. Iron Gray Mare, 4 yrs old, wt 1150. Iron Gray Mare, 5 yrs old, wt 900. Bay Mare, 5 yrs old, wt 850. Team of Black Geldings, 7 yrs old, wt 2700. Pacing Mare, 7 yrs old, wt. 1050.

38 - Head of Cattle - 38

Jersey Cow. Ten Milk Cows, 4 fresh, 6 fresh soon. Four, 3-yr-old Heifers. Two, 2-yr-old Steers. Seven Yearling Heifers. Six Yearling Steers. Hereford Bull. Seven Fall Calves.

6 Head of Sheep. 1 Goat. 2 Tom Turkeys. Some Geese.
1 Dozen Ducks.

FARM MACHINERY, Etc.

Cade Gasoline Engine, 6 h. p., with Saw. Russel Steam Engine in good shape. No. 2 Marselles Cylinder Corn Sheller, nearly new. J. I. Case Separator, in good shape. Sulky Plow. 2-hole Corn Sheller. Feed Grinder. Corn King Manure Spreader, No. 3, nearly new. Other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms: $10.00 and under Cash, on all sums over that amount, 10 months time will be given on approved notes bearing 8 per cent interest. No property to be removed until settled for.

MRS. ANNA ESPE, Owner

Cols. J. A. Youug and R. R. Kester, Aucts. P. M. Griesemer, Clerk

TIMES PRINT, KLEMME, IOWA.

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

For sick headache, bad breath, Sour Stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All stores sell Cascarets Don't forget the children—their little insides need a cleansing, too. Adv.

Limitations.

"I'll give Gnuggs credit for one thing He says the best he can about people"

"That's true, but Gnuggs best is nothing more than a knock"

IS EPILEPSY CONQUERED?

New Jersey Physician Said to Have Many Cures to His Credit.

Red Bank, N J (Special).—Advices from every direction fully confirm previous reports that the remarkable treatment for epilepsy being administered by the consulting physician of the Kline Laboratories, of this city, is achieving wonderful results. Old and stubborn cases have been greatly benefited and many patients claim to have been entirely cured

Persons suffering from epilepsy should write at once to Kline Laboratories, Branch 48, Red Bank, N J., for a supply of the remedy, which is being distributed gratuitously.—Adv.

New Anesthetic

A new anesthetic is being used in the treatment of wounded in the present war It is understood to be related to amalgersine a preparation discovered as this too has been, by M Paulin a distinguished French chemist and a pupil of Pasteur Its action is not local it operates upon the nerve centers of the body and produces a state of oblivion akin to pain which may last for several hours It is claimed that by an injection of this fluid into the system the wounded soldier may be rendered unconscious sufficiently long to cover the period of his removal to the station where the first dressing of all of his injuries may be secured

One of the Earnest Advisers

You ought to be ashamed to take no interest in work said the woman with the severe expression I want some wood chopped

Lady replied Plodding Pete I do take an interest in work I'm one of de champeen lecturers on de economic conditions an de failure to bring de workman an de job together

What good'll that do me?

Lady you jes wait an listen to de lecture I'm goin to give your husband fur not choppin dat wood

Natural Methods.

"How did you get the lightning effect?"

By means of a flashlight."

KNOW NOW

And Will Never Forget the Experience.

The coffee drinker who has suffered and then been completely relieved by changing from coffee to Postum knows something valuable There's no doubt about it.

I learned the truth about coffee in a peculiar way," says a California woman. 'My husband who has, for years, been of a bilious temperament decided to leave off coffee and give Postum a trial, and as I did not want the trouble of making two beverages for meals I concluded to try Postum, too. The results have been that while my husband has been greatly benefited, I have myself received even greater benefit.

"When I began to drink Postum I was thin in flesh and very nervous. Now I actually weigh 16 pounds more than I did at that time and I am stronger physically and in my nerves, while husband is free from all his ails.

"We have learned our little lesson about coffee and we know something about Postum, too, for we have used Postum now steadily for the last three years and we shall continue to do so.

"We have no more use for coffee—the drug drink We prefer Postum and health"

Name given by Postum Co, Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

—sold by Grocers

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1915, by Burton E. Stevenson.

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE FATE OF M. PIGOT.

Whatever may have been Grady's defects of insight and imagination, he was energetic enough when thoroughly aroused. Almost before the echo of that slamming door had died away, he was beside the sergeant's desk.

"Get out the reserves," he ordered, "and have the other wagon around. 'Phone headquarters to rush every man available up to the Day and Night bank, and say it's from me!"

He stood chewing his cigar savagely as the sergeant hastened to obey. In a moment, the reserves came tumbling out, struggling into their coats; there was a clatter of hoofs in the street as the wagon dashed up; the reserves piled into it, permitting me to crowd in beside them, Grady jumped to the seat beside the driver, and we were off at a gallop, our gong waking the echoes of the silent street.

I clung to the hand rail as the wagon swayed back and forth or bounded into the air as it struck the car tracks and stared out into the night, struggling to understand. Could Godfrey be right? But of course he was right. Some intuition told me that, and yet how had Crochard managed to substitute himself for the French detective? Where was Pigot? Was he lying somewhere in a crumpled heap, with a tiny wound upon his hand? But that could not be—Grady and Simmonds had been with him all the evening. And could that aged Frenchman with the white, fine, wrinkled skin be also the bronzed and virile personage whom I had known as Felix Armand? My reason reeled before the seeming impossibility of it—and yet, somehow, I knew that Godfrey was right.

The wagon came to a stop so suddenly that I was thrown violently against the man next to me, and the reserves, leaping out, swept me before them. We were in front of the Day and Night bank, and at a word from Grady the men spread into a close cordon before the building.

Another police wagon stood at the curb, with the driver still on the seat, but as Grady started toward it, a figure appeared at the door of the bank and shouted to us—shouted in inarticulate words which I could not understand. But Grady seemed to understand them and went up the steps two at a time, with an agility surprising in so large a man and which I was hard put to it to match. A little group stood at one side of the vestibule looking down at some one extended on a cushioned seat. And an instant later I saw that it was Simmonds, lying on his back, his eyes open and staring apparently at the ceiling.

But at the second glance I saw that the eyes were sightless.

Grady elbowed his way savagely through the group

Where's Kelly?" he demanded.

At the words, a white faced man in uniform arose from a chair into which he had plainly dropped exhausted.

Oh, there you are," and Grady glowered at him ferociously 'Now tell me what happened—and tell it quick

Why sir' stammered Kelly, 'there wasn't anything happened Only when we stopped out there at the curb and I got down and opened the door, there wasn't nobody in the wagon but Mr Simmonds I spoke to him and he didn't answer and then I touched him and he kind of fell over—and then I rushed in here and phoned the station, but they said you'd already started for the bank and then we went out and brought him in here—and that's all I know, sir

"You didn't hear anything—no sound of a struggle?"

'Not a sound sir not a single sound'

'And you haven't any idea where the other man got out?"

"No, sir"

'Mr Simmonds had a little valise with him—did you notice it?"

"Yes, sir, and I looked for it in the wagon, but it ain't there"

Grady turned away with a curse as four or five men ran in from the street—the men from headquarters, I told myself I could hear him talking to them in sharp, low tones, and then they departed as suddenly as they had come. The reserves also hurried away, and I concluded that Grady was trying to throw a net about the territory in which the fugitive was probably concealed, but my interest in that maneuver was overshadowed, for the time being by my anxiety for Simmonds I picked up his right hand and looked at it, then I drew a deep breath of relief, for it was uninjured.

"Has any one sent for a doctor?" I asked

"Yes, sir," one of the bank attaches answered. "We telephoned for one at once here he is now," he added as a little black bearded man entered, carrying the inevitably-identifying medicine case.

The newcomer glanced at the body, waved us back, fell on one knee, stripped away the clothing from the breast and applied his ear to the heart. Then he looked into the staring eyes, drew down the lids, watched them snap up again, and then hastily opened his case.

"Let's have some water," he said

"Then he's not dead?" I questioned, as one of the clerks sprang to obey

"Dead? No but he's had a taste or whiff of something that has stopped the heart action"

With a queer, creepy feeling over my scalp, I remembered the little flask half full of blood-red liquid which Crochard carried in his pocket.

But he had not meant murder this time. I remembered that Godfrey had said he never killed an adversary. The doctor worked briskly away, and at the end of a few minutes Simmonds' eyes suddenly closed, he drew a long breath, and sat erect. Then his eyes opened and he sat swaying unsteadily and staring amazedly about him

"Best lie down again," said the doctor soothingly "You're a little wobbly yet, you know"

"Where am I?" gasped Simmonds. Then his eyes encountered mine. "Lester!" he said. "Where is he—Pigot? Not . . ."

He stopped short, looked once around at the gleaming marble of the bank, fumbled for something at his side, and fell senseless on the seat.

I have no recollection of how I got back to the Marathon. I suppose I must have walked, but my first remembrance is of finding myself sitting in my favorite chair, pipe in hand. The pipe was lit, so I suppose I must have lighted it mechanically, and I found that I had also mechanically changed into lounging coat. I glanced at my watch and saw that it was nearly 4 o'clock.

The top of my head was burning as though with fever, and I went into the bathroom and turned the cold water on it. The shock did me a world of good, and by the time I had finished a vigorous toweling I felt immensely better. So I returned to my chair and sat down to review the events of the evening; but I found that somehow my brain refused to work, and black circles began to whirl before my eyes again.

"I told Godfrey I couldn't stand any more of this," I muttered, and stumbled into my bedroom, undressed with difficulty, and turned out the light.

Then, as I lay there, staring up into the darkness, a stinging though brought me upright.

Godfrey—where was Godfrey? Was he on the track or Crochard? Was he daring a contest with him? Perhaps, even at this moment.

Scarcely knowing what I did, I groped my way to the telephone and asked for Godfrey's number—hoping against hope absurdly—and at last, to my intense surprise and relief, I heard his voice—not a very amiable voice.

"Hello!" he said.

"Godfrey," I began, "it's Lester He got away."

"Of course he got away You didn't call me out of bed to tell me that, I hope?"

"Then you knew about it?"

"I knew he'd get away"

"When the wagon got to the bank there was nobody inside but Simmonds. Simmonds went along, you know."

"Was he hurt?"

"He was unconscious, but he came around all right."

"That's good—but Crochard wouldn't hurt him. He got away with the jewels, of course?"

"Of course," I assented, surprised that Godfrey should take it so cooly "When you rushed out that way," I added, "I thought maybe you were going after him."

"With him '20 minutes in the lead" I'm no such fool! He got away from me the other day with a start of about half a second."

"I tried to get you," I explained, "as soon as Simmonds told me they were going to look at the cabinet. I 'phoned the office. The city editor said he had sent you out into Westchester"

Godfrey laughed shortly

"It was a wild goose chase," he said, "cooked up by our friend Crochard. But even then, I'd have got back, if we hadn't punctured a tire when we were five miles from anywhere. I knew what was up—but there I was. Oh, he's made fools of us all, Lester I told you he would."

"Then you didn't get my message"

"Yes—they gave it to me when I 'phoned in that the Westchester business was a fake. I rushed for the station, though I knew I'd be too late

"But, Godfrey," I said, "I can't understand, even yet, how he did it. Grady and Simmonds left the boat with Pigot and were with him all evening showing him the sights. How did Crochard get into it? What did he do with Pigot? Where is Pigot?

"He's on the Savoie. I rushed a wireless down to her as soon as I left the station. They made a search and found Pigot bound and gagged under the berth in his stateroom."

I could only gasp.

"And to think I didn't suspect added Godfrey, bitterly. "We stood there and saw that yacht with the French flag sail away from us we saw her put a man aboard the Savoie, we saw that man talking to Pigot . . ."

Yes, I said, breathlessly yes

"Well, that man was Crochard He got Pigot into his stateroom—gave him a whiff of the same stuff he used on Simmonds, no doubt, put him out of the way under the berth, got into his clothes, made up his face, put on a wig—and all that while we were kicking our heels outside waiting for him.

"But it was a tremendous risk," I said. "There were so many people on board who knew Pigot it would have to be a perfect disguise"

"Crochard wouldn't stop for that. But it wasn't much of a risk. None of us had seen Pigot closely, all we had seen of him was the back of his head, and the passengers were all on deck watching the quarantine men. And yet, of course, the disguise was a perfect one Crochard is an artist in that line, and he was, no doubt, thoroughly familiar with Pigot's appearance. He deceived the purser—but the purser wouldn't suspect anything"

"So it was really Crochard . . ."

'But we ought to have suspected. We ought to have suspected everything, questioned everything, I ought to have looked up that visitor and found out what became of him. Instead of which, Crochard put Pigot's papers in his pocket, set his bag outside the state room door, and then came out calmly to meet his dear friends of the press and I stood there talking to him like a little schoolboy—no wonder he thinks I'm a fool!"

'But nobody would have suspected' I gasped. Why, that man is—is . . ."

'A genius' said Godfrey An absolute and unquestioned genius But I knew that all the time and I ought to have been on guard You remember he said he would come today'

"Yes

And you didn't believe it.'

'I can't believe it yet.

"There's one consolation—it will break Grady

"But Godfrey I said "if you could have seen those diamonds those beautiful diamonds and to think he should be able to get away with them right under our noses

"It's pretty bad isn't it? But there's no use crying over spilt milk. Lester," he added in another tone, "I want you to be in your office at noon tomorrow—or rather, today

'All right I promised, "I'll be there"

"Don't fail me There is one act of the comedy still to be played"

"I'll be there I said again. "But I'm afraid the last act will be an anti-climax Look here, Godfrey . . ."

"Now go to bed," he broke in: "you're talking like a somnambulist. Get some sleep Have you arranged for that vacation?"

"Godfrey," I said, "tell me . . ."

"I won't tell you anything. Only I've got one more bomb to explode, Lester, and it's a big one. It will make you jump

I could hear him chuckling to himself

"Good night," he said, and hung up.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE LAST ACT OF THE DRAMA.

I overslept, next morning, so outrageously that it was not until I had got a seat in a subway express that I had time to open my paper. My first glance was for the big head that would tell of the diamond robbery; and then I realized that no morning paper would have a word of it. For the robbery was only a few hours old—and yet, it seemed to me an age had passed since that moment when Godfrey had rushed in upon Grady and me. So the city moved on, as yet blissfully unconscious of the sensation which would be sprung with the first afternoon editions, and over which reporters and artists and photographers were even now, no doubt, laboring. I promised myself a happy half hour in reading Godfrey's story!

It was then that I remembered the appointment for 12 o'clock. The last act of the drama was yet to be staged, Godfrey had said, and he had also spoken of a bomb—a big one! I wondered what it could be. One thing was certain: if Godfrey had prepared it, its explosion would be startling enough!

There were a number of things at the office demanding my attention, and I was so late in getting there and the morning passed so rapidly that when the office boy came in and announced that Mr Grady and Mr Simmonds were outside and wished to see me, I did not, for a moment, connect their visit with Godfrey. Then I looked at my watch, saw that it was five minutes to 12, and realized that the actors were assembling.

"Show them in," I said, and they entered together a minute later.

Grady was evidently much perturbed. His usually florid face was drawn and haggard, his cheeks hung in ugly lines, there were dark pouches under his eyes, and the eyes themselves were bloodshot. I guessed that he had not been to bed; that he had spent the night searching for Crochard—and it was easy enough to see that the search had been unsuccessful. Simmonds, too, was looking rather shaky, and on doubt still felt the after effects of that whiff of poison.

"I'm glad to see you are better, Simmonds," I said, shaking hands with him. "That was a close call."

"It certainly was," Simmonds agreed, sinking into a chair "If I had got a little more of it, I'd never have waked up."

"Do you remember anything about it?"

"Not a thing. One minute we were sitting there talking together as nice as you please—and the next thing I knew was when I woke up in the bank."

'Where's that man Godfrey?" broke in Grady

"He said he'd be here at noon," I said and glanced at my watch. "It's noon now. Were you to meet him him here?"

Grady glanced at me suspiciously.

"Don't you know anything about it?" he asked

'I only know that Godfrey asked me to be here at noon today What's up?"

'Blamed if I know," said Grady, sulkily "I got word from him that I'd better be here, and I thought maybe he might know something. I'm so dizzy over last night's business that I'm running around in circles this morning. But I won't wait for him. He can't make me do that' Come along, Simmonds."

Wait a minute," I broke in, as the outer door opened. "Perhaps that's Godfrey, now"

And so it proved. He came in, accompanied by a man whom I knew to be Arthur Shearrow, chief counsel for the Record

Godfrey nodded all around.

'I think you know Mr. Shearrow," he said, placing on my desk a small leather bag he was carrying. "This is Mr. Lester Mr Shearrow," he added, and we shook hands. "The object of this conference, Lester," he concluded, "is to straighten out certain matters connected with the Michaelovitch diamonds—and incidentally to give the Record the biggest scoop it has had for months"

I ain't here to fix up no scoop for the Record," broke in Grady. "That paper never did treat me right."

It has treated you as well as you deserved," retorted Godfrey. "I'm going to talk plainly to you, Grady. Your goose is cooked. You can't hold on for an hour after last night's get-away becomes public."

We'll see about that'" growled Grady but the fight had evidently been taken out of him.

I understand you wouldn't let Simmonds telephone for me last night?" queried Godfrey.

"That's right—it wasn't none of your business."

"Perhaps not. And yet, if I had been there, the cleverest thief in Paris, if not in the world, would be safe behind those chrome-nickel steel bars at the Twenty-third street station, instead of at liberty to go ahead and rob somebody else."

"You're mighty cocksure," retorted Grady "It's easy to be wise after it's all over."

"Well, I'm not going to argue with you," said Godfrey. "I admit it was a good disguise, and a clever idea—but, just the same, you ought to have seen through it. That's your business."

Grady mopped his face.

(Continued next week.)

The Rules of Warfare.

From the New York Telegram.

Even if the mere possibility of warfare is a blot on modern civilization, the blot is made somewhat less offensive by the fact that certain humane considerations must be observed by both the belligerent armies.

At The Hague convention of 1899 certain rules were promulgated restraining the atrocities of warfare To these rules the civilized nations of the world subscribed, and the United States and Mexico are among the signers.

At the foundation of all these rules lies the general declaration that "the right of belligerents to adopt means of injuring the enemy is not unlimited"

In the general interests of humanity these are the principal things which are forbiddden

To employ poison or poisoned arms.

To kill or wound treacherously individuals belonging to the hostile nation or army

To kill or wound an enemy who having laid down arms, or having no longer means of defense has surrendered at discretion

To declare that no quarter will be given.

To employ arms projectiles or material of a nature to cause superfluous injury

To make improper use of a flag of truce, the national flag or military ensigns and the enemy's uniform as well as the distinctive badges of the Geneva (Red Cross) convention

To destroy or seize the enemy's property, unless such destruction or seizure be imperatively demanded by the necessities of war

To attack or bombard towns, villages, habitations or buildings which are not defended

To punish a spy without trial, even if taken in the act, and a spy who, after rejoining the army to which he belongs is subsequently captured by the enemy must be treated as a prisoner of war and incurs no responsibility for his previous act of espionage.

To compel the population of occupied territory to take part in military operations against its own country

To bring pressure upon the population of occupied territory to take the oath to the hostile power.

Medals as decorations for military service were first issued in England by Charles I in 1642

From Austrian Land.

By annexing Franz Josef Land, Russia increases the number, rather than the extent, of her possessions. The archipelago consists of about sixty islands, almost all of the group being covered with snow-clad glaciers. The Austrian pioneers believed they had discovered continuous land, but their successors, the first of whom was Benjamin Leigh Smith, found that the acquisition was broken up into islands. Both Nansen and the duke of the Abruzzi have explored the group. Now that Austria's arctic territory has been captured, we may hear of the hoisting of the British flag in Kaiser Wilhelm II Land and Luitpold Land, which area's in the Antarctic are German possessions. Wilhelm II Land was discovered by the Gauss expedition, and Luitpold Land, in the Weddell sea, by Lieutenant Filchner

Obvious.

Maud—What makes Carol so disliked?

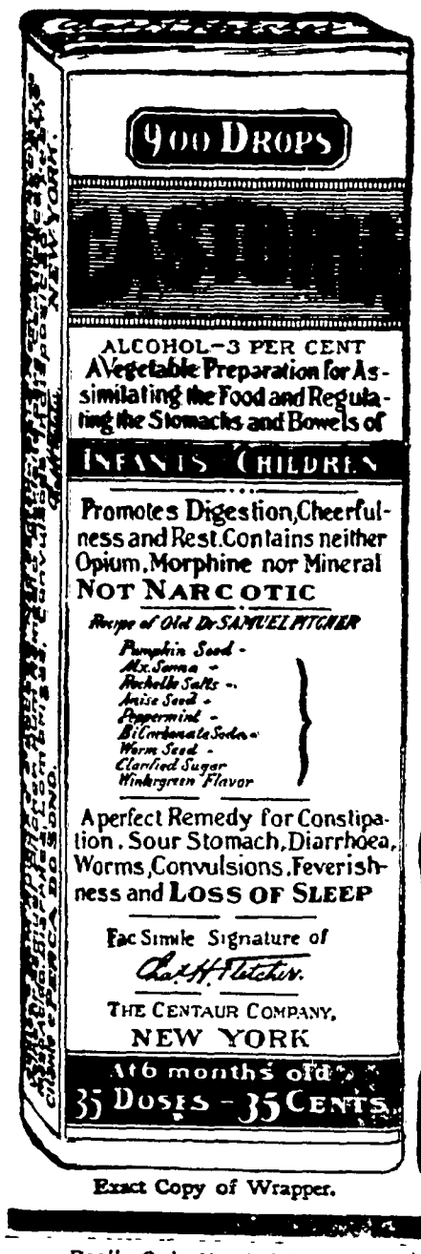
Beatrix—She got the most votes for being popular.—Life.

The silk industry of Italy is particularly affected by the war, exports having vitally increased.

Chas. R. George, E... and Publisher of the "... and Bar Review," 825 ... dido St., New Orleans, ...

Head Catarrh Cured by Peruna. Tried Other Remedies Which Failed.

Having for years be... flicted with Catarrh o... Head I was finally ind... to try Peruna. It eff... a cure. I think Perun... best tonic ever put on ...



900 DROPS
ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral
NOT NARCOTIC
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx. Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP
Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY,
NEW YORK
At 6 months old
35 DOSES - 35 CENTS

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORI...

For Infants and Childr...

Mothers Know T... Genuine Castor...

Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

U... For Ov... Thirty Yea...

CASTORI...

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY

Really Only Needed One.

Recruiting Sergeant—I can't enlist you, my good man, you have only one eye.

Patriotic Scotsman—Hoots' that disna matter. Ye've tae shut ae e e whin yer shootin' onywey.'

The Commuter's Run.

Flatbush—I see it is said "to keep himself in good physical condition, the czar of Russia takes a brisk run of about three-fifths of a mile every morning before breakfast.'

Bensonhurst—If the czar were an ordinary commuter he'd probably take that brisk run after breakfast.

Philadelphia Sisters of Charity next month celebrate the centennial of their advent in that city

Your Liver Is Clogged Up

That's Why You're Tired—Out ... —Have No Appetite.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will put you right in a few days. They do their duty. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion and Sick He...

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL ...

Genuine must bear Signat...

Brent Good...

A Draft—You Catch Cold—Then Follow

Coughs, Cold... Stiff Neck Neuralgia

Especially in the piercing pain of neuralgia or the dull throb of headache is Sloan's Liniment wonderfully relieving. Laid lightly on the part where the pain is felt, it gives at once a feeling of comfort and ease that is most welcome to the overwrought sufferer.

Hear What Others Say:

"There are no Liniments that equal Sloan's. My husband has neuralgia very often, he rubs Sloan's on his face and that is the last of it."—Mrs. V. J Brown, Route 1, Box 121, Halls, Tenn.

"I have used Sloan's Liniment for family use for years and would not be without it. We have raised a family of ten children and have used it for croup and all lung trouble; also, as an antiseptic for wounds, of which children have a great many, it can't be beat. My wife sprained her ankle last summer and it was in bad shape. Sloan's Liniment applied enabled her to be as good as ever in a week. I have used it several times for sprains and rheumatism."—John Newcomb, R. R. No. 2, Keokuk, Iowa.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

It works like magic, relieving Lumbago, Rheumatism, Sprains and Bruises. No rubbing—just lay it on. Price 25c. All dealers. Send four cents in stamps for TRIAL BOTTLE. Sent to any address in the U.S.

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, Inc. Dept. B. Philadelphia, Pa.

...understand that.

...make 'em heavier,

...Co., Chicago, for ... Book Free. Write all ... and they will advise ... Application of the Marine ... Special Case. Your ... (Just Marine) Relieves ... Weak Eyes. Doesn't ... and sells for 25c. ... in Ruby's Eyes for ... Adv.

You Can't Do It.

...tells a story of ... illustrating how quick- ... took advantage of any ... occurrence in the trial of a ... witness was being cross-ex- ... all the vigor John S. Dun- ... Finally he protested. ... "What are you trying to do to me?" ... shouted at Mr. Duncan. ... simply trying to get you to ..." replied Mr. Duncan, in- ...

"...t do it, you can't do it!" ... the witness exultantly. ... terminated the cross-ex- ... Indianapolis News.

...L ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

...Case of Welcome Lake, ... "I suffered with Back- ... Kidney Trouble. My head ... was broken and un- ... refreshing. I felt ... heavy and sleepy ... after meals, was ... always nervous ... and tired, had a ... bitter taste in my ... mouth, was dizzy, ... had floating ... specks before my ... eyes, was always ... thirsty, had a ... constriction across my loins, ... In collecting my thoughts ... troubled with short- ... breath. Dodds Kidney Pills ... me of these complaints. ... Kidney Pills have done their ... done it well. You are at ... to publish this letter for the ... any sufferer who doubts the ... Dodds Kidney Pills."

...Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at ... or Dodds Medicine Co., ... N. Y. Write for Household ... Recipes; also music of ... Anthem. All 3 sent free.

Neutral.

...side do you favor in this ... war?"

...tral."

..." you mean by that?"

...going to tell which side I ...

...y Days.

...you doing?"

...inch."

... Wait five minutes and ...

...rriage a la Mode.

...is their marriage to be sol- ...

..." as it's financed."

...AN WOULD ...OT GIVE UP

...kland Suffering; At ... Help in Lydia ...kham's Vegeta- ... Compound.

... Pa. — "When I started ... E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my ... I did do was by a great ... could not sleep at night and ... very bad in the morning, ... steady headache.

...ing the second bottle I no- ... headache was not so bad, ... and my nerves were ... I continued its use until it ... woman of me, and now I ... realize that I am able to do ... Whenever I know any ... need of a good medicine I ... Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- ... Compound." — Mrs. FRANK ... W. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

...Been Telling Women

...how Lydia E. Pinkham's ... Compound has restored their ... suffering with female ills. ... for the enormous demand ... east to coast. If you are ... any ailment peculiar to ... don't you try Lydia E. ... Vegetable Compound? It ... to do so. — Lydia E. Pink- ... Co., Lynn, Mass.

...ARE SURELY PREVENTED ... Dr. Cutter's Vaccinating ... Pitts. Lets ... Pitts; preferred by ... because they ... other vaccines. Auto- ... Pitts and Instruments. ... Pitts $1.50 ... Pitts 4.50 ... Cutter's best, ... is due to over 15 ... and serums only. ... available, order direct, ... Chicago, Ill.

...TY PTG. CO., NO. 3-1915

Albert, of Belgium.

George Luther Cady in National Magazine.

I have been trying to think of a figure in the pages of history like unto Albert, of Belgium. The world has seen many kings driven from their thrones and country by their own people. The world has seen many kings deposed and driven into exile or carried into slavery or prison, but what king is there who has been driven from his kingdom by a foreign foe and who, on foreign soil, continued to fight at the head of his army which he managed to save? I expect there has been such a one, but just now I do not remember him. This much is certain that there is none more pathetic, and posterity will agree that there has been none more high-souled or more heroic. And some day he will come back. It may be six months or it may be six years, but the day will dawn when Albert will come back king in his own fair kingdom.

The broad platform of the Friedrichstrasse Bahnhof was crowded with eager men and women awaiting the arrival of our train. Porters 45 to 60 years old, hobbled about gathering up the luggage. Red Cross workers crowded up to take charge of the wounded. Other soldiers in every variety of uniform, stood about waiting for trains; some of them in neat gray and brand new outfits with yellow boots that squeaked as they walked and with sprigs of green in their gun barrels. others, just back from the battles in East Prussia, in muddy war worn uniforms which they had fought in and slept in, and traveled in without change; knapsacks on their shoulders rifles at their hips. It was a crowd shifting like quicksilver and all of it smiling. Even the 16-year-old Madchen in charge of the news stand laid down her knitting to watch. Every woman in Germany is knitting for the soldiers, even 7-year-old girls knit as they rock their dollies to sleep.

Among the first to leap down from the train was a tall Prussian on furlough. He had been fighting under Von Hindenburg in the east and Von Kluck in the west. He told me "Such luck" as he expressed it. He bounded to the platform, like an athlete, although I knew he was wounded, stood stiff for a moment, clicked his heels, saluted with that abbreviated mechanical snap of the forearm which is the perfection of impersonal unemotion recognition, then flung his arms out like a little boy about the shoulders of a splendid gray-bearded giant in general's uniform, and kissed him like a girl.

That 19-year-old boy wore over his heart the famous Iron Cross of 1914. The man he kissed wore the Iron Cross of 1870-'71.

Parcel Post Marketing

From the Market Growers Journal.

The postoffice department estimates that 1,000,000,000 packages were mailed by parcel post in 1914. Despite what carpers may say, the system is a success. A vast improvement not only in reduced cost but also in convenience over the old express transportation. But in one important particular parcel post has not been a success. It has not been a means of bringing producer and consumer together. The direct marketing which it had been anticipated, would follow the establishment of the system has not materialized to any great extent. Let it be said to add however, that this failure is not due to any fault in the system for it has been demonstrated that farm products can be transported promptly safely and economically by parcel post. The trouble is that consumers and producers hold conflicting theories as to the purpose of the system and as to prices to be charged for products shipped by parcel post.

The attitude of the consumer on the one hand, seems to be that the system was established for his exclusive benefit and that the farmer should charge no more for his products than he now receives from the middleman. On the other hand the producer seems to imagine that the system is for his exclusive benefit and that the consumer should pay city grocery prices. Both viewpoints are wrong. As the Rural New Yorker well says "There is no reason why a consumer should expect a farmer to sell at retail and charge no more than the wholesalers pay him. Nor can any one give a reason why the consumer should pay the farmer what he now pays to the middleman. As he now buys, the consumer can make some selection and can hold the dealer personally responsible. He can not do this with a distant farmer. There must be a fair compromise between the two. We have found that 75 per cent of what the retailers charge gives us at least 30 per cent more for our goods than we could obtain at wholesale. We have no sympathy with any disposition to 'hold up' the consumer to high retail prices. There must be a fair compromise, or there can be no fair argument for using parcel post."

It is a little more trouble to the farmer to sell through parcel post than in the ordinary way, and it is also somewhat more trouble to the city housewife to market by parcel post. She has to attend to the ordering, the returning of empty containers or market baskets, and the making of remittances. In consideration of these facts the producer must receive a better price than he ordinarily does, and the consumer should secure a better article than ordinarily at the same price or an article of the same quality at a somewhat lower price.

Christianity and War.

Agnes Repplier in the Atlantic.

Christianity and war have walked together down the centuries. How could it be otherwise? We have to reckon with humanity, and humanity is not made over every 100 years. Science has multiplied instruments of destruction, but the heart of the soldier is the same. It is an anachronism, this human heart, just as war is an anachronism, but it still beats. Nothing sacred and dear could have survived upon the earth had men not fought for their women, their homes, their individual honor, and their national life. And while men stay men, they must give up their lives when the hour strikes. How shall they believe that, dying on the frontiers of their invaded countries, or at the gates of their besieged towns, they sin against the law of Christ?

Heroism is good for the soul, and it bears as much practical fruit as lawmaking. It goes further in moulding and developing the stuff of which a great nation is made. "There is a flower of honor, there is a flower of chivalry, there is a flower of religion." So Sainte-Beuve equips the spirit of man, and the soldier, no less than the civilian, cherishes this three-fold bloom. Because he lives dangerously," he feels the need of God. Because his life is forfeit, there is about him the dignity of sacrifice.

Across the Sea.

Across the sea I heard the groans
Of nations in the intervals
Of wind and wave. Their blood and bones
Cried out in torture, crushed by thrones,
And sucked by priestly cannibals.

I dreamed of freedom slowly gained
By martyr meekness, patience, faith,
And lo! an athlete grimly trained
With corded muscles battle-strained,
Shouting it on the fields of death.

I turn me, awe struck, from the sight.
Among the clamoring thousands mute,
I only know that God is right,
And that the children of the light
Shall tread the darkness under foot.

I know that pent fire heaves its crust,
That sultry skies the bolt will form
To smite them clear; that nature must
The balance of her powers adjust,
Though with the earthquake and the storm.

God reigns, and let the earth rejoice!
I bow before His sterner plan,
Dumb are the organs of my choice,
He speaks in battle's stormy voice,
His praise is in the wrath of man.

Yet, surely as He lives, the day
Of peace He promised shall be ours,
To fold the flags of war and lay
Its sword and spear to rust away,
And sow its ghastly fields with flowers.
—Whittier.

Playing the Game Straight.

From the Indianapolis News.

In the sporting slang of the day it is the duty of every man to "play the game straight." Men, if they would escape the contempt of their fellows, must run true. The victory won through a failure to do this will bring them nothing but unhappiness. The man who has a reputation for honesty and integrity can steal, almost with impunity. An unsuspecting society sets no guards about him, being lulled into a false sense of security by its belief in the soundness of the man's character—on which he trades. It is precisely so with the political idealist who lowers himself to the level of the practical politician. He may win an election, but only at the cost of losing his own soul. This was the thought that was in the mind of Lady Macbeth when speaking of her husband, she said what thou wouldst highly

That thou wouldst holily wouldst not play false
And yet wouldst wrongly win.

There are many Macbeths in this world, and perhaps a few who are not on occasion [illegible] more terrible punishment of the shifty politician was ever framed than that which we have from the pen of Tennyson. He asks this question

Those three hundred millions under one sceptre sway
Shall we hold them? shall we loose them, like the swift gleam of the plow

[illegible] from the contempt of the people [illegible] would feel and follow [illegible] and you
[illegible] when you speak [illegible]

Plowmen [illegible] and find and [illegible] would find [illegible] in utter [illegible] mind.

[illegible] looking upward to the [illegible] while the

There [illegible] in the dealings [illegible] with the people. And it [illegible] rather than the fact that some people succeed [illegible] there is always with [illegible] connected make [illegible] seem to [illegible] and levelar [illegible] perished as that of a mar [illegible]

[illegible] to serve the [illegible] with Prema, God for power

The Employer, the Union and the Man.

From the Los Angeles Times.

The effect of the supreme court decision in the anti-labor case under the so-called [illegible] statute of Kansas simply puts the rights of parties employers, employes and [illegible] on a basis of equality. A labor union on a basis or rejects its members on its own conditions. An employer engages a man or discharges them on his own conditions. The worker has the utmost freedom in choosing between the two, but he can not force himself upon either.

If both the employer and the union are agreeable he may adhere to both. If the union makes the condition of membership that [illegible] the employer he must comply. If he does the [illegible] may quit [illegible] the employer [illegible] the employer shall leave [illegible] employer may discharge him.

The rule seems to be absolutely logical [illegible] with the strict demands of fair play. It is not a blow at the reasonable operations of unions. It simply discourages arbitrary power between unionism and the law of the land. power which [illegible] the employer has, [illegible] to house its own assistants.

The decision draws the teeth of the Kansas statute which made it unlawful for any one to coerce or induce another to make an agreement not to belong to a labor union as a condition of employment. Fourteen states altogether have similar laws, so the decision will have a potentially sweeping effect. It must be remembered however that the extreme position assumed by the St. Louis & San Francisco railway of South Dakota in this case is very unusual, being the reversed case of the closed. The attitude of the employer who [illegible] a [illegible] of unionism is usually in favor of the open shop.

This the unions habitually combat by the exaction or exclusion of men who are willing to work with non-unionists. According to the reasoning of Justice Pitney such action would seem to be prohibited from this time forward.

Thus, perhaps, the most important effect of the present decision may be in the long run, to promote by protecting the open shop idea rather than to encourage the extreme policy of exclusion on the employer's part. In any case this decision is undoubtedly a great victory for the just cause of industrial fairness.

Japanese Demands Improbable.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

There are three reasons why it may be doubted that Japan has made exorbitant demands upon China as reported from Pekin. First, Japan is far too astute to demand concessions far in excess of her ability to handle. Second Japan is not likely to blunder into claiming her spoils of victory before the war is over. Third, Japan knows that even the nations that have accepted her help in the east would never agree to what is tantamount to an exclusive Japanese sphere of influence in China.

Taking the more demand alone shows the improbability of all. Mining privileges in Shantung and Fukien province, in Manchuria, eastern Mongolia and the Yang-tse valley. Mining concessions in Shantung would give Japan more than she could possibly use. Shantung province is said to contain enough coal to last the entire world 400 years at the present rate of consumption. It is absolutely certain that China would never concede to Japan the resources of the Yang-tse valley which are now being vigorously and successfully operated by Chinese companies. And Manchuria, Mongolia and Fukien are so remote that they would be worthless considered as Shantung were actually.

A Thorough Case.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Every school room is supposed to have its romancer or booster.

There was a mild epidemic of mumps in an uptown school not long ago and a teacher asked the pupils in her room how many remembered having the disease.

A few remembered it but most of them had never had it.

Then the romancer attracted the teacher's attention.

I get the mumps, teachers, he smilingly said. "I get it around my face, so. And I get one by each eye—and one under my neck."

The Difference.

From the Western Mail.

A story is told of an Irish sailor who decided to walk from Newport to Cardiff. He met a cart driver and asked:

"How far is it from Newport to Cardiff?"

Twelve miles, mister," was the reply.

"Thankee," said Pat. "An' how far is it from Cardiff to Newport?"

Driver. "Didn't I tell you how far it was from Newport to Cardiff? Do you suppose it is any farther the other way back?"

Irishman. "Sure, and I don't know. I know it is a great deal farther from New Year's day to Christmas than from Christmas to New Year's day."

Father's Inconsistency.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

When mother has a neighbor woman in the house and they talk about the styles for a few minutes, Father gets mad and indignates about women being so gabby. Then father slams the door and goes up to the Dutchman's at the corner and occupies four solid hours running the government, fortifying the Panama canal, freeing Ireland, whipping Japan, settling the war in Europe trying the Thaw case and killing the Federal league, with a few male rummies as his audience.

LABOR WILL FIGHT PLAGUE

Plans Made for Co-Operation With National Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis.

A campaign for closer co-operation with labor unions and other groups of working men has recently been launched by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

A committee has been appointed with Dr. Theodore B. Sachs, president of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, as chairman, to formulate plans for immediate and future action. Other members of the committee are Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, Washington; George W. Perkins, secretary of the International Cigar Makers' union, Chicago; John Mitchell of the New York State Compensation commission, New York; Austin B. Garretson, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Dr. William Charles White, medical director of the Tuberculosis league of Pittsburgh, and Dr. David R. Lyman, superintendent of the Gaylord Farms sanatorium, Wallingford, Conn.

As the first step in the campaign a special health bulletin has been prepared for the labor papers and will be sent out monthly in co-operation with members of the International Labor Press association.

No Explanation Needed.

The lady jury was out longer than the importance of the case would warrant.

The judge grew impatient.

"What's the trouble in there?" he said to the bailiff.

Hold on," cried the judge. "Tell 'em if there's any knotty points about the case that bothers them they should appeal to me."

"Yes, your honor."

The bailiff goes to the door of the jury room and returns.

Well?"

They ain't got to the case yet, your honor—they're still discussin' th' plaintiff's clothes."

Needless Extravagance.

"Is there any artistic appreciation in this town?"

"Yes, but only to a limited extent."

"What do you mean by that?"

Any woman who pays more than $1.50 for a framed picture is apt to get herself talked about."

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS WHEN BLADDER BOTHERS

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids—Splendid for the System.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

Like the Implication.

Some men like to be considered tightwads because of the implication that they have money when they haven't.—Houston Post.

DISTRESSING PIMPLES

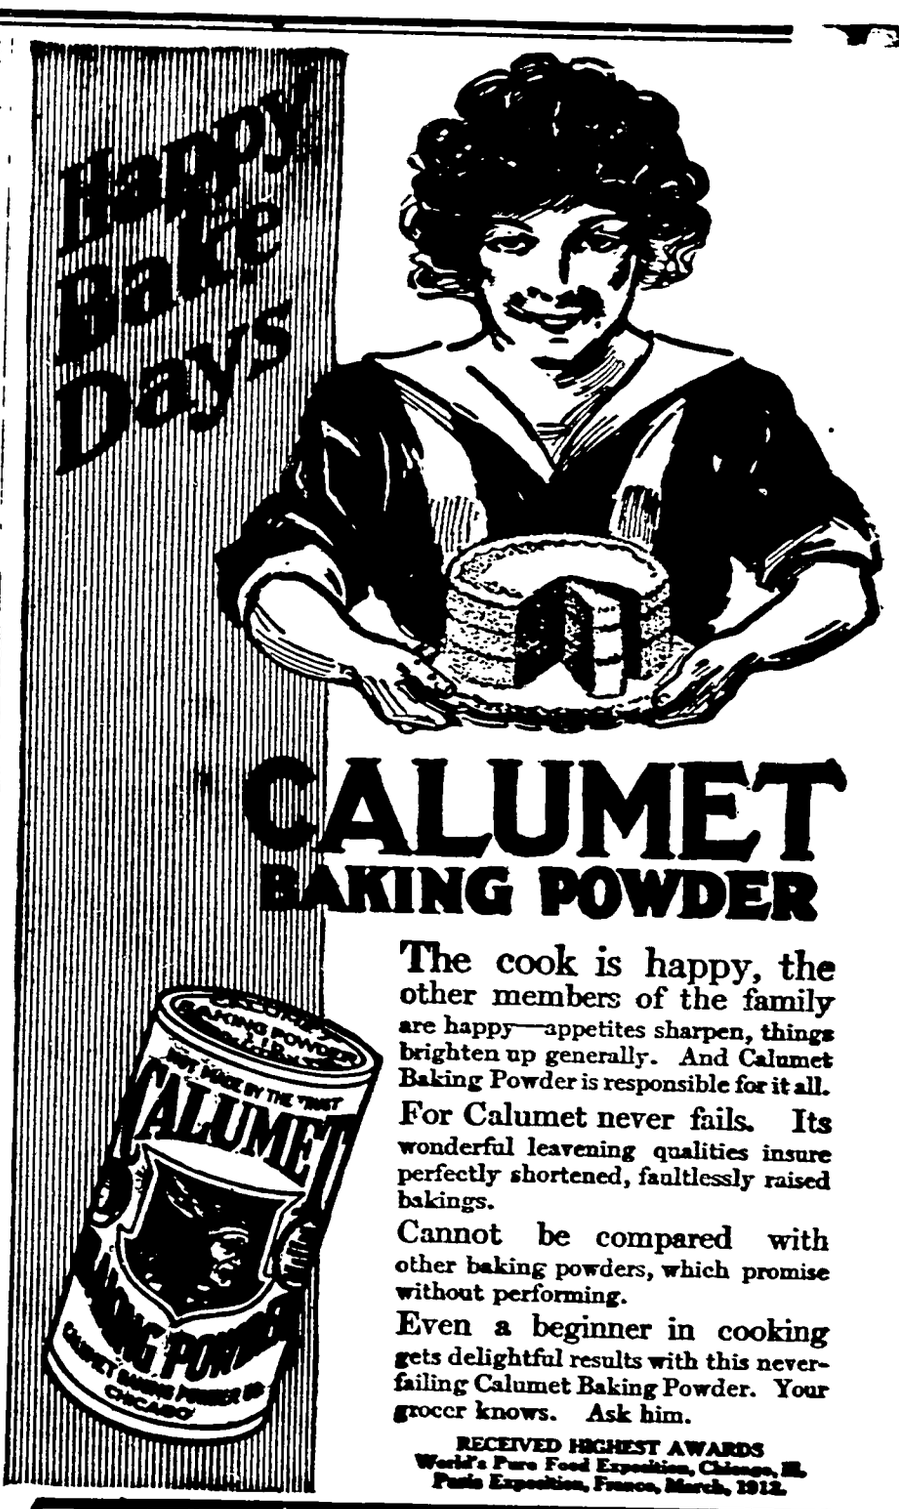
Removed by Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trial Free.

Smear them with the Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. Repeat on rising and retiring. These fragrant supercreamy emollients do much for the skin, and do it quickly.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Worth-While Quotations.

Start some kind word on its travels and do it now; there is no telling when the good it will accomplish will be.—Selected.



The cook is happy, the other members of the family are happy—appetites sharpen, things brighten up generally. And Calumet Baking Powder is responsible for it all.

For Calumet never fails. Its wonderful leavening qualities insure perfectly shortened, faultlessly raised bakings.

Cannot be compared with other baking powders, which promise without performing.

Even a beginner in cooking gets delightful results with this never-failing Calumet Baking Powder. Your grocer knows. Ask him.

RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARDS
World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Ill.
Paris Exposition, France, March, 1912.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-can baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

Canada is Calling You to her Rich Wheat Lands

She extends to Americans a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help to feed the world by tilling some of her soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think what you can make with wheat around $1 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. Military service is not compulsory in Canada but there is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.;
W. V. Bennett, 220-17th St., Room 4, Fee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and H. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents.

Sisterly Love.

He—Maud must be a sensitive girl. She changes color so often.

She—That's because she finds it so hard to match her natural complexion.

Stubborn Colds and irritated Bronchial Tubes are easily relieved by Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops—5c at Druggists.

It is stated that no city in the world produces newspapers in such a variety of languages as New York.

A wise man is known by the company he avoids.

Not Likely.

She—They say the new hats and gowns are to be of moderate size.

He—I hope the bills will match.

Give some people their pick and they'll proceed to pick flaws.

CORN-OATS-RYE

Wisconsin yields on top—Salzer's specialties helped do it. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE.
John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

IRRIGATED Alfalfa Land, $35 to $55, including water rights. Worth double this. Morris Land Co., Lawrence, Kansas.

If you want a wall board that will give you the best service at the lowest cost—one that keeps the rooms warmer in winter and cooler in summer—ask your dealer about

Certain-teed

Wall Board

Tests made on six high grade Wall Boards show that Certain-teed is the strongest and that it resists dampness and water better than any other Wall Board.

It can be used in houses, offices, factories, etc. Permanent and temporary booths can be quickly and inexpensively built with Certain-teed Wall Board. It can be applied by any careful workman who follows directions.

Our Certain-teed roofings are known and have made good all over the world.

For sale by dealers everywhere, at reasonable prices

General Roofing Mfg. Company

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Seattle, London, Hamburg, Sydney

At each of our big mills we make the following products:

Asphalt Roofings
Slate-Surfaced Shingles
Asphalt Felts
Deadening Felt
Tarred Felts
Building Papers
Insulating Papers
Wall Boards
Plastic Roofing Cement
Asphalt Cement
Roof Coating
Metal Paints
Out-door Paints
Shingle Stains
Refined Coal Tar
Tar Coating

BIG MONEY IN ONIONS!!

In 1914 an acre Salzer's Cabbage brought $250; an acre Onions, $500.
Special Introduction Collection for 13c

When Gideon marshalled his hosts at Kedron, he selected but 300 QUALITY men to win his great victory. So Salzer for forty-one years has been selecting, improving and originating new Vegetable varieties, until to-day his list contains only the cream, the very best! Only QUALITY SEEDS! We do want you to test them and hence gladly send you, for 13c postage, our big Seed Catalogue free, with one generous package each:

Phila. First Early Cabbage; May 1st Carrot; Early Cucumber;
All Summer Long Lettuce; A Mixture of Onions; Juicy Radish.

All six packages for but 13c, contains enough seed to supply you with rich, juicy vegetables, and lots and lots of them, during the early spring and summer.

Read the Red River Potato King's Romance in Salzer's Catalogue.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED Co. BOX 706, LA CROSSE, WIS.

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHUEMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19 KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

Henry Griewe was a Garner visitor, Thursday.

C. W. Wiles was a Garner visitor, Saturday.

A. D. Gimer was a Garner visitor, Wednesday.

C. L. Blumer transacted business at Garner, Wednesday.

Mrs. John Gruetzmacher visited Garner relatives, Friday.

W. R. Bloom was trasacting business at Garner, Saturday.

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale. Mrs. G. O. Miner.

C. L. Blumer went to Sheffield, today, on a business mission.

Miss Emma Sampson is the new clerk at the J. N. Day store.

Pure Bred Hampshire Boar for sale at right price. G. O. Miner.

Pure; cleaned timothy seed for sale. Wm. Baack.

Philip Gorlow of the Times force spent Sunday with Hayfield friends.

FOR SALE—1 good young milk cow and five steers. H. J. Bailey.

Mrs. George Schroeder had the misfortune to step on a nail, Wednesday.

Mrs. H. E. Bonwell visited at the Ahrenkiel home in Goodell, Wednesday

Paul Miner returned to Maron City, Tuesday, where he is attending business college.

A Kirkwood went to Ringsted, Tuesday for a short visit with his son, W. M. and family

George Metzgar of Fillmore county, Nebraska, is expected here for a visit with his brother, Henry.

J. A. Anderson of Grinell, arrived Friday, for a visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dr. Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schlichting are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy at their home since, Monday.

FOR SALE—3 Red Bulls ready for service in the spring, $65. to $75. Gibbs Bros.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place. Chas. F. Busch

I am now ready to do all kinds of violin repairing and organ cleaning. 4tp H. F. Ludeke.

Miss Francis Ruka came up from Belmond, Wednesday, for a visit with her sister, Mrs. S. J. Kirkwood.

Chas. Busch is now out and aronnd again after a forced two weeks vacation on account of severely spraining his back.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate.—J. P. Larsen & Sons.

Mrs. Fronia Davis and child of Mason City, are here for a short visit at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Freie.

Mrs. A. Kirkwood departed Wednesday for Constableville, New York, for a two months visit at the home of her mother and other relatives.

Mrs. Ella Ortmeyer of Fort Dodge arrived today for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. Henry Griewe, and other relatives and friends.

Oscar Swanson is away attending Pure Bred Chester White sales at New Hampton and Germania. He expects to purchase some additions for his herd while away.

FOR SALE—5 h.p. Stickney gas engine with clutch pulley, on old truck. It is practically new and is guaranteed for 10 years. $130 cash or bankable note. Karl Kraus.

A. Kirkwood & Son have put in a fine steel ceiling and are making many more improvements about their place and when finished will certainly present a very neat appearance.

The following parties shipped stock Saturday evening Wm. Lau, car of cattle; Joe Johnson, car of cattle; W. R. Bloom, two cars of hogs, and A. C. Lau & Son, two car of hogs.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician,
Garner, Ia.

Miss Ida Ludeke cleared the handsome sum of $39.00 at her basket social in the Stille school west of town last Friday evening. The money will be used to purchase a bell and other equipment for the school.

C. F. Beir went to St. Paul, Saturday, for an over Sunday visit with his wife's parents. Mrs. Bier who had been up there for a week visiting her parents and also purchasing a millinery stock, accompanied him home.

When you want it you get it.
When you don't want it you don't get it, and don't you forget it at the North elevator.
Yours for business,
Grain, Coal and Live Stock,
A. C. Lau & Son.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

Business is good, bull sales will continue until March 1st at the same prices but will raise after March 1st. We now average one sale a day, Take our advice and buy a bull while the sale is on and save money.
Gibbs Bros.

FOR SALE—One 1914 Ford Touring car fully guaranteed, one pair of mules 3 years old in May, 9 mule-foot hogs, 6 barrows and 3 sows, weight about 100 lbs. each. Must sell at once. Cal. Newman,
Phone 106, Klemme, Iowa.

We were in error last week when we stated that Mrs. C. F Bier would form a partnership with Miss Hulda Johnson in the millinery business. Mrs. Bier will be the sole owner and will be ready for business in the near future.

B. F. Atherton is loading a car of stock, etc, for shipment to Burt, where this estimable family will move and make their future home. They have a large circle of friends in this community who regret very much to see them leave but wish them well in their new location.

R. M. Peterson of Nevada, arrived Tuesday, to look after his farm which is rented by A. Walkup, Just pefore leaving home Mr. Peterson injured his ankle but did not think it serious but upon arriving here it was causing him so much grief that he went to a doctor who discovered that he had broken it He is now navigating around with the aid of crutches.

I have a splendid improved level half section 3½ miles from Barton that I offer at only $30. per acre—It's a bargain. Why buy $200. per acre land when you can get this good North Dakota farm at $30. per acre? It is bound to more than double in price quickly and will make you a fine home and a good profit. Write for particulars, address C. H. Gillmore, Barton, N. Dak.

There was great rejoicing on Rockefeller Avenue, Wednesday, when it was made known that an heir was born to the Kluckhohn throne, At noon that day the stork presented to Mr, and Mrs. F. W. Kluckhohn a bouncing baby boy and it is needless to say that there is great rejoicing. May the young man grow to be as handsome as his mother and as good natured as his father.

Dr. L. G. Herbert, lecturer, is the next number of the lecture course and will appear at the opera house next Monday evening, January 22nd. He comes with a message that you will enjoy and should be greeted by a packed house. Byron, New York, says: "Herbert has been here three times and we want him thirty times more." Do not miss hearing this scholarly man. It will do you good.

SURPRISE PARTY

The Royal Neighbors with their husbands tendered Mr. and Mrs. Cal Newman a farewell party at the opera house, Wednesday evening. The Newman family will soon leave for their new home at Sac Center, Minneasota, where they have purchased a farm. They have lived in this vicinity the past fifteen years and have made many friends who sorely regret to see them leave but who will wish them well in their new location and commend them to the people of that vicinity.

HERD INFECTED

Dr. Thomas was recently called north of town to examine a couple of herds of stock which have been sick for some time and several of the animals having died. The herds had been examined by another veterinary and the illness pronounced "corn stalk" disease, but Dr. Thomas' examination revealed the fact that the herds were infested with rabies but in order to be absolutely sure that his diagnosis was correct he sent a head of one of the animals which had died to the state veterinary who applied him, and an assistant state veterinary will be here soon to assist Dr. Thomas in preventing any further spread of the disease. The parties concerned can feel thankful that they called in Dr. Thomas as they could have easily became infected with the dread disease!

KAHLER-VELAU

Earl Kahler and Lillian Velau were united in marriage on Thursday morning at 8:00 oclock, February, 18, in the German M. E. parsonage by Rev. W. J. Witter. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. August Kahler of German Township and is a worthy and respectful young man. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Velau of Klemme and is also favorably known by her many friends as an ambitious and worthy young lady. They have left for a honeymoon trip to Sioux Falls, South Dakota, wher they will visit friends and relatives. They will make their home on the farm in German Township. May prosperity follow them through their lifes journey.

ELL CENTER

Joe Johnson shipped a car load cattle, Sunday.

Herman Thrun hauled his hogs to Klemme, Saturday,

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rosendahl and family spent Sunday in Garner, visiting with Mrs. Rosendahl's parents.

Mrs. J. F. Stokesbary and Mrs. Herman Barz visited the school in district No. 4, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Bert Auchenpaugh returned Friday, from Ventura, where she has been helping care for her father, Mr. Kastner who is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barz entertained a few of their neighbors Friday evening. A pleasant, social evening was enjoyed by all present. At 12:00 oclock elegant refreshments were served after which the guests departed, voting Mr. and Mrs. Barz royal entertainers.

AVERY CENTER

Miss Walker was visiting at Cornelia, this week.

Harry Behringer is staying at the W. L. Sherwood home this week.

Shirley Griggs returned to Garner, Wednesday.

A surprise party was given at the Bachman home. Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Nettie's birthday.

Mrs. H Ihde went to Postville, Friday evening, to attend her father's funeral.

Bud Brugman was at Belmond, between trains, Saturday

Nelie Griggs was at Meservey, Friday and Saturday of last week

Martin Kearney is visiting in this vicinity, at present.

B. F Atherton and son, Monte were at Garner, Friday.

GOODELL

Mrs. Larson from Cedar Rapids is here visiting Mrs. John Ahrenkiel.

Roscoe Wiles had a runaway Monday night. Fortunately the only damage done was the breaking up of his sleigh.

Bob Clark and Ray Colland from Klemme were visitors here Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs A. Schmalle from Garner were visiting relatives here Wednesday.

Ted Christie and Steve Hamilton were at Belmond on business, Monday.

Miss Mary Costello was called home Wednesday on account of the serious illness of her mother.

A sleigh load of our young people went to Belmond, Monday evening to attend a play, and several went to Kanawha Thursday night to attend the High School entertainment.

There will be a basket social in the Hickory Grove school, Friday February, 19.

Frank and Max Church from Garner visited relatives here over Sunday.

Miss Mamie White entertained the teachers at a 5 oclock dinner Thursday evening.

Very Old Custom.

The custom of saying "God bless you" to a person when he sneezes originated among the ancients, who, fearing danger from it, after sneezing made a short prayer to the gods, as "Jupiter help me." The custom is mentioned by Homer, the Jewish rabbis and others. Polydore Vergil says it took its rise at the time of the plague in 558, when the infected fell dead, sneezing, though apparently in health.

Ingenious Smuggling Trick.

The smuggler's ingenuity is inexhaustible, as M. Gernez, a customs inspector at the frontier station of Feignies, France, has recently discovered. He was inspecting a goods train, one of the wagons of which was filled with sacks of potatoes, when his suspicions were aroused, and on taking out some of the supposed tubers he found that they were packets of tobacco cleverly done up in wrappers closely imitating potato skins.

Teaches Basket Making.

Caleb Chapman, a gipsy, acts as instructor to a basket making class at Busbridge, near Godalming, England, which has been established to revive a village industry, and is attended by thirty-four men and women. Chapman never takes off his hat while teaching, and sits on a chair without a back. He lives in a tent at Forest Green, and walks thirteen miles to Busbridge every week to attend to his class.

Red Tape.

Red Tape is the bulwark of inferior minds. Language is said to conceal thought; red tape paralyzes action. Politicians use red tape to create offices; without it, government would be so simple that everybody would understand it. If you would accomplish big results, look not upon the tape when it is red.—Life.

Common Ground.

It makes mighty little difference, says the Boston Transcript, what altitude records aviators break, they're all planted at a uniform level.

Beginning February 6th

You will find some splendid values in

Winter Blankets

at Prices that will Surprise You

at the

General Merchandise Store

of

J. N. DAY

KLEMME DRAY LINE
C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR
A share of your patronage is solicited.
All work attended to promptly and carefully.
Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS
GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today. A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay. Demand "5-Drops." Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Newark, Ohio, and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent prepaid.

Daily Good.

We are too apt to underrate the moral quality of a man's regular vocation, his daily task, his business to look somewhere apart from this for his opportunity for achieving character and doing good. But there is nothing else that is so determinative of a man's character, nothing else that so furnishes hands for his beneficence and feet to run his errands of good will.—John W. Chadwick.

Thatched Huts Are of the Past.

The disappearance of the picturesque roofs of Samoan huts, is attributed to the increasing wealth of the natives and the partial destruction by insects of the wild sugar cane used for thatch. Corrugated iron is taking the place of the old material.

Californi
This Winte
Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it lovelier and more interesting than ever. Don't miss this great event—lifetime opportunity. Panama-California Exposition at San Diego, the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, and don't miss opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.
The "Golden State Limited," finest transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.
Other fast trains daily, with choice of routes—go one way, return another.
Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions
Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment
Rock Island
For tickets, reservations and information see
T. F. Mitchell, Agent

We Print Calling Cards

...Newspaper
...Progressive
...Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 25 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

...in your banking business with, you can feel assured of ...and faithful service in every department. Our earned Surplus of $15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy.

"THE PRUDENT" YOUNG MAN BANKED HIS MONEY AND BECAME A PARTNER IN THE BUSINESS.

Such a thing as not "having a chance" is all BOSH Every man has a chance if he will only TAKE the chance

Older men with lots of MONEY are looking for younger men with a little money whym they would like to take into PARTMERSHIPS

Nothing can hold down a man with CHARACTER and MONEY. BANKING your money will build your character. Do it and have BOTH.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 6 per cent interest on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00 |

Can you beat it?

...elp Those Sick Kidneys

...Have your kidneys had your work, your sleep, or your leisure ...making, moisture pains in the region of the kidneys?

...Has your condition anything more unpleasant and annoying?

...Perhaps you, yourself believe it wasn't serious ...Didn't think. When the kidneys give you warning of ...help them in every way—help them ...cannot ...they are ...you are ...hours. It's

All you need to do is take

...Stone Root Compound

...in that assertion—this preparation is ...effective preparations we have and we are ...Make us prove it. If we ...Regular $1.00 the bottle.

...and many things that ...you'll find here. Come to us first and ...

G. A. Pabst

...TOR MISSMAN
SURGEON

...Phone No. 1105
...Phone No. 1108
Electrical Treatments
Glasses Fitted
...Tested

...Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

Receive Over $30.

36 Creamery Patrons Receive Over that Amount In January

Below we print a list of those who drew checks of $30.00 and over, for the month of January, from the Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Co. We would like to see more farmers get in this dairy class and see who will be at the top of the list at the end of this month.

E.J Arnold	$80.03
Geo Albres	77.84
A C. Carpenter	75.95
W. C Schmidt	71.29
W. H Brooks	62 50
V A. Cook	61.36
A J. Sthoenwetter	58.70
J J. Stille	51.63
C. Medaus	43.23
J E. Stille	42 61
J H Watermiller	42 74
W Nuehring	42.37
B Stadtlander	42 28
H Hillenga	42.02
G O. Miner	41.11
H. Schlichting	40.83
R W Elder	40.08
Ed Schaper	39.84
Geo Schaper	39 07
Fred Gates	38 59
Fred Wacker	38 43
Lew Griffin	38 20
John Rust	36.27
L E Avery	36.06
John Mull	35.60
N G Moberly	35.10
Geo Platt	33 71
Geo Schoenwetter	33.42
O H Lemke	33.51
John Heginger	31.13
G A Goll	31 18
W L Sherwood	31 01
H L Suckow	31 00
A. Batz	30 92
A Reiffenstein	30 56
W X Smith	30.32

Revenue Law--Overdrafts

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue under date of November 9, 1914, publishes a digest of rulings (T D 2051) applicable to the Emergency Law of October 22, 1914, in which he cites the following ruling for the information and guidance of all concerned

Checks used as promisory notes are an acknowledgment of a debt and must be stamped accordingly—that is, at the rate of 2 cents per $100, or fraction thereof— Vol 2, Treas Dec. (1898), No 2046

Under this decision, where checks are issued in excess of bank balance, thus creating an overdraft, the checks which creates such overdraft must be stamped at the rate of 2 cents per $100 or fraction thereof, and all subsequent checks must be similary stamped until the amount is made good.

An overdraft, even though secured by collateral, is only another name for a loan, and evasions of the law through such device cannot be permitted, In like manner taking for credit and holding until maturity a post-dated check is in fact a loan, and should be treated accordingly.

We are advised that under a recent ruling of the Banking dispestments that all banks are required to discontinue the practise of allowing customers to over draw their accounts and all officers and employees will hereafter be instructed not to pay or ...to the element of ... stop check of such depositor when there are not sufficient funds on deposit to the credit of the drawer of the check to meet the same.

COMMON SENSE

Longfellow could take a worthless piece of paper and write a poem on it and make it worth $65,000—that's genius. There are some men who could write a few words on a piece of paper and make it worth $5,000,000—that's capital, The United States can take an ounce and a quarter of gold and make it worth $20—that's money. A merchant can take material worth $5 and make it into watchsprings worth $1,000—that's skill. There is a man in Chicago who can take a fifty cent piece of canvas, paint a picture on it, and make it worth $1,000—that's art. A Greek can take an article worth 75 cents and sell it for $1—that's business. A woman could purchase a hat for 75 cents but prefers one worth $27—that's foolishness. A ditch digger handles several tons of earth for $2.50 a day—that's labor. The author of this can write a check for $9,000,000, but it wouldn't be worth a dime—that's rough. There are people who will tell you that other papers are as good as this—that's nerve, Take $1.50 and get a year's subscription to the Times—that's common sense.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Philadelphia, Pa.—B. F. Magnin, Ninth street and Ridge Ave., heard a noise in his back yard. He investigated and found his pet cat in a fight with a two pound snapping turtle. The cat was uninjured.

New York.—Leslie Wilder recieved a check for $2250 legacy for which he had been fighting for thirteen years. The excitement was so great that he dropped dead with the check in his hand.

Allentown, Pa.—Because work was slack, Francis D. Baer, grave digger, committed suicide by inhaling gas.

Los Angeles, Calif.—A complete skeleton of a cave bear that is said to be 200,000 years old was found recently in an excavation near here.

New York —An offer of $15 a quart for blood for transfusion caused a panic in a bread line here. Thirty men were accepted by the physicians making the offer.

New York.—On board the yacht with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who with their two sons, Alfred and George are on an eight weeks cruise to Califoraia, by way of the Panama canal, is a cow to furnish fresh milk for the party and especially for the youngsters of the family.

Grayville, Ill.—A moral wave has struck here and as a result the girls in the high school basketball team no longer wear bloomers, but "make the baskets" in full skirts. The school board notified the girls they could not use the name of their school in their games so long as they wore bloomers.

ELL CENTER

Miss May Flint spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. James Gilbert.

Hod Lowhorn and family spent Sunday at the J F. Stokesbary home.

Herman Stroemer returned Saturday from Chicago where he had been with a car load of stock.

Frank Warner and family have been sick with colds for some time and are under the doctor's care.

Howard Yohn of Thief River Falls Minn., was an over Sunday visitor with his brother, Elmer Yohn, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Stokesbary of Corwith who have been spending a few days with his parents returned to their home, Tuesday.

Chris Anderson is moving this week to the Wittenberg farm.

Albert Johnson is moving this week to the Knoop farm two miles west of Ventura. They have lived in this neighborhood for four years, during which time they have made many friends whose good wishes go with them to their new home.

Clarence Groesbeck will move on to the Groesbeck farm vacated by Albert Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs Hod Lowhorn entertained Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Stokesbary. After a pleasant social evening an elegant supper was served to which all did justice.

The young people took advantage of Frank Meier's hospitality last Saturday evening, meeting at his home to spend a few social hours. Instrumental music during the ... absence of the sick at Frank's home. Madames Johnson and Chadwick assisted him in serving a fine lunch.

CORWITH

Mrs. Harry Boswell from Klemme, visited at the Schlichtl home here, Wednesday.

Misses Josephine and Mamie White went to Klemme, Friday to visit their A. R. White who is still on sick list.

Prof. C. H. Thompson went to Miller, Friday to visit his parents.

John Swahl from near Klemme was here on business Monday.

Mrs. Lorena Hamm, Mrs. Clint Avery and daughter returned from ... Monday morning.

Mrs. Jay Robinson from Belmond is here visiting her parents.

Chas. Swanson was at Belmond on business, Friday.

The sad news reached here Thursday from Wisconsin that Mrs. James Miller had died at her home there. The deceased lived here a number of years ago and had a host of friends who mourn her untimely departure.

Mrs. Archie Church and two children accompanied by Miss Jennie Christie went to Klemme, Saturday, to visit the former's relatives over Sunday.

¶ George Washington will always live in the memory of man as the "Father of Our Country."

¶ His gallant efforts are the most glittering pages of in our history. He was an honest, prudent man of unquestionable character and his fortitude and determination made our prosperity possible. Saving money, industry and honesty builds men of character and the Nation is proud of her sons who labor and save.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath, Shingles,
Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds,
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Great Majestic Show Sale

Are you interested in owning the best range made? If you are, do not fail to attend the special sale and demonstration at our store.

Monday, March 8th to Sat. the 13th

A special representative from the factory will be here at that time and will explain to all those and others present many important points of the range. Come, if you can, if you don't or not.

FREE with each stove ... will give an 8x10 ... picture

DON'T PAY CASH FOR A STOVE, USE OUR EASY TERMS

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Children's Day, Tuesday, March 9th 2:00 to 5:00 p. m.

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

Victor Hugo was born in Besancon, France, in 1802. He was the son of a colonel in the French army, and received a classical education. After the revolution of 1830 his plays of "Marion de Lorme" and "The King Amuses Himself," were performed at the Theater Francais. He was created by Louis Philippe a peer of France, with the title of viscount, but he arose above this honor in being the author of "Les Miserables." He opposed Napoleon III, and was banished from France, but he returned on the fall of the empire. He died in Paris in 1885, and was buried in the Pantheon

Cologne's toilet water industry, which is being so seriously affected by the war, was established in the beginning of the 17th century The inventors of toilet water (eau-de-Cologne) were Paul Feminis and Maria Clementine, a Catholic nun. They began on a small scale, with few persons employed whom they did not initiate into the secrets of the whole process, the last and most important mixture being made by the inventors themselves. Paul Feminis left the secret with the Farina family, while the nun bequeathed the secret to one Peter Schaeben, who had been her assistant for many years.

Michigan is said to have the deepest mines in the world, but ore is being mined at the depth of 5,000 feet in the Catlin shaft, the deepest gold mine of the Witwatersrand in South Africa. Considering the small and uniform increase in temperatures in this shaft and the fact that there are apparently no mechanical barriers, it is believed that mining can be carried on at a profit at a depth as great as 8,000

Some of the Canadian regiment brought their pets to England with them In front of one detachment during the march through Plymouth was a young trooper with the neck and shoulders of a wrestler, and on his shoulder, playing with his ear, was a tame white rat Another battalion intends to take to the front a small black bear captured in the Canadian woods.

The wonderful caves of Bellamar, Cuba, to the east of Havana, attract the attention of the ambitious tourist They are on a plateau as level as a table top which presents no signs of the existence of such caves After descending into the earth however, a picture unfolds itself Then come many passages, and at last the great "Gothic temple" 250 feet long and 80 feet wide.

It is reported that the British war office has received from his highness the Aga Kahn, an application to be allowed to serve as a private in the Indian contingent for the front. His highness is the head of the Khoja Mohammedans, and holds sway over 50,000,000 of the inhabitants of India. He is about 30 years of age

Of the 107 ranking officers of the Pennsylvania railroad system, 163—including the president—started at the bottom, sweeping out cars, carrying water for laborers and other like jobs of the very commonest kind One hundred and forty-two of the 170 have been in the service more than 20 years

According to a notice issued at Lowestoft, England by the captain in charge of the naval base a reward not exceeding £1,000 will be paid to fishermen for information which leads to the actual capture or destruction of an enemy's vessel down to and including a mine layer or submarine

King George and Queen Mary, of England did not use the state coach and the cream colored horses on the occasion of the opening of parliament. This departure from the usual custom was rendered necessary by the absence at the front of 89 of the royal servants.

Crown Princess Cecilie of Germany no longer claims as her chum her cousin, Grand Duchess Olga of Russia, or as her little friend, her cousin, Princess Mary, of England War has severed the ties that bound in friendship most of the royal folk of Europe.

A Greek law of July 30, 1914, prohibits the importation, manufacture and sale of certain weapons, including stilettos, daggers and spring or double edged knives. The importation of firearms of all kinds without government permission is likewise prohibited.

About 350 English barristers are now serving in the British army Arrangements have been made by the bar council by which briefs intended for them will be attended to by substitutes, so that their practice will not suffer in their absence

On the Minnesota farms says a careful statistician speaking of the fecundity of the different races in America only one Polish-American wife out of 13, and one English-American wife out of 12 have no children.

In the schools of Australia boxing has been introduced as regular exercise for school boys. In Sydney 107 boys responded to the call for those desiring it and in Melbourne the plan has proved even more successful

Starlings are not liked in Australia, according to reports from the American consul at Melbourne Besides being destructive to fruit they are charged with turning valuable insect eating birds out of their nests.

A ton of water from the Atlantic ocean when evaporated yields 81 pounds of salt a ton of Pacific water, 79 pounds a ton of Arctic or Antarctic water 86 pounds a ton of water from the Dead sea 187 pounds

Of the total world production of commercial cotton in 1913 the United States contributed 60.9 per cent Next to corn, cotton is the most valuable crop grown here and it is the largest single item of export

Owing to the number of doctors who have left for the war, Lambeth guardians have decided to give each doctor a gratuity of £50 at the end of the year to encourage him to remain in the poor law service

The health commissioner of Milwaukee is planning to establish free dispensaries and clinics in school buildings at regular hours, not only for service to the children, but to the general public

Twenty-five dollars "for scrubbing of the tomstones of my neighbors in the graveyard was one of the peculiar bequests in the will of Mrs Margaretha H Schmidt of Belleville, Ill

A rancher has applied for rental of 320 acres of the Pike national forest, Colorado to be used in connection with private land for raising elk as a commercial venture

Last season the average wheat yield in western Australia was 12.2 bushels more than the average for the 10 seasons ending in 1912

EDITOR STARTS TEST SUIT ON LEGALITY OF COUNTY SUPERVISORS

City Voted to Reduce Council to Three Members, But All Seven Qualified.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb 20.—There has just been filed in the district court a petition by P. J. Quigley, of the Telegraph-Herald, the purpose of which is to decide the legality of title of four members of the board of supervisors, Frank Hahl, Frank Holscher, Budd Lynch and Frank Ferring, elected last November

At the election in question there also was presented to the voters the proposal to reduce the membership of the board from seven to three. This carried seven to one.

When the time came to reorganize the board in 1915 there was found to be conflicting laws, one of which provides that an odd number of supervisors must be employed. One of the supervisors, now holding office, was elected for a three-year term beginning January 1, 1916 The other three were elected for the three-year term commencing January 1, 1915. The manner of reducing the board so as to leave at no time an even number was the chief stumbling block. As a simple solution of the matter, the county attorney, on the advice of the attorney general, decided legislative action would be necessary and the three men elected last November, whose terms began January 1, qualified.

It is held by many that the law as it now stands is sufficient to reach the case and that the reduction is possible and that the will of the people that the board membership should be reduced, can be carried out. On the theory that if the board is legally constituted the fact can and should be established, that if it is not, there is grave danger to the taxpayers in the matter of liabilities accruing from the acts of an illegal board, that fact should be established, the newspaper has taken up the matter

MANY IOWA CITIES LET STREET PAVING CONTRACTS

Mason City Ia Feb. 20.—Councils of various cities of the state have been busy for the past few days letting contracts for street paving. Emmetsburg let the contract to Zitterell & Sullivan, of Webster City, for 41,000 square yards of brick at $2.04 per square yard. Cedar Falls placed a contract with the Andrew Jaick Paving company, of Kansas City, for 37,000 square yards of artificial sheet asphalt at a contract price of $1 54 per square yard Belle Plaine wanted asphaltic concrete and gave their contract to John McVicker, of Des Moines, for 67 000 square yards at $1 64 per square yard Carroll's contract for 47 000 square yards of artificial asphalt was secured by Andrew Jaicks Paving company of Kansas City at $1 43 per square yard A large number of contracts are to be placed over the state next week.

DANIELS TO INVESTIGATE ROCKWELL CITY COMPLAINT

Washington D C. Feb 20—Secretary Daniels, of the navy department, has ordered a court of inquiry into charges brought to his attention by Senator Kenyon at the instance of J. F Lavender, of Rockwell City Mr Lavender made an indignant protest because the remains of Wesley R. Williams, former boatswain's mate, who died in New York, arrived in Rockwell City badly cared for and enclosed in a moth eaten uniform Secretary Daniels has written to Senator Kenyon saying a court of inquiry will go fully into the facts and those responsible will be punished

REPARATION GRANTED BY FEDERAL COMMERCE BOARD

Washington, D C, Feb 20.—The Interstate Commerce commission granted reparation in several Iowa cases today

In F W Crane vs the Burlington a refund of $69 was allowed on a carload of millet seed from Benkelman, Neb., to Sioux City

In Trasper Coal company vs. the Milwaukee a refund was allowed on coal shipments from Kentucky to Coon Rapids.

In Carl Marshall vs the Burlington, the commission allowed a refund on account of excessive rate on stock cattle from Waverly Ia., to Ipava Ill

AMES NOT ANXIOUS TO KEEP STATE SERUM PLANT

Des Moines, Ia Feb. 20.—The question of whether the state hog cholera serum plant is to remain at the Iowa State college at Ames is troubling members of the senate agricultural committee Hints have been received by members of the general assembly that the state college would be well pleased if the state transferred the serum plant to the supervision of the state veterinarian or some other state department

If the state college is to keep the serum plant a farm of 160 acres will be demanded for it by the college authorities, according to Senator Arney

FOOTPAD CAPTURED AFTER GUN FIGHT WITH POLICE

Cedar Rapids Ia., Feb. 20.—John Usher, employed at the Rock Island freight house here, was captured last night following a revolver battle between the police and Carlson and his pal, who held up D D. Baker at Marion and robbed him of $14 The other footpad was wounded during the shooting, but escaped

LEGISLATURE LEGALIZES CHEROKEE HIGH SCHOOL

Cherokee, Ia., Feb 20—The state legislature has legalized the election for the new high school, and as soon as the bonds are sold work will begin on a $100 000 structure here. This is to be modern in every respect and will cover 50 acres which will be used for athletic and agriculture purposes.

FORT DODGE—G. F Brannon, aged 30, a freight conductor on the Illinois Central, was killed at Duncombe. He was caught between two freight cars while he was supervising work on his train. He was adjusting the coupling pin after signaling for a hard coupling and did not get out from between the cars.

DES MOINES—Iowa producers will be favored by the board of control in making purchases for state institutions if a bill recommended by the senate committee on board of control becomes a law The law now requires that Iowa dealers be favored when their bids are favorable, but Senator Farr, of Woodbury county, wants to see the Iowa producer favored, too.

MASON CITY—A rumor has been afloat in this city for the past few days to the effect that the federal government is now probing affairs in regard to William Colby and his sale of stock of the Colby Motor company, through the mails. As yet there is no confirmation to the report.

ASKS CLOSED SEASON IN IOWA FOR PRAIRIE CHICKENS AND QUAIL

Senator Grout Also Will Seek to Have Iowa Law Conform to Federal Rules.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 20.—Senator Grout, of Waterloo, is preparing a bill which he will soon file providing for changes in the game laws. He proposes that a five-year closed season be established on prairie chickens and quail. He also wants the Iowa law to conform to the federal migratory bird law

The hunters of Black Hawk county are backing Grout in the proposed changes in the law Grout declares that the central part of the state has practically been cleared of prairie chicken and quail and that a time must be given in which they will have a chance to increase unmolested Owing to the fact that duck hunting has been poor for several years, the hunters of Black Hawk say they are willing to forego the spring shooting, the senator asserts

In favoring abolition of the spring shooting, the hunters of the central part of the state are said to be opposed by the hunters of southeastern Iowa, especially Des Moines and Lee counties. In those two counties organizations are formed which are active in opposing the federal migratory bird law.

Senator Grout will confer with Senator Gillette, who has announced that he will have a bill ready for filing soon which provides for a game commission in Iowa instead of the present game warden and deputies and for changes in the game laws which will make the Iowa law suit the present conditions

PROMOTERS NOT KNOWN FOR MISSISSIPPI RIVER BRIDGE

Muscatine Ia., Feb. 20. The passing of the bill authorizing the Interstate Bridge and Terminal company to construct a bridge over the Mississippi river at Muscatine by congress this week has only further increased the mystery surrounding this corporation which seeks the right to make this improvement Several Muscatine men who have been acting in the interest of the Interstate company refuse to divulge the identity of the officers of the company and will give out no information relative to the project, which it is understood, looks forward to the erection of a bridge here which will accommodate rail traffic

The company it is also understood contemplates the construction of an interurban line from Muscatine to Aledo, Ill., but no overtures have been made relative to this project as yet.

POLK COUNTY PAYS $7,026 FOR PENSION TO WIDOWS

Des Moines, Ia Feb 20 Polk county paid out $7 026 in pensions to widows during the last year according to the annual report of the juvenile court completed yesterday The highest amount paid out in one month was $757 for December The pensions are from $5 to $25 a month

There were 1 133 children under the direct supervision of the juvenile court during the year the report shows. The judge of the court heard 170 cases. Twenty-seven were children committed to the two state institutions and 14 to the state orphanage at Davenport Thirty children were placed in private institutions 126 children were in the juvenile home and two children sent to the state college for the blind at Vinton

HEARING FOR OPPOSITION TO STATE INSURANCE

Des Moines Ia Feb 20 Insurance representatives and several prominent manufacturers of Iowa opposed the "Gars plant" of state fund insurance under the workmen's compensation law as provided in the Clarkson bill, before the joint session of the insurance committees of the house and senate yesterday afternoon

The afternoon was spent entirely in hearing objections to the law Senator Hilsinger chairman of the insurance committee announced that the arguments in favor of the bill will be heard next Friday afternoon

FAIR MANAGERS WANT BETTER SHOW IN STATE AID

Mason City Ia Feb 20 -Fair managers of northern Iowa and southern Minnesota, to the number of about 50, are in this city conferring on conditions and negotiating for various attractions They are here to decide upon dates and the attractions to be offered at the various fairs. They are talking speed program, special premiums, free attractions, pay shows, state aid, premium books, complimentary tickets, raffles, running races, milk contests, pigs and calves contests, advertising, concessions, automobile and motorcycle races. The fair managers want more state aid They now get 40 per cent of the premiums paid, not to exceed $300, and this they want raised to 60 per cent of the first $1,000 and 40 per cent of all over, but none of the money to be used for races or attractions.

CLOTHES ALL REMOVED BY REVOLVING LINE SHAFT

Ames, Ia., Feb. 20.—With every bit of his clothing, except his hat, shoes and socks torn from his body Glade Sills, an elevator employe, stood in front of a revolving line shaft pinching his body to see if he was still alive. Sills had a peculiar escape from being killed

Sills was working on a corn sheller and he was reaching for a particular part of the machinery Instead of heeding the factory inspector's card of instructions, he reached over a line shaft. A buttonhole of his overall jacket was caught on a set screw of the shafting, and he was undressed so quickly by the hurrying shaft that he scarcely knew what had happened Shivering in a cold draft, with no clothes on save hat and shoes, he stood as nude as the original statue of Venus. He was not injured

FORMER IOWA ALDERMAN IS CONVICTED OF MURDER

Clinton, Ia., Feb. 18.—Harry Carr the former Clinton alderman, who shot and killed two men in the courtroom at Cashmere Wash has been found guilty of murder in the second degree and was "commended to the mercy of the court" by the jury Mr Carr shot a man who was on trial for criminal assault upon Carr's little daughter and a stray bullet struck a juror He did not plead insanity and, in fact, offered almost no defense Yet, because of the general sympathy for him, an acquittal had been expected in the community where the crime was committed.

MUSCATINE—The Muscatine police arrested Ignard Lafolz, charged with being the printer of a gang of Mexican counterfeiters operating here Relatives of the accused told of passing scores of counterfeit coins given to them by Lafolz. A raid upon his lodging place failed to reveal any evidence of actual counterfeiting.

IOWA FIRE LOSSES IN 1914 $433,660 LESS THAN PREVIOUS YEAR

Report of State Fire Marshal Says 71 Deaths Directly Due to Fires.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 19 Iowa suffered a fire loss of $5,858,985 in 1914, according to the annual report issued yesterday by O. O. Roe, state fire marshal. This shows a decrease of $433,660 compared with the losses in 1913.

Seventy-one deaths occurred as the direct result of fires last year Of this number 31 were women and 20 were children. Gasoline and coal oil were responsible for the death of 31 persons. Eight children were fatally burned as a result of playing with matches, or being in close proximity of bonfires, the report shows. Thirty fire bugs were arrested by the marshal in 1914; six were sentenced to terms in the penitentiary, two were given jail sentences, two were paroled; two were sent to the state reformatory four were sent to the insane asylum and 14 indictments are pending.

There were 4,296 fires in the state last year in which $25,840,499 worth of property was endangered. The big fires were Waterloo, January 26, 1914 $351,900 loss, Sioux City, March 26, loss $303,244, Estherville, March 26 loss $110,900; Sioux City, May 24, loss $133,258

WANTS RETURN OF PROPERTY DEEDED TO HAMPTON BANKER

Traer, Ia., Feb. 19 An important suit involving $60,000 worth of property has just been instituted by J T Findley, of this city In May, 1911, after the death of his wife, Mr Findley executed a trust conveyance of his real estate consisting of 80 acres close to Traer, 160 acres near Gladbrook and 640 acres in Texas to O F Meyers, a banker of Hampton, whose acquaintance he had made while making frequent visits to his daughter, Mrs Raper, in Hampton

This conveyance provided that Mr Findley was to be fully provided for during his life and cared for by the trustee, Mr Meyers, and at his death the property was to be divided among his five children.

Mr Findley now claims the conveyance was not understood by him when made, he being ill at the time, that it was without consideration, that it was intended to be testamentary in its character, taking the place of a will

BIGGER APPROPRIATION WOULD SOLVE WATER PROBLEM

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 19 Dr G H Sumner, secretary of the state board of health, has figured out a way to avert any further trouble with the State university as to whether water analysis shall be made at that place or by the board of health's chemist in Des Moines. He prepared a bill which has been introduced by Senator Enger and Representative Taylor

This measure provides for an appropriation of $10 000 for the bacteriological department at the university The department works under the direction of the state board of health. In the past the appropriation has been $6,000. The extra $4,000 is to be used to employ an assistant to the bacteriologist, Henry Alberts who is to do the epidemiology work under the direction of the state board of health. Dr S. Woods now holds the position of state epidemiologist, but the board of health refuses to recognize his work, because of trouble between himself and the board.

DEAD IOWA CATTLEMAN HAD NOT DRAWN MONEY

Chicago, Feb 19 Police suspicions concerning the death of Gabriel Mandel, a cattle raiser of Plymouth Ia. who was found in a room in the Horn Palace" were found to be groundless Mandel sold $10,000 worth of cattle at the stock yards a few days ago but it was found he had not collected the money Two cuts on the head were proved by Mandel's friends to have been old ones A cheap watch and $5 were found on the body It is believed Mandel's death was from natural causes. An inquest will be held today

FOUR CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR OF MASON CITY

Mason City, Ia., Feb. 19.—According to the program handed out by "dopesters" today there will be at least four candidates for mayor at the approaching city election Under the new census, according to legal construction the salary of mayor will be $200 per month, and this is proving quite tempting. John Stanton, the present incumbent who has served but one term is asking for further recognition Fred A Kirschman, who served the city one term several years ago, feels the call to patriotic service and will be in the race. F M. Norris, who has twice served the city as mayor believes there are evils in the city government that he can rectify and will be in the race Nate C Kotchell who was a candidate for commissioner two years ago is a candidate for the higher office at this time

AURELIA WOMAN DIES; SON'S ADDRESS UNKNOWN

Aurelia Ia Feb 19 The present whereabouts of Charles Davis formerly of this place is unknown to relatives here and they have wired to various sections in the effort to obtain information The man's mother Mrs Gertrude Davis, died here yesterday and that is the reason for the renewed efforts to locate the missing son At last accounts he announced his intention of going to some point in South Dakota Mrs. Davis was 84 years of age Funeral services have been set for tomorrow afternoon

IOWA SUPREME COURT.

Des Moines Ia Feb 19 The Iowa supreme court today handed down the following decisions

State ex rel Thompson vs Booth, et al, appellant Polk county supplemental opinion overruled petition for rehearing.

Hunt administratrix vs. Delano, et al, appellant Monroe county affirmed

Tipton, appellant vs. Tipton Warren county reversed and remanded.

State ex rel Hammond appellant vs. Lynch Polk county, affirmed

Bernstein vs Western Union Telegraph company appellant, Linn county, reversed

State of Iowa vs Nicola appellant Mahaska county reversed and remanded.

SAFE BLOWN IN KAMRAR POSTOFFICE; YEGGS ESCAPE

Webster City Ia., Feb 17 - The postoffice safe at Kamrar Ia was blown last night by robbers, who secured $25 in money and a large quantity of stamps. They escaped on a handcar, leaving no clue Government detectives and local officers are probing the case today.

PEACE MAY COME IN EUROPE BY OCTOBER

Chicago Tribune Correspondent Finds Opinion Favorable to Cessation of War Is Growing Both In England and France —May Be Seeking an Easy Way Out.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Frederic William Wile cables the Tribune from London as follows

"During the last few days a marked feeling has spread among persons in touch with the war that the world will see peace arranged much sooner than public opinion anticipates. Competent authorities now express the opinion that the war will be over by October at the latest. This opinion is not confined to England, it extends to France.

"So far as England and France are concerned the belief that October will see an end to hostilities is based on what are here considered manifold signs that Germany is feeling the pinch of the unequal struggle in which she has engaged much more strongly than the outer world has any idea of. It is known there is among the British and the French soldiers a recognition of the Germans as brave foremen; and this sentiment is said to be generally reciprocated

"Although Sir Edward Grey in his speech in the house of commons on Thursday, took the position that this was not the time to make any open proposals for a basis on which the allies would treat for peace with Germany, this is taken to mean that the British government does not want to be put in the position of initiating such a move. It is not taken to mean that the government is absolutely unapproachable on the subject of ending the war."

BIG PANAMA FAIR OPENS TOMORROW

President Wilson Will Touch Off Electric Spark Which Will Set Wheels of Exposition Turning.

San Francisco, Feb. 20—An electric spark of enormous potential, jumping across the continent, will open the Panama-Pacific International exposition at noon tomorrow, Pacific time.

In the White House at Washington, the president will press a button and the aerial of the great government radio station at Arlington will snarl and splutter The vibrations will be received an infinitesimal fraction of a second later by a commercial station on the shores of San Francisco bay, where they will be relayed by wire to a receiving instrument on the exposition grounds

As soon as the signal is received, the wheels will begin to turn and the fountains to play, the gates will swing open and a procession of citizens, with the mayor at their head, will march unto the grounds.

At the same time, President Charles C. Moore, of the exposition company, will inform President Wilson by word of mouth over a telephone line already set up and waiting, that the wireless flash has been received and the exposition is open In return, President Wilson will send his greetings and good wishes Thus the two latest modes of long distance communication will be employed to vivify the fair Ceremonies of dedication and acceptance as brief as it is possible to make them will follow

After the outbreak of the European war there sprang up a rumor that the exposition would not open As a matter of fact the exposition stands today 100 per cent complete, free of debt and with 41 foreign nations participating, of which 20 have built pavilions of their own England Germany, Austria and Russia among the belligerents, are not officially represented, although various of the commercial organizations have seen to it that they should not be wholly left out of mind France, Italy and Japan are officially represented, as are 41 states and territories under the flag of the United States Canada and Australasia under the British flag, both have buildings.

BURLINGTON MAN IN RACE FOR JUDGESHIP

Smythe's Backers Say Wade Will Not Be Given Federal Appointment.

Washington, D C, Feb. 20—Marked activity in the fight over the Iowa judgeship developed here today John Seerley, of Burlington, and Arthur Springer of Wapello, are here working for Judge Smythe, of Burlington. E. C. Walsh and M A Walsh of Clinton, are here urging the appointment of Judge Wade Opposition to Judge Wade from the southern district is growing. Mr Springer talked to members of the Iowa delegation and expressed confidence that Judge Wade would not be chosen

PEACE REIGNS BETWEEN HOSTILE CONGRESSMEN

Washington, D C., Feb. 19.—The lashings of last night's wordy gale in the House when Representative Farr called Representative Palmer a lobbyist and Representative Palmer called Representative Farr a tadpole statesman, subsided today when Representative Farr told the House he had no intention of reflecting on the honor or integrity of his colleague Mr. Palmer did not want to continue the discussion and the most bitter personal row the House had seen in the present session was ended

GARRISON IN FAVOR OF PRIVATE ARMS FACTORIES

Washington, Feb 19.—Secretary Garrison today told a delegation of the women's peace party, headed by Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of the Wisconsin senator, that he is opposed to their plan for nationalization of the manufacture of armament.

Mr Garrison told the women that as different nations have unequal facilities of manufacture of arms, the result might easily be that the United States would find itself at a great disadvantage if thrust into war unless there was private manufacturing

SEABOARD AIRLINE TRAIN IS HELD UP

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Jacksonville express of the Seaboard Airline railroad, was boarded tonight at Alexandria, Va., by two robbers, who after binding and gagging the express messenger, rolled the safe off the train at Franconia, three miles beyond, and escaped.

Express company officials here said there was nothing in the safe.

SHIP BILL DEAD OPPONENTS THINK

Sending of Measure to Conference Believed to Be Democratic Admission of Defeat.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 It was the concensus of opinion in Washington today that when the Senate yesterday agreed to send the ship purchase measure to conference until February 28, the death knell of the bill was sounded. Between February 28 and March 4 the bill must take its chances of being filibustered to death

Opponents of the ship purchase bill say the measure is as good as dead, because they say they will be able to prevent its passage just as they have up to the present.

The administration, it is believed, has decided to yield and go before the country on their record, letting the republicans bear the responsibility for the defeat of the measure.

Republican senators entered into a "gentleman's agreement" with democratic leaders to let the House bill go to conference on condition that appropriation bills be passed within the next 10 days in order to avoid an extra session of congress. The democrats, it was reported, agreed to a reasonable cut in the rivers and harbors appropriation bill and the republicans in turn gave assurances that they would not filibuster against any appropriation measures.

The fight over a cloture rule which grew out of the ship bill contest was summarily put aside in the Senate today and Chairman Overman, of the rules committee, introduced a resolution for six senators to consider a revision of the rules of the Senate as to cloture and other changes.

GERMANS ARE LOYAL TO AMERICA, HE SAYS

Bartholdt Says They Would Support U. S. Even Against Their Fatherland

Washington, Feb. 20 —Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, made his farewell speech in the House today denouncing "the newspaper war against Germany" He declared Americans of German descent "are with all other true Americans for America first last and always," and protested against American shipments of arms to the allies.

"In our present demands against England," he said, "our only alternative is either to give in or to declare war. The threat of an embargo on arms, however, would quickly bring 'the mistress of the seas' to terms without war."

Portraying the "steadfast devotion of citizens of German blood to American ideals and the flag," Mr. Bartholdt added: "If unfortunately the United States ever again should be embroiled in war which heaven forbid, the Germans of this country would again as loyally rally around the stars and stripes. The Germans of this country are for America against England, for America against Germany, for America against the world. They will never waver for one second in their allegiance to their adopted land."

Mr. Bartholdt said Americans of German descent have been openly accused of divided allegiance and downright disloyalty and that they know that "this wanton insult emanated from English and French press agents and they treat it with contempt, they resent that in the face of our own history the American press should have opened its columns to such calumnies

SAYS PANAMA CANAL WILL HURT MIDWEST

St. Louis, Feb. 19: — Unless the Mississippi is greatly improved the Panama canal will prove the greatest disaster possible for the Mississippi valley, according to Samuel A. Thompson, secretary of the national rivers and harbors congress.

Thompson's statement was made here last night in an address before the rivers terminals conference of the Mississippi valley states. He spoke on the "Relation of the Panama Canal to the Mississippi Valley."

The canal, he said, has made water shipments from New York to San Francisco cheaper than rail shipments from St. Louis or Chicago to the Pacific coast. This condition, he pointed out, would be remedied if the river were so deepened as to permit free navigation from the extreme north to New Orleans.

BIG SUM FOR CHARITY.

Chicago, Feb. 19:—Newspapers selling from 1 cent to $100 each on the street corners here yesterday and raised between $7.000 and $8,000 for charity when old time newsboys took possession of their old corners and sold papers for charity.

TO RESUME HEARING.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Senate committee, investigating charges of "lobbying" against the administration bill took no testimony today and will meet again tomorrow.

ZEPPELINS AIDING GERMAN PLUNGERS IN PATROL OF SEA

KAISER TO DIRECT BRITISH BLOCKADE

London, Feb. 19.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen dated Thursday, says:

"Emperor William, with his brother, Admiral Prince Henry, of Prussia, and Admiral Von Tirpitz, the minister of the navy, and their respective staffs, left Berlin today for Wilhelmshaven, Helgoland, and other naval stations, to direct the arrangements for blockading England.

"It is reported that the Germans have built 120 big mine laying submarines during the last six months, each with a carrying capacity of over 100 mines."

ZEPPELINS PATROL NORTH SEA WATERS

Two War Bags Lost But Others Fill Gap—Air Craft Are Working In Conjunction With Plungers.

London, Feb. 20.—The activity of Zeppelin airships over the North sea continues; telegraphs the correspondent at Copenhagen of the London Star, and this in spite of the fact that two airships recently have been lost. Gaps in the fleet caused by disaster are being filled by Zeppelins drawn from the airship stations in western Germany.

A dispatch received from Copenhagen last night described the loss of two German airships in the North sea. The Zeppelin L-3 exploded on Fance Island Wednesday, and another airship, commanded by Captain Count Platen, sank 10 miles north of Jutland yesterday. It has been asserted that the entire Zeppelin fleet is patroling the North sea just outside of English waters, Zeppelin No. 2 is believed to be the flagship.

Another dispatch from Rotterdam says the Dutch steamer Helena was overhauled in the North sea last Tuesday by Zeppelin L-5, which trained her guns on the steamer and ordered her to heave to. Then satisfied as to the Helena's identity the captain of the Zeppelin apologized and reascended with his craft.

The Zeppelin airships presumably are watching for food laden craft moving toward England. The halting of the Dutch steamer Helena by a Zeppelin hovering over her, gives a new role to dirigible air craft, which so far during this war have done little on land or sea to justify their maintenance.

JAPAN ASKS POWERS TO UPHOLD CLAIMS

Tells World She Is Entitled to Predominating Influence In Chinese Matters.

Tokio, Feb. 20.—It was learned here today that Japan recently explained the tenor of her demands upon China to certain friendly powers, including the United States.

The impression is held in some quarters in Tokio that, without intending to disturb the open door policy, the integrity of China, or the spheres of influence of other powers, Japan will gradually seek to extend her influence in China. She feels, it is being argued in Tokio, that her position entitles her to a predominating role in the development of the Chinese republic.

6TH AVENUE RIOT QUELLED BY POLICE

Traffic Is Halted While Battle Rages—16 Men Are Put Under Arrest.

New York, Feb. 20.—Sixteen men were arrested today in a riot in Fifth avenue, almost directly in front of St. Patrick's cathedral. For a quarter of an hour traffic was halted for several streets. While 200 men fought in the crowd with night sticks and, after a hard battle, dispersed the rioters. The police asserted that the fight was between strikers of a nearby tailoring establishment and men who sought to take their places.

INVESTIGATE COST OF LIVING IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—In connection with the legislative bill Senator Lenyon will press his amendment, providing for investigation by the department of labor into cost of living of wage earners in the District of Columbia. The inquiry is expected to throw light on the cost of living which will be applicable to the whole country.

ENGLAND GETS BULK OF COPPER EXPORTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Copper exports amounted to 7,142,042 pounds, valued at $994,520 during the week ending February 13, the department of commerce announced today. Of this, 2,448,146 pounds went to England, 672,000 to Italy, 961,369 to Sweden, 448,000 to Scotland, [illegible] to Norway and [illegible] to Canada. Exports of copper were 1,978,261 pounds, mostly from Cuba, and 1,000,000 pounds of pigs, ingots, bars, etc., mostly from Chile.

First Blow of Submarine War Struck When Diver Torpedoes French Vessel Off Dieppe.

GRIM STRUGGLE IS BEGUN

Kaiser Personally Directing Operations Press Says Consequences to Neutrals Will Be Ignored

Washington, between England [illegible] of Europe [illegible] the British [illegible] their [illegible] received [illegible] ment.

Some state [illegible] interpreted [illegible] "travel" [illegible] until [illegible] rangement [illegible] protection [illegible] officials thought [illegible] arily the [illegible] course [illegible] The suspension affect [illegible] side rules.

London [illegible] struck the [illegible] zone decree [illegible] steamer the [illegible] kirk was torpedoed [illegible] France this morning [illegible] not sink but was [illegible] a sinking condition.

Aided by [illegible] lins the [illegible] gun the [illegible] patrol [illegible] land although [illegible] has been sighted [illegible] hours of the blockade [illegible] Dieppe France [illegible] ting used to [illegible] moving toward [illegible] They [illegible] that Germany [illegible] to make good [illegible] his brother Prince Heinrich and Admiral Von Tirpitz are [illegible] resting the [illegible] rines and 7 [illegible]

Berlin [illegible] the German [illegible] note [illegible] be no departure [illegible] many has [illegible] Metzger [illegible] resolved [illegible] course.

DINORAH TORPEDOED BUT IS TOWED TO DIEPPE PORT

Dieppe [illegible] German [illegible] morning with [illegible] steamer Dinorah [illegible] kirk at [illegible] mention [illegible] of the crew.

A plate [illegible] steamer [illegible] stove in by [illegible] the Dinorah [illegible] hard pumping [illegible] rence was [illegible] ing boats [illegible] norah was [illegible] was towed into port [illegible] will be [illegible]

The [illegible] nine off [illegible] days ago [illegible] service [illegible] has been [illegible]

CANNOT CONSIDER NEUTRALS IN DEATH STRUGGLE CLAIM

Amsterdam [illegible] A dispatch [illegible] quotes the [illegible] latest [illegible] United States [illegible]

The [illegible] are directed [illegible] of Great Britain [illegible] can traffic [illegible] starvation [illegible] arms, [illegible] starvation [illegible] that we [illegible] one single [illegible] Great Britain [illegible] ade must [illegible]

The London [illegible] February [illegible] defensive [illegible] with starvation [illegible] fight for [illegible] this fight [illegible] past aside [illegible] parties [illegible] ward us attempt [illegible] The fight we [illegible] must be fought [illegible] not at all [illegible] solved to [illegible] consequences.

OFFICIALS CONFIDENT SHIPS WON'T BE [illegible]

Washington [illegible] text of German [illegible] States [illegible] American [illegible] about the [illegible] ceived [illegible] Officials [illegible] ply has been [illegible] ambassador [illegible] American [illegible] lay by [illegible] dor had been [illegible] comes from Berlin [illegible] circuitous [illegible]

When the [illegible] usual French [illegible] port of the [illegible] published [illegible] formally. The [illegible] the Berlin [illegible] ly and officials [illegible] that no American [illegible] stroyed by [illegible]

After the [illegible] it was considered [illegible] was not at all the [illegible] administration had [illegible] American ship would be sunk.

The suggestion of Germany in the latest note to the United States that means would be found for identifying and safeguarding American ships [illegible] turing into the war zone was understood to have been taken up. It was agreed, however that the American government has no authority to order ships to adopt such measures as taken in Holland and the Scandinavian countries, which include the painting of the nationality of the ship in large letters on each side.

It was understood however that inquires will be sent to maritime insurance companies to learn if any measures are contemplated for identifying neutral ships.

Local trade in Trieste, Austria's port on the Adriatic is in a state of stagnation. The largest department store has discharged half its employes and the rest are working on [illegible] pay.

SPY SUSPECT MAY BE MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

Frederick A. Taylor, Deported From England and America, May Be Forced to Spend Life on Ship Like Famous Fictional Character of E. E. Hale.

Boston, Feb. 20.—Frederick A. Taylor who has been held at the immigration station since he was deported from England as an alien spy four months ago and who claims to be an American citizen born in San Francisco, may become another man without a country.

He was deported yesterday for England on board the Pretoria bound for Glasgow and will be guarded by the ship officers until the English authorities further in his case. Officers at the station expressed doubt whether he would be permitted to land in England and feared they might be forced to keep him on board.

Plans of English fortifications were found on him when he was arrested at Harwich near London in October charged with being a spy but in his possession of the plans by which they were given him by an unknown man who rushed up to him in the street and asked him to hold them a few minutes. His assertion that he was an American citizen led to his deportation to this country.

Immigration inspectors who heard his case here decided to deport him again and his appeal to the department at Washington has now been rejected.

Taylor asserted that he was born in San Francisco but corroboration of this was lacking according to the officials. He said that the records of his birth were burned in the San Francisco fire. He has a sister in that city.

The original 'Man Without a Country" was a character of fiction made famous by Edward Everett Hale, the American author. The story depicts the plight of an American army officer who was aligned with the abortive scheme of empire of Aaron Burr. When arrested the officer expressed the wish that he might never hear the name of the United States mentioned again. As a punishment he was placed aboard an American war ship and kept prisoner for the remainder of his life. Until the day of his death he was not permitted to hear his country mentioned or to read any book or newspaper in which mention of the United States was made.

CLARKE NOT SURE ON MULCT REPEAL

Declines to State Whether He Will Sign Bill Until It Comes Before Him For Action.

Des Moines Ia. Feb 20. Governor Clarke was flooded with telegrams today asking that he refuse to sign the Clarkson bill passed by the house and senate to repeal the law and place Iowa dry [illegible] 1916. At noon close to [illegible] messages had been received. Practically all are from Dubuque [illegible] Governor Clarke carried a big [illegible] of messages from his apartments at the state house this morning. [illegible] hundreds arrived there [illegible] morning. They were piled [illegible] the governor's private secretary Homer Woods. [illegible] clerk of Douglas Mill [illegible] Woods kept [illegible] them.

Des Moines Ia. Feb 20. While the governor's office hope has been that [illegible] would sign the mulct [illegible] some of the "drys" are [illegible] the refusal of the governor to make a positive statement of his intentions since the measure [illegible] passed both houses. Some of them [illegible] that the governor [illegible] willingness to be convinced [illegible] the measure [illegible] repeated inquiries last [illegible] morning he said he [illegible] get the bill before him and [illegible] careful study of its provisions before deciding what he would do.

[illegible] representatives of organizations that would be [illegible] of work by the repeal of [illegible] by J. H. Strief of [illegible] president of the State Federation of Labor appealed to the governor [illegible] Roll Scores [illegible] Dubuque and other [illegible] sent to the governor [illegible] Congress.

[illegible] Governor [illegible] has not his [illegible] but they know that [illegible] is absolutely bad. [illegible] asked by the executive [illegible] informed members of [illegible] that he will sign the [illegible] unless there is some [illegible] error in the records.

NEW RED LIGHT LAW TO BE BROUGHT OUT THIS WEEK

[illegible] Monday [illegible] will [illegible] day of [illegible] for the time to reach [illegible] by the supreme [illegible] Attorney General [illegible] leaders in [illegible] will be ready within a few days providing an appropriation of $[illegible] for the state railroad commission to make [illegible] physical valuation of railroad property in the state. Clifford Thorne chairman of the commission has told the legislature that physical valuation is necessary to combat rate [illegible] successfully.

CONFESSES MURDER; IMPRISONED FOR LIFE

Akron, Ohio, Feb 19.—Upon a plea of guilty Harry Boomer former grocery clerk, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for the murder of Miss Minnie Becker a mission worker. Miss Becker was slain with a hatchet in her brother's store. Boomer confessed that he murdered the girl in order to [illegible] the place.

HOUSE KILLS BILL FOR STATE POLICE

Attorney General's Plan For Better Law Enforcement Loses By Vote of 50 to 49.

Des Moines Ia., Feb 19.—Legislation to give Attorney General Cosson a corps of special agents for criminal work in the state was defeated in the house today by a vote of 50 to 49. Anderson, of Montgomery, offered the bill and it was approved by the committee. It is virtually the same measure that was offered two years ago, which carried in the house by an overwhelming vote, but lost out in the final rush of bills.

Ignorance of what the proposed law will provide is given as the excuse of Representative Anderson and Attorney General Cosson for its defeat today. One of the surprises of the roll call was that Representative Crozier, who fathered the mulct law repeal in the house voted against the bill. It is by means of this system of state police that the state department of justice hopes to be able to enforce the prohibition measures.

The question of liquor law enforcement did not enter into the debate today. Michael, of Woodbury, opposed it because, he declared, it took away the rights of local government. Kane, of Dubuque declared it placed the attorney general and the governor at the head of the criminal affairs of the state. The bill gives the governor the right to use the state police upon order. Crozier, of Marion, also spoke against it, on the plea that special agents might be too eager to convict persons who were innocent.

In closing the debate Mr. Anderson read a letter from the county attorney of Woodbury county, in which the attorney said he had urged the two representatives from Woodbury county Michael and Griffin, to vote for the measure. In the vote Michael voted against the measure and Griffin was among those not voting.

ALLEGED SWINDLERS RELEASED ON BAIL

London Feb. 19. The jury at the old Bailey police court today disagreed in the case of Sir James H. Renals, baronet, and Henry Mather, alias Walter G. Furnald of San Francisco, who were charged with obtaining credit under false pretenses. The defendants were released on bail.

Sir James is a son of the late Sir James Renals, at one time lord mayor of London. Mather, alias Furnald, was arrested in New York in September, 1913, charged by the police with swindling operations. Early in December of last year Mather and Sir James Renals were arrested in London on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public by means of a bogus money lending scheme.

FRENCH RESERVES ON BASIS OF REGULARS

Paris, Feb. 19. General Joffre, the French commander in chief today issued an order of the day saying:

"Now that the reserve regiments have acquired splendid fighting ability they henceforth will be put on the same basis as the active army. The designation of reserve has been suppressed."

WILL SAVE HER SURPLUS OF FOOD FOR ENGLAND

Wellington, New Zealand, Feb. 19.—The government has decided that all of New Zealand's surplus supplies of beef, mutton and lamb shall be reserved for the imperial authorities in response to their request.

BIG MELON IS CUT BY HOSIERY MANUFACTORY

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 19.—The American Hosiery company, at a meeting here today voted to convert the $1,500,000 surplus of invested funds into cash and to distribute it pro rata among the stockholders. Thecompany is capitalized at $300,000.

SEEK RATE ADVANCE.

Montreal, Feb. 19.—The Canadian freight association, acting on behalf of all the Canadian railway companies, forwarded today to the board of railway commissioners of Canada, the principal boards of trades and the Canadian Manufacturers' association an application for permission to make a general increase in freight rates.

REVISE PASSPORT RULES.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—German military authorities now require that each person entering Germany be supplied with an individual passport. A wife or minor child cannot enter upon a passport held by husband or parent. This governmen has been so advised.

APPROPRIATION OF $15,000 TO FIGHT RATE ADVANCES

[illegible] Feb 19. An appropriation to defray [illegible] lowa's fighting the advance which is to be [illegible] was recommended [illegible] by the senate [illegible] appropriations. An effort will be made to pass the measure so that the house can [illegible] before adjournment.

[illegible] will be ready within a few days providing an appropriation of $[illegible] for the state railroad commission to make [illegible] physical valuation of railroad property in the state. Clifford Thorne chairman of the commission has told the legislature that physical valuation is necessary to combat rate [illegible] successfully.

AUSTRIAN VICTORY IN BUKOWINA MAY BLUFF RUMANIANS

Success In Driving Russians Out of Province May Result In Intimidating Neighing State.

BATTLE OUTCOME DISPUTED

All Reports Concede Vast Territory Has Been Desolated —Allies Exerting Pressure In West.

Berlin (by wireless to Sayville), Feb 20. Further reports concerning the German victory of the Mazurian lakes in east Prussia, make it apparent that the Russian defeat was a severe one. German military officers in Berlin doubt whether much remains of about five Russian army corps which were engaged in the recent battle. While the Russians may have saved some of their artillery through quick retreat, it seems certain army men say, that Russian troops to the number of at least 130,000 are no longer to be reckoned with by the German armies.

London, Feb. 20.—All reports agree that the Austrians at last have flung the Russians entirely out of Bukowina. The Russians claim that they retired in good order, but they do not seek to deny their retreat. Czermonitz, the capital of Bukowina has fallen. Several weeks ago the occupation of Bukowina by the Russians and the presence of the Austrians near the Rumanian frontier was hailed as a situation which should justify the entry of Rumania into the war on the side of the allies, but today with Bukowina once more in Austrian hands, the situation again grows interesting. Newspaper correspondents have ceased predicting when Rumania will take up arms but sympathizers with the allies have not given up the expectation that she ultimately will take this step.

In East Prussia.

The situation in the northern extremity of the eastern battle line is not so clear as it was a few days ago. Territory on both sides of the east Prussian frontier has been desolated and areas both in Russia and in east Prussia have been converted into a sort of present day Belgium. Petrograd speaks of the flight of the Russian population before the German advance, while Emperor William, eulogizing the victory of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, laments the depredations of the retreating Russians.

Apparently no great battle has been fought since the Russians began their retreat toward the River Niemen. Petrograd insists that engagements since then have been outpost affairs, which would seem to indicate that the main body of Germans has not advanced across the 50-mile strip of territory lying between the Niemen line and the East Prussian frontier. On the other hand, the Germans claim and are celebrating a notable victory over the Russians in East Prussia, including the taking of no fewer than 64,000 prisoners.

For several days past the fighting in the western arena of the war would seem, judging from the reports reaching London, to have been in favor of the allies. The Germans have been counter attacking violently, but they appear to have had heavy losses. The pressure of the allies no doubt has been timed to keep the Germans busy during developments in the east and to prevent the withdrawing of forces for the relief of the eastern line, as was done in December.

NORTHERN GERMAN ARMY NOW ON RUSSIAN SOIL

Berlin, Feb 19, (by wireless to Sayville) --The official statement given out today by the German army headquarters was as follows:

"In the western theater of the war, On the road to Arras and Lille the French have been thrown out of the section of the German trenches which was occupied by them on February 16.

"In the Champagne district renewed attacks, made by strong French forces broke down completely under German fire. One hundred additional prisoners fell into German hands. Short sections of the German trenches taken by the French on February 16, are partly reconquered.

"In the reported French attack on Boureuilles and Vauquois, five officers and 479 uninjured men were captured.

"To the east of Verdun, near Combres, the French after a shortlived success under heavy losses, were repulsed.

"In the Vosges the Germans stormed height 600, to the south of Lusse, and took two machine guns.

"In the eastern war arena. The Germans yesterday occupied Tauroggen (in the Russian province of Kovno).

"The engagements of the pursuing Germans with the retreating Russians to the northwest of Grodno and to the north of Auchswola are nearing their end. The battle to the northwest of Kolno still continues. South of Myszyniec the Germans drove the Russians out of several villages.

"To the north of the Vistula, in Poland, minor engagements are taking place on both sides of the river Wkra to the east of Racionz.

"From the region on the south of the Vistula in Poland there is nothing new to report."

EAST PRUSSIA RAVAGED BY ARMIES OF RUSSIA

Berlin, Feb. 19.—Emperor William, in a telegram to Chancellor von Bethmann-Holweg advising him of the east Prussia victory, emphasizes how, under the emperor's own eyes, the bodies of new troops behave as admirably as the old eastern troops.

The emperor mentions especially the brilliant direction of the operations, and concludes by saying:

"My joy was tempered by the sight of that one time so flourishing region which for long weeks has been in the hands of an enemy without human feelings. The enemy has in senseless fury destroyed during his flight almost the last house. Our beautiful Mazurian country is a wilderness. What cannot be replaced has been lost, but I know myself to be one with every German when I solemnly promise that everything within human power shall be done to create a new fresh life from the ruins."

CHRISTMAS DAY IN THE TRENCHES

LETTER OF AN ENGLISH OFFICER.

Christmas dawned with a slight frost and a certain amount of mist. About 8 o'clock or so some of the Germans opposite began waving their heads over the parapet and holding up little Christmas trees, boxes, parcels and bottles. We didn't fire at them but watched from our loopholes. Then one German got up on top of their parapet, waved a parcel in the air and chucked it toward us, shouting 'A Merry Christmas," in English. One of the two Tommies who are attached to us and were out there with their guns scrambled up on top of our parapet and went out to pick up the parcel, which had fallen into a ditch about half way. Both parapets by this time were lined with people watching. The German who had thrown the parcel walked out, too, and these two met in the middle and shook hands.

Terrific cheers from both sides. They stopped there talking and then the other Germans came out from their trenches and the Garwhas had their belts on with bayonets and kurkis. The latter interested the enemy immensely. The German officers didn't come out at first, but our British officers were there.

One of our fellows could talk a very little German. But they all managed to get on all right as about 10 of them could talk English. The men got on well enough together with signs. They all exchanged presents and our men came back very proud of half marks, pfenigs, etc.

The troops opposite us were Saxons and hotly denied having any connection with Prussians. Eventually the German officers came out as well. They asked us to bury the bodies of the men of the Thirty-ninth and Twenty-third Gurkhas, who had been killed on November 12 and 13 in an attack we made and who had been lying out there ever since. Our two Tommies did most of the work, burying the bodies in a big shell hole. They found the bodies of two officers both of whom had been in the casualty list as missing. One of them had got right up to the edge of the German trench before he was shot.

All this time while they were all talking in the middle our fellows and the Germans were hard at work patching up the parapets from the front. It must have been a terrific relief to do it comfortably in daylight with no bullets about instead of trying to do it by night lying flat on the ground and trying to make one's self as thin as possible.

The Germans were also hard at work burying their own dead. There were a lot of them lying out behind their trenches. Eventually someone suggested that the day should be immortalized by a photograph. The Germans called up a man with a camera and took a lot of groups. They were told they'd be worth 1,000 marks to them if they could get them to the Daily Mail.

They had a Christmas tree fully 10 feet high in their trench, all decorated. Also lots of little Christmas trees. How they got them up there beats me as there are no plantations around here. The gunner observing officer was in rather a stew all this time as in the occasional breaks in the fog he caught glimpses of a big crowd of people in front of our trenches and yet could hear no rifle fire from either side. He telephoned down to the trenches to say the guns were trained on the enemy's trenches and that he was going to open fire. So the Christmas party broke up and the Germans went back to their trenches and we to ours. All the Germans insisted on shaking hands with every white man and with all the Indian officers. They said "we're not going to fire any more today," and they kept their word. Not a shot was fired all Christmas day after 8 o'clock.

The war is much hated by every one participating in the same, but citizens of every country are staying by their flag and hoping it will end soon.

The Daily Newspaper.

From the Country Gentleman.

Complaint is made that the big city daily newspapers are spreading their contaminating influence to the farms. The questions arise: How far may the city dailies contaminate? Just what are their contaminating influences?

The charge has always been with us that the city newspapers exist through sensationalism, that they glorify viciousness and crime and grossly exaggerate the lures of city life. Some of them do this, but not all. The actual reading of city newspapers carries no danger of contaminating the boy or girl on the farm. The real danger is in misinterpretation of the news—in other words, misinterpretation of the truth in life.

The city newspapers tell the farmer and his children of the thousands of unemployed in the cities of the miserable state of those whose wages are insufficient for the bare needs of life; of the pitiable cases in slums that have no counterpart in the country. You will find gaunt hunger in the headlines more often than reference to the romantic acquisition of wealth.

Mere complaint against the contaminating influences of city dailies will not keep them from the farm home. Railroads, better highways, telephones, and automobiles are bringing the countryside into direct contact with current daily events. The business farmer must scan the market reports from day to day not merely from week to week.

So long as we remain mortal some sort of contamination will reach out for us. No hermit in his cave is inviolable. In the Dark Ages it was a crime to dispel ignorance: the printed word was both heresy and treason. Today the power of the press is our brightest symbol of freedom. The daily newspaper is bound to reach the farm, and if read aright may serve as a vast influence for good.

The Wall That Saved Paris.

Arno Dosch in the World's Work.

To the east of Chambry's few houses runs a bad byroad. * * * Where this byroad joins the highway at the end of a hundred yards is a walled-in graveyard, one wall running at right angles to the road and facing the open fields. This wall is pocked with bullet holes except where the larger loopholes were knocked through it from within.

Just as it stands the wall should be preserved. It proved to be one of France's stoutest defenses. Before it was fought one of the terrific combats of the battle of the Marne. Against it the German army broke. It had been hurled across Belgium and nearly 150 into France, to be stopped and routed before this cemetery wall.

As a cemetery wall it is useless now, anyway. The graves outside are almost as thick as within, and they extend to the far side of the plateau. Behind the wall the immortelles were still lying all awry as they had been knocked in haste of combat. Before it the fresh graves had been dug among blood-red poppies.

In every direction, and as far as we could see for a mile, there were graves, some unmarked, which were evidently filled by blond men in dirty gray uniforms, others marked with rude crosses and by that we knew they contained darker men in badly fitting long blue coats and red trousers. The crosses were made by tying two sticks together with cord. The winter will rot the cord, and by spring German and French graves will be alike unmarked.

HOW HEAVY IS PAINT?

Probably no car owner realizes in terms of pounds how much paint he gets for his money. A maker of a large motor car figured recently that 21 pounds of paint went on the body of his car. The paint is applied in 11 coats and is finally sent out finished with as much care as the finest piano.

Telephone troubles in the tropics are largely due to the wires becoming covered with air plants.

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to assure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

Every Farmer

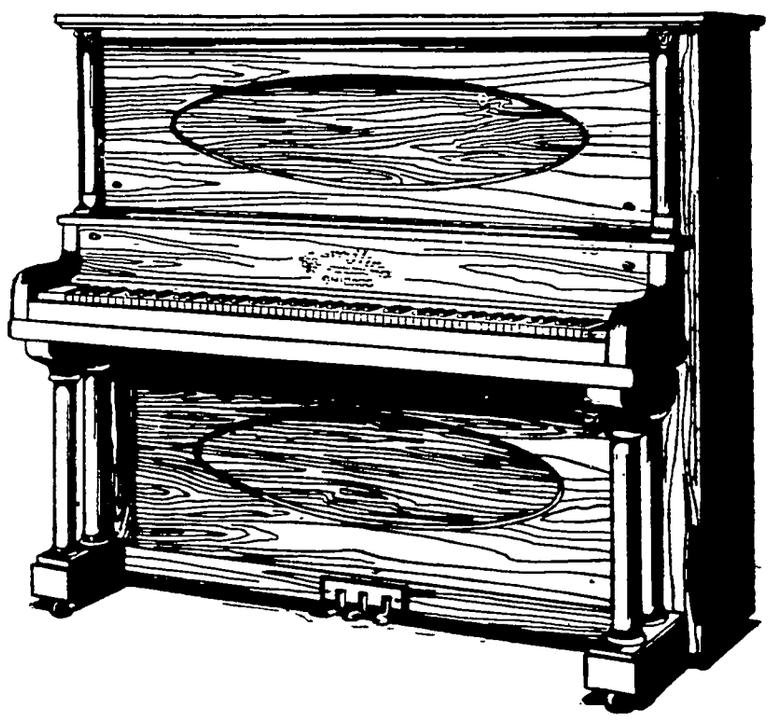
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

Baldwin-Made Instruments Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices and Reasonable Terms By

See Me First and Save Money

M. M. MAGNER

At The Times Offie

¶ Special Prices During February

USE THE NEWSPAPERS

Don't advertise on trees or rocks
Afar from haunts of men.
You cannot sell the woodchuck clocks
Or pictures for his den.

The squirrel may observe your sign
About your cure for chills,
And on it he may try to dine,
But that won't pay your bills.

The possum buys no breakfast foods,
We may as well confess.
So if you want to sell your goods
You'd better use the press.

—NEW YORK MAIL.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations

By "Our Man About Town"

Thousands of country, or rural district schools will close this month. Happily, the boys and girls attending them step out of school into immediate employment on their parent's farms. But what of our town boys and girls? Their schools will soon close—and the streets will open to them. Why not arrange, now, for something to occupy your boy's time through summer.?

With the approach of Spring, wouldn't it be a great thing for our town if the majority of the citizens would determine to do a little landscape gardening this year?

What if every home should remove any unsightly shrubbery that may have been permitted to grow in their yards or along their boulevards and replace it with really attractive plants.

All of us could do this, and we feel sure we should be glad for it after the passing [illegible] us the improved appearance of our streets and lawns

The writer knows of towns where the citizens in certain blocks engage a gardener by the season, each resident contributing a small sum toward his salary. In this way a sufficient amount can be rrised to pay a man for giving his entire attention to the lawns and boulevards of that district, and when this is done, all of them are neat and clean at all times.

Two days work each month through the summer will keep almost any yard in condition Our civic pride should force us to give them this much attention.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 22.—Washington born, 1732.

Tuesday, 23.—Bishop Vincent, born, 1832.

Wednesday, 24.—Arizona territory formed, 1863

Thursday, 25 --Devere, Earl of Essex beheaded, 1601

Friday, 26.—Victor Hugo born, 1802.

Saturday, 27 —Longfellow born, 1807

Sunday, 28 —Indian massacre in Massachusetts, 1676

MARCH

We used to say that if March came in like a lion it would go out like a lamb.

Revised version. If March approaches like a suffragette it will die as calmly as the husband of one.

But, taking her by the large, March is some month. She is just like a wild, gleeful girl, scampering hither and yon with no one even imagining what to expect of her next. Her changing skies, her warmth and cold, will most of us with grippe enfold. She tantalizes with her smiles and from our winter clothes beguiles us 'til we take them off, and then she makes us hike 'em on again She bids the sleeping daisies come and bask beneath her soothing sun, but scarcely have they left their beds until, with frost, she nips their heads.

Among important events credited to the month was the invention of the circular saw, in 1780, since which time the number of fingers have decreased prorata with the increase of population. A circular saw probaly is as reckless and inconsiderate apparatus as was ever placed before a trusting workman. Feed anything into it and it will wade through with a song of wild delight. They seem, however to be especially fond of nipping the loose ends of one's anatomy.

Stenography, too, was invented in March—1817. We have seen stenographers who looked like they might have been invented before their machines, but of course we didn't mention it to them. Stenography is a wonderful thing for the business man so long as he does not permit its wonders to detain him at the office after business hours.

The possession of Alaska is another worth-while event credited to March. Uncle Sam bought Alaska for a paltry seven million dollars, and now anyone can go up there and kick that much gold out of any mountain side. The great drawback to going to Alaska to accummulate wealth is that you can not bring it back with you. It costs more gold than any man can carry to buy a ticket back to the United States. And, since there are no movies or baseball games in Alaska, one cannot spend his wealth while abiding there, so for the present it probably will be just as well to remain at home and see how much money you can accumulate for the tax collector.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c., 50c. and $1 00

For Sale By, ED. C. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

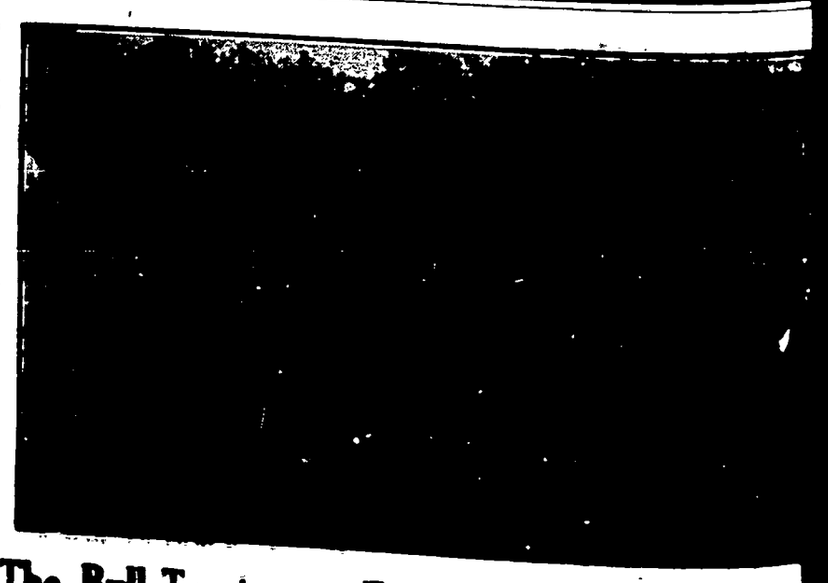
6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.



The Bull Tractor, For sale by, H. Lau & So

DR. L. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 39 KLEMME, IOWA
100% Automobile Practice

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
E. E. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
We Please Be Sure For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
Over west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Over 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 46.
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Office limited exclusively to treatment of
RHEUMATISM AND HEART
Over First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
Will buy Hogs and Grain six days in week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

COL. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
KLEMME IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
Call or Write Me For Dates.

COL. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Terms can be made at the State Savings Bank, or 'phone me at Hanley, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
For 60 cents per load, cash, paid in 30 days, after that 70cts per load, All accounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

J. PRIEBE
Painter and Paperhanger
KLEMME IOWA
Satisfaction Furnished
Reasonable Opportunity Given on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

What's your guess on the census?

Elko Bass was a Garner visitor, Friday.

Have you been able to avoid the assessor?

R. A. Schlawin transacted business at Garner, Friday

The Kirkwood cafe is sporting a new electric sign.

Read Gruetzmacher Bros. great Majestic Stove Sale ad.

Mrs. A. White went to Goodell today for a short visit.

Chas. Winters and family moved into their new home today

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale. Mrs G O Miner

Mrs. J. A Young of Garner, was here visiting friends, Friday

Miss Gretchen Blank visited her sister at Garner, Wednesday

C. E. Gibbs departed for Omaha Saturday on a business trip.

Pure, cleaned timothy seed for sale
Wm Baack

Ed. G. Fil was an over Sunday visitor with his parents in Mason City

Pure Bred Hampshire Boar for sale at right price G O Miner

Watch for Mrs. Bier's millinery opening which will be announced soon.

P. M. Griesemer was an over Sunday visitor at the parental home in Garner.

Prof. Levi Neese was an over Sunday visitor at the home of his parents in Webster City

Fred Garwein of Wheaton, North Dakota, is here for a visit with relatives and friends.

W. E. Eldridge of Ames arrived Tuesday for a few days visit with his sister, Mrs Dr Parsons

Wm. Lau returned from Chicago Thursday, where he had accompanied a shipment of his cattle.

Great Majestic Stove Sale at Gruetzmacher Bros., Monday, March 8th to Saturday, March 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kluckhohn went to Mason City Friday for a couple days visit with friends.

Ray Collum departed for his home at Brooklyn Iowa Friday for a visit at the home of his parents

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year

FOR SALE—3 Red Bulls ready for service in the spring. $65. to $75
Gibbs Bros

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place
Chas. F. Busch

I am now ready to do all kinds of violin repairing and organ cleaning 4td H. F. Ludeke.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices It will pay you to investigate J P Larsen & Sons.

Misses Josephine and Mamie White were up from Goodell, Friday, visiting at the home of their brother. A White and family

A full set of officers will be elected at the town election which will be held on the last Monday in March. Who is your choice?

Klemme should show a gain of 60 per cent over the 1910 census. You can help out the assessor in his census taking, if you only will.

The Misses Miller and their cousins, George Salber and sister, Miss Barbara, of Petersburg, Nebraska, were Garner visitors, Saturday.

John Henschen returned Thursday from Chicago, where he had been for the past two weeks taking in the sights and the cement show.

Tom Elder and daughter, Miss Evalyn, returned from Goodell, Saturday, where they had been visiting relatives and friends for a few days.

Mrs. F. W. Kluckhohn enjoyed a few days visit this week from her mother from Thompson. That new grandson was the principal attraction.

Mrs. Bier will soon be ready to show you the finest line of millinery ever offered for sale in Klemme and at prices that are right. Watch for the Easter opening announcement

Mrs. Henry Griewe and daughter, Mrs Ella Ortmeyer of Fort Dodge, who is here for a visit, were Garner visitor, Friday.

Great Majestic Stove Sale at Gruetzmacher Bros., Monday, March 8th to Saturday, March 13th. An $8.00 set of ware free during the sale only.

George Salber and sister, Miss Barbara, of Petersburg, Nebraska, departed for their home today after a two weeks visit at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and family.

Mrs A. Church and two children, accompanied by Miss Jennie Christie, came up from Goodell, Saturday, for a days visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elder, and her sister, Mrs. A White.

Mrs. T. F. Mitchell went to Dows, Friday evening to meet her sister-in law, Mrs. Jesse Keraus of Watertown, South Dakota, who accompanied her home for a visit with the Mitchell's and the Wm Kerans home.

SEWING WANTED—I have decided to do sewing for the public, and will guarantee all work intrusted to me will be found at the Wm Fuller home just west of the English M E. church. Miss Rose Yahnke 29p.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefullness to you.
Dr R W Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia

J S Pritchard was up from Belmond Friday for a visit at the W R Bloom home The Bloom and Prichard families are planning a trip which will take them through the Panama canal and up to San Francisco.

When you want it you get it. When you don't want it you don't get it. and don t you forget it at the North elevator
Yours for business,
Grain, Coal and Live Stock,
A C Lau & Son

Business is good, bull sales will continue until March 1st at the same prices but will raise after March 1st We now average one sale a day Take our advice and buy a bull while the sale is on and save money.
Gibbs Bros.

Vic Carlson came up from Atkins Friday, where he has been managing an elevator for a few days visit with his brother and many friends. He has resigned his position at Atkins, and will accept the management of an elevator and feed business at Palo,

Plumb Gorkow went up to Hayfield, Saturday for an over Sunday visit with friends and to take in the home talent play, "Valley Farm" He reports the play as being very good and the young people who put it on are thinking of putting it on here in the near future

Those who failed to hear Dr. L. G. Herbert at the opera house. Monday evening, in his lecture, "Cash Conscience and Country," missed a rare treat and one of the best things that has ever happened in Klemme since we have been here. This was Dr. Herbert's second appearadce in Klemme and is good for a number of more His treatise of the Euaopean conflict was an eye opener to some of the audience.

I have a splendid, improved leve half section 3½ miles from Barton I offer at only $30. per acre—It's a bargain Why buy $200 per acre and when you can get this good North Dakota farm at $30. per acre? It is bound to more than double in price quickly and will make you a fine home and a good profit. Write for particulars, address C. H. Gillmore Barton N Dak

The following stock shipment were made from this place, Wednesday and Saturday evenings of last week: A. C. Lau & Son, 2 cars of hogs Wednesday and 3 cars Saturday: W. R. Bloom a car of hogs Wednesday evening and 2 cars Saturday; H. R. Stroemer, a car of cattle Wednesday and W. C. Schmidt a car of cattle Saturday. Mr. Stroemer and Mr. Schmidt accompanied their shipments.

We neglected to mention last week that Cole & Morrison purchased a full car load of horses here Tuesday, for which they paid good prices. Mr. Morrison informed the writer that they would be here again in about a month when they would be in the market for any kind of horse the farmer might want to bring in. Watch for their ad. later as they are good square dealers.

MILLINERY

Watch for the spring opening. There will be a complete line of all the newest and latest styles in trimmed hats at prices that are right.
Mrs. C. F. Bier
Old P. O. building.

Neese Has Hat in the Ring

Prof. Levi Neese of the Klemme schools is a candidate for county superintendent of his home county of Hamilton. There are two other candidates and the fight promises to be warm. Levi is a hustler and an excellent school man and would make a good superintendent. His many friends at this place would like to see him land the job but would regret to see him leave here.

Moves To Town

Wm. Bachman and family moved in from the farm lastweek and moved into their property which they purchased last fall from F. H. Ridder. Mr. Ridder and family recently moved into their fine new home just north of the garage. Fred Raddloff has moved onto the Bachman farm. We welcome the Bachman family to town and hope they will enjoy living in our little city.

Buys a Prize Winner

Oscar Swanson returned Friday, from New Hampton and Germania, where he had been attending a couple of Chester White sales. He purchased the prize winning Chester White boar of the 1914 Iowa State fair at New Hampton and a couple of elegant brood sows at Germania. These animals will make an excellent addition to his already fine herd, and Mr. Swanson certainly does not spare the coin to keep his herd up among the top-notchers of the state.

GOSH! WE'RE GETTIN' OLD

Editor M. M. Magner of the Klemme Times was here Wednesday evening with a full line of 1916 calenders that he was selling to our business men. He took several orders and while here made his headquarters in this den. We have known Mike for many years, in fact for about 15 years, we believe it was that long ago that he made many trips to Titonka from Germania. That was when he was courting one of Titonka's pretty girls. —Titonka Topic.

A Whole Nest Full

We pass the following on with no explanation than that found in the in the last sentence: "A woman in West Virginia has been married three times. Her maiden name was Partridge, her first husband was named Robins, her second Sparrow, the present Quale. There are now two young Robins, one Sparrow and three little Quales in the family. One grandfather was a Swan and another a Jay but he's dead now and a bird of Paradise. They live on Hawk avenue, Eagleville, Canary Island and the fellow who wrote this is a Lyre and a relative of the family."

A SERIOUS ERROR

Letter recieved by a Georgia game warden:

"Der Ser: I don't want this sorter licents. I thot i was gettin' a Marridge licents, sumbudy sent me to mr. ——and sed he would gimme a licents, mandy was so mad when i got back with this here hunten licents she would not have Me. She sed i didn't have sents anuff to git marridge licents, so she ups and runs off with bill johnson and i Am in a hel of fixt. i wants my muney back unless this hear licents will let me 'shoot bill johnson, yours most truly.

Sam Jackson

emedy—oc at all good Druggists.

e school of experience has no mencement It's a perpetual se

nicia
No
by k

Winter Chil

spell of cold, damp weather is ys followed by a fine crop of kid- troubles and backache.

olds and chills damage the kid- . Other troubles common to win- weather are just as bad. Grip, ton- is, quinsy, pneumonia or any other ctious disease hurts the kidneys verloading the blood with poisons. kidneys get worn, weak and in- ed trying to work it off.

isn't hard to strengthen weak eys though, if you act quickly. the first sign of backache, dizzy ls, headaches, loss of weight, nerv- ess, depression and painful, irreg- kidney action, start using Doan's ney Pills. Rest the kidneys by ple eating, avoidance of overwork worry, and getting more rest and p. A milk diet is fine.

his sensible treatment should g quick benefit and prevent seri- kidney diseases like dropsy, el and Bright's disease.

ip this advertisement and mail it he address below for a free trial Doan's Kidney Pills, the best rec-

When Your DOAN'S

The Latest Creations in Spring Millinery

BEGINNING

Friday, March 5th

We Will Conduct an Open House for our Spring Millinery, Beautiful Decorations. A Resplendent Display of Hats in the Most Gorgeous yet Tasteful Color Effects are here to await your praise. We feel assured we can please you no matter how exacting your taste may be.

We Have Been Very Fortunate to Secure Miss Bieber, a first-class trimmer of 10 years experience who is favorably known to please.

A 10% Discount or a Useful Article awarded to every purchasing costumer.

Yours to please,

Mrs. John Josten

Watch for Easter Opening

Beginning February 6th

You will find some splendid values in

Winter Blankets at Prices that will Surprise You

at the

General Merchandise Store

of

J. N. DAY

BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK "CASCARETS"

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months Adv.

A Natural Fear.

Old Hound -Come come' What are you shivering about"

The Pup- Why I just heard the master say he'd have to put me through the mill

Old Hound Yes he s going to train you for the hunting

The Pup—Oh' I thought he meant the sausage mill Pittsburgh Dispatch

MEAT CLOGS KIDNEYS THEN YOUR BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You—Drink Lots of Water.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness dizziness sleeplessness and urinar disorders come from sluggish kidneys

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment irregular of passage or attended b a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications —Adv

In After Years.

Beauty remarked the poetic youth may draw us with a single hair

"During the courtship, yes" rejoined the bald-headed man with a sigh. but after marriage she is more likely to grab a handful"

SELF SHAMPOOING

With Cuticura Soap Is Most Comforting and Beneficial. Trial Free.

Especially if preceded by touches of Cuticura Ointment to spots of dandruff and itching on the scalp skin. These supercreamy emollients meet every skin want as well as every toilet and nursery want in caring for the skin scalp, hair and hands.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard Cuticura, Dept XY, Boston Sold everywhere —Adv

Pas Vindictiveness.

The Fox has failed

That is like him' I told you a little darling that he was going to do all he could to keep us from being married Stray Stories

When Your Eyes Need Care

Use Murine Eye Medicine. No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly Try It for Red, Weak, Sore Eyes and Granulated Eyelids, Murine is compounded by our Oculists—not a "Patent Medicine"—but used in successful Physicians' Practice for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 50c per Bottle Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c and 50c. Write for Book of the Eye Free. Murine Eye Remedy Company, Chicago. Adv.

Wears Many Crowns.

He—She's a thoroughly queenly woman

She—Yes, even her teeth have gold crowns —Town Topics.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

One little taste of defeat is difficult to swallow.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson.

CHAPTER XXVII.—(Continued).

"Oh, of course!" he sneered. "I ought to have seen through it! I ought to have suspected, even when I found you tryin' to interview him; even when I got him off the boat myself; even when I went through his papers and found them all right—yes even to the photograph on his passport! That's plain enough now, aint it' If people only had as good foresight as they have hindsight, how easy it would be!"

"Look here, Grady," said Godfrey, more kindly. "I haven't anything against you personally, and I admit that it was foolish of me to stand there talking to Crochard and never suspect who he was. But that's all beside the mark. You're at the head of the detective bureau, and you're the man who is responsible for all this. You're energetic enough and all that; but you're not fit for your job—it's too big for you, and you know it. Take my advice, and go to the 'phone there and send in your resignation."

Grady stared at him as though unable to believe his ears.

"'Phone in my resignation!" he echoed. "What kind of a fool do you think I am?"

"I see you're a bigger one than I thought you were' Your pull can't help you any longer Grady"

"Was it to tell me that you got me over here?"

"No," said Godfrey 'all this is just incidental—you began the discussion yourself, didn't you? I got you here to meet * * *"

The outer door opened again, and Godfrey looked toward it, smiling.

"Mooseer Piggott'" announced the office boy

And then I almost bounced from my seat, for I would have sworn that the man who stood on the threshold was the man who had opened the secret drawer

He came forward, looking from face to face, then his eyes met Godfrey's and he smiled

"Behold that I am here monsieur," he said and I started anew at the voice, for it was the voice of Crochard. "I hope that I have not kept you waiting."

"Not at all M Pigot' Godfrey assured him, and placed a chair for him.

I could see Grady and Simmonds gripping the arms of their chairs and staring at the newcomer their mouths open, and I knew the thought that was flashing through their brains. Was this Pigot? Or was the man who had opened the cabinet Pigot" Or was was neither Pigot Was it possible that this could be a different man than the one who had opened the cabinet?

I confess that some such thought flashed through my own mind a suspicion that Godfrey in some way was playing with us

Godfrey looked about at us smiling as he saw our expressions

"I went down the bay this morning and met the Savoie" he said I related to M. Pigot last night's occurrences and begged him to be present at this meetings. He was good enough to agree I assure you he relished seeing Grady s look that this is M Pigot of the Paris Service du Surete and not Crochard."

"Oh, yes, said M Pigot with a deprecating shrug I am myself and greatly humiliated that I should have fallen so readily into the trap which Crochard set for me. But he was a very clever man"

"It was certainly a very bold disguise" I said I [illegible] it was an impersonation.

Crochard has had occasion to study me explained M Pigot dryly. "And he is an artist in what he does But some day I shall get him every pitcher to the well goes once too often There is no hope of finding him in New York"

I am afraid not said Godfrey

"Don't be too sure of that' broke in Grady ponderously I aint done yet - not by no manner of means '

"Pardon me for not introducing you M Pigot" said Godfrey This gentleman is Mr Grady who has been the head of our detective bureau this is Mr Simmonds, a member of his staff this is Mr Lester an attorney and friend of mine and this is Mr Shearrow, my personal counsel. Mr Grady Mr Simmonds and Mr Lester were present last night," he added blandly, "when Crochard opened the secret drawer."

Grady reddened visibly and even I felt my face grow hot M Pigot looked at us with a smile of amusement.

"It must have been a most interesting experience," he said, to have seen Crochard at work. I have never had that privilege But I regret that he should have made good his escape."

"More especially since he took the Michaelovitch diamonds with him, added.

"Before we go into that," said Godfrey, with a little smile, "there are one or two questions I should like to ask you, M Pigot, in order to clear some minor details which are as yet little obscure. Is it true that the thief of the Michaelovitch diamonds was planned by Crochard?"

"Undoubtedly. No other thief France would be capable of it."

Is it also true that no direct evidence could be found against him?

That also is true monsieur. He had arranged the affair so cleverly that were wholly unable to convict him unless we should find him with stolen brilliants in his possession."

"And you were not able to do that

"No, we could discover no trace the brilliants, though we searched them everywhere."

"But you did not know of the Boule cabinet and of the secret drawer?"

No: of that we knew nothing. must examine that famous cabinet.

"It is worth examining, And it an interesting history. But you know, of course, that Crochard would seek a market for the diamonds he America?"

"We knew that he would try to so, and we did everything in our power to prevent it. We especially upon your customs department search most thoroughly the belongings of every person with whom they were not personally acquainted."

"The customs people did their part" said Godfrey with a chuckle. "They have quite upset the country. But the diamonds got in, in spite of them. It was, of course, a cabinet imported by a man so well known and so above suspicion as Mr. Vantine was passed without question!"

"Yes," agreed M. Pigot, a little bitterly. "It was a most clever plan; now, no doubt, Crochard can sell the brilliants at his leisure."

"Not if you've got a good description of them," protested Grady. "I'll make it a point to warn every dealer in the country; I'll keep my whole force on the job; I'll get Chief Wilkie to lend me some of his men

"Oh, there is no use taking all trouble," broke in Godfrey, negligently. "Crochard won't try to sell them."

"Won't try to sell them?" echoed Grady. "What's the reason he won't?"

"Because he hasn't got them," answered Godfrey, smiling with an evidently deep enjoyment of Grady's dazed countenance.

"Oh, come off!" said that worthy disgustedly. "If he hasn't got 'em I'd like to know who has!"

"I have," said Godfrey, and cleared my desk with a sweep of his arm. "Spread out your handkerchief, Lester," and as I dazedly obeyed, he picked up the little leather bag, opened it, and poured out its contents in a sparkling flood. "There," he added, turning to Grady, "are the Michaelovitch diamonds."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

CROCHARD WRITES AN EPILOGUE.

For an instant, we gazed at the glittering heap with dazzled eyes; then Grady, with an inarticulate cry, sprang to his feet and picked up a handful of the diamonds, as though to convince himself of their reality.

"But I don't understand!" he gasped. "Have you got Crochard, too?"

"No such luck," said Godfrey.

"Do you mean to say he'd give these up without a fight!"

The same thought was in my own mind, if Godfrey had run down Crochard and got the diamonds, without a life-and-death struggle, that engaging rascal must be much less formidable than I had supposed.

"My dear Grady," said Godfrey, "I haven't seen Crochard since the minute you took him off the boat I'd have had him, if you had let Simmonds call me. That's what I had planned. But he was too clever for us. I knew that he would come today . . ."

"You knew that he would come today?" repeated Grady blankly "How did you know that—or is it merely hot air?"

"I knew that he would come," said Godfrey curtly. "because he wrote and told me so."

M Pigot laughed a dry little laugh.

"That is a favorite device of his," he said, "and he always keeps his word"

"The trouble was," continued Grady, "that I didn't look for him so early in the day and so he was able to send me on a wild-goose chase after a sensation that didn't exist There's where I was a fool But I discovered the secret drawer 10 days ago—while the cabinet was still at Vantine's—the evening after the veiled lady got her letters It was easy enough. I am surprised you didn't think of it, Lester"

"Think of what?" I asked

"Of the key to the mystery The drawer containing the letters was on the left side of the desk I saw at once that there must be another drawer, opened in the same way on the right side

I didn't see it,' I said "I don't see it yet

"Think a minute Why was Drouet killed? Because he opened the wrong drawer He pressed the combination at the right side of the desk instead of that at the left side The fair Julie must have thought the drawer was on the right side instead of the left [illegible] it was very easy to make such a mistake Julie's mistress doubtless had been last turned when Julie saw her open the drawer The suspicion that Julie's mistake becomes certainty when she shows the combination of Vantine and he is killed too [illegible] the veiled lady herself made a second which revealed the whole story

I didn't notice it' I said resignedly "What was it"

"That she was accustomed to opening the drawer with her left hand, instead of with her right After that there could be no further doubt So I discovered the drawer very simply. It had to be there."

"Yes" I said, "and then?"

"Then I removed the jewels, took them down to a dealer in paste gems and duplicated them as closely as I could I had a hard time getting a good copy of this big rose-diamond."

He picket it from the heap and held it up between his fingers.

"It's a beauty, isn't it?" he asked.

M Pigot smiled a dry smile.

"It is the Mazarin," he said "and is worth 3,000,000 francs. There is a copy of it at the Louvre"

"So that's true, is it?" I asked. "Crochard told us the story"

"It is unquestionably true," said M. Pigot. "It is not a secret, it is [illegible] have [illegible] front A [illegible] in to [illegible] the head tin [illegible] dect." [illegible] pol [illegible] as- [illegible] ral [illegible] saw the trup- [illegible] int [illegible] by a [illegible] sh [illegible] ho [illegible] nig [illegible] om [illegible] S [illegible] Ma [illegible] ral [illegible] ha [illegible] ma [illegible] me [illegible] wo [illegible] so [illegible] wo [illegible] aft [illegible] wo [illegible] Ur [illegible] se [illegible] ca [illegible] go [illegible] gr [illegible] ac [illegible] no [illegible] m [illegible] in [illegible] to [illegible] bu [illegible] re [illegible] St [illegible] m [illegible] re [illegible] go [illegible] al [illegible] pl [illegible] at [illegible] ci

By [illegible] oney

[illegible] NER

[illegible] g February

RAILWAY EXTRAVAGANCE IN SWAGGER OFFICES

Among other things which the railroads have learned from adversity are new ways in which to economize in their expenditures. In four months of the current fiscal year 15 roads are said to have saved $1,418,000 on the cost of moving traffic. Among their neglected opportunities for economy, The Wall Street Journal cites giving up the expensive lower Broadway offices which many roads maintain It doubts the need of fine New York offices for many western roads. Following are points in the article

"A president of one of the largest railroads recently 'let out' several attendants who had been ostensibly busying themselves around his offices, but who in reality spent their time alternately dozing, doing odd errands, and performing personal valet service. These men were private car cooks and porters who when off the road were retained around the offices, and, in fact spent the most of their time there

"This gave the president an idea, and he went through headquarters and found a small army of favorite cooks and favorite porters being retained by officials. The president did some more 'firing,' but the best part of it was that he did not stop there. The idea was a big one. He has started experts in to find other leaks. At present all officials other than the general managers have to draft their cooks and porters from the regular dining car service when it becomes necessary to make a private car business trip. In a short time there promises to be other minor, but, in the aggregate big savings.

"This president may even conclude that he can get along without a private office which measures 40x30 feet at $2.50 per square foot, or $3,000 rental per annum, and that his vice presidents might possibly be able to get along with 400 square feet each instead of 800 feet, and that secretaries and assistants, ets., ad libitum, can work just as well, without being crowded, in less expensive and luxurious suites. Perhaps if the incentive to save becomes acute enough, the $450 rug in the directors' room could be dispensed with, also the 25-cent cigars and expensive luncheons frequently set up at these meetings Even the rental for the directors' room might advantageously be saved if the president's private office is not reduced to less than 800 square feet and can still accommodate 10 or 12 directors.

"Certainly, long before the railroad gets to rock bottom, it will occur to the president that it might be just as well to secure offices for his headquarters in some other less expensive locality than on lower Broadway, where rentals are high and no more advantageous than they would be on Fourth avenue or in Harlem, or possibly Jersey City or Hoboken At any of these locations the president could possibly construct a modest but comfortable building for the exclusive use of his entire office force with the $300 000 rental he now pays per annum for his New York offices and save thereby $200 000 a year after allowing for interest on the cost of the new building, taxes, maintenance and operation

"Some of the presidents of Western railroads might be led to wonder why they maintain expensive offices in New York when their nearest rails are 1 000 of 1,500 miles away One western system occupies three floors in an expensive building on lower Broadway at a rental of $108,000 per annum and maintains an office force and other so-called requirements which probably brings the total New York expenses up to two or three times as much. Another road operating west of the Mississippi maintains offices in New York that require annually $300 000 from the treasury out west."

Boys Spoiled By Kindness.

From the Columbus Dispatch

[illegible] kindness to their children Here is a bright looking well dressed young man, probably 21 years old looking for a job To speak more accurately he is looking for a salary the job is immaterial for he has no aptitude as far as he knows, for anything in particular and he has not yet learned to do anything well His whole capital on arriving at manhood estate, is a bright face fashionable clothes good health and a need of money to pay his way He has lived in a good, comfortable home and has been the idol of his mother and the special care of an indulgent father who has no business to which the son can be trained

If he goes to the city what a dreary waste of unemployment there is before him at this time If he goes to the country, what a lot of hard work there is for his hands unused to manual labor and what meager returns in money to provide the luxuries that have now come to be to him necessities. It is a hard choice to which he has come utterly unprepared. And who are at fault? The blame can not be put wholly on the boy He has come naturally into his love for fine clothes and easy money He has vaguely realized perhaps, that back of it all is labor, but he has not been trained to perform it In all the years of his life he has been protected from the hardships of life by the persons who love him most But how inadequately has that love been expressed It has safeguarded the boy till now, but it has presented him a sacrifice to the struggle for existence His good qualities may save him yet, but why were they not supplemented by an adequate training for an early success? Why, at any rate, has he not learned the truth that opportunity is always right at hand and that small, independent beginnings may make the greatest endings and never fail to make for success in that field or another? These are questions which he may one day ask his loving parents and which they may in turn ask themselves in reproach

Death of the "Buy a Bale" Movement.

From the Kansas City Star

More than 10,000,000 bales of cotton, worth $400,000,000, have been marketed by growers out of the 1914 crop Of this quantity more than 4,000,000 bales, worth $160,000,000 have been exported

The figures are here given to show the foolishness of all the projects proposed in the weeks following the outbreak of the war to help the south There was the "buy a bale" movement the $135 000,000 loan pool, the efforts by southern congressmen to push a bill through congress for the issue of paper money to buy cotton and numerous others.

The "buy a bale" movement was nothing but noise. Only $10,000 of the $135,000,000 loan fund pledged by bankers was applied for. Thanks to the positive and clear opposition of Secretary McAdoo, the congressional aid schemes failed

Meantime it has been demonstrated that the south could take care of itself, that its last cotton crop had a substantial value and could be sold as soon as the world's markets became readjusted to the extraordinary conditions arising from the war.

It is true that the price of cotton is much lower than in recent years, but it is also true that the price is high enough to put hundreds of millions of dollars in circulation in the south and to give a marked revival of business in that part of the country.

A Government of Lawyers

By Richard E. Ely in the American Review of Reviews.

Our present system gives us a government of lawyers to an extent known in no other civilized land, and very largely a government of second and third rate lawyers. Lawyers can best take up and lay down public office, but even lawyers of the first rank take office at a personal loss. Inferior lawyers get larger incomes in office than in practice, and frequently win new clients.

Arizona in 1912 produced 350,000,000 pounds of copper.

PASTE THESE TIPS ON CARE OF AUTO ON WALL

Methods and materials for finishing the bodies and running gear of motor cars have been brought to a high state of perfection, but it is well to remember that there are certain abuses against which no finish however perfect and durable, can long endure.

No varnish will endure being scrubbed with a brush or with hot water. No varnish will withstand the chemical action of ammonia or any kind of lye soap nor any of the common washing fluids or powders. No varnish will stand having dust or mud rubbed off nor will it endure the grits of dust and mud driven into it by the water blast from a high pressure hose to which it is often subjected.

Use water at 60 degrees or lower and a soft, clean cloth or sponge. It is best to use no kind of soap unless it be pure castile. Mud, wet or dry, should be removed with flowing water squeezed from a clean sponge or flowing from a hose with little pressure—never with a water blast.

When not in use keep the car covered with a soft lined cover. All dust contains grit and all smoke contains acid, and against these a cloth cover offers adequate protection.

However well varnish has endured our weather testing, it may be seriously affected by instant extremes of temperature. A glass dish may be filled with boiling water (slowly) without cracking it and may be filled with ice water (slowly), but it will invariably crack if plunged instantly from boiling water into ice water and vice versa.

Some useful "don'ts" follow:

Don't allow curious persons to lay their hands on the varnish of your car—it creates instant change of temperature

Don't keep your car in a stable or near horses. Ammonia fumes are deadly to varnish.

Don't keep it in the coldest possible place Long continued cold freezes the wood and fills the metal with frost, which affects the varnish. If you cannot have artificial heat in the garage, at least have it warmly built Keep out drafts and keep it clean

Don't assume that any varnish can last forever Good varnish lasts a reasonable length of time, even with careless treatment but it lasts two or three times as long if you treat it well.

Germany Threatens Piracy.

From the Philadelphia Ledger

Between the action of Germany in proclaiming a 'war zone' and the action of Great Britain in proclaiming a "war area," there is an obvious and vital difference One is an unjustifiable and the other a justifiable measure of war Any discussion of the subject which does not keep this difference in mind must rest upon incorrect premises and proceed to illogical conclusions The conditions which have made the North sea dangerous to neutral shipping are wholly unlike those which will make the English channel, the Irish sea and all the waters surrounding the British isles much more dangerous

Great Britain has taken every possible means to avert disasters, while Germany apparently does not intend to take any means whatever The mines in the North sea, which were not laid by the British admiralty until self-defense compelled it, are in well defined sections. Merchant vessels are warned to keep away from these, but safe routes are laid out for their protection and pilots are furnished to take them to port. No wholesale destruction is contemplated

German naval authorities, on the other hand propose to leave such vessels to shift for themselves There is to be a paper blockade, not only of British, French and Belgian ports but of Dutch, Norwegian, Swedish and Danish No protection against the threatened peril is possible, because it is a constantly shifting peril which no human foresight can avert.

Submarines, with which Germany intends to prey upon commerce, without overmuch regard for the nationality of the victim, are entirely outfitted for such work. Their sole aim is to destroy, and they have no facilities for taking off non-combatants If an ocean liner were sunk, the passengers would have to be turned adrift in small boats and the mails and cargo would go to the bottom with the hull It is needless to say that this is little less than sheer piracy It betrays a shocking disregard for all the rules of warfare, for the principles of international law and for the considerations of ordinary humanity Such a policy is as stupid as it is cruel. Neutral nations are bound by self-interest as well as by morality to protest against it

Germany has sacrificed her good name for a mess of pottage

The Spirit of England.

Gregory Mason, in the Outlook

Germany seems to have counted upon the psychological value of the naval raid more than upon any direct strategical advantages that she might get from it

In that she was disappointed Not only has the morale of the British people been unshaken by the terror that flies by night, but it seems to have gained a new firmness

This spirit was exemplified by the rector of St Peter's at Yarmouth who said. "It's our privilege who live on the east coast to be on the firing line, and we should brace ourselves to face the position with brave hearts.'

A privilege indeed' A privilege to live in an undefended coast town which any day may be battered to dust by swift cruisers slipping in from the sea, and which any night may be blown from its foundations by leviathans wheeling in the impenetrable sky' This is the spirit of Nelson at the Nile It is the spirit of Duncan facing the whole Dutch fleet off the Texel with only two vessels of his own, it is the spirit of Sir Richard Grenville, to whom it was a "privilege" to hurl the cocky little Revenge alone against 50 galleons of Spain But observe that the speaker this time is not an adventure hardened English admiral but a respectable English clergyman who probably loves his Christmas plum pudding and wears rubber overshoes when it rains. This is a spirit that is yet to be reckoned with by Germany a nation itself which breeds as few cowards as any Changing Ideas of Luxury.

Here is a symbolic story that is going the rounds of the Kansas press. "Twenty years ago I bought a pair of $2 kid gloves. My salary was $18 a month and board. Five years later I found myself with a salary of $50 a month, one good wife and both of us to feed and clothes I bought myself a pair of $1 gloves. Five years later there were two children, my salary was $75 a month and I found that a 50 cent pair of yarn mittens about fitted my case. Five years later my salary had increased to $100 a month, my family numbered three besides myself and wife, and a pair of 25 cent mittens covered my hands. This year I find myself 40 years old, drawing a salary of $125 a month, four children, one good old wife and, durn my skin, I went down town and bought me a pair of cotton flannel gloves. 10 cents a pair, six pairs for 50 cents."

The Old Names Have Passed.

From the Chicago Post.

"The young men present," we quote from the New York Times' record of a debutante dinner, were "Messrs. Jules Glaenzer, Jesse Metcalf, Nicolas Danforth, Malcolm Meachaem, Howard Marshall, Wallace Reilly, Clarence Michaels and Nicholas Lenssen."

Not a Bill, Jack, or Tom in the lot.

What are we coming to? Our good American girls were turned into Mae, Alys and Aileen as the Robert W. Chambers era reached its climax, and now our boys are being lyricized, too.

It's too bad. As names, we prefer Dink Botts and Bud Doble. They may be ugly, but they are our own.

Tuscany's olive crop is estimated at 106,400, tons.

Catarrh of Kidneys Cured By Peruna

"I had Catarrh of the Kidneys and Bladder. I Am Very Thankful For Peruna. I Feel Well, My tongue is clear, I have no bitter taste in mouth. I am glad to do not need Peruna longer, I am perfectly well I have Peruna in the house all the time. When I have a cold or when I do not feel well I take Peruna. We were all sick with the grippe last winter. We took Peruna and it helped us. Peruna is the best medicine for colds or colds."

Mrs. Gus. H. Carlson, Rex [illegible] Leaville, Miss.

DIDN'T WANT TO MEET

Colored Parson's Description of Satanic Majesty Brought Congregation to Mourners' Bench.

The late celebrated Peter [illegible] who in days gone by used to make periodical visits to Danville [illegible] Advocate, for the purpose of preaching his sermons, remarkable for the amount of their startling texts, on one occasion spoke to a large assemblage of the colored population and a few whites at the old colored Methodist church on Walnut street. He [illegible] raised his spectacles from his nose and said:

"My beloved brederen and sisters I take my tex' dis evenin' in de 6th verse uv de Scriptur' whar de Apostle Paul pints his pistol at de Philippians an' whar it says. Whar de Lawd scratches dar's de worm gets in de case whar sum previs [illegible] dar'" He then proceeded to tell his hearers what a horrible personal appearance the devil presented, giving the following description His eyes were like two balls uv fire, his teef like skinned saplins, his ears hang down like a 'baccer leaf an' his breath smelled like a tar kittle." That night he made many converts

Much More Cheerful.

"A scientist says that the earth is never cool off."

"I'm very glad to hear that.

"What difference does it make to you who will be dead millions of years before anything of the sort can happen, anyhow?"

"Well, it's more cheerful to think of his old world, so good spite of its faults, rolling along through sunshine 30,000,000 years from now with a warm, throbbing load of human freight, than to picture it as a late ball of ice plunging through eternal darkness."

His Point of View

"What is your idea of matrimony?" asked the fair maid who was occupying the anxious seat

"Well," rejoined the wise chap, "if Adam had balked at the hurdle it's all right for those who haven't to worry."

Too Much to Bear.

Friend—Why are you crying?

Bobby—Ma whipped me because my face was dirty, and then was [illegible] Judge.

There would be more hermits if they could be fitted up with all modern conveniences.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE Agrees With Him About

A trained nurse says In practice of my profession I have many points in favor of Grape-Nuts food that I unhesitatingly recommend it to all my patients.

"It is delicate and pleasing to the palate (an essential in food for the sick) and can be adapted to the weakest being softened with milk or cream for babies or the aged when deficiency of teeth renders mastication impossible. For fever patients or those on a liquid diet I find Grape-Nuts and hot water very nourishing and refreshing.

"This recipe is my own idea and is made as follows: Soak a teaspoonful of Grape-Nuts in a glass of hot water an hour, strain and serve with the well beaten white of an egg and a little spoonful of fruit juice for flavouring. This affords a great deal of nourishment and even the weakest stomach can retain it late without any distress.

"My husband is a physician and uses Grape-Nuts himself and prescribes it many times for his patients.

"Personally I regard a dish of Grape-Nuts with fresh or stewed fruit as the ideal breakfast for anyone well or sick."

In stomach trouble, nervous prostration, etc., a 10-day trial of Grape-Nuts will usually work wonders in nourishing and rebuilding along the right way and the trouble. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in pkgs. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville"

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd Mead & Co

CHAPTER I.

CHILDREN IN THE GIANT'S CASTLE.

Most of the place had their ... the severely grey brick ... stood at the top of the hill ... the town. They called it ... Giant's Castle." Not because it ... ted by a creature of unusual ... one of prodigious strength, ... childish fancy is so prone ... visible aspects with those ... the imagination. The house, ... insistent in its dominance ... youthful vision, was not far re... that which their tender ... were pleased to consider a ... for certain stupendous ..., whose acquaintance they ..., as have all other children ... education has not been stunted ... and unfeeling parents—... the medium of fairy books and ... maids' tales. Their small ... imaginations seized upon the ... unusually peaceful abode as ... illustration of what an ogre's ... to be, and no amount of ... in the shape of realism ... that impression until they ... the delights and fears of nur... ature.

... that two very small chil... in "The Giant's Castle," ... fear of being devoured by ... thereof, militated not a ... the juvenile fancy of ... Sea, notwithstanding ... ground and Sunday school as...

... occupants of the house were ... into account. If they had ... would have been no excuse ... It pleased the very young ... that there were other and ... creatures lurking behind ..., weatherstained walls; it ... to believe that each of the ... windows in the cupola ... a peephole through which ... giant peered in quest of the ... "Englishmun." And so, ... a delicious dread of the ... yet romped with the two ... about the yard and ... rooms—(when opportunity, ... of an invitation to "come ...," presented itself). All of ... to prove that nursery tales ... only when one has gone ... is left alone in the dark.

... matter of fact, the people who ... big grey house, from mas... were as mortal as mor... he. To be quite precise, the ... himself was a very superior ... in that he set himself ... example for all other men ... succeeded in coming quite ... standard was not so much a ... to him as it was a sat... to them.

... was a most exemplary ... to virtue and morality he was ... Yet, while he was respected, ... feared. No one fears a ... man. If the town in which ... lived had been a trifle ... actually was in the mat... it is quite likely he ... been respected. But it ... town, and the good are al... in small towns. The ... there, and they are ... It is a simple process, ... to be moral and upright ... are so narrow that one ... pursue a straight course ... consequences of a bump ... neighbor's wall, which in... built close up to the path ... eyes as well as ears.

... that everyone in Corinth... respected Mr. Blagden, my ... be taken with a grain ... has its degrees, and ... its analysts. Down along ... there were drinking ... in them were profane phil... who maintained that Mr. ... no better than other men ... beneath his skin. Un..., of course. But, if you got ... drinking places, adjacent ... paths were necessarily ... not all restricted, you ... be set straight again as ... real standing in the ... The doubts were confined ... unregenerate men called ... everyone knows that a ... good in a landsman. ..., and he never will. We ..., take it for granted, ... windy opinions of those ... seadogs, that Mr. Blagden ... high esteem in which he ... by the people of Corinth.

... what is more to the point, ... were not citizens of Cor... inhabitants of the Seamen's ... in the nearby village of ...

... was what you might describe ... of Corinth. It pleased the ... to speak of it as a suburb ... in the land. At home, in ... of the municipality, they ... Todville in the same ... Among themselves, ... upon the village with con... and a great deal of ... It was like a growth upon ... placid countenance of Cor...

... have been very excellent ... this uncharitable attitude ... the smug citizens of Cor... was in the path of ex... I do not mean to say that the ... clung like a barnacle ... its big sister, was in any ... striction to the commercial ... growth of Corinth. Not at ... in the way of civic pride, ... because it occupied the ... spot of ground to be ... along the coast for ... Inasmuch as it was with... walk of the most fash... exclusive residence district ... because it was in itself ... humble witness to the ... splendor it halted. Tod... spot, though cov... Todville and its half hun... out of the way, Corinth ... been able to spread its ... and fly out from its ... to settle down upon a ... stretch of earth, there ... with all the arrog... peacock, while the world ... envied.

... Todville stood in the ... point that ran out ... and ironic, with its ... up and down the ... heights one could ... across and beyond the ... of haughty Corinth—the ... was quite beyond the ... who most desired its ... belonged to a very close ... philanthropists to whom ... antiquated sailormen ... consequence than the con... fortuitous dwellers in pal...

... When Corinth was not ... nurse proud and lordly these kindly gentlemen established the Aged Seamen's Home on Lord's Point, a deed in perpetuity guaranteeing the dwellers therein against eviction Unhappily for the present generations in Corinth, the heirs of the original promoters, with one or two exceptions, resided in New York, Boston or Philadelphia, and they, holding Corinth in some disdain, stubbornly refused to entertain a proposition to join in the effort to set aside the first grant with the provision that the home be transferred to shelter and less imposing section of the coast, some distance removed from Lord's Point

And so it was that the Anderts remained almost under the nose of more properly speaking under the lee —of Corinth by the sea sufferance of rights and far from charitable patronage. It was but a step down the beach road from Todville to the water front bar rooms of Corinth Like migratory ants the Anderts swarmed down from the point and straggled back again—proved unable to swarm each paying its toll to the municipality and taking away in turn a copious share of grog from the effects of which he recovered with matutinal fortitude that added to more holy but less hard neighbors

Particular attention is drawn to Horace Blagden in view of the fact that his own grandfather was one of the prime movers in establishing the hideous home on Lord's Point. Moreover Horace Blagden's home the grey house on the hill was so close to the line separating the Todville reservation from Corinth that he could have thrown a stone from his stable yard well into the preserve, provided of course that he was in the habit of throwing stones But Mr Blagden never threw stones either literally or figuratively He was content to let other people do that relying on his own aloofness to escape without bruises to himself

No one could afford to throw stones at Mr. Blagden He was the great man of Corinth

After a single, ineffectual attempt on his own part to get possession of the Point for himself, he settled back and looked the other way Thereafter the town of Corinth did all of the talking and voiced all of the resentment toward the lowly village of Todville, seated, as it were, almost under the gates of Nineveh.

The venerable sea dogs from the Point, in their libations spoke freely of Horace Blagden because they owed nothing to him since he had tried to take away from them that which his grandfather had given They were quite alone in their privileges It may be said, in explanation of the rather ambiguous remark, that nearly everyone else in Corinth owed something in one way or another, to the expansive Mr. Blagden

He was the president of the principal banking house of Blagden & Co besides being the head of such institutions as the Street Railway company the Short Coast Steamship company the Building & Loan association the Merchants' Protective society the Corinth Brick & Lime works the Country club, the town board and last but by no means least the Congregational Sunday school I almost forgot to include the Greenvale Cemetery association. Only the most violent politics kept him from ascending to the presidency of the Seamen's Home socket

I apprehend that no one who reads these lines will undertake to dispute my claim that Mr Blagden was the most influential person in Corinth I think I have established the proof in these brief sentences that he was a very superior sort of mortal if indeed he was not a little more than that

While Mr Blagden was very powerful and very good, and very proud of it, he was not what one would call popular. He was not liked for the enemies he had made although if he had an enemy, he did not know it Even the venerable sea dogs were somewhat punctilious in this respect they did all of their talking in the bar rooms, and were as close as clams when they got outside, guarding against the remote possibility that he might by chance, be in the slums collecting rents They would not put it above him Still they fell with common accord into the habit of openly respecting Mr Blagden reserving their private opinions for public houses. Mr Blagden's bank cashed their pension vouchers without question and without charge

I have said there were two small children in the so called "Giant's Castle" and that the youngsters of the upper social circles enjoyed acquaintance with them. I might have said there were three, except that a strange respect for the fitness of things restrained me. It is necessary however to announce that there were three brother, sister and cousin If that is not too involved The brother and sister were the wards of Horace Blagden their cousin was his son The small folk of upper Corinth mentioned the Midthorne children in one breath and Chetwynd Blagden in another More often than otherwise he was not mentioned at all. There was joyousness in the breath that they gave to the Midthorne children and something akin to reluctance in that which they devoted to Chetwynd. If the playmates of Horace Blagden's son were slow to speak of him, I feel that I may be excused for having neglected to mention him in the same sentence with his cousins

Chetwynd was older than they by several years As the only son of Horace Blagden, he may have been pardoned for the distinct air of superiority that he assumed, even as a very small boy His attitude toward his cousins was patronizing when it was not inimical. He lorded it over them in the most high handed fashion and his teaching justified him in that particular. Perhaps it was not altogether his fault. Chetwynd might have been a better boy and a more generous one had he not been the only son and heir of Horace Blagden, the great man of Corinth. The perfectly obvious fact that other children loved his cousins caused him, in his envy, to set his small hand against them, as well He was privileged to treat them one and all with the disdain his position recommended to him Was not he the scion of a rich and highly respected family? Were not all other small creatures in Corinth but clods in his path? Above all, were not these cousins of his dependent on the bounty of his father and barely tolerated as such? Why, then, was he not better than they and why not infinitely above those undiscriminating infants who elected, in their ignorance, to love them? In a more sensitive soul than his, the truth would have smarted. But he was the son of the great man of Corinth and he knew not the law of equality He chose to be the lord, whether they liked it or not.

No child asked permission of its mother to go up to Chetwynd's house, they asked to go up to the Midthornes'. Therein lies the distinction and also the difference

This narrative will not deal at length with the children of "The Giant's Castle" It is the purpose of the narrator to make his hearers acquainted with the three of them while they were very tiny persons and then to carry them over the years as quickly as possible. In the mean time, we may all come to know Horace Blagden and his wife better besides getting something of an inward view of other people who attended them in the capacity of subjects.

First let us locate Corinth-by-the-Sea It is a place of some 6,000 souls, three hours from Boston by rail, and not half so far as the crow flies It is of no importance which direction one has to travel from Boston to reach the little seaport north or south Suffice it to say it is an old town, and its first families of today were known by the same names 200 years ago. It is a thriving place after a slow and dignified fashion There is a port there, where coast steamers call and freighters load, while from its little harbor a half hundred prosperous fishing boats fare forth in season to reap a harvest from the sea.

It is said that once there was a time when Corinth was without a Blagden, but the period was of short duration It seems that Horace Blagden's great-grandfather went off to London to reside and took with him his sons and daughters, his wife, his men servants and maid servants, but not his assets The latter remained in Corinth In due time the men servants and the maid servants returned and then the wife. At the end of the war of the revolution was over and the old house in order and then the husband and his sons and daughters for some of them married in the old and across the sea Since then there has always been a Blagden in Corinth

Generation after generation has added to the fame and the prestige that served to make Horace Blagden in his day the great man of Corinth More than that he was a recognized force in the affairs of the land for he was known even unto the point of commanding respect among the richest Blagden & Co bankers, 22 Blagden street Corinth was a powerful concern It could lend money when times were so hard that other institutions trembled

Horace Blagden when he came out of Harvard went into the bank with his father That he set out not unlike the princes of old to find him a wife from among the lordly of the land. He journeyed far and came at last to the walls of a city called Gotham He stormed a castle there and rescued a beautiful maiden from the ogres whom nature had constituted her father and mother just in time to keep them from delivering her over to the mercy of an English gentleman who owned a coronet and a ducal palace, and nothing else except a ripping stud

She was a Van Dykeman

Then out of a fashionable school for young ladies came Horace Blagden's only sister Mary She came out prematurely it may be added to run away with and marry the gallant youth who afterward became the father of the two Midthornes cousins to Chetwynd and wards of their unhappy mother's brother

It had always been easy sailing for Horace Blagden. He stepped into his father's shoes, so to speak when the old gentleman vacated them, and became at once when he was little past 30 the great man of Corinth He had not married for love On the other hand his sister had because she possessed the power to love Perhaps that is why Horace had such placid waters on which to sail while Mary had forever the roar of breakers in her ears. Mary came to grief She loved intensely and once too often

Briefly let me explain it came to pass that her children found themselves securely established in the grey house on the hill unloved but tolerated with a resignation that even they sensed as they were could not fail to appreciate

(Continued next week.)

Soldiering.

From the Detroit News

To work long hours, sometimes for days and nights with intrenching tools the work of a ditch digger

To load and unload and carry large packs of supplies—the work of a stevedore

To stand at the beck and call of officers and serve them their food—the work of a waiter

To replace torn-up ties and relay torn-up rails and reholst torn-down poles the work of a section hand

To serve in the mess with towel and troughs of water—the work of a dish washer

To cut down forests and hew large trees with adze and ax the work of a lumberjack

To feed and curry and tend one's horses or someone else's horses—the work of a hostler

To apply the torch to peasants' crops and haystacks and cottages the work of a vandal

To stand up before one man or two whom he has never met before and shoot them to death the work of an executioner

To run off pigs and cattle belonging to others and prepare their flesh for the kettle the work of a butcher

To march for hours and hours in sun or rain until his movements become mechanical, the mind benumbed and the whole matter less than a nightmare the work of a Frankenstein

To be flung into combat where and with whom he can not tell

And then to have the trench covered over him or to be laid in the ditch and have the road plowed over him or to be tied with three others (bodies are tied in bundles of four to facilitate handling)

That is the work of a soldier

That is the romance of soldiering

The Lightship.

Colliers Weekly

The lightship is the most solitary of navigators of the sea. Her offices are like those of the lighthouse, but she lacks those of the solitary outlargement of Mother Earth first and she is merely linked to the sea bottom while round her swirls the sea current In her whole aspect there is something doleful perhaps caused by a sense of the littleness of man in his warfare against nature Even the coast patrol on the beach endlessly tramping his beat has the relief of movement and shifting environment But the lightship must hold to the same spot rain or shine or fog, as it may be—day upon day and night upon night It takes real men to live that life naked and buffeted by gales with rarely the sight of a fresh newspaper or new face There chess is the dissipation But such as these have at least the consolation of serving their fellow voyagers who speed past them to see the world and to busy themselves in countless ways Meantime the lightship stays where it is As for her crew they only stand and wait Yet it is but another instance of the blind poet's great truth for they also are serving Municipal Profit and Loss.

From the Kansas City Star

All the public utilities that are an expense—like paved streets, sewers, police service, fire protection, schools, etc—the public owns.

All the public utilities, except water, that are profitable—like street railways, telephones, gas, electric lighting, etc—private companies own

The question has been asked why doesn't the public take the profits from the profitable utilities to pay the expenses of the expensive utilities?

The private profit takers answer that while the public is thoroughly competent to take care of unprofitable enterprises, it is thoroughly incompetent to take care of profitable enterprises.

Does that answer meet all the requirements?

THE EMBARGO ON WHEAT

The United States Wheat Production Admits of 100 Million Bushels for Export.

The talk in the press some little time back of placing an embargo on wheat, brought forcibly to the minds of the people of the United States a condition that may at some time in the near future face them 100 million bushels of an export of wheat means a splendid revenue to the country as well as to the farmer, and if this were assured year after year, there would be reason for considerable congratulation. But last year's magnificent and abundant crop, which was estimated at 891 million bushels, cannot be expected every year With a home consumption of 775 million bushels, and a production in many years of little more than this the fact is apparent that at an early date the United States will have to import wheat It will be then that the people of the United States will be looking to other markets for a supply And it is then that the value of Western Canada lands will be viewed with considerable favor The great area of wheat lands in Canada will then be called upon to provide the greatest portion of the old world's supply, and also, in the opinion of the writer, that of the United States as well At present there are only about 12 million acres of these lands producing wheat. There are five times that many acres that can be brought under successful cultivation Apart altogether from the value of these lands as wheat producers there is an increased value to them from the fact that the soil is especially adapted to the growing of many other kinds of grain as well as all manner of cultivated grasses, while the native grasses are a wonderful asset in themselves. The climate is especially favorable to the raising of live stock, such as horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. All these bring into the limelight the adaptability of the soil, the climate and all other necessary conditions, to the carrying on of dairy farming, in a most profitable way

There is no question that high prices for all that the farmer can grow or raise will continue for some years, and this is the great opportune time to take advantage of what Western Canada offers Lands may be had as a free grant. These are mostly located some little distance from railways at the present time, but sooner or later will be well served by railways that are projected into these districts. Land may also be secured by purchase at reasonable price, and on easy terms from holders of same. In many cases farms partly improved may be rented A Winnipeg paper said recently: "Canada wants American immigrants. They make good Canadian citizens." And then speaking of the erroneous impression that has gained some publicity in a portion of the United States press, says "It cannot be too forcibly impressed upon the American mind that in coming to Canada they place themselves under the freest democracy the world knows No citizen of this country, whether native or naturalized, can be compelled to military service The only compulsion is the compulsion of conscience and patriotic duty That is the motive that has prompted thousands of Canadians to offer their lives. They are fighting as free men"—Advertisement

An enthusiastic meeting is that of two girl chums who haven't seen each other for nearly an hour

They stop the tickle. Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops stop coughs quickly. A pleasant remedy—5c at all good Druggists.

The school of experience has no commencement It's a perpetual course

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on — castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy, they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Adv

That Cured Him.

You should have seen the way Wuffles moaned over his petty ailments. He was one of those chaps who were always bewailing their ill state of health, when all that is really the matter with them is the need of a little lecturing

"Oh, my chest, doctor!" he wailed to his physician one evening. "My lungs feel so compressed. Some people tell me to inhale sulphur fumes. Others recommend a seaside holiday What would you advise me to do?"

"Try fresh air," said the doctor shortly "Five dollars, please"

Alfalfa PUREST ON EARTH

More than 30 years ago Salzer's Catalog boomed Alfalfa, years before other seedsmen thought of its value Today Salzer excels! His Alfalfa strains include Grimm, (Montana Liscom, Agr College inspected). Salzer's Dakota Registered No. 30—all hardy as oak.

For 10c in Postage

We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder;" Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, Alfalfa, etc., etc.

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their big catalog.

Reminiscence.

"I can remember when we could get an idea of how an election was going by taking a straw vote."

"We never depend on straw votes out our way The only chance of learning which way the election was going was to discover which side had the most two-dollar bills."

The Female of the Species.

"I tell you, sir," said the sad-eyed passenger with the bargain-counter tie, 'all women are born gamblers."

"That's right," observed the button drummer. "And they nearly always win when they play hearts to catch diamonds."

Falmouth is probably the oldest port in England. It was used by the Phoenicians at least 2,000 years ago.

No great success was ever attained by kicking.

A real guarantee on roofing!

A useless risk is to buy roofing not guaranteed by a responsible concern. When you buy our roofing you get the written guarantee of the world's largest manufacturers of roofing and building papers.

Buy materials that last

Certain-teed

Roofing

—our leading product—is guaranteed 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply and 15 years for 3-ply. We also make lower priced roofing, slate surfaced shingles, building papers, wall boards, out-door paints, plastic cement, etc.

Ask your dealer for products made by us. They are reasonable in price and we stand behind them.

General Roofing Manufacturing Co.

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City Boston Chicago Pittsburgh
Philadelphia Atlanta Cleveland Detroit
St. Louis Cincinnati Kansas City Minneapolis
San Francisco Seattle London Hamburg Sydney

POTATO LOW PRICES

Salzer's Pedigree Potatoes helped put Wisconsin way on the top with its enormous potato yield. We can do same for Iowa. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE. John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

$6 PER 100 collecting names and addresses. Nothing to sell or collect. Send stamp. Advance Advertising Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Her Preference.

Young Mawks had decided to enlist and go to war, and his wife was objecting.

"But, darling," he argued, "even if I were killed, just think how fine it would be to be the widow of a hero."

"Oh, no, Wilfred," pleaded the young wife earnestly, her mind reverting to a familiar proverb; "I would rather be the wife of a live jackass than a dead lion"- Judge

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER GRAY HAIR

She Made Up a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to Bring Back Color, Gloss, Thickness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of the famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—Adv.

The Proof Conclusive.

Sunday School Teacher—What is the outward, visible sign of baptism?

Johnny—The baby, mum.

The Wretchedness of Constipation

Can quickly be overcome by CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

Purely vegetable—act surely and gently on the liver. Cure Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, and Indigestion. They do their duty.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 9-1915

Winter Chills Bring Kidney Ills

A spell of cold, damp weather is always followed by a fine crop of kidney troubles and backache.

Colds and chills damage the kidneys. Other troubles common to winter weather are just as bad. Grip, tonsilitis, quinsy, pneumonia or any other infectious disease hurts the kidneys by overloading the blood with poisons. The kidneys get worn, weak and inflamed trying to work it off.

It isn't hard to strengthen weak kidneys though, if you act quickly. At the first sign of backache, dizzy spells, headaches, loss of weight, nervousness, depression and painful, irregular kidney action, start using Doan's Kidney Pills. Rest the kidneys by simple eating, avoidance of overwork and worry, and getting more rest and sleep. A milk diet is fine.

This sensible treatment should bring quick benefit and prevent serious kidney diseases like dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease.

Clip this advertisement and mail it to the address below for a free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended kidney remedy in the world. You'll decide it worth a trial, when you read this enthusiastic testimony.

"I'd be all right only for my back."

Had to Give Up

South Dakota Man Helpless With Pain

W. R. Smart, tailor, Belle Fourche, S. D., says. "Kidney complaint and rheumatism came on me very suddenly and caused me no end of suffering. I think the nature of my work was partly the cause, sitting with my feet cramped up for hours at a time with no exercise, whatever. I kept getting worse every day and finally I had to give up my work. I couldn't move about myself and had to be lifted into the rig. I got to be perfectly helpless with rheumatism in my legs. I had never taken any medicine in my life until someone persuaded me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I took them as directed and quickly got relief. They acted like magic in driving away the pain in my back and soon the rheumatism left me entirely. I have never had a sign of the former trouble since, and that was over four years ago."

"When Your Back Is Lame—Remember the Name"

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

50c. by all Dealers. Price 50 Cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., Proprietors

Where Youth is

the Hamilton Piano has a place.

Whether you own a piano or have any idea of buying one, we want you, for the pure enjoyment of it, to hear the Hamilton.

There is a quality in the tone of this piano found in the kind of music that lives:—warm, deep and sweet; and it is a tone that sings.

It's the great thing, this human interest, in the tone of a home piano particularly and one that except in the costliest makes, is met with as rarely as songs like "Annie Laurie."

And when you know that the Hamilton Piano is a favorite all over the world, because of its resistance to climatic changes, you can understand what a splendidly constructed instrument it is.

Come in and hear it.

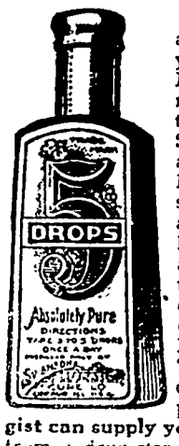
M. M. Magner

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS
GIVEN QUICK RELIEF



Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today. A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay. Demand "5 Drops." Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Newark, N. J., and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent you.

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it far lovelier and more satisfying than Europe.

Don't miss the biggest events of a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited," foremost transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions 1915

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

The Live Merchant Advertises--Why Patronize A Dead One

FUTURITY

Items Taken from the Times Files Not Yet In Existence

"Bally" Kluckhohn Jr has signed up to pitch for the local ball team. He has been playing with the Sioux City team in the Western League the past two seasons where he made an envious record. The local fans are pulling for him.

The Klemme Commercial League is contemplating building a summer home in the Griffen addition near where the "old timers" will remember there used to be a sand pit.

There was a great deal of excitement Monday evening when it was discovered the street car barns were on fire. Prompt work by Fire Company No. 3, soon had the blaze under control with a small amount of damage.

John N. Day let the contract Monday for the construction of a five story fire proof ware house which will be erected on First street.

Wrestle to a Draw

Mikesh and Jensen Wrestle 1 Hour and 34 Minutes Without a Fall.

Those who attended the Jensen-Mikesh wrestling match last Friday evening certainly received their money's worth and then some. Both men were in good condition and evenly matched. After 1 hour and 34 minutes of struggling without a fall, the match was declared a draw. Mikesh was much the heavier of the two and proved a very worthy opponent. Another match between these two men will be pulled off here before long when it is hoped that a decision can be made. Wrestling fans watch for future announcement. Paul Prehn of Mason City, weight 145 pounds, has challenged the winner of a match, and as he is a very fast man, a good match can be looked for.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

San Antonio, Tex.—The first girl to arrive in a family in four generation or about 120 years, was born to Mrs. and W. A. Cunningham. In each generation for the past century sons have been born into family and have carried the name of Cunningham into many States, and the birth of the first is an event of no small importance.

Reading, Pa.—F. P. Reiter has just rounded out 25 years as a justice of the peace in West Rockhill township, during that time he has issued four warrants but has never sent a case, either civil or criminal, to court.

New York.—Percival C. France, aged 40, could not stop crying and so he ended his life with a bullet.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

Yaa, Dass iss Richtich

"Can you tell me where M. Schwackhammer the minister lives?" inquired a stranger of an old german settler in Kansas. "Yaw" said he "You shust valk de road up to de creek and durn de pritch over de shtream. Den you go on dill you gum to a road mit voods rount a school house; but you don't dake dot road. Vel, den you go on dill you meet a pig pin shingled mit sthraw. Den you durn de road rount de field unt go on dill you gum to a pig red house all speckled over mit vite, and de garret upstairs. Vel dat is mine prudder Han's house. Den you durn dat house rount de barn, unt den you see a road dat goes up into de voods. Den you dake dat road too. Den go right sthraight on, unt de first house you see is a hay stack, and de next is a barn. Vel, he don't lif there. Den you vill get farder, unt you see a house on de hill aboud a mile, und go in here unt axe de old vomans unt she vill dell pedder as I can."—Ex

KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Brought To Terms

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Mr. Wackerly?"

"At your service, sir."

"I have a case for you if you care to take it."

"I must first know what it is."

"I have been sued for breach of promise to marry."

"H'm! I do not usually have anything to do with such cases. Are you prepared to pay a large fee?"

"About a dollar. I think I have $1.67, the sum total of my assets."

The lawyer looked at the man with an amused surprise.

"You will get a good fee, however," continued the other.

"From whom?"

"The plaintiff."

"The plaintiff?"

"Yes, sir; the plaintiff will pay you liberally. The case will be settled out of court."

"Explain."

"Did you ever ride a horse used to a mountain trail? No? Well, if you had you would know that you must give him his head or both you and he will come to grief."

"I see."

"Women are peculiar. If one man can't manage one of that sex two men can't. The British government has found that out."

"Just so. I will take your case, Mr."—

"Skinner—Reuben Skinner. Now sit down, Mr. Wackerly, and write at my dictation, to be copied by your typewriter on one of your letterheads."

Mr. Wackerly took a pencil, and Mr. Skinner dictated:

Miss Evelyn Fuller:

Madam—Mr. Reuben Skinner, against whom you have entered suit for breach of promise of marriage, has placed his case in my hands and desires me to say to you that he will spend his last dollar in defending it. I am your obedient servant, HOWARD WACKERLY, Attorney-at-Law.

"No need, I suppose," said the lawyer, "to mention the $1.67?"

Mr. Skinner smiled and admitted there was not; then he departed. The next morning but one he called at Mr. Wackerly's office and asked if any reply had come to the letter dispatched by that gentleman. Mr. Wackerly handed him one that had just come in by post. It read:

Please tell Mr. Skinner that had he treated me with proper consideration I would have shrunk from bringing this case before the public. As it is I shall spend my entire fortune if necessary in showing him up before the world.

Mr. Skinner dictated the following reply:

My client desires me by way of replying to your favor received this morning to say to you that a woman who will engage herself to three men at the same time needs to be put in a position that will prevent her trespassing further in that direction.

Before leaving the office Mr. Skinner wrote the initials of two men on a bit of paper and handed it to his attorney. "You will doubtless receive a note from the lady asking you to name the men referred to. You will then in my name write her the letters on this paper."

He handed the lawyer a bit of paper on which he had written the letters "W. C. A." and "H. K. L." Mr Wackerly looked up from it and asked:

"Have you proof?"

"No, but I know that she has gone far enough with each one of these men to be engaged to him. I know that she engaged herself to me, and without warning, to get ahead of my rivals, I wrote her breaking our engagement. In her indignation she threatened to sue me for breach of promise."

"You are playing a bold game."

A request for the names of those to whom she was accused of engaging herself came, and the initials were forwarded. Another letter came, which read as follows:

I pronounce the accusation false, but you will please say to Mr. Skinner that he had no business to assume that I would sue him for breach of promise just because I threatened to do so. You need concern yourself no further with this case, because I have no intention of suing Mr. Skinner and never had any such intention. I do not consider him of the slightest importance and would not marry him if he were the only man on earth.

"That's all right," said Mr. Skinner. "Write her that she can't withdraw the case without paying the costs and my indebtedness to you for your professional advice."

"Since the lady has not sued you there are no costs. And, as for my professional advice, I have given you none."

"That doesn't matter. The lady doesn't know anything about law, and she wouldn't ask any one's advice."

"What shall I make the bill?"

"Ten thousand dollars."

The lawyer laughed, but Mr. Skinner before leaving secured a promise that he would obey instructions.

Miss Fuller wrote for the attorney's bill and costs. He dared not mention costs since there were none, but offered on the part of his client to settle for $10,000. The lady sent him a check for the amount, which he turned over to his client. The client mailed it to Miss Fuller, with an indorsement that he preferred to pay it himself.

This was the beginning of the end. The case was settled out of court, and Mr. Skinner and Miss Fuller were married. After the wedding Skinner called for the attorney's bill, but he declined to accept a fee. Skinner blew him off at a $100 dinner with two or three of his own intimate friends present, and told the story of how the greatest woman flirt in the city had been brought to terms.

A Good Hearted Man

By SAMUEL E. BRANT

When Sam Toliver came out west he was much run down. I took him into my store more from sympathy than anything else. I paid him a small salary. He was a good enough worker, a popular salesman and always attentive to business. But it wasn't long before I saw that Sam wouldn't get on in my service any more than in his own. He had a failing—a heart that was altogether too tender.

He didn't spend any more on himself than he should, but he spent a good deal more on other persons. All any one had to do was to tell him a tale of woe, and down would go his hand into his pocket, and out would come any funds there might be at the bottom of it. One day on returning from an absence I found several dozens of baskets on the floor of the store. I asked Sam where they had come from, and he said that a peddler had come along and offered him the lot so cheap that he didn't dare to refuse to buy them for fear I would turn him away for a fool.

He had paid more than they were worth, and I knew I was stuck with them. I wouldn't have minded the transaction if I had had room for the bulky baskets. I learned afterward that the peddler had told Sam a cock and bull story about a sick wife and seven small children with nothing to eat in the house.

I suppose I must be a trifle weak-kneed myself in such matters for not getting rid of Sam at once. Fact is he was such a good natured, lovable chap I couldn't. But the basket purchase was not the worst of it. I would shut off such persons as couldn't pay for their goods, but I couldn't shut off Sam when they came in with pitiful tales of needing a pound of sugar or coffee, a dozen candles and many other articles from trusting them for the goods. Finally I made a list of persons on no account to be trusted and hung it up in the office, telling Sam that if he gave any one of them credit the amount should be charged up against him and deducted from his salary.

Nevertheless, despite the list and the warning, Sam kept on giving out goods to those on the blacklist. When a woman couldn't move him in any other way she would bring in a hungry looking child or two. This was sure to break the thin shell about his heart. It wasn't long before these accounts amounted to more than would pay my clerk's salary for a year. At the end of the first month his salary was balanced by bad debts he had made. I told him on his promise to do better that I would let him off for thirty days more, when, if he hadn't reformed, I would surely deduct all outstanding amounts from his pay.

One day, when the charges for bad debts against him had grown very large, a very pretty, nicely dressed young woman came into the store and asked if I had a young man working for me named Samuel Toliver. I told her that I had, but he had just gone to dinner. Then she asked a lot of questions about Sam, how he was fixed and all that. Sam had just stuck me for an additional amount of uncollectible debts, and I was mad. I told her that he would get on well enough if he would obey orders, and I explained what he was doing for me.

The young woman listened till I had finished, then asked me the amount charged up against Sam. I looked at the amount in the ledger and gave it to her. It was $3,472.49. What did she do but take out a pocket check book and write me a check for the amount and accept an assignment of my claim against Sam!

"You're to say nothing to Sam about this," she said, handing me the check.

"Thank you, ma'am," I replied. "Mum's the word."

When Sam came back from dinner the lady was gone. The next morning he didn't show up. I then wondered what the young lady wanted to buy my claim for and was very sorry I had sold it to her without knowing. Then it occurred to me that she might be some one that Sam had jilted or something like that, and I fancied she had come down on him for payment and driven him out of town.

Just as I was shutting up Sam came in in fine spirits, saying that he had received a letter from the east notifying him that somebody had died and left him some money. He asked me what was the amount of the bad debts that were charged up against him and, when I told him, gave me a draft on the attorneys for the amount. Before I thought of my promise to the young woman I told him that the indebtedness had been paid that morning.

I expected him to look pleased, but instead he looked puzzled. He asked me to show him the check I had received, and when he saw the signature he looked up at me like a schoolboy whose sweetheart had done his sums for him unknown to him.

All Sam told me then was that the young woman was an old flame of his; then he went out to find her. The next day he came into the store with her and told me they had been married. It was the girl who had come into a fortune, and, since she couldn't enjoy it without Sam, she had hunted him up. I was obliged to part with my tender hearted clerk, having, after all, been stuck only with the baskets he had bought. I saved money by his going, but all the shiftless and unfortunate persons in town have lost their best friend.

Hens and Cows Net Sum for Iowa Woman

Gets $250 from Eggs Alone

Butter Crop Brought Her $700

As an instance of what house wives are doing on Ida county farms it is pointed out that Mrs. John Jensen, the wife of a prominent farmer near Ida Grove, has sold $1,158.60 worth of poultry and dairy products the past year. Ducks netted her $172.87, butter $709.07, cream $22.05, $39.50, dressed chickens, and eggs, $215.11. She gathered and sold 1,084 dozen eggs during the year, an average of three dozen a day.

Success in Iowa

A City Man Succeeds With Alfalfa in Iowa

For twelve years a city bred man has successfully raised alfalfa on his farm near one of the state's largest cities.

He has grown alfalfa in half a dozen fields. Last year he had twenty acres. He says alfalfa in the first cutting grows to a height of thirty to thirty-six inches and yields from two to three tons per acre. The two following cuttings average about a ton or more thus making a total of from four to six tons an acre.

This city farmer discs his alfalfa stand after every cutting to prevent the ground from packing around the crowns. One field of alfalfa yielded good hay for ten years. Another field is now six years old and getting better every year.

The owner does not permit hogs to graze the alfalfa, because he says they make runways and paths in which blue grass springs up.

Success In Iowa

Twenty Large Candy Factories in Iowa

Do you know there are twenty candy factories in Iowa?

They manufacture a total of $4,000,000 worth of candy each year—an average of about $200,000 each.

This quantity of sweets represents just about half of the candy consumed by the people of Iowa, as an amount equal to the home production is supplied by neighboring states.

The average number of people employed in each of these twenty factories would be somewhere near one hundred, making a total of 2,000 people in Iowa, whose sole employment is the making of candy. These concerns are represented on the road by about 150 traveling salesmen.

Success In Iowa

Manufacturing Succeeds in Small Iowa Town

In a town in Iowa of less than 850 inhabitants there is a plant that has shipped into town 71 carloads of material averaging 68,000 pounds or 4,888,000 pounds of freight in one year. The local in-bound shipments amounted to 360,000 pounds. The pay roll the past year amounted to $33,000 and thirty-five families were represented on the pay roll.

Success In Iowa

Iowa Makes Progress In the Packing Business

One Iowa city ranks eighth in the number of animals slaughtered under the federal inspection of the department of agriculture.

The number of animals slaughtered in Iowa under government inspection totals almost 3,000,000. This consists of almost 230,000 cattle, approximately 30,000 calves, nearly 185,000 sheep, 437 goats, and 2,551,182 hogs.

Iowa scored a big increase in the number of animals inspected under federal supervision in 226 cities and towns during 1912. The total number inspected in 790 establishments was almost 58,000,000, which is an increase of almost 5,000,000 over the figures for the fiscal year 1911.

Since 1911 the number of inspected establishments in Iowa, including meat food factories, has increased from 919 to 940.

Success In Iowa

One Pioneer Predicts Great Future For Iowa

Many of the older residents of the state recall when land was very cheap in Iowa. J. D. James of Storm Lake states that he has traveled over the state when land could be bought for six and seven dollars per acre but at that time nobody wanted it. He says that if a farmer had grain to sell he got little or nothing for it and if he shipped live stock to Chicago the railroads got half for hauling it to market. Now we do not have to depend on Chicago as we have good markets right here in Iowa close to home. He predicts that the day will come when Iowa will have the largest packing houses in the United States. He also believes that Iowa is destined to be a great manufacturing state as it has the location and resources.

Success In Iowa

Newspaper
Most Progressive
Town in Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 26 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department
Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy

Which of the young men like those in this picture will hold his job if one of them is to be let out? Which one may be discharged if he does not CHANGE his habits?

Just this sort of a thing is going on with men--young men and OLDER ones.

Do some THINKING and YOU will put money in our BANK.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00 |

Can you beat it?

Help Those Sick Kidneys

Have you had your work, your sleep, or your leisure hours spoiled by recurring pains in the region of the kidneys?

Do you ever experience anything more unpleasant and annoying?

If you do—and it is too—let yourself believe it wasn't serious backache. While the kidneys give you warning of their sickness—by aching—help them in every way—help them to throw out the poisonous waste matter they cannot handle when sick and need strengthening. See that they are working properly—and it won't be many days until you are feeling fine and enjoying your rest and leisure hours. It's worth trying if you don't.

All you need to do is take

Nyal's Stone Root Compound

There's a wealth of wisdom in that assertion—this preparation is one of the most prompt and effective preparations we have and we are confident that it will do as represented. Make us prove it. If we don't, your money refunded; 50c and $1.00 the bottle.

Whatever a good drug store ought to have—and many things that other drug stores don't keep—you'll find here. Come to us first and you'll get what you want.

The Druggist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN — SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

Pay Your Subscription Now and Save 50cts.

SUPPORT HOME MERCHANT

Iowa Farmer Loses $5,600 In Nine Years Buying From "Cat" Houses

Hans Garbus, a German farmer, of Iowa, has discovered that the benefits which appear on the surface as attaching to the mail order plan sometimes spell disaster and has written a very interesting story of his views in a certain farm paper. Here is a part of his story:

"We farmers are awakening to the fact that we have unmistakably reached the period where we must think and plan I am one of the slow German farmers that had to be shown and I am now giving my experience that others may profit, for knowledge is more expensive now than ten years ago.

"Twenty-nine years ago I began my farm career I had an old team and $50 Our furniture was mostly home made—chairs, cupboard and lounge made from dry goods boxes, neatly covered with ten cent cretone by my girl wife We rented eighty acres. Being a boy of good habits, I got all needed machinery and groceries of our home merchants on credit, until fall crops were sold The first season was a wet season and I did not make enough to pay my creditors. I went on each day of promise and explained conditions, paying as much as possible and they all carried the balance over another year They continued to accomodate me until I was able to buy a forty-acre piece of my own.

"As soon as I owned these few acres, the mail order houses began sending me catalogues, and I gradually began sending my loose change to them, letting my accounts stand in my home town where I had got my accomodation when I needed it.

"We then had one of the thriftiest little villages in the state, good line of business, all branches, merchants who were willing to help a fellow over a bad year, and a town full of people who came twice a week to trade and visit Our little country town supported a high school library, ball team anw we had a big celebration every year

"A farm near a live town soon doubles in value I sold my forty acres at a big advance and bought an eighty, gradually adding to it until I had 200 acres of the best land in Iowa. I then felt no need of asking favors, and found it easy to patronize the mail order agents that came weekly to our door I regret to say that I was the first in the country to make up a neighborhood bill and sent it to a mail order house. Though we got bit every once in a while, we got the habit of sending away for stuff.

"Gradually our merchants lessened their stock of goods—for lack of patronage. Finally we began to realize that when we needed a bolt quickly for machinery, or clothing for sickness or death, we had to wait and send away for it, which wasn't so pleasant. One by one our merchants moved to places where they were appreciated, and men of energy moved in. Gradually our town has gone down; our business houses are 'tacky' in appearance, a number empty; our schools, churches and sidewalks are going down, we have no band, no library nor ball team. There is no business done in the town, and therefore no taxes to keep things up. Go down to the depot when the freight pulls in and you see the sequel in mail order packages.

"Nine years ago my farm was worth $195 an acre, today I'd have a hard time to sell it at $167 an acre. It is too far from a live town so every farmer has said that wants to buy. He wants a farm near churches, where his children can have advantages. I have awakened to the fact that in helping to pull the town down it has cost me $5,600 in nine years.—Ex.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, prairie lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free.

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

New York.—Two of the richest women in the city have established a public kitchen for the sale of freshly cooked food at cost to be taken home for use by New York's poor

Bradford, Pa —Dr. Tauer, of 40-day fast fame, is alive and well at Corry, near here. He is 85 years old, says he is going to marry at 100 and educate his children to the evils of over-eating

Detroit, Mich —Holding his breath in a fit of anger because his mother attempted to wash some chocolate candy stains from his face, Leo Hutton, aged 1 year, died here last week.

San Francisco.—To inspect a little postoffice in far-away Guam, which pays its postmaster only $125 a year, is the object of a 25,000 mile journey which postoffice inspector E P. Smith is making.

Pasadena, Calif.—A scientist here has developed a parasite of the house fly, which he believes will destroy that pest or reduce its numbers so that it will no longer figure as a death dealing foe to the human race.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Beer rations for chickens increase the yield of eggs, according to Reading (Pa.) hotel keekper, whose daughter has been feeding chickens beer. She says 13 hens last month produced 291 eggs.

Paris.—Absinthe is a thing of the past in France. The chamber of deputies has passed a bill allowing the sum of $3,000,000 to reimburse the liquor dealers for taxes paid and for stocks on hand, which will be taken over by the government and destroyed.

Topeka, Kan.—Kansas women 45 years old, who wear ear adornments or treat their faces with cosmetics "for the purpose of creating a false impression," will be subject to fines, if a bill introduced in the lower house of the Kansas legislature becomes a law.

"WALT" AYRES DIES IN GARNER

Word was received here Saturday morning of the death of H. W. Ayres of Garner, well known in this city as "Walt" Ayres. He was a partner in the clothing firm of Gildner Bros. and Ayres in Garner, and had been in the clothing business for twenty years. A large part of that time has been spent in Mason City, where he had been employed by the Gildner firm and different merchants of the city.

Five years ago he left for Garner to become part owner in the Gildner firm of that city. He has been in poor health for several years and as he reached the store about 7 oclock Saturday morning he was suddenly attacked by a faint and passed away almost immediately.

He leaves a wife in Garner and a daughter, Mrs. Hubbard of Danville, Ill., and his brother, Fred Mitchell, formerly connected with the Globe-Gazette. Mr. Ayres had a host of friends in Mason City and all will sincerely regret his death.—Mason City Times.

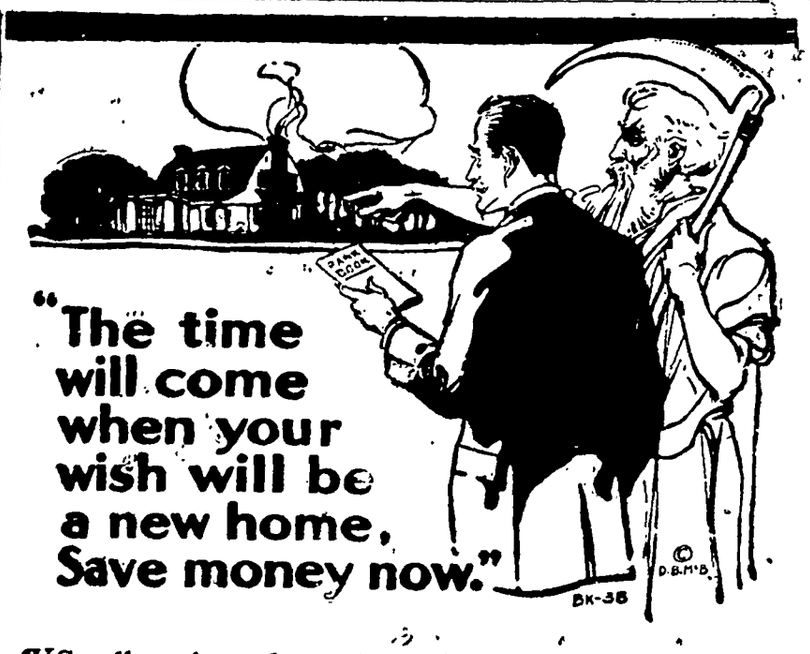
BREDLOW-BORCHERS

A pretty home wedding occured at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Borchers in German Township on Wednesday February, 24, when their daughter Julia was married to Mr. Franklin Bredlow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Witter under a beautiful arch with its suitable and accustomed wedding trimmings and with Miss Alvira Bredlow playing the wedding march. After the marriage rite was perrormed a large number of the relatives partook of a bounteous wedding dinner.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bredlow and is well and favorably known as an industrsous young farmer. The bride is also known as a highly esteemed respectful young lady. They were remembered by many worthy and useful bresents. In the evening they tendered a reception to the young people, which was largely attended. Their many friends wish the young couple much joy, prosperity and happiness throughout life's journey.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.



¶ Small savings have been in many instances the means of making the first payment on a home.

¶ The fact that you have a bank account brings about a confidence which results in better terms of burchase than you could make if you did not save. It is not so much the money as it is the standing a Bank account gives you—That's where we can help you. Begin with one dollar.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath, Shingles,
Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds,
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Great Majestic Stove Sale

Are you interested in owning the best range made? If you are, do not fail to attend the special sale and demonstration at our store,

Monday, March 8th to Sat. the 13th

A special representative from the factory will be here at that time and will be here at that time and will be pleased to show you the many superior points of this world's famous range, if you buy or not.

FREE With each stove sold during this sale we will give an $8.00 set of ware, FREE.

DON'T FAIL TO COME IN DURING THE SALE

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Children's Day, Tuesday, March 9th 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

William H Venn, parole officer of the governor of Michigan, believes that the paroled convict is as honest as the average man Some years ago he and a humane judge established a fund from which money might be loaned to paroled or discharged prisoners until they could find work and get on their feet. Since loans have been made to 557 ex-convicts to the amount of $7,542.83, and of this sum all but $987.65 has been paid back. Of the amount not paid $416.08 was loaned to men who later broke their parole, and it is believed that they would have paid back the greater part of this but for the danger of disclosing their whereabouts. Still, breaking one's parole is not altogether a recommendation for honesty.

"By the side of a young French cavalry officer who had been hit in a fight on the Aisne we found the body of a pretty girl," said Sergeant Payne, of the British army, who is at Bristol, England, wounded. "Both were dead. When the young man joined his regiment the girl left a convent school and attached herself to the Red Cross. Hearing that her sweetheart had not returned from a charge in which his regiment was engaged, she went out with the ambulance men to look for him. Going in advance she found him, and, while attending to his wounds, was killed They were buried side by side"

A new field of usefulness has been found for the much ridiculed skunk, in the fact that it is a vigorous enemy of the full grown range caterpillars. Birds are of no service whatever in destroying these large caterpillars, but skunks devour quantities of them, and this is another reason why these little creatures should receive more consideration than they now do.

The new Egyptian flag consists of three white crescents with their backs to the staff, each with a five-pointed white star between the horns on a red field. This flag was the personal standard of the khedive, and now takes the place of the former national flag, which was distinguished from the Turkish by having a star of five instead of six points

By the accepted Baltic and Black sea canal scheme it is proposed to canalize the Dneiper and the Dwina, the former flowing into the Black sea at Kherson, and the latter into the Gulf of Lavonis and the Baltic sea at Rigs. The sources of the two rivers at the divide would be connected by artificial waterways The length of the canal would be 1 540 miles.

Newburyport Mass instructs its new foreign citizens how to send an alarm of fire One foreigner who has learned how to break the pane of glass in the fire box was greatly impressed A short time after his lesson he discovered a small fire not very far from the station He ran to the engine house and, taking a stone, broke one of the small panes of glass in the window

The coffee stall opened in the Bank of England for the refreshment of the refugees recalls a little known privilege of the banks—no less than the right to sell beer without a license. This privilege was allowed the bank by the charter of incorporation, dated July, 27, 1694, and the directors, if they chose, could open a house in Threadneedle street.

There is no pauperism in Servia in the sense in which it is understood in the west. The poorest people have some sort of freehold property There are a few poor people in Belgrade, but neither their poverty nor their number has required an institution like a workhouse

The streets of Milan are watered from the electric tram cars On these watering cars reservoirs have been adapted to the platforms, and these reservoirs are emptied, as the car runs, by means of perforated tubes placed fan-shape at the front and back of the car

Frank T Palmer, of Skowhegan, Me., is using for a weather vane a plow which has been used on the farm for many years The plow is placed on top of the cupola of his barn, and so balanced that it determines the direction of the wind with accuracy

One of the evils of war is the lowering of the national physique. In the generation after the Franco-German war there was an appreciable decrease in the stature of Frenchmen through the large numbers of young men of good physique who were killed

In the province of Ontario there are, including kindergartens, night schools, high schools, collegiate institutes and continuation classes, 6,942 public schools—all free—the yearly attendance of pupils being 500,000

Grape seeds, for which hitherto no use has been known, have been found to contain an oil which is especially valuable in the manufacture of soaps, and a South American refinery is making preparations to produce it on a large scale

The government of India has appointed an expert to make an exhaustive study of the white ants of that country which completely destroy all books with which they come in contact if not detected in time

Mistletoe thrives on the western coasts of America to an extent not approached in the east In many places this parasite growth is responsible, directly, or indirectly for a considerable loss of timber

The cultivation of a sunflower as a crop is extensive in the south of Russia The plant furnishes oil in its seed, fodder for cattle in its leaves and a large quantity of potash is manufactured from it

In a motion picture theater in a Maryland town patrons are admitted at a lower price to a room behind the screen where they can see the pictures as well although the reading matter is reversed

Linen has proved available for the covering of aeroplane wings. The fabric is coated with casein, which strengthens the material and makes it smooth

The mountains of Porto Rico are so magnetic that they attract surveyors' plumb line It has been found that some old surveys are incorrect by half a mile or more

In France a bronze statue weighing 3½ tons, that was too large to be handled by railroad or canal, was hauled on a motor truck to its destination, 246 miles away

Parrots seize objects with the left claw by preference or exclusively, and they have been found to make a readier use of the left claw for climbing than the right.

NEW EXECUTIVE DUTY WILL FORM BASIS OF NEXT IOWA CAMPAIGN

Putting Law Enforcement Power With Governor Gives Office New Importance.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27—If the senate passes the Anderson bill for state police, as approved by the house, law enforcement will be one of the big issues at the next gubernatorial campaign, in the opinion of Attorney General Cosson. While it is not formally announced, Mr. Cosson will be a candidate in the primaries in 1916. One of his opponents probably will be Lieutenant Governor Harding, generally conceded to be aligned with the liberal forces.

The bill for state police as originally drafted provided that they should be under the direction of the attorney general. Charges were made by the "wets" that Cosson was only trying to build up a political machine. Thereupon the supporters of the measure drew up a substitute bill placing the special police under the direction of the attorney general, with the approval of the governor. The idea was to allow the governor to have the power of holding a check over the attorney general's department if he saw fit.

The bill as passed by the house provides that the agents shall be under the direction of the governor only, and that they shall be paid directly by the executive council

If the measure becomes a law, it will make the governor virtually responsible for the enforcement of prohibition in the state

Prohibition will go into effect January 1, 1916. The primaries will come the following spring The big task will be to enforce prohibition and the state police are expected to do much toward maintaining order. If they are placed under the governor, his office will be doubly important and the "wet" and "dry" issue is bound to be paramount in the campaign as a result.

NAMED BY PRESIDENT FOR BENCH POSITION

JUDGE M. J. WADE.

THORNE WILL HAVE CHARGE OF FIGHT ON RATE RAISE

Des Moines, Ia Feb 27—By agreement of all the parties at interest in the big rate case known as the western advance rate case, which is to commence before Commissioner Daniels in Chicago, March 1, Chairman Clifford Thorne is to take the lead and be the chief directing head It was necessary to make some such arrangement as this, because there are many and diverse interests that are to be represented For instance, the grain men and the live stock men have not the same view of what ought to be done While each separate industry or group of industries is to be represented in its own way, the whole will be under the general representation of Mr Thorne.

A conference was held in Chicago recently of much importance in connection with the matter This was a conference at which it was decided that the Chicago packers would enter the case actively and aid in fighting against the advance They will put up $7,500 and place at the disposal of the committee their statistical force

NEWS BUTCHER PAYS FINE FOR BOOZE SALES IN IOWA

Iowa Falls, Ia Feb 27—Dispensing booze while crossing the "Iowa desert," cost Morris Meltzer, a news butcher running on two of the fast trains of the Illinois Central, $58.16 in justice court here For some time, Policeman Thompson has suspected Meltzer of dispensing booze at the depot here, but by discarding his uniform when the train pulled in, he was able to elude the policeman, after a warrant was issued for Meltzer's arrest On a wire from the officers here, the train was searched at Waterloo and the man was found in the last vestibule of the train He was sent here in charge of an officer and charged with bootlegging, resulting in a fine and costs being assessed against Meltzer The fine was paid and he returned to Chicago.

IOWA CATTLE FEEDERS TO LOSE HEAVILY, CORRIE SAYS

Ida Grove, Ia., Feb. 27—S M Corrie, of this city, state president of the Corn Belt Meat Producers' association, says the winter of 1915 will go down as one of the most disastrous winters that stock feeders in this part of Iowa have ever experienced. Nearly every man who has attempted to feed cattle will come through to spring facing a deficit for his ventures.

Mr. Corrie says that many men, particularly renters, were enticed into buying butcher stuff and steers last fall, for winter fattening, by the prospect of a heavy rise in the market by spring on account of the world war. In northwest Iowa especially this has been the hardest winter ever known for feeding, and in addition corn has been very high. But instead of these conditions being reacted in the prices at this time of the year, many men after feeding all winter are getting less for their fat cattle than they paid for them last fall.

IOWA BOARD CLERK SELLS $155,000 WORTH OF LAND

Fort Dodge, Ia., Feb. 26.—J. B. Ellers and W. S. Kaufman, of this city, have purchased 16 quarter sections in Kingsbury county, South Dakota, owned by A. H. Davison, secretary of the Iowa executive council. They paid $61 per acre for the tract, or a total of $155,000. The farms are located 40 miles from Brookings, and are described by the agronomist of the agricultural college there as among the best in the eastern part of the state They are all under cultivation and well improved.

NATE KENDALL WILL MAKE CAMPAIGN FOR IOWA GOVERNORSHIP

Former Congressman From the Sixth District In Mood to Resume Public Career.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27—Nathan Kendall, of Albia, Ia., former congressman for the Sixth district and one of the best known republicans of the state will be a candidate for governor in 1916. The ex-congressman confided as much to friends in Des Moines Wednesday. He has been mentioned prominently in connection with the gubernatorial race ever since the general election last November.

Mr. Kendall appeared before the board of parole in behalf of a man sent to the penitentiary from Monroe county. While at the state house he called upon Governor Clarke and visited the legislative chambers.

"When I retired from congress it was my firm intention to remain in private life and continue the practice of law," declared Mr. Kendall. "However, if the call of the public is loud enough and insistent enough I may decide to reconsider that intention."

Many politicians believe that Mr. Kendall would make a strong race in the republican primary. They point to the fact that he was one of the most competent statesmen ever in the Iowa legislature and that he made a commendable record in congress.

Mr Kendall served in five sessions of the Iowa legislature, commencing with the 28th assembly He was speaker of the 32d regular and special sessions. Mr. Kendall served in the 61st and 62d congressional sessions.

JUNIOR PRIZE WINNERS GO TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Ames, Ia., Feb 27—A remarkable group of boys and girls will set out from Iowa state college Friday night on a pilgrimage to Washington, D. C. They will include the most successful boy corn growers, the winner of the baby pork producing contest, the bread baking champion and the most successful grower and canner of vegetables. Their trip to Washington, under the escort of Miss Kate Logan is their reward for winning their respective contests.

The past year's champion corn grower is Earl Zeller, of Greene county, who grew 139 bushels on an acre of land. Miss Eloise Parsons, of Page county won the garden and canning contest with a record of 5,318 pounds of tomatoes on a tenth of an acre and a net profit of $115 57 in their production and sale The bread baking contest was won by Ruth Fleek, of Floyd county with a score of 93 1-2 points on her prize loaf and a net profit of $127 for the year on her club work. The baby pork production contest went to Clement Miller, of Jefferson county who made a profit of $48 08 in growing 10 pigs.

LOSS OF SALOONS AFFECTS TRAFFIC ON STREET CARS

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27—Something, either prohibition or jitney busses or bad weather, or all combined, is causing a marked falling off in the returns of the street railway system and the interurban, according to President Emil Schmidt. A comparative statement by which each day's business can be compared with the corresponding day of the year before is kept and it is from this that the decrease has been figured

Mr Schmidt says that he has not been able to locate the source of the falling off definitely yet A part of it at least is due to the closing of the saloons in Des Moines, for the effects from this cause were noticeable at once and were felt even before the saloons closed The week before Des Moines went "dry," there was an unusual increase in the passenger business of the interurban from the people coming in to stock up and a similarly noticeable falling off the first week after the opportunity to stock up ceased.

PERKINS PRESENTS BILL FOR INCREASED RATES

Des Moines, Ia. Feb. 27—Senator Perkins, of Delaware, introduced the railroad bill today for a ½ cent increase in passenger fares. He did so at the request of the railroads. The committee on railroads asked for volunteers and Senator Perkins spoke up.

The bill by Senator Guy Gillette, of Cherokee county, abolishing capital punishment, was recommended for indefinite postponement by the committee on judiciary this morning. The report was placed on the senate calendar and will be discussed following the spring recess.

Representative S. H Bauman, of Van Buren county, is author of a new house bill providing state uniformity in school textbooks. The measure is in the hands of the schools and text committee, which has measures providing free textbooks, county uniformity, in two or three different ways before it for consideration.

IOWA MUNICIPAL LEAGUES OPPOSES TELEPHONE BILL

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27—Frank G Pierce, of Marshalltown, secretary of the Iowa League of Municipalities, appeared before the public utilities committees of the legislature in opposition to the Francis-Jones telephone bill. He declared the measure to be one granting the telephone company long time rights.

Senator L. E. Crist is author of a new public utilities bill. He provides first that public utilities must give first class service. If there is a controversy between utilities or a municipality and a utility the Crist bill makes it a question for the district court to settle. The judge may hear the case or appeal to the chief justice of the supreme court, who will appoint three outside judges to decide the controversy. The measure applies to cities of 25,000 or less population.

INWOOD—Rev F. P Quick, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, has organized a Lincoln boys' club. Plans are being formed for the building of a club house to cost about $8,000 for the use of boys and men. Several of the citizens of Inwood and vicinity are interested in the movement

SETTLEMENT PROBABLE IN BIG MASON CITY CASE

Mason City, Ia., Feb. 25.—A settlement in the Colby-Walsh case is quite probable. Adjournment has been taken until Friday for that purpose. Mrs. Walsh was taken sick while on the stand and had to be excused. About $270,000 in notes and mortgages are involved and one of the attorneys for the creditors' committee stated that they would be willing to give Mrs. Walsh $100,000 and her homestead of 160 acres, if she would turn over the balance of moneys and credits to the committee Adjustment is probable.

RUSSIANS BLOCK FLANK ATTACKS

Hurl Back Austrians in Galicia, While Reinforced Army Checks New German Drive at Warsaw.

London, March 1.—The efforts of the German and Austrian armies to crumple both ends of the long Russian front are reported today to have been checked. Petrograd states that the German drive at Warsaw from the north has been countered. The official report from Berlin says that new Russian forces have appeared in northern Poland and begun attacks. In eastern Galicia, at the other end of the front, the Russians are reported to have recaptured Stanislau.

London, March 1.—The great battle in Poland still is to be decided, although latest reports indicate that the German rush from east Prussia has been checked The Russian statement that the Germans have been defeated in the region of Przasnysz, and the German announcement of the capture of the city leave in doubt the situation on that part of the front where the battle at present is being waged most fiercely

Austria-Hungary declares that Austrian and German forces are holding their own in the Carpathians and in eastern Galicia. Petrograd, less reticent, announces a repulse of German attacks in north Poland with heavy losses. As a result of desperate fighting of the last few days, the Russian general staff claims to have forced back the Germans along a front of 25 miles in the Przasnysz region.

The impression is growing in England that the German advance in east Prussia is due mainly to political and economic motives and that, consequently, it is without great strategic effect on the eastern campaign as a whole. In the west, the French continue to claim advances in the Champagne district, with quiet prevailing along the rest of the line

WARSAW AGAIN SAVED, IN RUSSIAN OPINION

Petrograd, (via London), Feb. 27.—The German infantry forces are being forced back across the River Niemen in northern Poland and the Russian general staff believes that another German plan of attack upon Warsaw has been countered successfully Relationship is divined between the stubborn effort of the Germans to cut railroad communication to the north of Warsaw and the coincident resumption of pronounced activity near Borjomow, on the central Poland front, west of Warsaw To quote the opinion of a staff officer as deduced from these operations by the Germans at widely separated centers, "evidently the Germans intend to push forward again in the center For this purpose they need reinforcements of troops on the Borjimow front In the Kovno district activity is diminishing Hence it is evident that the Germans are again using their perfect railway system to throw over troops from Kovno toward Borjimow

"In order that we shall not be able to do the same thing, namely, rush troops southward to the Bzura and Rawka rivers, the Germans are making desperate efforts first with cavalry and then with infantry, to cut the railroad from Warsaw north to Vilna Thanks to the watchfulness of our commanders and to the indomitable energy of our troops, the efforts of the enemy have been futile"

This officer added that even though the German plans had succeeded, this achievement would not have influenced greatly the Russian position at Borjimow, so long as the other railroad lines from Warsaw to the front remained in commission He said further that the success which the Russians are reported to have gained at Przasnysz, had uncovered the German right flank, operating at Ossowetz, where the artillery engagement still remained undecided

REPORT HEAVY FIGHTING ON BOTH BATTLE FRONTS

Berlin, (Wireless to Sayville) Feb. 27—The war office report of today follows

"In Champagne yesterday and last night there were renewed strong French attacks. Fighting in some places still continues, otherwise their attacks were repulsed

"North of Verdun the Germans attacked a portion of the French position Fighting still continues.

"Along the rest of the western front, nothing important has occurred

"Eastern theater Northwest of Grodno, west of Lomza and south of Przasnysz new Russian forces appeared and began attacks. On the Skroda, south of Kolno 1,100 Russians were made prisoners

"To the left of the Vistula there were developments of importance

BURNING LIQUID DRIVES FRENCH FROM TRENCHES

Paris (via London) Feb 27 The war office this afternoon gave out the following statement

"There is no change to report in the situation from the sea to the Aisne

"In Champagne, nothing has developed since yesterday's communication

"Our artillery in the Argonne exploded an ammunition depot near St Hubert In the wood near Melincourt, between the Argonne and the Meuse the enemy again sprayed one of our advanced trenches with burning liquid, necessitating the abandonment of the trench, the occupants of which were severely burned A counter attack immediately checked the Germans who suffered losses, including a number of prisoners

"In the region of Verdun and on the heights of the Meuse our heavy artillery wrecked some German guns, exploded about 20 ammunition wagons, annihilated a detachment and destroyed an entire camp In the Bois Brule, the battle continues to our advantage"

AUSTRIANS HURLED BACK BY RUSSIANS IN GALICIA

London, Feb. 27 The Austrian advance in eastern Galicia has been checked, and the Russians, driving back their opponents, have recaptured Stanislau and Kolomea says the Evening News, in a telegram from Hertza, Rumania

Heavy fighting preceded the recapture of these two towns The Russians occupied Stanislau yesterday Advancing in force from that point, they attacked the Austrian position at Kolomea. The Austrians offered determined resistance, but, the Evening News says, finally were forced to give way.

ANOTHER ENGLISH SHIP TORPEDOED

French Destroyer Goes to Aid of Crew of Craft in English Channel—Liners to Enter War Zone.

Dieppe, France, (via Paris) March 1. It is reported here that a British merchant ship has been torpedoed in the English channel off St. Valery Sur Somme. A French torpedo destroyer has gone out from Dieppe to the assistance of the British ship.

FIVE PASSENGER LINES WILL SAIL FOR WAR ZONE

New York, March 1—Five passenger liners, bound for ports in the war zone set by Germany around the British isles, were included in today's sailings from this port. Hundreds of passengers were aboard.

The Lusitania, now the largest as well as the fastest passenger ship traveling the Atlantic, had many cabin passengers booked for Liverpool. The American liner St. Paul, for Liverpool; the Holland American steamer Rotterdam, for Rotterdam, the Touraine, for Havre, and the Kristianiafjord, for Bergen, were the only sailings.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ACCEPT BLOCKADE PLAN IS CLAIM

Paris, March 1—The French press is unanimous in declaring that Great Britain cannot accept the informal proposals, said to have been made by the United States, that the embargo on food stuffs for Germany be raised provided Germany abandons her intention of destroying merchant ships. The papers, however, express appreciation of the spirit in which the proposals were made.

The Matin declares such a step would be carrying altruism altogether too far because "every loaf which a civilian was able to spare would be a loaf the more for a soldier, in other words the allies are asked to continue the war and sacrifice the lives of their soldiers in order to save German civilians from want"

SEE PLUNGER OFF SPAIN.

Bilbao, Spain, (via Paris), Feb. 27.—The light house keeper at Portugalate, one of the harbors of Bilbao, has advised the maratime authorities that he sighted to the north of his light house a submarine navigating on the surface of the water The boat carried no flag, nor was there any other indication of its nationality

ALL BELGIANS LOVE STARS AND STRIPES

They Stand at Attention When "Old Glory" Is Seen—Thankful for Charity.

Brussels, Feb. 16.—(by mail)—The American flag now has the right of way on Belgian roads and flying from the warehouses and stations of the comission for relief in Belgium as well as from its automobiles it forms about the only bit of color in this desolate land

For a time the flying of the American flag became so general that an order was given by the commission that this practice should be discontinued for fear some misuse of the banner might cause friction with the military authorities. The rescinding of this order was due chiefly to the difficulties experienced on the road by the comsion's automobiles.

Since the flag has been restored to the cars, the passing peasant not only gives them clear way, but stands at salute as they go by The flag flies from the barges carrying relief food and it again waves form the warehouses and station but care is taken that it is not used without authority.

To the Belgians the American flag is the outward symbol of their relief from possible starvation and they revere it accordingly, extending to it the same respect they would pay to their own banner were they alowed to fly it.

ALLIES REAR LINES RAIDED BY BIRDMEN

Only Two Casualties Result From German Visit—French Bombard Metz.

Paris (via London) March 1—Squadron of German aeroplanes has bombarded the district behind Nieuport An official note given out here today says that only two casualties were reported, a woman and an old man having been either injured or killed

The note also states that a French aviator dropped three bombs on the German barracks at Metz, Lorraine.

CHANGE PROPOSED FOR GRAND JURY SYSTEM

Des Moines, Ia Feb. 27.—The supreme court yesterday hinted that the grand jury system of Iowa should be changed Acting upon this suggestion Assistant Attorney General Fletcher is today drawing up a measure to eliminate the calling of the grand jury four times yearly in counties where little criminal work is done. Instead, he would have the grand jury meet once a year or upon call of the judge. In intervening cases the county attorney can file informations in lieu of indictments, in the manner found proper by the supreme court yesterday in the Earl Jones appeal.

SEAMEN'S BILL SENT ALONG TO PRESIDENT

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate today accepted the conference report on the seamen's bill already adopted by the House, thus ending a two years' fight in congress. The bill now goes to the president.

The measure raises the standards of labor for seamen and provides for increased safety equipment on lake and ocean steamers.

FORTS CRUMBLING SULTAN PREPARES TO QUIT CAPITAL

Athens Dispatch Says Imperial Trains With Steam Up Await Command of Sovereign of Turkey.

INNER WORKS UNDER FIRE

Mine Sweepers Clearing Dardanelles Channel—Inhabitants of Island in Marmora Ready to Flee

Paris, March 1.—The Athens correspondent of the Matin has forwarded the following

"After the complete destruction of forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles, the allied fleet penetrated the straits and shelled the interior forts. It proceeded down the Dardanelles, 14 miles from the entrance."

Athens, (via London) Feb 27—An allied fleet aggregating 40 warships today penetrated the Dardanelles straits as far as Hortari and within range of Fort Intepe on the Asiatic side, according to reliable information reaching here today

Fort Intepe was destroyed Various Turkish encampments also were bombarded. The ships are now within range of Fort Dardanos

A French squadron is cruising under the forts at the entrance to the straits, which are now entirely dismantled.

Paris, March 1—The Matin this morning prints a dispatch from a correspondent at Athens who repeats the story published several times recently that the sultan of Turkey is preparing to leave Constantinople and that to this end imperial trains are kept with steam up in the railroad station The inhabitants of the Prinkipo islands in the Sea of Marmora, not far from Constantinople, have been instructed to hold themselves in readiness to leave

London, Feb 27—The allied fleet bombarded inner forts in the straits of the Dardanelles, according to an Athens dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company The fire directed upon Fort Dardanos is said to have been particularly severe and the Turkish reply feeble The Sedd-El-Bahr lighthouse at the entrance to the Dardanelles is in flames The fort of Dardanos is the first to be passed after those which guard the entrance of the straits.

Having silenced the outer forts guarding the entrance to the Dardanelles, the allied fleet is now protecting the mine sweepers sent ahead to clear the channel leading to the Sea of Marmora It is believed that several days will be necessary for the allied fleet, which consists of between 30 and 40 warships, to fight their way through this narrow and heavily fortified waterway

ONE FRENCH SHIP SAID TO HAVE PASSED STRAITS

London, Feb. 27—A fleet of British and French warships continues to hammer away today at the door of the Dardanelles, the straits which close Russia's rich granary, and the very necessity of releasing the huge supply of wheat on the shores of the Black sea causes the general belief that the present attack on the Dardanelles forts is a serious undertaking, and not merely a demonstration.

Official announcements declare that after the reduction of the four outer Dardanelles forts mine sweepers will go to work within the straits under the protection of the guns of the fleet. Other unofficial dispatches from Athens and Rome assert that at least one of French warship has actually penetrated the passage.

TRAITOROUS TURKISH COMMANDER IS SHOT

Was Negotiating With Enemy to Surrender Territory and Be Made Sultan.

Copenhagen, (via London). Feb. The newspapers here publish a Berlin dispatch reporting the killing of a prominent Turkish general in Syria. His death was ordered from Constantinople, it is said, the charge being that he committed treason in endeavoring to carry out negotiations for peace. The basis of the general's negotiations, it is stated, was the proclaiming of himself sultan, the limiting of Turkey in Asia and to the abandoning of Palestine and Mesopotamia to England

STOP SCHOOLS TO PUT THE CHILDREN TO WORK

London, Feb 27.—Vienna dispatches forwarded from Venice to Reuter's Telegram company, state that the Austrian minister of education has authorized the employment of school children in the fields where labor is scarce, closing schools if necessary. It is also stated that all of the schools will be closed for the summer holidays at the end of May, a month earlier than usual.

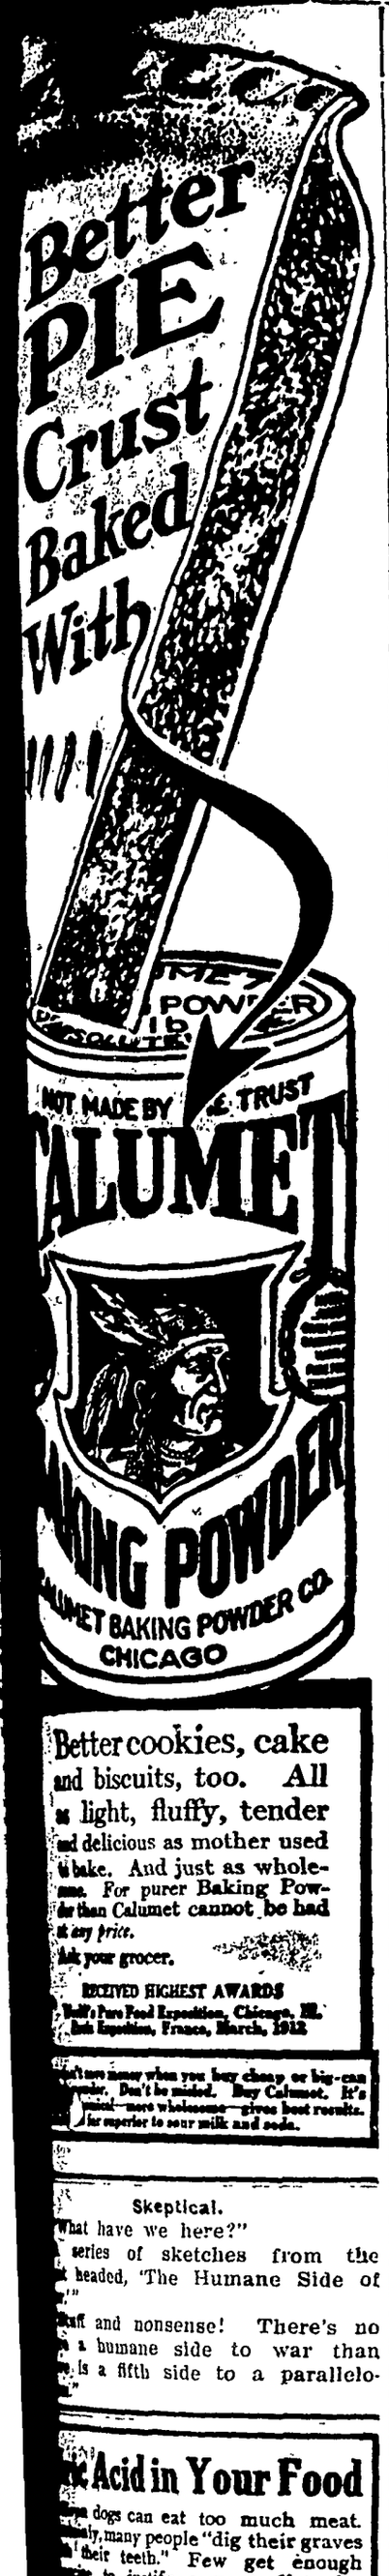
According to an official report, 392 families in Vienna are receiving assistance from the state.

BUREAUCRATIC RUSSIA CUTS OUT MIDDLEMEN

Petrograd, (via London), Feb. In view of the growing increase in prices of all commodities, especially food and fuel, the Petrograd government has suppressed the operations of middlemen, so that henceforth commodities will move directly from the producer to the consumer. The penalty for the infringement of these regulations in three months' imprisonment and a heavy fine.

NEW VOTING BILL KILLED

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 27.—The senate worked today while the house recessed, the first instance of the kind during the session. The proposed constitutional amendment to prevent foreigners from voting until they become naturalized citizens was killed. The same measure was submitted and defeated in 1910.



Better cookies, cake and biscuits, too. All so light, fluffy, tender and delicious as mother used to bake. And just as wholesome. For purer Baking Powder than Calumet cannot be had at any price.

Ask your grocer.

RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARDS
Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Ill.
Exposition, France, March, 1912

Don't save money when you buy cheap or big-can powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's purest—more wholesome—gives best results. Is superior to sour milk and soda.

Skeptical.

What have we here?"

series of sketches from the headed, 'The Humane Side of uff and nonsense! There's no a humane side to war than is a fifth side to a parallelo-

Acid in Your Food

dogs can eat too much meat. ly, many people "dig their graves their teeth." Few get enough ce to justify a meat diet, for brings uric acid. The kidneys ard to get rid of that poison, but a backache, or some other slight om will show that the kidneys help. The time-tried remedy, is Doan's Kidney Pills.

A Nebraska Case

Henry Netwig, 840 S. 24th St., Omaha, Neb., says: "My back ached intensely and my kidneys acted irregularly, showing that they were disordered. The secretions scalded in passage, too. Hearing good reports about Doan's Kidney Pills I tried them and less than one box fixed me up in good shape. The cure has been permanent."

Every Picture Tells a Story

Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box
DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

Army of ipation
Smaller, Every Day.
R'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are they give relief
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
Sick Headache, Sallow Skin.
SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. must bear Signature
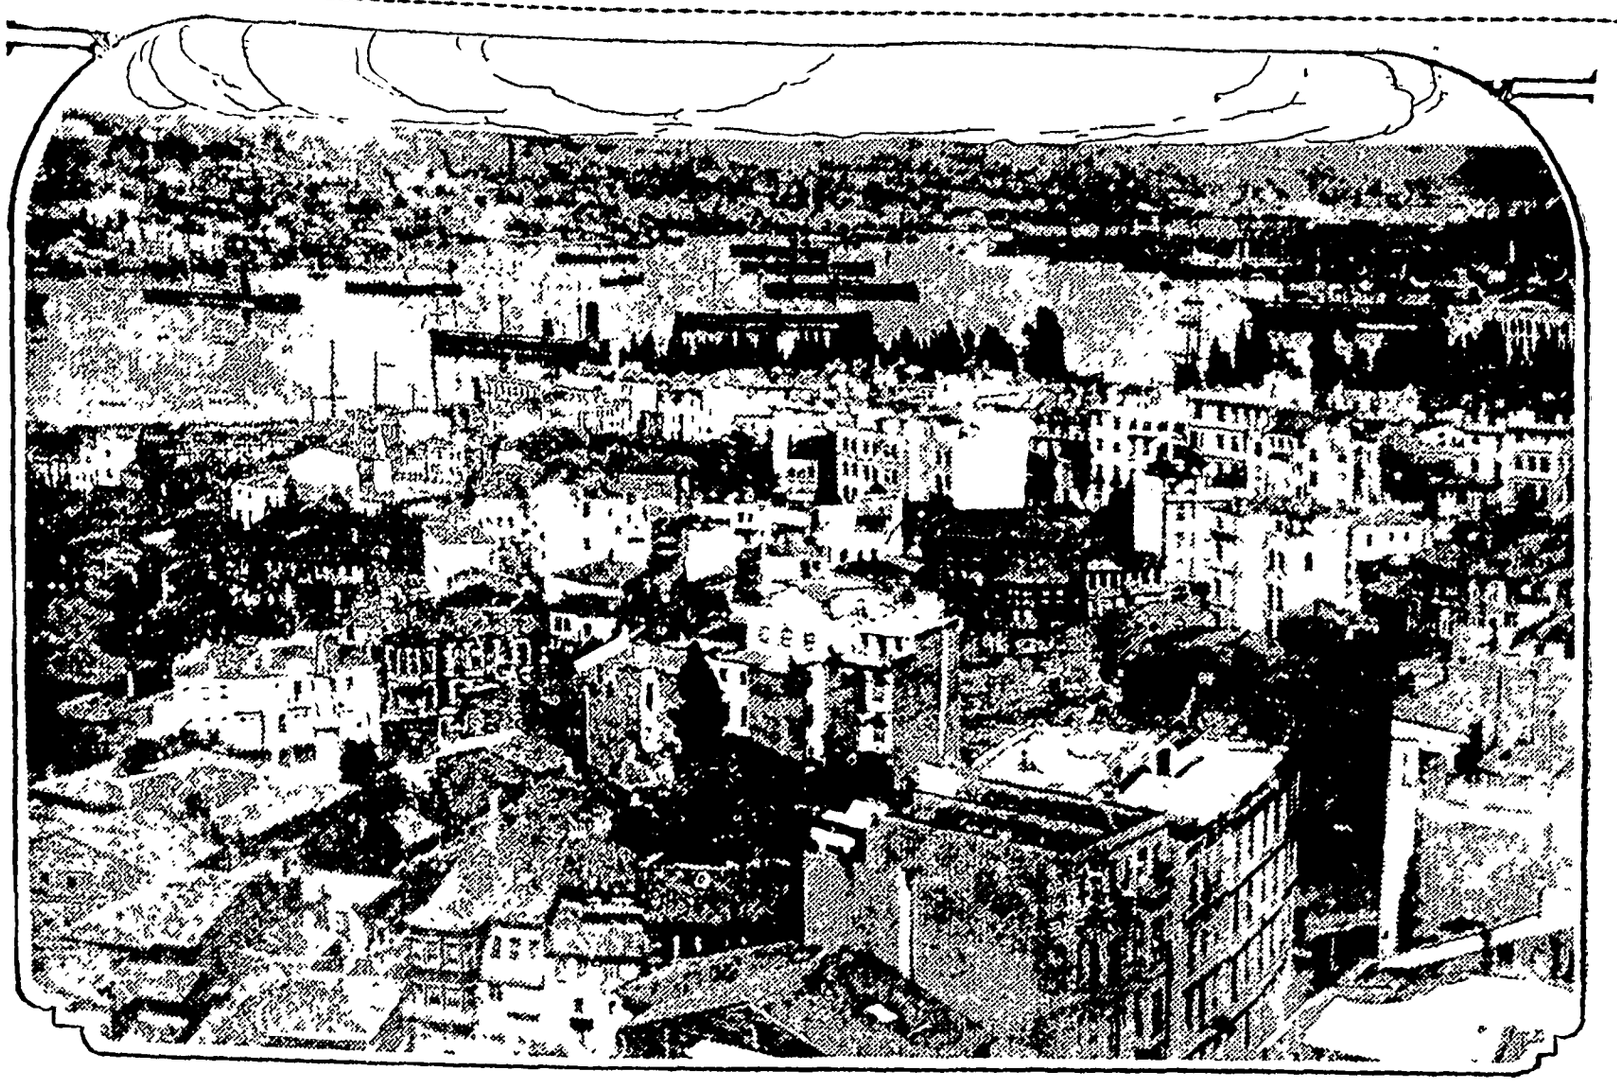
Genuine
CITY PTG. CO., NO. 10-1915.

CZAR'S DREAM OF RUSSIANIZED CONSTANTINOPLE MAY SOON BE REALIZED.



Bird's-eye view of Constantinople.

Is the Russian dream of a free port about to be realized? If the allies are successful in the present war, it is already agreed that Russia will get Constantinople. This will give her control of the Dardanelles, and assure her of an outlet to the ocean through the Black Sea.

DENIES JAPANESE WILL GRAB CHINA

Count Okuma Says What Japan Is Doing Is to Insure Peace in Orient—Sees No Clash With U. S.

Tokio, Jan. —March 1. The Japanese premier, Count Okuma, and today sent in presenting it [illegible] to the Japanese government Japan had no intention of trespassing upon the rights of China or of interfering with the open door policy. The desire of Japan, he said, was that China should retain the real dignity of an independent nation and not fall the prey of any nation.

Count Okuma's remarks were made to Prof Sheldon Mathews of the University of Chicago and Prof Sydney L. Gulick of New York as they were taking leave [illegible] sailed for San Francisco next week. Mongolia have been plotted to secession to Japan, [illegible] the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America [illegible] the Japanese [illegible] they have come [illegible] lations between Japan and the United States is [illegible] will prove to be helpful in maintaining the [illegible] tions.

Count Okuma [illegible] Prof Mathews and Prof [illegible] the integrity and [illegible] only were [illegible] but that they constituted [illegible] unity of purpose. [illegible] this peace has [illegible] motive of Japan [illegible] had no thought of [illegible] rights of other nations [illegible] of her own [illegible] no such [illegible]

No Chance for War

"Efforts to [illegible] have failed to [illegible] invent some plausible reason for the [illegible] eruption of the [illegible] between Japan and America [illegible] These attempts [illegible] chief make a new look to China as a field in which the two powers may be made to clash. [illegible] reason for such a conflict.

Count Okuma stated [illegible] that Japan [illegible] a certain possession a well grounded [illegible] concerning [illegible] China and the interest [illegible] in accordance [illegible] of the United States [illegible] American [illegible] Chinese [illegible] had no intention [illegible] means for the [illegible] these matters.

Professor Mathews [illegible] convinced [illegible] of the Japanese [illegible]

EAT MORE POTATOES ADVICE OF EXPERTS

Government Officials Suggest That Spuds Be Substituted for Bread

[illegible] March 1. "If [illegible] of its present high figures [illegible] to rise in price and [illegible] cost. Spending increase in [illegible] of scientists in the department of agriculture suggested that [illegible] household will find it advantageous to eat more potatoes and less bread," says a statement issued today by the department.

With potatoes at 60 cents a bushel, 2 cents worth, or 10 pounds, will give the consumer a little more actual nourishment than two one-pound loaves of bread at 5 cents each. If prices change so [illegible] to make it desirable from a financial point of view, there is no scientific reason why potatoes should not be substituted to a great extent [illegible]

PEACE ADVOCATES TO BEGIN UNITED EFFORT

[illegible] 27. A national peace [illegible] was opened today for the purpose of adopting a plan by which the sympathy, influence and aid of the American people may be tendered nations involved in the European war [illegible] of early peace promoted.

Peace conference, which was attended by [illegible] delegates from all parts of the nation, was held under the auspices of the Emergency Federation of Peace Forces. Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, was [illegible] chairman. The conference will close tomorrow night.

Edwin D. Mead, director of the World's peace foundation of Boston, in an address said that in the present war the neutral nations had been silent too long.

TAKES SHOT AT LEADER OF TURK MILITARISTS

[illegible] London, Feb. 27.—According to advices from Constantinople rigid measures to control the night life of [illegible] have been put into effect as a result of an attempt to assassinate Said Bey Turkish minister of the interior, during a fire and war. The [illegible] was attempted while the [illegible] was passing through a street [illegible] district a man armed [illegible] Young Turk. The assassin was [illegible] and [illegible] escaped.

SOUTH DAKOTANS ACCUSED BY GOVERNMENT AGENTS

[illegible] Feb. 27. Frank [illegible] of Dante, and M. Voorhees, a merchant at Wagner, today gave bonds before United States Commissioner F. F. White on charges of selling Sioux Falls in April [illegible] of intoxicating liquor on the Yankton Indian reservation. Others [illegible] the government net, to have a hearing here Monday are [illegible] Holmes Wagner, John Anthony Wagner, Thomas Whalen Geddes, and three Indians, John Plume, Adam Feather and Abel Thomas, of Greenwood.

FOOD SITUATION IN MEXICO CITY BETTER

Washington, D. C. [illegible] Carranza's agency here today announced receipt of a report from Vera Cruz saying,

"The food situation in Mexico City is better and food supplies are being received from various sources and being distributed among the poor.

"Villa and Zapata factions [illegible] are reported fighting [illegible] Carranza forces defeated the enemy at Tacuba, near Mexico City, yesterday.

TWO GERMAN AVIATORS RESCUED IN NORTH SEA

Lowestoft, England (via London), Feb. 27.—Two German aviators who for two days have been clinging to their machines in the North sea, were landed here today by the British trawler which rescued them. The Germans met with their accident while attempting to fly from Ostend to England last Sunday. Both of them were handed over to the naval authorities.

IOWA SENATORS ILL.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 27.—Senators Kenyon and Cummins returned to the Senate today after a siege of grippe. Senator Cummins has been at Pinehurst, N. C. with Judge Prouty and Senator Kenyon has been confined at his home here several days.

VEHEMENT ATTACKS ON ITALIAN GOVERNMENT

Opposition Results From Order to Suppress All Meetings of Citizens

Rome, March 1.—Vehement attacks on the government were made in the chamber of deputies yesterday by the extremists because of instructions given prefects to prohibit meetings even when they are described as private if there is reason to believe they would result in disorders. The order was designed to prevent clashes between those who favor Italy's intervention in the war and those who advocate strict neutrality. A tumult arose when the extremists declared the prohibition of such meetings was a suppression of liberty and in violation of law.

Premier Salandra replied to the criticisms of the government.

He declared the instructions to the prefects were designed to protect liberty which was threatened by violence, raise the dignity of the country which had been injured by dissensions and cement a moral unity which would lead to triumph. As the extremists shouted that it was a plan to prevent Italy's intervention in the war, the premier declared amidst applause:

"I do not know whether our nation is destined to march to war but if this shall be the case, we must all unanimously obey the orders of the fatherland and the king."

CALDWELL RULES ON "EXPENSE ALLOWANCE"

Says This Method of Dodging Constitution Valid—He Also Draws.

Pierre, S. D. Feb. 27.—That the state legislature may make expense allowances for members of the supreme court, in addition to their salaries, and that such allowance may be made in a lump sum, is the decision of Attorney General Caldwell, given out this morning. The governor, members of the supreme court and railroad commissioners have been receiving $50 a month as extra expense allowance and an attempt was made at this session to get through a bill giving the same amount to other state officers. The bill was rejected in the house. The state auditor then announced he would issue no more warrants for the special expense allowances until he had an opinion from the attorney general.

While the opinion mentions only the supreme court it will apply as well to any state officer and opens the way for the legislature to raise salaries of any state officials by giving them generous expense allowances in a lump sum. The present legislature passed a bill making an expense allowance of $100 a month to the attorney general.

CONNOLLY IN FAVOR OF ARMY TRAINING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—Urging military training of citizens saying the country faces grave danger, and now is the time to prepare, Representative Connolly, at a Cornell banquet, said: "I would like to see every public school, every high school and every university in our land training pupils and students for that day when a crisis may cause a calling to arms." He said when that dread day came it would be to university men the nation would look.

DRIVE OUT CHINESE TO CONSERVE FOOD SUPPLY

London, Feb. 27.—The Evening News publishes a dispatch from Rotterdam saying that owing to the shortage of food in Germany the German authorities have ordered the expulsion of 500 Chinese. A strong Netherlands police force has been sent to the frontier to prevent these men from entering Dutch territory and complications are expected, the correspondent declares.

HALF OF GERMAN HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IN ARMY

Berlin, Feb. 27.—(by wireless)—The budget committee announces that out of 11,600 male high school teachers in the country 4,000 are serving in the army while nearly half the high school pupils over 17 years old have entered the military service.

COLBY CREDITORS GET 50 PER CENT OF CLAIMS

Mason City, Ia., Feb. 27. In stipulations agreed upon at noon today in the Colby-Walsh case creditors receive $120,000 in funds and $25,000 in stocks, which amounts to 50 per cent of their claim.

WIFE OF STEGLER WANTS HIM FREED

Says She Cannot Suport Herself Unless Spy Suspect Is Released—Appeals to Wilson—Denial by Boy-ed.

Washington, March 1.—President Wilson today received a letter from Mrs. Richard P. Stegler, wife of the German reservist arrested in New York on a charge of fraudulently obtaining an American passport, declaring that Stegler had been led into the project by Captain Boy-ed, German naval attache here. Mrs. Stegler asked that her husband be set free. Her letter was referred to the department of justice, which is in charge of the investigation of the case.

Mrs. Stegler wrote the president that her husband had been promised $150 a month for her support by Captain Boy-ed while abroad, and that she would be given $150 a month for life if he were killed. She declared she had no money now and did not know how she could support herself unless her husband were released.

Gives Out Letter.

Stegler last night gave out a letter in New York which he said was written by Boy-ed. The letter, which was typewritten was anonymous. Stegler said comparison with letters written by Boy-ed would show similarity. The letter follows:

"Reading today's New York American, allow me to tell you that it was your fault that your husband has been arrested and will have to go to jail for many years and will be always looked at as a scoundrel. Accept the advice to keep your mouth shut and do not open it before you at first consult a lawyer. Besides you put your country in a bad position, because your case will only increase the ill feeling of the Germans against the Americans, and you know that a war with the Germans would be the greatest disaster for the Americans."

"This thing is too ridiculous to answer," Captain Boy-ed said when asked if he wrote the letter. "All the letters that have gone out of this office have been addressed by my stenographer, and I suppose there must be thousands of typewriters like the one she uses. I have been accused of so many things that I would not be surprised if they tried to fix the Rosenthal murder on me or the responsibility for the next subway accident."

WILL ALLOW REPORTERS TO VISIT BRITISH LINES

London, Feb. 27 - Six newspaper correspondents are to leave London next Monday morning for the British front. They are going out under the auspices of the British war office. Among them is one American. This will be the first time newspapermen are permitted to visit the British lines. The same six men went to the French lines some weeks ago.

There are in all 18 correspondents credited to the British war office. They will go to the front in detachments of six each, the second group starting when the first returns and the third following the second.

WILSON DECIDES NOT TO CALL SENATE BACK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—President Wilson has practically decided not to call a special session of the Senate to consider the Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties. At the White House today it was said that while the question still is under consideration, there was little prospect of a special session being called. The opposition of some republican senators makes it improbable that any action on the treaties can be taken during the present session. The president expects, however, that at least some of his nominees for the federal trade commission will be confirmed before March 4. Any not confirmed are expected to get recess appointments.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

TRUTHFUL HUNTER TELLS IT

Speed Contest Between Deer and Rifle Bullet That Probably Never Was Duplicated.

"Talkin' about runnin'," remarked Hon. Ananias Munchausen, "about the finest bit of sprintin' I ever saw was up in Maine the shootin' season before last. I'd been out all day deer shootin', and had had most awful luck when I spied a whoppin' great buck about eighteen hundred yards away. Takin' a careful sight, I let fly. But, bless your soul, the instant my bullet touched him, and before it had time to penetrate his hide, that beast was off like a flash!

"I never saw two such evenly-matched things as that deer and my bullet. For over half a mile they sped on together, neither gainin' any on the other, the bullet just managin' to keep in touch with the deer's skin. At the end of a mile, however, the pace began to tell on the deer, and he faltered just for a moment. 'Twas fatal. The bullet sped on, and the poor beast keeled over. He deserved his freedom if ever an animal did. He'd have got it, too, if he could have stuck it out for another twenty yards, for that's about as far as my rifle carries."

To Herd Sheep With Aero.

Stanley Smith arrived here today, bound for New York, where he expects to buy an airship to round up the sheep on his 75,000-acre ranch at the foot of Crazy mountains in Montana.

Smith lives at Martinsdale, which has 40 inhabitants, each of whom has an automobile. He said he had used autos to round up his stock, but expects the airship to reduce the cost and expedite the speed about 25 per cent.

He has decided on a dirigible.—Chicago Dispatch to New York Herald.

To Be Expected.

"The other day a young man went to get a marriage license and the blundering clerk gave him a dog license."

"What did the prospective bridegroom do?"

"I understand he emitted a howl."

MAY BE COFFEE That Causes all the Trouble

When the house is afire, it's about the same as when disease begins to show, it's no time to talk but time to act—delay is dangerous—remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," wrote a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me and yet I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. At last I got so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die.

"Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely most of the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone—my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action. My breath grew short and the least exertion set me panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism.

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat anything and digest it without trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats strong and regularly. My breathing has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me.

"I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kept drugging with coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25 packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious, and cost per cup about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

—sold by Grocers.

Lamb Legs

TALK about meat! If there's one thing a butcher must do, it is to please his customers all the time.

And it's no walkover.

For instance, take legs of lamb or veal. We aim constantly to give just the size wanted and to insure satisfaction in the tenderness of the meat.

We're succeeding pretty well, thank you. Shall we show you how we do it?

J. P. Larsen & Sons

Every Farmer

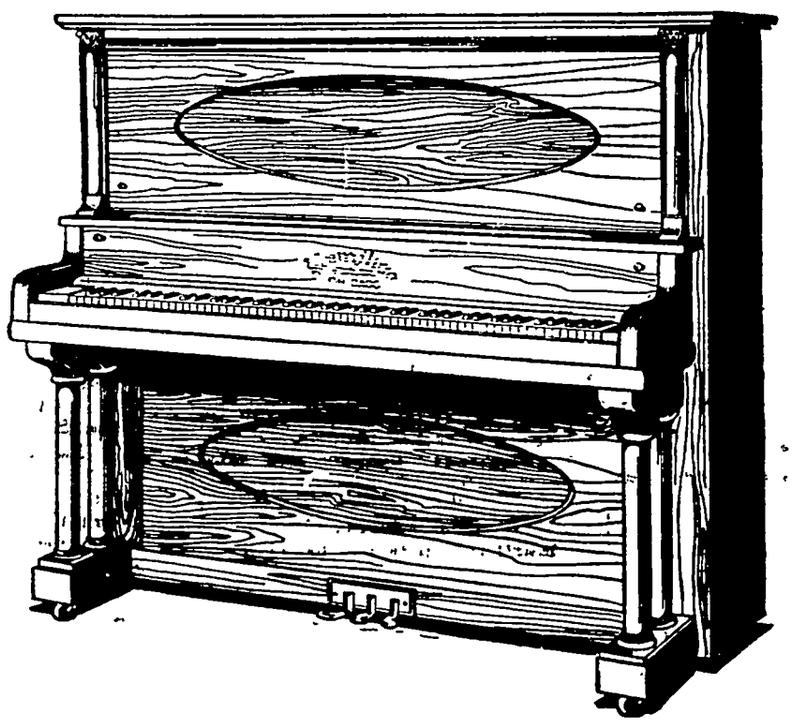
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

Baldwin-Made Instruments Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices and Reasonable Terms

See Me First and Save Money

M. M. MAGNER

At The Times Office

¶ Liberal Allowance For Used Instruments.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations

By "Our Man About Town"

If a census of boys under fifteen who smoke could be taken, we know of several parents who would not like the statistics.

We know of one man and wife who, in settling their little difficulties, would do just as well to keep the soft pedal on their voice chords.

This old world of ours has queer people in it. They seem to get prejudiced against a fellow that had never harmed them but has really done them favors. Now we know of a young man in our home town who can never see us. He never speaks to us. He thinks we must be his enemy. The only thing that we know of doing to him was that when he was hard up and had not the money to get a suit of clothes, we gave our word to the clothier that we would see it paid. Well, the fellow evidently knew a good thing when he had it and after paying a few dollars on the suit concluded to let us finish the job for him. We did. Well, that fellow has not spoken to us since. He must be of the opinion that we are his enemy. Well, we guess we are. It never helps a young fellow to pay his debts for him. He does not seem to like it and then it makes him lose his self respect. When this is gone the fellow is on the down grade. He must regain his self respect in some way if he gets on the upgrade.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 1.—Nebraska admitted to Union, 1867.

Tuesday, 2.—Declaration of Texas independence signed, 1836.

Wednesday, 3.—Florida admitted to Union, 1845. Circular saw invented, 1780.

Thursday, 4.—Lincoln inaugrated, 1861. Cortez lands in Mexico, 1519.

Friday, 5.—Boston massacre, 1770. Westinghouse patents air-brake, 1872.

Saturday, 6.—Dred Scott decision, 1857.

Sunday, 7.—Bell telephone patented, 1876. Luther Burbank born, 1849.

Lovely Day For A War

Aunt Mary is the best old soul you'll meet in many a day. She's 'tended to her knitting in the good old-fashioned way. She never gabs or gossips, she has no time to gad and she seldom reads the papers, 'cause, she says, they make her sad. She drove to town this afternoon to shop around a bit and Wilbur Jones the grocery man, invited her to sit. Says he "aint this war awful?" and Aunt Mary says "my land! aint heard a word about it—I aint even heard a band." And Jones says "sure, old England and France and Russia, too, are fighting with the Kaiser,—why, it's worse than '62." Aunt Mary answered sweetly, as she started on her way, "well they've got nice weather for it, 'cause it's just a lovely day."—Ed McIntyre.

A CHANCE FOR YOU

We are going to help you and ourselves at the same time. We are going to educate you up to the value of using the classified department of the Times. Have you any idea of the money you could make if you were to let all the people in this county know what you had for sale? Do you know that no matter how apparently useless some article has grown, some other person has a use for that article AND WILL BUY IT?

But he cannot buy it if he does not know WHERE to get it. In the big cities the classified departments of the newspapers are as interesting as the news columns. In fact they contain real live news. And those who use them are reaping great advantages—BOTH THE BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Of late the smaller papers are pushing their departments into more prominence. The other day we picked up a weekly, published in a county seat town in Wisconsin. Its classified column was "A WONDER." Apparently everyone in the county was using and reading it. Lack of space prevents us from reproducing it, although we would like to do so. But here are a FEW of the things that were advertised for sale by the farmers and the townspeople: Houses, lots, farms, glass cupboard, chickens, sewing machine, turkeys, rugs, eggs, upholstered goods, crockery, geese, butter, correspondence school course, cheese, feathers, manure, incubator, horses, finger ring, automobile, jars of fruit, fence posts, hogs, (plain and fancy.) embroidery lessons, suit of clothes and fur overcoat, home made bread, a colt, library of 100 volumes, home knit socks, cream separator, two calves, concrete block machine, tame bear, gasoline engine, heating stove and numerous other things.

If you have any of the above named articles for sale let us know and we will run a classified ad in The Times. The cost is very small—only 5 cents per line for one insertion. For 30 cents per line we will keep your ad running for 10 weeks. Someone wants what YOU have to sell.

HAVE YOU NAMED YOUR FARM?

The movement to have every American farmer select a name for his farm and use the name as a trade mark, is meeting with great success in some parts of the country. Many of our exchanges have published lists of the names selected for the farms of their neighborhoods, the publication acting as a sort of a patent or copyright. It has been said by some unthinking persons that the plan is not American, but a little reflection will convince anyone that the point is not well taken. Washington called his home "Mt. Vernon," Jefferson, the great democrat, named his place "Monticello" and any schoolboy can give you a dozen other instances.

So name your farm and put the name out where everybody can see it. Make it a Trade Mark. A well know advertised trade mark is worth thousands of dollars to the owner. Your farm and its products are your stock in trade. Name them and you have added real hard cash value to everything you sell. Choose a name well suited to surroundings, a name that will tell in its very sound some of the characteristics of your business home; then come to us and have letterheads made for your correspondence with your name and the name of your farm on them.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

Gets the laying hens into the egg starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vi flock and gives a healthy relish to t Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c, 50c.

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

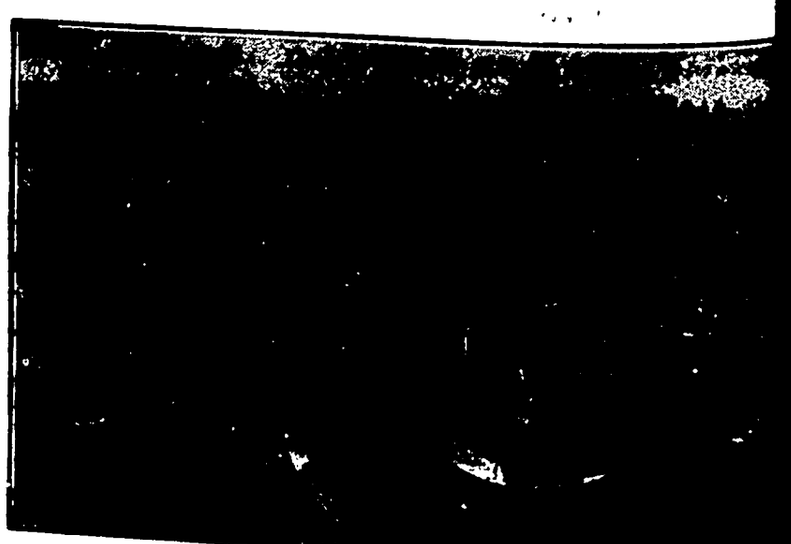
6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security; liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.



The Bull Tractor, For sale by, H. Law & S

Where Youth is

the Hamilton Piano has a place. Whether you own a piano or have any idea of buying one, we want you, for the pure enjoyment of it, to hear the Hamilton.

There is a quality in the tone of this piano found in the kind of music that lives—warm, deep and sweet; and it is a tone that sings.

It's a great thing, this human interest in the tone of a home piano, particularly and even that except in the costliest makes, is met with as rarely as songs like "Annie Laurie."

And when you know that the Hamilton Piano is a favorite all over the world, because of its resistance to climatic changes, you can understand what a splendidly constructed instrument it is.

Come in and hear it.

M. M. Magner

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today. A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay. Demand "5-Drops." Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Newark, Ohio, and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent prepaid.

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it far cheaper and more satisfying than Europe.

Don't miss the biggest events of a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic attractions of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited," foremost transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the finest route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Panama-Pacific Expositions 1915

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

Live Merchant Advertises—Why Patronize A Dead One

KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

DRAINAGE NOTICE

Hearing On Establishment Drainage District No. 9

State of Iowa, Hancock County: ss:—

To C. B. Groesbeck, Frank Hibbs, Estella Hibbs, Friedrich Ax, Frederick Ax, Philip Kebl, Andrew Anderson, Anna Baack, Henry A. Josten, Fred J. Albers, Frederick Wacker, Stephen Kleinmeyer, Alexander Ross, Daniel Bangs, John Wacker, John Christians, George Zinn, W R Bloom, Sadie A Bloom, Wm L Lawhorn, P M Griesemer, G W Kluckholn, Herman H Theimann, F A Arnold, Charles Medaus, Daniel Webner, Hans M Peterson, John Bock Jr., George Albers, Frederick Bock, Fred Bock, William Becker, Wilhelm Becker, Henry Wille, Peter Josten, Henry J Schuldt, John Loudon, John Louden August Barz, August Bartz, Nanna Krouse, Oscar Swanson, George F Kessler, Wm Sampson, John Sanderfeld, Wm. J Schlawin, John Neuberger, Henry Theiman, Henry Thiemann, owners, and to Farmersburg Savings Bank, C H McNider, Elmer Mossman Martin Schreck, Ezra A Albertson, National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, J N Sprole, Elida Harpending S R Harpending, Isaac C. Comfort, Aetna Life Insurance Company, John Bock, A. M Griesemer, Henry Griesemer, Justine Griesemer, Abram Mitchell, Ellsworth and Jones (Incorporated) E S Ellsworth & L E Jones Fred Wacker, George Schroeder, Henry Schroeder, Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, Trustee E. J. Schaefer, Winnie Walsh, Frank Walsh, Fred Walsh, James M Sanderson, William T Sanderson The Merchants Loan and Trust Company Hugh H Shepard A N Grimm E E Halstead, Ida M Zinn Fred Schwartz, John A Johnson, G A Pabst George W. Curtiss, Trustee, P K. Bourne The Bankers Life Company State Savings Bank, Klemme, Iowa Elizabeth Gaffner, Pearsons Taft Land Credit Company, C M Johnson Asa Gibbs M Palmby, Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa John Benson, First National Bank of Greenfork Indiana, lienholders and to the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company the Trustees of Ell Township the School Township of Ell Iowa, in the County of Hancock in the State of Iowa, To Peter Josten Clerk Ell Twp., and to all other persons in any way interested in the following described lands situated in the County of Hancock and State of Iowa, viz:—The South half of the South half of the South West quarter, and the South West quarter of the South East quarter of Section 14, the East 30 acres of the North East quarter of the North East quarter and the East 30 acres of the South East quarter of the South East quarter of Section 19, the South half, the North East quarter and the South half of the North West quarter of Section 20, all of Sections 21 and 22, the South half of the North West quarter, the South half of the North East quarter and the North West quarter of the North East quarter of Section 23, the South West quarter, the West half of the South East quarter, and the West half of the South West quarter of the North West quarter of Section 24, the South half, the North West quarter, the South half of the North East quarter and the North West quarter of the North East quarter of Section 25, all of Sections 26, 27, and 28; the North half, the South East quarter, and the North half of the South West quarter of Section 29; the East half of the North East quarter of Section 30; the East half of the North East quarter of Section 32; the North half of Section 33; the North West quarter of Section 34; the North East quarter and the East half of the North West quarter of Section 35, the North West quarter the West half of the North East quarter and the North East quarter of the North East quarter of Section 36, all in Township [illegible] North Range 25 West of the 5th P M also all highways between said sections or part of sections

You and each of you are hereeby notified that on June 8th 1914 there was filed in the office of the County Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa a petition asking that additional lands be incorporated in Drainage District No. 9 and that the improvement thereon be changed from open to closed drains and that A J Lilly was appointed engineer to make a survey thereof and report thereon.

That the said A. J. Lilly has filed his report recommending that certain changes be made in said improvement and that certain lands be included in said District the plan of which may be amended at any time before final action thereon by the Board of Supervisors.

You are further notified that April 6, 1915 has been fixed as time for hearing thereon and that all objections thereto or claims for damages caused thereby must be filed in the office of the County Auditor of said county at least, five days (5) before said hearing as provided by law, and that unless you do so said changes will be made and damages waived.

Witness my hand and official seal this 23rd day of February A. D. 1915. (SEAL) E P Hanson, Auditor of Hancock County

AVERY CENTER

Nettie Bachman visited relatives near Goodell, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Walker and children went to Clarion, Monday, for a short visit with relatives.

L J Brugman visited relatives at Belmond, the latter part of the week.

Henrietta Meinderts is working for Mrs. H E. Gibbs at present.

Nellie Wilkins and Tony Knipp were Garner callers, Saturday.

ELL CENTER

Mrs. David Bonar came down from Forest City Saturday, to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Yohn

Mrs Addie Graham of Kanawha, is visiting at the J F. Stokesbary home.

A family from Dakota moved on the Ax farm recently vacated by Chris Anderson

A large crowd attended the party given by Elwin Stokesbary, Saturday evening All had a very pleasant time Refreshments were served

GOODELL

Henry Best Wm Brooks Lake Gram and family have their car loaded ready to start for Minnesota Monday

Mr Buchanan was a business visitor here Thursday.

Dan Wenzel and Harry Sandry returned from Chicago, Tuesday

Mrs Arden Church and children returned from Klemme, Monday

Mrs. C H. Thompkins returned from a visit with her parents at Fort Dodge, Thursday

F Murphy returned to his home at Dow Monday

Eliza Cushman and niece, Mary Sullivan were at Forest City, Thursday

Mrs J Trimbel returned from Wisconsin Wednesday

Our Teachers

It may be safely said that many schools in which morals are never taught from text-books, or by formal exercises, furnish a most stimulating drill in the higher and finer moralities every day. Many of us know teachers, who, without much preaching, convey, in all their intercourse with their pupils the influences and qualities which purify and invigorate character. A considerable acquaintance with teachers impresses me with the belief that the feeling of their responsibility for the moral welfare of their pupils, and their appreciation of the values of character, are steadily deepening among them. No profession is so sacred that shallow and self-seeking persons do not find a place in it; but I believe that as much seriousness and devotion may be found among the teachers of our common schools as among any other class of persons—the clergy not excepted.—Atlantic Monthly

The Woman's Gift.

It is as natural for the normal woman to talk as for the bird to sing. It is the spontaneous expression and giving of herself It is this naturalness which gives to her talkativeness its perennial charm as well as its incalculable value in the scheme of things. The woman in the human group is much like the monarch in Pierre Mille's delightful tales of that name. "Why do people call me the monarch? Why am I loved? Why always happy? Because, he explains, "I always have time to talk. Without me the people around here would be bored to death. I go and come, laugh and sing. It costs nothing but a glass of wine, and a bit of supper What do I give? I give myself The woman gives herself.—Woman's Home Companion.

Interesting Fact.

Here is an interesting fact which may easily be verified October always begins on the same day of the week as January. April as July, September [illegible], March and November begin on the same days. May, June and August always begin on different days from each other, or [illegible] every other month in the year The first and last days of the year are always the same These rules do not apply to leap year

DIARY REVEALS RECLUSE'S LIFE

Met Train Daily in Memory of Fiancee Killed in Railroad Wreck.

CALLERS NOT WELCOME

Record Tells Remarkable Story of What Might Have Been If Sweetheart Had Lived to Become His Wife.

Sapulpa, Okla.—While razing an old oak shack on the Levi Weston farm, ten miles west of this city, workmen found a time-worn, moth-eaten diary which at last clears up the mysterious life and death of Henry Martin, an aged recluse who was found dead in his two-room cabin several months ago. That a trick of fate which wrecked the train and killed the girl who was on her way to become his wife changed the life of Martin was the tale unfolded by the closely written pages, dim with age.

Martin moved to Heywood, a little town west of here, about fourteen years ago. Old citizens of the village remember how he used to meet the one train which passes through the town every day and then hobble away to his cabin in a clearing a mile from the village. This was the only time he appeared in public, but the day was never too cold or rainy to keep him away from the railroad station.

Made No Friends.

All efforts of the townspeople to become acquainted with him proved futile. He would not speak of his past and callers at his shack received a scant welcome. Once a month he visited the supply store where he bought household necessities. He always paid for the articles although he had no occupation and where he got the money upon which to exist will always be a mystery

The diary discovered tells a remarkable story, a story of "what might have been" had his sweetheart lived to become his wife

The first page begins with the lines: "Nell will leave tomorrow and in a few hours we will be together forever. The little rose-covered cottage of which we have dreamed so long is waiting for her and I know that she will be pleased."

Always Met the One Daily Train Through the Town.

The next page was evidently written after he had been informed of his sweetheart's death.

Seeks Solitude.

"Waiting for the train that was to bring her to me, the message came that Nell was dead. Killed in a wreck while only a few miles from me. There is nothing now for which to live. The past is a blank, the future holds nothing for me. I am going to seek where I can live alone, where I can forget, if that is possible," reads the diary.

The rest of the diary tells of his coming to Oklahoma and settling in the clearing, where he lived until his recent death. It tells of his going to the train each day in the hope that she would some time come as she was to have come.

"I must go to the store today. I am almost out of food," were the last lines written in the diary. It is thought that Martin became ill shortly afterward.

He was found lying upon his bed with the picture of a beautiful girl in his hands. Even in death his last thoughts had been of her. An investigation failed to develop any information as to where he had come from or whether he had any relatives. The body was buried in the cemetery at Heywood, where it lies today in an unmarked grave.

Kills 250-Pound Bear.

Milwaukee.—One of the finest specimens of preserved bear skins in existence is to be seen in the window of the Kroeger Bros. company. The bear was shot by Joseph Messing, measures six feet seven inches from tip to tip, and weighed 250 pounds when dressed.

BLUE AND PINK RIBBON

By MARY MONROE.

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

For 15 years Miss Martha and Miss Mary had inhabited the big old house on the hill, at the top of the village street, and neither had spoken to the other. And nobody in Grantford had ever learned the cause of their dispute.

When the only brother died, leaving a little girl, the sisters, then in the second year of their quarrel, had each written, asking John's executor for the privilege of caring for the orphaned niece. So Maud had come to the home, and from the first she had accustomed herself to the peculiar state of affairs in that family.

It was convenient to say what you wished to say through the intermediary of a third person, instead of having to soliloquize.

It was when Maud Grant married John Springer, the doctor, that the wrench came. If Maud had only known it, the old aunts were so chastened by her approaching departure that she could have made them friends.

So Maud went to live in the new house at the bottom of the hill, as Mrs. John Springer; and, though she climbed the hill often, the old ladies were sadly disconsolate at her loss.

But after a while Maud did not climb the hill so often; and then the time came when she did not climb it at all And the two old ladies began to be very busy with knitting and crochet work, and the balls of yarn rolled all over the room as the busy old fingers pulled at them.

Miss Mary and Miss Martha sat opposite each other in their chairs, their fingers working and the needles clicking, and, as they worked, they soliloquized

"A pink ribbon on the little cap, because, of course, it is going to be a boy," said little Miss Martha.

"How glad I am it is going to be a girl," said Miss Mary. "I love blue ribbons I think a baby girl with a dainty little cap with a blue ribbon on it is just the sweetest thing in the world."

"I can't abide blue," soliloquized Miss Martha. "I am so glad that Maud s baby is to be a boy. Charles? Or Ferdinand? My uncle or my father? I think Ferdinand will sound prettier, and then, it would be a sort of tribute to papa."

"She must be called Dorothy, after mamma," Miss Mary soliloquized.

They emphasized their sentiments to callers, and it did not take at all a long time for the news to reach Mrs. John Springer, in the house at the bottom of the hill.

"The dear old things!" she said to her husband. "Oh, John, one of them is going to be so dreadfully disappointed. Whatever shall we do?"

"Well, my dear, they are bringing their own troubles on their own heads," laughing. "We must just leave them to work out their own problems. Anyway, we shall be happy, whichever way it is, won't we dear?"

Maud smiled up at her husband, and he put his arm round her shoulders and kissed her.

And now the day arrived when the blue and the pink ribbon each reposed upon its cap, along with little jackets and coats and all the paraphernalia of babydom. And the little maiden ladies waited. And the wait proved longer than they had expected. And by and by rumors began to spread about the town, and then a carriage drove swiftly up from the station, and a famous specialist leaped out and ran through the room in which the two old ladies sat, waiting.

"Dear Lord, save her to me!" prayed Miss Martha upon her knees. "Thou knowest I want her—we want her."

Little Miss Mary started, for this was the first time in all those years that her sister had betrayed the recognition of her identity.

"Martha! Sister!" she said in a trembling voice. And it was Martha's turn to tremble and look afraid, for she had not dared to hope that the olive branch, held out, would bear such fruit so soon.

The little old ladies looked at each other, and of a sudden they fell into each other's arms and cried. And as the tears streamed down their cheeks and mingled, they asked each other's forgiveness with sobs and self-reproaches.

"I—I—I hope it will be a girl! There!" said little Miss Martha.

"No, no! It is going to be a boy. I want it to be a boy!" answered Miss Mary. And each had gone as far as it was possible to go when she made that admission.

There was the sound of hurried footsteps on the stairs, and Doctor Springer came into the room. Instantly the two old ladies had seized him, one by each hand, and their wrinkled old faces were upturned to his.

"John! She's doing well?" they both pleaded together.

"Well! ' cried John Springer. "Why, it's all over. It is—"

"A girl!" exclaimed Miss Martha.

"A boy!" said little Miss Mary.

"Well—it's both—," admitted John Springer, rubbing his hands. "A boy and a girl. Eight pounders. So we'll have use for both your gifts, after all" And, being a man, he began to dance for joy.

And the two maiden aunts, with arms interlinked like schoolgirls, did something that they would never have dreamed of doing in more sober moments. They followed suit

ON THE RIVER BANK

By JUNE GAHAM.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Going to be married?" echoed Barry Miles.

Ned King nodded triumphantly. "Sure as fate," he smiled. "I'll hold you to your old promise, Barry; you'll be my best man?"

Barry thrust out a friendly hand. "Of course, you can count on me, old man? Congratulations—and who is the girl?"

Ned reddened, but his eyes were bold.

"Della Adams," he said carelessly.

Barry whitened and all the light died out of his face. "Della Adams?" he repeated in a curious tone. "You are to be congratulated indeed, Ned!"

"Thanks Barry. Remember, it's to be a very quiet affair—perhaps a dozen guests. Next Wednesday evening at seven—and you're to be best man!"

Barry did not wince now. "I shall not forget," he said gravely as he turned away.

Was Ned King his friend? Barry asked himself this question over and over as he made his way toward the village hotel.

Surely Ned had known that Barry Miles, the young salesman for a wholesale grocery firm in a neighboring city, was in love with Della Adams, and Della could have told Ned, if she cared to listen to something especially interesting when Barry paid his next visit to Grasston.

Meanwhile, Ned King had hurried toward the Adams house and told Della of the best man arrangement.

"Ned! You asked him, Barry, to be your best man?" she faltered.

"Why not? He was willing. Said I was a lucky chap to get you—and I guess I am," confidently.

Della smiled strangely. "I'm going to send you home now, Ned. If we are to be married next Wednesday I have a thousand things to do."

Della watched him striding down the village street, his stocky figure covering the distance in absurdly long steps. Why, she asked herself, had she engaged herself to Ned King when she loved another man?

Because the death of her uncle had left her singularly alone in the world and she had learned that Barry Miles was engaged to a Drayton girl.

Della put on her jersey and went out into October sunset. The way to the river led along a narrow path ankle deep in autumn leaves. She sat down beneath a bending willow.

Two men were sitting on a great flat stone. One of them was young, and the dark head was buried in his hands. He was listening to the words of the stern-faced rector of the church.

"I'm sorry, Barry," Mr. Fraser was saying in his deep voice. "I've known Della all her life, and if she said she would wait for you—that she would listen to your story—there must be some mistake—some misunderstanding. Have you an enemy?"

"Not that I am aware of," said Barry drearily. "Perhaps she didn't care for me. I hope you'll forgive my whining about it, but I wanted to talk to some one, and what you've said to me has done a lot of good." The two men shook hands.

Barry laughed uncertainly. "I was so sure," he said, "that I even brought the marriage license down with me. It was sort of a comfort to have it, you know. The firm has given me a raise in salary and extended my territory to the northwest. And I thought I could persuade her to marry me at once."

He took a folded paper out of his pocket and tore it across. But before he could complete its destruction Della's slender form stood before him and her hands grasped the marriage license.

"Della!" he gasped, falling back a step.

The girl turned a blushing face to the minister.

"Mr. Fraser," she pleaded, "please tell him it is all a mistake—"

Ten minutes later Ned King came whistling down the path in search of his fiancee. By the river's brink, under the bending willows, he found her, standing with her hand in Barry's, while Mr. Fraser pronounced a blessing on their marriage.

For a moment Ned watched them. Then silently, with ghastly face, he turned and disappeared.

Indiscreet Memory.

"You and that very charming Miss Malcom were boy-and-girl friends, I'm told?"

"Yes."

"I saw you talking to her. You must have had a delightful time recalling early days."

"Well, no. I tried to make it pleasant, but it didn't seem to work. I recalled to her how she climbed trees and fences when she was ten years old, and she gave me a freezing look. Then I asked her to remember how she was thrown from an overturned bobsled and went head foremost into a snowdrift and stuck there. 'You were seven years old,' I said, 'and I recall that you wore—' What do you think she did?"

"I dunno."

"Said 'Sir!' and stalked away."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mixed.

Vicar (his mind full of the recruiting posters)—Wilt thou take this woman to thy wedded wife—for three years or the duration of the war?—Punch.

WHAT $10 DID FOR THIS WOMAN

The Price She Paid for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Which Brought Good Health.

Danville, Va.—"I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any bearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying good health now and owe it all to your remedies. I take pleasure in telling my friends and neighbors about them."—Mrs. MATTIE HALEY, 501 Colquhone Street, Danville, Va.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Liked the Church But—

Small Girl—Do you enjoy taking me to church?

Lover—Not so much as riding with you in a street car.

Goodness! Why?

The conductor never yells "Sit closer please."—New York Weekly.

OVERWORK and KIDNEY TROUBLE

Mr. James McDaniel Oakley, Ky., writes: "I overworked and strained myself which brought on Kidney and Bladder Disease. My symptoms were backache and burning in the stem of the Bladder, which was sore and had a constant hurting all the time—broken sleep, tired feeling, nervousness, puffed and swollen eyes, shortness of breath and Rheumatic pains. I suffered ten months. I was treated by a physician but found no relief until I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I now feel that I am permanently cured by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Household Hints also music of National Anthem (English and German words) and recipes for dainty dishes. All sent free.—Adv.

The Explanation.

Condax—So Weeks is married eh? He is so timid that I wonder he ever mustered up sufficient courage to propose.

Hoax—Oh, he didn't have to. A young widow married him.

Sprains, Bruises Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruise or sprain it gives instant relief. It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in—it acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.

Here's Proof

Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 106, Lawton's Station, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

All Dealers, 25c.

Send four cents in stamps for a TRIAL BOTTLE

Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Inc.
Dept. B. Philadelphia, Pa.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT Kills Pain

THEIR DUTIES AS AMERICAN CITIZENS

From the Literary Digest:

It is undeniable that grave misgivings were heard in many quarters when the call went out some weeks ago for our German-American population to "organize" as a unit for some action not then clearly defined. These misgivings have increased rather than diminished, if we may judge by press comment, since the movement then foreshadowed has taken definite shape and frankly announced its platform.

Although the nation-wide organization launched in Washington on January 30 by 58 representative German-Americans declares its chief aim to be the re-establishment of "genuine American neutrality," its critics do not hesitate to denounce it as an attempt to coerce the United States government into taking an active pro-German stand.

That these objections to the program of the Washington conference are not prompted entirely by sympathy with the allies may be inferred from the striking protest registered by Dr. Kuno Francke, head of Harvard's Germanic museum, and one of the most uncompromising champions of Germany's cause in this country. In a letter to Representative Richard Bartholdt, declining to take part in the movement, Dr. Francke after declaring his sympathies in this way, "wholly and fervently on the German side," goes on to say:

"But my German sympathies cannot make me forget what seem to me my duties as an American citizen.

"I believe it would be against my duties as an American citizen if I were to take part in a propoganda the purpose of which will be thought to be to force our government into a hostile attitude toward England. Your circular letter speaks of England as 'America's arch enemy.' It calls for a 'New Declaration of Independence' which is to 'eliminate all undue English influences from our American life.' And it protests 'against the continued traffic in arms and munitions of war which practically arrays our country on the side of England.'

"I do not wish to emphasize the fact that the proclamation of an embargo on arms and munitions of war would be an altogether illusory thing. Arms and other implements of war would, if our government established an embargo on them, be shipped from this country to Havana, or to Vigo, or to some other neutral port and would reach their destination from there without any hindrance. What I do wish to emphasize is that the establishment of such an embargo would inevitably bring our government into conflict with England and might drive us into war with England. As a man of German blood I might welcome the help which would accrue to Germany by such a conflict between the United States and England. But as an American citizen I cannot possibly support a policy which would bring the terrors of war to our own country.

"What I feel bound to support, as an American citizen is a policy which holds itself strictly within the now accepted rules of neutrality, although, to my regret, this policy through circumstances over which the United States has no control, practically turns out to the advantage of England and to the detriment of Germany."

Dr. Francke's letter closes with the following earnest plea:

"We have every opportunity in this country to make felt what is best in German character and life. Let us continue to do so. Let us continue to have political, civic and industrial progress. Let us stand for the German ideals of honesty, loyalty, truthfulness, devotion to work. Let us cultivate our language, our literature, and our art. Let us fearlessly defend the cause of our mother country against prejudices and aspersions. But let us refrain from political organizations which would set Germans in this country apart as a class by themselves.

"Such an attempt would lead not to the raising, but to the degradation of the German name in this country. It would foster hatred instead of sympathy and only by gaining the sympathy of the majority of the American people can we German-Americans help the cause of our mother country."

"Contempt" By Publication.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The publication of cartoons, editorials and news comments on a case pending in court has led to the fining of the Toledo News-Bee, $7.70 and the writer $200, by Judge John M. Killits of the federal court of that district. The action of the judge is in direct defiance of American principles of jurisprudence, the right to comment on pending cases always having been successfully insisted on by the American press. The law in England is different. We venture, he guess that the fines will never be paid and that the higher United States courts will not risk at this or any other time that sort of assault on the freedom of the press guaranteed by the United States constitution.

The correct American view was taken only a few months ago by Judge Anderson of the federal judiciary in Indianapolis. A newspaper had made fun of a grand jury investigation in a state court. The judge of that court had had the publisher and the writer arrested for "contempt." Judge Anderson granted a writ of habeas corpus, sustained the writ, discharged the prisoners, and notified the state judge that he would hear from him if he took any further action. No further action was taken, and the rights of Americans were thus vindicated by the national authority.

Courts have enough to do in trying cases. Judges may as well abstain from attempting to edit newspapers. If they were ever to succeed in such usurpation nobody would read the newspapers.

Meals of a Salesgirl.

By Esther Packard in The Survey.

"When I pay 7 cents for lunch, I'm extravagant," remarked a girl clerk in a large department in Buffalo.

A 6, 6 or 7-cent lunch, day in and day out, month upon month, year upon year! A sandwich, perhaps, washed down by a cup of coffee every day in the week! Can those of us whose lunch is seldom so restricted comprehend this mode of living? Can our minds grasp in the faintest degree the meaning of this pinching economy? If we experimented with a 7-cent lunch for a week, just to see how it really felt, should we even then comprehend? Is it not the psychological reaction of hopelessness and grubbiness that we carried sense rather than emptiness from a meager meal—the certain knowledge which 7 cents in one's pocket book brings that lunch can never go beyond the limits of bread and butter and a cup of coffee?

"Sometimes I just long for a good 20-cent meal," said one girl who was earning $6 a week. "But I never have the price of it in my pocket book. I get so tired of those 20-cent dinners year in and year out, that often I think I'd rather not eat at all."

It was this hopeless attitude toward life—the feeling that expenditure must forever be hedged about by petty saving, which to me stood out most prominently in the stories gathered from working girls by the New York state factory investigating commission.

Wayfaring.

Apples along the highway strewn,
And morning opening all her doors,
The cawing cock, the distant train,
The valley with its misty floors;

The hillside hung with woods and dreams,
Soft gleams of gossamer and dew,
From cock-crow to the rising moon
The rainbowed road for me and you.

Along the highway all the day
The wagons filled with apples go,
And golden pumpkins and ripe corn,
And all the ruddy overflow,

From autumn's apron as she goes
About her orchards and her fields,
And gathers into stack and barn
The treasure that the summer yields.

* * * * * * *

The silver babble of the creek,
The willow-whisper—the day's end.
With murmur of the village street,
A called good-night, an unseen friend.

—Richard Le Gallienne.

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd, Mead & Co.

CHAPTER I.—(Continued).

Up to the time Eric, the boy, was 5, and his sister, the new Mary, 2, they lived with their parents in a thriving Georgia town, the home place of the father and his father before him. Old Mr. Blagden resented his daughter's marriage to the handsome, whilom Midthorne. The young man once had been a visitor in Corinth, coming from Harvard with college mates for the summer, and his carryings-on had quite thoroughly scandalised the staid, puritanical element in the town, although affording great delight and encouragement to the youth of the place. It is said that the spirit of emulation which thrived in Corinth long after he went his joyous way, following that first and only visit, was such that it had been as vigorously directed in another cause might have produced nothing but saints among the young men of Corinth. But it took a different direction altogether. For a time it was feared that there would be no stopping the lads. They went a dreadful pace and seemed proud of it. Old Mr. Blagden took hold up Horace in good time. He commanded him to have nothing in common with Phil Midthorne, proclaiming him to be an imp of perdition. The young men had been friends. Horace made the fatal mistake of snubbing the Georgian on the street one day, whereupon Midthorne, after demanding an explanation and getting it, proceeded to thrash his future brother-in-law. It is needless to say that Horace despised him from that day forth. If Mary Blagden was not easily managed by her father, Midthorne found the task by no means difficult. She was in love with him—as were all the girls in Corinth, for that matter—and his belaboring of Horace increased rather than checked her interest.

She never got on well with her brother. He bullied her after a polite fashion, all his own, and, as she couldn't retaliate so politely, he had all the better of her. Midthorne, to his own intense amazement, fell desperately in love with the girl. But he had to thrash Horace, just the same. You can well imagine his gratification when he found, almost at once, that he went up considerably in the girl's estimation after that disgraceful encounter. She experienced a malicious delight in standing up for him against Horace, not only in public, but in the bosom of her own family. She "ended up" by marrying the family bug-bear—for that is what Midthorne grew to be—and promptly abandoned Corinth forever. Horace never quite got it out of his head that she married Phil in order to annoy the family.

Be that as it may, they made a sorry failure of it, those Midthornes. Phil was not heavily endowed with this world's goods, nor was he likely to acquire anything. He was a good fellow, a favorite, and it was his secret belief that the world owed a living to all good fellows.

Together they lived rather a thriftless life in the Georgia town, neither of them caring much whence sustenance came just so long as it came. His people were poor. He had but little help from them. Mary's were rich, but she would not have accepted aid from them if she had been starving. Be it recorded, to Phil's credit, he would no more have taken from them than she.

She was the kind of woman who thrives on the attention of other men. There was a-plenty of them in their wide circle of friends who were ready and willing to give it to her, for she was beautiful, she was gay, she was witty. It was not long before gossip attached itself to her. Soon after the second child was born Mary Midthorne began to chafe restlessly under the restraint of a quiet home life in the southern town.

Phil had grown tiresome, commonplace in the extreme. He was no longer the dashing beau of her ante-nuptial days. Instead he was slowly drifting into a disgusting state of complacency—and complacency was the one condition that Mary despised more than all others. He loved his home and his children, he was getting over his love for the world. They quarreled less than had been their wont. He was getting so that he would not even take the trouble to quarrel with her over the attention other men paid her—with her permission. She went farther and farther in a spirit of defiance to him—and his complacency. She got over her love for him, but it was like gall and wormwood to feel that he did not love her—at least, in the old, impassioned way. She was still young, still pretty, still worth while, she could feel.

One day Phil found her lunching with a man he had particularly advised her to avoid, as there had already been talk about them. He upbraided her, in the presence of the man. That night she did not come home. He followed her to New Orleans, and from that city to Pass Christian. Out on the famous Shell road he came upon her and the man.

He took her to the county seat with him but he left the man lying by the roadside a bullet through his heart. The unwritten law! He was discharged by a chivalrous Mississippi jury, and journeyed amiably back to his home and his babies, but without the wife and mother. It was a part of his unwritten law that she should keep to the path she had chosen.

Of course, in this grave emergency, Horace Blagden and his father might have been expected to come forward with a helping hand outstretched to the wayward outcast. But not they! They were of Corinth and they were great men and impeccable. They closed their hearts and their hands against her. She wore a scarlet letter.

Mary was not of the kind that goes to the gutter. The gutter is not a comfortable abiding place nor is it one of luxury. She liked comfort and luxury. She went to Paris instead. Two years after the tragedy on the Shell road she came to a sudden and perhaps timely end through an attack of fever while acting in the capacity of governess in the home of a wealthy expatriated New Yorker, whose wife, for reasons never made public, became estranged from him after Mary had been in the family a spare three months.

A strange coincidence followed. Philip Midthorne died of pneumonia in less than a month after his wife's demise.

Within a year thereafter Horace Blagden, now the great man of Corinth, since the passing away of his father, arose to the highest known point in Blagden generosity. He journeyed south with his wife and laid claim to the Midthorne infants, proffering a home, and an education, and other advantages which their paternal grandparents could ill afford to spurn. The children were allowed to come north, to the grey house on the hill, to the chill winds of Corinth, so unlike the soft, balmy airs of their birthplace, so far removed from the warm, lazy love of those gentle Midthornes. From flower-covered, ruin-racked mansion under a blue sky, to bare, grim, solidly prosperous walls under a sky that was always white.

Corinth gazed aghast. Horace had done the one thing that no one believed him capable of doing. He had taken into his own home to his own prim New England hearth, the offspring of the despised Magdalen and her red-handed husband. The children of an adulteress! The children of a murderer!

Horace Blagden kept his own counsel. He offered no explanation, no excuse for his surprising act. He was legally appointed guardian of the little ones, he set them down, with a grim sense of his own power, among the unblemished children of Corinth and all Corinth was quiescent. No mother lifted up her voice against the affront, no father protested. They accepted the little Midthornes, and were amazed in themselves.

A word in explanation of Horace's act: it was discovered, on the reading of old Mr. Blagden's will that he had not quite forgotten his lovely, though erring daughter. There was a clause bequeathing $100,000 to each of her children the money to go to them when they had attained the age of 21, the bequest, in the interim, to be under the control of a guardian appointed by the court. It was upon the discovery of this unexpected clause that Horace Blagden set about with some haste to have himself appointed guardian. It also occurred to him that it would be the part of wisdom for him to attend to the bringing up of his wards, under his own eye and guidance.

And so it was that the two little Midthornes came to the grey house on the hill, where the hearts were cold and bitter and where the ways were hard.

When they came, blinking and wide-eyed, they found their cousin, Chetwynd, there. He was four years older than Eric. Age was not his only asset in superiority, you may be sure. From the beginning Chetwynd looked upon his unlucky cousins as interlopers, as dependents, far beneath him in every respect. It was necessary for him to pummel Eric roundly on the second day after his arrival. Eric, small as he was, openly had resented the larger boy's airs, being a manly little chap with fire in his blood. For this he was kept locked in a dark closet for three hours. I mean Eric of course. When Chetwynd told his mother that he had thrashed his cousin, that excellent disciplinarian promptly proceeded to punish Eric, so that it would not happen again.

The little warm-hearted Midthornes made friends quickly among the children in the set affected by the Blagdens. They were not permitted to go outside this circle. After the first few weeks of uncertainty in their new surroundings they rose to their own level of joyousness. Not even the overbearing attitude of Chetwynd could chill this natural warmth of manner nor the stern lean face of their Uncle Horace nor the amplified repugnance of their Aunt Rena. They were happy because they knew not how to be otherwise.

This was when they were 6 and 8. They had no ideals. They had nothing black to remember, for they only knew that their father and mother had gone away for a long time. The story of Cain and Magdalen.

But they were to know before they were many years older.

CHAPTER II.

PART OF THE TRUTH COMES OUT.

Eric was 12 years old when his aunt in a fit of annoyance, brought on by his throwing a stone at the fleeing tormentor, Chetwynd, told him that his father was a murderer, and that he was likely to become one himself unless he mended his ways.

It was the first he knew of that tragic episode in the life of his blithe father. The blow was so crushing that he was a long time in coming to the full realization of its force. He slunk off, dazed, bewildered, frightened. Chetwynd's taunting laugh pursued him as he made his way blindly through the yard to the street below.

That was but the beginning. They had held it back as long as it was in their natures to do so. The great wonder lies in the fact that they refrained at all. Little Mary was not slow to observe the sudden change in her brother. A curious depression, an unaccountable sullenness in his manner puzzled her. Young as she was, she knew that there was something in his mind which he would not reveal to her.

He was but 12. He possessed not the power of initiative in so grave so stupendous a problem as the one which confronted him. He could not bring himself to ask the terrible questions. There was no one to whom he could go. It came over him suddenly that he was deprived of all that was good and noble and decent in the world. In his small, groping mind, he wondered if all the children with whom he placed knew of the great secret, if all of them knew that his father had killed a man. With furtive eye and a new purpose, he watched their faces for signs betraying the slightest sense of aversion toward him. He waited in a great, hungry suspense for his aunt to repeat her tirade. He waited for fresh taunts from Chetwynd; he even invited them, with a subtleness surprising in one so young.

But they were frightened, they were wary. Mrs. Blagden, in her haste, had spoken without consulting the master. Horace had told her often that when the proper time came, in his opinion, he would tell the children the story of their misguided parents. She realized that she had gone far beyond her rights in robbing him of the privilege.

She was not sorry for Eric. The haunting, ever alert question in the boy's dark eyes made no impression on her. She had lived too long in the gray house on the hill for that. Besides, he had thrown a stone at Chetwynd. And more than that, the boys who came up to play always asked for Eric, not Chetwynd. She could not understand it in them. She secretly resented the preference.

Several days after her unfortunate slip, she went to her pastor for advice. She had not slept well. She was afraid that Eric might go to his uncle for the truth. The Rev. Dr. Presbrey, of the First Congregational church, of Corinth, was a good man, an immaculate Christian, a traveler who had not even glanced beyond the confines of the narrow path. He had lived in Corinth for 50 years, since the day of his birth, and once had done something notable in the general council at Boston, which, however, had not been of sufficient moment to abstract him from Corinth.

He listened to Mrs. Blagden's confession, then called in his wife for a three-sided consultation in which the clerical pair agreed to everything advanced by their best-paying parishioner; and later on, proposed that she give him until the next Thursday evening to consider the case.

After inviting the minister and his wife to dine with her on the coming Thursday, Mrs. Blagden felt somewhat easier in her mind. She felt, somehow, that God would step into the breach. To the best of her recollection He had never failed her—that is to say, He had not failed her since she came to Corinth. Sometimes she looked back upon her dancing days in New York, and wondered if they were real. They must have been, for she had succeeded in getting Horace's consent to let Chetywnd attend dancing school. It was for the sole purpose, I believe, of making him graceful.

The old seaman who kept the upper road gate to the grounds belonging to the home on the point was Eric's particular friend and crony. The ancient was rather chary about letting children inside the grounds unless accompanied by parents or nurses. He had grown, however, to like the manly, straightforward little Midthorne boy and his pretty, baby-faced sister. They were always welcome. Other children hooted at him when he refused them admission. Eric had said to him once, on being turned away:

"I'm sorry, major. Perhaps if I come again some other day you'll let me in to watch the squirrels. Good day, sir."

There were three things in this very tactful speech that operated in Eric's favor. First, the politeness of it; second, the wistfulness of it, third, the grandeur of it. Jabez Carr had been a captain's mate, it is true, but he had never been by way of acquiring such a magnificent title as "major." It occurred to him at once that the boy was not of Corinth. No Corinth lad would have called him a major. He remembered that the southland is full of majors. It was not for a small boy to know that the sea does not produce majors.

So Jabez said, relenting a bit: "You come from the south, don't you, sonny?"

"Yes, sir," said Eric. "I was born in Georgia."

"I thought so," said Jabez.

"I am Mr. Blagden's nephew, and this is my sister, Mary." Mary courtseyed to the old sailorman.

"I love squirrels," said she.

"Come around tomorrow," said Jabez genially.

"Thank you, major," cried Eric.

"Thank you major," piped Mary.

That was the beginning of a friendship that grew to something akin to devotion. Jabez experienced a great deal of trouble at first in subduing a natural inclination to nautical expletives harmless before the mast, but very much out of place in the presence of a young person in pinafores. He was surprised to find how readily his verbs submitted to the new influences, although he would have been surprised to have heard them described as verbs.

The two children stole away frequently after school hours or during the protracted summer vacation, to pay visits to the delighted old mariner. He repaid them out of the stores of an unbounded imagination. His tales of the sea, his hair-raising encounters with pirates, cannibals, sharks and giants, his countless wrecks and rescues, his wonderful experiences in snatching beauteous young ladies (all of whom were of the nobility), from infamous buccaneers, his life in the very island that Robinson Crusoe inhabited, his descents to the bottom of the sea in quest of Davy Jones; his—but why go on. Jabez possessed an imagination far superior to mine. In fact, he never knew until then just how magnificient it was, and he was very greatly pleased with himself. He used to lie awake nights, "thinking up" lies for their delectation, and then he would have to remain unusually wide awake during the daytime to avoid contradictions. Eric had caught him up sharply in one or two of his earlier lapses and he experienced a sense of deep humiliation on finding himself so detective.

His gravest slip was in regard to an almost simultaneous action under Lord Nelson at Trafalgar and Admiral Farragut at Mobile. He was at once forced into a deep wonder and an uneasy respect for Eric's knowledge of history. Moreover, was one day confounded by the boy's damning declaration that he must be nearly two hundred years old to have engaged in all of the transactions mentioned.

It was to old Jabez that Eric went, after waiting in vain for a renewal of Mrs. Blagden's attack on his father's honour. On the afternoon of the day that the minister and his wife were to dine with them, the boy decided to make specific inquiries of the old seaman.

He went about it nervously, but determinedly.

"Uncle Jabe," he began after procuring the old man's pipe and tobacco from the shelf in the watch house, "did you know my mother?"

(Continued next week.)

War's Zone of Death.

Extracts From a Letter of an Officer In the Staff of One of the Belgian Divisions in Flanders, in the London Chronicle.

Here we are once more in the firing line, occupying a stretch of the Yser. Our men are day and night in the trenches dug along the river embankment, opposite, some 50 or a 100 yards away, is the enemy. One peeps out and, so doing, exposes oneself more or less. Shots ring out, but the result is nothing to talk of. One day, for example, three men hors de combat.

The other night the men pushed a raft into the Yser. Rifles and their machine guns came into action. It was much ado about nothing. There are houses on the other bank at the water's edge. We hear the bandits hammering and working away at all sorts of engines. . . .

All the region parallel with the Yser over a width of three or four miles is really a zone of death. The houses are three parts in ruins. Nothing lives now in this region, no trees even, or rather only a few completely stripped of their branches, an immense plain gridironed with ditches full of water; here and there the greenish yellow stains of the floods; some bodies of horses; enormous funnel-shaped holes in the black soil; vestiges of human activity, such as trenches, shelters, plank bridges, and everywhere—numerous empty meat tins.

And overhead little cotton wool clouds from bursting shrapnel. You see no living thing, and yet you feel that you are being watched. Three men standing together will draw the shrapnel fire, which is only too precise in the region where every yard has been marked out. And the mud! The mud! The mud! Sticky and slippery. Yet everyone is in high spirits and full of "go." . . .

At night the darkness becomes peopled with shadows. Cars arrive, their lamps extinguished with provisions, ammunition, tools and materials. The relieving troops move forward in long, silent lines. Having slept all day, our splendid fellows get busy with their mole-like work and get back to their lodgings before the dawn begins to whiten the sky, just like so many owls!

A Word For Blease.

From the Nashville Southern Lumberman.

Anyhow, the ambition of Governor Blease to go out of office and leave the penitentiary empty is more commendable than some retiring officials' efforts to leave the treasury empty.

"CASCARETS" A... ON LIVER; BO...

No sick headache, billious... bad taste or constipat... by morning.

Get a 10-cent box.

Are you keeping your bowels, and stomach clean, pure and... with Cascarets, or merely forc... passageway every few days... Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor O... Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash day. Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and stimulate the stomach, remove the... and fermenting food and foul... take the excess bile from the... and carry out of the system all... constipated waste matter and p... in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women use Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

Terrifying Styles

"The Gorgons were mythological sisters, who had snakes for tresses instead of hair!"

"Gee," muttered the high school girl, "it must have been tough to have to go out and gather a bunch of snakes whenever you needed a couple extra puffs."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A POTATO KING

"If I were a farmer boy, or a boy without capital, and wanted an early opportunity, I'd start right out growing Potatoes," said Henry Schroeder, the Potato King of the Red River Valley, whose ad in the John A. Salzer Seed Co.'s Catalog reads stranger than a romance.

That advice of Mr. Schroeder's, the self-made Potato king, comes from a man of heart, a level head, a potato king.

Price Schroeder's Famous Ohio, bushel, $1.75; ten bushels, $15.00.

Here's another advice of the Red River Potato king. He says: "Plant a plenty when potatoes are plenty," or cheap, as they were last Fall—That's sound doctrine.

Follow his advice this year and order July and August and all Fall look out for 70c and 90c and $1.00 Potatoes!

CORN:

Who placed Wisconsin on the Corn map, way at the top? Salzer's creations in field Corns, Barley, Oats, Speltz, and Clovers. Potatoes helped do it.

We make a great specialty of seed corn, listing over forty splendid varieties, among them the earliest, heaviest and biggest yielders known.

For 10c in Postage

We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder," Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, etc., etc.

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their big catalog.

Keeping the Peace.

"I presume that you and your wife have occasional differences of opinion?"

"Oh, yes, but—er—I don't tell her."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Just Like Him.

"My husband is just like our furnace," sighed Mrs. Blinks. "All he smokes and at night he goes out."

Attention, Mothers!

Write Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Kesner Bldg., Chicago, Ill., for 28 page beautifully colored "Mother Goose Jingle Book." Sent free to all readers of this paper.—Adv.

Not Even Skin Deep.

Hokus—Yes, she's pretty, but she doesn't wear well.

Pokus—Rubs off, eh?—Judge.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet

BY

BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1918, by Burton E. Stevenson.

TER XXVIII—(Continued).

n't expect to deceive him," explained. "I just wanted to a little surprise. And to think there to see it!"

if he knew they were imita- protested, "why should he go at trouble to steal them?"

is what puzzled me last night," frey; "and, for that matter it me yet."

e he's got the real stones, aft- suggested Grady, who has been to all this with incredulous nce. "The story sounds fishy Maybe these are the immi-ot came forward and picked up arin and looked at it.

one, at least, is real," he said, oment. "And I have no doubt rs are," he added, turning them th his finger.

still incredulous, picked up e brilliants, went to the win- d drew it down the pane. It ep scratch behind it.

he admitted reluctantly, "I ey're diamonds, all right," and down again.

now, gentlemen," continued who had watched Grady's by- h a tolerant smile, "I am ready these diamonds over to you. I like you to count them, and a receipt for them."

then, of course, you will write y," sneered Grady, "and give all the credit."

" asked Godfrey looking at you think you deserve any?"

ady could only crimson and ent. "As for the story, it is written. It will be on the in 10 minutes—and it will cre- sation. Please count the dia- You will find 210 of them."

is the exact number stolen e Grand Duke," remarked M. d fell to counting. The num- 210.

Sherrow has the receipt," God- ed, and Shearrow took a paper pocket, unfolded it, and read tents.

ved to be not only a receipt, ll statement of the facts of the without omitting the details of bery and the credit due the for the recovery of the dia- Grady's face grew redder and as the reading proceeded.

on't sign no such testimonial ," he blustered. "Not on your on't!"

will sign it, will you not, M. asked Godfrey.

ainly," said the Frenchman; "it ognition of your services very erved," and he stepped forward ed it with a flourish.

, Simmonds," said Godfrey.

you don't!" broke in Grady. where you are, Simmonds. I for- to sign that. Remember, I'm perior officer."

he's not, Simmonds," said God- dly. "He hasn't been an offi- for an hour and more."

sprang to his feet, his eyes and strode toward Godfrey.

t do you mean by that?" he an," said Godfrey, looking him in the eye, "that Mr. Shear- myself had a talk with the this morning, and laid before his evidence in our possession ist case among others—and resignation was accepted at nation!" snorted Grady. "I one!"

public that, if you want to," Godfrey coldly. "That's your You ought to have 'phoned it I told you to. Now, Sim-stood glaring about him an in- an enraged bull, and I half him to hurl himself on God- ad, he crushed his hat upon strode to the door, jerked it banged it behind him.

Simmonds," Godfrey repeated, ho died away, and Simmonds ward and signed. I witnessed tures, and Godfrey, with more than he had shown in the r, caught up the paper and it to the door.

at down to the office as quick ," he said, to a man outside. e instructions. That," he ing the door and turning is my reward for all this the Record's reward. And en, Mr. Shearrow has his and I think we would bet- around to some safe deposit his plunder."

Perhaps 10 days afterward that dropped in to see me one eve- just back from a week on which had done me a world nd. I need hardly say, was e him.

looking normal again," he eying me, as he sat down. "I ried about you for a while." felt better. I told you that ed was to have that mystery

It was solved on schedule time, it," he smiled; "though not quite way I had anticipated. Do you Lester," he added, "I am going that cabinet."

what grounds?" I demanded.

use the man who owned it gave se," and he got a paper out of tbook and handed it across to ed it and recognized the deli- feminine writing which I had before.

ir: (the letter ran) that I made the mistake of ating you, and I present you re apologies. I trust that, at re time, it may be my priv- be again engaged with you— t is certain to be most inter- But at present I find that I turn to Europe by La Bre- tance, after the trouble I have is impossible that I should to part with the brilliants of the grand duke. As a venir of my high regard, I will be willing to accept the Boule, which I am certain that Lester will surrender to you will show to him this letter. The is not uninteresting in it- will be doubly so to you be- the part it has played in our medy. And I should like to that it adorns a corner of your e meet again, dear sir, believe sincere admirer,

"Crochard L'Invincible!"

a good sport, isn't he?" asked as I silently handed the letter him. "What do you say about et?"

suppose there is no doubt that d bought it," I said.

that it is mine now?"

but I'm going to solicit a bribe." ahead and solicit it."

"I want a souvenir too," I said. I'd like awfully well to have that letter besides," I added, "It will be a kind of receipt, you know, if anybody ever questions my giving you the cabinet."

Godfrey laughed and threw the letter across the table to me.

"It's yours," he said. "And I'll send for the cabinet tomorrow. I suppose it is still at the station?"

"Yes. I haven't had time to put in a claim for it. But Godfrey," I added "when did La Bretagne sail?"

"A week ago today. She is due at Havre in the morning."

"Did you warn them?"

"Warn them of what?"

"That Crochard is after the diamonds. They went back on La Bretagne, I suppose?"

"Yes—and Pigot went with them. So why should I warn any one? Since they know that Crochard will get those diamonds if he can. It has become a sort of point of honor with him, I imagine. It is up to them to take care of them."

"That oughtn't to be difficult," I said. "The strong room of a liner is about the safest place on earth."

"Yes," Godfrey agreed, and blew a meditative ring toward the ceiling.

And presently he went away without saying anything more.

But the more I thought of it the more the inflection he had given that word seemed an interrogation rather than an affirmation.

And when I opened my paper next morning, I more than half expected to be greeted with a black headline announcing the looting of the strong room of La Bretagne. But there was no such headline, and with a sigh half of relief and half of disappointment I turned to the other news.

But two weeks later, a black headline did catch my eye.

MICHAELOVITCH JEWELS FALSE

French Detective Takes Back Paste Imitations from America.

Fraud Discovered When the Grand Duke Michael Sends Them to a Jeweller to be Reset.

I had no need to read the article which followed, for I saw in a flash what had occurred. I saw too why Crochard had retained the paste jewels—he had a use for them. How or where the substitution had been made I could only guess, but one thing was certain: the two weeks which had elapsed before the theft was discovered had given him ample opportunity to dispose of his plunder. I felt sorry for the Grand Duke, sorrier still for that admirable M. Pigot but, after all, one could not but admire the cleverness of the man who had done and spoiled them.

Who, I wondered, had bought the Marzarin? Surely there was a diamond most difficult to sell. It could, of course, be cut up, but that would be sacrilege!

That question was answered before long, in an unexpected way—a way which filled many columns in the papers, which delighted the comedy loving French, and which gave Crochard a unique advertisement. One morning in the personal column of LeMatin appeared a notice of which this is the English:

"To M. the Director of the Museum of the Louvre:

"It has been my good fortune to come into possession of the rose diamond known as the Mazarin. It is my wish to restore it to your collection, in order that it may no longer be necessary to delude the public with an imitation of colored glass. It will give me great pleasure to present this brilliant to you, with my compliments, provided his highness, the Grand Duke Michael, who preceded me in possession of the diamond will join me in the gift. Should he refuse, it will be my melancholy duty to cleave the diamond into a number of smaller stones, as it is too large for my use. But I hope that he will not refuse.

"Crochard L'Invincible"

What could the Grand Duke do? To have refused, would have made him the butt of the boulevards. Besides, he was, after all, losing nothing which he had not already lost. So, with a better grace than one might have expected, he consented to join in the restoration. Two days later, the director of the Louvre discovered a packet upon his desk. He opened it and found within the Mazarin. When you visit the Louvre, you will see it in the place of honor in the glass case in the center of the gallery of Apollo, with an attendant on guard beside it. But already the circumstances of its restoration are fading from the public memory.

And Crochard? I do not know. Each morning, I read first the news from Paris, searching for L'Invincible in some new incarnation. I have his letter framed and hanging above my desk and every day I read it over. One sentence, especially, is forever running in my head:

"I trust that, at some future time it may be my privilege to be again engaged with you—the result is certain to be most interesting."

And I trust that it may be my privilege, also, to be present at that engagement.

(THE END.)

Keep Your Grit.

Hang on! Cling on! No matter what they say.
Push on! Sing on! Things will come your way.
Sitting down and whining never helps a bit;
Best way to get there is by keeping up your grit.

Don't give up hoping when the ship goes down;
Grab a spar or something—just refuse to drown.
Don't think you're dying just because you're hit.
Smile in face of danger and hang to your grit.
Folks die too easy—they sort of fade away;
Make a little error, and give up in dismay.
Kind of man that's needed is the man of ready wit.
To laugh at pain and trouble and keep his grit.

—Louis E. Thayer in Woman's Home Companion.

At the last session of the New Jersey Grange a resolution was adopted urging that women be permitted to enter the Agricultural college at New Brunswick on an equality with men.

Jane C. Lewis, of New York city is called the "woman doctor of books" as she has a secret formula for preserving bindings and the making of old books look like new ones.

During the next two years Nebraska will have 51 women holding office. Forty-eight will be county superintendents of schools, one is coroner and two are county clerks.

Children Love It—
Don't Deny Them

Dentists affirm its helpfulness to teeth and gums. Doctors attest its aid to appetite and digestion.

Give the kiddies all they want. Use it yourself—regularly. Keep it always on hand.

Cultivate the saving instinct with the United Profit-Sharing Coupons around each package, good toward high-grade merchandise.

Have you seen "Wrigley's Mother Goose"—newest jingle book—28 pages in colors?

(Here is a sample verse and illustration)

There was an old Spear-woman lived in a shoe—
For her many young hopefuls she knew what to do!
She made them most happy with WRIGLEY'S for all—
It kept them in trim at a cost very small!

The "Wrigley Spearmen" want you to see all their quaint antics in this book, free! Write for it today to

WM. WRIGLEY JR. CO.,
1304 Kesner Bldg., Chicago

507

Scissors

How do you spell scissors?
With four s s.
Thanks. I never was any good at grammar.

CUTICURA SHAVING

Is Up-to-Date Shaving for Sensitive Skins. Trial Free.

Prepare razor. Dip brush in hot water and rub it on Cuticura Soap held in palm of hand. Then make lather on face and rub in for a moment with fingers. Make second lathering and shave. Rub bit of Cuticura Ointment over shaven parts (and on scalp if any dandruff or itching) and wash all off with Cuticura Soap and hot water, shampooing same time. One soap for all—shaving, shampooing, bathing and toilet. It's velvet for sensitive skins. No slimy mug. No germs. No waste of time or money. Free sample each if you wish. Address postcard, "Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston." Sold everywhere.—Adv.

A Mean Man.

Does your husband anticipate your every wish?"

Yes, and then he says I can't have it."

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Don't Look Old! Try Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Gray, Faded, Lifeless Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.

The man who leaves footprints on the sands of time isn't always the fellow who carries the heavier load.

A simple remedy against coughs and all throat irritations are Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops—5c at all good Druggists.

A girl can't be blamed for forgetting a fellow when he forgets himself.

Blessed is he who keeps his troubles to himself.

The Collision.

Two friends had acquired automobiles honestly, and were swapping experiences as whiz navigators.

"I ran into a party on the street Sunday and had to get off and help him," said one.

"I ran into one yesterday," said the other.

"Did you get off?"

"You bet I didn't. The judge fined me $10 for reckless driving."

IF BACK HURTS CLEAN KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating Meat for a While if the Bladder Bothers You.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

Presence of Mind.

"What did you learn at the school?" the boss asked the fair young applicant for the stenographer's job.

"I learned," she replied, "that spelling is essential to a stenographer."

The boss chuckled.

"Good. Now let me hear you spell essential."

The fair girl hesitated for the fraction of a second.

"There are three ways," she replied. "Which do you prefer?"

And she got the job.

All Boys and Girls

should write to Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., 1304 Kesner Bldg., Chicago, Ill., for beautiful "Mother Goose Jingle Book" in colors sent free to all readers of this paper.—Adv.

How the Misunderstanding Arose.

Belshazzar saw the writing on the wall.

"I can't make head or tail of it," he cried, "it is evidently censored."

In the Wrong Place

"They made me pay ten cents for bread and butter at that hotel and then I had to tip the waiter 50 cents."

"What did you have to eat?"

"Bread and butter. I only had 60 cents."

Have Healthy, Strong, Beautiful Eyes

Oculists and Physicians used Murine Eye Remedy many years before it was offered as a Domestic Eye Medicine. Murine is Still Compounded by Our Physicians and guaranteed by them as a Reliable Relief for Eyes that Need Care. Try it in your Eyes and in Baby's Eyes—No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. Buy Murine of your Druggist—accept no Substitute, and if interested write for Book of the Eye Free. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO.

Silence may be golden or it may be an admission of guilt.

BLACK LEG LOSSES SURELY PREVENTED by Cutter's Blackleg Pills. Low priced, fresh, reliable, preferred by Western stockmen, because they protect where other vaccines fail. Write for booklet and testimonials. 10-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills $1.00. 50-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills 4.00. Use any injector, but Cutter's best. The superiority of Cutter products is due to over 15 years of specializing in vaccines and serums only. Insist on Cutter's. If unobtainable, order direct. The Cutter Laboratory, Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.

CLOVER BEST ON EARTH. Wisconsin grown seed recognized the world over as hardiest, most vigorous. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE. John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

Kodaks DEVELOPING and PRINTING. Send for Catalogue and Finishing Price List. ZIMMERMAN BROTHERS, 606 Pierce St., Sioux City, Ia.

Roofing that must last!

You can't tell by looking at a roll of roofing how long it will last on the roof, but when you get the guarantee of a responsible company, you know that your roofing must give satisfactory service.

The only real test of roofing quality is on the roof.

Buy materials that last

Certain-teed

Ask your dealer for products made by us—they bear our name.

Asphalt Roofings (All grades and prices)
Slate Surfaced Shingles
Asphalt Felts
Deadening Felts
Tarred Felts
Building Papers

Roofing

1-ply guaranteed 5 years
2-ply guaranteed 10 years
3-ply guaranteed 15 years

Insulating Papers
Wall Boards
Plastic Roofing Cement
Asphalt Cement
Roof Coating
Metal Paints
Out-door Paints
Shingle Stains
Refined Coal Tar
Tar Coating

General Roofing Manufacturing Company

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Seattle, London, Hamburg, Sydney

Canadian Wheat to Feed the World

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's fearful devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and there is an unusual demand for Canadian wheat. Canada's invitation to every industrious American is therefore especially attractive. She wants farmers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves while helping her to raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands can be bought at remarkably low prices. Think of the money you can make with wheat at its present high prices, where for some time it is liable to continue. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate unexcelled.

Military service is not compulsory in Canada, but there is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government this year is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain.

Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 107, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, 129 17th St., Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHUMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No 19 KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or 'phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry. Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

The Espe family are moving onto a farm near Britt.

H. J. Stroemer transacted business at Garner, Monday.

F. A. Arnold transacted business at Garner, Wednesday.

Read Gruetzmacher Bros. great Majestic Stove Sale ad.

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale. Mrs. G. O. Miner.

Arthur Wellemeyer went to Garner, Monday, to serve as a petit juror.

Pure, cleaned timothy seed for sale. Wm. Baack.

Pure Bred Hampshire Boar for sale at right price. G. O. Miner.

A few from this community took in the dairy special at Garner, Tuesday.

There will be a dance at the opera house, Wednesday evening, March 17th.

Mrs. G. A. Pabst enjoyed a visit from her father, N. Reese of Belmond, Tuesday.

Frank Rhodes hied himself to Garner, Monday, being one of the new grand jurors.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ross were over Sunday visitors with friends and relatives at Wellsburg.

Hats! Hats! Hats! Mrs. Bier will have the largest and finest selection ever shown in Klemme.

H. S. Bradfield of Eldora, visited between trains with his daughter, Mrs. M. M. Magner, Monday.

Great Majestic Stove Sale at Gruetzmacher Bros, Monday, March 8th to Saturday, March 13th.

W. H. Latch moved last week to the J. F. Hartfelder farm near Klemme —Meservey Register.

It will pay you to wait for Mrs. Bier's Grand Millinery Opening, which will be announced soon.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

FOR SALE—3 Red Bulls ready for service in the spring, $65. to $75. Gibbs Bros.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place. Chas. F. Busch

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS ATTENTION' There will not be any meeting on Saturday afternoon March 13th

James Elder of Black Earth, Wisconsin, arrived Monday for a few days visit with his brothers, Marion and Tom.

H E Bonwell and Ray Gimer made a deal Wednesday, whereby Ray acquires Harry's interest in the Idle Hour.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate —J. P. Larsen & Sons

Frank Locck is the latest owner of a "Bull Tractor", which he purchased of H Lau & Son. Henry wishes to know who is next

Great Majestic Stove Sale at Gruetzmacher Bros, Monday, March 8th to Saturday, March 13th. An $8.00 set of ware free during the sale only

Quarterly meeting will be observed Sunday March, 7, at the Germantown M. E. church. Rev. G rf Wessel, the district superintendent will be present, Mason City will hold an auto show, March 25th, 26th and 27th. About forty 1915 models will be shown. It should prove of interest to local auto enthusiasts.

Several of the boys went to Albert Lea, for a few days stay, and while there will endeavor to make the acquaintance of several of the big Swedes of that city.

Chris Anderson has purchased the Winfield Pollock residence in Garner. Mr Pollock will build a new residence on his lots between his old place and the Chris Rasmus residence.

SEWING WANTED—I have decided to do sewing for the public, and will guarantee all work intrusted to me. will be found at the Wm Fuller home, just west of the English M. E. church. Miss Rose Yahnke 29p.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia.

At the last meeting of the Titonka council they voted to install six electric street lights. Titonka is one of the coming small towns of this community, despite their poor train service.

Cal Newman and family departed Wednesday for their new home at Wing, North Dakota, where they will go to farming. The best wishes of their many Klemme friends will go with them.

Jesse Kraus of Watertown, South Dakota, was an over Sunday visitor in this city with his sister, Mrs. T. F. Mitchell and brother, William. His wife who had been visiting here for a few days returned with him.

It has just come to our notice that J. W. Ramsay, of Garner, is oil inspector for this district, and we wish to congaatulate him on his appointment and we feel sure that he will make old John D. be good.

Mrs. Bier is busy prepairing her large and excellent stock of millinery for her opening which will be announced soon. You will be able to find just the hat you want at the price you wish to pay if you wait for her grand opening.

When you want it you get it. When you don't want it you don't get it, and don't you forget it at the North elevator.
Yours for business,
Grain, Coal and Live Stock,
A. C. Lau & Son.

Ed Klenz and bride departed for Ceylon, Minnesota, Monday, after a few days visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Walter Ross and family. They stopped off here on their way home from Illinois, where they had been married a short time ago.

Rugs from old carpets, the Reliable Rug Co. is the best and cheapest. We take rags, clothing, any old thing and return good wool rugs 50 cents cash credit and 3 good papers 3 years each worth $2 free with catalog to interested ladies. Write C. H. Yarham, Clear Lake, Ia.

H Idhe and family departed the first of the week for their new home near Hawley, Minneasota, Where they have purchased a farm. The Idhe's were one of our best families and we regret very much to see them leave but hope that they find things to their liking in their new location.

The Rock Island System has found that their fast California train, "The California State Limited" is proving inadequate to handle all the traffic to California on account of the Panama Exposition, so they have added another all-steel train, which will be known as the "Californian". The train will leave Chicago daily at 9. A. M., Kansas City at 11:30 p. m. and arrive at Los Angeles at 4:00 p m., the third day. If you intend to take in the Panama Exposition the Rock Island is the road as they have some of the finest trains and equipment, and routes of any of the roads that can sell you a through ticket

Neese Looks Like Winner

Professor Neese was an over Sunday visitor with friends in Webster City, and also to look after his candidacy for County Superintendent of schools of Hamilton county. He reports that his prospects for appointment to the office as being very good and we hope that he proves a winner. He has been at the head of the Klemme schools for the past few years and if he should be fortunate enough to win out in his campaign will leave the local school in the best condition that it was ever in. He is a hustler and an excellent school man and would prove a very effecient superintendent, and his home county could not do any better than give him this due recognition.

MOVED TO KLEMME

A. H. Yahnke loaded his car Monday and the following day the family left for Klemme to make their future home. Mr. Yahnke will build a new house just as soon as the weather will permit and take life easy for a while. Mr. Yahnke was one of the early settlers of this vicinity, having resided here continually for twenty-three years. He was known as one of the progressive farmers of the community and by close application to business has accumulated enough to be able to lay aside all cares and enjoy a well earned rest. He has rented his farm for a period of five years to R. H. Davis. We regret to lose this estimable family but wish them all the joys possible in their new home. —Buffalo Center Tribune.

MAY ORGANIZE COW TEST ASSOCIATION

Mr. Ivan McKellip of the Dairy division of the Department of Agriculture will be here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 11th, 12th and 13th, and will endeavor to organize a local dairy test co-operation among the farmers of this community.

Mr. C A. Arnold made arrangements with him to be here on those dates and together with Mr. McKellip will call on all the farmers possible during that short time. The Co-Operative Cow Testing Association is organized for the purpose of providing means for the co-operation of its members, in ascertaining the relative merits of their cows and in the economical production of dairy products.

They realize the fact that it would not be possible for them to call on all farmers in the community who might be interested so the opera house has been secured and at 3:00 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, Mr. McKellip will explain the many advantages of forming an association of this kind and the information gained by your attendance is free to all those who feel interested enough to attend.

It looks like a mighty good thing and every farmer who is interested in dairying at all should make it a point to be present Saturday afternoon, March 13 and hear Mr. McKellip.

Enjoys His Grouch.

"When a man has a grouch mo' dan two days in succession," said Uncle Eben, 'let im alone. It s his way of injoyin' hisse'f"

Easter Millinery!
GRAND OPENING
Friday, March 12th and Saturday, March 13th
We Will Conduct an Open House for our Spring Millinery, Beautiful Decorations. A Resplendent Display of Hats in the Most Gorgeous yet Tasteful Color Effects are here to await your praise. We feel assured we can please you no matter how exacting your taste may be.
We Have Been Very Fortunate to Secure Miss Bieber, a first-class trimmer of 10 years experience who is favorably known to please.
A 10% Discount or a Useful Article awarded to every purchasing costumer.
Yours to please,
Mrs. John Josten

AVERY CENTER

Sarah Rhodes and Margret Fitz Patrick were Garner visitors, Saturday.

Nellie Griggs was at Meservey, Friday and Saturday, teaching her music class.

Leo Wilkins is working for J W. Costello at present

W. H. Brooks is loading his car and will leave for Minn. the first of the week.

Fred Hoppe is again working for Mr. Rhodes.

School is closed at Dist. No. 2 for a couple of weeks vacation.

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching service at 10:00 oclock a. m and at 7.30 p. m.

Sunday School at 11:00 oclock.

Miss Eva Wilson a returned missionary from India, will be with us and speak on Wednesday evening March, 10th. All are especially invited to this meeting, and the young girls are urged to come.

Sunday School at the Wayside school house at 2 oclock p. m. and preaching at 3 oclock.

Famous Scotch Regiment.

Many people in many countries have heard of the Black Watch, comparatively few have heard of the Forty-second Highlanders; yet the names are of the same regiment This famous body, the oldest of all Highland regiments, gets its nickname from its tartan. When the regiment was first formed it was used chiefly to [illegible] sedition in Scotland, to enforce the disarming act and to disperse unauthorized assemblies. A special tartan from which all bright colors were eliminated was designed for regimental use, and this fact, together with the police nature of the duties of early days, led to the name Black Watch. On many fields, in many parts of the world, have the soldiers of the Black Watch upheld the glory of this great regiment.

W. F. PAVEY
The Practical Blacksmith
CALL AND SEE THE
ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

DOUBLE LIFE To Your SUIT

An Extra Pair of Pants for $1.00

Two Pair of Pants will double the life of Your New Suit

Take advantage of our liberal offer for a few days only. An extra pair of pants for $1.00 with every Suit HAND TAILORED TO-ORDER.

Saturday, March 6th to Saturday, March 13th

New Woolens---the latest weaves---direct from the world's best looms---Hundreds of patterns to select from.

HAND TAILORED TO-ORDER---TO YOUR OWN IDEAS SUIT HAND TAILORED JUST THE WAY YOU WANT IT $15. AND UP

And an extra pair of Pants, $1.

Remember: this exceptional offer for a few days only---order your Suit NOW!! COME IN TODAY!! Don't forget---the time---the place and what's more our guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. An extra pair of pants for $1.00.

J. N. DAY, Klemme, Iowa

Progressive Newspaper
In The Most Progressive
Town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX, NUMBER 27 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department

Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy

John D. Rockefeller was once a poor, young man. Suppose he had not banked the FIRST money he earned, would he have become rich?

He never dabbled in get-rich-quick schemes either

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interest on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Surplus $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

G. A. PABST,

Klemme, - - - - Iowa

Call and get one of our Silent Salesman Sample Wall Paper Books, Containing samples of all paper we carry in stock with prices printed on sample which will meet any competition.

Druggist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN — SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

Commercial League Meeting

Meeting to be Held Tuesday Eve in the Town Hall Election of Officers

A meeting of the Klemme Commercial League will be held at the Town Hall Tuesday evening, at which time all members are urgently requested to be present At this meeting all unfinished business will be disposed of and a full set of officers for the ensuing year are to be elected

This organization came into existence about a year ago and many times during the year has demonstrated its benefit to the community, and all should be present at the meeting Monday evening and help elect a full set of competent and progressive officers.

Free cigars to all members.

Meets With Favor

Dairy Test Association Favorable to Number of Farmers

Do not forget to attend the meeting at the opera house. on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at which time Mr Ivan McKellip will be present and explain the merits of a local dairy test association

A number of the farmers have been interviewed on the subject and some of them are very much in favor of forming a test association

It would be impossible to see everyone who might be interested in this helpful venture and whether you have been interviewed or not you are asked to be present at the meeting Saturday afternoon

Admission free and all are invited

DIED SUDDENLY

Charles H Wright was born at Goisprey, England, March 17, 1854 and at the age of one year he came with his parents to this country, settling at Somerset Corners, New York. In the year 1856 they moved to Iowa, where he grew to manhood.

On November 21st 1888 he was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Cole at Sioux Falls, South Dakota,. To this union were born four children, three of which died in their infancy, and one, Mrs. Chas. Winters survives.

About the year 1901 Mr. Wright with his wife came to Garner where they have since resided. About 9:00 oclock Sunday evening, just as he reached the landing to their rooms he was stricken with heart failure and died immediately.

He united with the M. E. church at Haskins school house in 1898.

He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, one daughter, two brothers and other relatives and friends; besides grand children, Maudie, May and Martha Winters.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer; assisted by Rev. S. M. McConnel of the Presbyterian church at 2 oclock p m., Tuesday, in the M. E. church of Garner, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Garner cemetery.

Rev. J. M. Howdeshell.

A Great Comedy Success!

"The Missouri Girl", famous the world over "The favorite comedy of the continent" will be seen at Klemme Opera House on Tuesday, March 23rd and theatre-goers are assured of a rare treat.

Many people will no doubt say—"why, they cannot play it on this stage" or "they won't give the whole show here" &c, but the management guarantees the entire production.

The fact that the company carries two complete sets of special scenery, the smaller of which will fit the local stage nicely, assures the same show exactly that is given in the regular city theatres

The production is a clean, up to date American comedy with music and high class specialties interspersed throughout and you'll laugh till you're blue in the face.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Mrs. Eva Wilson of India, a returned missionary delivered a very interesting message of the condition of the poor people of India, on Wednesday evening at the English M. E. church to a goodly number of our people, after which they organized a Woman's Foreign Missionary Society with twenty-six members. Others are invited to unite with us in helping to carry the story of Jesus to far-off India.

Mrs. Geo. Gruetzmacher. Pres.
Mrs J M Howdeshell, Sec.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Logansport, Ind.—Miss Maude Anders has been appointed deputy sheriff of this county.

St. Louis, Mo.—Mrs. Helen Hart, who is past 70 and the mother of five grown children, has enrolled as a pupil in the Yeatman high school.

Seattle, Wash.—Six years ago Mrs. Ellen A. Heim grubstaked Jeremiah Wilson a prospector and sent him to Alaska. Wilson struck it rich and a court ruling has just ordered an Alaskan mining corporation to turn over to Mrs. Heim and her 16 year old daughter Marie, their share in Wilson's discoveries. The share is $6,000,000.

Hoopestown, Ill.—This city has an All-Prohibition administration and in a further effort to make it the one real "dry" town of the country, interesting ordinances have been adopted. One measure provides that any member of the city council, the mayor, superintendent of the water plant, police officer, city clerk, city treasurer or other city officer who shall have about his premises or who shall, whether in this city or elsewhere, partake of intoxicants, shall be removed from office.

Cascade, Md.—William Brown, father of 17 children of his own, was lonesome and has just adopted two more children, making 19 youngsters to play about his knees.

Mrs. H. Thrun and two children went to Belmond, Saturday, for an over Sunday visit with her mother.

Mrs. George Fuller returned to her home at Owasa, Saturday, after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Fuller and other relatives in this community.

HILL CENTER

Walter Anderson is working for Hans Scott.

Miss Hattie Thrun came home from Clarion, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thrun were over Sunday visitors at Belmond.

Miss Hulda Johnson is working at the new millinery in Klemme.

Mrs. Addie Graham returned to her home, Wednesday, after visiting for some time at the Stokesbary home.

Herman Barz has just finished building a fine new home.

John Christians, one of our prosperous farmers delivered to Aug. Lau last Friday, seventy four head of hogs which averaged two hundred and eighty pounds apiece.

Mrs. Chas. Gall was at Mason City, between trains Tuesday, having dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Hod Lowhorn entertained their neighbors and the young people of the neighborhood, also a big load of young folks from Klemme, Saturday evening. Games were played until a late hour, when refreshments were served. They made no mistake when they sang "we won't go home till morning." All present had a very good time.

GOODELL

Mrs. Anson Avery who has been visiting friends and relatives here the past few days, returned to her home in Garner, Monday.

Messrs. Johnson and Blomgren from Kanawha, spent Sunday with their lady friends here.

Mr. Bullard from Belmond transacted business here Wednesday.

There will be a St. Patrick's dance here on Wednesday night, March 17th.

Wm. Nolte who has been at Hot Springs, Arkansas, for the benefit of his health returned home last week.

John Reed returned from Chicago, Saturday, where he had been visiting relatives.

Mrs. L. W. Wesenberg left for Charles City, where she will visit relatives over Sunday.

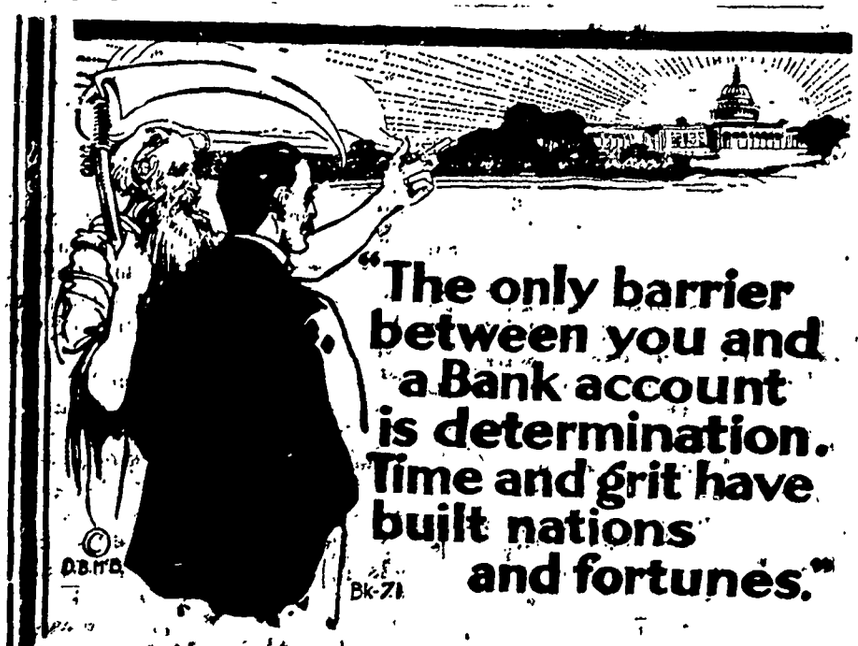
Miss Gail McNutt returned from Nebraska, and is visiting relatives here a few days.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, praire lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.



¶ Those desiring the best services in banking are invited to make their banking connections with us.

¶ Firms, corporations and individuals will find us prepared to serve them in every branch of banking. We offer terms and considerations commensurate with proper procedure of a conservative organization, and you will find us willing if you have a desire to have us serve you.

3 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prices

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

The Klemme Times

AND THIS GREAT FAMILY GROUP

Only $1.25 for 1 Year

"THE GREAT FAMILY GROUP"
which consists of these three well-known magazines—all one full year. Value of magazines alone, $1.00. Also any one McCall Pattern FREE.

People's Popular Monthly
(Published Monthly—25c a Year)
28 big pages of thrilling stories and timely articles for every-day people. Special departments: The Helping Hand Exchange, Woman's Wardrobe, Boys-and-Girls, and Country Life.

A Whole Year's Reading for the Whole Family

HOME LIFE
(Published Monthly—50c a Year)
24 big pages of ideal home reading. Lots of stories—clean, wholesome and inspiring—by noted authors; fine Editorials, Needlework, and special features to entertain all the family

The Best Home Paper and 36 Magazines

McCALL'S MAGAZINE
(Published Monthly—50c a Year)
The Fashion Authority of more women than any other magazine. A genuine help to housekeepers, with its many practical departments—Home Dressmaking, Household Discoveries, Cooking, etc.—that lighten housework and save money. Illustrates latest McCall Patterns, celebrated for style, fit, simplicity and economy. Also beautiful Embroidery and Delightful Stories, that make McCALL'S loved in more than one million, two hundred thousand homes.

FREE Each subscriber for this Great "Big Four Bargain" may choose from her first copy of McCALL'S received, one of the celebrated McCall Dress Patterns, FREE (value, 10c), by sending a postal card request direct to The McCall Co., New York, giving Number and Size desired.

This unusual money-saving offer open to old and new subscribers

Act Promptly—Write or Call at This Office—It's Too Good to Miss

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

The mysterious loss of gasoline, which embarrassed the polar expeditions of Scott and Amundsen, and which was the principal cause of the disaster that befell the former has been made the subject of investigation by several persons, and a very plausible explanation is made by E. T. Brooks, of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, in an article in Science. He has observed that at low temperatures ordinary tin is liable to be converted into the allotropic form, gray tine power This change takes place at a maximum rate at 48 degrees Centigrade (54.4 degrees Fahrenheit), and may occur more slowly at other temperatures below 18 degrees Centigrade (65 4 degrees Fahrenheit) Hard solder, which may contain 65 per cent tin, is subject to the same process of disintegration. Hence danger of leakage along the solder seams of the container—a fact that should be duly considered by future polar expeditions.

A German paper has been asking Scandinavian men of science and action to state for what they are indebted to German science—rather as though, in face of British denunciation, Germany were a little anxious to reassure herself on the subject. The answers may give a modified satisfaction to the German mind, though there are conditions stated and implied. Thus Professor Lovenz, of Hyde, not satisfied to answer the question, adds that the debt of science to France and Great Britain is equally great And he states what, in his opinion, are the three leading characteristics of the three nations in their attitude to science Would any one guess them at a first attempt" He praises France for clearness, Germany for thoroughness and profundity, and England for originality

If a potentate or a famous man were in your skin, how would you face the probable assassin" We are told that the kaiser has his special doubles, made up in his image and likeness, and dressed in understudies of his uniforms, so that the enemy may try his powder on the dog. They have adopted the method in England, as when there were 'two Richmonds" in the field But somewhow we all like best the splendid vanity of Nelson, who insisted on going into the fight in full uniform and with his orders on his breast. It was- for that reason—his last fight Most of us in practice, perhaps, would give away a few old suits for the assassins to pot at

Arctic explorers often report the discovery of flowers blooming in icebergs. The explanation of this is as follows: It appears that some animals carry on their feet a growth of moss, which is deposited on the ice while it is attached to the mainland in polar regions In time this decays and forms a shallow soil in which the seed of buttercups and dandelions often find a lodging, borne by currents of wind that doubtless caught them up in some southern clime These take root and bloom when the great gleaming iceberg floats out to sea and is carried southward, where the soft wind melt the surface and give the plants the moisture they need

According to the last annual report of the general land office, the national bird reserves now number 67 Three of these were created during the last fiscal year viz Anaho Island, in Pyramid lake Nevada the home of the white pelican Smith Island in the Strait of Juan de Fuca Washington, the roost of wild ducks and geese and many migratory shore birds which have been decimated by pothunters and Blackbeard Island off the coast of Georgia

A parasite which destroys the dreaded San Jose scale has been discovered, and is now being used in Pennsylvania where it has been highly successful in combating the ravages of the pest which has done such damage to American fruit and nut trees The parasite is the Chalcid fly, which comes from the same part of China from which the San Jose scale first came There the Chalcid fly has effectively checked the scale

When a Siamese girl attains the age of 35 without marrying she is placed in a privileged class under the special care of the king who binds himself to find a husband for her His method is extremely simple A prisoner in any of the Siamese jails may gain his pardon and release by marrying one of the mature maidens

All fishes have air bladders in their bodies, which enable them to rise and fall in the water at will Near the bottom the weight of the water compresses these bladders, and as a consequence the body of the fish shrinks until its bulk is of equal weight with the water it displaces.

A letter carrier at the Manchester (N H) postoffice has solved the problem of sorting out mail when on dark streets He has a small electric light with a reflector attached to his coat, and by turning on the switch he can hold the mail in front of him and read the addresses easily

Recent sales by the United States government totaling 126,000,000 feet of saw timber in the Olympic national forest in western Washington mark the opening of this hitherto inaccessible storehouse of timber estimated to contain a stand of 33,000 000,000 board feet

Red oxide of mercury is now being incorporated in marine paints for coating ships bottoms The poisonous nature of the mercuric oxide prevents the growth of sea plants and other organisms which foul the ship bottom and cause the vessel to lose speed

The United States forest service is co-operating with 54 railroads, mining companies, pole companies and cities in making tests of wooden ties timber, poles piling and paving blocks which have been given preservative treatments.

Notwithstanding the great amount of timber on the Pacific coast there is a very meager supply of hard wood, and much of the oak made use of in the western part of this country is imported from the eastern countries of Asia

The famous old city of La Paz, Bolivia in a valley more than 12,000 feet above the sea is the highest capital in the world overtopping Lhassa, the far famed capital of Tibet in Asia by several hundred feet

One end of a large stone church in Chicago weighing several hundred tons was moved bodily to permit the enlargement of the building by erecting a new section midway of the structure

In Germany one man in 213 goes to college, in Scotland, one in 520 in the United States, one in 2,000, and in England, one in 5 000

COUNTY PAYS PROFIT FOR HELP EMPLOYED BY COUNTY ENGINEER

Evidence Shows Official Paid Men Less Than Claims Made to the County Board.

Clarion, Ia., March 6 —The second day of the trial of the case of state of Iowa vs. S. B. Gardner opened by the state putting on the witness stand several persons who were employed by the defendant while acting in the capacity of county engineer

George Horton, the first witness, a student civil engineer, testified that he worked under the defendant from April 1 to August 1, 1913, at the rate of $1.75 per day, doing work on drainage projects and city paving at Eldora and Iowa Falls. He stated that he knew the defendant was receiving more from the county for his labor than he was paid, and that defendant was charging the county more than he paid his men. He had never seen the contract said to exist between the board and the defendant, but understood that such a plan existing between the board and the defendant was general knowledge.

E. Chamberlain worked under the defendant as assistant engineer for two months at $80 per month. Following that he received $3.50 per day for a time and then $3.75 per day This was in 1913. He testified that he did some private work for defendant during that time did not know that his amount for private work was sent in as a county expense. On cross examination witness said he knew that the defendant made a larger bill to the county for his work than he was paid, that he knew the defendant made a charge of $5 a day to the county when he only received $3 50 a day

Up to this stage of the trial interrogations by the state indicates that it is the state's theory that the defendant paid his helpers by the day regardless of the number of hours of labor performed and that he filed his bill with the county on the basis of an eight-hour day, also that private work done by his helpers was charged by him to county work.

LUTHERANS ACCEPT O. A. HENRY RESIGNATION

Stanton, Ia March 6.—At the closing session of the 47th convention of the Augustana synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church, the resignation of Rev O A Henry as superintendent of the Iowa Lutheran hospital, of Des Moines, was accepted. This had been tendered the hospital board last May, but the matter was referred to the conference for action. There had been friction between the superintendent and the board. A committee was appointed to investigate the causes of dissension This committee recommended that the resignation be accepted, but coupled with the report was a mild censure of the board. The same evening the board held a session and nominated Rev F A Hanson, field secretary of the English work of the synod, for superintendent He was unanimously elected

TWO ALLEGED ROBBERS ARE INDICTED AT ONAWA

Onawa Ia, March 6 -- Ira Boyse and Charles Montgomery arrested in connection with the robbery of Albert Erickson, six miles east of Blencoe, on January 12, were indicted by the Monona county grand jury for burglary

Boyse was caught on the scene of the attempted robbery, having been knocked insensible by Erickson. Montgomery was arrested at Council Bluffs shortly after the robbery, but released when the authorities failed to find sufficient evidence to connect him with the case Later, when a convicted bootlegger was released from jail, Sheriff George W Martin discovered a letter on his person which was to be delivered to Montgomery Boyse is alleged to have written the letter to his pal. Montgomery was again arrested

MRS. VAN HORN INDICTED FOR MURDER OF HUSBAND

Mason City, Ia., March 6.—Mrs. Charlotte Van Horn was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of murder. She is alleged to have killed her husband on the night of November 19. She was at a hospital here and was arrested immediately

WILBUR MARSH MENTIONED TO SUCCEED JUDGE WADE

Washington, D. C., March 6.—The latest information here as to the probable national committeeman from Iowa, to succeed Judge Wade, is Wilbur Marsh, of Waterloo. He will be satisfactory to the administration here and to part of the democratic organization in Iowa E. T. Meredith, of Des Moines, would be given the preference if a way could be found to harmonize the position with the reserve bank directorship, now held by Meredith.

IOWA GIRL CHAMPION GETS $1 FOR LOAF OF BREAD

Washington, D. C March 6 – A dollar for a loaf of bread This was what was paid today by Henry Seeley, of East Orange, N J a steamboat inspector He paid it to Ruth E. Fleek of Floyd county, Iowa, a 12-year-old champion bread maker, who is here with other Iowa juvenile champions.

"Bake me a loaf and send it to me when you get home," said Seeley

The Iowa delegation of champions, which consists of Earle Zeller, of Green county Elios E. Parson, of Page, Clement Miller, of Jefferson, and Ruth E. Fleek, in charge of Katherine R. Logan, of Ames, will leave here tonight for Philadelphia, New York, Niagara Falls and then home

NO TAXATION RAISE IN CLINTON FROM "DRY" ORDER

Clinton, Ia., March 6 —There will be no increase of taxation in Clinton because of the loss of saloon licenses. This will be offset by a 5-mill reduction in the school levy, and by the termination of a special sewer levy of 10 mills in sewer district No. 4, which includes the major portion of city property. Taxation will, therefore, be lower next year, even with the saloon revenue gone, than it is now. The city council held an informal conference on the taxation question and found the situation to be much brighter than had been anticipated.

CHEROKEE SCHOOL BONDS SOLD TO CHICAGO FIRM

Cherokee, Ia., March 5.—The school board of the Cherokee independent district has completed the sale of the $85,000 worth of school bonds at what is considered a good figure. There were seven bidders for the bonds, among them two local banks.

The bonds were sold to H. T. Holtz & Co. of Chicago whose bid was $86,954 91, with accrued interest. Upon the previous occasion when the bonds were supposed to have been disposed of this firm's bid was $86,786.

ENFORCEMENT PLANS TO FEATURE CLOSING LABORS OF ASSEMBLY

Several Measures in View to Aid in Making Iowa Really "Dry," January 1.

Des Moines, Ia., March 6.—Various enforcement plans, to make Iowa really "dry" the first of the year, will be among the features of the closing days of the Iowa assembly, which resumed its work today after the regular mid-session vacation. Some bills already have been introduced along this line, and others are in preparation. The program, in part, includes the following measures Require common carriers to register all liquor shipments with the county auditor and also require persons receiving liquor to sign a receipt for public record.

Permit seizure and confiscation of vehicles used in the transportation of liquor for unlawful purposes, but protect owner who unknowingly used his vehicle for such purpose.

Make bootlegging a misdemeanor, so that convictions will not be difficult.

Make liquor solicitor a bootlegger, to curb agents taking orders for liquor.

Provide severer punishment for each subsequent offense by a persistent violator of the prohibitory law.

Make collection for liquor kept unlawfully a misdemeanor This would not interfere with a brewery agent collecting from some patron who purchased beer for his own consumption

Provide that injunction against sale of liquor apply in entire state instead of within the district of judge granting restraining order

Prohibit sale of patent medicines that contain more than 5 per cent alcohol.

Provide state agents to enforce law in communities where local officials are lax

In addition to these measures it is probable that a bill something similar to the Kansas law will be introduced to prevent the sale of liquor in drug stores. The Kansas law forbids the sale by all persons, including druggists and physicians.

To Analyze Insanity.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature providing for a psychopathic hospital in connection with the medical department of the state university J H. McConlogue, a member of the board, favors this bill provided that it is stipulated that no other hospitals shall be established

"My thought is that all persons mentally disturbed should be sent to the psychopathic hospital instead of taken before a sanity commission," he said "No records should be kept of these cases except at the hospital"

Mr. McConlogue said that about 40 per cent of the persons sent to state hospitals are labeled insane, when in fact they are not insane. To prevent this blot on their lives he would permit no public records until it was proved that they were insane. He objects to a psychopathic hospital in connection with an insane hospital because hundreds of persons who might be benefited by treatment at such an institution would refuse to go because of the fear of being called insane on account of being at an institution where there are insane inmates

GAVE "BOOT" IN TRADE FOR TWO STOLEN HORSES

Marengo Ia March 6.—Stewart Brown, of this city was the victim of a horse thief and was swindled out of a team of mules and $85 in money

Late in the afternoon recently a man drove up to the Brown home and after parleying awhile offered to trade his team of gray horses with brass mounted harness for Brown's mules and $100 The trade was finally made, the stranger taking $85 boot money and departing, after making the statement that he had driven from Dakota to Omaha, but did not state where he was going next. Next morning Sheriff Reed received notice from Newton to watch out for a stolen team that had been stolen in daylight from a farm near Mingo. The team in Mr. Brown's possession answered exactly the description of the stolen horses, as did the buggy and harness. Farmers saw the man driving northwest the previous evening and Mr. Brown and the sheriff started out on the trail and captured the thief, who was returned to Newton, pleaded guilty at once and was taken to prison.

WILL TEST COMPULSORY INSURANCE PROVISION

Des Moines, Ia., March 6.—Assistant Attorney General Henry Sampson, acting for Attorney General Cosson, filed in the Polk county district court a petition objecting to the dismissal of a suit brought by J T. Munn against the interurban railway company to collect for personal injuries.

Munn brought the suit on the ground that the company had not come under the workmen's compensation law and therefore had none of the three defenses allowed by common law. The fact that the interurban company has taken out no insurance to protect itself against losses was set out as evidence.

The company filed a demurrer alleging that it had not rejected the workmen's compensation act, and therefore was under it.

The petition filed by Sampson upholds the position taken by Munn That insurance of risks is necessary to prove that a company is under the law.

TELEPHONE RATE RAISES CAUSES REGULAR FURORE

Buck Grove Ia., March 6 – Citizens of Buck Grove and of other towns in Crawford county, are up in arms over an announced raise in rates by the Crawford County Telephone company Previous to the rate raise the company had required all patrons to pay six months in advance, but this is not deterring a large number from ordering a discontinuance of the service. Nothing that had happened here in a long time has created such a furore Citizens declare it is mere "corporation bunk" that growth of business increases the pro rata cost of telephone service.

The situation is viewed as particularly important in connection with the efforts of telephone companies to get under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission and thus move to bar all new competition In this locality the feeling is that the opening for unlimited competition is the only hope of getting adequate service at reasonable rates from the telephone companies.

HUFFMAN NOT CONFIRMED.

Washington, D C., March 4 —The appointment of George A. Huffman as postmaster at Des Moines did not come up to the Senate confirmation today and the appointment expires by limitation. If so disposed the president can make it a recess appointment. There is a possibility that he may open the situation for further hearings.

The Senate confirmed the appointment of Judge Martin J. Wade, of Iowa City as just of the southern Iowa judicial district to succeed the late Smith McPherson.

SKAGGS GETS PAROLE FROM PEN AND OMAHA MAN OFFERS OLD JOB

Another Chance Given Convict Who Merely Crossed Line for Employment.

Shenandoah, Ia., March 5.—Clarence Skaggs has been paroled from the Iowa penitentiary.

Skaggs, convicted of house breaking at Shenandoah when there was a big question as to his guilt, had been paroled from the state prison on condition he would not leave the state Unable to find work he went to Omaha and went to work for Jay Burns, a baker. During the 10 months there he was promoted from one position to another until he occupied a responsible position when arrested.

His wife and baby lived with him in Omaha when he was returned to the Iowa prison for breaking his parole. Burns went before the Iowa parole board twice to plead his case He spent several hundred dollars writing hundreds of letters and working in Skaggs behalf.

In response to an inquiry by an interviewer yesterday, Mr. Burns said "When he can leave Iowa and come to Omaha he will find a good job waiting him in my place"

Under the parole rules Skaggs will not have the right to go outside of Iowa, even to accept employment

O'CONNOR, OF WILL FAME, FORMER HAWARDEN CITIZEN

Hastings, Neb., March 5 There were two John O'Connors living at Hawarden, Ia during the '80s, according to the testimony of Culivan's one witness, offered in providing the validity of the will of the $100,000 estate to him.

Anticipating that the allied opponents to the will may seek to resurrect the wrong man at Hawarden in attempting to show that the Hastings recluse was never away from here in December, 1886 the time at which he was alleged to be railroading at that place. Culivan's witnesses told of the other John O'Connor being shot in a drunken fight by the marshal of Hawarden some time before the Hastings man appeared there in company with Culivan

J. A. Ashley, real estate dealer from the Iowa town, not only identified the body positively as the man whose name was often seen on the Hawarden hotel register and which is the same as that to the will, but he recounted a time that Culivan and O'Connor rode with him together in his buggy to see a piece of land which he sold them jointly

Later the Hastings man came to him and asked him to draw his will The instrument did not suit O'Connor, who later brought one drawn in his own handwriting, asking him to pass on its legality When shown the will in question he said it was positively the same one O'Connor showed him. He was certain as to the paper on which it was drawn Several other witnesses verified the signature as O'Connor's, as well as those of two witnesses to the will

REGULAR UPROAR AMONG DEMOCRATS IN DES MOINES

Des Moines Ia March 5 -Announcement yesterday morning of the appointment of George A Huffman to the Des Moines postmastership caused a veritable uproar among local democrats who had been backing the candidacies of other men. Dozens of protests were immediately wired to Washington and first steps were taken toward a fight to prevent confirmation of the president's choice for the place

The local democrats protested to the president and the postmaster general that the appointment so early was snap action which had prevented the other candidates from even presenting their claims to the place

Friends of other candidates said last night that assurance had been given by the referees that no consideration of the Des Moines place would be attempted before April 1

DAUGHTER AND ADOPTED SON SHARE JOHN LINDER ESTATE

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 5.—In compliance with an order from Judge Wheeler in district court in Council Bluffs, the will of the late John Linder was yesterday filed for probate with the clerk of the district court of Pottawattamie county by George S. Wright, attorney for Jeanette Linder Green daughter of Mr Linder Mr Wright has just returned from California and the document was held by the daughter, pending his advice upon his arrival

The document is brief To Mrs Elizabeth Ann White of Council Bluffs is bequeathed $3,000. John Metzger, a son of Armada Metzger of Council Bluffs is bequeathed $5,000. To Walter J Furler of Council Bluffs is bequeathed $1,000.

His children Oscar J Linder and Jeanette A C. Green, are to share alike all the remainder of the property The will also provides that the administrator shall have erected a tombstone at the grave of the deceased and his wife in Council Bluffs, the cost not to exceed $1,000.

The instrument was drawn on July 6 1911 in the presence of Charles S Elgutter and Thomas Bowman It contains nothing to indicate the value of the estate

THORNE REFUTES CLAIMS OF RAILROAD OFFICIALS

Des Moines, Ia., March 5 —Clifford Thorne, chairman of the Iowa state railroad commission in a statement issued here today, voiced vigorous opposition to the petition of the railroad companies operating in Iowa for an increase of passenger rates from 2 cents to 2½ cents a mile High officials representing the railroads are this week appearing before the commercial bodies of the state with arguments in favor of the increase.

Replying directly to the statement of S M Felton president of the Chicago & Great Western railroad that the reduction of fares in Iowa six years ago had not stimulated traffic, Mr Thorne declared that since the 2-cent fare became effective Iowa traffic had increased $10,000,000 while during the six years preceding the enactment of the law the increase was but $4,600,000. "In other words, he continued, "the increase since the passage of the 2-cent fare law has been more than double the increase during the same number of years preceding"

SAC CITY—John Barlow aged 76 years, died at his home in the northern part of the city Until a little over a year ago he served for about 12 years as rural mail carrier out of Sac City He was a veteran of the civil war He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Wayne Morton, of this city, and a son, Merville Barlow, of Kansas City, Mo.

MISSOURI VALLEY -The proposal here to issue $50,000 in bonds for a new high school building carried by a vote of 770 to 255. There were 353 women voters, and only 78 of them opposed the bond issue. One ballot was spoiled among the women's ballots and three spoiled among the men voters.

INSURGENTS TO MAKE FIGHT AGAINST IOWA $10,000 COMMITTEE

Claim to Be Urged That State Has Received No Benefit From Research.

Des Moines, Ia., March 3.—Democrats of the Iowa senate, aided and abetted by republicans who object to the domination of certain republican leaders, will spring a bomb in the ranks of the retrenchment and reform committee of the general assembly when the legislature convenes again this month The insurgents have spent considerable time in gathering their facts, which they expect to use in a broadside attack when the opportunity presents itself

The retrenchment and reform committee was given an appropriation of $10,000 by the last general assembly. It was supposed to go through all the state offices for the purpose of reorganizing on a more economical and business like basis. Now the insurging senators want to know what practical good the state received from that expenditure of $10,000. Three members of the committee are in the present legislature—Senators Allen and Francis and Representative Miller

Senator Quigley, democratic floor leader, gave a hint as to what is to come, in a recent speech on the floor. He declared that if they had done their duty there would have been no need of a "graft" committee. He challenged them to point out any practical change that had been made in the offices at the state house to show for their efforts.

DES MOINES MUST RETRENCH UNTIL NEW LEVY IS MADE

Des Moines, Ia., March 3.—The Des Moines city council is facing a situation more serious than any that has arisen since the city adopted the commission plan of government seven years ago. The crisis has to do with the money deficit occasioned by the summary closing of the 86 grog shops cutting down the anticipated revenues by $140,000.

The reform wave hit the council at a most inopportune time, far removed as it was, from the time when relief for the treasury might be obtained through an increase in the tax levy. The law requires that the levy to be fixed in September but results are not obtained until the following April The council therefore must struggle along with what the regular revenues bring in and make ends meet as best they can until April, of 1916

Members of the council now are struggling with the question of retrenchment to meet the depleted treasury Where to begin the cutting process is a problem that promises to develop a fight of real proportions. All are agreed that emergency measures must be taken Each is satisfied that retrenchment should start in some other department than his own

ALBIA DOCTOR TAKEN TO MOUNT PLEASANT HOSPITAL

Albia Ia March 3—Dr C G Hoover was taken by Sheriff Guthrie to Mount Pleasant to be treated for the drug habit He was arrested a few days ago for setting fire to the Lobe block in which was located his dental parlors The fire did little damage It was discovered that kerosene had been distributed through the halls and saturated excelsior had been thrown into rooms over transoms Paper cans in the halls had been partly filled with kerosene and some of these burned partially, but enough was left to tell the story of incendiarism The state fire marshal was notified and sent a man from Des Moines who, after investigation arrested Dr Hoover The preliminary trial was to have been held yesterday but upon the arrival of the doctor's brothers from the east, it was decided to send him away for treatment rather than attempt to prove his guilt, which he denied He has been practicing dentistry in Albia for a number of years and at one time had a large practice

"BILLY" SCOTT HAS BEEN POPULAR POSTMASTER

Ida Grove Ia March 3 W J Scott, the retiring republican postmaster here closed out his postoffice store last night to C A Britch, his democratic successor Mr Scott has been a popular postmaster just as he has been a popular official in other lines For many years he was county recorder, and later served as state representative from the Ida-Monona district The new official C A Britch has a hard pace to follow in taking up the work of the genial glad-hander but the general verdict is that he will make good, both in popularity and efficient service

DES MOINES BREWERY IS ASKING FOR CONCESSION

Des Moines Ia March 3 Overtures have been made to members of the legislature looking to the passage of a special act for the relief of one phase of the going 'dry' proposition in Des Moines

The brewery here has now in process of manufacture a large amount of beer The material on hand in vats and fermenting is declared to be worth about $25,000 As soon as the city went "dry" work at the brewery had to stop All of this product will be sheer loss. Now it is proposed that the legislature pass a special act that will permit of completion of the brew now under way, that the brewery company will pay for guards to carefully guard the property during the entire time and that when the product is completed it shall be shipped out of the state Thus the company would have some salvage on the brew already commenced.

The situation which thus threatens great loss to the brewery company is not due to the mulct law repeal but to the mulct law itself which cancels brewery permits in any town that goes "dry"

WADE WILL BE CONFIRMED.

Washington D C March 2.—The Senate judiciary committee today ordered a favorable report on the nomination of Judge Wade for United States district judge of southern Iowa. No opposition was made in the committee This means Judge Wade's confirmation

ROCK RAPIDS- M S Odle attorney for the Anti-Saloon league of Iowa, addressed a union meeting at the Congregational church here Sunday night. The church was filled to overflowing, all the churches having dismissed their services for the meeting. Mr Odle took for his subject, 'What Shall We Do With the Saloon?' and gave an interesting address, reviewing the work that had been done and pointing out some of the problems that were yet to be solved to make the law a success.

HAWARDEN—Elmer Johnson, a prominent merchant of this city, died Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock of pneumonia, after a 10 days' illness The funeral services have not yet been arranged.

THREE OF BALKAN STATES NEAR W

Greece, Bulgaria and Rumania Prepare For Eventualities As Fall of Dardanelles Seems Certain.

TURK ARMY QUITS EGYPT

Allied Fleet Is Still Battering at Forts—Heavy Fighting Continues In Poland and Galicia

London, March 6 The Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says it is reported that the reserve non-commissioned officers of four classes were called to join the colors today

Paris, March 6 An official note issued by the French press bureau declares that the German losses since the beginning of hostilities in killed, wounded sick and prisoners reach the enormous total of 3,000,000 men. This calculation is based on the known casualties in 10 German regiments

Petrograd, March 6 An official communication received in Petrograd from the Russian army in the Caucasus, dated March 4 says that Russian troops are continuing with the same success their offensive operations in the vicinity of the Tchoruk river, in Turkish Armenia, southwest of Batoum There have been no other encounters with the Turks on other parts of the Russian front.

Paris, March 6 - The supreme Turkish war council according to a dispatch to the Temps from Petrograd, has decided to abandon all further operations against Egypt and to recall to European Turkey the troops sent to Egypt

Paris, March 6.—The Dardanelles now has been cleared of mines as far as Chanak Kalesi, about a third of the distance through the straits, says a Tenedos dispatch to the Petit Parisien, dated March 5 The mine workers are working under the protection of the allied warships, which are keeping up a steady bombardment of the forts on the European side

London, March 6. There were indications in today's cable dispatches that the bombardment of the Dardanelles might bring to a decision the attitude of the Balkan states concerning the war The possibility of the capture of Constantinople, which would result in changes of vital interest to the Balkan nations, already has exercised a noticeable influence on these nations

Bulgaria is said to have mobilized pretty three divisions, or about 36,000 men, and one of these divisions is reported to have been sent to an unknown destination In Rumania the chamber of deputies is considering the granting of a credit of $40 000 000 to the government for military purposes and the calling to the colors of the 1917 recruits. Greece is awaiting eagerly the decision of the crown council concerning intervention in the war and an Athens dispatch says that popular feeling is in favor of such a step

To Strike in West.

The end of the 31st week of the war and the first signs of better weather conditions, after a hard winter find the allied armies in the western theater nearing readiness for that concerted onslaught on the Germans, in the preparation of which General Joffree and Field Marshal Sir John French have been doing so much spade work during the last four months

From the sea through the dunes of Flanders, to Arras, in France the British and the Belgian armies appear to have withstood successfully all the attempts of the Germans to break through their lines, while from Arras to the Vosges the French continue to gain slowly forward This is especially true in the Champagne district, although the skilful German commanders exact a heavy price for every step gained in this section Here the French hope their efforts soon will result in freeing the city of Rheims from the attention of the German howitzers.

The unqualified optimism with which, judging from the trend of the comment in the London newspapers today, the approaching gigantic struggle is regarded in Great Britain, France and Russia, can be attributed largely to the remarkable recuperative powers shown by the troops of Emperor Nicholas. These soldiers, in spite of the fierce blows of the German armies under General Von Hindenburg have been able not only to bring Teutonic progress to a standstill but to push the invaders back along virtually the whole front until at one point at least, it is admitted in Berlin the fighting has again moved very near to the east Prussian frontier.

Cut Off 20,000 Austrians.

In the south also, the Russians appear to have tightened their grip on Galicia and are reoccupying Bukowina with forces sufficient to make their tenure permanent. The Russians' victory over the Germanic allies in the valleys of the Lomitz and the Lukva where they surrounded 20,000 Austrians, as was announced yesterday must, it is believed in London have a strong influence toward compelling the Austro-German forces again to vacate the vicinity of Czernowitz, if they are still there. The country west of Warsaw is again being watched for indications of another battle.

Another event which is adding to the serenity with which the allies today regard the future is the picture of British, French and Russian warships hammering at the gates of the capital of Turkey, with such success apparently, that Turkey already has decided she has had enough of the Egyptian venture and is now rushing her troops back to defend Constantinople.

Austria-Hungary's reported reply to Constantinople, when the Turks asked for naval assistance, "you had better move your capital to Asia," is being published prominently in London newspapers today.

RESERVES TO ALSACE

Basel, Switzerland, (via Paris) March 6.—The Germans are sending new formations of reserves into Alsace The new troops are from garrisons in Wuerttemburg and Bavaria. Ordinary traffic on the railroad lines in this section has been suspended.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH BOWELS

Sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

KILLED WHILE ROBBING TOMB

Plunderer of Egyptian Sarcophagus Crushed When Roof Fell In, and Companions Fled.

Professor Petrie, the eminent Egyptologist, while exploring about thirty miles from Cairo, discovered a tomb of the Twelfth Dynasty that had been broken into thousands of years ago. A tragedy attended the robbery, as Professor Petrie also discovered. The Sunday School Times calls it "a tragedy of providential justice."

"It appears," says Professor Petrie, that the plunderers removed only a few bricks, so that a man could crawl into the tomb One of the men entered and opened the coffin, lifted the mummy out and laid it across the coffin, so that he could easily unwind the bandages. He first found a collar of beads, which he passed out into the shaft, where we found it. Then he came to the jewels (a beautiful work of gold and colored gems), and took it from the body Before he could do anything more the roof apparently fell in, and crushed him and the mummy. The other robbers, seeing the fate of their accomplice, abandoned the tomb, and died in the shaft to hide their guilt." The explorers found the skeleton of the robber beside that of the mummy —Youth's Companion.

Sounded Personal.

In a town in the West there is a church that has a bright young pastor, but the attendance is unfortunately small. Among the parishioners there is a beautiful young widow. One evening just as the little widow was about to leave the edifice, she was accosted by the deacon.

"Good evening, sister," he cordially remarked with the usual handshake "How did you like the sermon this evening?"

"I think that it was just too perfect—lovely for anything," was the enthusiastic reply of the widow

"It was, indeed!" heartily returned the deacon "I only wish that larger congregations would come to hear him."

"So do I," declared the pretty little widow. "The congregation was so small tonight that every time the parson said, 'dearly beloved' I positively blushed."—Philadelphia Telegraph

Little to Eat.

"These Mexicans would rather fight than eat."

"Well, the facilities for fighting seem to be vastly superior to those for eating."

When hope will make a man forget that he is hungry it is well to cultivate the bright star.

STRENGTH.
Without Overloading The Stomach.

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor for the day

Much depends on the start a man gets each day as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand. He can't be alert with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast, requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it.

A Calif. business man found a food combination for producing energy. He writes:

"For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments. Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I had about decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts.

Since that morning I have been a new man, can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet.

"I find that Grape-Nuts, with a little sugar and a small quantity of cold milk, makes a delicious morning meal, which invigorates me for the day's business."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Well-ville," in pkgs "There's a Reason"

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FRENCH LINER IS AFIRE; PASSENGERS SAID TO BE SAFE

Famous Steamer La Touraine Burning In Mid-Atlantic, While Five Rescue Ships Rush to Relief.

HAS 84 AND CREW ABOARD

Many Americans Among First Cabin List Few Details of Fire Known In Maritime Circles

London March 6 [illegible] from the [illegible] La Touraine [illegible] this morning [illegible] one [illegible] wireless [illegible] and

The [illegible] caught [illegible] which [illegible] out [illegible] the [illegible]

New York [illegible] ties have [illegible] sengers [illegible] are safe

Aboard [illegible] Line steamer when she sailed last Saturday were 1,144 [illegible] of cartridges [illegible] European war

London [illegible] says the La Touraine is now at latitude 49.06 north and longitude 20.1 west according to a wireless message received here Five steamers have gone to her assistance [illegible] message said

The message [illegible] fire was received by Lloyds from the wireless station at Valentia Ireland In addition to giving the position of the La Touraine it stated that the steamers Rotterdam Statendam Cornishman Arabic and [illegible] were going to her assistance

The French [illegible] sailed from New York February 27 The position given in the message is approximately 1,200 miles west from her port of destination Among the passengers are five doctors and nine nurses on their way to France to be attached to the new war hospital at the chateau De Pressy near Paris

Americans on Board.

The doctors are Joseph L. Wheelwright T. C. Walker W. C. Braddock, A. O. Jimmus and John S. Irwin The nurses, all of whom are graduates of the French hospital in New York are the Misses Alma Marie McCormick, Dorothy O'Connell Eugenia H. Lyons, Victoria Franchort Florence Gordon, Ellen Hanlon, Mollie McGrath, Nellie Burdette Parsons and Beda Laurantie Parson

La Touraine under the command of Captain Caussin is one of the older trans-Atlantic liners having been built in 1897 Since she was launched La Touraine has played an interesting part in the history of ocean travel She arrived in New York on October 18, 1913 with 42 persons which she rescued from the Uranium line Volturno which burned at sea with loss of 112 lives Captain Caussin was one of the first commanders of rescue steamers to get a boat over into the heavy sea to aid in rescue work The captain and crew were decorated with medals for their bravery on this occasion

Warned the Titanic

It was the captain of La Touraine who warned the ill-fated Titanic of the presence of icebergs in her course

Once before the steamer was threatened by fire when flames were discovered in the staterooms while she lay at her dock in Havre on January 11, 1913. There were no passengers aboard and the damage was not serious She was withdrawn from service for a time in 1907 because of serious damage to her machinery The discovery was made just before she was due to sail from New York On another occasion a number of her crew was killed by the bursting of a steam pipe

When the European war began the entire carrying capacity of La Touraine was reserved for Americans struggling for passage home from France She arrived in New York December 18, 36 hours overdue because of hurricanes High seas swept her decks while the passengers were battened below

The steamer is 550 feet long with a beam of 56 feet and a depth of 34.8

LA TOURAINE IS LOADED WITH SUPPLIES· 284 ABOARD

New York March 6 When the La Touraine sailed away from this port last Saturday she had about 84 passengers of whom 5 were in the first cabin, the remaining 79 being in the steerage The vessel was one of six big liners to leave this port the same day, the sailings being the heaviest recorded here for some time

At the local offices of the French line it was said this morning that no information regarding the La Touraine had been received Maritime circles however received word from aboard that all the passengers and crew were safe, but this information was not confirmed here

Loaded With Supplies

Wireless stations along the Atlantic seaboard directed vain queries through the air to the burning ship and the little fleet of rescuers reported to be around her While the crackle of the sparks from powerful stations here it was thought, could be heard by steamers in the Atlantic as far away as La Touraine the wireless plants aboard those steamers were too weak to send back their answers All news of La Touraine's fate it was thought would have to come from the other side of the Atlantic

La Touraine was heavily loaded when she steamed out of the harbor last Saturday In addition to the 4,594 cases of cartridges she carried 139 rapid fire guns and a varied assortment of supplies for the allies' commissaries both foodstuffs and clothing Twelve hundred tons of her cargo consisted of uniforms, sweaters cloth for uniforms, sweaters and hosiery for soldiers in the trenches There were 1,500 cases of machinery aboard as well as many hundred bags of silver in which are 27 [illegible] of silver [illegible] a billion [illegible] of the [illegible]

His Discovery to Revolutionize Production of Gasoline and Dyes

Dr. Walter F. Rittman.

The discovery by Dr Walter F. Rittman, chemist of the U. S. bureau of mines, of a revolutionary process that will increase production of gasoline 200 per cent and, at the same time, supply dye-stuffs of which Germany has had a monopoly, and material for smokeless powder and explosives, has caused many to regard the young man as a second Edison. Rittman was born in Erie county, Ohio, within gunshot of the house in which Thomas A. Edison was born.

MEMBERS JEALOUS ON LEADERSHIP PRESTIGE

Various Candidates For Governor Afraid to Advertise Merit of Any Prospect

Des Moines Ia, March 6 - Activity on the part of candidates for governor in the senate to direct the deliberations of that body, threatens to impede the progress of prohibition measures for the remainder of the session, judging from protests that are being made Senators Francis, Allen and Clarkson have been chosen floor leaders by the "drys" to see that the temperance bills desired by the steering committee are passed. Some of the "drys" object to the proposed method of rushing through a program of legislation

The rock upon which the temperance forces are apt to split is the Cosson state police bill The house passed the measure and placed the special agents under the direction of the governor Certain senate "drys" want it changed to the attorney general Others are against the measure in any force

Practically all of the 'drys' are agreed that penalties and provisions for enforcing prohibition should be made stricter There are several other measures however, such as making it illegal to transport liquor in vehicles and others that all are not agreed upon

Senator Francis has assumed the leadership of the "drys from the very beginning of the session. The publicity he has gained because of it has caused some resentment among the other "drys" especially those who view themselves as gubernatorial timber

INSPECTION BILL LEFT WITH HOUSE COMMITTEE

Des Moines Ia., March 6.—Supporters of the Rayburn bill to require inspection of convents, private hospitals and other institutions lost in their first test vote today when the house refused to force the bill out of the hands of the committee on public health The Rayburn bill has resulted in more petitions, both for and against, than any other measure this session

There was no debate on the resolution to force the bill out. A roll call was taken and verified upon the motion of Representative Rayburn, who declared he wanted everyone on record.

A bill by Representative Brammer, of Polk county to enable the negroes of the state to participate in the semi-centenary celebration of emancipation of slaves in Chicago this year was rescued from its grave today and carried, 64 to 26. The bill carries an appropriation of $3,000 to send an Iowa commission

NO MAIL STEAMERS TO ENGLAND FOR ONE WEEK

New York, March 6 —After the departure today of the steamers New York and Cameroni for Liverpool, the only opportunity to send letters to Great Britain during the coming week will be by the steamship Northland, which will leave Portland, Me., on Sunday March 13, for Liverpool. There will be no mail for England next week, and the first vessel listed to sail from New York for England is the Arabic on March 17

BRITISH EXPORTS OFF BUT IMPORTS INCREASE

London, March 6.—The figures of trade for February show that during this month Great Britain's imports increased $16,075,000, while exports decreased $75,425,000

The principal increase in imports was in food amounting to $35,000,000 This was offset by a decrease in the importation of manufactured articles of $17,500,000

In exports the decrease was mainly in manufactured articles and of $17,600,000 was in cotton textiles

ACTION TO LEGALIZE SUPPLEMENT OF 1913

Will Prevent Technical Flaws That Might Affect Mulct Law Repeal.

Des Moines, Ia, March 6 To avoid any possible chance of declaring the mulct law repeal or any other act passed by the present assembly illegal, Senator Whitmore today introduced a measure legalizing the 1913 supplement to the code, which was published and copyrighted by Charles S. Wilcox, of Des Moines, the editor in 1914. If passed, this will knock out the contention of Rogers, of Carroll, that the mulct repeal is void because the index was not printed with the supplement.

Governor Clarke signed the suffrage and prohibitory amendments at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. J. B. McHose, of Boone, received the pen with which the suffrage resolution was signed

The Brammer bill to forbid delivery and sale of habit forming drugs, which had already passed the house, passed the senate without opposition.

A free employment bureau, run by the state, is provided in a bill by Representative Witthauer, of Audubon county, offered in the house today. The bureau is placed under the department of labor. A clerk is provided a salary of $1,200 a year. Lists of applications for work are to be sent to newspapers, county auditors and to clerks of towns of more than 500 inhabitants.

A bill to repeal the Iowa sterilization law and to substitute another less stringent was passed by the house today, 79 to 13, after the same measure was defeated Friday. A motion by Miller, of Bremer, to reconsider, carried, 78 to 7 All efforts to amend were voted down. The substitute measure includes only the insane, and not criminals and epileptics, as the present statute does. It also requires written consent of relatives or guardians.

HOLD MAYO INNOCENT IN COOK GIRL'S CASE

New Haven, Conn., May 6.—There is no reason to suspect that Miss Lillian May Cook, the 18-year-old stenographer who killed herself with a revolver in West Rock park several days ago, was the victim of white slavers, according to the coroner's finding. The state's attorney's office last night issued the following statement

"The state's attorney's office is satisfied that Mr. Mayo is not criminally responsible for the death of Miss Cook. This, of course, ends any further investigation on the part of the coroner."

Mr. Mayo is the man whose double life was exposed by the girl's death. He denied that he ever had any interest in her except as a friend of the family

TO PRESS PROHIBITION MEASURE FOR CAPITAL

Washington, March 6.—Prohibition for the District of Columbia and also the resolution for submission of a national prohibition amendment will be pressed next session of congress. This was the statement today of Senator Sheppard, of Texas, who has urged both measures in the session which has just closed. Senator Sheppard believes the sentiment in the new congress for prohibition is stronger than in the congress which has just expired and that there is reason to believe the District of Columbia will be declared dry and that the prohibition amendment will be submitted.

PLUMBERS ASK REHEARING.

Des Moines, Ia., March 6 —Thirty-six applications for rehearing were filed in district court today by the master plumbers recently convicted of anti-trust law violation. Errors in the indictment and instructions are urged.

TERROR REIGNS IN MEXICO CITY

Foreign Diplomats Decide to Leave In Body—American Government Gets No Response From Carranza to Protest Against General Obregon's Imprisonment of Foreigners and Order Licensing Loot—Talk of Intervention Revived—Populace Alarmed.

Washington March 6 —The foreign diplomatic corps in Mexico City has decided to leave in a body Dispatches telling of the decision were received here today by European diplomatists and forwarded to their home governments

The Mexican situation topped by this latest development was admitted in all quarters to be more critical than it has been at any time since Huerta precipitated the landing of troops at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Bryan had received today no word from the latest representations to Carranza against General Obregon's decrees in Mexico City, and his threat to leave the capital unprotected with water and light plants out of commission and the attendant possibilities of burning and killing. Mr. Bryan did not comment further today than to say that the situation continued to be bad

Some definite development was expected in diplomatic circles as the result of the decision of the corps of European representatives to leave the Mexican capital

Where the diplomatists would go was the subject of some speculation Inasmuch as the conditions which are forcing them to leave are being imposed by Carranza's commander, Obregon, it was pointed out, they hardly would go to Vera Cruz.

Villa Invites Diplomats.

Villa has invited the diplomatic corps to join him at his capital in Chihuahua. To do so, it was pointed out, might be construed as recognition of his faction.

Without diplomatic representatives in Mexico City the capital and a large portion of the distracted country would practically be cut off from the world. While the foreign colony in the Mexican capital has been greatly reduced in the last year, there still are many foreigners in the country The Washington government has been making its representations in behalf of all through the Brazilian minister, but with the removal of the diplomatic corps it is feared all foreigners would be at the mercy of the factions.

Carranza forces controlling the railroad to Vera Cruz are refusing to permit travel on the pretext that the road is needed for military movements

Revives War Talk.

Senator Smith, of Arizona, called at the White House to discuss the latest developments in the situation with President Wilson, but will not see him until Monday

"We should take charge of affairs or abandon the Monroe doctrine," he said at the White House "Something must be doen to stop the reign of anarchy and set up a government which can protect the rights of all foreigners"

Juan F Amador head of General Carranza's agency here today declared in a formal statement that reports of the gravity of the situation has been grossly exaggerated" He declared that General Obregon would do nothing to "cause needless suffering."

It is ridiculous to talk of a situation arising in Mexico City similar to that which took place in Peking during the Boxer uprising," he said. "No foreigner who conducts himself properly need fear any injury in Mexico City General Obregon will leave Mexico City only to move north against Villa If General Obregon has been compelled to use drastic measures to enforce the collection of a legal tax that has been imposed, this has been entirely the fault of taxpayers who have endeavored to escape the just payment of their taxes."

Populace In Fear.

All sorts of wild rumors are afloat in Mexico City, due to the incendiary utterances of General Obregon, who in newspaper interviews, has practically sanctioned plunder for food. General Carranza has been asked by the American government to instruct General Obregon to take some measures to protect the lives and property of foreigners in the event of an evacuation. The people fear the water supply may be shut off and the electric light cables may be cut, thus leaving the city in darkness at night and permitting the irresponsible element to commit wanton depredations.

Just why the 300 merchants were imprisoned has not been revealed. They were reportd eo have appealed to Obregon for relief from a heavy tax which he imposed on them. Secretary Bryan said that so far as the state department had been advised all the Mexican priests arrested for failure to contribute funds demandde by Obregon were still in prison.

The international relief committee which raised about 250,000 pesos, was not permitted to aid the poor, according to official dispatches, because General Obregon declined to accept funds restricted to any definite use He desired that the foreigners pay the tax recently levied, but revoked on representations from foreign governments, without question as to how it would be used

PORTUGAL REBELS SET UP REPUBLIC

Rival Government Established In Northern Part of Nation By Radical Democratic Element.

London, March 6 —Gen Antonio Zafer Correia Barreto has been proclaimed president of the republic of northern Portugal by a congress of democrats, who have been in session at Lamego, according to a dispatch received here today by the Febra News agency from Madrid. This news reached Madrid by way of Badajoz.

The course of the republic of Portugal since its establishment five years ago, following the assassination of King Carlos, has been marked by political dissension and strife. Reports of royalist agitation from Lisbon have been more or less frequent and these latterly have been superseded by indications of another movement, the democratic or radical, which in the last few months has shown itself strongly opposed to the existing republican government.

Portugal, by treaty obligations with Great Britain, was bound to send 10,000 men to fight with the troops of King George upon request.

So far as is known, Great Britain has made no such demand on Portugal, and there are no Portuguese troops fighting in Europe. It is a fact, however, that Portuguese troops have been fighting German soldiers in Portuguese West Africa, otherwise known as Angola. The German troops in question came into the Portuguese colony from German southwest Africa.

There was an uprising in Lisbon, January 15, of the people against the military. This movement was described as a protest against the policy of the government as exemplified in the courses of the administration of the army and the navy. It apparently came to an end when certain Portuguese officers surrendered their arms

Among other political disturbances of the last 30 days, Portugal has been confronted with the formation of a new cabinet.

Dispatches from Lisbon, February 24, said the government had decided to postpone the general elections indefinitely and to order a revision of the census. This was characterized as a hard blow for the democratic party, for, voting under the present census, they undoubtedly would have obtained a majority. At this time newspapers of Lisbon declared the republic was facing a great crisis.

During the last week in February the democratic propaganda was advanced in Portugal with energy, Party feelings invaded the army. Posters and manifestoes against the government and Premier Castro made their appearance in Lisbon and a number of political arrests were made.

A dispatch received from Lisbon by way of Paris yesterday described a meeting of representatives of the democratic party in a suburb of Lisbon, in the course of which the delegates present adopted a motion characterizing the president of the republic and the government as outlaws.

Only about one-half of the dispatch as filed in Lisbon came through, the remainder evidently was stopped by the censor.

General Barreto served as minister of war in the cabinet formed by the provisional government of Portugal during the first year of the existence of the republic

600 MEET DEATH IN MEXICO WRECK

First News of Accident Which Occurred In January, Just Received—Train Ran Away—300 Hurt.

Boston, March 6.—Report of a railroad accident in Mexico last January in which 600 lives were lost, is contained in a letter received today by the American board of commissioners for foreign missions from one of its representatives at Manzanillo, on the Mexican western coast.

The letter was written on February 14. According to the writer, after the entry of the soldiers into Guadalajara, which was captured by Carranza troops on January 18, the governor ordered that their families should be brought up from Colima on a special train.

"There were more than 20 cars," the letter continued, "simply packed with humanity, the roofs covered with men and women and many slung under the cars in a most perilous position even for ordinary travel.

"At the top of the steepest grade coming down, the engineer lost control, the cars rushing down the long incline, throwing off human freight on both sides and finally plunging into an abyss.

"Nine hundred people were on the train and only six were unhurt. More than 600 were killed outright. Some of the Yapui Indians committed suicide when they were told of the accident to their families, and others have sworn vengeance.

"All the railroad men were killed so there is none to suffer."

TWO KILLED, TWO INJURED BY BURLINGTON SNOWPLOW

Sterling, Colo., March 6.—Hugh Baer, 26, and Ben De Boehr, 23, were killed, and George De Boehr, 19, and Everett De Boehr, 9, were perhaps fatally injured late yesterday, when struck by a snowplow on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, three miles west of Elwood, Neb. All were farmers living near Elwood.

OH! PITY FRENCHIE WHO MOUNTS CYRUS

Oregon Buckaroos Earnestly Believe Famous Broncho Will Lick Both Armies.

Pendleton, Ore., March 6.—Cyrus Noble has been added to the horrors of war. The population of eastern Oregon, which has been reading of shells that turn Germans green or that scatter liquid fire upon the French, are awaiting tensely the advent of Cyrus Noble into the theater of war.

Cyrus Noble is one of the most famous bucking broncbos that ever tried to kick holes in the sky at the Pendleton roundup. He was sold today to the French government, for use as a cavalry horse. The unsuspecting officer who purchased Cyrus failed to discover his bucking abilities.

"The world won't be safe for any of us when one of those big guns goes off in his ear" said a buckaroo, who rode Cyrus for 10 seconds last year. "He'd liable to lick both armies and end the war."

Poultry Pride

CHANTICLEER was a proud youngster, the cock of the walk in the barnyard drama.

But he had nothing on us.

We're as proud as any fowl that ever strutted over the way we pick out fresh, tender, choice poultry for our trade.

As good butchers with a reputation to uphold we take the greatest pride in offering you only the very best in select poultry at prices that won't make your pocketbook look sick.

J. P. Larsen & Sons

Every Farmer

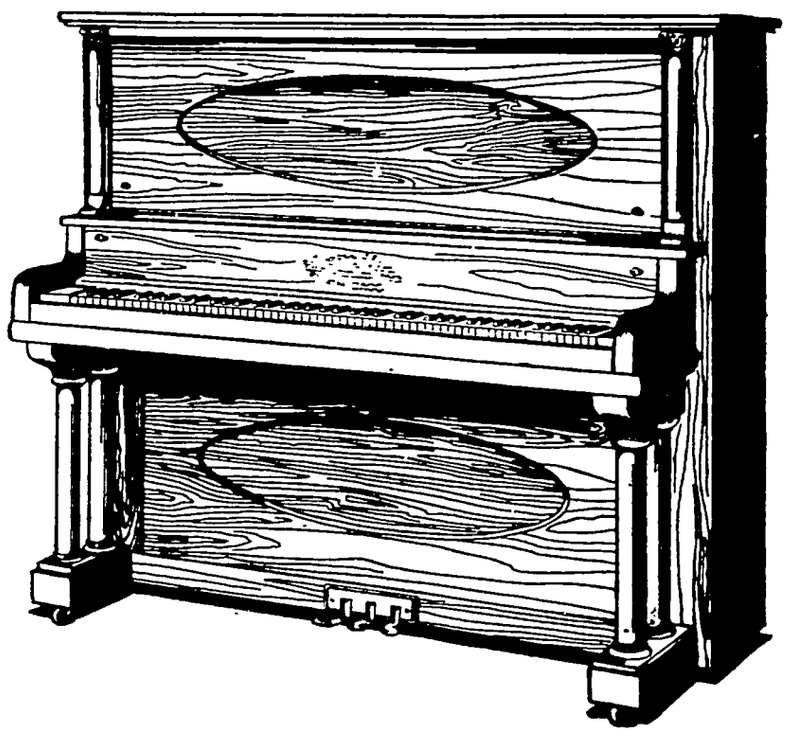
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

Baldwin-Made Instruments Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices and Reasonable Terms

See Me First and Save Money

M. M. MAGNER

At The Times Office

¶ Liberal Allowance For Used Instruments.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations

By "Our Man About Town"

If the fashion makers for the coming summer will take several of the unnecessary garments out of His correct apparel and put a few more in Hers, it will suit us alright.

Why not plan for a general Clean-Up Day for our town on, say April first?

We have known cities and towns that do this every year, and when the appointed day comes round, men, women, boys and girls, devote several hours to ridding their premises of a winter's accumulation of debris. Business men join in it too, and clean up the streets and alleys in that section; other men with teams are employed to remove the piles of trash, and the result of the day's concentration of effort is a wonderful improvement.

Shall we try it?

The writer hopes your editor will not consider this item an advertisement and "kill" it:

Down in Boston, Mass., is the home of the greatest Humane society in the world. It publishes a little magazine called "Our Dumb Animals." We wish the magazine was regularly received in every home in the nation. Written so that children may understand it. It has a wealth of information for the grown ups. Its purpose is disclosed by its motto: "Let us think for those that cannot think for themselves." It teaches kindness to all things dumb, and when a man looks upon such with kindness and consideration he is not going to be unthoughtful of his equals.

THE WEEK IN HISTORY

Monday, 8.—Niagra suspension bridge opened, 1855.

Tuesday, 9.—Battle between Merrimac and Monitor, 1862.

Wednesday, 10.—Spaniards attack Mobile, 1780.

Thursday, 11.—London's first daily paper, 1702.

Friday, 12.—United States buys Alaska, 1867.

Saturday, 13.—Standard time established, 1864.

Sunday, 14.—Whitney patents cotton gin, 1792.

LISTEN, MOTHER

Just look around the house, down in the cellar, up in the attic, out in the yard, in the stable or loft—everywhere—and see how many things useless to you and yours, are lying about, cluttering up the place.

Every apparently useless article is worth money—hard, spot cash.

There is more stuff—cast off or unused—around most homes than would, if sold, clothe one or two persons for a year.

Make a tour of the house. Make out a list of the things you do not want and never will want. Mark down the very lowest cash price you will take for the things. Add up the figures and the total will surprise you.

Now to turn these useless things into money for yourself:

Fix up a little ad something like this:

"For Sale: Second-hand heating stove, bureau, bedstead, churn, three upholstered chairs, quantity of clothing, several bags of rags, etc etc. . . .

Send the ad to us. It will cost you, 5 cents a line to put it in the paper once, or 12 cents a line for three insertions.

Just for fun take that trip around the place and see what a lot of things you can turn into money.

HE CALLED HER DOWN

A choice bit of gossip has been going the rounds for the past week. The principal parties connected with the affair are well known, which makes the story all the more sensational A husband and wife are mixed up in the scandal, and what makes it doubly startling is the fact that each of them has always had the entire respect of the community As a matter of fact the bomb exploded at the home of this couple at the very moment at which there had arrived at their house a party of twenty or thirty-five of our best people, who had gone there to surprise the couple on their wedding anniversary Neither of the principals expected company. The astonishment of the visitors may be imagined when they heard the husband call his wife down. He made no bones of it It was done openly and without even a hint of apology to the guests. The shocking part of it is the fact that everyone, even the closest friends of the couple, had no idea but that their home life was ideal. Nevertheless and we have the best of authority for the story when the company arrived they were met at the door by the astonished husbadd. As soon as the first greetings were over he said "My wife is up stairs. I will call her down." And he did.

SKINNY'S FINISH

Being a little short of material this week we asked the devil to write us a short article against the use of slang He did. Here it is:

If there is anything that gets our Nanny it is the use of slang. Some people give us so much of that kind of dope that it is hard to get wise to their spiel. Kids should be put next by their parents that slang is on the Fritz and should ought to be cut out If I had a kid that couldn't put over straight stuff I would wallop the lining out of the lobster. Skirts are shines, proper, when it comes to slang. They think that mercy, and I should say not are real tough. The Boss is a dish of prunes when it comes to slang. He bawls me out to a fare ye well and I am in Dutch from the time I come on the job until haying time in the evening. This is the first thing I have ever wrote and if it don't show up in the rag I will know it is a flivver proper

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulater

Gets the laying hens into the every-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms

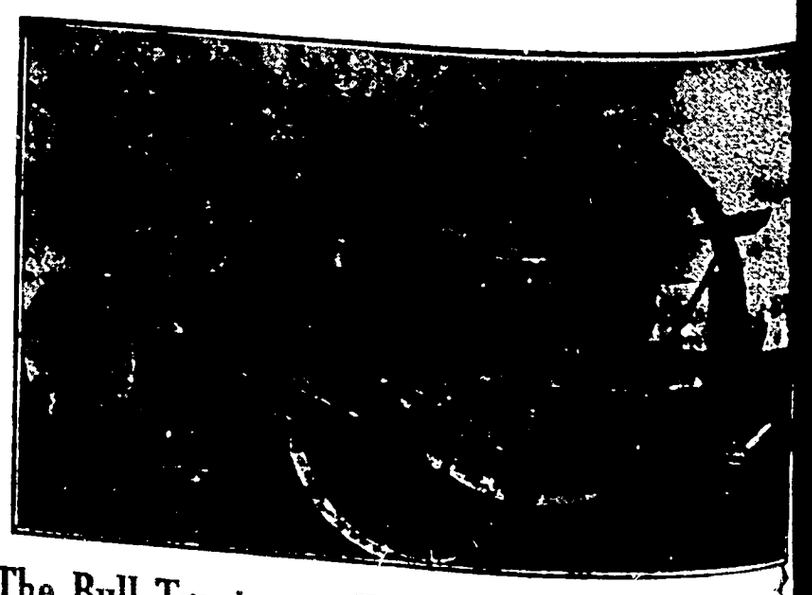
6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.



The Bull Tractor, For sale by, H. Lau & Son

STOP LOOK LISTEN

Our Great Majestic Range Sale

NOW ON IN FULL BLAST

Only two more days to get the $8.00 worth of Cooking Ware Free

We advertised last week that Tuesday of our Exhibit Week would be devoted to the children and that to the Boys and Girls handing in answers to the following question, (Why Should the Majestic Range Be in Every Kitchen?) on Tuesdey between 3 and 5 p. m. would receive a souvenir free and the one answering it the neatest and best would receive a $1.00 prize free.

Some of the Best Answers

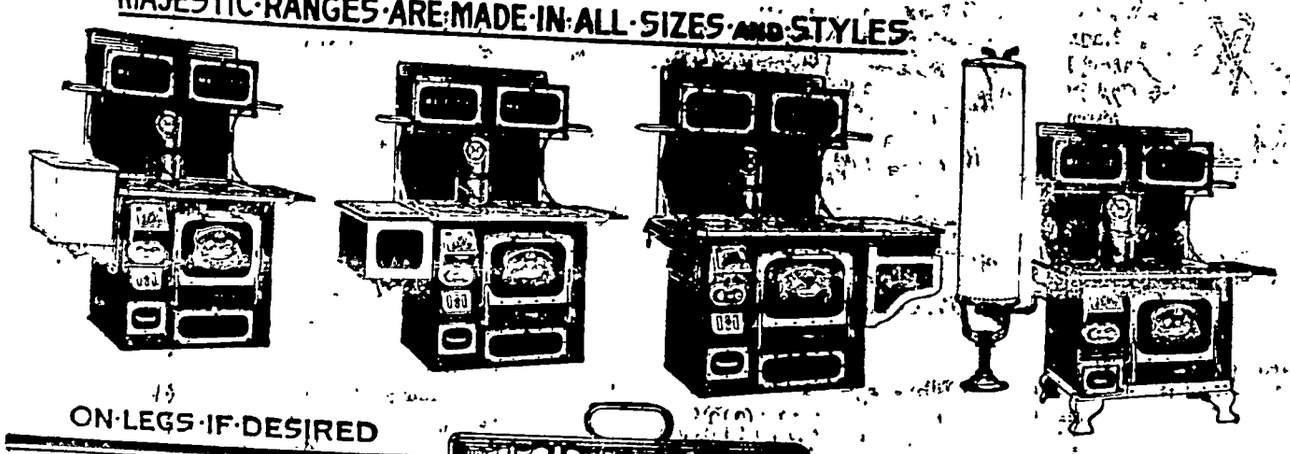
The Great Majestic Range should be in every kitchen because it cooks the food better and quicker than other stoves. It also is easy to clean and polish. It bakes better bread. It does not use so much fuel as other stoves do. It gives more heat from little fuel. It does not burn a hole thru your floor or wall. It is made of the best material that can be obtained. It is easy to handle by the housewives. Everything is handy to use. Walter Bonner

The Great Majestic Range should be in every kitchen because it is a great weater. It is made of charcoal and malleable iron which makes it strong and durable. Any little fireput in the stove will heat the malleable iron up in no time. Malleable iron will not break but will bend if you hit it with a sledge. Charcoal iron is easily heated and durable. The oven is lined rivited and has no fine cement lining in the cracks to last for about a week as cheap stoves do. The stove has patent drafts and is lined rivited all over. Ernest Lewis

Because they are the very very best and cooking is a daily pleasure with a Majestic Range in the kitchen. Bertha [illegible]

Because it cooks and bakes better lasts longer uses less coal, is easily managed and cleaned and cannot be beat in no way. Frankie [illegible]

MAJESTIC RANGES ARE MADE IN ALL SIZES AND STYLES



ON LEGS IF DESIRED

MAJESTIC NEVER-BURN COOKER STEAMER CULLENDER AND DRAINER
HEAVY STAMPED IRON MARBLEIZED KETTLE 18 OZ ALL COPPER TEA KETTLE
14 OZ ALL COPPER COFFEE POT
HEAVY MARBLEIZED PUDDING PAN 1 LARGE NEVER-BURN WIRED DRIPPING PAN: 2 SMALL NEVER-BURN WIRED DRIPPING PANS 2 SMALL DRIP PANS CAN ALSO BE USED AS ROASTER
MAJESTIC

STOP, TAKE TIME

Come In and Save a $. You who are interested or not. It is worth your time to visit our store during this demonstration.

ON SATURDAY, the last day, we have a proposition for you. It will pay you to come. Tell your neighbor about it. The Majestic Man will tell you and show you this wonderful cooking machine.

ALL ARE WELCOME

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Klemme, Iowa, 1,000 Population in 1915

and Mrs. H. Helps were Garner visitors, Wednesday.

W Kluckhohn has been on the list the past week.

ea City proposes to oil her streets ng the coming summer.

w Thoroughbred Pekin drakes sale. Mrs G O Miner.

re. cleaned timothy seed for sale. Wm. Baack

[illegible]dson, Fredie Ar[illegible] were Garner visitors, Saturday ere will be a dance at the opera [illegible] evening. Mar[illegible]

ar Larson w[illegible] to Sioux Falls [illegible] Wednesday, for a short with friends

H. Ridder, C. W. Wiles and [illegible] attending the auto[illegible] in Des Moines this week.

and Mrs. Philip Behringer and ter were Garner visitors, Wednesday.

ert Wilson and family of Bel[illegible] arrived Tuesday for a few visit with friends in this community.

e Fenton Reporter is up in the because of the fact that they have ectric light plant and no street Right you are, Bro. Schwartz. up that city council of yours, or

ING WANTED—I have decided to do sewing for the public, and guarantee all work intrusted to me found at the Wm. Fuller [illegible] west of the English M. E. Miss Rose Yahnke. 29p.

you want it you get it. you don't want it you don't don't you forget it at the [illegible] ors for business, Grain, Coal and Live Stock, A C Lau & Son.

The High school and grammar room of the K[illegible] school will give an entertainment [illegible] old fashioned [illegible] March [illegible] The proceeds will be used for the [illegible] library. The Klemme Concert band will furnish music for the occasion. Admission 15 and 25 cents. All are cordially invited.

Live stock [illegible] from the Wednesday [illegible] hogs [illegible] cattle [illegible] sheep [illegible] the shipments [illegible]

IOWA EDITORS GO TO SCHOOL

Iowa [illegible] to have [illegible] at Iowa State [illegible] and 20 [illegible] be a [illegible] country [illegible] together to study special problems and work out some plan for them will be held [illegible] men. Instruction will be given in important phases of agriculture as it is the big industry in every Iowa weekly newspaper man's community. By having some idea of modern agriculture he can publish a newspaper to fit its need and promote the community's business as well as its development. Business now

Cannibal Domain.

The [illegible] Papua says a writer, do not take kindly to white men. They regard all strangers as more or less edible but the white man is not a desirable species. He is likely to be too strongly flavored with salt or tobacco or rum. Papuan gourmets and connoisseurs pass up the white man whenever they can.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Had His Suspicions.

A subscriber of an Atchison newspaper sent the following to the editor: "I don't know that Ben Hurley took it, but I know I have been missing wood and loaded several sticks with powder last Sunday night; and I know that Ben Hurley lives near me, and that early Monday morning he drove hurriedly to town and bought a new stove."

Welcome Burden.

"A honey bee coming home with the nectar," says John Burroughs, "will carry one-fifth of its own weight." Col. Boliver Beasley, who is also an authority on quite a number of subjects, says a man coming home with beer will carry almost one-half his own weight, and not complain about the burden, either.—New Orleans States.

Millie Was Mixed.

Little Millie's father and grandfather were Republicans; and, as election drew near, they spoke of their opponents with increasing warmth, never heeding Millie's attentive ears and wondering eyes. One night, however, as the little maid was preparing for bed, she whispered in a frightened voice: "Oh, mamma, I don't dare to go upstairs. I'm afraid there's a Democrat under the bed."

DOUBLE LIFE To Your SUIT

[illegible] $1.00 [illegible] of Pants

Two Pairs of Pants will double the life of Your New Suit

Take advantage of our liberal offer for a few days only. [illegible] of pants for $1.00 with every Suit HAND TAILORED TO-ORDER.

Saturday, March 6th to Saturday, March 13th

New Woolens—the latest weaves—direct from the world's best looms—Hundreds of patterns to select from.

HAND TAILORED TO ORDER—TO YOUR OWN IDEAS SUIT HAND TAILORED JUST THE WAY YOU WANT IT $15. AND UP

And an extra pair of Pants, $1.

Remember: this exceptional offer for a few days only—order your Suit NOW!! COME IN TODAY!! Don't forget—the time—the place and what's more our guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. An extra pair of pants for $1.00.

J. N. DAY, Klemme, Iowa

STOP COUGHING

Mr. Andor Kisa, No. 318 Clinton Place, Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I cannot thank you enough for being cured. For seven long years I doctored steadily for my catarrh and cough, which cost me hundreds of dollars. But my catarrh grew worse all the time. Even though I was under the treatment of some of the most famous doctors, I still had a terrible cough and thought sometimes that I would choke. I could get no air. I then bought a bottle of Peruna, and that evening and all night my wife gave it to me according to the directions, and I felt better the following day already. Three days later I felt much improved, and today, after the use of the fourth bottle, I feel entirely cured. I can conscientiously recommend this grand medicine to every citizen."

A Good Cough Tablet.

There are people who object to taking fluid medicines. For such people the Peruna Tablets are especially valuable. They are convenient to carry in the pocket.

The Result.

"That man arrested as a fence has political influence."

"Then he'll be whitewashed."

DRINK LOTS OF WATER TO FLUSH THE KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts for Backache or Bladder Trouble—Neutralize Acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

The wise bachelor praises the cooking of his friend's wife—and gets another invitation to dinner.

SAGE TEA DARKENS GRAY HAIR TO ANY SHADE. TRY IT!

Keep Your Locks Youthful, Dark, Glossy and Thick With Garden Sage and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger. Adv.

There is nothing new under the sun. All the good excuses have already been made.

NEGLECT YOUR SCALP

And Lose Your Hair. Cuticura Prevents It. Trial Free.

Cuticura Soap shampoos cleanse and purify the scalp of dandruff while the Ointment soothes and heals the irritated scalp skin. Dandruff and itching are hair destroyers. Get acquainted with these supercreamy emollients for the skin and scalp.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Theory looks good, but it doesn't always go when you start the sparker. —Philadelphia Telegraph.

Sore Eyes Granulated Eyelids, Eyes inflamed by exposure to Sun, Dust and Wind quickly relieved by Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting, just Eye Comfort. At Your Druggist's 50c per Bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Tubes 25c. For Book of the Eye Free ask Druggists or Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON.

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd, Mead & Co.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued).

The word Major had been abandoned sometime before at Mr. Carr's request, and "Uncle Jabe" substituted. He said he liked it better; it wasn't so formal. Besides, he admitted, in a burst of truthfulness he had never been more than a captain's mate.

"Not personally, my lad," replied Jabez, between puffs. "Jest as everyone knowed her hereabouts. Kind of at a distance, you might say."

"Did you know my father?"

Jabez looked up quickly. He had never heard quite that note in the boy's voice before. It occurred to him, also, that Eric was paler than usual. The old man suddenly felt the need of a cautious reply. He did his best.

"Yes, sir, and he was a powerful fine chap, too. I used to see a great deal of him when he lived hereabouts."

"But he didn't live here, Uncle Jabe."

Jabez collected himself in four fierce puffs at his pipe. "To be sure he didn't," he corrected. "I was thinkin' of another feller. A feller named Briggs. Handsome chap as used to be second mate on the Firefly, a ship I—"

"Did my father kill a man?"

Of course, old Jabez knew the story of the ill fated Midthornes. One could not live in Corinth or Todville and be out of touch with Blagden history. But it had not occurred to him that Eric might be ignorant of the tragedy in his own small life.

Jabez got up from the bench and violently hurled his cane at a squirrel that frisked nearby—an unheard of act of cruelty on the part of the keeper of the gate.

"Consarn them pets!" he growled as he shuffled over to recover the cane. The squirrel in plain astonishment, paused after retreating a rod or two, and looked back at its former friend. Whereupon Jabez hoping to gain time, hurled his cane once more. The third attempt required a most unnecessary and futile fling into the lower branches of a tree which might have been the considered the private property of the perplexed quadruped. "Always pesterin'ga feller, dang 'em. They're gettin" so dog-gone sassy lately that they jest set up and make faces at me. Did you see that little cuss turnin" up his nose at me? If I ever—"

"I want to know all about my father," interrupted Eric, a tense note in his young voice. "What did he do? Tell me. My aunt says he killed a man."

A bright thought struck the old man. "Sure he did, and a danged brave thing it was, too. Did't your aunt tell you how brave he was?"

"No. She said he murdered a man in cold blood."

Jabez said something under his breath and looked about him for another squirrel—or perhaps it was the cat, for one with very sharp ears might have caught a reference to that animal in his muttered remark.

"Well, I'll be jiggered! "Did she say that? She must be crazy. Why, it was done in a juel, fair and square. Everybody knows that."

"A jewel?"

"Yes, sir, a juel. The fit, a juel. With swords, d'ye see—or maybe it was pistols. They fit like two southern gentlemen always fight—with weepins. Ain't you ever heerd about it? Well, well! I guess you was too young. Takes a mighty brave feller to fight a juel, sonny."

Eric's eyes began to glow; his lips trembled with the sudden gush of relief that swept through him.

"A duel, Uncle Jabe?" he cried. "A real duel?"

A reg'lar jeuel, the kind you read about in books. I've see many of 'em in my time. Brave fellers fightin' fer their lady loves. That's wot your pa was a doin'— fightin' fer his true lady love.

"For my mother?"

Jobez felt that he had come near to overdoing it. He acquiesced with haste.

"Of course. Who else?" he demanded.

"Why did Aunt Rena say he had murdered a man? It isn't murder if you kill a man in a duel. Everybody knows that."

"These 'ere Corinth folks ain't got an idea of chivalery," explained Jabez warmly. "They ain't like you an' me. They are the narriest people on the face of the yearth. Wot does your aunt know about chivalery? Nobody ever fought a juel fer her did they? I sh'd say not! Did your Uncle Horace ever challenge anybody to pistols or cutlasses? No, sirree! It an't in 'em. Course she'd think it was murder. S'posin' the other fellere'd killed your pa? Wot then? S'posin' they'd both hit each other in a vital spot. Wot then? She'd call it a double murder. It shows how danged narry these northerners are."

He had worked himself into a pretty state.

"You said you were from Maine," reminded Eric, his eyes dancing. I filled the old man's heart with joy to see the effect of his ruthless lying.

It was necessary for him to repudiate the state he loved so well.

"Who said I was born in Maine? Who I ask? Me from Maine? Well, I guess not. I—I went to school in Maine for three years, but that's all. I was born in Virginny. Don't you ever say I—"

"Listen, Uncle Jabe," interrupted the boy eagerly. "Won't you tell me all about my father and the duel? What was it about? Who was the other man? Where was my mother when—"

"Stow that, now, my lad," cried Jabez Carr. "Don't ask so many questions. Why, shiver me, I'm no encyclopeedy. Jest wait a minute till I go over and shut that gate. Then I'll—"

"I'll do it," cried Eric, starting off eagerly.

But Jabez halted him with an exclamation in which dismay was barely disguised by gruffness. He needed a moment for reflection, and he needed an inspiration.

"Set down. "I'll shut my own gate, sonny. Wot am I here for? Set down, I say."

It seemed to the impatient, quivering boy that the old man was unconscionably slow in performing the simple feat. Mr. Carr's brow was more deeply corrugated than ever as he shuffled back to the watch house bench. At first he sought to change the topic of conversation, then he assumed anger at the boy's persistence. Eric's white, eager, quivering face distressed him. He realized, with a pain in his heart, that his little friend would not be denied. He was determined to know the truth, and the truth was the thing that poor old Jabez was striving to evade. Far back in his mind lay the conviction that one day the boy would know the wretched story, but now was not the time, nor was he the proper person to make the disclosure. It does not disturb my conscience, therefore, to commend the course taken by Jabez Carr. He lied nobly, with the best intentions, and his sin, though sure to be found out, was worthy of a lasting place among the virtues.

To be sure, in his enthusiasm, he overdid it, but why hold that up against him? He made Philip Midthorne out to be a hero, the like of whom never walked through the most exalted tale of chivalry. His description of that well imagined combat on the lonely duelling ground, and the circumstances that led up to it, merited distinction in the choicest yellow back fiction of any age. I leave his story to your imagination. I have my own to tell. The effect it had on the boy is all that I care to record.

When the lengthy, involved and highly colored narrative came to an end—which was when the old man reached a stage where he realized that he was beginning to contradict himself because he couldn't remember just what had gone before—the boy was fairly squirming with excitement, and pride, and glory in his heroic father. Jabez left nothing to the imagination, albeit he uttered not a single word of the truth.

Later on, the old man watched his young friend scudding up the hill toward the gate in the road wall surrounding the Blagden garden and stable yard. He was very thoughtful, and he shook his grizzled head in deep perplexity.

"He'll find out the truth some day, poor lad," mused he, "and all my lyin' will go for naught. Mebby 'twould been better to have told him the truth. What a fine little chap he is."

Eric encountered Chetwynd in the grape arbor. The older boy was snugly ensconced in a remote nook, where he spent much of his leisure time reading, far from the questioning eyes of his parents, and quite out of view from any of the windows in the house itself. He chose this spot because it was secluded, and he denied either of his cousins the right to approach within 20 paces of his lair. Two or three kickings had convinced Eric that discretion was better than valor. He kept his distance thereafter, but down in his heart he cherished the hope that there would come a time when he would be big enough to drive the proud bully from his paradise. You may be sure that Chetwynd's nook was the shadiest, the coolest and altogether the most desirable in the garden. He chose it with considerable perception. It was there that ostensibly he pursued the course in reading his father had laid down for him. If you had approached cautiously from behind, you would have observed that a flashy, blood stirring paper back "library" of the 5 and 10 cent variety reposed atop the obscured pages of Virgil. Chetwynd managed, in some way to read at least one of these demoralizing pamphlets every day. His mind was soaked with the vicious performances of certain highwaymen, road agents, detectives, and the more exalted but scarcely less approvable virtues of youthful heroes.

His doting parents would have been shocked beyond measure could they have known of this unexampled straying.

Eric usually gave the sacred spot a wide berth. Today, full of exaltation, he boldly invaded the nook.

"Get out of this!" roared Chetwynd scarcely believing his eyes. He lowered his feet from their perch on the trellis, and was almost prepared to rise from the small of his back, on which he was sitting.

The ugly scowl did not daunt the trespasser. He came up quite close to his cousin.

"You can kick me if you want to, but I mean to tell—" he began.

Chetwynd interrupted him with a mild oath. A moment later he was standing over the smaller boy, his arm drawn back threateningly.

"If you tell father what I've been reading, I'll break your neck," he hissed. He was pale, not with anger, but at the thought of the information going to his father.

"Oh, I'm not a tattletale," cried Eric. "You know better than that. You're a telltale yourself, but I'm not. You—"

"Don't you call me a telltale!"

"Well, you are. You tell on me to aunt every time I do anything, and you tell her lots of times that I did the things that you did yourself, so's I'll get punished. She believes you, and I get it good and hard, too. But I never squeal on you. You know I don't."

"You don't dare to," proclaimed Chetwynd. "You know what I'd do to you."

"Why don't you pick on Johnny Metcalf or Roy Gray? You're afraid of 'em. They're as big as you are, and they'd just lick you—"

"I'll give you a smash in the eye, first thing you know," growled Chetwynd. Still his arm was withheld."

"Go on and do it! Go on" cried the reckless Eric. "You're a coward, that's what you are. You won't fight fair. You know I can't lick you."

"For two cents, I'd—"

"I'll fight with 'dornicks' at 20 paces," said Eric.

Chetwynd laughed derisively as he shoved the boy away from him.

"Next thing you'll be challenging me to a duel," he guffawed meaningly.

Eric was quivering with the news that was to be his justification.

"Aunt Rena said my father was a murderer," he gulped. "Well, it was a lie."

Chetwynd stared.

"I'm going to tell her you called her a liar," he said. "Then you'll catch hell."

"Oh, if Uncle Horace heard you use that word," cried Eric, forgetting his purpose in the delight of anticipation. "He'd tan you—gee, but he'd tan you."

"I'd show him if he tried it," blustered Chetwynd. "I won't let any man lick me, I don't care who he is.

Eric returned to his original attack. "I don't care if you do tell Aunt Rena. She knows it ain't true. He killed his man in a duel, a fair and square duel. It was according to the code, all good and proper. She has no business saying it was a murder."

"Well, it was murder," cried Chetwynd angrily. "You don't know what you're talking about."

Eric went on rashly. "I'd like to see what your father'd do if he had to fight a duel. He'd run, he'd back out. He wouldn't stand up to anybody with pistols. My father was a brave man. He met his man and——"

"Met him?" sneered Chetwynd, catching his breath. "Yes, he did! He met him in the dark and he shot him in the back. That's the kind of a man he was—and, darn you, that's just the kind of a man you'll be. Everybody says so. My father says it's in the blood."

"It's a lie! It's a lie!" screamed Eric.

Chetwynd threw discretion to the winds. He had been waiting for the opportunity to hurt his proud cousin, whom everyone else liked so well.

"And say, while you're talking about my mother, let's talk about yours. Do you know what she was? Say, do you? Do you know what she did? She was a bad woman. She was a woman like—well, you know what French Fanny is down in Fourth street, don't you? She keeps a house of ill fame. Nobody speaks to her, do they? Ain't every girl in town warned against being the kind of woman she is? Well, Aunt Mary was like French Fanny. She was a prostitute. She——"

Eric was upon him like a wildcat, pummelling, scratching and kicking. The attack was so sudden that the older boy fell back before it, shouting in mingled rage and dismay. The smaller boy, blinded by fury, struck wildly and without much effect, but Chetwynd would have fled from his attack if it had been possible. The trellis barred the way to escape. He was compelled to stand and defend. Fortune favored him in an unexpected manner. Eric stumbled and fell to his knees. Before he could recover, the larger boy was upon him, bearing him to the ground.

Despite his most valiant efforts, Eric could not throw him off. He was forced to endure a vicious pummelling. His nose, his lips and an ear were soon bleeding. Tears of rage and chagrin ran down his cheeks. He was powerless, but his cousin was relentless.

Between blows, Chetwynd ground out the bitterest taunts he could invent. There was nothing too vile for him to apply to the father and mother of his helpless victim.

"That's what she was!" he kept on repeating. "And that's what your sister will be, too. She'll go to the devil, just as Aunt Mary did. Shut your mouth, blame you! There! That'll shut it, I guess. And you'll be as dirty low as your father was, too. Everybody says so. They're just waiting to see when it crops out. I've heard 'em say so. They pray for you. Did you know that? They pray for you and Mary. The have Mr. Presbre pray for you, too. He does it every Sunday. But you'll both go to the gutter. Prayers won't help, you can bet on that. You're going to shoot somebody in the back some day and Mary's going to be a—Ouch! Oh, you will will you? Take that, and that! I guess father ought to know. He's your mother's brother. If he hasn't a good word for her, I'd like to know who has. But what does he say about her? Mother tells me all about it. She don't lie. She tells the truth."

He would have gone on until exhausted, perhaps, had not intervention occurred to release the panting, beaten boy. Little Mary had been attracted by sounds of the conflict. A glance had shown here the situation. She ran screaming to the house, alarming her aunt. Mrs. Blagden lost no time in going to the rescue of her son.

She separated them and dragged Eric to his feet, shaking him violently by the collar. Then she led him by the ear to the house harranguing him every step of the way, while Chetwynd followed close behind bawling out triumphantly that Eric had called her a liar, and a thief, and a bad woman.

The victim was thrust unceremoniously into a dark closet without being allowed to utter a word in his own defense.

"Your uncle shall attend to you when he comes home from the bank, young man," said Aunt Rena as she locked the door. Then she went downstairs and made the exasperating mistake of asking Chetwynd how badly the little ruffian had injured him. Her son flung himself from the room, much to her dismay. If she had been listening closely she might have heard herself alluded to as a 'darned old fool' by her precious offspring.

For three bleak unhappy hours the small boy who is to become the hero of this narrative remained in the darkened windowless closet, from which there was no escape. He chafed for a long time under the rank injustice that put him there. His little heart was full of the bitterest hatred for these unfair inquisitors. his soul writhed in an agony of shame and humiliation, out of which sprung the ever recurring hope that he might die there in his prison, if only to make his aunt feel that she had been the cause of his death. He was not old enough to be a philosopher, he could not see beyond the present indignity. There was no hope ahead, so far as he could see. His whole life seemed cramped and squeezed into this narrow cruel hour or two of despair. He was crushed, but there was a dogged fury in his soul that would not be conquered. Chetwynd had reviled his mother. He could not get over that. He could not at once grasp the full force of the charges brought against her, but there was no doubt in his mind that French Fanny was the lowest of all God's creatures. To compare his dear, pretty mother to that dreadful woman was the ugliest thought that could come to his mind. And yet Chetwynd had said she was as bad as French Fanny. And he had said, too, that little Mary would grow up to be the same kind of woman. The poor boy threw himself on the floor of his cell, and wept bitter tears, sobbing himself into a slumber from which he was aroused by the faint sound of tapping at his door.

(Continued next week.)

Presidents and Senates.

From the New York World.

Of all the weird delusions that bedevil the republican leaders in Washington and the republican newspapers outside of Washington, the weirdest is the delusion that the president can be discredited if the ship purchase bill is beaten in the Senate.

Presidents do not suffer politically from defeats in the United States Senate. The Senate is the least trusted part of the federal government. It is the least popular. Its good faith is the most frequently challenged. Presidents are strengthened rather than weakened by clashes with the Senate.

It is serious business for a president to lose the support of his party majority in the House, but when he loses the support of the Senate majority he can usually count on a large measure of public sympathy. This is especially true if the Senate opposition is tainted with private interest.

Even the best of legislation does not always turn out as it was expected to turn out, and the president must bear the burden of popular disappointment. But a bill that is strangled by the Senate loses none of its anticipated virtues, while the objections lodged against it remain unproved.

Politically the president will be better off if the ship purchase measure is strangled, provided he does not undertake to call an extra session of congress. To be beaten by the ship subsidy interests and the foreign shipping interests in alliance with standpat republicans and a handful of renegade democrats is as good an issue as a president needs. A president who has already had troubles with the Senate because he refused to surrender the appointing power to patronage brokers is the better off for the defeat of a nonpartisan, disinterested piece of legislation. His motives require no defense before the country, but the motives of his opponents are sure to be subjected to the severest scrutiny.

When corporation senators, job-mongering senators and demagog senators forget their pretended political differences to present a solid front to a president, he has encountered a kind of hostility that is worth more to him in the long run than any support they could give him.

Beth, in the names of places mentioned in the bible, is the Hebrew word for house. Thus Bethlehem is the house of bread, Bethsaida, house of mercy.

OLD ABDUL AWAITS COME-BACK CHANCE

All Turkey Knows Failure of Enver May Restore Aged Prisoner.

Constantinople, (via Rome).—The thoughts of all Constantinople if not all of Turkey, have suddenly, as if by magic, centered upon one man.

This man is not the one who for the moment is most in the public eye. Enver Pasha, 32 years old, with his imperial alliance, his ministry of war and his grand ambition to put the old Turkish empire back on the map, awakens no especial interest in the Turkish mind.

Enver is a dare devil boy, they say. If he makes good, all very well. They are quite willing that he have all the credit and reward for it, too. But if he doesn't make good—well, that is how all Turkey has suddenly begun thinking about another man, and who, by way of strange contrast, is the one who at the present moment is farthest from the public eye.

Abdul Hamid, the old sultan, the man whom the Enver put down and out, and by whom he is now kept shut up in a little white prison palace over on the opposite shores of the Bosporus—this is the man of mystery, the man of hypothetical possibilities about whom Turkey had suddenly set itself a thinking.

What is passing at this precise moment, what schemes are forming in the mind of that foxy old man—that man who was the shrewdest, the cruelest, the cunningest, the inhumanist, the cleverest old liar—a Turk, every inch of him—who ever sat on the Turkish throne. These are the questions all Turkey is today asking itself.

Say Old Sultan Is Insane.

Abdul Hamid is now 72 years old. From the night in 1909 when Enver and his band of Young Turks deposed him, shutting him up first in the green high walled Villa Allataini at Salonika, but later for safety's sake—theirs, not his—taking him to his present prison palace at Constantinople, the Turkish public has known very little about him. At periodic intervals the word is passed around that he is insane. But no one believes it. The people know just how much it is to the interest of his captors keeping him shut up to have it believed that he is insane. They know, too, that he is very much in touch with everything that takes place in the Turkish world without, and that he is waiting, very, very foxily—just as foxily as he ever did before—for the moment when his imprisoners may have hanged themselves to step out and rule again.

After Enver the Deluge.

And it is only recently—in fact, since Enver drained all Turkey of its last man, its last "piastre," to carry out his ambitious projects—that the Turkish ear has heard a few phrases, reputed to have come from the inside of the little white prison palace that leaves no doubt that the sultan knows what all the rest of Turkey outside the prison walls knows—namely, after Enver the deluge.

For to the average Turkish mind there now remains no doubt that Turkey is today playing its last card. If Enver, with the help of Germany and Austria, is victorious in his plans to retake Egypt, then the die is won. But if Enver fails, there is no one who does not realize that the last resource of Turkey will have been spent. This will mean also that Enver and the Young Turks must go, and then—will the old sultan come back?

And no one in all Turkey today doubts that Abdul Hamid has the plans all laid for his restoration should the psychological moment, through a failure of the Young Turks, ever come.

Taking It All.

From the Ladies' Home Journal.

"Before I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer, "you will have to tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the $100,000 your are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," replied the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every cent of it."

"How much of it have you still?"

"It's all gone, but a couple of dollars."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, buttoning his coat about him and putting on his gloves, 'you had better plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court."

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

"Two dollars."

Sometime.

Sometime, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And suns and stars forevermore have set
The things which our weak judgment here have spurned,
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in tints of deeper blue;
And we shall see how all God's plans are right,
And how what seemed reproof was love most true.

And we shall see how, while we frown and sigh,
God's plans go on as best for you and me,
How, when we called, He heeded not our cry,
Because His wisdom to the end could see.
And e'en as prudent parents disallow
Too much of sweet to craving babyhood,
So God, perhaps, is keeping from us now
Life's sweetest things because it seemeth good.

And if, sometime, commingled with life's wine,
We find the wormwood and rebel and shrink,
Be sure a wiser hand than yours or mine
Pours out the potion for our lips to drink
And if some friend we love is lying low,
Where human kisses can not reach his face,
Oh, do not blame the loving Father so,
But wear your sorrow with obedient grace!

And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends His friend,
And that, sometimes, the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send.
If we could push ajar the gates of life,
And stand within and all God's workings see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife
And for each mystery could find a key.

But not today. Then be content, poor heart;
God's plans like lilies pure and white unfold;
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart—
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
And if, through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,
When we shall clearly know and understand,
I think that we shall say, "God knew the best!"

—Mary Riley Smith.

NEWSY BRIEFS ABOUT WOMAN'S ACTIVITIES

London now has an official police woman.

Three women were lynched during the past year.

Cleveland has four successful women dentists.

The National Housewives' League has over 800,000 members.

Illinois pays out $112,000 a year in mothers' pensions.

There are over 1,000 women on the British medical register.

New York city is to have a home for the attention for women.

Oregon has three women lumbermakers and two female carpenters.

Philadelphia has over 3,000 females employed in clerical positions.

Women are being employed to touch up the ting pictures of war scenes in France.

In Louisiana a woman's property becomes community property upon marriage.

Six girls are taking the full farm course at the Albert Lea, Minn., college.

Two more women interns have been added to the staff of the Bellevue hospital in New York.

Over 8,000 of New York's 15,000 working women received less than $6.50 a week the year.

Marriages in Philadelphia during 1911 showed a decrease of 235 as compared with the previous year.

Thirty-seven cities in the United States do not employ married women as school teachers.

Mrs. J. T. Brown, of Bluff Springs, Fla., alternates with her husband in the pulpit of his church.

Mrs. Georgia P. Bullock recently heard eight cases and imposed sentence in the Los Angeles police court.

Mrs. Mary Auspacher is the first woman in Cincinnati to apply for a license to run a moving picture machine.

Miss Helen Harrison is manager of an extensive dairy farm owned by James J. Hill, the millionaire railroad magnate.

Miss Lenore Cawker, Milwaukee's only dog catcher, will be paid $600 a year by the city for work that costs her $3,300 a year.

Fifty-three per cent of the women employed in the department stores of New York city receive less than $8 per week.

The Countess Lonyay, a daughter of Leopold, of Belgium, and once an empress of Austria, is now a Red Cross nurse.

Mrs. Roberts Rinehart, the story writer, has gone to Europe, where she will act as a nurse in the American ambulance service.

Mme. Bakhemeteff, wife of the Russian ambassador to the United States, has one of the finest collections of jewels in the world.

Miss Mabel McClymont has invented a new profession for women that of consulting architects on the construction and refitting of hospitals.

Miss Aileen Fell, niece of Chief Justice Fell, of Pennsylvania, who is only 19 years of age, has made quite a success raising turkeys.

Scores of distinguished women attended the recent sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science held in Philadelphia.

Dr. Mary Crawford, who has been assigned to the operating room in the American hospital in Paris, is the only woman physician in the hospital.

Out of 600 California girls, Miss Clare Ure, aged 18, of San Francisco, was considered the prettiest and received a prize of a molded golden apple.

Lizzie Hinds, of Pinch Run Ohio, is taking care of 50 small children of the striking miners, who have been out of employment for nine months.

Miss Wilma K. Russey is the first licensed woman taxicab chauffeur to drive a car from a public stand in New York city. Miss Russey refuses to accept tips.

Miss Catherine Clark, of Glendale, Cal., has been appointed a state senator. Governor West says she will be the first woman to serve in the upper branch of the legislature.

Fire Commissioner Adamson, of New York, has appointed Mrs. Olive Sherherd as a fire inspector in the bureau of fire prevention at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Miss Alice Lund, of Ephriam, Utah, is probably the most successful insurance agent in the United States, having written over $200,000 worth of business last year.

The Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Cincinnati boards of education grant teachers a leave of absence for child study while in Chicago a teacher is dropped from the rolls for that cause.

Mrs. Susan Buckles, who died recently near Edinburgh, Ill., at the age of 90, never attended a motion picture show, circus or a theater and never had ridden on a train or street car.

Miss Kathryn Daly, who has just been appointed stenographer in the New York criminal courts, is the first woman stenographer to be successful in obtaining such a position there.

Twenty-four per cent of nearly all women and children employed in factories, laundries, factories and telephone exchanges in New Orleans receive an average wage of less than $4 per week.

Mrs. Lorrillard Spencer and Miss Katherine Buffin, of New York, who have returned from the Philippines, are the only white women who ever penetrated the mountain fastnesses in which the Moros make their homes. Both have spent a whole year among the tribesmen and came back unharmed.

Can You Beat This?

From the National Monthly.

On a dilapidated narrow gauge road in a certain state a traveler was struck with the general air of hopelessness of the entire country. Run-down farms, fences falling to pieces, houses unpainted and dismal, were seen as mile after mile was reeled off. Finally a countryman got on at one of the two fell into conservation.

"Country around here looks fearful dilapidated," remarked the traveler.

"Yaas, but jest wait and you'll see sumpin' wuss," replied the countryman.

The train stopped. They looked out and saw a rail missing ahead. The entire train crew clambered out, crowbars in hand, proceeded leisurely to the rear of the train and in due time opened a rail and carried it forward, was spiked into position and then proceeded.

"Somebody stole a rail?" asked the traveler.

"Yaas, about 20 years ago. I reckon Evah since they hain't nobody's stole a new one. When the train comes along they've gotter stop an' tear up the rail behind 'em. Ain't that the dilapidatedest thing ye ever see, stranger?"

America's Serious Task.

From the Charleston News and Courier.

The fact of greatest concern to Americans today must be the fact that the maintenance of friendly relations between the United States and the different nations of Europe is becoming more and more difficult. How grave is the peril that this fact portends it is difficult to say. It is no longer possible to put danger aside with the general assurance that "it is inconceivable that the United States should be embroiled in the European war." Things that almost everybody regarded as "inconceivable" six months ago have been happening every week during the past half year.

It is said that there are few prophets in China because when one of these so-called prophets predicts an event which does not occur, he loses his head.

...HOPE ...OMAN VERY ILL

Restored To Health Lydia E. Pinkham's ...getable Compound.

...e, Ohio.—"I was in a terrible ...fore I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached until I thought it would break, I had pains all over me, nervous feelings and periodic troubles. I was very weak and run down, and was losing hope of ever being well and strong. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's ...egetable Compound I improved ...and today am a well woman. I ...ell you how happy I feel and I ...ay too much for your Compound. ...ot be without it in the house if ...ree times the amount."—Mrs. ...CHAPMAN, R. F. D. No. 7, Bellefo...

...oman's Precious Gift.

...e which she should most zealard, is her health, but it is most often neglected, until ...lment peculiar to her sex has ...d itself upon her. When so af...ch women may rely upon Lydia ...ham's Vegetable Compound, a ...that has been wonderfully suc... in restoring health to suffering ...

...e have the slightest doubt ...ydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta... ...pound will help you, write ... E. Pinkham Medicine Co. ...idential) Lynn, Mass., for ad... Your letter will be opened, ...d answered by a woman, ...ld in strict confidence.

...'d Just Told Her One.

...Why so pensive, my dear? What ...thinking about?

...I was thinking that if all the ...usbands give their wives could ... up what a lot of socks and ... there'd be for the poor sol...

...HILD CROSS, ...FEVERISH, SICK

Mother! If tongue is ...ated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

...en love this "fruit laxative," ...thing else cleanses the tender ..., liver and bowels so nicely. ...d simply will not stop playing ...y the bowels, and the result is ...ecome tightly clogged with ...liver gets sluggish, stomach ...hen your little one becomes ...half-sick, feverish, don't eat ...act naturally, breath is bad ...full of cold, has sore throat ...che or diarrhoea. Listen, See if tongue is coated, then ...teaspoonful of "California ...Figs," and in a few hours all ...stipated waste, sour bile and ...ted food passes out of the sys... you have a well child again. ...ns of mothers give "California ...Figs" because it is perfectly ...; children love it, and it nev... to act on the stomach, liver ...els.

...t the store for a 50-cent bottle ...ornia Syrup of Figs," which ...directions for babies, children ...ens and for grown-ups plainly ...on the bottle. Adv.

...Not by a Long Way.

..."me see, now," said the minis... christening, dipping his pen ...ink to record the event. "Isn't ...27th?"

..."uld say not," retorted the in... mother; "it is only the ninth!"

...ances are that the fellow who ...ver made any mistakes has ...gged any bull's-eye.

...an who is away from home ... the time dodges a lot of do...rouble.

...Off Old Age

...old folks are bent and shaky. ...are straight and strong. It can't ..."oldness" that works such havoc. ...too often uric acid. Fight off ...apping poison. Help the kid... it from the blood. To aid ...carefully and stimulate their ...with the old reliable medicine, Kidney Pills.

...South Dakota Case

Mrs. H. J. Knapp, 318 Grand Ave., Pierre, S. D., says: "I suffered terribly from rheumatic pains through my body and I was bloated most of the time. These troubles were caused by disordered kidneys. On the advice of friends I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they removed the bloating and pains. This medicine has done me a world of good."

...AN'S KIDNEY ...PILLS ...LBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

...AY PTG. CO., NO. 11-1915.

YOUTH WANTED HIPPO FOR FRANCIS JOSEPH

Admiration For Austrian Monarch Led Him to Attempt Theft

From the New York Telegram

Misguided admiration for Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria caused a commotion in the lion house at Central Park and caused a young man to be sent to Bellevue hospital All the young man wanted to do was to send a present to the emperor but his choice of a gift was not in accord with sentiments of the keepers in the Central park menagerie and in the end their views prevailed

Everything had been quite in the lion house which shelters also Mrs. Murphy, the best known hippopotamus in the city, and her son Congo when the keeper there, George Sickert, noticed a man climbing over the rail which shuts off the hippopotamus from the rest of the house He hurried into the house, but by the time he got there the young man had divested himself of his hat and coat and was taking off his shoes.

"What do you take this for The Hotel de Gink?" demanded Sickert It isn't that, and it's not a f... ming pool, either?"

"I don't want to g... ," he was informed All I want is a little hippo"

"Oh, is that all ... Sickert looking at that $... ongo

"That's all, the ... ," gravely. "I want to ... Emperor Francis ... old man"

To stop all possibility ... ing a European to U. S. ... whistle, calling Bill Sh... policeman Dineen ... man to the Arsenal ... where Dr Goodman of ... decided he should be sent ... for observation The Ne... he was Leo Berta

Helping Families of Prisoners

From the Davie News

The sheriff of the county ... waukee is located is trying to ... the families of men who are ... He is working along lines ... new, but he claims that ... splendid success

The sheriff says he finds ... else finds who goes into ... it is the family rather than ... who is punished When the head of a home is locked up he has an easy job of it compared with those ... outside of the walls and who have to get along the best they can without the bread winner So the sheriff has hit upon the plan of letting the men out during the day and requiring them to report at ... and be locked up

But of course there are ... tions to the process The ... employment and the ... the wages to the family ... prisoner must go from the jail to work and return direct to the jail after the day's work is done The sheriff says he has had no trouble with the ... so far and that there have been no ... course he cannot use the plan with all of the prisoners he must use great judgment in the matter

The plan is along the line of that adopted here in Ohio two years ago of paying prisoners in the penitentiaries for the work they perform That law is working wonders in making ... for the families of convicts without lessening the ... punishment of the offenders ... many other states are studying the matter with a view to adopting it

The prison problem is one of the biggest with which civilization has to deal but it is a hopeful sign to find so many people, in so many different states trying to do something to solve the problem.

Can Preserve Oranges Now

From the Columbus Dispatch

At last it is claimed a process for canning oranges has been discovered ... that will preserve the juices of the fruit for any length ... and which will hold the tissues in their natural form If it is true if such process has been worked out it means much not only for orange growers but for the people generally

Up to this time no satisfactory process has been discovered The orange had to be shipped in its natural form and eaten "raw." It keeps fairly well for a fruit but no fruit can be preserved for any considerable length of time in its natural form.

The advantages of canning oranges will be many Thousands of tons of the fruit now go to waste in the orchards because they all ripen at ... the same time and must be disposed of in a comparatively brief season. With canneries located in the citrus fruit belts taking care of the fruit in season and preserving it for future use the whole country is bound to profit.

There is no better food than citrus fruit which includes oranges ... grapefruit and with a proper process worked out for its preservation a still larger field will be found for it The fresh orange will of course always be in demand ... as there is always a demand for a fresh peach or a bunch of grapes But the canning of a fruit increases its usefulness a hundred fold.

Local Advertising

W. T Buchanan of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company Portland, Ore in a recent article on "Different Methods of Publicity" maintains his belief in the efficacy of publicity, but claims that the kind required is principally of a local character and not territorial or national to any large degree He also holds that it should be undertaken early and consistently and should be coupled with good service, and that the chief feature of the publicity should be to attract attention to the readiness with which the company will remove all causes of dissatisfaction where they exist and as far as it can, rather than to discuss abstract principles The Electric Railway Journal agrees with Mr Buchanan upon the importance of emphasizing the desire of the railway company to please the public and to keep it informed of the character of the service supplied The publicity should be largely local, as Mr. Buchanan says At the same time, its national aspects should not be ignored. The united action of steam railroads in their campaign for a 5 per cent increase in their freight rates is a case in point. By telling the facts through all of the agencies available they have made a deep impression on the body public Germans to Boycott Paris Fashions.

From the London Times.

The movement inaugurated some time ago in Berlin for German hats for German women has now been carried into the provinces. An enthusiastic meeting was held last week at Hamburg. The principal speaker said that unfortunately a great many German women still did not admit that German taste could be substituted for French. Such prejudice must be fought down. In view of "the ruthless behavior of Germany's enemies and the sacrifices made by Germany," German women could no longer be allowed to continue "to adorn themselves with the advertisements of foreign countries."

A Matter of Choice.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger

Bobbs—Which do you prefer—life in the country or life in the city?

Dobbs—I'm not sure. It depends on whether I am in a mood to be attacked by a cow or a motor car

NELLA'S WISH.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Nella's father and mother died she went to live with her uncle. He was a miller and lived in a little house by the mill

He told Nella he was very poor, but if she would do the work and help him she could live there.

So Nella worked very hard to please him, but he was a miser, and never thought she did enough to pay for her board

One day after she worked very hard and was tired and hungry, he told her they could not have any supper that night, as he did not have money enough to buy food, as the people for whom he had ground corn had not paid him

Nella went to bed, but she was so hungry she could not sleep By and by he heard a noise and she went to the door of her room and looked out

Her uncle was sitting by a table, and in front of him, sparkling and gleaming like fire, were beautiful diamonds, sapphires, rubies and other precious stones

He held them in his hands and caressed them as though they were alive Then he put them carefully in an earthen jar and put them under his bed

The next morning, when they had only black coffee made of beans for breakfast, Nella said "Uncle, why do you not sell one of the beautiful stones you were looking at last night, then we could have food

What do you mean?" asked her uncle, "you must have been dreaming I have no valuable stones."

Nella told him what she had seen and he laughed. "They are only glass, he said 'I have them to keep away trouble, but you must not touch them for if any one else handles them they will lose their charm"

Nella did not believe him and after he went to the mill she took the jar from under the bed and took off the cover

The stones sparkled as the light struck them One looked like a coal of fire and Nella reached in and took it out It turned a bluish shade and as she rolled it over in her hand it became yellow and all colors

This is the prettiest of all,' she said 'I am going to keep it, uncle will never miss this bit of glass, and I need something to keep away trouble as well as he does I did not touch the others, so they will still protect him.'

But what was it that the bit of glass seemed to be singing?

I have caught the sun of India

And stolen in the moon's soft ray

I have sat at the throne of Caesar,

Keep me for a day"

Nella pushed the jar under the bed and put the opal (that was the name of the beautiful stone) in her pocket. After her work was finished she went to the mill to help her uncle.

She watched the yellow corn as it was poured into the hopper to be ground 'I wish it were all gold," she thought as she walked away 'Then uncle and I could have a nice dinner

A cry from her uncle caused her to look back, and she saw gold dollars in the hopper in place of the corn

"Where did they come from?" asked Nella as she helped to gather them, she did not think about her wish

"I do not know' said her uncle as he poured more corn in to the hopper, but of course, it did not turn to gold as Nella did not make another wish

Uncle' she said, 'you must go to the market and get a nice dinner and I will cook it

No' said her uncle, "we will eat bread and milk and save the money

What makes you so miserly?" said Nella Money is of use only for what it buys for our comfort. I am so hungry' she said. "I wish I had a table before me with a good dinner"

... from the door of the mill rose a table and Nella sat in her chair before it so quickly that she rubbed her eyes to make sure that what she saw was real

Her uncle ran to her and shook her by the shoulder 'Wish again," he said

'Wait until I finish my dinner," said Nella. I am hungry You eat, too, uncle

But the miser was so anxious to have her wish for gold that he could not eat, and when Nella had finished, and the table and chair had disappeared, he said "Now wish that the mill pond may become gold."

Nella wished as he asked her to do and the mill stopped grinding, for there was no water to turn the wheel. The miserly miller had no thought of that

'Now see what has happened,' said Nella, "you cannot grind any more corn and what will the people do for food? You are a bad old man and think only of yourself I wish I did not live with you"

As she spoke she began to run. Without touching the ground her feet flew along the road On and on she went until she wished she could stop, and then she stopped so suddenly that she almost fell over

She sat down by the roadside wondering what strange power had come to her when she heard the singing again "It is the bit of glass," she said taking it from her pocket and looking at it 'I wish I had a dress like the blue in it'

Her old dress fell to the ground, and in its place was a beautiful blue one. "This will never do,' thought Nella. "I have on a lovely dress and I have no home So she began to wish for all the things she seemed to need

A house appeared across the road from where she sat but Nella did not dare enter it was so grand. "I wish I were inside the house," she said, and she found herself walking up the stairs. She went into all the rooms and found everything for which a girl could wish

Nella took good care of her uncle for the rest of his life, and he never inquired about her strange power

Farm Bookkeeping.

From the Saturday Evening Post

The department of agriculture puts the value of the chief necessaries of life consumed by an average farm family each year at a little under $600 but more than $400 worth of these necessaries is contributed by the farm itself leaving only $171 worth to be purchased by the farmer

That suggests one difficulty with the average farm bookkeeping It consists of only a cash account A good many farmers can tell, with approximate accuracy, how much money they received and paid out during a year The number that have even an approximate notion of the value of articles consumed on the farm is much smaller "I got so much for my hogs," a farmer may tell you but if you ask what he might have got for the feed they consumed he answers "Oh, I raised that myself."

And there are still many more farmers who have no clear notion as to how much cash they received and disbursed They know only how much they have left at the end of the year. In farming, as much as in banking or railroading, good bookkeeping is the foundation of real economy and efficiency Stuffing $8 worth of corn into a pigskin and selling it for $7 50 is certainly not profitable.

A great amount of money is lost yearly in milch cows, simply because the owners do not know what each quart of cream they sell has actually cost them. A properer but very simple set of books would show at once which cows yielded a profit and which were merely perambulatory corneribs

A dollar invested in a blank book and a pen would be the best investment many farmers could make.

FARMERS WHO SUCCEED IN WESTERN CANADA

Those Who Exercise Thrift, Practice Due Economy, and Adopt Reasonable Methods Are Sure to Prosper.

Those who are interested in developing the agricultural resources of Western Canada in bringing to the notice of those whom they desire to take part in this development present only the facts. There has never been given the impression that farming in Western Canada could be carried on without effort or labor, but it has been successfully stated that better results can be secured with less outlay of capital, either in money or labor, than anywhere else on the continent. This has been proven time and time again Hundreds of cases could be cited where men have taken up farms, either a homestead, or purchased from railways or land companies, and with little capital at the start have acquired a competence, have established good homes for themselves, and provided a sure future They have comfortable homes and all their surroundings are comfortable, speak of the reward that their thrift has accomplished

Carl Dickan, of Russian Poland lived in Pittsburgh, Pa., for fourteen years. and saved up $900. In 1903 he took the $900 with him to Alberta. His own story is that he bought a quarter section for which he agreed to pay $1,200 "In 1904 I had thirty acres of crop, threshed 900 bushels In 1909 I bought another quarter. I now have one hundred acres under cultivation, and have never had a crop failure. Have threshed forty-seven bushels of wheat per acre, but the average has been about forty. My oats for the eleven years that I have been here averaged forty-seven bushels to the acre I now have 9 horses, 47 head of cattle, 33 hogs, which I consider worth $3,600. I have a thousand dollars worth of farm implements and my land is worth $8,000. This is all clear of debt. I have every reason to consider this a first-class mixed farming, dairying and poultry raising country, as I think that it is apparent that I have had some success. The only help that I had was my oldest boy, who was 8 years old when I arrived in Alberta."

About fifty miles west of Wetaskiwin there is a partially timbered district lying between Buck Lake and Pigeon Lake. All this land is ready for homesteading, and judging from a letter received by a resident there, this would seem to be an ideal place for a farmer who desired such surroundings. This settler lives on the shore of Buck Lake, his land is willow brush, which is easy to clear. Some of the lumber is good saw timber, and lots of good logs for buildings can be had, as well as rails for fencing. For wheat growing the soil is excellent Water is easily secured, fishing is good and plentiful and game is anything but scarce. The settlers are mostly from the United States and Canada.—Advertisement.

Identification.

"That handsome woman over there is a widow of one of the Jaggs brothers."

"Which brother is she the widow of?"

"The dead one."

Beautiful Recipe Book For Every Woman.

We have been asked by the Calumet Baking Powder Company of Chicago to announce through the columns of this publication that they have just gotten up one of the best Recipe Books ever published, 16 pages of which are beautifully illustrated, showing in the colors a lot of dandy dishes and good things to eat that can be prepared with Calumet Baking Powder

In addition to this there are 252 valuable recipes and numerous household hints prepared by the most noted Domestic Science teachers and Cooking Experts.

We know you will find this a very valuable book, as you will have use for it almost every day.

All you have to do to get one is to take the slip that you find in a pound can of Calumet Baking Powder, fill in your name and address according to the instructions on the slip and mail it to the Calumet Baking Powder Company, Chicago, Ill.

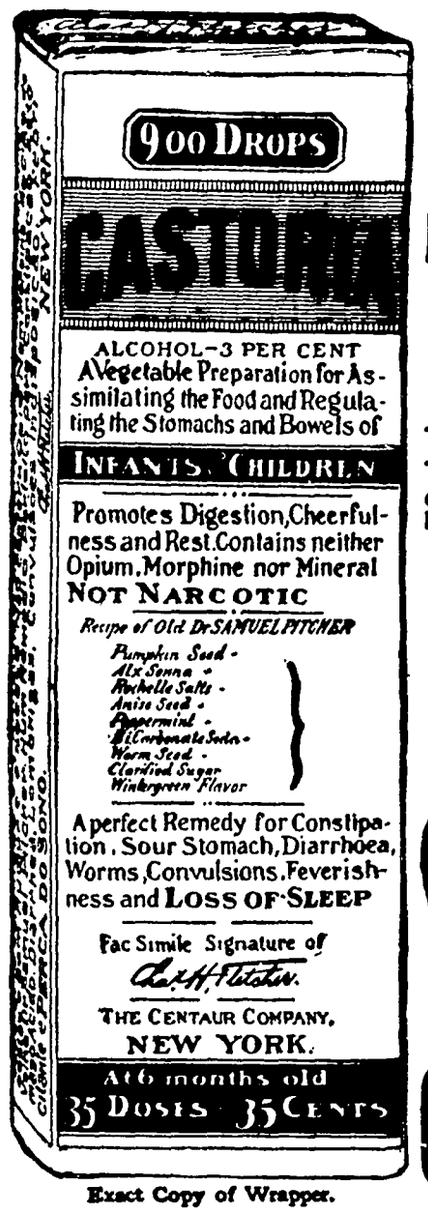
If you are not already using Calumet Baking Powder, we would suggest that you try it today. You will find it wholesome and economical to use.

You will find it a Baking Powder of unusual merit and the recipe book one of the most beautiful and useful books of this kind that you have ever possessed.—Adv

Oh, That's It.

Redd—Does he drive his own car?

Greene—No; his wife's.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral
NOT NARCOTIC
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP
Fac Simile Signature of
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 DOSES 35 CENTS
Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria

Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

She Was Glad.

"Yes, I took out an accident insurance policy today. These slippery sidewalks got on my nerves."

"But the policy won't keep you from slipping?"

"No, but if I do slip and fall I'll get $25 a week as long as I'm disabled."

"I'm so glad you got the insurance, George. Because I gave your new rubbers today to a poor man who said his shoes leaked."—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Salzer's White Bonanza Oats.

Made C. J. Johnson of Lincoln Co., Minn., famous in growing 243 bushels from 2½ bushels sown last spring. Can you beat that in 1915? Wont you try?

This great Oat has taken more prizes and given bigger and larger yields throughout the United States than any Oat known. It's enormously prolific. Just the Oat for Iowa, Minn., Wis., Ill., Ind., Mich., Ohio, Neb., Pa., N. Y., Kansas and Missouri.

We are America's headquarters for Alfalfa and Potatoes Timothy, Clovers and Farm Seeds.

For 10c in Postage

We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder;" Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, etc., etc.

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their big catalog.

Soul Mates.

Knicker—What are soul mates?

Bocker—Generally two lefts.—New York Sun.

Stubborn Throat troubles are easily relieved by Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops. They act like magic—5c at all Druggists.

Six Months.

She—Isn't that a fine building?

He—Yep. That's the police court.

Long-Felt Want.

Flatbush—I see a novelty is a telescoping phonograph horn, made of a number of sections which slide together for convenience in carrying.

Bensonhurst—We don't care so much about the horn, but what I'd like to see is something that would shut up a neighbor's phonograph.

Everything comes more quickly to those who refuse to wait.

Too many people are like cider—they becom sour with age.

Paxtine

A Soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed

For Douches

In the local treatment of woman's ills, such as leucorrhoea and inflammation, hot douches of Paxtine are very efficacious. No woman who has ever used medicated douches will fail to appreciate the clean and healthy condition Paxtine produces and the prompt relief from soreness and discomfort which follows its use. This is because Paxtine possesses superior cleansing, disinfecting and healing properties.

For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been relieved say it is "worth its weight in gold." At druggists. 50c. large box or by mail. Sample free. The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

Make the Liver Do its Duty

Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty.

Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress After Eating.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

Sudan and Billion $ Grass

Crops in 100 days from seeding! Produces enormously. Positive cure for hay shortage. BIG CATALOG FREE. John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

BIG GOVERNMENT LAND OPENING. — About 750,000 acres farm, fruit, dairy, timberland to be thrown open for settlement, State of Washington. Send $1 for reliable information, description, map by former government employee, bulletins to follow keeping you posted Box 257, Spokane, Wash.

W. L. DOUGLAS

MEN'S $2.50 $3 $3.50 $4.00 $4.50 $5 $5.50 SHOES

WOMEN'S $2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 & $4.00 SHOES

BOYS' $1.75 $2 $2.50 $3.00 MISSES' $2.00 & $2.50

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY WEARING W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

CAUTION! When buying W.L.Douglas shoes look for his NAME AND PRICE stamped on the bottom. Shoes thus stamped are always worth the price paid for them. For 32 years W. L. Douglas has guarantied their value and protected the wearer against high prices for inferior shoes by having his NAME AND PRICE stamped on the bottom before they leave the factory. Do not be persuaded to take some other make claimed to be just as good. You are paying your money and are entitled to the best.

W. L. Douglas shoes are sold through 80 stores in the large cities and shoe dealers everywhere.

W. L. Douglas shoes are made of the best domestic and imported leathers, on the latest models, carefully constructed by the most expert last and pattern makers in this country. No other make of equal prices, can compete with W. L. Douglas shoes for style workmanship and quality. As comfortable, easy walking shoes they are unsurpassed.

The $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes will give as good service as other makes costing $4.00 to $5.00. The $4.50, $5.00 and $5.50 shoes compare favorably with other makes costing $6.00 to $8.00. Wherever you live there are many men and women wearing W.L.Douglas shoes. Consult them and they will tell you that W. L. Douglas shoes cannot be excelled for the price.

If you could visit the W. L. Douglas factory at Brockton, Mass., and see how carefully the shoes are made, and the high grade leathers used, you would then understand why they look and fit better, hold their shape and wear longer than other makes for the price.

If your dealer cannot supply you, write for Illustrated Catalog showing how to order by mail. W.L.Douglas, 210 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES

Where Youth is

the Hamilton Piano has a place.

Whether you own a piano or have any idea of buying one, we want you, for the pure enjoyment of it, to hear the Hamilton.

There is a quality in the tone of this piano found in the kind of music that lives:—warm, deep and sweet; and it is a tone that sings.

It's the great thing, this human interest, in the tone of a home piano particularly and one that except in the costliest makes, is met with as rarely as songs like "Annie Laurie."

And when you know that the Hamilton Piano is a favorite all over the world, because of its resistance to climatic changes, you can understand what a splendidly constructed instrument it is.

Come in and hear it.

M. M. Magner

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don t delay Demand "5-Drops" Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co Newark, C[illegible] bottle of "5-Drops" w[illegible]

California This Winter

Spend your winter holiday in California this year—you will find it far lovelier and more satisfying than Europe.

Don't miss the biggest events of a lifetime—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, 1915—and don't miss the opportunity to see the greatest scenic sections of the country. Go to California via Rock Island Lines. You see more and have a wider choice of routes at no greater cost.

The "Golden State Limited," foremost transcontinental train, provides every luxury of modern travel via the direct route of lowest altitudes.

Other fast trains daily with choice of routes—go one way, return another.

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours to Pan-Pacific Expositions 1915

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

The Live Merchant Advertises--Why Patronize A Dead One

DRAINAGE NOTICE

Hearing On Establishment Drainage District No. 9

State of Iowa, Hancock County: ss:—

To C. B. Groesbeck, Frank Hibbs, Estella Hibbs, Friedrich Ax, Frederick Ax, Philip Kehl, Andrew Anderson, Anna Baack, Henry A. Josten, Fred J. Albers, Frederick Wacker, Stephen Kleinmeyer, Alexander Ross, Daniel Bangs, John Wacker, John Christizas, George Zinn, W. R. Bloom, Sadie A. Bloom, Wm. L. Lawhorn, P. M. Griesemer, G. W. Kluckholn, Herman H. Theimann, F. A. Arnold, Charles Medaus, Daniel Wehner, Hans M. Peterson, John Bock Jr., George Albers, Frederick Bock, Fred Bock, William Becker, Wilhelm Becker, Henry Wille, Peter Josten, Henry J. Schuldt, John Loudon, John Louden, August Barz, August Bartz, Nanna Krouse, Oscar Swanson, George F. Kessler, Wm. Sampson, John Sanderfeld, Wm. J. Schlawin, John Neuberger, Henry Theiman, Henry Thiemann, owners, and to Farmersburg Savings Bank, C. H. McNider, Elmer Mossman, Martin Schreck, Ezra A. Albertson, National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, J. N. Sprole, Elida Harpending, S. R. Harpending, Isaac C. Comfort, Aetna Life Insurance Company, John Bock, A. M. Griesemer, Henry Griesemer, Justine Griesemer, Abram Mitchell, Ellsworth and Jones (incorporated), E. S. Ellsworth & L. E. Jones, Fred Wacker, George Schroeder, Henry Schroeder, Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, Trustee E. J. Schaefer, Winnie Walsh, Frank Walsh, Fred Walsh, James M. Sanderson, William T. Sanderson, The Merchants Loan and Trust Company, Hugh H. Shepard, A. N. Grimm, E. E. Halstead, Ida M. Zinn, Fred Schwartz, John A. Johnson, G. A. Pabst, George W. Curtiss, Trustee, P. K. Bourke, The Bankers Life Company, State Savings Bank, Klemme, Iowa, Elizabeth Gaffner, Pearsons Taft Land Credit Company, C. M. Johnson, Asa Gibbs, M. Palmby, Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa, John Benson, First National Bank of Greenfork, Indiana, lienholders, and to the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, the Trustees of Ell Township, the School Township of Ell Iowa, in the County of Hancock in the State of Iowa, To Peter Josten Clerk Ell Twp., and to all other persons in any way interested in the following described lands situated in the County of Hancock and State of Iowa, viz:—The South half of the South half of the South West quarter, and the South West quarter of the South East quarter of Section 14; the East 30 acres of the North East quarter of the North East quarter, and the East 30 acres of the South East quarter of the South East quarter of Section 15; the South half, the North East quarter, and the South half of the North West quarter of Section 20; all of Sections 21 and 22, the South half, the North West quarter, the South half of the North East quarter and the North West quarter of the North East quarter of Section 23, the South West quarter, the West half of the South East quarter, and the West half of the South West quarter of the North West quarter of Section 24; the South half, the North West quarter, the South half of the North East quarter and the North West quarter of the North East quarter of Section 25, all of Sections 26, 27, and 28; the North half, the South East quarter, and the North half of the South West quarter of Section 29; the East half of the North East quarter of Section 30; the East half of the North East quarter of Section 32, the North half of Section 33; the North West quarter of Section 34; the North East quarter and the East half of the North West quarter of Section 35, the North West quarter the West half of the North East quarter and the North East quarter of the North East quarter of Section 36; all in Township 95 North, Range 23 West of the 5th P. M. also all highways between said sections or part of sections.

You and each of you are hereeby notified that on June 8th. 1914 there was filed in the office of the County Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa a petition asking that additional lands be incorporated in Drainage District No. 9 and that the improvement therein be changed from open to closed ditches and that A. J. Lilly was appointed Engineer to make a survey thereof and report thereon.

That the said A. J. Lilly has filed his report recommending that certain changes be made in said improvement and that certain lands be included in said District the plans of which may be amended at any time before final action thereon by the Board of Supervisors.

You are further notified that April 6, 1915 has been fixed as time for hearing thereon and that all objections thereto or claims for damages caused thereby must be filed in the office of the County Auditor of said county at least, five days (5) before said hearing as provided by law, and that unless you do so said changes will be made and damages waived.

Witness my hand and official seal this 23rd day of February A. D. 1915. (SEAL) E. P. Hanson, Auditor of Hancock County.

LOCAL ITEMS

Don't forget the opening date of Mrs. Bier's hat shop.

WANTED:—Some milk cows and steers. John Coobs.

Buy your "Easter Bonnet" early.
Mrs. C. F. Bier.

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas. F. Busch

Mrs. Chas. Schroeder and daughter went to Garner, Friday, for a few days visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. C. E. Nissen returned Wednesday, from Iowa Falls where she had been visiting her son, George, for the past five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Freie went to Eagle Grove, Friday, to attend the funeral of their son Frank's wife. Frank accompanied them home Monday for a conple of days stay.

G. F. Gorkow of Colesburg, arrived Saturday, and with his brother, Philip of the Times force went to Hayfield, that afternoon for an over Sunday visit with relatives and friends.

—No need to pay expensive hospital bills and railroad fare, when Dr. Weber, the eye and ear specialist comes here and can cure you at home. Call Tuesday, March, 23 forenoon at hotel in Garner. Examination free.

Karl Kraus has departed for his new home at Dexter, Minnesota, near where he purchased a farm last fall. His brother Albert accompanied him and will help him get settled. Karl's many friends in this community wish him all kinds of success.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate.—J. P. Larsen & Sons.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia.

Frank Freie of Eagle Grove mourns the death of his wife who passed away last Thursday after a lingering illness. Three children were born to this union, two having passed away. She left to mourn her loss, her husband and one child and other relatives and friends. Frank is well known by a number of our readers, living here until a few years ago when he went to Eagle Grove and entered the employ of the C. & N. W. railway by whom he is yet employed as brakeman. His many friends in this vicinity sympathize with him in his bereavement.

Warning

Certain parties better come and buy their coal and corn instead of stealing it. This is a warning.
A. C. Lau & Son

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

CAUCUS NOTICE

A citizen's caucus will be held in the Town Hall, next Monday evening, March 15th, 1915. At which time a full set of officers for the incorporated Town of Klemme, Iowa, are to be nominated. Everyone turn out and help nominate.
Ed. G. Ell, Mayor.

Grand Millinery Display

You will find the largest most stylish display of Prettiest Pattern and Trimmed Hats ever shown in Klemme Our two display rooms are filled with latest styles at most reasonable prices Yours to please,
Mrs. John Josten.

TOWN ELECTION

To the qualified voters of Klemme, Iowa.

Notice is hereby given that there will be held in the Town Hall, Klemme, Iowa, on Monday, March 29th, 1915 the regular bi-annual election at which time a full set of officers are to be elected Officers to be elected are Mayor; 5 councilmen; Clerk, Treasurer and Assessor.

Caucus to name nominees for these offices should be held at least ten days before the above date.
Ed G Ell, Mayor

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching service at 10 oclock a. m. and 7:30 oclock p. m.

Sunday school at 11 oclock.

Preaching at the Waysida school house at 3 oclock p. m.

Prayermeeting each Wednesday evening at 7:30 oclock.

Luck Was With Traveler.

The reason that I escaped execution the morning after my arrest hung on an even slenderer thread, writes a recent traveler in China, in the World's Work. My foreign appearance, the regularity of my papers, and my remarks to the effect that he would be made the scapegoat if a mistake had been made had worried the prison superintendent. He decided to consult his superior before carrying out his orders. This gentleman, like most of his kind in Chinese officialdom, was not an early riser. When he did arise the first thing he received was an urgent telephone inquiry from Admiral Tsai as to whether a foreigner had been arrested by the secret police or not, and if he had, where was he.

Cathedral's Vicissitudes.

St. Paul's cathedral of London has had a strange association with fire. The first edifice on the present site was erected in 610 by Ethelbert, king of Kent, but in 1087 this was destroyed by fire. Finally in 1666, when the great fire devastated most of London, St. Paul's was wrecked, this being the fifth fire. In 1675 the present church was built by Charles II at a cost of more than $7,500,000.

Alligators' Eggs Edible.

Alligators' eggs are eaten in the West Indies, Mexico and on the east coast of Africa. They resemble in shape a hen's egg, and have much the same taste, but are larger. More than a hundred eggs have been found in one alligator.

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

CALL AND SEE THE

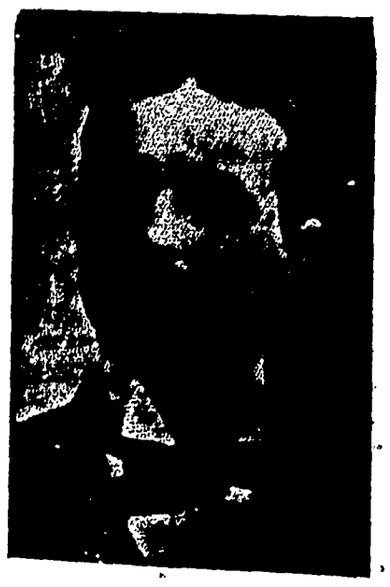
ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

HORSES CLIPPED

All those who have Horses they wished clipped this spring, bring them in and we will do the work right and promptly.

City Livery Barn

EVERYBODY PLEASED



DR. A. H. WEBER

OF DES MOINES
EYE AND EAR SPECIALIST WHO CURES

WILL BE AT

Hotel In Garner

Come Before 12:00 O'clock Forenoon

Tuesday, March 23rd

TO CURE
DISEASES OF THE EYE, EAR, ROSE AND THROAT WITH MILD REMEDIES

No medicine used in the eyes that injures the sight. All treatment painless.

CROSS EYES
straightened in two minutes without pain.

CATARACT
Cured.

GLASSES
Fitted to correct all sights and guaranteed.

HEADACHES
Cured by Glasses,
Granulated Lids, Watery Eyes and Ingrowing Lashes cured.

CATARRH
Cured by a new method.

The Doctor will be pleased to have all former patients call. Examination free. Do not miss this opportunity.

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLL
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
M. S. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
Nice Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Will give you an easy shave or a hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Office 1st. Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 46.
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to the treatment of
RHEUMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

KLEMME DRAY LINE
C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR
A share of your patronage is solicited.
All work attended to promptly and carefully.
Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Brilliant Millinery Opening

Smartest Fashions of Fashion

THIS BRILLIANT ENSEMBLE is by far the most attractive ever shown in Klemme, containing hundreds of unique designs with rare artistic qualification which makes them exceedingly becoming to almost every woman, "Whatever the Type."

We anticipate the pleasure of a visit from the ladies of this city and vicinity on the opening day.

Monday, March 15
AND CONTINUING ALL WEEK
MRS. C. F. BIER

A Progressive Newspaper In The Most Progressive Town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 28 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department

Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy

Have YOU got money in our bank to protect your LITTLE ONES and your wife from want?

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interst on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00
Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

G. A. PABST,

Klemme, - - - - Iowa

Call and get one of our Silent Salesman Sample Wall Paper Books, Containing a sample of all paper we carry in stock with prices printed on sample which will meet any competition.

The People's Choice G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN — SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiography — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

SWEA CITY HAS BEACON LIGHT

Electric Beacon Placed on Water Tower--Seen Many Miles

This town has reached a point where it can dispense with the services of the well known moon! A beacon light has been installed on the top of the water tower. It is a 500 watt nitrogen lamp and was placed in position Friday. Link Horswell and Halgor Smith were about the only persons on hand who had nerve enough to climb the dizzy height and do job. About half of the flag pole was cut off and the light placed on the stub A smoked glass must be used in order to protect the lamp during wet weather, as it becomes intensely hot and the moisture would cause it to break

For several blocks near the water tower it is as light as if the moon were shining at its best and large type in a newspaper can be read easily. Ed. Berggren reports that he made a trip nine miles north of town the other evening and the light could be easily seen from that distance Some enthusiastic persons claim that it can be seen 25 miles away on a dark night, but the Herald refuses to back that assertion. A newspaper, goodness knows, get "bawled out" enough for making rash assertions without thus deliberately courting fate Farmers living near town claim that they get plenty of light from the beacon for their evening chores and that ought to be enough for this time.—Swea City Herald

"THE MISSOURI GIRL" TUESDAY, MARCH 23rd

The character of "Zeke Dobson" the country boy in "The Missouri Girl" is one of unique conception Among the many impersonations of the rural types offered to the theatre-going public, there are but few limited cases where the author has even attempted to portray this interesting character as he is seen in real life.

The stage character of the farmer is so thoroughly impressed on our minds that it is almost impossible for us to imagine a rural play without the usual impossible characters, that are, in many cases a serious drawback to an otherwise good play.

"Zeke" as played by the droll comedian, Mr. Geo Alexander is a true portrayal of an honest, bright intelligent country boy; his dialect and actions are both peculiar and droll and he says and does what is natural. When in the city he makes ludicrous mistakes and his idea of "city folks" and the remark he makes about them are extremely comical, but at the same time true to life.

"THE MISSOURI GIRL" will be at the Klemme Opera House on Tuesday March 23. Admission 25 and 50 cents. Seats now ready at State Bank.

AVERY CENTER

L. J Brugman was a Belmond caller one day last week.

Dave Christe of Alberta, Canada, who has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. Bachman returned to Belmond, Tuesday.

School opened Monday at dist. No. 2, after a two weeks vacation.

Mae Tracy from Belmond visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Brugman, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Wilson are visiting at the Sheerwood and Griggs home at present.

Robert Rhodes returned from Eagle Bend, Minnesota. Saturday.

Toney Knipp was a Belmond caller, Wednesday.

Jack Wamsley was a caller at the A. Reikens home, Sunday p. m.

Mr. Brugman of Davenport, visited a few days last week at the home of his son, Lawrence.

Mable Wilkins spent Sunday at the home of her parents.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, praire lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Swoyersville, Pa.—Justice of the peace Henry Miller, of this place, was so angry at the defiant and unrepentant attitude of a wife beater on trial before him that he peeled his coat and sailed into the defendant. When court adjourned the wife beater was so battered that his best friend would not recognize him. Also he was humble and repentant.

Fifield, Wis.--Kept alive for two days by association with two bear cubs and their mother. Baby Ball, the two-year-old son of a settler north of here, was found late at night recently, asleep in the underbrush and, though starving, was not suffering from exposure The searchers saw the signs near where the child was found, and old woodsmen declared that the babe was kept alive by sleeping with cubs and their mother. All that the child can say is: "Big doggie play; baby hungry"

Cincinnati, O—The Methodist Association has formed a secret body of 100 men, who will report to parents and employes the names of all young persons attending dances, theatres, etc. thought to be improper. The investigators are volunteers. They will report, also, all other law violations they discover.

Fort Smith, Ark.—This state's brand-new prohibition law is already a dead letter here. Because the saloonists have secured Federal, State and county licenses, but under the new prohibition law can not be granted city licenses, it was agreed at a conference that they shall be fined by the city $4 a day, payable every ten days. The new prohibition law forbids the granting of any more saloon licenses. Before it was signed Fort Smith saloonists had secured all their licenses save those from the city. Mayor Read, in police court, told the saloonists that although he is a prohibitionist, he did not believe the city had a moral right to close the saloons under existing conditions.

MASON CITY AUTO SHOW

The Automobile Show to be held at the new Armory in Mason City, Iowa, March 25-26-27 is proving to be of such proportions as to exceed even the most sanguine expectations of the Show Committee. Applications for space have been received from Mason City dealers for fifty cars, besides many applications from out of town dealers. As the show is put on by local dealers and they are already short of space it is impossible for the Show Committee to admit outside exhibits of automobiles.

Among the cars to be shown are the Cadillac, Buick, Overland, Hudson Ford, Dodge, Lipper-Stewart, Reo, Chalmers, Studebaker, International, Sphinx, Case, Paige, Apperson, Saxon, Jefferson, Chevrolet, Hupmobile, Haynes, Imperial and Wilcox. Several stripped chassis will be on exhibition and these will prove to be of educational interest to visitors.

Music will be furnished by Gates Orchestra and on Thursday night, March 25th, a special musical program will be given by the 56th Regimental Band assisted by M. H. Tournier, vocal soloist.

Friday evening, March 26th, at the Cecil Theatre the famous Potash & Perlmutter productions will be given. Out of town visitors may go to Mason City in the morning, attend the Automobile Show Friday afternoon and see the Potash & Perlmutter performance in the evening. Special trains have been arranged for on several railroads to return after the theatre.

GOODELL

Ed Cashman of Hayfield spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Hebink from Lake Mills, came Wednesday, to teach the Fred Chase school.

A new girl baby arrived at the Galbraith home Tuesday, and one at the Brenner home, Sunday.

Joe Heginger has purchased the Dan Brock's house in the south part of town.

Mrs. Ralph Blank and children visited relatives in Klemme, Monday.

Val Jostes from Klemme was here on business, Friday.

Miss Ina Abrahtiel returned from Minneapolis, Wednesday, where she visited her brother Walter a few days.

Miss Vida Houghton and little sister, Daphne, visited friends in Garner, Saturday.

Mrs. John Savogue entertained the Ladies Aid, Wednesday. An enjoyable time was had by all.

¶ Statistics for 1913 show a property loss by fire in the United States of $229,000,000, and on this loss only $180,000,000 in insurance was paid, leaving the difference of $49,000,000 a total loss to the owners of property.

¶ Even if you don't own your home, your belongings contained therein represent an asset too valuable to be unprotected from loss by fire. The rates are so low that everyone can afford to obviate the risk. Ask for them. Do your banking with us.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us Demonstrate Our Ability To Serve You Promptly And Satisfactorily In The Matter Of Your Supply Of Lumber You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT As We Sell the Best That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

The Klemme Times

AND THIS GREAT FAMILY GROUP

Only $1.25 for 1 Year

"THE GREAT FAMILY GROUP" which consists of these three well-known magazines—all one full year. Value of magazines alone, $1.65. Also any one McCall Pattern FREE.

People's Popular Monthly (Publishes Monthly—Size 8x11) 32 big pages of thrilling stories and timely articles for every-day people. Special departments: The Helping Hand Exchange, Woman's Wardrobe, Boys and Girls, and Country Life. A Whole Year's Reading for the Whole Family

HOME LIFE (Publishes Monthly—Size 8x11)

McCALL'S MAGAZINE (Publishes Monthly—Size 8x11) The Fashion Authority among home magazines. A Pattern Free in every issue. Every month, that means McCall's Magazine will bring you 12 Free Patterns, just enough for one member of the family.

FREE

This unusual money-saving offer open to old and new subscribers

Act Promptly—Write or Call at This Office—It's Too Good to Miss

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

Khaki the color which will render our soldiers so difficult to see, was discovered by a happy accident. The British troops in India wore a cotton uniform which, when it was new was khaki in color, but after a visit to the laundry was indescribable. A Manchester business man discussing this effect remarked casually that a fortune awaited the man who could find a khaki dye that neither sun, soap nor soda would fade. A young officer heard the remark, hired a skilled native dyer and began the search. Years passed in fruitless experiments, till one day, passing over a heap of rags, relics of their failures, her gathered upon the piece which was still khaki, though the laundry had worked its will. But it had proved not to special treatment so far as they knew enough that it had fallen into a mixing dish and the chemicals in the dye had combined to produce that famous khaki color which makes our soldiers invisible and turned the Manchester man a millionaire.

Although the muscles which affect the action of the jaws are especially under the control of the brain, the chattering of the teeth is really a spasm caused by fear and all spasms act independent of the will. The muscles which operate the jaw act in a series of involuntary little contractions which pull the jaw up and permit it to fall of its own weight. This action is quick and the chattering occurs from frequent repetition. Cold has a similar effect on the jaw muscles to that which some persons have in causing spasms of action in other parts of the body.

The trade in human hair is a big industry. Italians easily take the lead in this traffic the main source of their supply being obtained from the peasant women of Italy Dalmatia and Switzerland. Two crops of hair a year and looking none the worse for the loss, is not extraordinary among these peasant women. Half the hair at the back of the head is shorn off the remaining half being drawn over the exposed part and dressed in such a manner as only to be detected on very close scrutiny and by those experienced in the trade.

Lieut Gen Sir James Wolfe Murray, the new chief of the British imperial general staff, was appointed last March to succeed Lieutenant General Hart in the command of the imperial troops in South Africa, with the supernumerary rank of full general. He had been appointed general officer commander-in-chief, Scottish command, in December 1917. He is 61 years of age.

The National Academy of Sciences a body of about 100 prominent men who give expert advice to the federal government on scientific matters has begun the issue of a regular organ called the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. It is a monthly magazine and the first number was dated January, 1915.

Ivory carving is an important industry in India. The craftsmen prefer to use African ivory than the native produce, as the African ivory is closer in grain and not so liable to turn yellow and appears to be superior in many ways. This is believed to be due to the better food of the African elephant.

Trees planted along the main streets of a Massachusetts city failed to show any growth for two successive years. Then some of them were dug up to be transplanted and it was found that the trees had been planted just as they came from the nursery, with the roots all bunched together and wrapped in burlap.

Star photography is one of the most tedious operations known. In some cases the exposure of the plate must last for several hours. During all this time both the plate and telescope must be moved so that the image of the star will be stationary on the plate.

The president of China has issued a decree to authorizing the establishment of a school to teach conservancy methods, and setting aside for this purpose a part of the revenue obtained from the provisions of Chili Shantung, Chekiang and Kiangsu.

The entire reserve army of the United States consists of only 16 men. Their names are Williams, Anderson Neal, Sturm, Klaif, Schettino, Caramali Sohn Card, Borkin, Kylen, Boriskin Neugert Kelly, Schweigert and Vegas.

An ingenious method of making use of a shot as a rivet is described in an English paper. It is said to be often more satisfactory for mending small holes than soldering and more quickly accomplished.

The literature of Esperanto has increased from 29 books in 1889 to 2,500 in 1914, and during the last three or four years, six full length original novels have been published in the language.

To guard against tree repair fakirs, or quack tree surgeons, the Massachusetts Forestry association will inspect the shade trees belonging to its members, free of charge.

Another invasion which is causing trouble in France, is that of hordes of wild boars, which have appeared along the eastern frontier from the German forests.

New Zealand has an island nearly three miles in circumference, which is almost entirely composed of sulphur mixed with gypsum and a few other minerals.

Electric lines in Porto Rico are obstructed at times by a parasitic plant that settles on and grows on the wires, obtaining its nourishment from the air.

The United States again exceeded previous records for petroleum production last year, the government estimate being 292,000,000 barrels.

The introduction of electricity for power in the South African gold mines has reduced the amount of tuberculosis among the miners.

Paris will erect two plants for the purification of drinking water with ozone, each with a capacity of 4,900,000 gallons a day.

Despite an increase in the use of electricity, 25 factories in the United States are kept busy making incandescent gas mantles.

Both fine lace and strong ropes are made from the Siberian nettle. In Sweden nettles are cultivated for cattle fodder.

There are about 12,000,000 acres of tillable lands in the Philippines, of which only about 7,500,000 acres are cultivated.

Harness has been invented to permit a litter with a wounded man being carried on each side of a horse.

KENYON SAYS NATION IS TOO EXTRAVAGANT; HIT AT "LAME DUCKS"

Junior Senator Thinks People Should Not Class "Pork" With Service.

Des Moines, Ia., March 13.—Senator Kenyon, stopping in Des Moines last night on his way to Grinnell, condemned the extravagance of the congress that has just adjourned after voting a total of $2,250,000,000. He talked about other things, too—national politics, war in Europe, the Mexican situation—but he emphasized his belief that it is time for the United States to begin tightening up the purse strings.

"What are the issues of the immediate future going to be?" the reporter had asked the junior Iowa senator.

"There is bound to be an issue on the wasteful extravagance of government," he said. "The government is going into all kinds of things without consideration. Congress voted a $1,000,000,000 at the close of the session without anything like satisfactory reasons for all of it.

"There was even in the agricultural bill an appropriation for the study of the disease of wild ducks in the Salt valley of Utah. I introduced an amendment that we study the 'lame ducks' up Salt creek.

"We are the only advanced nation in the world that has not a budget system, and we've got to adopt it or we'll go on the rocks financially. Taft tried to get it, but didn't succeed. I introduced a resolution for a commission on the expeditures, but couldn't get any attention for it.

"The appropriations of the last congress amounted to $2,250,000,000. There were provisions for creeks and dusty rivers, and I don't know what all.

"The fault is really with the people. Each community is trying to get something. We need some form of national representation that would not be local. The congressman who comes home with a building or something of that sort that is not needed ought to be reproved instead of praised. There is too much local jealousy in our national matters. In much the same way there is too much partisanship in our politics. We need less of this thing of saying a man's idea is no good because he's on the other side of the political fence. The people are all right when they think about things though."

COMMISSION BACKERS SECURE FURTHER DELAY

Des Moines, Ia., March 13.—The road law struggle went over to next Wednesday afternoon for settlement, following a bitter parliamentary fight in the house yesterday afternoon. The whole question was deferred, including the Johnston bill and the Barry substitute, without a roll call being reached on a single point at issue. The measure was made a special order for Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Kopp, of Henry, floor leader for the insurgents, signaled the withdrawal of his forces just at the moment that the question was to go to a vote, with the announcement he would accept next Wednesday afternoon to settle the fight. He evidently had not consulted his lieutenants in making the move and there was a hurried rush to the center aisle of the floor for a conference and protests.

While the conference was in progress the commission backers rushed through the necessary motions for the Wednesday special order. Ball, of Jefferson, and Pitt, of Harrison, insurgent chieftains, raced up and down the aisle demanding a roll call, but were denied recognition for the reason they were not at their seats.

The final motion went through with scarcely a dissenting vote while Ball shouted vigorously to his unheeding followers to vote "no."

ALIENATION SUIT ASSIGNED FOR HEARING AT FREMONT

Sidney, Ia., March 13.—One sensational case to be tried here when the petit jury is summoned March 17 is Guy Morse against W. T. Summers. Morse sues Summers for damages in the amount of $5,000 for alienating his wife's affections.

The petition recites that Morse was married to Mary Ethel Bare on December 17, 1908, and mutual love and affection and respect held sway between them until January 1914, when the defendant Summers began paying attentions to Mrs. Morse and deliberately and premeditatedly cultivated and caused to grow between himself and Mrs. Morse a degree of intimacy that gave him control of her actions.

He took her on auto rides by day and by night with a deliberately wicked and depraved purpose, thereby alienating her affections from the plaintiff and causing her to desert him and to leave him the care of their two little children, 5 and 2 years old, and deprive him of her companship, society and assistance.

CHEROKEE BUSINESS MEN ARE PLANNING BANQUET

Cherokee, Ia., March 13.—The Commercial club directors are arranging for a banquet to be held at the armory about March 18. The date is contingent upon securing Secretary Holmes, of the Sioux City Commercial club, for an address, and may be a day earlier or later.

The object is to interest outsiders and induce new members to join. Important problems such as the city hospital, park oiling unpaved streets, location of the new school building, construction of flats and the purchase of an acreage to be platted and sold will be discussed.

L. R. Adsit, W. P. McCulla, Harry Lamoreux and Frank Brunson have charge of the sale of tickets. Harry Lamoreux, Frank Colby and J. K. Rice will attend to the entertainments of the evening and L. A. Wescott, W. B. Wright and W. L. E. Appleyard are the men on the decorating committee.

DES MOINES—Representative Durant is author of a bill containing a new subject matter and one that will meet with general approval in cities. He proposes to prohibit cripples soliciting for charity or alms on the public highways of the state. Des Moines, especially, is infested with cripples seeking charity under the guise of selling lead pencils.

WOULD PROVIDE AID FOR COUNTY AND DISTRICT FAIRS

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—The house passed the Taylor bill for additional state aid, to county and district fairs without serious opposition on the floor. As sent to the senate for consideration the measure provides that all county and district fair associations shall be paid out of the state treasury 60 per cent of the first $1,000 premium and 20 per cent thereafter, with the maximum fixed at $800.

Not more than a half dozen fairs in the state will receive the maximum aid, according to the author of the bill.

IOWA EXPO BUILDING FORMALLY OPENED AT BRILLIANT FUNCTION

W. W. Marsh Boosts 'Frisco as Peace Conference City —Many Speeches.

Exposition Grounds, San Francisco, Cal., March 12.—The dedicatory exercises of Iowa's exposition building were held yesterday. W. W. Marsh, Iowa commissioner, boosted San Francisco as the city to hold the world's peace conference. He declared that San Francisco is the best fitted city in the universe to hold such a session. "If in the providence of God, this war is to cease, then San Francisco is the place where the peace conference should be held because no city in the world is better fitted to teach the example that this magnificent city of yours can teach," he said.

The Iowa program was a varied one. The exercises opened with speeches, and then the building was thrown open to visitors. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Marsh, of Waterloo, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Black, of Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cass, of Waterloo; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haskell, of Cedar Rapids, Miss Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilson, of Clinton, Miss Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth Clum, of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Robsen, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brunk, of Berkeley.

Phil T. Clay, exposition director representing President Moore, paid high tribute to Iowa and recalled the generous spirit displayed by Iowans toward California in 1906. He mentioned that George W. Wilson arrived with the first train of provisions for suffering San Francisco residents.

Col. John P. Irish, of Iowa, dwelt upon the building of the Panama canal. "California," said Colonel Irish, "is a very fair land. God made California what she is. However, the same cannot be said of Iowa. It is the efforts of man that has made Iowa the great state she is today."

WANDERING COWS GET NEIGHBORS INTO TROUBLE

Boone, Ia., March 12.—A very important lawsuit is on trial in the district court here in which $1.66 is involved.

Last summer five cows belonging to John Brady, near here, entered the field of his neighbor, M. H. Hannigan, and benevolently assimilated some corn. Hannigan discovered the cattle and drove them into his own barnyard, where they remained a day or so.

Brady soon charged Hannigan with cruelty to animals in not milking the cows, and had him brought into the justice court, where Hannigan proved he had milked them and was found not guilty.

In retaliation Hannigan brought suit against Brady for $1.66 in payment for the corn the five cows ate while in his field. And this is to be tried this week.

Hannigan however, was today fined $5 for carrying concealed weapons as charged by Brady when the latter went to the former's barnyard to get his stock.

APPROPRIATION BILLS ARE RUNNING HIGH

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—Appropriations of the Thirty-sixth general assembly will run high unless the ax is wielded freely before the session is over, judging from a preliminary report of the house committee on appropriations filed with the house. It shows that to date bills calling for straight appropriations totaling $3,066,668.90 have been introduced. This sum includes two bills by Barry, of Linn, for $375,000 each that really belong to the credit of mileage taxes. They are for buildings under the state board of control and the state educational institutions. These sums are now raised by a millage tax and Representative Barry is attempting to have them made straight appropriations.

Most of the bills included in the above total are still in committees. Several have been passed, including $75,000 for the San Francisco exposition, $52,000 for payment of hoof and mouth losses, $15,000 to assist in the fight against freight rates and a few smaller ones.

CAN HIRE SCHOOL HEAD FOR TERM OF YEARS

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—An important change in the school laws of the state require only the signature of Governor Clarke. The senate has passed the bill by Representative Cochrane, of Corning, to allow cities to hire their school superintendents for a period of years. At present they must be hired for one year only. Arguments used were that teaching as a profession should have higher standards. It was pointed out that superintendents of schools should become as much a part of a community as any professional man. When hired for a term of years they are given the opportunity to buy a home and settle down with the assurance of staying awhile.

HELD TO DISTRICT COURT FOR ISSUING BAD CHECK

Estherville, Ia., March 12.—O. F. Herald giving Minneapolis as his home, was given a preliminary hearing here yesterday before Justice C. G. Doolittle and bound over to the district court on fraud charges. He cashed a small check here which was dishonored by the drawee bank, and tried to dodge board payments here and at Sheldon. Herald was arrested at Primghar. It is claimed he has been concerned in extensive operations in Iowa and Minnesota.

SENATE APPROVES BILL TO REORGANIZE IOWA GUARD

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—Reorganization of the Iowa militia as recommended by Adjt. Gen. Guy E. Logan was approved by the Iowa senate yesterday. This was one of nine important measures which went through. Other bills passed provided for: Raising the railroad commissioners' salary from $2,200 to $3,000 a year; organization of districts for paving of main traveled roads entering cities; giving the railroad commission power to eliminate dangerous grade crossings, an increase in the maximum tax to be permitted in consolidated school districts, to produce $60 per pupil.

COUNTIES SEEKING THIRD TRIAL IN DAMAGE CASE

Shenandoah, Ia., March 11.—A motion for a new trial is to be filed by Page and Fremont counties in the Johnson bridge case, and if this is denied it will be appealed to a higher court.

A verdict for $10,305.71 was given Mrs. Ella Johnson at Glenwood last week for the death of her husband, George Johnson, who was killed when his engine went through a bridge on the county line.

At the first trial Mrs. Johnson was awarded $19,000. The counties called for a new trial and this time the amount was cut down about $9,000.

"NEXT SESSION" WILL HAVE CHANCE TO CUT ON EXTRA HELP ROLL

Tentative Plans So Far Dispose of 52 Employes, With Many Others Pending.

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—The next legislative session can secure the benefits of the reform discoveries made at the present session—if it so desires. Of course the next session can do as it pleases on this point, just as this one has done. In spite of the official finding of superfluous help in the present assembly it is quite apparent that the members are too busy to put any reforms into effect which will apply to the present force.

In arranging the tentative plan for reduction of the number of employes of the general assembly, the retrenchment and reform committee has so far eliminated 52 persons, of whom 21 are from the house and 31 from the senate. The bill is not yet completed. It is expected that the final draft will show still further economies.

On behalf of the house, the representatives on the committee yesterday submitted the following list of employes necessary for the proper dispatch of the business of that branch of the legislature: Chief clerk, assistant clerk, who shall be an expert stenographer, reading clerk, two journal clerks, enrolling clerk, file clerk, bill clerk, sergeant at arms, seven pages, one telephone page, four janitors, one chief stenographer and 35 committee clerks, all of whom shall be stenographers, one stenographer and a page for the speaker of the house.

This plan shows a reduction of 21 employes. It abolishes the position of chief doorkeeper and gives the sergeant at arms the authority over the assistant doorkeepers, the janitors and pages. It also does away with the chief janitor and chief page. Employes eliminated on the house list are: One file clerk, one bill clerk, chief doorkeeper, seven assistant doorkeepers, five pages, one janitor, four committee clerks, one mail carrier.

On the senate side the tentative plan is to drop 31 employes. The persons necessary to carry on the business of the senate, according to the proposal of Senator Francis to the retrenchment and reform committee, follow: Six doorkeepers, seven pages, four janitors, one chief and 25 stenographers, one sergeant at arms.

INCOME TAX EVADERS ARE COURTING DANGER

Dubuque, Ia., March 12.—That the receipts from the income tax will be largely increased this year over last year is the declaration of Collector of Internal Revenue Louis Murphy. The internal revenue office gives two principal reasons why the payments made in 1914 were disappointing falling below the estimates of the reasury department officials. In Mr. Murphy's opinion. One reason is that the law covered only 10 months of the year 1913 and the other was the ignorance of taxpayers regarding their duty to make return of income and the deduction permitted them under the law. In a statement of Iowa conditions, the collector says:

"Many persons subject to the income tax law made no return of income in 1913 because they did not understand their obligations or because they thought possibly to evade the law. Several hundred persons in Iowa have found out to their sorrow that federal law means what it says and is made to be enforced. Government inspectors turn up scores of taxpayers in this district who evaded the law. With such persons the government does not deal gently and besides collecting the tax a heavy penalty is fixed and where there is evidence of fraud such actions invoke the criminal feature of the act."

FLOOR FIGHT INDICATED ON SCHOOL TREASURERS

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.— No one is disobeying the law like the school treasurers," was one of the declarations made by Representative Peterson yesterday in the course of an attack in a meeting of the schools committee upon the present system of handling school funds. The Cedar county man declared that at present contests for the school treasurership resolve themselves into fights between banks. As a banker himself he told of abuses practiced by the treasurers in the handling of funds.

The committee had under consideration a bill to do away with the office of school treasurer and give to the county treasurer the duty of handling school funds. Durant, of Hancock, and others objected to this plan on the grounds that it would still leave school funds the subject of political controversy. In the end the opponents of the bill won and had the bill recommended for indefinite postponement. Oakley, of Union, author of the bill announced afterward that a minority report for passage would be filed. He predicted the bill would win on the floor of the house.

BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY FOR BANK REGULATION

Des Moines, Ia., March 12.—Two important measures, one designed to regulate private banks, the other to provide for the incorporation of state farm mortgage banks were recommended for passage yesterday by the house banking committee.

The private banking bill was introduced in the house by Anderson, of Montgomery, and in the senate by Jones, of Villisca. It seeks to prevent unworthy persons from engaging or continuing in the business of private banking. These banks are required to secure a permit from the state auditor.

In order to do so they are forced to furnish a statement to the auditor showing certain things which the authors of the bill say are reasonable and necessary for him to know before he can intelligently grant a permit. The result of the examination may be published at the option of the bank.

The measures further provide that the auditor shall appoint one examiner at a salary of $1,800 a year to examine private banks.

The state farm mortgage bank bill was presented in the house by Smith and in the senate by Voorhees. It provides that corporations may be formed by not less than 10 persons to engage in the business, providing the paid up capital shall be not less than $50,000.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT MADE ISSUE AT SPENCER

Spencer, Ia., March 10.—The election of school directors here centered on the question of retaining the present superintendent, and those favoring a change were in the decisive majority. For the two-year terms, M. E. DeWolf and L. B. Peso, favoring a change, received 416 and 404 votes, respectively, as against 213 and 219 votes for their opponents, C. C. Hastings and J. A. Redfield. For unexpired terms A. W. Chamberlain, favoring a change, received 452 votes to 151 for J. M. Sokol.

FARR PRESENTS BILL TO QUARANTINE ALL TUBERCULOSIS CASES

Says Indigents Now Restricted, But Wealthy Victims Not Thus Treated.

Des Moines, Ia., March 11.—Farr, of Woodbury, has prepared a bill to be introduced in the senate providing for the quarantine of persons afflicted with tuberculosis. Embodied in the measure will be a provision for the construction of district hospitals to care for white plague suffers.

Before the senate board of control committee Senator Farr condemned the law passed by the Thirty-third general assembly giving counties authority to construct hospitals for tubercular patients. He said its provisions were not clear and that several counties of the state desiring to build such hospitals had refrained from doing so because of their inability to determine what authority was granted them by the law.

"If tuberculosis is a contagious and infectious disease, and I am reliably informed that it is, there is no reason why persons afflicted with it should not be quarantined," the senator said.

He pointed out to the board of control committee that indigent persons are now practically quarantined, but that wealthy people having tuberculosis are permitted to go about as they please.

ICE CREAM MEN OBJECT TO HOMOGENIZED LABEL

Des Moines, Ia., March 11.—Ice cream manufacturers and the state dairy and food department clashed at a hearing before the joint committee on food and dairy yesterday afternoon. The controversy arose over the Crist bill which among other things, provides for a $10 license fee for homogenizers and requires that ice cream made from homogenized cream be so labeled.

J. W. Schunk, of Sioux City, general manager of the Hanford Produce company, Guy Brewer, representatitive of a large Des Moines dairy and ice cream company, and others spoke against the bill.

Mr. Schunk said that his company does business in four states, and that a label law here would require special containers in Iowa, when none is required in any of the other states. The label, too, he said, would indicate that homogenized cream was an inferior product while in fact it is a better product than the one made from sweet cream. Homogenized cream is made of sweet butter and skimmed milk through the use of high temperatures and high pressure machines.

BETTER BUSINESS METHODS FOR STATE INSTITUTIONS

Des Moines, Ia., March 11.—Sentiment in favor of a more strict accounting of moneys spent by the various state institutions and departments is gaining ground in the Iowa legislature. The house committee on judiciary has reported out for passage the bill by Representative Ring, of Linn county, which provides for the budget system of allowing appropriations.

As it is now each state department presents its claims for money individually. They are reported one at a time or in groups. As a result the last few days of the session sees appropriation bills calling for hundreds of thousands of dollars, which are voted without half of the assembly knowing what they are intended for.

Under the Ring bill all departments of state are required to file with the state auditor by November 1 a statement of the moneys received, amount expended and balance on hand, also the estimate of what is needed for the next biennial. The estimates and reports will be placed before the governor. He will be supposed to examine them and to recommend what be allowed each department in his message to the general assembly at the beginning of the session.

NO POISON FOUND IN THAYER WOMAN'S STOMACH

Creston, Ia., March 11.—Coroner A. N. Keys announces that the finding of the state chemist at Des Moines clears all suspected persons at Thayer of having been instrumental in the death of Mrs. Sarah Emery, of that place, no trace of poison being found in the stomach of the woman.

Mrs. Emery died suddenly recently, after having taken some medicine and immediately following her burial there were rumors that the woman had been poisoned and these rumors finally took form and upon request Judge Campbell ordered an investigation.

WORK TO BE RESUMED ON DUBUQUE HIGHWAY

Dubuque, Ia., March 11.—Work on the new Hawkeye highway from Dubuque to Dyersville, operations on which on which were suspended last fall after differences of opinion regarding plans between the government and state engineers, which difficulty has since been amicably adjusted, will be resumed immediately. Chief Engineer Burrell, of the Washington department, arrived in Dubuque recently and contracts will be let on Wednesday, March 31.

The improvement, which promises to transform the roadway into one of the finest pieces of highway in the state, will cost more than $100,000, the federal government providing $30,000 and the county $60,000. Private individuals and the Illinois Central railway will make up the balance.

WILL MAKE NO CHANGE IN IOWA DIVORCE LAWS

Des Moines, Ia., March 11.—By unanimous agreement, the house judiciary committee decided to allow the divorce law of Iowa to stand as it is.

Chairman Ring laid before the committee the letter and opinion of Judge Hubert Utterback, of Polk county, in which it was pointed out that the law does not prevent the bringing of divorce action between parties who are residents of Iowa where personal service of the papers is secured, even though they have lived in the state less than a year.

It was immediately pointed out by lawyers on the committee that the divorce law has been that way in Iowa for years, and no general abuses have resulted.

LIBEL SUIT RESULTS FROM M. B. A. TROUBLES

Mason City, Ia., March 9.—George Shillinglaw asks balm to the amount of $20,000 as a sooth for injured reputation. James Hughes, former president of the insurgent M. B. A. force, 10 members who signed the statement, and the M. B. A. itself, are made defendants in the action. It all came out of the statement issued and signed by the insurgent body who after making an examination of the records of the head office completely exhonerated the order. Shillinglaw was one of the accountants employed by the insurgents and claims that their report reflects on him.

WILSON MAY ASK AN APOLOGY FROM GERMAN EMPERO

U. S. Government Expected to Demand Expression of Regret From Germany and Pay. For Freighter Frye.

PROMPT ACTION EXPECTE

President and Cabinet Considering Testimony of Captain and Crew of American Ship

Washington, March [illegible] story of how the American [illegible] sel, William P. Frye was [illegible] south Atlantic with her cargo [illegible] by the German commerce raider Prinz Eitel Friederich, was offi[illegible] fore the American gover[illegible] by the Frye's commander, Capt. H[illegible] Kiehne.

Upon Captain Kiehne's [illegible] statement, made before [illegible] ficials the United States w[illegible] course which probably will [illegible] mand for an expression of regret [illegible] Germany and payment for [illegible] the ship and cargo. Captain Kie[illegible] with Assistant Secretary Peters of [illegible] treasury department went to the [illegible] department, where he was received [illegible] Secretary Bryan and then went [illegible] conference with Counsellor Lansing, [illegible] which the members of the advisory [illegible] neutrality board and representatives [illegible] the owners of the Frye were present.

Count Bernstorff, German ambassador, in discussing with the state department officials today the sinking of the American ship, William P. Frye, defended the action of Captain Thierichens, of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friederich, contending that he acted under the Declaration of London, which was the only guide he had as to disposition of prizes.

Confers With Boy-ed.

The ambassador before going to the state department, conferred with Captain Boy-ed, naval attache of the embassy, who returned yesterday from Newport News.

Count Bernstorff did not present any note to the state department and said he had received no instructions from his government. He said he called to discuss the question informally.

In defending the action of Commander Thierichens, the ambassador contended that when the Frye left Tsing Tau at the outbreak of the war last August, he had nothing to forbid save the declaration of London in deciding what to do with vessels he might seize. For that reason the ambassador argued, he had a right to sink the Frye as its cargo of wheat was consigned "to order" and destined to a fortified port of the enemy. So long as there was no port into which he could take his prize, he had a right, the ambassador contended, to destroy not only the cargo, but the vessel itself. Furthermore, the ambassador argued that the commander of the Prinz Eitel when he sank the Frye did not know that a German prize court on August 3 had held that the mere fact that a merchant ship was bound for an enemy port was not sufficient proof that her cargo was destined for the enemy.

The case of the Frye, however the ambassador said, would have to be settled in accordance with international law, because of the present status of the declaration of London.

"We do not intend," he said, "to disregard any of the 'judicial niceties' of the case."

The next step in the case cannot be taken until the question of the destination of the Frye's cargo is determined and the state department will await action on that point by her owners, who must present certain proof on which the government will predicate its action.

Frye Captain's Story.

Captain Kiehne was questioned at length. The American captain said he submitted willingly to search and assured the German he had no cargo but wheat.

The German officer examined the ship's papers carefully, and then the cargo was ordered thrown overboard. While that was being done, the Eitel went away for another prize, returning to the Frye after several hours and took off the American skipper and his crew. The Eitel's captain then sunk the Frye, fearing a long delay in which he considered the path of hostile cruisers, might subject his own ship to danger.

Captain Kiehne said that he did not know, while en route to Queenstown that the cargo of wheat had been sold, nor did the German commander. The cargo was shipped "to order" and the vessel was to stop at three British ports, one of which was fortified.

While no vessels were sunk nor was any chase made for enemy ships when the Americans were aboard the Eitel, Captain Kiehne said the German commander made no effort for more than a month to land his neutral passengers in a safe port. Undoubtedly they may be one of the chief points of future representations by the United States because it is held the Americans were subjected to unnecessary risks. W. Sewall, of Bath, Me., one of the owners of the Frye, was asked if he knew anything of the ownership of the cargo and he declared, it was said, that he had no financial interest in the sale, the cargo or knowledge of to whom it would be sold.

Officials, after listening to the statement of Captain Kiehne, took the view that the American case was a strong one and when all the facts were presented to Germany restitution would be made.

TWO MEN OF FRYE CREW HELD BY EITEL CAPTA

Newport News, March 13.—Washington officials have been asked by customs authorities here to consider the case of two of the crew of the Frye, who remain on the Prinz Eitel. It has developed that the two men were at first were said to have enlisted in the German navy, have been detailed by order of Commander Thierichens on the ground that they were German citizens and still subject to service under German arms.

The men detained are Charles Frye and Robert Rogge. Captain Kiehne of the Frye, told officials here he did not believe they were naturalized American citizens and that they had not protested to him when detained.

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

sick headache, bad breath, Sour Stomach and constipation.

t a 10-cent box now.

o odds how bad your liver, stomach bowels; how much your head s, how miserable and uncomfort- you are from constipation, indiges- biliousness and sluggish bowels u always get the desired results Cascarets.

on't let your stomach, liver and els make you miserable. Take carets to-night; put an end to the ache, biliousness, dizziness, nerv- ess, sick, sour, gassy stomach, tache and all other distress; nse your inside organs of all the gases and constipated matter ch is producing the misery.

10-cent box means health, happi- and a clear head for months. more days of gloom and distress ou will take a Cascaret now and n. All stores sell Cascarets. Don't et the children—their little in- s need a cleansing, too. Adv.

Cause and Result.

Our dairyman's cows look very de- ed."

Maybe that is why our milk is so e."

HE PROFESSOR'S STATEMENT.

rof. Aug. F. W. Schmitz, Thomas, a., writes: "I was troubled with ache for about twenty-five years. en told I had Bright's Disease in its last stages, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was somewhat re- lieved and I stopped the treatment. In the spring of the next year I had another at- tack. I went for d's Kidney Pills and they relieved again. I used three boxes. That ow three years ago and my Back- e has not returned in its severity, by using another two boxes a lit- later on, the pain left altogether I have had no trouble since. You use my statement. I recommend d's Kidney Pills when and wher- I can." Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. box at your dealer or Dodd's Medi- Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Prof. Schmitz.

His Practice.

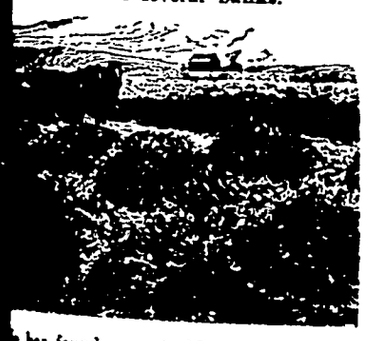
Dora's young man is a lawyer."

suppose that is why he is so suc ful in staying proceedings."

HE COLONEL'S GOLD MINE

t in Gregory County, South Dakota Colonel Johnson, the famed Alfalfa of that great section.

bout thirty years ago he left Wisconsin that domain. All he had was willing s, a clear brain and a bright vision. y he is the owner of thousands of , president of several banks.



has found a veritable gold mine in housand-acre Alfalfa field, and what is particular interest to you and me is his first Alfalfa Seed, twenty-five s ago or more, was purchased from the A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis. e Colonel says: "The best paying crop , or grass, or pasture food is Alfalfa. ranks everything in money value." er's Alfalfa is good on your own , for three to five tons of rich hay acre, and with the aid of "Nitragen" my catalog) its growth is absolutely ain.

For 10c in Postage

e gladly mail our Catalog mple package of Ten Fa- Farm Seeds, including ts, "The Cereal Wonder;" ermated White Bonanza "The Prize Winner;" Bil- Dollar Grass; Teosinte, Silo Filler, Alfalfa, etc., d we will mail you our Catalog and six generous ages of Early Cabbage, , Cucumber, Lettuce, , Onion—furnishing lots lots of juicy delicious tables during the early and Summer.

Or Send 12c

nd to John A. Salzer Co., Box 706, La sse, Wis., twenty cents ceive both above collec- and their big catalog.

Contrary Commendation.

My dear, I wanted to please you, here is some very rare steak."

Well done!"

Important to Mothers

xamine carefully every bottle of STORIA, a safe and sure remedy for nts and children, and see that it ears the ature of Chas. H. Fletcher

For Over 30 Years.

ldren Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

e trouble with the oldest inhabi is that he remembers too many dents of his boyhood days that er happened.

ZAPATA WILL PUNISH SLAYERS OF M'MANUS

Bryan Says He Regards Mexican Situation as Being Much Improved

Washington March 13. Mexico City was reported quiet today and officials here expected all conditions to improve with the occupation of the Zapata forces. Secretary Bryan said

"I think we are in pretty good shape Carranza has promised to permit people leaving the capital to travel over the portion of the railroad he controls while the Zapata [illegible] contained there has been [illegible] to admit food supplies

The white roebuck from Gen Obregon commanding the Carranza force which evacuated [illegible] it is not known here Some importance is attached to it by officials because of the bearing it will have on Carranza's forces and his ability to maintain himself at Vera Cruz

No further reports have been received to-day on the killing of John R McManus by Zapata troops With the assurances from the Zapata authorities that the guilty men would be punished officials awaited the results of the detailed inquiry and reports from the Zapata authorities [illegible] for indemnity

CHARGES PACKERS SEEK PRIVILEGES

Big Beef Concerns Combine to Force Railroads to Grant Rate Concessions, Carriers Declare.

Chicago March [illegible] reports that six or seven [illegible] packing houses had combined to collect from the railroads special advantages in the shipping of fresh meats that the patronage of the packers was shifted from road to road until the advantages were granted and that in consequence the railroads were required to carry packing house products at made rates rates were made today at the Interstate Commerce commission hearing of the Western railroads petition for higher rates

E V Leland of St Louis chairman of the Southwestern Tariff committee made the plea in behalf of the railroads before Commissioner W M Daniels An array of attorneys for the packers from Chicago Kansas City Omaha and Fort Worth Tex was present to oppose the rate increase asked by the railroads which on meats amounts generally to 3½ cents per 100 pounds

"The rates on packing house products always have been too low, considering the character of the traffic the nature of the service demanded and the value of the commodity handled, testified Mr Leland "The traffic is peculiar Other classes of freight are obtained from widely distributed shippers A railroad can get a carload here and a carload there and in all obtain [illegible] tonnage But with the packing house products it is different, for the entire tonnage is controlled by [illegible] seven large packing firms These packers have always demanded and received the highest class of service and the lowest rates They have always maintained the most efficient traffic organization and if any carrier fails to give preferred service the traffic is taken away from it

"Rates on these packing house products are far below what they should be and below rates on other commodities of the same class The traffic requires quick service move in shippers cars of excessive weight It is of a perishable nature and about three tons of ice must be [illegible] cars must be stopped in transit for [illegible] The traffic therefore is of an expensive nature

"The proposed advance of [illegible] cents per 100 pounds could not be reflected in the price of meat to the consumer It amounts to only 1-[illegible] of a cent per pound Packers generally change the price of meat by [illegible] cents a pound at a time or 12½ cents per 100 pounds"

Packing houses were represented by S H Cowan Fort Worth Tex Thomas Creigh of the [illegible] Packing company E J McVann Omaha and W E Lamb and [illegible] Walker, Chicago.

MRS. VANCE TESTIFIES TO RELATIONS WITH KRAUSE

West Point Neb March 13 The morning session of the Vance murder trial was occupied with the testimony of Mrs Hallie Vance wife of the accused She testified to numerous instances of illicit relations with Krause the murdered man that these occurred frequently between August 1913 and September 1914 at West Point at a hotel in Fremont at two hotels in Omaha and at other places that at one Omaha hotel they were registered as "A T Ford and wife" and occupied a room together for five days that such relations occurred once or twice every week that she received $2 per month from Krause regularly She swore Krause urged her to marry him upon her divorce from Vance he [illegible] her through an Omaha detective agency for assistance in procuring testimony sufficient to obtain a divorce his own wife and that they kept up an illicit correspondence with her at all times

Mrs Vance's evidence was in the nature of a complete confession and was given with little emotion The questions of Attorney Cain were direct and searching and brought clear and positive answers

The two little Vance boys Dean and Ray, were seated in court near their father

From the line of examination by the defense it is evident that it will be sought to show that Vance had justification In the afternoon Vance testified in his own behalf His evidence tended to show that when he discovered his wife's unfaithfulness he became temporarily insane He disclaims and denies any knowledge of what he was doing when the shooting was done.

JOSEPH KOZLOVSKY DEAD.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 13 -Joseph Kozlovsky for eight years chief of police and a former member of the city council, died early today of Bright's disease, aged 56 years. He retired as police chief in 1906

The word "radical" as applied to a British political party originated in a speech made by Charles J Fox, in 1797, when [illegible] reforms

NOTED RUSS

M. WITTE.

SEVERE FIGHTING ON BOTH FRONTS

Great Battles Developing Between Germans and Russians In East and Teutons and Britons In West.

The British army to which has been assigned the task of leading the present attack on the western battle front is still attempting to push forward and thus far German efforts to drive it back apparently have failed Today's official report from Berlin says that an effort to recapture Neuve Chappelle made progress for a time, but was abandoned later when the Germans encountered superior forces of British The correspondent of a Paris newspaper telegraphs that the British artillery fire was so accurate that the Germans moved their headquarters from Lille

The German war office states that the new attack in northern Poland has thus far been successful and that the Russians have been compelled to fall back beyond the Bobr river

London, March 15 In the east the battle of Przasnysz now is in its opening stages and in the west the operations around La Bassee, where the Germans are massing troops in an endeavor to regain the ground recently taken by British and Indian contingents, are expected to develop into events of military importance during the coming week

British military writers agree that the recent fighting near La Bassee was the most important in which the British forces have been engaged since Ypres.

There is considerable speculation in England as to what has happened to the Serbian army, concerning which nothing has been heard in weeks The official announcements from Nish ceased some time ago and it is not known what if any operations the Serbian army is engaged in

Disease is rampant throughout Serbia according to special news dispatches, one of which describes this sinister attack as far worse than the first Austrian invasion. The city of Nish is said to be overcrowded with sick and dying Everywhere hospital conditions are piteously inadequate and the country faces devastation worse than war

The German movement in northern Poland is developing rapidly, straining the resources of the Russians to prevent a further advance and the penetration of their fortified line The Russian war office reports that the German advance on Przasnysz, said by Berlin yesterday to have been pushed within two and one-half miles of the city, had been checked. The Germans are bringing in new forces and attempting flanking movements. The Turkish armies in Turkish Armenia, along the Black sea and in northwestern Persia, have sustained further defeats In Armenia, the Russians captured the entire Turkish battery and in Persia the Turks were again compelled to fall back.

FOUR BOYS KILLED.

New York March 13 --The explosion of a large oil tank adjoining the Long Island railroad freight yards in the eastern section of Brooklyn shortly after noon today killed four boys and seriously injured seven other persons Four men employes of the Crew Levick company which owned the tank were reported missing

BRITISH BARK IS SUNK BY RUNAWAY DRESDEN

Valparaiso March 13 The crew of the British bark Conway Castle, sunk by the German cruiser Dresden off Coral (a seaport of Chile) on her way to Liverpool with a cargo of barley was landed here by the Peruvian ship, Larton.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK BY TORPEDO

Auxiliary Bayano Sent Down By German Diver—About 200 Lives Lost—Another Steamer Chased.

London March 15 Another British auxiliary cruiser the Bayano has been sunk by a German torpedo The vessel carried a crew of 218 men of whom only 26 are known to have been rescued

The Belfast correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says the Bayano was torpedoed Thursday morning at 9 o'clock off Corsewall point, Wigtonshire Scotland and the cruiser sank almost immediately Wightonshire is the southwesternmost in Scotland It lies on the north channel which leads into the Irish sea from the Atlantic.

The survivors of the Bayano, who were afloat on a raft were rescued by the Belfast steamer, Balmerino, and the armed merchantman, Tara Another steamer picked up one of the Bayano's lifeboats, which was adrift, and also two of her rafts. The survivors were landed at Ayr In its statement of the disaster the admiralty says

"On the 11th of March wreckage of the Bayano and bodies were discovered, and circumstances point to her having been sunk by an enemy torpedo

Eight officers and 18 men were rescued, but it is feared that the remainder of the crew was lost

The captain of the Belfast steamer, Castlereagh, reports passing, Thursday, a great quantity of wreckage and dead bodies floating in life belts. He attempted to search for possible survivors, but was prevented by the presence of an enemy submarine, which gave chase for 20 minutes"

AGED ATTACHE OF WHITE HOUSE DIES

Washington March 13.—Col. W H. Crook, disbursing officer of the White House, who was President Lincoln's body guard and who has been intimately acquainted with every president since 1869, died today at his home here. He had been sick with pneumonia more than a week.

President Wilson expressed deep regret when informed of Colonel Crook's death. Last January the colonel celebrated his 50th anniversary as an attache of the White House.

Colonel Crook is survived by his mother, who is 96 years old.

SERIOUS BREAD RIOTS SUPPRESSED IN SPAIN

Madrid, (via Paris), March 13.—Serious bread riots occurred yesterday at Jenont, where the mob of women and children, attacked the bakeries. The police were obliged to charge several times before order was restored ot one of your shy little things who afraid to speak out loud. It was a ast help to us because we did not ave to look at the screen at all, ould talk to our wife and look ver the audience and "hear" the ictures at the same time. A gentle- an in front of us bothered quite a it because he kept turning around nd finally he got up and left the heatre. We noticed that it bothered he young lady who was befriending , too, but we assured her that he ad no reference to her. In order to lly thank the young lady, and that here may be no misunderstanding, e will tell her name. She is Miss hewgum Openface, eldest daughter Mrs. Gadabout Openface. She is be commended.

ologna or Pork Sausage?

Mr. Hogg is assiting at the cCormick-Bradley barber shop this eek.—Britt Tribune.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load," but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

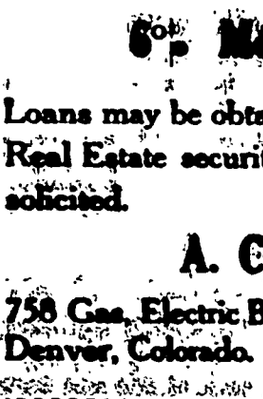
A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done



It Makes Hens Lay

Pratt's Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

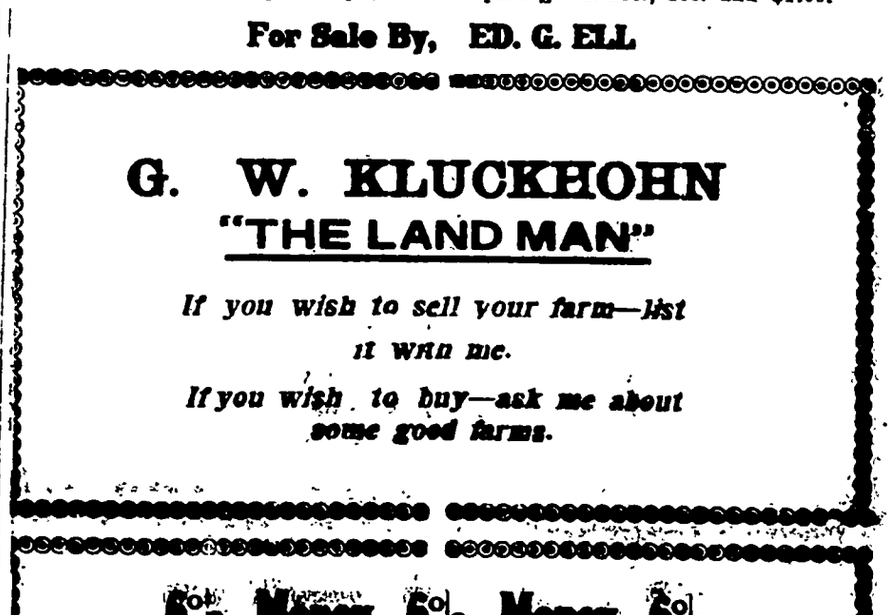
6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.



The Bull Tractor. For sale by, H. Lau & Son

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

Khaki, the color which will render our soldiers so difficult to see, was discovered by a happy accident. The British troops in India wore a cotton uniform which, when it was new was khaki in color, but after a visit to the laundry was undescribable. A Manchester business man discussing this effect remarked casually that a fortune awaited the man who could find a khaki dye that neither sun, soap nor soda would fade A young officer heard the remark hired a skilled native dyer and began the search Years passed in fruitless experiments, till one day, passing over a heap of rags, relics of their failures they chanced upon one piece which was still khaki though the laundry had worked its will But it had received no special treatment so far as they knew, except that it had fallen into a metal dish and the chemicals in the dye had combined to produce that fadeless khaki color which makes our soldiers invisible and turned the lieutenant into a millionaire

Although the muscles which affect the action of the jaws are especially under the control of the brain, the chattering of the teeth is really a spasm caused by chill or fear and all spasms act independent of the will The muscles which operate the jaw act in a series of involuntary little contractions which pull the jaw up and permit it to fall of its own weight This action is quick and the chattering occurs from frequent repetition Cold has a similar effect on the jaw muscles to that which some poisons have in causing spasmodic action in other parts of the body

The trade in human hair is a big industry. Italians easily take the lead in this traffic the main source of their supply being obtained from the peasant women of Italy, Dalmatia and Switzerland. Two crops of hair a year, and looking none the worse for the loss, is not extraordinary among these peasant women Half the hair at the back of the head is shorn off the remaining half being drawn over the exposed part and dressed in such a manner as only to be detected on very close scrutiny and by those experienced in the trade

Lieut Gen Sir James Wolfe Murray, the new chief of the British imperial general staff, was appointed last March to succeed Lieutenant General Hart in the command of the imperial troops in South Africa, with the supernumerary rank of full general He had been appointed general officer commander-in-chief, Scottish command, in December 1911 He is 61 years of age

The National Academy of Sciences a body of about 100 prominent men who give expert advice to the federal government on scientific matters has begun the issue of a regular organ called the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences It is a monthly magazine, and the first number was dated January, 1915

Ivory carving is an important industry in India. The craftsmen prefer to use African ivory than the native produce, as the African ivory is closer in grain and not so liable to turn yellow and appears to be superior in many ways This is believed to be due to the better food of the African elephant.

Trees planted along the main streets of a Massachusetts city failed to show any growth for two successive years. Then some of them were dug up to be transplanted and it was found that the trees had been planted just as they came from the nursery with the roots all bunched together and wrapped in burlap

Star photography is one of the most tedious operations known In some cases the exposure of the plate must last for several hours During all this time both the plate and telescope must be moved so that the image of the star will be stationary on the plate

The president of China has issued a decree to authorizing the establishment of a school to teach conservancy methods, and setting aside for this purpose a part of the revenue obtained from the provisions of Chih Shantung, Chekiang and Kiangsu.

The entire reserve army of the United States consists of only 16 men Their names are Williams, Anderson Neal, Sturm, Klaif, Schettino, Caramali, Sohn Card Borkin Kylen, Borlskin Neugert Kelly Schweigert and Vegas

An ingenious method of making use of a shot as a rivet is described in an English paper It is said to be often more satisfactory for mending small holes than soldering and more quickly accomplished.

The literature of Esperanto has increased from 29 books in 1889 to 2,500 in 1914 and during the last three or four years six full length original novels have been published in the language

To guard against tree repair fakirs, or quack tree surgeons, the Massachusetts Forestry association will inspect the shade trees belonging to its members, free of charge

Another invasion which is causing trouble in France, is that of hordes of wild boars which have appeared along the eastern frontier from the German forests

New Zealand has an island nearly three miles in circumference, which is almost entirely composed of sulphur mixed with gypsum and a few other minerals.

Electric lines in Porto Rico are obstructed at times by a parasitic plant that settles on and grows on the wires, obtaining its nourishment from the air.

The United States again exceeded previous records for petroleum production last year, the government estimate being 292,000,000 barrels

The introduction of electricity for power in the South African gold mines has reduced the amount of tuberculosis among the miners

Paris will erect two plants for the purification of drinking water with ozone, each with a capacity of 9,900,000 gallons a day

Despite an increase in the use of electricity, 25 factories in the United States are kept busy making incandescent gas mantles.

Both fine lace and strong ropes are made from the Siberian nettle. In Sweden nettles are cultivated for cattle fodder.

There are about 12,000,000 acres of tillable lands in the Philippines of which only about 7,500,000 acres are cultivated.

Harness has been invented to permit a litter with a wounded man being carried on each side of a horse

KENYON SAYS NATION IS TOO EXTRAVAGANT; HIT AT "LAME DUCKS"

Junior Senator Thinks People Should Not Class "Pork" With Service.

Des Moines, Ia., March 13.—Senator Kenyon, stopping in Des Moines last night on his way to Grinnell, condemned the extravagance of the congress that has just adjourned after voting a total of $2,250,000,000. He talked about other things, too—national politics, war in Europe, the Mexican situation—but he emphasized his belief that it is time for the United States to begin tightening up the purse strings.

"What are the issues of the immediate future going to be?" the reporter had asked the junior Iowa senator.

"There is bound to be an issue on the wasteful extravagance of government," he said "The government is going into all kinds of things without consideration Congress voted a $1,000,000,000 at the close of the session without anything like satisfactory reasons for all of it.

"There was even in the agricultural bill an appropriation for the study of the disease of wild ducks in the Salt valley of Utah I introduced an amendment that we study the 'lame ducks up Salt creek

"We are the only advanced nation in the world that has not a budget system and we've got to adopt it or we'll go on the rocks financially Taft tried to get it but didn't succeed I introduced a resolution for a commission on the expeditures, but couldn't get any attention for it

"The appropriations of the last congress amounted to $2,250,000,000. There were provisions for creeks and dusty rivers and I don't know what all

"The fault is really with the people Each community is trying to get something We need some form of national representation that would not be local The congressman who comes home with a building or something of that sort that is not needed ought to be reproved instead of praised There is too much local jealousy in our national matters In much the same way there is too much partisanship in our politics We need less of this thing of saying a man's idea is no good because he's on the other side of the political fence. The people are all right when they think about things though

COMMISSION BACKERS SECURE FURTHER DELAY

Des Moines Ia March 13 -The road law struggle went over to next Wednesday afternoon for settlement, following a bitter parliamentary fight in the house yesterday afternoon The whole question was deferred, including the Johnston bill and the Barry substitute, without a roll call being reached on a single point at issue The measure was made a special order for Wednesday afternoon at 1 30 o'clock

Kopp, of Henry floor leader for the insurgents, signaled the withdrawal of his forces just at the moment that the question was to go to a vote, with the announcement he would accept next Wednesday afternoon to settle the fight He evidently had not consulted his lieutenants in making the move and there was a hurried rush to the center aisle of the floor for a conference and protests

While the conference was in progress the commission backers rushed through the necessary motions for the Wednesday special order Ball, of Jefferson and Pitt, of Harrison insurgent chieftains, raced up and down the aisle demanding a roll call, but were denied recognition for the reason they were not at their seats

The final motion went through with scarcely a dissenting vote while Ball shouted vigorously to his unheeding followers to vote no

ALIENATION SUIT ASSIGNED FOR HEARING AT FREMONT

Sidney Ia March 13 —One sensational case to be tried here when the petit jury is summoned March 17 is Guy Morse against W T Summers Morse suing Summers for damages in the amount of $5,000 for alienating his wife's affections.

The petition recites that Morse was married to Mary Ethel Bare on December 17 1908 and mutual love and affection and respect held sway between them until January 1914, when the defendant Summers began paying attentions to Mrs Morse and deliberately and premeditatedly cultivated and caused to grow between himself and Mrs Morse a degree of intimacy that gave him control of her actions

He took her on auto rides by day and by night with a deliberately wicked and depraved purpose, thereby alienating her affections from the plaintiff and causing her to desert him and to leave him the care of their two little children 5 and 2 years old and deprive him of her companship, society and assistance

CHEROKEE BUSINESS MEN ARE PLANNING BANQUET

Cherokee Ia March 13 —The Commercial club directors are arranging for a banquet to be held at the armory about March 18 The date is contingent upon securing Secretary Holmes, of the Sioux City Commercial club, for an address, and may be a day earlier or later

The object is to interest outsiders and induce new members to join Important problems such as the city hospital, park oiling unpaved streets location of the new school building, construction of flats and the purchase of an acreage to be platted and sold will be discussed

L R Adsit W P McCulla Harry Lamoreux and Frank Brunson have charge of the sale of tickets Harry Lamoreux, Frank Colby and J K Rice will attend to the entertainments of the evening and L A Wescott, W H Wright and W L E Appleyard are the men on the decorating committee.

DES MOINES—Representative Durant is author of a bill containing new subject matter and one that will meet with general approval in cities. He proposes to prohibit cripples soliciting for charity or alms on the public highways of the state Des Moines, especially, is infested with cripples seeking charity under the guise of selling load pencils.

WOULD PROVIDE AID FOR COUNTY AND DISTRICT FAIRS

Des Moines, Ia., March 12— The house passed the Taylor bill for additional state aid, to county and district fairs without serious opposition on the floor. As sent to the senate for consideration the measure provides that all county and district fair associations shall be paid out of the state treasury 60 per cent of the first $1,000 premium and 20 per cent thereafter with the maximum fixed at $300.

Not more than a half dozen fairs in the state will receive the maximum aid, according to the author of the bill

IOWA EXPO BUILDING FORMALLY OPENED AT BRILLIANT FUNCTION

W. W. Marsh Boosts 'Frisco as Peace Conference City —Many Speeches.

Exposition Grounds, San Francisco Cal., March 12.—The dedicatory exercises of Iowa's exposition building were held yesterday. W. W Marsh Iowa commissioner, boosted San Francisco as the city to hold the world's peace conference. He declared that San Francisco is the best fitted city in the universe to hold such a session "If in the providence of God, this war is to cease, then San Francisco is the place where the peace conference should be held because no city in the world is better fitted to teach the example that this magnificent city of yours can teach," he said.

The Iowa program was a varied one The exercises [illegible]

MURDER IS CLIMAX OF MEXICAN SONG

Goaded to Fury by Sentimental Ditty Man Shoots Off Rival's Fingers.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Two men were slain and a third dangerously wounded in a gun and knife fight caused by a love song and a guitar at Montebello.

Fanned into a frenzy by the melodious strains of a Mexican love ditty, sung and picked on a two-stringed guitar by Manuel Arroyo, his rival for the hand of a pretty senorita of Montebello, Robert Martinez first shot the fingers from the hand at the strings, then crushed Arroyo's head with the gun butt, and turned to go.

Zuingo Shot Martinez, Killing Him Instantly.

As Martinez reached the door he was confronted by Victor Arroyo, brother of the dead man, and Juan Zuingo, a friend. Martinez grappled with Zuingo and beat him on the head with the gun butt. Victor Arroyo was begging his brother to speak to him. Martinez floored Zuingo and started for the door. Zuingo pulled his revolver and shot Martinez, killing him instantly.

Half an hour later Deputy Sheriffs Fox, Nolan, Reedor and Modie were at the scene of the fierce battle, near the Simons brick yard. Victor Arroyo had disappeared in the meantime, and none of the Mexican residents was able to give the officers valuable information. The deputies later learned through friends of the dead men that each was desperately in love with a black-eyed girl, daughter of a Mexican ranchman, living near by.

According to Deputy Sheriff Fox, Martinez, who bunked a few feet from the Arroyo house, heard Arroyo singing his love song to his sweetheart. Insane from jealousy and strong drink, he quietly crept from his bunk to the window of Arroyo's bunkhouse and shot the fingers from his right hand. Then he rushed into the house and battered him to death.

RIDES IN NIGHTIE FOR AID

Jersey Woman, in Zero Weather, Goes for Firemen to Save Her Home.

Roseland, N. J.—For the second time within a year Austin Philhower and his family are homeless as a result of a fire, and for the second time Philhower rescued his two youngest children from death. After wrapping them in bedding, he took one in each arm and dropped from a window on January 6 last.

Sparks from the kitchen fire are supposed to have started the fire. A woman driving past saw the fire and alarmed the family. Mrs. Philhower took the two older children and her husband got the others.

Mrs. Philhower, clad only in a night gown, jumped on a horse without waiting for saddle and rode into the village, two miles away, although the temperature was below zero. Finding the rim of a locomotive wheel, she beat a tattoo. Firemen responded, but the house was in ruins when they got to it.

DIE TOGETHER, AT 86 AND 84

Hearts of Pennsylvania Brother and Sister Stop on the Same Night.

Brookville, Pa.—Neighbors found the bodies of Mrs. Mary Stewart, eighty-six, a widow, and her brother, George Wiley, eighty-four, in the Wiley home here

The aged pair were in good health and when they did not appear as usual the house was broken into

A physician said both had died of heart disease. Fears that they had been asphyxiated were dispelled when it was discovered that all gas valves had been turned off

Collector Took Wagon for Taxes.

Portsmouth, N. H.—During a thunderstorm Tax Collector Page ran for the nearest shelter, a covered wagon. When in it he discovered that it belonged to a delinquent taxpayer, so he took the wagon to the town hall and requested the owner to call for it and pay his bill.

First Guns in England.

When Edward IV returned to England in 1471, ten years after he succeeded to the throne, he obtained some forces from his brother-in-law, the duke of Burgundy, including 300 Flemings armed with hand guns, thus being the first to introduce these weapons into England. Afterward they became common. At first they were fired by the application of a lighted match to the powder by the hand. The match was a wick lighted and pressed against the powder in the pan. The invention of a lock to fire the powder in place of the hand was suggested by the trigger of the crossbow. The matchlock fired the arquebus, or harquebus, used by the soldiers of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, in projecting a ball which weighed nearly two ounces.

Various Suez Canals.

The Suez canal is not the first canal to join the Red sea and the Mediterranean, according to a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society. The Egyptians, it is stated, in 1350-1300 B. C., constructed such a canal. In the course of time it was choked with sand. Another canal was begun by Necho about 600 B C. and completed a century later. Trajan restored this canal. When Napoleon visited Egypt, he planned to reopen the old canal, but was forced to abandon the project. It remained for De Lesseps to repeat the engineering triumph of the ancient Egyptians on a vaster scale.

China's Cattle Industry.

Contrary to general belief, China not only raises cattle in large numbers, but exports frozen beef in quantities which have now assumed a commercial magnitude of such size that world-wide possibilities may be expected in time to come. Upward of 200,000 cowhides are annually exported from Shantung.

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

CALL AND SEE THE

ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

HORSES CLIPPED

All those who have Horses they wished clipped this spring, bring them in and we will do the work right and promptly.

City Livery Barn

EVERYBODY PLEASED

DR. A. H. WEBER

OF DES MOINES EYE AND EAR SPECIALIST WHO CURES

WILL BE AT

Hotel In Garner

Come Before 12:00 O'clock Forenoon

Tuesday, March 23rd

TO CURE DISEASES OF THE EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT WITH MILD REMEDIES

No medicine used in the eyes that injures the sight. All treatment painless.

CROSS EYES straightened in two minutes without pain.

CATARACT Cured.

GLASSES Fitted to correct all sights and guaranteed.

HEADACHES Cured by Glasses.

Granulated Lids, Watery Eyes and Ingrowing Lashes cured.

CATARRH Cured by a new method.

The Doctor will be pleased to have all former patients call. Examination free Do not miss this opportunity.

DR. R. M. THOMAS

VETERINARIAN

GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE

Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA

All Calls Answered Promptly

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP

H. O. BARROWS, Prop

Two Good Barbers At Your Service

The Place To Go For First-Class Work

Everything Neat and Clean

J. E. BAUMGARTNER

The Tonsorial Artist

Will give you an easy shave or a nice hair cut.

Try our New Bath Tub

2nd door west of State Savings Bank Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 48.

Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OGHANA

Practice limited exclusively to treatment of

RHEUMATISM AND HEART

Office First National Bank Building

MASON CITY, IOWA

W. R. BLOOM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price

Business Established 189[illegible]

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested.

Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS

"Up-to-date Auctioneer"

CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA

Conducts Sales of any kind. Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.

Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.

See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson

Livestock Auctioneer

MESERVEY, IOWA

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

[illegible] can be made at the State Savings Bank, or 'phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel

Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.

Henry Griffen,

Klemme, Iowa.

H. A. PRIEBE

Contractor and Builder

KLEMME, :: IOWA

Estimates Furnished

Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

Smart Millin'ry at Sensible Prices

The most attractive hats in Klemme is the general comment.

We are making a special effort to have the most attractive Easter Millinery Exhibit ever seen in Hancock county.

We are showing a splendid selection of attractively priced reproctions and adaptations of the latest city styles.

Smart Hats for Immediate Wear

MRS. C. F. BIER

oultry
rade

ANTICLEER was a proud youngster, the cock of the in the barnyard drama.
t he had nothing on us.
e're as proud as any fowl that strutted over the way we pick fresh, tender, choice poultry ur trade.
good butchers with a reputato uphold we take the greatride in offering you only the best in select poultry at prices won't make your pocketbook sick.

J. P. Larsen & Sons

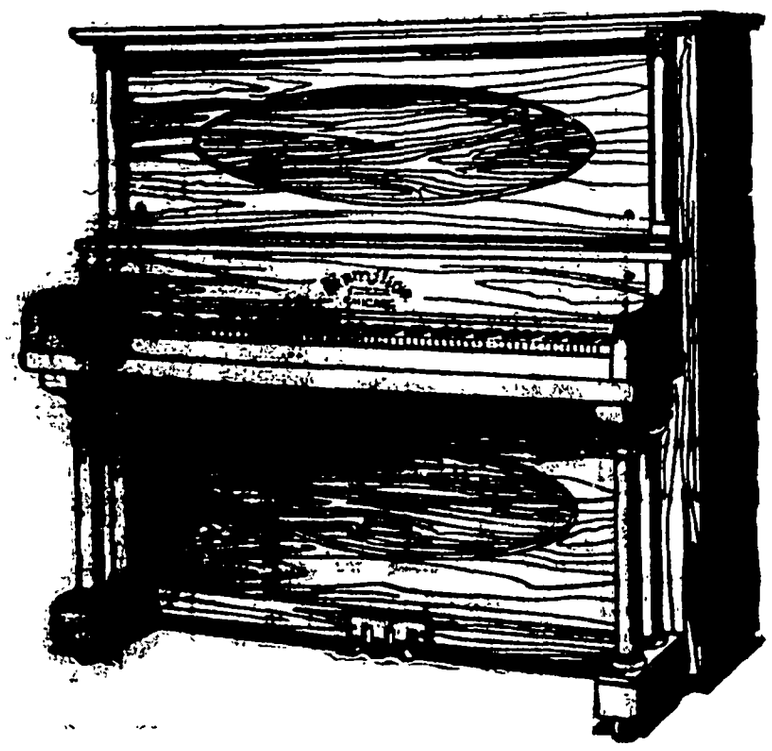
Every Farmer
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

Baldwin-Made Instruments
Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices
and Reasonable Terms

See Me First and Save Money

M. MAGNER

At The Times Office

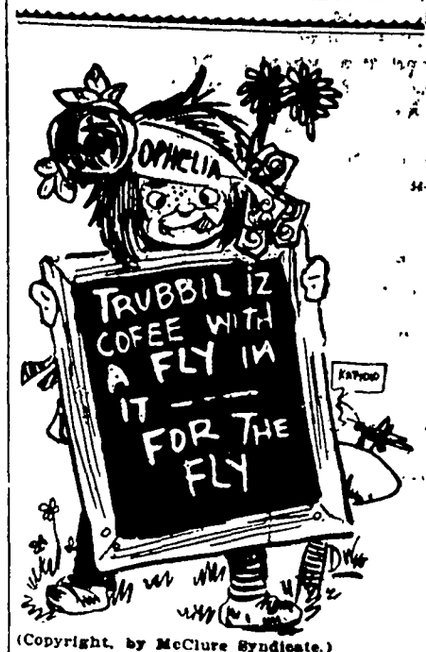
Liberal Allowance For Used Instruments.

THE KLEMME TIMES
By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.



(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations
By "Our Man About Town"

Next Sunday, March, 21. is the first day of Spring. But we want to see a few more boys out with their marbles before we place too much confidence in the date.

Chancing to come upon an old paper this week, we saw a press dispatch stating the population of Germany on March 16, 1911—just five years ago—to have been 64,903,423. As that was before the present terrific struggle there, it occured to us that an authentic census report today, were such possible, would make a contrast worth studying.

We wish to express our thanks to a young lady who assisted us while attending a picture show the other evening. Being seated directly behind us, she read all the announcements as they were thrown on the screen and we we were much impressed. She being tender-hearted, and seeing that we were near-sighted, conferred that favor upon us. She is our idea of what a young lady of sixteen years ought to be. She is not one of your shy little things who is afraid to speak out loud. It was a vast help to us because we did not have to look at the screen at all,—could talk to our wife and look over the audience and "hear" the pictures at the same time. A gentleman in front of us bothered quite a bit because he kept 'turning around and finally he got up and left the theatre. We noticed that it bothered the young lady who was befriending us, too, but we assured her that he had no reference to her. In order to fully thank the young lady, and that there may be no misunderstanding, we will tell her name: She is Miss Chewgum Openface, eldest daughter of Mrs. Gadabout Openface. She is to be commended.

Bologna or Pork Sausage?

Mr. Hogg is assiting at the McCormick-Bradley barber shop this week.—Britt Tribune.

THE WEEK IN HISORTY

Monday, 15.—Ceaser assassinated B. C., 41.
Tuesday, 16.—James Madison born, 1751.
Wednesday, 17.—St. Patrick's day. Grant takes command of army. 1864.
Thursday, 18.—Cleveland born, 1837.
Friday, 19.—Bryan born, 1860.
Saturday, 20.—Great Boston fire, 1760.
Sunday, 21.—First day of spring.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, was engineer in an electric plant in Detroit. Charley Murphy, the base ball millionaire, was a reporter on the Cincinnati Enquirer. Thomas H. Ince, the motion picture magnate, was a comic-opera comedian, glad to get $50. a week. Charlie Weegham, owner of the Chicago Federal base ball team and a string of restaurants, was a waiter in a quick-lunch room, and so it goes. The list could be strung out to a column's length. Therefore, when you hear a boy or a young man complain that he has no chance, take him by the arm and tell him a few things. There never was a time in the world's history when there were more opportunities for a young man to push to the front. There never was a time when a little intelligence and determination would provide a man with a competence in a few years. This is particularly true in the farming business—for farming is a business. The young man of today who will take hold of a farm with the idea of making it the best farm in the county and who will work intelligently for ten years, with that idea always before him, will not have to work for the remainder of his life.

SHIP YARDS ARE BOOMING

The most remarkable change since the time of the Napoleonic wars has come suddenly in the American shipbuilding industry. The last day of December, 1914, closed one of the poorest years the American ship yards have had in a decade. Today every ship-building concern from Bath, Me., down to Newport News, in Virginia, is working to its fullest capacity, says the New Republic.

One of the largest companies has orders sufficient to keep 6,000 men employed full time for two or three years. Contracts have been closed for forty-eight ocean vessels, and negotiations are pending for sixty more. Prices have advanced 15 per cent, although that fact is not significant. A British company has placed an order for the building of two ships in an American yard, a thing never heard before, and is likely to order two more.

Apparently the American merchant marine has entered upon another period of expansion. The ships ordered and those for which marine architects are now drawing plans embrace not only passenger vessels for the coastwise trade, but freighters for the Pacific and South American service, big cargo carriers for the transatlaptic business and oil tankers to go anywhere and everywhere.

Make Your Work Interesting.

Do not look on your work as a dull drudge. If you choose you can make it interesting. Throw your heart into it, observe the working, trace out the causes and previous history, consider it in all its bearings, think how many ages the humblest labor may benefit, and there is scarcely one of our duties which we may not look to with enthusiasm. You will get to love your work, and if you do it with delight you will do it with ease. Even if at first you find this impossible, if for a time it appears quite drudgery, this may be what you require; it may be good like mountain air to brace up your character.—Lord Avebury.

Much Used Woods.

Apple wood, used almost exclusively for pew handles, also furnishing the material for many kitchen utensils, water-wood pipes and particularly for the large wooden type used in printing signs and posters, says the forest service of the department of agriculture.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

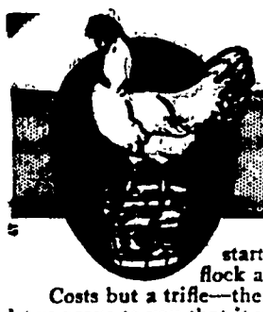
A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done



It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

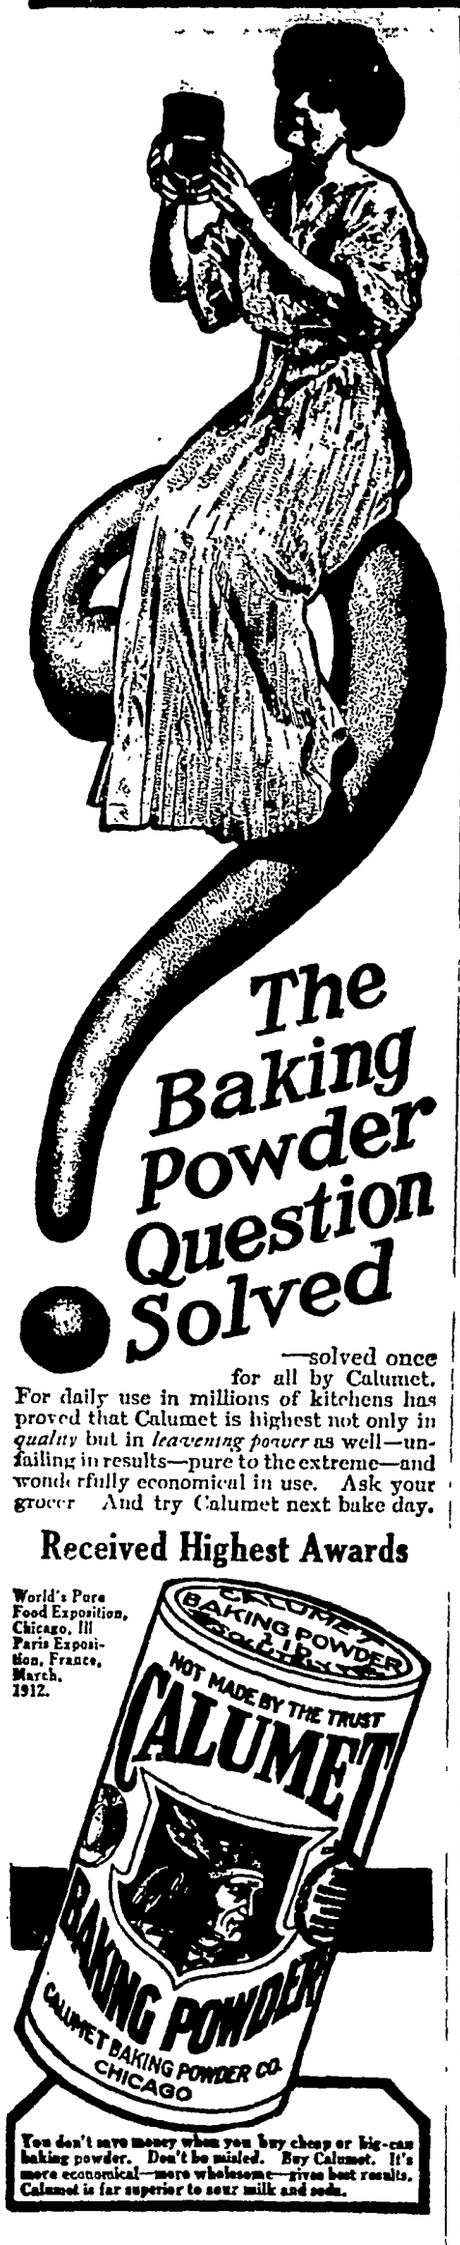
6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.
446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

The Bull Tractor. For sale by, H. Lau & Son

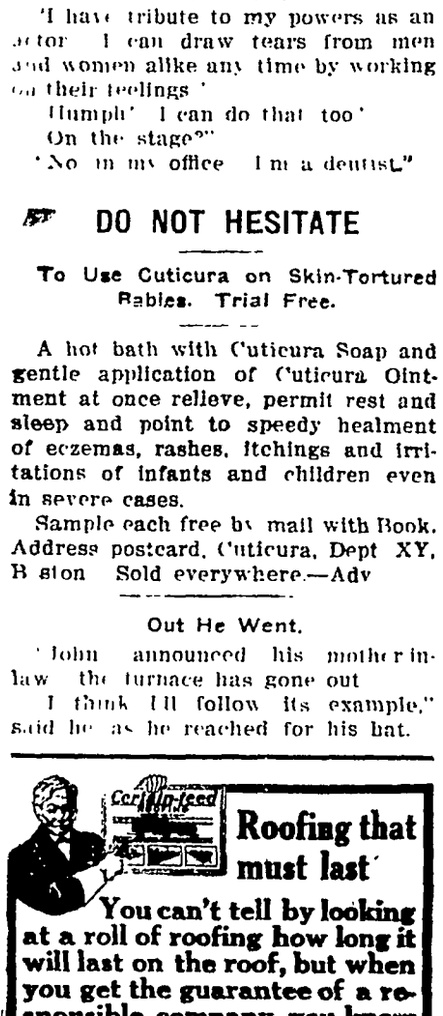


The Baking Powder Question Solved

—solved once for all by Calumet. For daily use in millions of kitchens has proved that Calumet is highest not only in quality but in leavening power as well—unfailing in results—pure to the extreme—and wonderfully economical in use. Ask your grocer And try Calumet next bake day.

Received Highest Awards

World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Ill Paris Exposition, France, March, 1912.



You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-can baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

Same Power

'I have tribute to my powers as an actor I can draw tears from men and women alike any time by working on their feelings'

Humph' I can do that too'

On the stage?"

'No in my office I'm a dentist."

DO NOT HESITATE

To Use Cuticura on Skin-Tortured Babies. Trial Free.

A hot bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment at once relieve, permit rest and sleep and point to speedy healment of eczemas, rashes, itchings and irritations of infants and children even in severe cases.

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept XY, Boston Sold everywhere.—Adv

Out He Went.

'John announced his mother-in-law the furnace has gone out

I think I'll follow its example," said he as he reached for his hat.

Roofing that must last

You can't tell by looking at a roll of roofing how long it will last on the roof, but when you get the guarantee of a responsible company, you know that your roofing must give satisfactory service.

Buy materials that last

Certain-teed

Roofing

—Our leading product—is guaranteed 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply and 15 years for 3-ply. We also make lower priced roofing, slate-surfaced shingles, building papers, wall boards, out-door paints, plastic cement, etc.

Ask your dealer for products made by us. They are reasonable in price and we stand behind them.

General Roofing Manufacturing Co.

World's largest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers

New York City Boston Chicago Pittsburgh Philadelphia Atlanta Cleveland Detroit St. Louis Cincinnati Kansas City Minneapolis San Francisco Seattle London Hamburg Sydney

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON.

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd, Mead & Co.

Chapter II—Continued.

The scared, timid voice of his little sister came to him through the keyhole. He commanded her to go away, to leave him alone to die. Then they would all be sorry. Besides, he added, quick to recognize a peril that might befall her, she would get a good scolding or worse if their aunt caught her communicating with him. The little girl stood her ground for a few moments and then went away. He was better for her visit, however. He was not alone in the world and friendless, after all. Mary was his, and he belonged to her He would live for her that he might in the end die for her

It was then that his volatile, imaginative brain began to build romance out of his predicament. He imagined himself confined in a dungeon by unscrupulous conspirators, from whose clutches only the most heroic actions, the most glorious stratagems would serve to release him. In the midst of these exalted reflections, his aunt came to the door and unlocked it, bidding him to come forth to his supper. It was not a romantic way out of his difficulties, but it was a pleasing summons, after all His vengeance could wait—till after supper, at least.

Mrs. Blagden uttered a short gasp of dismay on catching a glimpse of his dirty, blood-stained face

"Go and wash your face at once," she commanded "You are a perfect fright. Why can't you keep yourself clean like Chetwynd? Go at once and get that horrid blood off your face! Not a mouthful do you get until you are perfectly clean. Brush your clothes, too. Don't let your uncle see you looking like this. He would be shocked."

Here was fresh indignity, a new injustice. The boy looked squarely into his aunt's eyes for a moment, and she must have felt the unspoken reproach and amazement in his glance.

"I don't want any supper," said Eric surlily

"Wash you face, do you hear me? Your uncle will attend to you later on. My goodness, to think that a child as young as you are should have it in his heart to shed blood, wantonly, cruelly, as you have done!"

Eric flared up 'Oh, it's not Chetty's blood. It's all my own"

'Your own? Why, you little rascal, you know you cut Chetwynd with your knife He says so There's a horrid cut on one of his legs Where is your knife? Give it to me at once! Heavens knows what we are to do with you You will kill somebody, mark my words."

To her surprise, Eric indulged in a broad grin He was gratified to learn that one of his kicks had brought the blood from Chetywnd's lean shin

"You wicked thing!" cried his aunt, aghast in the face of what she was pleased to regard as malevolent glee.

"He lied, Aunt Rena, if he said I pulled a knife on him," cried the boy hotly "I never—"

"Chetwynd does not lie," she interrupted. "Make yourself presentable at once Pastor Presbrey will speak to you after supper. Heavens knows that something must be done."

He and little Mary ate their supper in the pantry, while Chetwynd, nursing a throbbing shin-bone, sat beside the minister at table and talked of his afternoon with Virgil.

To illustrate the contrariness of human nature, the scion of the house of Blagden, down in his heart, envied his late adversary the joy of eating in the butler's pantry, while he was obliged to sit up and be agreeable to the sanctimonious toady in the long frock coat and immaculate cravat That is to say, he envied him until the conversation of his elders drifted to the recalcitrant lad in the pantry Then he was glad that he was there Moreover, when the meal was over, and the clerical appetite satisfied for the time being, he announced to his mother that he was going to stay in the library and hear what Mr Presbrey and his father had to say to Eric and Mary when they were haled up before them for the judgment that was to be passed upon them before they went to bed that night

CHAPTER III

GALL BROTH.

The Reverend Mr Presbrey will bear watching as this tale progresses. Not in the common, accepted sense of the term, perhaps—not as you might keep your eye on a chap who has been suspected of taking a purse, or even a drink—but for the sake of a certain propinquity he creates for himself in relation to the affairs of other people.

It has been said that he was a very good man. It is quite true. He had no children. If you can imagine a man so good as all that, you may reach some sort of a conclusion as to Mr Presbrey's spirituality. As a rule, ministers of the gospel surround themselves with more children than their means would appear to encourage, but there is so much satisfaction in having them that even impoverished clergymen can afford to be prodigal. They call them products of God and set them down in their profit and loss column as riches that gold cannot replace. You've got to give credit to the clergy for this, even though you don't consider it worth while to go to church and listen to their views on the rearing of your own offspring

Mr Presbrey rarely came closer to the present than the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, unless it were to tell his listeners that the drink evil is still a menace to society, and that hell, which seems to be of all times, is a very dreadful place. To these, and other profundities of quaint originality, he owed his exalted position in Corinth.

He looked with horror upon the cheery priests at St. Ann's Catholic church down the street; they took life too casually, and they smoked cigars, said he to himself. He drew his somber skirts clear of the shouting Methodist who preached in the First M. E. church, and disdained the worthy gentleman who held forth in the Baptist sanctuary—where the steeple bell was cracked because it failed to come through the revolutionary war unscathed. The rather progressive pastor of the Second Congregational church, a youngish man from the middle west, came in for no end of pity and commiseration. As for the Free Methodists, the Unitarians and the Episcopalians, they were beneath his notice. There was but one God, his God; but one church, his church, but one creed, his creed. Thank God, there are but few Presbreys left in the land!"

I make no doubt he would have resented the imputation that he was narrow, that he was remote. He took a very broad view of himself, and he was satisfied with what he saw.

His wife was satisfied, as well, which was consoling. Next to his Maker, Mr. Presbrey worshiped his wife; next to Mr. Presbrey, she made room for God. It was what you might have called a close corporation, the Presbreys and God.

Just outside the little private fold were the Blagdens. After them, the congregation of the First Congregational church of Corinth

It already has been said that Mr Presbrey employed himself in the pleasant occupation of developing other people's children His wife it may be added, also took a hand in such affairs She had never cared to have children of her own. This, perhaps, was a fortunate thing for Mr. Presbrey's peace of mind. It would have been most distressing, even dismaying, if she had wanted them.

Again, I repeat, Mr Presbrey was a very good man. He will bear watching.

He was tall, spare, 50 and ascetic You could not have mistaken his long, thin, aquiline nose for the property of any but a saintly man, nor could his closely cropped side whiskers, extending below the lobes of the ears, have belonged to a less exalted personality Somtimes we confuse our own less careful ministers with overly importunate lightning-rod agents or insurance solicitors—once in a while, to our sorrow, with book agents—but we would not have taken Mr Presbrey by any conceivable chance, for anything but what he was. And yet, despite an outward appearance of rigid self government and exactitude, he possessed a certain form of weakness that is apparent in most of us, no matter how strong minded we pretend to be He was not above listening to the advice and counsel of his wife. I betray a secret, of course, when I say that Mr Presbrey first took his burdens to his wife, and then to God. I will not go so far as to say that if she had poohpoohed them as trifles, he would not have included them in his prayers, but it is quite certain that he would have gone about it perfunctorily

If Mrs Presbrey had searched the world over for a mate, she could not have succeeded in finding one more compatible than he. I do not pretend to know how far afield she searched nor how long it was before she came to him, but it is reasonable to suspect that she had made some endeavor She was 40 when he married her and she had led the bible class in his Sunday school for at least 10 years before the miracle came to pass. Corinth was her birthplace, so, I fancy, she did not find it necessary to venture far from home

She believed in the efficacy of prayer That is why she received the belated blessing in the shape of Mr Presbrey For 15 long years she had prayed with him—and for him. God's blessing as well as His wrath, is often delayed beyond all understanding, but if we accept Mrs. Presbrey's spiritual persistency as an example, our minds may be at rest as to the virtue of the admonition: "Ask and ye shall receive"

It is only natural to suppose that the excellent Presbreys had gone into the problem of the Midthorne children quite thoroughly before presenting themselves on the hill, some 15 minutes prior to the Blagden's dinner hour Mrs Presbrey made it a point never to be late for anything. She avoided all possibility of such an occurance by being punctually ahead of time. So, when they sat down to table at 7 o'clock they were prepared to give all the Christian advice that the occasion and its exigencies demanded.

Mr Presbrey looked askance at Chetwynd while the dessert was being served It was what is commonly called "float." Mrs. Blagden, intercepting the look, directed a questioning glance at her husband Horace looked at the crystal chandelier for a moment and then said:

"Run along now, Chetwynd"

"I want some more float," said Chetwynd, who knew they were holding something back.

Mrs. Presbrey sighed Then she asked casually enough'

"Have your sister's children gone to bed?"

Horace cringed. He always cringed when they were spoken of as his sister's children. It never occurred to him that it would have sounded awkward if one asked: "How are Mr. Midthorne's children?" or "Are the late Mr Midthorne's children coming to Sunday school?" The worst of it was he could not deny that they were his sister's children.

"No, Mrs Presbrey, they have not,' he replied. He pondered for a moment Then he passed his smooth, white hand across his chin. "That reminds me, I want to speak to you about them, Presbrey. The time has come—er—ahem'—when it seems advisable for us to acquaint them with the unhappy conditions surrounding their babyhood. They should not be allowed to grow up in utter ignorance of—er—ahem'—certain hereditary influences. They must be prepared, if it is in our power to prepare them, for the perils of that miserable heritage. We do not want them to go on unconsciously developing the—the—er,—what shall I say?—the faults of their parents."

Mr Presbrey's blue eyes lighted up "My prayers are never complete without an earnest plea in behalf of those dear children," he said If he had taken the trouble to look, he might have seen a certain tightening of the lines about Mrs. Blagden's lips. Mrs. Presbrey, more observing, saw the change in her hostess' expression She hastened to apologize for the careless use of the adjective.

"All children are dears," she explained.

"'Suffer little children to come unto Me,'"—began Mr. Presbrey absently.

Chetwynd snickered. A warm red surged to the speaker's cheeks and brow, causing his wife to start with amazement. She had not known there was so much blood in him.

"What we should do," remarked Horace blandly, "is this: we should put the situation clearly to Eric. He is 12 years old and bright as a dollar. No one can gainsay that. I daresay Mary would not be sufficiently impressed at her present age. Perhaps we'd better wait in her case—"

"I thought you wanted to save both of 'em," put in Chetwynd rashly.

"Chetwyn!" exclaimed his father and mother in unison.

"There is a saying," added Mr. Presbrey, in whom resentment still rankled "that children should be seen, or something to that effect." It was a very daring remark for him, to make.

"Well, you have to take chances on hearing them if you suffer 'em to come unto you," said Chetwynd, secure in his domain.

"Chetwynd is so remarkably quick-witted, don't you think so, Mrs. Presbrey?" cried his mother admiringly. "That was a very smart rejoinder."

"Very," said Mrs. Presbrey, with unction.

"Chetwynd, you will oblige me by holding your tongue," said Mr Blagden quite severely When he spoke in that tone of voice, Chetwynd always subsided "As I was saying, Presbrey, we may as well defer in the case of Mary though God knows I do not want to run the risk of being too late'

I fancy no harm can come to her for some years. She is 9, I believe," said Mr Presbrey

'Nine," said Mr Blagden, "last April."

"Of course, the seed is there," mused the other

"Of course," agreed three voices, almost in unison

"Eric is developing very marked traits that—er, ahem'—You might say they are quite ominous," said Mr. Blagden. "He has a temper and a tendency to let go of it without any effort at self restraint. I regret to say that he has formed the habit of throwing stones at Chetwynd—frequently, so my boy informs me, when his back is turned That trait, believe me is distinctly hereditary It isn't necessary, I'm sure, for me to go into the private history of his father Suffice it to say, he was a man of violent temper, with a disposition to—er, ahem—to shed blood I regret to add that the children's mother also took a lawless view of the proprieties It is our duty to paint the picture as strongly, as vigorously as we can for Eric's sake. He must be made to see the handwriting on the wall He must be warned in time We may be able to check or divert the evil tendencies that accrue to him by nature"

"In other words," said Mr Presbrey 'we must obstruct nature I quite understand my dear Mr Blagden

"Precisely," agreed Horace

'We should pray for the poor boy,' began Mrs Presbrey Mr Blagden held up his hand and shook his head, with a deprecatory smile He was still vaguely conscious of a remote period in his life when his admiration for Julia Crowden rose almost to the importance of love That was when he was 15 and she was 25. He was now 45, and she had been the wife of his pastor for 15 years He never looked at her without experiencing a sort of speculative wonder, very faint very vague and plainly reminiscent

'The time for prayer has passed he protested "We must use a little common sense now He hastened to set himself aright "Do not misunderstand me, Julia So many of my prayers have been answered that I least of all, should deny the efficacy of prayer I will say however, that my prayers have always been supplemented by a certain amount of purely human endeavor' He was unconsciously humorous, despite his serious mien

What I mean is this We can't help Eric with prayer unless we are able to secure His cooperation We can't obtain that without first telling him what its all about Do you get my meaning?"

'It is perfectly clear,' said Mr Presbrey folding his napkin with grave precision so that the initial B remained in view

Perfectly' his wife agreed

What would you suggest asked Mrs Blagden

Mr Presbrey was tactful He levelled his gaze upon a huge Delft platter on the plate rail above Mrs Blagden's prim coiffure and pondered He pondered long enough to permit his diplomacy to bring results. The effort was successful Mr Blagden offered the suggestion

'I suppose we'd better have Eric in the library at once Ring for Martha, please" He directed the request to his wife who at once jangled the little silver hand bell that stood beside the Warsaw candlestick "Martha' said he, when the ancient domestic appeared in the door, "send Master Eric to the library at once"

So far as Horace was concerned the conference was over It was now time for action

'Eric's gone to bed sir announced Martha

It isn't his bedtime said Mrs Blagden sternly

'No, ma'am, but he said his face was hurting him so"

"His face?" demanded Mr Blagden who had not heard of the encounter in the arbor

He said he fell off the fence and bruised it, sir" said Martha who would not have repeated a lie for the world

Mrs Blagden cleared her throat uneasily Her first impulse was to remain silent, but, on second thoughts, she saw a chance to discredit the boy in the eyes of his uncle She knew that Horace detested a lie

'Fell off the fence?' she exclaimed "He did nothing of the sort. He attacked Chetwyrd who was compelled to thrash him soundly Now, why should he tell such a lie as that?"

Mr Blagden possessed a sense of justice "You are much larger than Eric, Chetwynd," he said, turning a bit red in the face

'He threw a brick at me. I punched him in self defense," said his son after a scowl of amazement at his mother

"You may go, Martha," said Mr Bladgen for once a bit confounded 'But stay If he isn't asleep, tell him to get up and come down at once"

"Pound hard on the door before you ask him if he's asleep," advised the resourceful Chetwynd.

(Continued next week.)

American Holidays.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal

The almost total lack of formal observances of Washington's birthday in Louisville serves to direct attention again to what is becoming a marked change in our attitude toward holidays and feast days in general It has not been a great while since Washington's birthday and the Fourth of July were occasions for patriotic meetings and celebrations of various kinds the country over. Christmas and New Year's were splendid, noisy, exhausting affairs and the succession of holidays throughout the year offered a number of opportunities for one sort of demonstration or another Yet on yesterday the various patriotic societies were nowhere in evidence in Louisville, there were no public meetings of consequence, flag decorations were curiously inconspicuous, and even the school boy's theme surrendered its traditional place in the public notice. There was a "business holiday" of a sort to be sure, but who will claim that patriotic considerations were uppermost in the minds of either the employers who granted the holiday or the employes who demanded it.

The same disposition is apparent at the recurrence of other red-letter days. We still manage to blow a few whistles and ring a few bells on New Year's eve, and some of the more hardy of us remain awake until midnight, but it is strain on us, and we make no shame of our relief when the clock strikes the hour Much of the fine gusto and the old abandon are wanting, and it seems that we shall not last many more years at our watching. Mardi gras each year finds less and less confetti on the pavements and fewer laughing faces in the promenade, and it is no longer thought necessary to give a masked ball, with all its exciting indiscretion Hallowe'en could pass undetected for all that the jack-o'-lantern does nowadays, and even the urchins are forgetting the art of hanging an iron gate on the spike of a telephone pole.

The generation coming on is counted fortunate in many ways, but it will be the poorer for the want of these things, something fine goes out of our life when we let these occasions glide by unnoticed. Any person with a spark of sentiment in him will be genuinely sorry for the boy to whom Saint Valentine is less than a name, and who will never know the thrill of putting something pretty into a pair of pretty hands on the good saint's day. As we grow older the calendar is a sad enough affair, in all conscience; it will be too bad if we must do without the sprightly interruptions of the red letters

COMMON HUMANITY.

From the Breeders' Gazette.

Olympian Joves do not ride on clouds or sit on mountain tops in these days thundering commands to common mortals... Or if they do, busy folk pay little attention to them Owls who simply sit and blink and look unutterably wise do not fool many people.

He who never unbends to speak the simple language of the home and the fields, or hold occasional honest converse with his fellows, may be a truly great and dignified personage. He may indeed deserve respect by sheer force of intellect, perhaps, but we love to feel the quickening power of that divine spark we call common humanity that links mind to mind and heart to heart; that makes us comrades in a common cause. That is the thing really worth while. Without it all is "cold storage," void of the spirit that stands for the sunlight, for God's good earth and the brotherhood of man.

Democracy In Charity.

By Rev. Frank Crane.

Frank P. Walsh, of Missouri, chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations, said the other day:

"Is there any person who will not challenge a $100,000,000 foundation exempt from taxation and to be used in a way the people as a whole do not dominate? There are $300,000,000 now invested in these foundations, and there are no limitations on those funds.

"Suppose all of these foundations should concentrate their resources in the securities of one industry where the toilers were making a fight for democratic control. They could crush down the defenses of the fight for industrial justice. They bring the great necessities of life under their control."

I am glad someone besides me, someone in authority, has said this.

The most important functioning of a democracy is its provision for education, religion, the advancement of science and for charity Yet in these matters the people of this century are "asleep at the switch."

We have made our government democratic We are laboring hard to apply the principles of democracy to business. And it is even more important that our charitable, religious and educational enterprises should be strictly under the control of the people.

There is only one safe principle for a free people, and that is that all authority should be accompanied by responsibility.

Autocracy in any department of society, whether in government, business, school, or anywhere else, is septic. Sooner or later it causes trouble.

In the first place, government should not permit excessive wealth units. It should intelligently limit the amount any individual can own. An economic system that allows millionaires makes for paupers and dependents. Each man's possessions should be equitably adjusted to the value of his labor to society.

This we have not yet been able to do. But how difficult we make the accomplishment of this task when we tie up the institutions that create opinion and sentiment with those men and corporations we must eventually curb'

It is not so important that our people be educated and otherwise helped as it is that they should educate and help themselves

The university ought to depend upon the state, and not upon some corporation whose bonds are its endowment Hospitals ought not to be supported by the excess of the strong boxes of the overwealthy Churches and charities should not be beholden to the beneficiaries of an unjust economical system.

The only cure for the flaws in democracy is more democracy

Why Not a Step Further?

From the Chicago Herald.

Sir Edward Grey's announcement in the house of commons that the government is in sympathy with Russian ambitions for a free outlet to warm water in the south marks a significant change in Great Britain's historic policy.

There was a time when to yield that point would have been regarded by English statesmen as imperilling the safety of the empire. A Russian outlet for warships was held to mean jeopardy for the Suez canal, the water route to India and Great Britain's vast Indian possessions. It was a cardinal point in British policy to resist Russia in this quarter.

Today the physical conditions remain the same Russia is the same great empire the route to India follows the same water courses the Suez canal is still necessary But the psychological conditions have changed; and so, without the slightest hesitation, an entirely new direction is given to British policy.

In this connection it is worth noting how easy Russia and Japan are finding it to reconcile their recent differences in China. Previous to the war Russia and Japan had managed to reach a most amicable modus vivendi The nature of the Japanese demands on China seemed to threaten this understanding. But the latest news is that Japan is willing to make all necessary concessions to Russian sentiment

Here we have Russia and England and France and Japan—four of the greatest and most warlike nations in the world—readily reaching a composition of all their differences and a full recognition of what is reasonable in the national claims that each has so long asserted. We find that this recognition has involved in one or two cases a reversal of national policy, but that it was none the less easily made for all that.

But outside of the magic circle of these four great powers which have found it so easy to reconcile their varied aspirations and to find a basis for peaceful relations there are two other great warring powers—Germany and Austria. The differences of national interest and ambition that divide these from the other four are no greater than those which have so often divided the four themselves. Germany is today no more of a menace to Great Britain, for instance, than Great Britain thought Russia was a few decades ago.

What a pity that the same process of mutual agreement which the four have managed to apply so successfully to their own differences cannot be carried forward until all six have been brought within the area of peace and concord. It is only a step further in the same process. When six nations want to agree they can agree almost as readily as four.

National Sensitiveness.

First came Russia with a request that the world forget St. Petersburg and learn Petrograd. The world heeded the request and discarded the Teutonic and adopted the Slavic It was too small and unimportant a request to be turned down.

And then came Servia, begging that the "v" be knocked out and a "b" substituted. The name can be transliterated either way, but "Serbia" is doubtless better; also it does away with the servile sound of the old name, which has jarred on intellectual Serbians. It was a just request, and inconvenienced no one. So it is now Serbia nearly everywhere.

The latest request is not so sure of favorable action. The Japanese, or some small coterie of Japanese, are asking that the undignified abbreviation "Jap" be banned. The little monosyllable seems very objectionable to a proud people.

The trouble is that "Jap" is an abbreviation, and a useful one. Japanese is clumsy, and Jap is not. The little word is not used in any belittling sense. It will probably continue to be used, despite Nipponese protests, because it serves a purpose.

THE MARVEL OF THE AGES

From the Atlantic Monthly.

The greatest marvel in all the world's history is what Christ could have been; that the very idea of soul, of human development transcending the physical in utter sacrifice, could have come into existence is proof enough of the divine. That teaching, so clear, so unmistakable, has been blurred and forgotten, as nation and individual have succumber to the lesser law, but it still is there. Christianity left behind? It is millions of years ahead, so far ahead that it is still dim before our vision.

KIDNEYS CLOG UP EATING TOO M

Take Tablespoonful of Hurts or Bladder Forms Uric Acid

We are a nation of meat our blood is filled with uric a well-known authority who to be constantly on guard ney trouble

The kidneys do their utm the blood of this irritating become weak from the they get sluggish, the eli sues clog and thus the w tained in the blood to poiso tire system

When your kidneys ache like lumps of lead and you h ing pains in the back or th cloudy, full of sediment, or der is irritable, obliging yo relief during the night, when severe headaches, nervous spells, sleeplessness acid st rheumatism in bad weather, your pharmacist about four Jad Salts; take a tablespoo glass of water before breakf morning and in a few days neys will act fine This fam is made from the acid of gr lemon juice, combined with has been used for generations and stimulate clogged kidneys tralize the acids in urine so longer a source of irritation, ing urinary and bladder disor

Jad Salts is inexpensive and injure; makes a delightful cent lithia-water drink, and can make a mistake by taking occasionally to keep the kidne and active.—Adv

ONE LITTLE THING L

Guest at Charitable Function Himself, but Had a Crit to Make

Two tottery derelicts had ished a repast at Bethel missi of the spreads that are being for the unemployed They w and comfortable and disp reminisce their experience

"Didje git a piece of that bee asked one of the other

"Yep," said Bill

"An' didje git some of that

"Yep."

"An' coffee?"

"Yep."

"Couldn't o asked for Couldje?"

"Well, I don'no said Bill.

"Well, what wouldje of ask

"I was just a-thinking s "that to make that grub set every way, if we'd a just had high ball to 'a' started it o there'd be nothin' a tall now about."—Louisville Times

Sow Saves Pig in Sack.

George Flock, a prominent near Yreka, Cal., was badly bi a sow with a litter of pigs. time of the accident he was through a yard with a six-day in a sack on his back The p a squeal and the old sow, on it, jumped for the sack, bea off Flock's back She then Flock, who ran for the fence, fore he could reach it he was twice in the leg.

Of Course

"How did you like the p ance?"

"It was very tame'

"You surprise me I thought a lot of trained polar bears?"

"It was, but they had to b didn't they?"

Consulting His Taste.

Patience—Is he domestic tastes?

Patrice—No, he prefers th eign dishes.

CHILDREN SHOWED IT

Effect of Their Warm Drink Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck fee drinking and was on the giving up my position in the room because of nervousnes

"I was telling a friend about she said, 'We drink nothing time but Postum, and it is such fort to have something we c drinking with the children.'

"I was astonished that she allow the children to drink a of coffee, but she said Postu not coffee, but a most healthful for children as well as for older and that the condition of both dren and adults showed that to fact.

"I was in despair and deter to give Postum a trial, followi directions carefully It was a success and I was completely its rich delicious flavor

"In a short time I noticed a improvement in my condition growing better month after until now I am healthy, and work in the school room with pleasure. I would not return to destroying coffee for any money

"Name given by Postum Co., Creek, Mich. Read "The Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled. 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—is a soluble der. A teaspoonful dissolves in a cup of hot water and, with and sugar, makes a delicious instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicio cost per cup about the same.

"There's a Reason" For Postu sold by Gr

LOOK AT LD'S TONGUE

everish, constipated, California Syrup of Figs"

today saves a sick child children simply will not from play to empty their become clogged up with gets sluggish; stomach

e tongue, mother! If coat- hild is listless, cross, fev- bad, restless, doesn't eat of cold or has sore throat children's ailment, give a of "California Syrup of don't worry, because it is mless, and in a few hours stipation poison, sour bile ding waste will gently the bowels, and you have ful child again. A thor- cleansing" is oftimes all essary. It should be the nt given in any sickness. counterfeit fig syrups. tore for a 50-cent bottle of Syrup of Figs," which has ns for babies, children of nd for grown-ups plainly the bottle. Adv.

His Experience.

—According to the good will be no marriages in and—And according to my is no heaven in marriage.

e to Our Readers

e Eye Remedy Co., Chicago, for ated Eye Book Free. Write all e Trouble and they will advise per Application of the Murine in Your Special Case. Your tell you that Murine Relieves rengthens Weak Eyes. Doesn't s Eye Pain, and sells for 50c. r Eyes and in Baby's Eyes for and Granulation. Adv

h reports 108,941 children lic schools, an increase of last year the least desirable bless- come in disguise.

Colds cannot hold out against holated Cough Drops. A single lief 5c at all Druggists.

olish to Suffer

y be brave enough to ckache, or headache, or But if, in addition, ur- s disordered, look out! n't try to fix your sick you may fall into the of kidney trouble before it. But if you live more and help your kidneys 's Kidney Pills, you can pains you have and avoid nger as well.

uth Dakota Case

C. G. Ellis, 610 N. Lincoln St., Canton, S. D., says: "For five years I had sharp, shooting pains in my back that bent me al- most double. I was weary night and day and any exertion brought on dizzy spells. My heart pal- pitated, too. Soon af- ter using Doan's Kid- ney Pills I was cured and I haven't had a sign of kidney trou- ble since."

's at Any Store, 50c a Box

AN'S KIDNEY PILLS
BURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

eumatism

put a few drops of Sloan's painful spot and the pain It is really wonderful quickly Sloan's acts. No to rub it in—laid on lightly trates to the bone and relief at once. Kills tic pain instantly.

James E. Alexander, of North Me., writes: "Many strains back and hips brought on them- the sciatic nerve. I had it so bad when sitting in my chair, had to jump on my feet to get I once applied your Liniment part and in less than ten it was perfectly easy. I think best of all Liniments I have

LOAN'S NIMENT
Kills Pain

At all dealers, 25c.
cents in stamps for a TRIAL BOTTLE
Earl S. Sloan, Inc.
Philadelphia, Pa.

French Hero of Marne Leading Forces Near Turkish Capital

GENERAL D'AMADE.

General d'Amade, the French hero of the battle of the Marne in which the German hosts were turned away from Paris, is in command of the allied army which is now approaching Constantinople in conjunction with the allied fleet. This army contains contingents of Turcos, Senegalese, British Indian troops, Australians and New Zealanders.

WEAVING CHILDREN INTO COTTON IS GOING ON IN MANY BIG FACTORIES

Census Reports Show That 40,000 Children Under 16 Years of Age Are Working in Cotton Mills.

CHILD LABOR UNNECESSARY

How many children in a yard of cotton? The answer to this problem in human arithmetic is not pleasant. Thousands of children in America are literally weaving their lives into cotton. According to the United States census of 1910 there were 40,221 children under 16 working in the cotton mills of this country in 1909. Forty thousand children under 16 working from 12 to 8 hours a day in the lint laden heavy atmosphere of the mill at or near a never tiring machine. Forty thousand children!

And in the state of South Carolina alone, though South Carolina is honestly trying to cope with her child labor problem, the commissioner of labor himself reports 8,584 children under 16 employed in the textile industry there. Of these 3,581 are under 14. Three thousand five hundred children under 14 working in the mills in one state that ranks above several others in the south in her endeavors to enforce her child labor law!

Conditions in the South.

North and South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia all specifically allow children of 12 to work in their mills. To be sure Georgia has lately passed a law forbidding the employment of children under 14 unless they are orphans or children of dependent widows, in which case they may be employed at 12, but this exception makes the 14-year limit practically null. Mississippi has a 14 year limit for girls but has not yet reached it for boys.

As a matter of fact in all these states except South Carolina children under 12 are employed. Factory inspection is very weak in those states, there is no compulsory education there. Manufacturers are anxious to have children "help" in the mills because they come for small pay, and so children obviously less than 12 years old go into the mills to become regular wage earners.

A Report.

An investigator for the national child labor committee reports his experience in one of the better class mill towns of Georgia as follows:

"Here was a group of well built mills surrounded by well kept grounds, homes that were externally at least, well planned and cared for, a school building and a church that pleased the eye—everything provided for apparently. Upon entering the spinning room (in the mill) however I met a real setback -youngsters by the dozen, tiny chaps, sweeping, doffing, spinning. There were 25 of them that I judged to be under 12 years of age in the three spinning rooms alone (and I found others in the weaving rooms, helping). These little ones were all well trained, answering to the age of 12 and 14 no matter how youthful their appearance. Surely, I thought, not a thing neglected—except the children.

"On visiting the homes of the people, looking up family and church records, this investigator proved nearly a dozen children to be working there at 10 and 11 years of age, some of them having begun before they were 10.

"I found that many children who say they are 12," he states, "are really 'going on' 12, and too often have a long way to go before reaching 12. Others who are 12 now, had been working one, two, or three years, beginning at 10 or before."

So it is that in these southern mills little children, hundreds and thousands of them, some 12, some 13 and some only "going on 10," are weaving their lives into cotton -cotton to clothe the world. They are not going to school. They have no time for school. They are not playing for surely they have no time to play. Many of them live in squalor and poverty. Many of them can not read or write. They are the great sacrifice of America on the altar of industry.

Child Labor Not Necessary

That the use of these children is not necessary to the cotton industry has been proved in Massachusetts where not only are children under 14 never employed but no children under 16 are allowed to work more than 8 hours a day. Massachusetts heads the list of states in the value of products in her cotton mills according to the last census. Yet the south is slow to follow her example.

Owing to peculiar conditions in the south says Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the national child labor committee, she has been slow to come to the rescue of her children yet we are hoping that little by little she may move along the way to free them from the mills. But we believe that federal legislation is the only immediate way to bring the cotton mills to terms and so we advocate the Palmer-Owen bill now before congress. The only way to pass the Palmer-Owen bill and the only way to take the little children from the mills is for the people of the United States not simply the right thinking people of the south but all the right thinking people in the country, to recognize that the problem is a national one that the sacrifice of little children in the cotton mills is a national sacrifice and that the movement to abolish this sacrifice is a national one in which all sections parties and faiths must join."

Civilization Not in Our Care.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

That usually sane magazine, the Independent, published with great typographical display, over the signature of Hamilton Holt the following:

Plumes of fire are dropped from the clouds on undefended towns and cities. The United States is silent.

Deadly mines are strewn on the high seas. The United States is silent.

Buildings dedicated to religion, art, science and charity are razed to the ground. The United States is silent.

Enormous fines far in excess of military necessities, are levied on ravaged cities. The United States is silent.

Seven millions stand enacted in Belgium. The United States is silent.

The Hague conventions are thrown into the scrap basket. The United States is silent.

But-

The dollars of American trade are threatened. And the United States protests.

It is the duty of the United States to protect the commercial rights of her citizens. But it is also the duty of the United States to protect the civilization of the world.

That it is the duty of the United States to protect the civilization of the world is not a doctrine. It is drivel. That a Mr. Holt or a Mr. Smith a Mr. Brown, a Mr. Jones drivels is not at all remarkable. But that magazines will print such drool is surprising even when we consider what has previously been printed in magazines.

Yellow journals are frequently and hotly assailed by the magazines for printing matter that can appeal to none but the impressionable ignoramus. Yellow journalism is regularly eclipsed by magazines, whose circulation is not among "unwashed" men who buy reading matter that is sold at a penny per dose but among women and children and unworldly men who are as ignorant of vital matters as the unwashed who buy the penny dreadfuls. The Independent seems to have set out to take the laurels from its weekly and monthly contemporaries.

Isn't it rather unpatriotic to do this sort of thing at this time? It is silly, of course but it is not intended that it shall appeal to others than silly readers. Silliness should not be indorsed and promoted when serious problems are up for solution.

If it were the duty of the United States to protect the civilization of the world the country would have been exhausting itself at its staggering task long before "Nickey" and "Georgie" and "Willie" and old Dom Francis Joseph became an unhappy family.

Prof. Rollin D. Salisbury, of the university of Chicago, says a continuous process of contraction is continually going on inside the earth and will continue until all the chemicals within it have been transformed into their densest compounds, millions of years hence. Earthquakes are a result of the contraction process.

British silver coins are made from an amalgam of 37 parts pure silver with three parts of alloy.

FIRELESS LOCOMOTIVES.

From Chambers' Journal.

There are many industrial occupations where the conditions are extremely dangerous, thereby rendering the question of economic intermovement of materials somewhat difficult. The transportation of materials in explosive depots is an interesting illustration of the problem. The issue has been solved, however, in a great measure by recourse to fireless locomotives. As the designation implies, the locomotives conform to the general design, but are not provided with a fire or heating device of any kind. Instead there is a reservoir or boiler which is filled partly with water and partly with high pressure steam.

The latter is pumped into the boiler from a steam raising station outside the danger zone to which the locomotive is taken from time to time. The construction of this type of locomotive has been brought to a high standard of perfection in Germany, the leading locomotive manufacturing firms specializing in this class of engine, while certain American manufacturers also have devoted their energies to the same problem.

In Great Britain the possibilities of this form of transportation have been appreciated and are receiving greater attention. The admiralty recently acquired a locomotive of this type for use in the explosive danger zones. The engine is able to run for several hours upon one charge of steam, and owing to the system of heat insulation adopted the locomotive may be left standing for a period of 12 hours in the open or without appreciable loss of energy. The engine is easy to handle. In fact it is operated in exactly the same manner as the ordinary locomotive except that firing is eliminated. The control is precisely similar.

Not only is the engine fireless but all the rubbing faces such as the brake blocks and the impact points represented by the buffers are rendered sparkless by the use of special facing materials. These engines have been extensively adopted in dangerous mines where access to the workings is provided by gradients instead of shafts.

Vacation Essentials.

Melvil Dewey in the New York Independent.

Most people who resolve to take a rest, perhaps at large sacrifice, come home feeling that what they did ought to have been something different. Perhaps a list of "Don'ts" will most compactly give the warnings against mistakes on which experts largely agree.

Don't accept vastly inferior advantages simply to save a few hours ride but even worse, don't waste strength and thus neutralize part of the benefit by traveling thousands of miles to find what perhaps can be had better in one-tenth of the distance.

If you live inland, go to either coast or mountains. If you live in the mountains don't go to other mountains but to the sea if its damp salt air agrees with you. If not go to the plains and escape the humidity so trying to many when physically below par. If you live within 200 miles of the sea go straight to the inland mountains. The commonest mistake is to go from a seaboard city to a resort also near the coast simply because it is quicker. Air is vastly more important than food and water, for we eat only three times a day, but fill our lungs 15 to 20 times a minute. So a complete change of air is the first essential for a wise vacation.

Don't choose the wrong altitude. Experts here and in Europe after long study, agree that for the average man the most perfect elevation is about 1,800 feet, lower than that one loses the wonderful tonic effect and higher many hearts are overstrained. Now and then one (perhaps one to 1,000), finds even 1,800 feet too high. If after a week there is any discomfort he might better sacrifice other advantages and drop to a lower level.

Don't go to an enervating climate. Nine-tenths of those who seek the tropics would gain twice as much by getting into the dry cold of the north. It is the difference between hot and cold baths. Heat feels much better to the invalid but all the world knows that the cold dash tones up while the hot bath weakens.

Don't fear cold where the air is dry and home comforts are available. Hundreds each year who have thought the Adirondack forests a kind of Greenland that only Arctic explorers should visit in winter are astonished to find that they are much more comfortable than in seaboard cities where the thermometer runs 20 to 40 degrees higher. They are learning that dry cold does not bite.

Don't buy costly furs and elaborate equipment. If you choose the right climate, the dry cold often demands no thicker clothes. If you are outdoors without exercising much you can buy or rent the cheap but comfortable local furs, a $30 long coat is as warm as rare skins that cost $200 or more. An all-wool 3-in-1 cap, at trifling cost, protects ears, neck and face one or all as wished.

Don't risk comfort and health and perhaps life in the cold north winter by living in houses equipped for mid-summer only. Convinced of the superlative value of cold and winter sports, one unwisely ventures to use the usual makeshift house and tries by extra clothing and hot fires to get through somehow. This is a grave danger. Sometimes it will be 80 degrees or more near register or stove and less than 50 degrees nearer doors and windows. After exercising till tired, it is a serious risk to sit in a house full of drafts that wander about in search of a victim.

Don't go where snow and ice come and go, but where they stay put. Shun that bane of a winter outing, humidity of melting snow. It is as bad for health as for temper. Dry air and dry snow are essential to best results.

Industrial Paternalism.

From the New York World.

Ford employes in Atlanta whose wages were cut have learned that the reduction was made because "some of the employes wasted money, some did not share an equal portion with their wives, others drank and a few made no effort to save or prepare for the future." A moral wage scale is something novel in industry and connotes a certain degree of espionage on the part of employers. But have sober and industrious workers any real cause to complain of it? Perhaps the Ford idea in this instance is only a little in advance of like ideas of personal regulation which have found expression in the practice of some companies of making total abstinence a qualification for employment.

Sweden has 425,000 persons in cooperative association. There are 5,573 societies.

CIVILIZATION.

From the Kansas City Star.

The present war is regarded on all hands as a triumph of science. Huge guns are fired by engineers. The resources of modern physics and chemistry are at the service of killing men. The submarine, the aeroplane, the dirigible, wireless telegraphy, all are devoted to the destruction of human life.

The nightmare of Europe recalls Voltaire's story of the shipwrecked refugees, who toiled across the barren plains not knowing whether they were on a desert island. Then on a bleak moor in the twilight they saw a human skeleton dangling from a gallows. "Thank God," they exclaimed, falling on their knees, "we have got back to civilization!"

Sympathy for Dumb Animals.

The doctor says I ought to ride a horse, said the large man.

He may be a good doctor replied the athletic person, but he is no member of the S. P. C. A.

Boasting of ancestors doesn't help posterity.

COLDS
and Catarrhal Troubles
Cured by Pe-ru-na
A cold is acute catarrh. Peruna is a recognized standard remedy for catarrh.
Copy "Ills of Life" Free.
The Peruna Co., Columbus, O.

A Message To Women

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak.

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. HORNUNG, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Made Me Well and Strong.

MACEDON, N.Y.—"I was all run down and very thin in flesh, nervous, no appetite, could not sleep and was weak, and felt badly all the time. The doctors said I had poor blood and what I had was turning to water. I took different medicines which did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. FRED CHACE, R. No. 2, Macedon, N.Y.

The Change of Life.

BELTSVILLE, MD.—"By the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I have successfully passed through a most trying time, the Change of Life. I suffered with a weakness, and had to stay in bed three days at a time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I am praising it for the benefit of other women who suffer as I did."—Mrs. W. S. DUVALL, Route No. 1, Beltsville, Md.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Flattered.

Mistress Bridget, it always seems to me that the worst mistresses get the best cooks."

Cook: Ah, go on wid yer blarney!

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray, also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Adv.

The really conceited man is the whole parade when walking alone.

Don't Persecute Your Bowels

Cut out cathartics and purgatives. They are brutal, harsh, unnecessary. Try

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Purely vegetable. Act gently on the liver, eliminate bile, and soothe the delicate membrane of the bowel. Cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache and Indigestion, as millions know.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE.

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

BLACK LEG LOSSES SURELY PREVENTED by Cutter's Blackleg Pills. Low-priced, fresh, reliable; preferred by Western stockmen, because they protect where other vaccines fail. Write for booklet and testimonials. 10-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills $1.00 50-dose pkge. Blackleg Pills 4.00 Use any injector, but Cutter's best.

The superiority of Cutter products is due to over 15 years of specializing in vaccines and serums only. Insist on Cutter's. If unobtainable, order direct. The Cutter Laboratory, Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago. 111

The Soul of Repartee.

Mrs. Givem—You are a loafer.

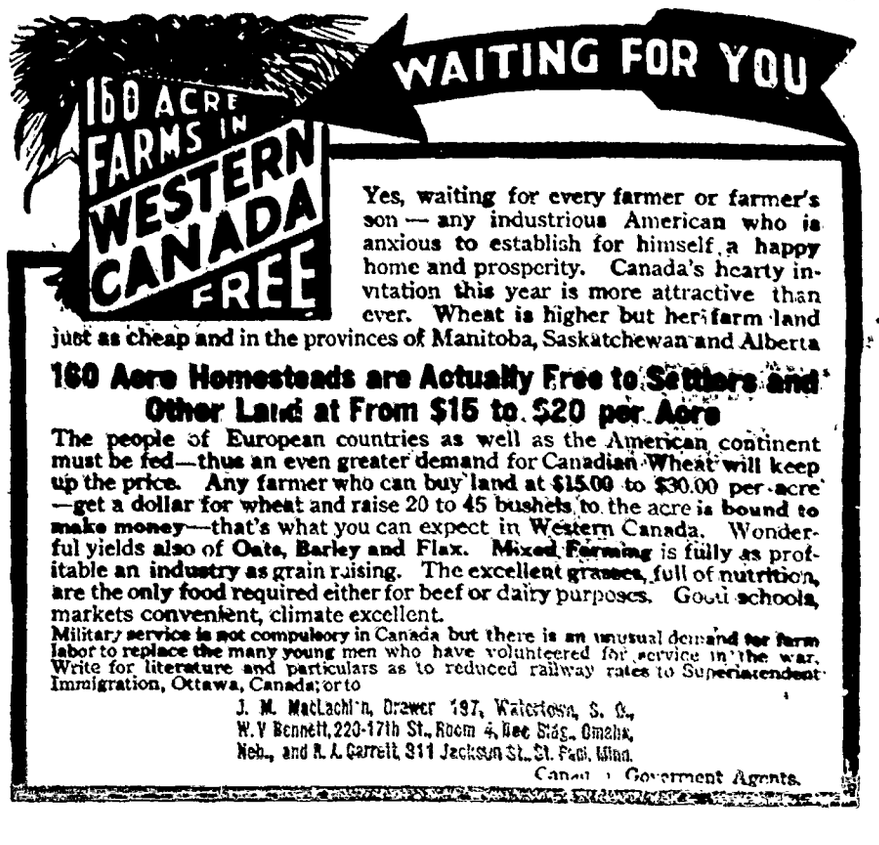
Weary Willie—Yes'm; a six-cent loafer.—New York Sun.

CORN-OATS-RYE

Wisconsin yields on top—Salzer's specialties helped do it. BIG SEED CATALOG FREE.

John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 12-1915.



Yes, waiting for every farmer or farmer's son — any industrious American who is anxious to establish for himself a happy home and prosperity. Canada's hearty invitation this year is more attractive than ever. Wheat is higher but her farm land just as cheap and in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta

160 Acre Homesteads are Actually Free to Settlers and Other Land at From $15 to $20 per Acre

The people of European countries as well as the American continent must be fed—thus an even greater demand for Canadian Wheat will keep up the price. Any farmer who can buy land at $15.00 to $30.00 per acre—get a dollar for wheat and raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre is bound to make money—that's what you can expect in Western Canada. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed Farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate excellent.

Military service is not compulsory in Canada but there is an unusual demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service in the war. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; or to

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.,
W. V. Bennett, 220-17th St., Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Carrell, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents.

A Progressive Newspaper In The Most Progressive Town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 29 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department. Our earned Surplus of $15,000.00

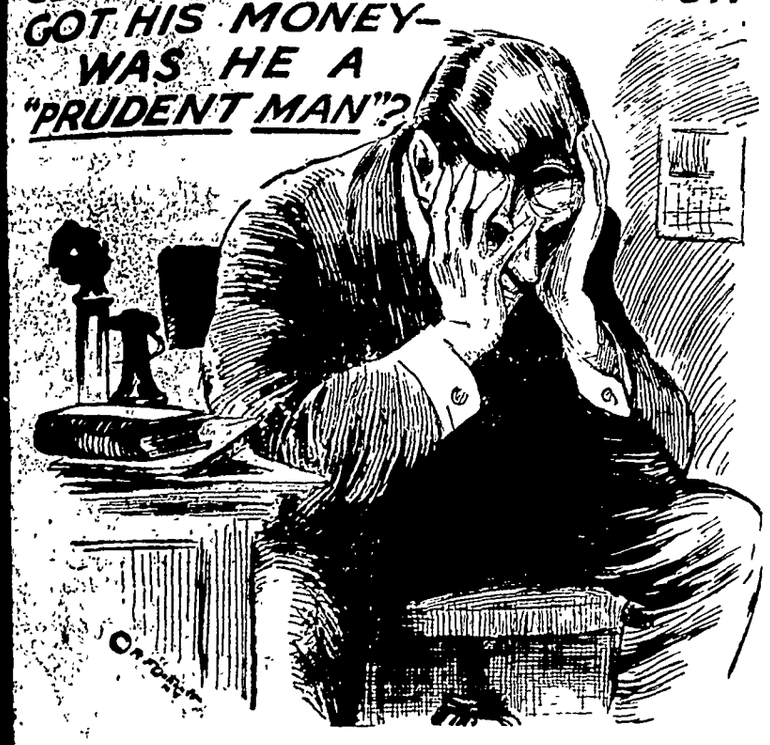
is proof of the success of this policy.

GET-RICH-QUICK SPECULATION GOT HIS MONEY— WAS HE A "PRUDENT MAN"?



No wonder this man is discouraged! He thought he could make a fortune quickly. He believed some oily tongued rascal; he sent his money away; he LOST it.

Would it not have been better for him had he kept his money SAFE in our bank and let it PILE UP until he had enough to buy something right here at home he could watch himself? He would have helped the community and increased the value of HIS property.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interst on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Surplus $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

G. A. PABST,

Klemme, - - - - - Iowa

Call and get one of our Silent Salesman Sample Wall Paper Books, Containing samples of all paper we carry in stock with prices printed on sample which will meet any competition.

The Druggist G. A. Pabst

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs — Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

NEWSPAPERMEN'S BIG SHORT COUSE

Held at Ames Last Thursday Friday and Saturday—Well Attended

The editor of this sheet was at Ames, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, attending Iowa's First Newspaper Men's Short Course and it was a success far beyond all expectations. Over 125 Iowa editors were in attendance and we were sorry to see so few from this immediate locality being noticeable by their abscence, Bro. Bailey of the Britt Tribune and the writer being the only editors from this county to attend.

The program offered was varied, dealing with agriculture in its many branches, cost accounting for the printing office and many other topics of much interest to the country publisher.

The meals were served at the College Inn, Campus, at a very reasonable price and the various fraternities held open house and we had the honor of being entertained by Theta Xi, and we certainly were made to feel at home and never hope to meet a finer bunch of young men.

Thursday's work was taken up something as follows: Farm Management and its Modern Problems, by H. B Munger: A Survey of Horticulture in Iowa, by Prof A. T. Erwin; Dairying and Its Relation to Iowa's Resources, by Prof. M. Mortenson. Soils and Soil Problems in Iowa, by Prof W H Stevenson Cost Accounting for the Country Newspaper, by Howard L Rann. In the evening President R. A. Pearson, Modern Agriculture; Dean C. F. Curtsss, Agricultural Problems of the Future, and Harvey Ingham of the Register and Leader, Agriculture and the Country Newspaper President Pearson and Dean Curtiss made us feel that we were welcome and the talks were very interesting and instructive. Harvey Ingham's lecture which followed was one of the best that we have ever heard him give and he was warmed up just enough over the proposed Johnston bill to give the best he had in him. All those who heard him became so enthused over his remarks that an unanimous resolution was passed in disfavor of the Johnston bill.

Friday, opened up by a still larger attendance, and the program was pretty much similar with the exceptance of an after dinner talk by George H Fitch of Peoria, on Country Newspapering, and the balance of the evening was turned over to several speakers including Hugh McVey of the Successful Farming on the Hampton Plan and Leaks that Need Fixing by W. F. Parrot of Waterloo.

Saturday morning's work again dealt with the cost question and the many leaks that are overlooked in the average printing office and the work was ably handled by H. L. Rann of Manchester and W. F. Parrot of Waterloo. Before adjourning all present voted the meeting to be the most beneficial and instructing that they have ever had the privilege of attending and unanimously in favor of making it an annual affair.

The success of the meeting was largely due to the energetic efforts of Prof. Beckman, head of the journalism department, and he deserves a great deal of praise for his untiring efforts.

On Friday, pictures of the "bunch" were taken and they also "acted up" for the "movies" while scoring the prize winning stock paraded in front of them, and the pictures were shown in the assembly hall of the agricultural building in the evening.

The college was a revelation to a large majority of those in attendance and they went home with more of the Ames spirit than ever, and now we can truthfully state that Iowa supports the largest and most successful agricultural college in the Union, and an institution that every loyal Iowan can take just pride.

Here is hoping that more of the newspaper boys wake up and make up their mind to not miss the 1916 short course.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, praire lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

New York.—Charles Stelzle, director of relief and emergency measures of Mayor Mitchel's Committee on Unemployment, has left his position to begin the organization of a national bureau for the relief of the hundreds of thousands of artisans and working men who soon will be thrown out of employment in the various states which recently have passed prohibition laws. The movement bas been endorsed by the leading labor leaders and philanthropists.

Webb City, Mo.—Grace Tucker, age 15, established a record when she secured a divorce and married again all within 24 hours. The girl married at the age of 12 years and secured her divorce on the ground that relatives had forced her into the ceremony. She is now Mrs. William Shadwick.

Dowagiac, Mich.—Baby Ruth Burkett, three-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burkett, has 1 grand parents. The oldest of her ancestors are her great great grandfather, Franklin Beals of Hartford, aged 84, and great-great grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Kelly of the same place, aged 79.

Fort Yates, N. D.—A cat and a dog can be friendly—aye, even more The old argument was settled here today with a statement from Rev. Father Bernard, of the Fort Yates Catholic church, that he had just married Miss Rose High Cat to Harry Poor Dog. They are Sioux Indians.

Madison, Wis.—A bill pending before the Wisconsin legislature provides that girls engaged in domestic work shall have a room suitable for entertaining callers, two nights off every week, and a maximum employment of not to exceed 60 hours a week.

Loraine, Ohio.—Thomas J McCullin, a blind man, has just defeated John Follett, another blind man, living at Farview, Utah, in a checker game which required more than one year to play. Each move was made by letter and required two weeks.

Winasted, Conn.—Arthur F. Ackley returning home upon his first furlough from the navy was so glad to see his grandmother, Mrs. Ferdinand Fortier, that he gave her a hearty hug breaking one of the old lady's ribs.

Chicago, Ill.—Peter D. Middlekauff has given his son and daughter an apartment building worth $140,000 just to see how they will manage it. The building contains 28 apartments and the total rent roll is $13,000.

New York.—James Hartman, employe of the baby-checking room, at a department store was almost mobbed by a throng of infuriated mothers when a mischievous youngster mixed the checks.

Aurora, Ill.—In a law suit involving a man and his wife the court made her husband promise that his wife could warm her feet on nis back every night until spring.

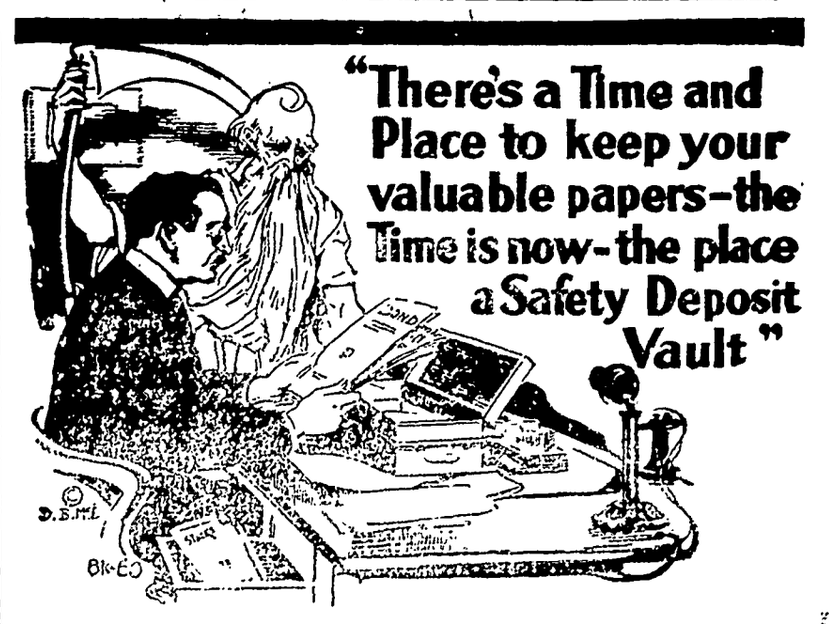
MASON CITY AUTO SHOW

The Automobile Show to be held at the new Armory in Mason City, Iowa, March 25-26-27 is proving to be of such proportions as to exceed even the most sanguine expectations of the Show Committee. Applications for space have been received from Mason City dealers for fifty cars, besides many applications from out of town dealers. As the Show is put on by local dealers and they are already short of space it is impossible for the Show Committee to admit outside exhibits of automobiles.

Among the cars to be shown are the Cadillac, Buick, Overland, Hudson Ford, Dodge, Lippar-Stewart, Reo, Chalmers, Studebaker, International, Sphinx, Case, Paige, Apperson, Saxon, Jefferson, Chevrolet, Hupmobile, Haynes, Imperial and Wilcox. Several stripped chassis will be on exhibition and these will prove to be of educational interest to visitors.

Music will be furnished by Gates Orchestra and on Thursday night, March 25th, a special musical program will be given by the 56th Regimental Band assisted by M. R. Tournier, vocal soloist.

Friday evening, March 26th, at the Cecil Theatre the famous Potash & Perlmutter production will be given. Out of town visitors may go to Mason City in the morning, attend the Automobile Show Friday afternoon and see the Potash & Perlmutter performance in the evening. Special trains have been arranged for on several railroads to return after the theatre.



¶ We have provided a Steel Safety Deposit Vault for the use of those desiring to safe-guard their important papers and valuables.

¶ The rental of space is so low that you can well afford the protection. There are a limited number of boxes and our vault is built to withstand fire and prevent theft—Come in and examine it. Saving accounts solicited.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us Demonstrate Our Ability To Serve Yon Promptly And Satisfactorily In The Matter Of Your Supply Of Lumber You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT As We Sell the Best That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Easter Flowers

Cut Flowers---

Easter Lillies Carnations Roses
Johnquils Hyacinths Tulips

1 full box mixed and varied flowers $1.00 to $5.00

Beautiful Line of Plants---

Lillies, each, 50c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50
Rose Plants, in bloom, 75c, 1, 1.50, 2
Fine Hyacinths 20c each
Azalias, each, 1., 1.50 and 2.
Hydringas, each, 2. to 1.50

Order Early

Hill City Greenhouses

FOREST CITY, IOWA

Arthur Wellemeyer, Agent

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

Simple fare is quite the rule now both at Buckingham palace and at Sandringham, and this will continue as long as the war is on Meals in the royal household have never been so elaborate during the present reign as they were in King Edward's time King George is not nearly so much of an epicure as his father was. He has to be exceedingly careful what he eats, and he avoids rich foods both for preference and of necessity, for he occasionally suffers from gastritis. Both the king and queen prefer boiled fish, and meat cooked quite plainly, without an abundance of cunningly seasoned sauces which delight the heart of a clever French chef A recent dinner menu at the palace consisted mainly of boiled turbot, a dish of cutlets, a fruit salad, and a savory. Champagne is rarely drunk except on special occasions, and when it is the bottle is not placed in a silver holder or covered with a napkin. But the label and everything which might signify the brand is removed.

New York city is trying the experiment of closing certain highways to traffic daily and letting the youngsters romp in them Huge signs are placed across these thoroughfares reading Street closed for play ' Miss Ruth Robinson, chief play organizer says "It brings an ache to the heart to see how reluctant some of the babies are to cut loose and play in the open street Play seems inextricably associated in their little minds with guilt No one, after watching for an hour or two the healthy spirit that grows among the children in these alloted play streets can doubt their benefit to the little people of New York" Play is the best constructive factor in child growth Even kittens and puppies will not thrive unless permitted to play Play is the most skilful of physical trainers and moral teachers

Judge Robert O Harris tells of a rather embarrassing introduction which former Ambassador Curtis Guild once received when he went to speak at a republican rally in the western part of Massachusetts According to Judge Harris it went something after this fashion "The voters decided that the town committee ought to have a rally with the best speaker it could get. We couldn't get Governor Robinson, we couldn t get Senator Hoar, nor Tom Reed, but we did the best we could, and I now have the honor of introducing Mr Curtis Guild of Boston."

Charles Hoffbauer, the artist, who while a student in Paris won a second medal at the Salon with his first picture a feat never before or since duplicated is now at the front with his regiment in France For two years prior to the war breaking out he was engaged in making some elaborate decorative work for the Richmond confederate memorial He is perhaps best remembered by his famous painting in the Luxembourg called War ' showing a dead soldier, in a woodland on a white horse

Kenneth W Tinker age 6 son of Harry Tinker who is the owner of an independent telephone company largely of rural subscribers at Clio, Mich is one of the youngest telephone operators in Michigan if not in the United States Without any assistance he has mastered the switchboard with such a degree of proficiency that it is no longer necessary to have a more experienced operator near by to take the more difficult local calls. There are 215 subscribers to the system on 27 party lines.

The Italian earthquake coming in the midst of the great war recalls one curious effect of a seismic shock in 1888 The cables connecting Australia with the outer world were suddenly broken by a distant earthquake, and the government under the impression that an enemy had cut the lines, mobilized the naval and military forces in readiness to repel attack

A dust-laying compound the basis of which is molasses has been successfully made use of in the South African mines. The preparation which contains a small quantity of some disinfectant, forms a thick coating on the underground walk and surfaces and closely covers all dangerous noxious matter

A Cairo correspondent writes to the Manchester Guardian that owing to the failing of the Nile Egypt will have to import nearly all her rice this year The Nile has not been so low for nearly 100 years and the facilities for water storage have been insufficient to relieve the distress

Princess Shakovskaya is the only woman aviator in the great war She is said to be in active service at the front in east Prussia At first her application was rejected because of her sex, but she demonstrated that she could manage a flying machine as well as a man and was finally accepted

The United States of America is by far the greatest steel producing country on earth Germany comes next, with Great Britain third The figures for 1910 (the latest at hand for the moment) show this country to be equal in steel products to both Germany and the United Kingdom

The little town of Sabetha in Kansas, possesses a citizen by the name of H. Rider Haggard Nor is this all Robert Louis Stevenson was reported the other day in the Sabetha Herald is having paid a visit to his grandmother Mrs Fannie Brannigan

The 'safety first idea which has recently come into general practice on most American roads is an old one in Germany and other European countries, where the practice extends to every form of industry, as well as the railroads.

War on rats for the purpose of preventing the spread of bubonic plague is conducted not because the rats themselves spread the plague, but rather the fleas which are carried by the rodents.

Whaling is now a well established industry off the Portuguese-African coast The "humpbacked" whale averages 45 feet in length and the occasional sperm whale about 50 feet.

The witch tree of Nevada is so luminous that a persons standing near it can read ordinary print easily The tree itself can be seen for a mile on the darkest nights

Engineers in India are trying the novel experiment of catching that country's heavy rainfall in reservoirs and using it to produce electric power

Ernest Roume former governor general of the French province in east Africa has been appointed governor general of Indo-China by the cabinet.

Oil-fire locomotives in operation at Buenos Ayres have shown an economy of 20 to 30 per cent over coal.

The omnibuses of London carried the entire population of the city 100 times in the course of last year

STATE PRINTER SUES PIERCE FOR $50,000 ON LIBEL ALLEGATION

Also Says He Will Ask Federal and State Courts to Push Criminal Action.

Des Moines, Ia, March 20.—As a result of random charges brought against him, Robert Henderson, state printer, today filed in the Polk county district court a suit for $50,000 damages from James M Pierce, a Des Moines publisher.

Henderson will ask for $10,000 actual damages and $40,000 exemplary damages. His attorneys are Clark, Byers and Hutchinson.

"In addition to seeking damages I have instructed my attorneys to present the case to the Polk county grand jury on a charge of criminal libel," Henderson said "Furthermore, the federal grand jury will be asked to indict Pierce on charge of misuse of the mails by sending libelous matter through them."

Pierce failed to show in his testimony before the legislature, any overcharges by the state printer It was brought out that the high cost of state printing is due to many unnecessary and padded reports, issued on the order of the legislative or state officials

PUPILS WRITE ESSAYS ON CIVIC NEEDS OF CHEROKEE

Cherokee Ia March 20 --The civics committee of the Woman's club of Cherokee, is attempting a few small activities by way of creating interest and enthusiasm for better civic conditions in Cherokee In order to call the attention of the high school pupils to their part in certain civic advancement, the committee announced a prize essay contest open to all high school pupils, on the subject 'The Ten Things Most Needed in Cherokee for Civic Improvement"

The length of the papers was placed at 500 words and prizes of $5 and $3 offered for first and second places. The date set for the papers to be handed to the chairman of the civics committee, Mrs. W P Goldie was March 15. Mrs. Karl Herrick, Rev C D. Moore and Carl Maher, president of the Cherokee Commercial club, were chosen as judges of the contest The papers were to be graded only on the value and feasibility of the 10 suggestions each contestant produced for Cherokee's civic improvement.

Will Loft was awarded the first place and Miss Florence Sagness the second place. Both prize winners are seniors in the Cherokee high school. All papers agreed on the one point, namely, a public park or some system of small parks The suggestions included everything in the way of garbage disposal, street and alley cleanup projects, more paving, automatic cleaning of pavements and oiling streets in central sections, additional electrolier lighting, a Y M C A building, an improved and enlarged public school system, municipal hospital closein apartment buildings, co-operating with the Illinois Central railroad to improve the right of way through central Cherokee the improvement and beautifying of a small creek running through a prominent section of the town, better roads leading into Cherokee, economic expenditure of public moneys to give better results and decrease taxes, the absolute enforcement of all civic ordinances which we now have to cover many of the much needed improvements and the necessity of urging completion of a promised government post office building.

GIRL KILLS HERSELF IN BROOKS HOME AT TAMA

Tama, Ia March 20 --Miss Mary Wilmek was found dead yesterday afternoon in the home of Arthur Brooks, where she was employed An investigation revealed that she had committed suicide by drinking two ounces of carbolic acid

Miss Wilmek was a resident of Elberon, where her parents reside Some time ago she came here to enter the employ of the Brooks family At the present time Mr and Mrs Brooks are in Hot Springs, Ark , and they left the home in charge of a son and Miss Wilmek Tuesday the son was absent from home, and it is supposed that some time during the night the girl took the poison A note left by her addressed to John Kublich said that it was for his sake that she had determined to kill herself Miss Wilmek was 22 years of age

ALGONA MAN ENJOINED FROM HIS FATHER'S FARM

Algona Ia., March 20 –On petition of James Robinson, sr , a Bancroft farmer aged 64, his son, James Robertson, jr , aged 32, has been temporarily enjoined from going on his father's farm or entering the parental home. Judge Coyle entered the order For more than a year, against the old man's will, he says the son has been living at his father's home ignoring the latter's repeated commands to go away and never come back

Defendant is a chronic disturber of the peace in plaintiff's home, the petition claims In brief, the old man alleges that his son annoys him continually, threatens bodily violence, teaches the little boys to be incorrigible and makes their mother quarrelsome with the plaintiff

Plaintiff says he is not in good health and that he is afraid of injury at his son's hands

UNIFORM TEXT BOOK BILL KILLED BY COMMITTEE

Des Moines, Ia., March 20.—The house school and text book committees yesterday recommended for indefinite postponement the Bauman bill providing for state uniformity of text books and creating a state school book commission composed of the superintendent of public instruction, secretary of state, president of the state board of education, president of the Iowa State Teachers' college and president of the state university.

The house yesterday passed a bill by Smith, of Cass, providing for the incorporation of state farm mortgage banks by a vote of 93 for and 3 against. Any 10 persons may organize such an institution providing it has a capital of not less than $50,000 to loan money on first mortgages on farms to not more than 50 per cent of their value.

MASON CITY POPULATION SHOWS GAIN OF 53 PER CENT

Mason City, Ia., March 19.—Fifty-three per cent gain in population in five years is the record made by Mason City. Today the final checking of the census enumerators was completed and they announce the population of Mason City as 17,221 The county census will not be complete for several days. While officers are interested in the census because of boosting salaries, it is announced from Des Moines that no salary, depending on population, will be changed until the census is announced by the secretary of state, which will probably not be until fall

SUPERVISORS RESIGN AND THUS STOP SUIT FOR THEIR REMOVAL

Another Angle to Hardin Case, In Which Engineer Had Been on Trial.

Eldora, Ia., March 20.—The ouster suit brought by the state under the Cosson laws against County Supervisor Charles Marks came to a sudden termination in the district court here when the object sought was accomplished without the conclusion of the trial Supervisor Marks filed his resignation as a member of the board, as did N L. Webster, another of the old members of the board. The filing of the resignations was followed immediately by the dismissal of the court actions, which ends another chapter in the sensational suits growing out of the actions of the board in connection with the drainage bills allowed to County Engineer S. B. Gardner, who has been under indictment because of the alleged irregularities.

CONNOLLY'S "SWAN SONG" IN CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Washington, D. C., March 20 —Under the 'leave to print" privilege, the final remarks of Representative Maurice Connolly, as a member of the House appear in today's Congressional Record Mr Connolly in his 'swan song' alludes to his senatorial fight against Senator Cummins and says he bears him no ill will

'During my membership in this House," said Mr Connolly, 'some of the leaders of my party in Iowa presented to me as a matter of party service that I should make the race for the Senate It was against my own judgment and inclination Good fortune attended my contest for the nomination, and in a statewide primary my party selected me as its standard bearer, although opposed by one of the most distinguished citizens of Iowa

"In the November elections, while I was the recipient of a splendid and impressive vote, the state of Iowa, as has been its custom, returned a republican, the present senior senator and one of the possible nominees of his party for the presidency of the United States I bear no ill will toward him or any other political opponent"

MISSING HOSPITAL PATIENT DIES FROM EXPOSURE

Eldora, Ia., March 20 —Miss Lela Norman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs D S Norman, of Providence township, who has been missing from the state hospital for insane at Independence for more than a week past, is believed to have perished from exposure Her body was found in a swale in a field one mile from the state institution and was brought here by her father

Miss Norman was 23 years of age and was a native of North Carolina The family has resided in this county for several years On January 3 last Miss Norman was adjudged insane and ordered to the hospital at Independence On March 3 she disappeared and a state wide search for her was instituted by the hospital authorities and Sheriff Max Gehrke, of this county who sent out a description of the young woman and asked the police of various cities to aid in the search

UNANIMOUS REPORT MADE ON NEW STATE SYSTEM

Des Moines, Ia., March 20.—The retrenchment and reform committee of the Thirty-Sixth general assembly approved the plan of reorganization of the state government, which was recommended by the retrenchment and reform committee of the Thirty-Fifth general assembly

The committee will file in the senate and house today a bill which will provide for grouping all of the state departments into three divisions and the appointment of superintendents thereof, creating a governor's advisory board and transferring to the said board all of the powers and duties to the executive council, abolishing the executive council, providing for the filing of reports and the editing and publishing thereof, creating an official budget transferring to the superintendent of public safety all of the present duties relating to the registration of motor vehicles.

FARMER FATALLY HURT IN WRESTLING BOUT

Knoxville, Ia., March 20.—Sam Cole a well known young farmer residing four miles south of Pleasantville in this county, is lying hopelessly paralyzed as the result of a friendly scuffle which occurred at the Cole home last Thursday

The serious extent of the young man's injuries was only ascertained by an examination held today, which revealed the fact that his back had been broken and the spinal cord badly lacerated

Young Cole engaged in a wrestling match with Harmon Forst, a young man of about his own age The referees decided that in order to claim a fall one must put the other squarely on his back Cole fell on his elbows and knees with Forst astride his back The bystanders say that they heard something break and Cole dropped helplessly on his side unable to move Doctors say that Cole is fatally injured

DR. REEVES ARRAIGNED FOR SHOOTING HIS WIFE

LeMars Ia March 20 Dr J L. Reeves, who recently shot and wounded his wife, was arraigned before Justice Fritz yesterday afternoon The charge against him is assault with intent to commit murder. County Attorney Roseberry appeared for the prosecution, and the defendant was represented by Attorney J T Kennedy. The accused man waived preliminary hearing and was held to the grand jury, his bond being placed at $4,000. He was returned to jail pending an effort to secure a bond Mrs Reeves is progressing favorably since the bullets were extracted and physicians in attendance say she will recover. She has no wish to push the criminal charge against her husband

DES MOINES—County supervisors are empowered to make provision for the segregation, care and support of indigent persons afflicted with tuberculosis, through a bill passed by the house Wednesday drafted by the board of control committee

FARM HAND AT PAULLINA KILLED BY FALLING TREE

Paullina, Ia., March 18 —Arthur Paulsen, a farm hand employed by N Schueder, met an accidental death when was struck on the head by a falling tree limb.

The children were at school, and Mr Schueder was in town On leaving he had told the man there was nothing he needed to do except the chores, but the two had been cutting down trees and chopping wood and Paulsen, in order not to be idle, went out to fell other trees, resulting in his death.

IOWA HOUSE PASSES BILL TO AUTHORIZE CITY MANAGER PLAN

Petition of 25 Per Cent Will Submit Question—Powers Are Extensive.

Des Moines, Ia., March 19.—The McFarlane bill giving cities and towns the right to employ city managers to govern their affairs, was passed by the house yesterday afternoon by a vote of 96 for and 6 against It contemplates radical changes in the conduct of municipal government, but does not give cities any more powers than are now afforded them

Twenty-five per cent of the electors of the city may cause the proposition to be submitted to the people upon petition. The same number, by petition, may cause the proposition of abandoning the plan to be submitted to the people.

Provision is made for the election of four councilmen in the city of Waterloo, but in all other large cities five councilmen are to be chosen. They shall meet and choose one of their number to act as mayor The councilmen will be nominated by petition.

It will be the duty of the council to hire a city manager who will have absolute control of the police, fire, street and other departments of the city The city manager may accept or reject bids on material and the like The councilmen will receive no compensation After having selected a city manager, their only duties will be to pass ordinances The only persons who will be appointed by the council in addition to the city manager will be the police magistrate, city solicitor and library trustees. The city manager is given authority to employ and discharge all other persons connected with the city

Provision is made for the dismissal of a city manager who uses his influence to elect a city councilman His salary shall be fixed by the council and be paid monthly

The council in making the appointment of a city manager is called upon to consider only the fitness of the applicants. He shall be appointed without regard to his party affiliation and need not be a resident of the city or town at the time of his appointment During the absence or disability of the manager the council is given the right to designate another person to execute his work.

The duties of the manager as outlined in the bill are

To see that laws and ordinances are faithfully enforced

To attend all meetings of the council

To recommend to the council such measures as he may deem necessary or expedient for the good government or welfare of the city

Supervise and direct the administration of the city government

Supervise and direct the conduct of all appointive officers except the clerk, police judge or magistrate solicitor, corporation council assessor board of review and members of the library board

Supervise the performance of all contracts for work to be done make all purchases of materials and see that the materials and supplies are received and are of the quality and character called for by the contract

LONE ENGINE LEFT ON TRACK CAUSES WRECK

Mason City, Ia., March 19 --An accident which abounds in peculiar situations occurred on the Milwaukee railroad About midnight there arrives in this city a passenger train from the Twin cities Last night, as usual, the engine was taken from the train and left in the yards Along in the early hours of the morning, as a freight train was nearing Portland four miles east of here the engineer saw a dead engine standing on the tracks He endeavored to stop his train but it being down hill it was impossible for him to bring it to a complete standstill, and the two engines struck each other with enough force to derail the dead engine Upon investigation the engine was found to be the one from the Twin cities, but how it go where it was no one knows The first impression was that it had liberated itself in some manner and ran down the track, stopping when the steam was exhausted This theory was thoroughly punctured when it was learned that every switch was open and it would have been impossible for the engine to have performed such a caper The only other theory is that someone stole the engine and went on a joy ride down the line Some of the detectives of the road are now in the city working on the riddle

SPIRITED CONTEST FOR MAYORSHIP AT CHEROKEE

Cherokee Ia March 19 -The caucus held to nominate city officers was spirited as to the office of mayor four candidates being in the field For the other offices but one set of candidates was up and they were nominated by acclamation The result was For mayor William Griffin 3 votes Charles T Knapp 165 votes J H Burlingame the present incumbent 183 votes and D W McNeal the dark horse, 294 votes. For the other offices the nominations were as follows City treasurer George Brummer city assessor Lon Lawrey jr aldermen at large William Unger and Leonard H Morrill aldermen First ward, Charles Graves aldermen Second ward R H Kuhrts to succeed himself alderman Third ward John Scott

ONE KILLED, TWO INJURED IN WRECK NEAR STRAHAN

Malvern Ia March 19 —Brakeman Thomas McMahon of Stansboro, Mo., was killed Conductor S. J Parker, of Council Bluffs, received a bad scalp wound and a broken leg. Brakeman Willard Halloway of Stansboro had a wrist and three ribs broken injured internally and may die in a wreck of fast freight No 95 on the Wabash railroad Yesterday near Strahan nine miles from Malvern An automobile car left the track causing the train to pile up on a trestle The trestle was smashed in two and the whole wreck was piled into the creek McMahon's neck was broken He leaves a widow and two children A special train took the body home to his fatherinlaw, W C Schwartz, of Silver City Ia

LYON COUNTY BOARD TO BUILD ITS OWN BRIDGES

Rock Rapids, Ia., March 17 —The Lyon county board of supervisors has decided that it will in future build its own bridges and do the road work. Herman Kage, an expert bridge man, and Jacob Mann who is a practical road grader have been employed to superintend the work It is believed that the county will save money by this method and secure better results all along the line Mr Kage is to receive a salary of $1,500 a year and $300 extra compensation for auto and livery hire.

ENGINEER SUSPENDED IN AIR BY BIG SPIKE THROUGH ARM TENDON

Hurled From Gangway of Engine While Crossing Small Bridge Near Loveland.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 18.—S Mummery, of Boone, an engineer on the main line of the Northwestern railroad, is in a hospital at Missouri Valley, as the result of a painful and dangerous accident and one that was inflicted in an unusual manner.

While coming east, near Loveland, the engine he was on left the track and Mummery was thrown from the gangway.

At the moment that he was thrown out the engine was passing over a small bridge. Mummery was thrown almost clear of the ends of the bridge, but not quite, and one arm caught and was ripped open by a spike which lacked several inches of being driven into the tie

The spike was caught so firmly in the tendons of the arm that Mummery was held suspended with the blood streaming from his arm and the pain became almost unendurable before aid reached him and he was released.

The spike entered the arm just at the elbow and tore its way to the wrist

BUDGET BILL PASSES HOUSE UNANIMOUSLY

Des Moines, Ia, March 18.—Iowa finances will be placed upon the budget system if the senate concurs with the house in passing the bill by Representative Ring, of Linn county, providing for such a plan The Ring bill provides that each state department make a detailed statement of expenses and disbursements to the governor by November 15, preceding each session of the legislature The governor will then be required to make recommendations to the general assembly of how much money each department ought to have. In this way appropriation bills can be disposed of early in the session, instead of choking the calendar at the end of the session, when it is customary to appropriate thousands of dollars without knowing what it is for There was no opposition to the Ring bill in the house when the final vote was taken

LOCAL OPTION MEASURE APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Des Moines, Ia , March 18.—The senate committee on suppression of intemperance today reported the Hagemann local option bill for passage. It is understood there was but one vote against indorsement

The law enforcement program bills, with two exceptions, were voted for indefinite postponement The "drys" will ask that the bills be placed on the calendar for action at a future date on the reports Under orders of the senate made last week, the reports were required before March 17

The two bills reported for passage were

To provide prison sentences for persistent violators of the prohibitory law

To provide that liquor nuisance injunctions be statewide instead of only in the district where issued

LEGISLATIVE ACTION TAKEN ON MANY BILLS

Des Moines, Ia., March 18.—The house killed the Miller bill to repeal the law for registration of nurses

The Schnedika bill, requiring that stock trains be equipped with bunk cars, was passed

The Allen bill to increase the penalty for violations of the Sunday law, was voted for indefinite postponement, 25 to 17 in the senate

The Francis bill to make bootlegging a misdemeanor passed the senate. Under the present law bootlegging is defined, but no penalty is provided for the offense Despite the fact this is one of the law enforcement measures advocated by the "drys," there was not a vote against the bill

LIVE STOCK INCINERATED IN FIRE AT BUCK GROVE

Buck Grove, Ia., March 18 —The Joe Brewster barn in this city was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, the loss including three fine horses belonging to Brewster, two blooded stallions, the property of Henry Hink, and some blooded cattle which Charles Chase had quartered in the barn temporarily, preparatory to shipment Trainmen going through town at 4 o'clock gave the alarm and this probably saved the town from a more serious fire. There was a strong northwest wind blowing at the time and some hard fight was required to prevent the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings

MEMBERS ARE HELPLESS ON CAPITOL EXTENSION

Des Moines, Ia , March 18.—Capitol extension, the big issue of the last state campaign has been given little thought by the present Iowa legislature, but indications are that it has not yet gone out of existence Several measures to repeal or modify the act of the last general assembly which provided for a 10-year appropriation amounting to more than $2 000 000 for extension of the present grounds about the capitol, were introduced when the session began. Many representatives were elected on an anticapitol extension basis. One of the important bills introduced is by Ball, of Jefferson He asks that part of the land already purchased be sold and that the last eight years' tax of $150,000 each be abolished. Representative Ball threatens to bring the fight onto the floor of the house unless the committee on ways and means reports out the bill soon He points to the fact that it has been before the committee six weeks. The subcommittee to which it was referred has reported without recommendation.

BASES DAMAGE ACTION ON AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

LeMars, Ia., March 18.—Mrs. Cecelia Williamson, of Sheldon, has started suit in the district court here against Barney Bunkers, a business man of Remsen On October 10 her 8-year-old son, Harold, while playing on a street in Sheldon, was struck by an automobile driven by Mr Bunkers. The boy died 12 days later from injuries received. Mrs. Williamson asks $5,235 as damages.

R. T. WELLSLAGER DIES AT HOME IN DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., March 16.—Mr. Richard T. Wellslager, one of the oldest and most successful business men of Des Moines, died at his home on Grand avenue at 9 o'clock last night. Mr. Wellslager had been ill for several weeks. In fact he never entirely recovered from the shock caused by the death of his soninlaw, J D. Whisenand Although he had not been strong for many years he was at his desk at the Central State bank daily up to the time of this last illness, which commenced about eight weeks ago.

RUSSIANS INVADE EASTERN PRUSSIA ENTER PORT CITY

Latest Information From Berlin Says Invaders Have Entered Memel—New Battle For Warsaw Likely.

NEW BLOW IS DEALT TURKS

Supply Base Is Seized—British Say Von Hindenburg Has Failed—Anticipate New Attack In West

Petrograd, (via London) March 20. The campaign in the east has assumed a new aspect with the penetration of the northernmost of east Prussia by Russian forces. This invasion in the north in many ways parallels the advance into east Prussia of two months ago, when the Russian forces with which its was thought might flank the German positions near the Mazurian lakes, was defeated and driven out. On this occasion, however Russian military authorities say unanimously that the invasion does not possess a like strategical significance The Russian force has penetrated east Prussia within 12 miles of the important seaport of Memel.

(The official report from Berlin today, evidently based on later information, says that the Russians have entered Memel.)

New Fight For Warsaw.

Of equal importance is the general shifting of directions of the German attack in Poland, accompanied by no concentration of forces, which has now become apparent Although fighting is still in progress to the north of Przasnysz, the Germans apparently have abandoned their efforts to break through the fortified line in the north and approach Warsaw from that direction. They are transferring troops to the southern bank of the Vistula presumably in preparation for resumption of the attack along the front to the west of Warsaw near the Bzura river, where for two months they vainly hammered the strong line of Russian defenses which separates them from the Polish capital

Heavy and continued artillery fire is now under way, marking the beginning of this fresh German movement

Seize Turkish Fort.

Occupation by the Russians of Artawa, a Turkish port on the Black sea near the Russian border through which the Turks have been receiving supplies and reinforcements has caused an important movement in the Caucasian campaign

This Russian victory together with the continual pounding in the valley of the Tchoruk river, has caused the Turks to beat a disorderly retreat toward Erzerum, according to the reports from the Caucausus The road between Archawa and Schoppa, to the eastward, was defended strongly and the Turks were defeated only after a series of stubborn battles The Russian advance created a panic throughout the Tchoruk valley and the inhabitants fled to the mountains abandoning their villages

Campaign in Armenia

In recent fighting in Russian Armenia, partial victory over the Turks is claimed here, although mountain heights in the district of Ardanutch are strongly fortified and are still holding out. The Russians are bombarding Turkish positions at Ardanuch The fortifications were built and the defense is being connected, it is reported by a German officer.

A telegram from Urumiah, northwestern Persia, says that prior to the evacuation of towns between Julfa and Tabriz, the Turks and Kurds who were retreating before the Russian advance pillaged and burned the villages and put to death some of the inhabitants At Salmaz, Pagaduk and Sarna orders are said to have been given by the Turkish commander for the destruction of the towns.

All the Armenian inhabitants of Anavat were collected and, according to this message, 600 males were out to death and the women, after being compelled to embrace the Mohammedan faith, were divided into parties and sent to various interior towns

BRITISH ANTICIPATE NEW OFFENSIVE BY GERMANS

London, March 9.—The apparent failure of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in various attempts to reach Warsaw, the reappearance of Russians over the east Prussian frontier near Tilsit and the allied offensive in the west has, according to British observers put Germany in a position where she dare not shift any substantial force from either east or west.

Although there are rumors of reinforcements being hurried from Poland to France, or Belgium, to meet the French and British thrusts military writers in London hold to the opinion that Germany must maintain her present armies, in both areas of fighting intact. This will necessitate the finding of new forces for both the east and the west, if she would effectually meet the increasing strength of her enemies It is pointed out that the plan to deliver a crushing blow in one theater and then to rush across the country to the other has miscarried on both fronts. This was seen first in the dash to Paris, second in the rush for Calais third in the battle of Ypres, and then repeatedly in the east as Field Marshal Von Hindenburg sought to break through the Russian lines to the Polish capital.

Considerable mystery surrounds the next move of the Germans although the prevailing belief is that it will be a big offensive in the west, probably against the British front.

ACTIVITY IS NOTED AMONG GERMAN FLEET

Geneva, (via Paris), March 19 —Information received here from Kiel is to the effect that all German dreadnaughts in the harbor and canal are undergoing steam and screw trials, in order to test fully their boilers and machinery, while their crews are being carefully drilled. These trials are similar to those which took place in January, since which time half the crews of the dreadnaughts have been sent to Belgium with heavy guns to meet the bombardment of the British The biggest of the German warships have not left the Kiel canal since the war began nch Bouvet Hits Mine—Toredo Boat and Submarine Sink—Two Others Are Badly Damaged.

TTLESHIP SUNK F BARDANELLES RITISH SHIP LOST

VERAL WARSHIPS STRUCK

mbardment Continues, Forts nd Mines Making It Hot For Mine Sweepers—Germans Man Guns.

Berlin, (by wireless to London), arch 19.—A squadron of six ritish and four French battleips, at 7 30 yesterday morng, attacked three fortresses of he Dardanelles. At the same me another squadron of the llied fleets commenced operations gainst three fortresses in Saros ay

After a fierce artillery duel the ostile ships withdrew at 2 o'clock n the afternoon

Part of the squadron continued s fire until 5 o'clock at long range nd at great intervals. The French attleship Bouvet struck a mine at 30 o'clock in the vicinity of the ntrance to the straits and sank in hree minutes.

A British torpedo boat was sunk y the fire from the forts The British battleship Irresistible was ut out of action, while another battleship was seriously damaged

Constantinople, (by wireless to Berin and London), March 20.—An official tatement issued from Turkish headuarters says

"Our fleet early today bombarded the ip yards and maneuvering place of rpedo boats west of Theodorsia (in e Black sea, in Crimea, a part of ussia) and set the buildings on fire

"An allied enemy fleet heavily shelled e forts of the Dardanelles, which reed effectively, sinking the French ttleship Bouvet.

The French battleship Bouvet which is orted in a Turkish official statement have been sunk in the Dardanelles was vessel of 12,000 tons displacement laid wn in 1893 with a complement of 621 en. Her amament consisted of two 12-h guns, two 10 8 inch, eight 5 5 inch, ht 3.9 inch, 10 3-pounders and 10 1-unders besides two torpedo tubes

RENCH SUBMARINE IS SUNK BY TURK SHELLS

London, March 19.—The loss of a ench submarine boat, in an attempt run through the Dardanelles, is deribed by Rear Admiral Guepratte, of e French Dardanelles fleet, in an inview with the Daily Telegraph's Tedos correspondent. The attempt was parently made some time ago, although no announcement has been de of it heretofore

"The attempt had as its object the king of the Turkish cruiser, Sultan m (formerly the German cruiser oeben," the correspondent says Rear dmiral Guepratte told him. "The subrine was submerged and successfulnavigated the straits up to the rner where the Asiatic coast juts out Nagara.

"Through some miscalculation which quite natural when a submarine is ying to thread a tortuous channel thout the aid of a periscope, the hull ck the rocky shore, compelling the to rise to the surface. Immediately e submarine appeared, the forts ened fire, sinking her. Only a few of r crew escaped and these were made isoners.

"Reagarding the present situation in e Dardanelles, Rear Admiral Guepatte said the waters of the strait are ear as far as Keppez Bernu, to which int all vessels of the fleet can safely avigate. The main mine fields, howver, are between Chanak Kaleisi and lid Bahr where also are the main ast defenses.

"When these are removed the rest ill be easy although the assistance land forces will be needed. For the nal success of the undertaking not a adow of doubt remains. The French eet thus far has sustained no asualties."

OMBARDING FLEET HAS GALA DAY APPEARANCE

London March 19.—The allied fleet terally blocks out the horizon between e island of Tenedos and the mainand, says the Daily Mail's Tenedos rrespondent. The fluttering of the gnal flags, the flashing of the helio raphs and the waving of semaphores ives the fleet a gala appearance

The task of the mine sweepers, the rrespondent adds, which are 11 miles p the Dardanelles, is being made difcult by the fact that the Turks are ntinually launching floating mines he mine sweepers are being assisted y water planes

EVERAL WARSHIPS HIT BY TURKISH BATTERIES

Paris, March 19 —An artillery duel in he Dardanelles between Turkish shore atteries and warships protecting allied ine sweepers lasted from midnigh until 2 a. m. yesterday, says an Athen ispatch to the Havas agency, based pon information from Tenedos. Th arships are reported to have bee truck by several shells, but the dam e done was slight. Two shore bat eries were silenced.

RMENIA DEVASTATED BY HORDES OF KURDS

s Are Killed and Women Carried Off—120,000 Persons Are Destitute.

London, March 20.—Appalling acounts of conditions in Armenia have reached the officials in London of the Armenian Red Cross fund.

The latest recital is from an Armenian doctor named Derberian, who says that the whole plain of Alashgert is virtually covered with the bodies of men, women and children. When the Russian forces retreated from this district, the Kurds fell upon the helpless people and shut them up in mosques. The men were killed and the women carried away to the mountains.

The organizers of the Red Cross fund say there are 120,000 destitute Armenians now in the Caucasus.

RECOGNIZES WAR NURSE ON FILM AS LOST WIFE

Mr and Mrs A A Campbell section of movie film showing Mrs. Campbell (arrow) as a war nurse.

Now Cincinnati Man Is Begging Her to Return to Him In America.

LIFE DRAMA IS REVEALED

[illegible] the story [illegible] dramas of the [illegible] several [illegible] efficient [illegible] electrical [illegible] watched [illegible] woman [illegible] fled as his ex[illegible] being [illegible] the steamer La[illegible] Lorraine [illegible] She was [illegible] with [illegible] ness

Until [illegible] Campbell [illegible] more than [illegible] again [illegible] stopped [illegible] and the [illegible] which showed Mrs Campbell [illegible] again [illegible] the husband sat speechless It was his first [illegible] for whom [illegible] since [illegible]

[illegible] the film [illegible] ner Last [illegible] Campbell [illegible] great excitement [illegible] seen Mr [illegible] scene [illegible] house [illegible] gation [illegible] produce [illegible] the [illegible] routed [illegible]

Recognizes Her on Film

The [illegible] recognized [illegible] tested the manager of the concern [illegible] made an especial effort to have [illegible] picture shipped back to Cincinnati [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] and was unable [illegible] private exhibition in [illegible] Campbell sat tense [illegible] [illegible] began to leave the ship [illegible] [illegible] exclamation came from [illegible] to the screen The [illegible] stopped and the photo [illegible] Campbell produced [illegible] of the manager com[illegible] with the [illegible] motionless figure [illegible] They were apparently [illegible]

When Campbell became efficiency [illegible] for the Cincinnati concern he [illegible] lived in New York She objected to coming to Cincinnati He believed she would get over her aversion [illegible] coming from New York and would [illegible]

Now Seeks Reconciliation.

A position offered him in Cincinnati was a fine one and he could not bear to give it up. Campbell wrote letters pleading with her to join him, but all was in vain. In her last letter she announced she would not hear from her again and she kept her word, in spite of [illegible] to come to Cincinnati, where he had prepared a nice little [illegible] ever since then he has been trying to locate his wife

Campbell telegraphed to his brother [illegible] Campbell of New York city, asking that he view the film production [illegible] and him in the latter board a ship headed for [illegible] He hopes to have her give up the task of nursing wounded soldiers and come back to him If he hears from her he will join her in New York and make another effort to have her come back to Cincinnati with him

SPECIAL SESSION IN OCTOBER SURE

President Will Call Senate In Fall to Discuss Treaties and Force Cloture Rule, It Is Said.

Washington [illegible] President Wilson has given [illegible] assurance to [illegible] prominent [illegible] senators that the Senate will be [illegible] session October [illegible] or the [illegible] Democrats [illegible] tensibly [illegible] ragua treaties but [illegible] cloture [illegible]

This [illegible] day [illegible] courts [illegible] interest [illegible] force [illegible] gress [illegible]

HANS HOWALT, HINTON, TAKES POISON POTION

Despondent From Business Matters and Ends Life With Strychnine

Hinton Ia March 19 Hans Howalt a local grocer about 50 years of age committed suicide at his home this morning by taking a large dose of strychnine Members of the family state that his father was due to business troubles The county coroner has been notified and it is the expectation that an inquest will be held tomorrow

Mr Howalt was at his place of business this morning and about 9 30 o'clock he went to the drug store and bought some strychnine claiming that he wanted to kill some rats He returned to the house and took the fatal potion and his dead body was discovered an hour later by one of his daughters

Mr Howalt had resided in Hinton about 10 years He is survived by a wife two daughters and one son

A German invention [illegible] post the upper portion [illegible] lower [illegible] light [illegible]

MINIATURE WIRELESS OUTFIT SUCCESSFUL

Can Be Operated From Motor Car Battery—Useful In Trench Warfare.

New York March 20 A wireless telegraph instrument weighing eight pounds that can be carried in a hand satchel and operated from an automobile was tested by officers of the United States signal corps on Bedloes Island yesterday The instrument was connected with the antennae of the wireless station on the island and sent a message which was received at Fort Hancock on Sandy Hook 21 miles away It is claimed that the instrument can send messages 1 000 feet or more without antennae and that it might be valuable in trench warfare The extreme radius of its operation is said to be 300 miles M B Dilley chief signal electrician who observed the test said that the wireless outfit could be operated with current from an automobile battery

STATE INSURANCE BILL HURLED INTO DISCARD

Senate Upholds Adverse Committee Report—Record Talk By Clarkson

Des Moines, Ia March 19.—After extended arguments, the bill by Senator Clarkson to provide for state insurance, under the workmen's compensation act the senate today killed the measure by a vote of 28 to 19. The vote was upon a motion by Senator Clarkson to place the bill on the calendar The senate sustained the report of the committee, which recommended indefinite postponement. Senator Clarkson required that every member present register a vote on his motion The roll call was held until Senator Francis, of Dickinson could be located and called to his seat He voted to accept the committee report Farr voted for the report, thus registering against the bill.

The author of the bill spent the greater portion of two days in defense of the state insurance plan It is the longest debate on any one bill this session Senator Clarkson closed today with an appeal to stand by the judgment of former Governor Warren Garst the present industrial commissioner who originally proposed the [illegible] plan.

CHARGE MORMONS DOMINATE SCHOOL

Utah University Professors Quit Because of Action of Regents In Sustaining Discharge of Four.

[illegible] Salt Lake City Utah [illegible] resulting recently in the [illegible] of the state of Utah like the resignation [illegible] of members of the state university faculty following the action of the board of regents upholding the recent dismissal of four professors at the [illegible] of another [illegible]

[illegible] word of [illegible] says that the professors were dismissed for religious or political reasons [illegible] efforts are being made to limit freedom of speech or thought at the university as charged by the rebellious element All those who were discharged by Pres P J Kingsbury were non Mormons

The regents refuse to make a public investigation [illegible] of the dismissal of instructors

Feeling [illegible] has been strong since the announcement of the dismissals was made a few weeks ago The faculty [illegible] affected are non Mormons [illegible] to which [illegible] or [illegible] consideration [illegible] tion

Those who resigned are Byron Cummings dean of arts and sciences William Peterson professor of history Charles Penrose zoology and botany, Joseph Peters physiology Ralph L Bryner bacteriology Henry T Mattill, chemistry Frank E Holman dean of law [illegible] C Sharp neurology and histology Harold M Stephens lecturer in law, George A Hedger registrar and instructor in English La Fayette Leutz Potter professor in English F C Bloog instructor in English W C Ebaugh professor of chemistry, and Robert S Lewis mining and milling Other resignations are expected

SOCIALISTS FORCED TO GIVE UP LEASES

Agitators Not Wanted on Big Farms of Southwest—Want Large Families as Tenants

Dallas Tex March 20 Economic changes in farming due to the entry of large companies into agriculture on farms of thousands of acres conditions among Mexican farm laborers and completion of testimony about tenant farming on the Fagitt ranch in central west Texas, were on the program for today's hearing of the American land question here. The federal commission on industrial relations conducting the hearings, expected to secure information regarding big farm conditions mainly through men in charge of operations on the Taft ranch in southwest Texas These great farms are said to have developed new methods of economy and efficiency which in turn have produced new rural social conditions

C A Rives of Ryan Okla former superintendent of the Padgitt ranch, testified that in 1912 so-called socialists in Coleman count and anti-socialists caused so much agitation that he had refused to permit the Padgitt ranch tenants who called themselves socialists, to renew their leases in 1913. These tenants numbering four families, thereupon moved, Mr Rives said

"The confusion was so great that the anti-socialist tenants on the Padgitt farm said they would not stay on the place if the socialists were permitted to remain"

There were about 20 families on the ranch Mr Rieves said The agitation was not confined to the ranch, but was general in Coleman county

W T Davis, a Coleman county farmer, said he believes land owners, in selecting tenants desire to "get a man with plenty of force (children) and a mule and push them down the road"

SHOE MACHINE TRUST CASE IS DISMISSED

Boston Mass. March 19. -The suit of the federal government to dissolve the United Shoe Machinery corporation on the ground that it was an illegal monopoly in restraint of trade, was dismissed by the United States district court

In dismissing the suit, the court stated that as far as the allegation that the defendant conceived the idea of acquiring the ownership or control of all companies manufacturing or dealing in any and all kinds of shoe machinery was concerned, the utmost that could be shown was a purpose to acquire control of certain machinery connected with bottoming shoes, or later of certain other machines.

SHOWS BIG SLUMP IN EARNINGS OF STEEL

New York March 19 The annual report of the United States Steel corporation for 1914, issued today offers proof of the depression in the steel industry during the year Earnings of $81 746 518 show a decrease of $65,421,000 compared with 1913, while the net income of $46 520,498 is a decrease of $58,890,284

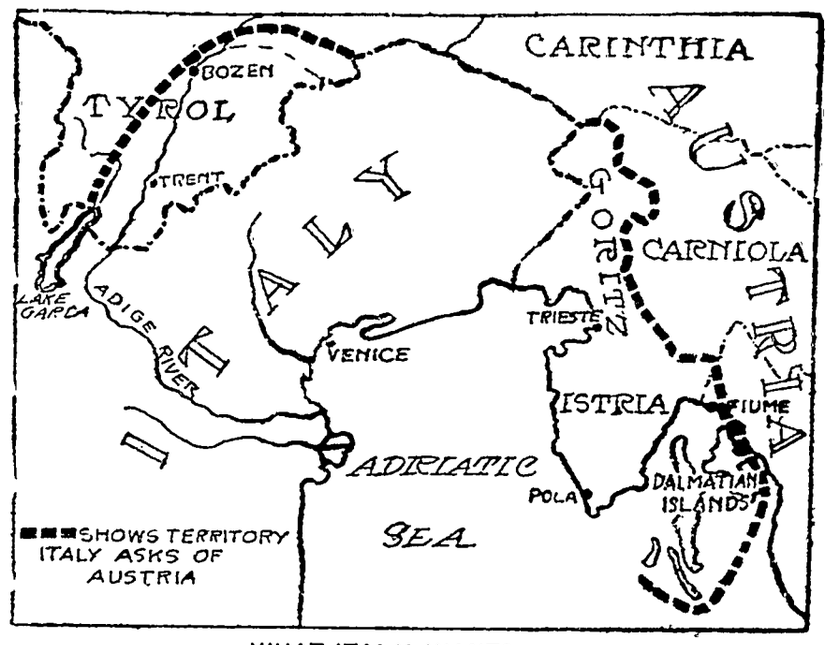
Net income for 1914 shows a deficit of $16 971 984 against a surplus of $30,582,184 the previous year The corporations expenditures of $45,372,594 for maintenance, repairs and extraordinary replacements were $14,570,376, or 24 31 per cent under the previous year

In 1914 the corporation mined only 17,034,981 tons of iron ore, against 28,738,451 tons in 1913 and its total production of rolled and other finished steel products for sale fell off 3,360,826 tons to 9,014 512 tons.

NEW YORK VERRUN BY CHARITY WORKERS

New York, March 19 —More than 3,800 charitable, civic and religious organizations are working for the benefit of the public in New York city, according to the directory issued today by the Charity Organization society. Churches to the number of 1,800, 191 social centers and settlements, many hospitals, kindergartens nurseries and 12 war relief bodies are included in the list About 6 000 persons are associated with the [illegible]

GERMAN DEMANDS ON AUSTRIA MAY FORCE SERIOUS RUPTURE



WHAT ITALY WANTS.

Paris March 19 The Austrian government is resisting energetically pressure exerted by Germany to induce her to make territorial concessions to Italy, according to a Geneva dispatch to the Petit Parisien Count Andrassy former premier of Hungary and several other statesmen representing the dual monarchy are reported to have gone to Berlin to discuss the problem with Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg and Foreign Minister Von Jagow

It is reported at Geneva that if other negotiations fail the German chancellor contemplates a trip to Vienna in the hope that he may convince Emperor Francis Joseph that it is necessary for Austria to consent to the sacrifices asked

The Geneva Tribune says it is informed that Pan Germanists in Austria are in violent conflict with Czech Transylvanian deputies who are clamoring for a rupture with Germany and the conclusion of a separate peace

Italy's demands upon Austria-Hungary as the price of peace include a sweep of territory to the north and east which would extend her boundary around the northern end of the Adriatic sea as far south at Fiume on the eastern coast This would include the Austrian naval base at Pola, as well as the provinces of Trent and Triest, acquisition of which has been Italy's long cherished aspiration The concessions which Austria is believed to be willing to make are insignificant as compared with the demands.

What is said to be a presentation of Austria's attitude toward Italy, as set forth in a Vienna dispatch to Rome, contains the statement that Austria, if she agrees to make territorial concessions sufficient to satisfy Italy, will defer formal transfer of the territory until after the war Austria, it is said, desires to assure herself that Italy will adhere to her promise of neutrality in return for the grant This attitude is described in Rome as unsatisfactory to Italy

BRITISH CASUALTY LIST IS ENORMOUS

Estimated English Troops Lost 10,000 to 15,000 Men In Recent Battle of Neuve Chappelle.

London March 20 —That the English suffered terrific losses in the recent great battle at Neuve Chappelle is indicated by reports reaching London from various sources Conservative estimates place the British losses at from 10 000 to 15.000 The German losses are estimated at a third more.

The only official intimation of the enormity of the British losses was contained in the statement that the battle of Neuve Chappelle had proved the German lines could be forced back "if the British were willing to pay the price"

Evidence is accumulating of the heavy British losses in the recent fighting in Flanders Lord Claud Hamilton, addressing a meeting in London last night said that the papers were not giving full lists of the losses. His own regiment the Grenadiers guards he declared lost their colonel and 16 officers kill and wounded and of 1,100 men, the finest in the army, only 300 survived.

The Camerons also seemed to have been almost totally wiped out. Their lists of killed and wounded were appalling

The system of concealment on the part of the military authorities, he asserted, was most ridiculous and he was afraid it would have the affect of prolonging the war

Owing to the anxiety felt in Scotland regarding the Sixth battalion of Gordon Highlanders, Joseph N Sutherland, member of parliament, made inquries of the government whereupon the under secretary of the war department replied that he greatly regretted to state that Colonel Maclean and four other officers had been killed and several wounded

A dispatch to the Times gives a list of 25 British officers killed, whose names had not appeared in the official lists making a total of 338 officers killed or wounded in the recent fighting.

COSSON POLICE BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR

No Effort Made to Adopt Report of Committee For Indefinate Postponement.

Des Moines, Ia., March 19 --Two bills reported for indefinite postponement by committees of the senate were given tempory lease of life today when that body voted to place them on the calendar for future consideration.

The expected fight on the bill for state police, as proposed by Attorney General Cosson, did not take place. The bill was reported for indefinite postponement, but the senate, without opposition, voted to place it on the calendar.

The bill by Senator Kimball to provide for the selection of juries by a commission in cities over 10,000 was also placed on the calendar, contrary to the report of the committee.

Marrying for money will be discouraged in Iowa if a bill proposed by Senator Kimball today, becomes a law. It provides that the husband shall not receive a share of the fatherinlaw's estate unless it is specifically granted him in the will. Under the law he is entitled to a one-third share. The bill will allow a wife to dispose of her inheritance as she sees fit without interference from the husband.

AFTER 23 YEARS IN PRISON IS EXECUTED

Little Rock Ark. March 19 —Clay Simms, negro murderer who had spent 23 of the last 28 years of his life in prison, was electrocuted today. There are in the Arkansas prison 10 other men condemned to death.

SUBMARINES TORPEDO TWO BRITISH SHIPS

Steamers Blue Jacket and Hyndford Latest Victims of Germans.

London, March 20.—The British steamer Blue Jacket, with wheat from Liverpool has been torpedoed by a German submarine off Beachey Heard. The crew took to the boats. The steamer, although badly damaged, remained afloat

Glasgow, Scotland, (via London), March 19 —The British steamer Hyndford, was torpedoed today in the English channel by a German submarine. It is reported that one member of her crew was killed.

The steamer Hyndford was of 2,775 tons net burden. She was 376 feet long and was built at Port Glasgow in 1905. She was owned by the Scottish Ship Owners' company, of Glasgow.

The Blue Jacket was of 2,271 tons. She was 336 feet long, and belonged to J L. Thomson & Sons, Ltd. She was owned by G. Hallet, of Cardiff, and was built at Sunderland in 1904.

Beachey Head is a promontory on the south coast of England, projecting into the English channel about 20 miles east of Brighton

WITNESSES TAMPERED WITH STATE CHARGES

Terre Haute Officials Said to Have Approached Two Men In Election Fraud.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19 —Further developments in the alleged tampering with witnesses, as related yesterday by two witnesses in the Terre Haute election fraud case in federal court, were expected today United States District Attorney Frank C. Dailey was instructed by Judge Anderson to make a thorough investigation and the judge suggested that either the bond of Alexander Aczel, alias Steel, be increased, or the defendant be proceeded against on another charge

The other attempt was related by Enno Harms, who said Donn M. Roberts told him to testify that a republican was responsible for the use of money in Precinct A of the Sixth ward. If Harms was called before the federal grand jury.

Steel, who, according to Waas Grozzi, offered a job to Grozzi if he would change his testimony in favor of Steel, conferred with Mr Dailey, last night.

"Mr Dailey" Steel said, "I would swear that I did not see the boy Sunday night."

"You fellows have stopped at nothing" replied Mr Dailey "I believe the boy's story absolutely."

Grozzi, who is only 18 years old, testified last week that an attempt had been made to compel him to register and act as interpreter for three other foreigners, who told of the activities of Steel in the last election Steel is the street inspector under Mayor Roberts.

Frank (Buster) Clark, the confessed paymaster in Precinct A., of the Sixth ward, was to continue his testimony begun late yesterady when court resumed this morning

NEW LEGAL TANGLES TO DELAY TRIAL OF THAW

New York, March 19.—As the result of various writs and orders sworn out in his behalf and the resultant tangle, Harry K. Thaw is in no danger of being returned to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan for at least a month. Supreme Court Justice Bijur, signer of two writs of habeas corpus in Thaw's behalf, said today upon the conclusion of a conference between himself, counsel for Thaw, the sheriff of New York county, the warden of the Tombs prison and representatives of the state attorney general's office, that Thaw's attorneys could, by means of securing adjournments, delay the final hearing upon the first writ, secured early in the week, until April 19 John B Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel said he intended to make [illegible]

Poultry Pride

CHANTICLEER was a proud youngster, the cock of the walk in the barnyard drama.

But he had nothing on us.

We're as proud as any fowl that ever strutted over the way we pick out fresh, tender, choice poultry for our trade.

As good butchers with a reputation to uphold we take the greatest gride in offering you only the very best in select poultry at prices that won't make your pocketbook look sick.

J. P. Larsen & Sons

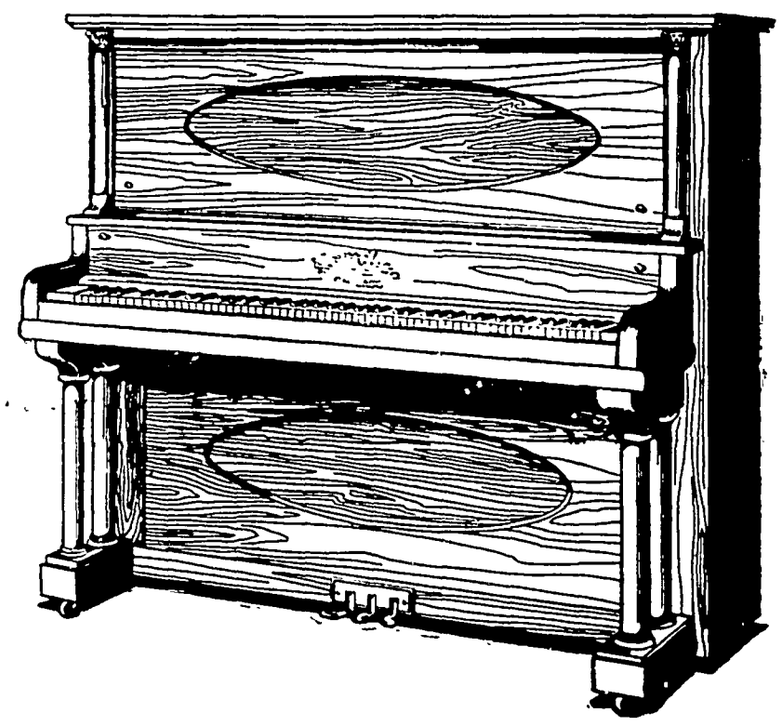
Every Farmer
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

Baldwin-Made Instruments Have No Superior



For Sale at Right Prices and Reasonable Terms

See Me First and Save Money

M. M. MAGNER

At The Times Office

¶ Liberal Allowance For Used Instruments.

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations
By "Jur Man About Town"

The Britt News is accusing Representative Durant, of voting "no" on everything that comes up. That may all be true but he certainly showed common sense when he voted "no" on the Johnston road bill.

It looks to us like the Johnston road bill would be a farce and put the Iowa road business right back where we started from. At the Short Course for Iowa newspapers at Ames, last week, over one hundred and twenty five Iowa editors who were in session passed an unanimous resolution in disfavor of the Johnston bill. The Bill has passed the House but we wonder if the resolution will have any effect on the Senate.

Taking time by the forelock, let's swat the dandelion. It is none too early to begin, for gaeat vigilance is necessary in war upon this pretty but too numerous pest.

Feeling sure all readers will be interested in anything that will help to eradicate the plant, I have beet watching for different "remedies" suggested and will use this column this week and next to pass them along to you

Here is what one well known citizen prescribes: Last year we cleared our lawn of dandelions in a very easy way. And we are now after those that are again springing up, apparently from nowhere. To each gallon of water we put one or two pounds of sulphate of iron, stir thoroughly and let stand for six hours. A cheap sulphate of iron good enough for this purpose can be bought for about one cent a pound. If the dandelions are not too numerous they can be killed by spraying with the mixture. If the yard is well filled with them, give them a good soaking. The mixture will not injure the grass, but every dandelion so touched will immediately wither and die.

Writing a special article for a magazine, a park custodian gave his experience, and it was not at all encouraging. He declared the only remedy that had proved successful with him was to dig up each plant as it appeared in the early spring. He said that by begining early he was able to keep several acres almost free from the pest, but that it required eternal vigilance to do so.

Next week we will give remedies suggested by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and by the superintendent of parks, Grard Forks, N. D.

AND ALONG CAME RUTH

"Where are you, Auntie?" Ruth's merry voice rang through the house.

"In the kitchen, dear, looking for some lost rice."

"What in the world do you mean?" Ruth asked, appearing at the kitchen door just as her aunt closed the refrigator and said in a discouraged tone: "Well, someone has eaten up that cup of cooked rice I had meant to put in the chicken soup. What in the world am I to do:"

"Easy," said Ruth. "Stick a shredded wheat biscuit in the oven for a minute, then crumble it into the soup. It will taste just like noodles."

And along went Ruth.

Wm. Schaper of Charles City was in Garner, Friday. On Saturday he went to Britt, to visit at the H. A. Schaper home for a few days.—Hancock County Democrat

THE WEEK IN HISORTY

Monday, 22.—Stamp act enacted, 1765. Patent for inoculating soil granted, 1904.

Tuesday, 23.—Tornado kills 200 in Omaha, 1913. Sheet copper first made, 1802

Wednesday, 24 – Rhode Island purchased from Indians, 1638. Great Seal of England stolen 1784

Thursday, 25.—Great flood in Dayton, O., 1913.

Friday, 26.—Samoset welcomes Pilgrims, 1621. Bismark permarently quits Berlin, 1860

Saturday 27—Scott captures Vera Cruz, 1847. Great earthquake Colabria, 1678.

Sunday, 28.—Canada ceded to France, 1632. Stenography invented, 1817.

HERE FOR BUSINESS

Professor Beckman and Iowa State college again made history in finding s th nother way in which Iowa State college might be of service to still another group of the citizens of the state when the first short course for country newspaper men ever held in this country was planned for this week

No more interested body of men ever came to the college, men interested in finding out just how to make their work of bigger value to their respective communities, than the newspaper men who have been on the campus these days. Every speaker had to run a gauntlet of questions that have gone straight to the meat of the matter presented, for the newspaper men have come to Ames to get fundamental facts and to enjoy an editorial junket Every session has been alive with interest and to many the most significant thing has been the fact that the agricultural sessions have brought out just as many questions and just as much interest as the purely technical printing sessions.

The newspaper men have been here for business, with a capital "B." The good fellowship part of it, which is inevitable wherever a group of newspaper men are brought together, has been incidental. These men will come back to their papers with more active ideas of enlarging their spheres of interest and influence to include the whole countryside, with no dividing line between town and country.—Iowa State Student.

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching service at 10 oclock a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 11 oclock. Prayer meeting every Wednesday evening 7:30 oclock.

Sunday School at the Wayside schoolhouse at 2 oclock p. m. and preaching at 3.

Mrs. Geo. Ahrenkiel will entertain the Ladies Aid Society at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Bonwell on Thursday afternoon, April 1st.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will meet at the parsonage on Friday, March 26th at 4 p m.

All are welcome.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will give you your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c., 50c. and $1 0

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

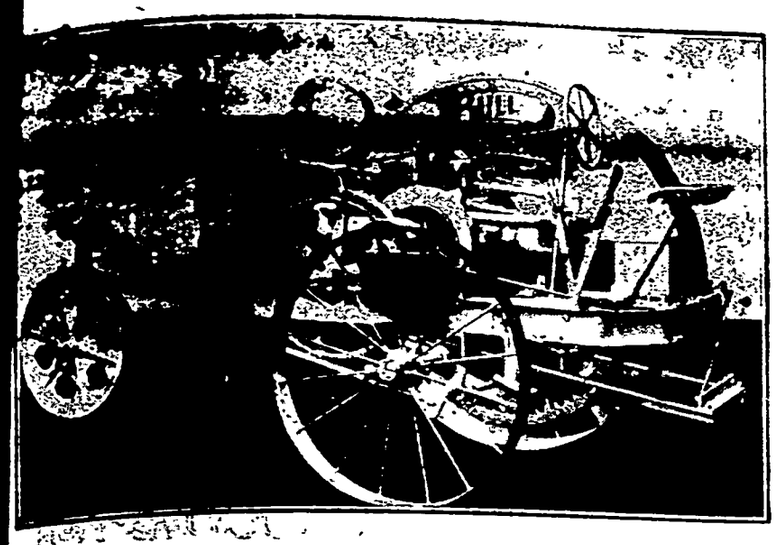
KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

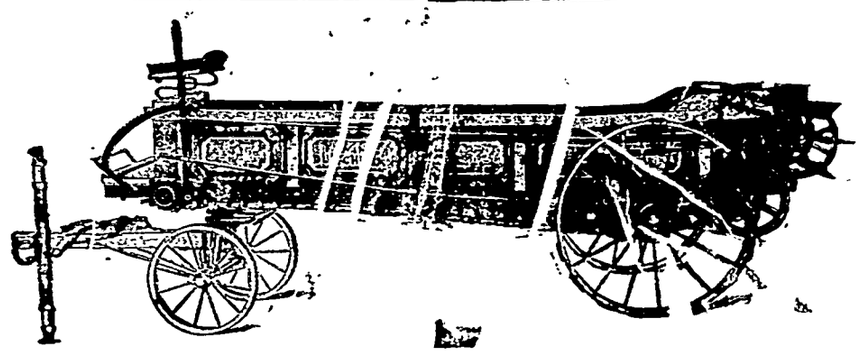
All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant



Machinery Opening

Our line of Machinery is now ready for your inspection. We are selling some of the best lines on the market, lines that have been tried and also have given the best of satisfaction. You may talk all you wish about Garner, Goodell or Miller, we are at Klemme with a full line of Farm Implements and we are selli ng everything at a right price. We also sell the Alter, 5-passenger automobile and the Metz car---the best cars for the money.



Gas Tractors

We sell the Little Tractor also the Big Bull Tractor. These are two of the best tractors on the market, and we can cite you to many satisfied owners. Buy a tractor, do more work, easier and save horse flesh We sell 2, 3, 4, 6 or 8 bottom plows, which can be used with our Bull Tractor or others Let us sell you a complete outfit.

Gasoline Engines

We handle the leading makes of gasoline engines in all the various sizes from 1½ h.p. up at bottom prices.

Hay Loaders and Hay Tools

We sell the famous Moline Gearless Hay Loader---no chain, no gears; no sprockets; no trouble or delay. Also the Rock Island Hay Loader Two dandies.

Plows and Cultivators

Our stock of plows and cultivators include the following well known makes---Rock Island, Moline, Sattley and Ohio and you cannot go wrong on any of them. If you need a plow this spring we are here to save you money.

We sells the best grades of Oils and Greases by the gallon or barrel.

Corn Plante

Hayes, Moline and Sattley C are our three leaders. You ways before you can find as from which to make a selec price will not worry your pock

Discs and Harr

The popular Rock Island, Ohio lines at right prices.

If you roof leaks why not try Arco Sealit? We sell at under an iron clad guarantee.

Grinds more feed on less gasoline

You can save 25 per cent on your gasoline bill by using the

LETZ SELF-SHARPENING SILENT BUHR FEED MILL

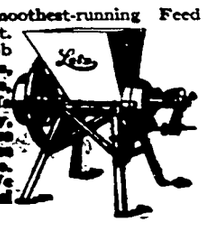
The swiftest, smoothest-running Feed Mill on the market. Grinds corn, with cob and husk, oat hulls, wheat screenings, grain, hay and alfalfa easily and quickly, on low power. Burrs sharpen themselves and last a long time. Mill can't clog. We sell this wonderful Feed Grinder.



Manure Spreaders

We sell the best Manure Spreader made---the Flying Dutchman, also the celebrated Great Western.

Harvesters and Mowers

A little early in the season but we want you to know that we sell the Acme and Adriance lines.

Carbo Steel Posts and Moyer Steel Gates

Two necessary articles on the modern farm.

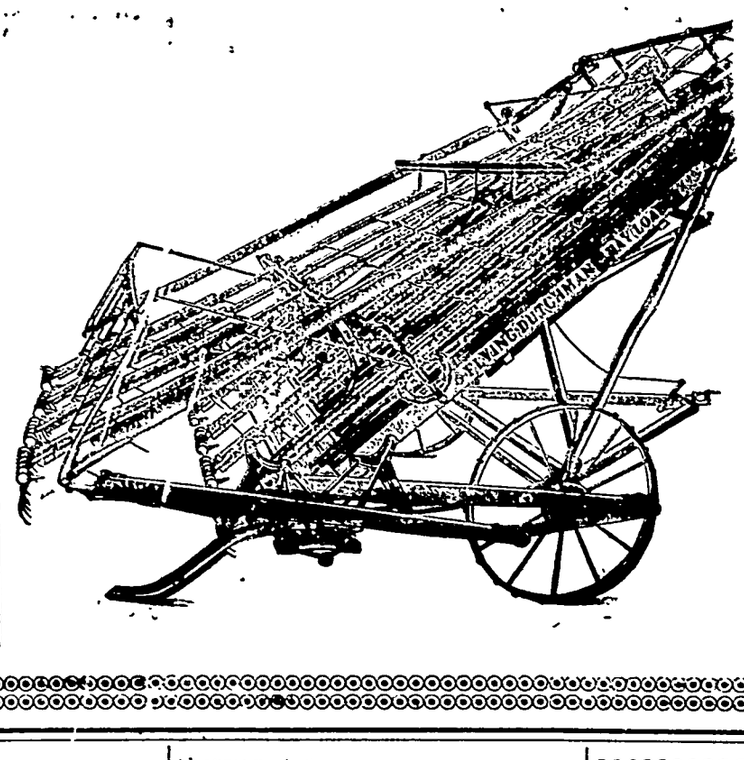
You Will do Well to Buy all of Your

Farm Machinery, Etc.

of

Henry Lau & Son

KLEMME, IOWA



H. A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. B. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
will give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
2nd door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 46.
Klemme Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHEUMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

GIRLS NEARLY DIE IN GREAT DESERT

On Walk to California Their Canteen Springs a Leak in Barren Waste.

Chesaning, Mich.—According to letters received by Chesaning friends from Misses Marie and Kittie Bibieritz, the girls had a narrow escape from death by thirst while crossing the Nevada desert. They left Saginaw last spring to walk to the coast and are now in San Francisco, having completed the journey successfully.

At the point where they crossed the desert it was 15 miles between human habitations. When they were five miles on their way they discovered that their only canteen had sprung a leak and that there was very little water left. They drank this and then hastened their pace. It was a race against death.

Almost Ready to Give Up.

Very soon their tongues swelled up from lack of water and their faces turned purple. It was intensely hot, with no shelter of any kind. Several times one or the other, exhausted, was ready to give up and lie down beneath the blazing sun, but they struggled on. "If the courage of both of us had given out at the same time, we surely would have died there," said one of the letters.

As they were staggering along, which houses a pool in the desert was discovered on the horizon. Their strength was almost spent, but they reached the spring, crawling the last few rods on their hands and knees. They were too inexperienced to drink sparingly, and over-indulgence almost completed the work which privation began They were very sick for several hours. They finally managed to reach a little town on the edge of the desert and there spent the night.

UNARMED BOYS MEET LION

Beast Enjoys Period of "Watchful Waiting" While They Tremble.

Boulder, Colo.—Richard Henderson and Dudley Rust, two University of Colorado students, returned to Boulder from a two weeks' outing in the vicinity of Silver lake, with a story of a mountain lion whose acquaintance they made.

The young men were unarmed. While walking along a trail, carrying only their fishing rods, they were startled to meet the beast face to face. Both youths were taken by surprise. The beast showed no fright, and, according to Henderson and Rust, showed keen interest in them.

The animal was full grown. They were afraid to run, for fear the lion would attack them.

Their shouts failed to frighten the beast, and a period of "watchful waiting" followed. Finally the animal appeared satisfied with his scrutiny of the young men, and to their great relief bounded into the bushes and disappeared.

EXTRA PAY FOR HIS WOES

Maine Constable Tells Court Troubles He Had In Chasing a Heifer.

Bangor, Me.—When a constable has extra trouble serving a writ of replevin on a heifer he must be allowed extra costs, under a decision of Judge Blanchard in the local court. Constable Skeffington Kelso of Eddington told the court these things happened when he went out to replevin a heifer in connection with a civil suit:

Animal led him a chase through four miles of swamp.

Kelso broke through ice twice.

Stepped into a mink trap.

Lost a jackknife.

Tore his clothing and ruined his shoes.

Also he was held up to derision by a young woman, who wrote a funny poem about his chase and read it at a Grange meeting.

APRIL

"Men are April when they woo, December when they wed."—Shakespeare.

Our loyalty to our sex compels us to take issue with Bill. We do not believe the man lives who is so fickle as April or so realistic as December. Of course, both seasons and men may have been different when William was chinning the girls some three hundred years ago, but his comparison is wholly out of plumb in these days of political strife and suffragettes. Men no longer woo. They are often wooed—and sued; and, while these two accomplices sometimes burden them with household expenses or alimony, they rarely become so intimate with the Mrs., that she could swear as to their temperamental thermometer

So envying Will the tranquility of his courtship days and the many April buds with whom he seems to have had at least a speaking acquaintance, we pass on to the month—

Literally: During April, the sun is technically said to pass through Aries and Taurus, but the precession of the equinoxes makes him, the sun, really traverse portions of Pisces and Aries. All of which intrest us about as much as will the European war after baseball gets started good.

To us, the month of April brings no silly thoughts of love; we turn a deafened ear upon the cooing of the dove; the microbe is not working now, and this is why, we ween: We fell for it some years ago, and now the house's to clean. We rip the carpets from the floor and hang them on the line; at noon we squat upon the floor and from the floor we dine. At night we sleep upon the stove, or in the cupboard there and dream of tables, chairs and things go dancing through the air.

And then, when this is over and a rest we fain would take, the Missus introduces us to shovel, hoe and rake. The garden must not be delayed another single day, for all the neighbors have theirs in—at least that's what they say. And so, with many humility through April we are led, but all the same it makes us sore to think of what Bill said.

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

COMING!
Klemme Opera House
Wednesday, April 7th
Mysterious Smith
The Greatest ILLUSIONIST In the World
SUPPORTED BY A COMPANY OF HIGH-CLASS VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS
REDUCED PRICES
Children 15cts : Adults 35cts

ELL CENTER

(Too Late for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Greiman and family spent Sunday at the Lou Weaver home.

Earl Banta arrived from Kansas, last Friday and will work for J. F Stokesbary again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yohn and son Ronald were at Clear Lake, Saturday, between trains.

Mrs. Chas. Goll and Mrs. W. H. Greiman were at Mason City, Thursday, having dental work done.

Frank Warner was called to Missouri, Friday, by a telegram, stating that his mother was very ill.

Miss Loretta Lowhorn visited last week with her sister, Mrs. C. Schwarts.

FOR SALE—Some old machinery left from sale, at right price.

A. Carales.

Geo. Z
Physician &
Phone No. 19, Kl
Office in Build of Gruetzmacl ness and Shoe
Eyes Tested.
Glass

G. W. GRI
"Up-to-date Auction
CLEAR LAKE, IOWA
Conducts Sales of an y kind
Makes Farm Sale s a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

EXIGENCY FORCED QUAKERS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

From the Philadelphia Ledger

About 1744 Great Britain was at war with Spain and France Among the American colonies Pennsylvania was the only one that was absolutely defenseless. The Quaker assembly refused to pass a militia law, and there was no reason why the enemies of the mother country could not sail up the Delaware, land a force and devastate the commonwealth

Benjamin Franklin was just coming into public life. He had changed the old night watchman system into a regular police force, formed a volunteer fire brigade, founded a public library and established the Philosophical society He was determined that Pennsylvania should no longer be defenseless the doctrine of nonresistance to the contrary notwithstanding After publishing a pamphlet entitled 'Plain Truth' he called a meeting of the younger citizens of Philadelphia, harangued them on the impending obliteration of the city by the Spaniards and French, called for volunteers and then and there raised a regiment of 1,-200 men Within a very brief period adjacent places contributed their quota and Pennsylvania had an organized, drilled and accoutered militia 10,000 strong

Real Signs o' Spring.

From the Indianapolis News

'Wanted -To trade an overcoat for a bicycle or a pair of good low cut shoes

Some of the members of the tribe live in the city were out at the ball park this morning taking the winter's kinks out of their arms

I just must have a new skirt pretty soon I can't wear this heavy coat much longer to cover up this one's shortcomings'

I am selling ice coupons lady It is 20 cents a hundred if you buy one of these books for 560 pounds Later on the price will be 30 cents'

Henry I think we will make the nasturtium bed over against the north fence this year"

I'm just about ready to shed mine The stuff gets darned uncomfortable these fine days Me for the lighter ones

No, you don't have half the trouble instarting a car you did a month ago The warmer the air the easier the gasoline forms into vapor'

Wellgrow Seed company Please send me your assorted garden seed package And add an extra supply of those Ponderosa tomato seeds'

Bobby you run upstairs in the storage closet and get papa's golf bag for him like a nice little boy, so I may be getting my clubs ready'

I wish to look at some fishing rods and some good tackle if you please"

James you might tell the garage man to remove the closed body Saturday A little sunshine isn't going to hurt us

Johnny you go along that fence and shut up those holes so that the neighbors chickens cannot get in and scratch mother's garden all out"

Tom you'll just have to stretch a rope across our lawn so that the milkmen and mail man can't run across like they did last year We won't have a bit of grass if you don't"

The city will soon be hiring some mules to take care of the increased work due to the warm weather'

Challenging "Divine" Rulers.

From the Saturday Evening Post

More than 1,000,000 men have been wounded Many of them leave the hospitals with permanent disabilities, lessening their earning power through life. With every day's fighting the tally lengthens When the fighting stops millions of men will be thrown back into civil life at a time when all productive industry is crippled or paralyzed For a long time there will be more applicants than jobs because it is impossible that Europe after this cataclysm can immediately reorganize her industries Taxes will be staggering

We wonder what these men will think about it when they get their uniforms off and assume the condition of thinking individuals When they settle down to counting up the cost and footing the bill will they think their governments were embodiments of all political wisdom which knew what they were about and merited unquestioning obedience from every citizen" Or will they have some profound doubts on that point?

Will the Germans the Austrians and particularly the Russians conclude that the whole they might as well take a larger hand in the business of governing because in any possible case they could not bring it to a worse muddle than these who have claimed a divine right to do the job have done?

Wireless telegraph waves are propagated along the surface of the earth with a velocity slightly less than 186,-000 miles an hour

The Lion of Flanders.

(The National Song of Belgium.)

They never will subdue him
The Flemish Lion proud
Think they by savage onslaught
To find his spirit cowed?
No, never will they crush him
So long as right is right,
So long as Flemish honor,
Unstained, shall live and bright

Old Time consumeth cities,
And thrones may pass away
But the strength of Belgic manhood
Shall die not in a day
Let Caesar bring his armies,
We've laughed their rage to scorn,
As ever from wild carnage,
A nation new is born

We've met the Roman Caesar
And legion was their name
Lest on, to dire destruction,
Who fell when Caesar came
The ancient Belgic honor
Hath stood two thousand years,
Its youth and strong renewing
At sight of blood and tears

Must it fade? No, never
Let the past be reversed th past
But our cause is right forever,
And we shall rise at last
To liberty to increasing
We live in peace and plod
Nor ask a sweeter portion
But man is not a clod

The cry of 'Little Peoples
Shall rise to pierce the sky
And God shall keep our nation
And reckless might shall die
Too long hath slavish terror
Kept down the souls of men
Up springs the Flemish Lion
When bearded in his den.

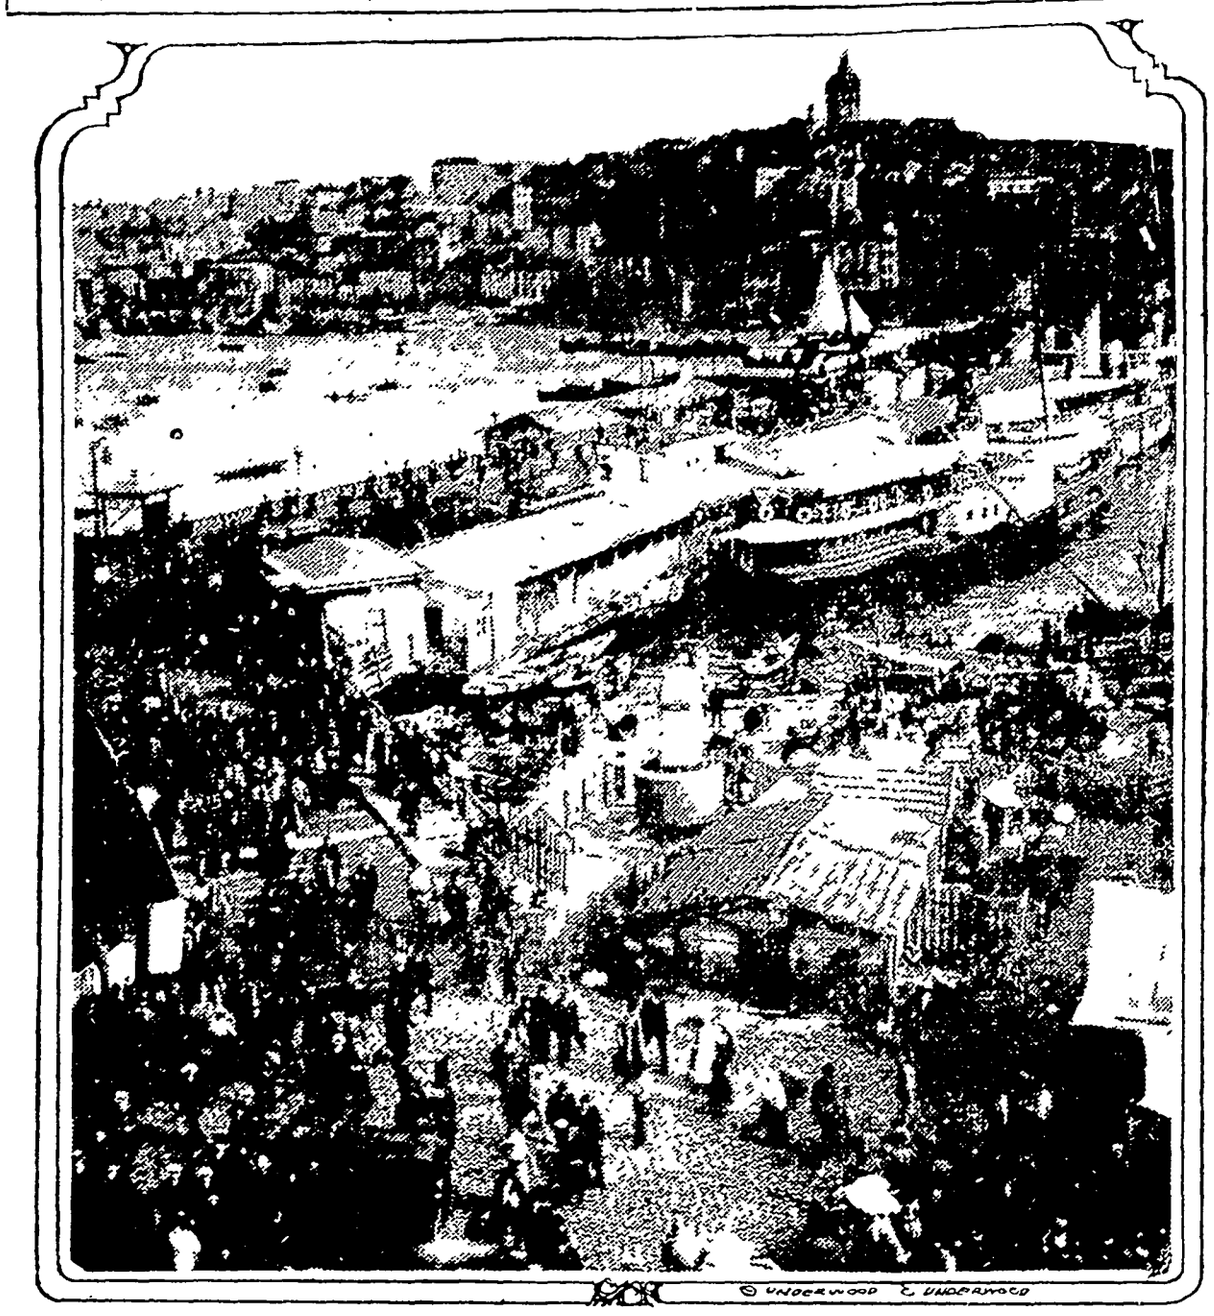
We fight for home and homeland,
For freedom's holy sod
For honor, virtue, infancy,
For justice and for God.
The noble Flanders Lion
With firelight in his eyes
Springs forth to certain conquest,
And low the bloodhound lies.

The hand of God is mighty,
Is strong to guard and smite,
Prevaileth not injustice.
The people's prayer for right
Shall rise like hallowed incense
Before His holy sight.
Purgation must we suffer,
Awhile in pain and strife;
Whence we shall rise triumphant
To new and endless life.

Then hail the Flanders Lion,
Let covert foe beware,
For thrones are not unshaken.
A nation proud and fair
Shall issue forth in splendor,
Surviving pain and loss.
For Flanders lives forever,
And triumphs on the Cross.

—English version by Miss Teresa E Kane, in the Rochester Post-Express.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS ALLIES' GOAL; MAY BECOME RUSSIAN TOWN



View of Constantinople. Galata bridge, over the Bosporus, in foreground.

The French and English fleets which have been seeking to force a passage through the Dardanelles have Constantinople as their goal. The city has hitherto been regarded as almost impregnable. Its capture probably would end Turkey's effective participation in the war. If the allies are successful in the present war it is agreed that the city will become a part of Russia.

The Mystery at Mons.

Gelett Burgess in Collier's Weekly

'It must have been exciting, that retreat from Mons, I ventured

"Yes, he said reflectively, 'it was.'

And you know who was responsible for it"

I mentioned a name--a mysterious name that the French papers even yet are very loath to mention Tommy puffed at his pipe and scowled. 'D you know what became of him"'

That too, is a subject the Paris papers refuse to discuss Some say the general is inspecting artillery, some that he is at Bordeaux—and some assert that he is in the military prison of Cherche-Midi

"Shot' said Tommy "Shot and buried up there in the northeast That's what Kitchener came over for We were in advance of the French line you know, and we had only 50,000 men to hold off 200,000 Germans—and the beggar never came forward from Lille to support us. Yes, it was in the orders of the day that he had been court martialed and shot A good job, too

'Why did you know how near we came to being surrounded" Just two miles, I give you my word Near Bertry it was, with our two army corps retreating on one road so mixed up you couldn't tell cavalry from infantry

"I'll never forget that night- Lord what a mess' It took hours to straighten us out with four lanterns on one side of the road for the Fourth division to assemble, three on the other for the Third, and so on, all stumbling into the fields, trying to find their regiments and brigades in the dark, with the devil to pay and every man jack as mad as a hatter for having to retreat.' He took his pipe out of his mouth and laughed suddenly I say, you should have seen one Scotchman there, lying down in the middle of the road, by jove, blocking the traffic for 50,000 men. He swore he was too dog tired to move, and he'd killed enough Germs to have a rest They couldn't budge him And the enemy only two miles away General Smith-Dorrien himself came up and ordered him under arrest and even then he wouldn't go, and they had to fair lift him up and carry him off"'

Military Graft Universal.

From the Springfield Republican

While particular allegations of graft in connection with war purchases may be exaggerated or unfounded, it may be taken for granted that fraud is being practiced on an enormous scale, because that is an almost invariable feature of war Germany, by its thorough preparation in advance, may be an exception, yet it is but a short time since Germany was agitated by charges of graft involving the Krupps. By its immense armaments, however it has avoided the extortion and fraud suffered by countries which have to prepare after war begins. Nor is it wholly the supplies purchased abroad which cause trouble, business too often gets the better of patriotism In our civil war the arming, clothing and feeding of the troops was a sorry scandal—paper soles, shoddy blankets, condemned army muskets, and junk of all kinds sold at fancy prices were a bitter jest in the army Many an American fortune was founded in trade of that sort and the frauds practiced in our Spanish war with Japan are still fresh in mind Graft was largely responsible for the bad showing made by the Turkish army in 1912 It is often said that democracy shows at its worst in war time yet in this respect there seems little difference between democracy and despotism the rapidity of bureaucrats may equal that of army contractors Not even militarism is immune, as the scandals last year in Japan showed. But democracy can best strengthen itself for an emergency by dealing with unflinching severity with citizens who defraud the government. If every dishonest contractor were sent to the trenches business morals would quickly improve.

Chinese Story of War.

From the Glasgow Herald.

We are indebted to L'Echo de Chine, the Shanghai journal which represents French interests in the far east, for this very lucid account of the causes of the war. It is the work of a young Chinaman "with a limited knowledge of English."

"Now there is a great battle in Europe. This began because the Prince of Austria went to Serbia with his wife One man of Serbia killed them. Austria was angry, and so fight Serbia. Germany write a letter to Austria, I will help you. Russia write a letter to Serbia, I will help you. France die not want to fight, but they got ready their soldiers. Germany write a letter to France. You don't get ready or will I fight you in nine hours. Germany to fight them pass Belgium. Belgium say I am a country. I am not a road, and Belgium write a letter to England about Germany to them; So England help Belgium."

In spite of his limited knowledge of English he gets home very neatly twice. "You don't get ready or I will fight you in nine hours" crystallizes the mobilization terror of continental nations; and "I am a country, I am not a road," is worthy of the most brilliant of British epigrammists—although the phrase is solid truth as few epigrams are Community Kitchens.

From the Washington Star

Montclair, N J, has achieved a triumph in domestic economy by opening up a community kitchen, where food for a large number of families is being prepared daily at considerably less expense than it can be cooked in the home kitchen

It is designed especially to meet the needs of industrial citizens, among whom are included many mothers of families. The woman who works out during the day has little opportunity to prepare proper food, even if she were not too tired from her own day's work to do so.

The kitchen supplies her with a generous variety of cooked victuals, delivered to her house, well packed in a small fireless cooker which will keep them hot until the family is ready to eat them, thereby providing for the emergency of extra long hours which so frequently are forced upon workers in a large establishment

The heating of the plates for the fireless cooker involves no extra expense for fuel as it is done by the same fire which cooks the food, and this one large fire has an economic advantage over the number of small fires which would have been required to cook less satisfactory food in the separate homes

The Way to Success.

Elizabeth Towne in March Nautilus

The first thing to do if you really want to get out of a hole is to stand still and take a good look at the hole. Stop and remember that you got yourself into the hole, and if you had power to get into it you can certainly muster up wit enough to get out Be still and examine with interest every detail of your hole, your daily life and happiness See if there are not little ways in which to improve things. Make up your mind that there is a way out and that you will muster up patience and interest and gumption enough to find it, and that you will grow brighter and wiser and more powerful by doing it.

Look at your circumstances, instead of over them Time enough to look at what's outside the hole after you have got out

Get interested in doing what you can do, instead of fussing away your energy on what you can't do.

Make every motion of thought or body tell for self development in wisdom, grace, good feeling, accuracy of movement and thought. Make every action help toward the formation of desirable habits of body, thought and feeling

And remember always that desirable habits can be formed in any environment, habits which will fit you for a better environment, and which will attract it.

It is not what you do, but how you do it, that builds character and environment to match. If you can't get out of the hole just now, you can build character within it, which will eventually take you out of it

Farmers Caught Coming and Going.

From the Country Gentleman

According to all sayings the instance of most complete omission is the play of Hamlet with Hamlet left out But there are other similar instances—for example, the increase in freight rates granted by the Interstate Commerce commission As you read the opinions you may wonder how in the world the farmers came to be left out of that remarkable gift, estimated to be worth annually to the railroads all the way from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000—possibly more. But if you go into the figures far enough you will soon find that the farmers are not left out—they were merely not mentioned. They are there all right, to the tune of millions.

It will cost them more to get their products to market. It will cost them more to get their machinery and supplies and material from market. They are caught coming and going. If they ask about it the reply is. "Why, the increase in each item is so infinitesimal that your share can not even be estimated." True, of course; but the infinitesimals make up that $30,000,000 or $50,000,000, rising every year

For four years the railroads concentrated their fire and hammered the commission for permission to raise their rates. They brought into the attack all their big guns and all their little guns, until a majority of the members gave way. Meanwhile they raised their passenger fares. During all that time nobody represented the agricultural interests; and there is nothing in the opinions to show that the farmers must pay more to send products to market, must pay more to get goods from market, and must pay more if they want to go to market themselves. No one can blame the railroads for getting all they can, and there is much merit in the view that their good fortune is a forerunner of general prosperity But isn't it about time farmers were getting busy on transportation lessons?

GHOST OF SKOBELEFF LEADS RUSSIAN FORCES TO BATTLE

From the London Globe

Some Russian soldiers have declared they saw the figure of Skobeleff on his white horse, leading their forces, as of old, into battle To those who know the profound impression that wonderful man made on the Slavonic mind there is no improbability in such a suggestion Drawn so largely from a primitive peasantry the vast host marshaled by the czar must contain multitudes whose childlike imaginations are quite capable of conjuring up their legendary hero in visible form once more, warding off defeat and pointing to victory Even with the less simple there may well be a longing to have so famous a fighter at their head in that great struggle he predicted would happen, and in which he would so dearly have loved to play his part

It was while the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 was raging that, from the midst of official incompetence and corrupt favoritism Skobeleff emerged as the magician to whose wand victory was ever obedient Entirely by his own merits without the advantage of illustrious birth and against the opposition of a prejudiced court he had won his general's epaulets before he was 33 After the fall of Plevna, his rapid passage of the Balkans in midwinter brought about the surrender of Turkey's last army in the field and this was speedily followed by the capture of Adrianople. He was already at the gates of Constantinople when Lord Beaconsfield intervened to prevent its occupation and in the Berlin treaty that ensued Skobeleff ever professed to see the seeds of the harvest we are gathering today

As a soldier he created among his men an enthusiasm for his leadership comparable only to that won by Napoleon himself A strict disciplinarian, visiting any breach of commands with merciless severity he was the friend and companion of every rank a comrade who shared their privations, fed from their camp lots and merrily chaffed one and all

He did not know the sensation of fear, and faced the utmost dangers with cool contempt Yet always he bore a charmed life. Horses were killed beneath him, his staff fell shot at his side, his sword was broken in his hand but no missile ever found in him its billet The story grew in the army that he could not be wounded and some were found to declare they were hit by bullets that could only have passed through him first It was facts and fables like these, losing nothing in the telling, that made him the darling of the Russian people.

White Man and Red

From the Philadelphia Ledger

Francis Leupp, who knows the Indian well warns us against the unfortunate assumption that the Indian is a white man with a red skin Nevertheless, the Indian deserves "white" treatment and he does not always get it, by any means

If there is any man in the military arm of the government who can be trusted to find the common dominator between Pluto Indian outlawry and civilized processes, it is Brigadier General Hugh L Scott chief of the staff of the army He talks and thinks—their dialect he knows their ways, and his purpose is to go among them virtually unattended and speak to them as a father to rebellious children if not as man to men

That is just the way Cecil Rhodes brought about an amicable understanding between the overheated folk of Matabeleland and the people at the cape Armed with no weapon but his riding whip accompanied only by his intrepid sister he nonchalantly went to them as though it were a vacation excursion and returned from their bristling highlands with his mission of amity accomplished

Or one might revert to the august example of William Penn beneath the Shackamaxon treaty tree entering into that compact which, to cite Voltaire was "never sworn to and never broken" Even among primitive peoples, or perhaps it were better to say especially among primitive peoples, the value of a man's word is recognized, and an oral pledge is honored. The world has lately had examples enough of the sophisticated casuistries that seek to justify the contemptuous disregard of "a scrap of paper" General Scott is one of those who have faith in the elemental appeal of honest dealing, the direct give-and-take of outspokenness —and that kind of faith in the long run prevails, rather than a policy of wiles and chicanery and what often passes for brilliant diplomacy

To Train For War.

From Collier's Weekly

Crawl through the trenches of an unfinished sewer excavation in the slush and cutting wind of a sleet storm Touch off a few sticks of dynamite from time to time to keep you unaware of the lack of regular meals, and have an obliging policeman empty his revolver occasionally in your general direction Four or five early morning hours of this will make you forevermore a real neutral.

Two-thirds of the earth's surface is covered with water

PHYSICIAN FINDS SANE AND INSANE MUCH ALIKE

From the Boston Herald.

Dr. Stephen Smith, now 92 years old, has been one of the foremost of the public spirited physicians of New York. He has a theory of the insane, set forth in an interview the other day, which merits attention.

Cornell, when governor of New York, made Dr. Smith commissioner in lunacy, telling him that many people believed persons were kept in asylums by their enemies when they were not really insane and charging Dr. Smith to find out what there was to it. The painstaking physician accordingly talked privately with 15,000 lunatics, coming to the conclusion then and holding it ever since, that 90 per cent of them might as well be out of asylums and sanatoriums as in them, if somebody would only take suitable care of them He cured many merely by interesting them in congenial work. He also noticed that when he left the asylums and began to converse with people outside they told him stories very much akin to those that he had just heard from the presumed lunatics.

The Breakfast Grouch.

From the Indianapolis News.

If a dinner smile is worth a dollar, a breakfast smile is surely worth two, for then the need is more than twice as great. In many homes breakfast is a disordered rout, with time in hot pursuit. It is merely an interruption in the flight from bedroom to office, school or shop And where haste is the rule it is no wonder that facetious wittiesms fly quick and true and that things are said which cause unpleasant recollections when, an hour later, the day is in full swing, and the mind has lost its abnormal sensitiveness Happily, the haste that engenders satirical gibes also serves to mitigate their severity, and by the time the family is assembled for the next meal much that was said in haste at breakfast is forgotten. But not all of it A chance remark, uttered without thought is very likely to open an old wound and send some member of the family about his business with a grouch that will make his day one of pain to him and his associates.

It is this occasional shaft that condemns the whole practice of giving way to petty annoyances at breakfast time. One way to avoid it is to get up 10 minutes earlier This affords time for leisurely dressing and an opportunity to put the mind in order Another, and a better way, is to rise with a song on your lips. Let it be a raucous croak, sadly out of tune if you can do no better, but be sure that it is a merry song And for the person who has a strong mind and a modicum of will power there is the simple plan of resolving to be pleasant But whatever the scheme, its success will bring a new and fresher outlook to the experimenter Nor will it affect him alone. Such is the power of pleasantness that, without seeming to try, it effects a reform among those upon whom it is brought to bear. Nowhere is the contagious nature of a smile more clearly revealed than at a breakfast table beset with grouches. It comes like a light into a dark room, and the person who can withstand it three mornings running must indeed be a lost misanthrope He will soon find himself a hopeless minority and as the converts increase his vanity however slight, will win him over But the transformation requires patience and a deal of tact -two qualities that are far too rare.

The Case "Again" the Jitney.

From the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

As a factor in transportation of passengers the jitney bus is coming for permanent stay At present it is looked upon as an experiment by many of the public, with relief by the straphangers and with dread by the traction companies.

In that feeling of dread, thinly veiled with smiles of indifference, the certainty of the jitney bus is admitted by traction magnates. Legislatures, particularly that of California, have enacted laws designed —on the face of the papers—in the interest of the public, but in fact, in the interest of the dominating traction companies. The commissioners of Oklahoma City attempted to put the jitney bus out of existence later. It concluded its first trip. They decreed that the jitney bus shall not operate on any street "longitudinally" if a traction car uses the same street. Licenses are within the discretion of the commissioners and the owner is required to insure the safety of his passengers.

The Texas legislature has enacted that the jitney bus operator must take out a license in the sum of $50, that he must be responsible for any accident to any passenger and must give bond to the mayor of the city in sum of $5,000 to "make good" the accident

The council of Denver requires each jitney bus to have a franchise from the city and the county under penalty of from $100 to $200, or imprisonment not exceeding 90 days, or both, with each trip constituting a separate offense There are other instances—and the query arises why are the regulations, especially as to accidents, so severe against the jitney bus and so lenient when the traction companies are considered?

The answer is given in the following from the Municipal Journal of February 18 1915

"If but five jitney cars are allowed to operate unlicensed and unregulated, they can rob us of all our earnings and eventually force us into bankruptcy," is what Charles H Bosler, of Dayton, Ohio, president of the Tulsa Street Railway company told the city commissioners in support of a proposed ordinance which would place a heavy tax and stringent regulations on "jitneys." The Tulsa Street Railway company had an investment of $500,000, according to Bosler, at Port Arthur, Tex., where the same company owns the street railway system. Jitney cars have reduced street car revenue almost to nothing Bosler said in Tulsa they have cut heavily into the revenue since their advent At Enid jitney cars are making themselves a menace to the street railway also owned by the Bosler interests

There is no city wherein the citizenship wants to reduce the earnings of the traction companies to nothing There is no desire to force them into bankruptcy There is, however, a desire on the part of the citizenship for good and for adequate service a seat for a nickel and not a nickel for the privilege of straphanging. the long continued rule of action by traction companies in all cities, with long term irrevocable franchises contempt for the public comfort and sneers at public demands

The severity of the legislation directed against the jitney bus, an enterprise altogether lawful and enterprising is not in the interest of the public, but in the interest of the traction companies. The fact that, and scarcely needed the frank admission of President Bosler to emphasize the intent and meaning of legislators and commissioners.

* * * * * * *

Of the three elements involved—the traction companies, the jitney bus and the citizenship—is consideration to be paid to traction companies only? Is straphanging to continue simply because the traction companies make money by it? Is the jitney bus to be put out of business because it competes with the traction companies?

Heroes of Commerce.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

The tramp, the freighter, the collier, the coaster—vessels of jibe and jeer in the maritime world—are not lying warped to wharves or swinging at anchor in neutral harbors, even though the seas are strewn with mines or treacherous with submarines. With a nonchalance in keeping with long traditions, their skippers hold the bridge and push their unromantic craft on to the port of destination as though no one of hazard had been proclaimed. Their vessels are unarmored and ungunned, and their crews are plain old salts who know none of the arts of war. If disaster should come, it is all in the day's work; they expect no honors, they look for no rewards; with frank natural and undramatic courage they do their duty and are content. Some poet should immortalize these heroes of commerce.

Alsace-Lorraine has a population of nearly 2,000,000.

Are You Giving Your Body A Square Deal

Read "The Ills of Life"

This free booklet is a plain talk to plain people as to their ailments and Peruna. They have used Peruna and know what they are talking about. Mothers. Sisters. Brothers. Cousins and grandchildren. They all write Instructive reading. Send for one.

Peruna is a standard household remedy for coughs, colds and catarrh. It is a slight laxative. An admirable tonic for old and young. It is a great saver of doctor's bills to have Peruna in the house. It is also convenient.

If your druggist does not have Peruna in stock order it direct. Liquid $1:00 a bottle, $5.00 for six. Tablets transportation charges. Peruna will convince you the way. One bottle will convince.

THE PERUNA COMPANY
Columbus, Ohio

Constipation Vanishes Forever

Prompt Relief—Permanent Cure

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS never fail. Purely vegetable — act surely but gently on the liver. Stop after dinner distress—cure indigestion, improve the complexion, brighten the eyes

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

Genuine must bear Signature

Brent Good

GOOD SUGGESTION FOR

Some May Insist, However, That It Was Possible She Didn't Need Exercise

Emmy brought in an armful of wood for the fire.

"My dear," said her husband, "you shouldn't do that

She lifted the heavy case of wood to the table and sat down to look over.

"I'd help you if I wasn't waiting for Bates to come over and look at my new filly."

The grocer's boy deposited a case worth of sugar on the floor and then took it up and put it in the same place on the lower pantry shelf

"You really shouldn't said her husband.

Finally she lugged the iron pail of kettle to the sink for the last time and went out for another pail of water.

"I hate to see you lift so, dear. My, how many glasses have you washed It's my favorite jam I'll get a case of cherries tomorrow

Emmy went on getting up a delicious supper.

"Seems as if you didn't eat much," commented her husband "Don't you want to walk down with me? I think while I finish that rubber will do you son? The exercise will do you good —The Craftsman

The Little Boston Boy.

"George,' said the Beacon teacher, "what is a hyphen"

The little Boston boy set his spectacles more firmly on his aristocratic nose.

"A hyphen," he said is a horizontal line connecting a floating bit of driftwood work with a substantial base. Kongo-American and Turco-Chinese.

"Yes," said the teacher "that might add, Chelsea-Boston."

"Madam," said the little Bostonian with much gravity, I decline to discuss a frivolity of a serious subject.

Books—Food

To make good use of knowledge, one needs a strong body and a clear brain—largely a matter of right food.

Grape-Nuts

FOOD

contains proper nutriment for building body and brain, for renewing the tissues that are exhausted daily by work and play.

Grape-Nuts food is made from wheat and barley—contains all their nutriment including those vital mineral salts found under the bran coat, which are especially necessary for the daily keep of nerves and brain.

"There's a Reason"

Grape-Nuts

—sold by Grocers everywhere

...ARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd, Mead & Co.

...ER III—(Continued).

...tire to the library," said ...rising.

... Chetwynd, "if you think ... young to know things, ...our base."

...'m sorry to hear you use ...pression. Off my base? ...u mean, sir?"

... things all right," an... boy eagerly. "She knows ... more than you think she ...ught to her some of the ...es."

..." cried Mr. Presbrey, ...ssed, and without knowing ... she had used,

...udied the figures in the ... moment. "You may ask—" ... had departed. "Ring the ... my dear."

...as jangled once more and ...e into the room, somewhat ...h.

... got half way upstairs, ... announced rather sharply. ... bring Mary downstairs, ..." ordered Mrs. Blagden. ...inutes passed before Eric ...very wide awake and curi... ...ed themselves in the li..., while dressing, had given ... to reckless speculation as ... of the summons. On the ...airs he confided his conclu... ... mystified Mary. His eyes ...ith the joyous hope that ...s soul.

...hey're going to send us off ... school," he whispered. She ...tatic gasp, and clutched at ...

... do you really think so? Oh, ...true!"

... something," he argued ex... must be important, or they ... getting us out of bed."

... of faint heart. She pulled ... And Mary's dark, flower...as of an exquisite modeling ... not be wrought into any...easant to the eye, no matter ...she tried. Her very worst ...re fascinating. You would ... every inch of her, believe ...

...boarding school," she de...that could wait till break... It's something else. Mr. ... still there."

...ered. "I'll bet it's about you ...tipping Sunday school two ...—the day of the fire down ...treet.

...someone's left us a fortune," ...she, just as he was about to ...nob of the library door. "Oh, ...t if someone has!"

...ee" was a great potential ... of resolve.

...gden library, like all other ...he big house, was stiffly re... The rows of books, in the ...oth bindings, covered the ... on four sides of the room ... to ceiling. The glass door ...ction was locked, and Mr. ...rried the key in his trousers' ...e only portion of the vol...sible to the reader was the ...d on the back. Dust was ...y thing that was denied ac... shelves. Most of the vol... first editions and uncut, and ...ed a value that was not to ...ed by the ordinary mind. ... Mr. Blagden himself looked ... but to no one else was this ...xtended. There was no book ... may be sure, that the most ...oy or girl could not have ...ut contamination. They were ...rly clean lot of "items," to ...ofessional term.

... mistake, an English edition, ...er, of the Memoirs of Casa...d the solemn and sedate ...quite without discussion, for ... reason that the master of ... had taken the books in part ...f a debt incurred by a real ...ap, who had been in college ... The erotic Casanova re...ere for many months, touch...with a carefully bound set of ...efore someone who knew ... to enlighten Mr. Blagden ...r salaciousness. The owner, ...ould have cast the offending ...nto the fire had not his ...ised him that a good set of ... would bring something like ... "right party" came along. ...gden kept them a year long... for the right party to come ...e sold them at last to the ... his bank, and ever afterward ...on that gentleman as a per...verted taste and not to be ...sted.

...n diverging The two Mid... entering the room, paused ... just inside the door, gazing ...e dismay upon the four stern ...ersons ranged about the long ...ble. Chetwynd had partially ...himself by sitting upon the ... his back in the great arm ...he corner

...he door, Eric," said his uncle. ...e here. You, too, Mary." The ...approached timorously. "Let ...ur lip. You tumbled off the ...

... into the trap. "Yes sir," he ...

...ere a moment of silence, while ... of condemning eyes trans... boy.

... is wrong to tell fibs," said ... in hurt tones.

... saw his mistake. He felt a ...ge wave of humiliation shoot ...oat and up to his brain.

... a fib," he cried stoutly. "I ...ff the ...nce last week."

...re attempting to deceive us," ...his uncle, fastening his cold ... upon the boy's face. "It is ...ad as lying. Why could you ... told the truth, and said that ... struck you?"

... I'd sooner lie than tell ...ared Eric boldly. "My moth... punish me if I came in cry... ...id her some boy had hit me ... always said I ought to be a ...fight back instead of —"

...ill do, that will do," inter... ... Blagden in some haste. Mr. ...coughed, with a delicate re... ...he feeling sof his unfortunate ...

...oy, poor boy," he sighed. "As ...e bent!"

...m! Your aunt and I have ...the conclusion, children, that ... time you were brought to a ...of what is before you. It ...easant task, my lad—not a ...task."

...m it," said Mr. Presbrey. ... on the sofa, both of you. ... Now, please do not in... —ahem! Remember it is for ...good."

...ildren sat rigidly upright on ... the old damask sofa, fac... ...ur persons who looked across ...table at them. The lights in ...delier were burning. Mary ...d at them with a vague sense ... She had never seen them

...lighted before It was always the kero...sene student's lamp on the end of the ...table, beside Mr. Blagden's chair There ...was a marked absence of the dun re...ligious light in the room tonight

"Don't cross your legs Mary," said ...her aunt severely How many times ...have I told you — "

"Yes, ma'am," gasped Mary uncross...ing her plump little legs in a hurry ...and sending her quaint, apologetic ...smile up against the frozen faces opposite. The chill was transferred to her ...blithe little heart

"Mr. Presbrey wants to talk to both of ...you," announced Mr Blagden I am ...sure you will receive what he is about ...to say in good grace and humility You ...know that he, as well as your aunt and ...I, has the welfare of your souls at ...heart. He is about to tell you of your ...father, and the dreadful story of your ...unhappy mother Now please pay ...strict attention to his words You will ...find comfort and solace in the promises he will hold out to you afterwards ...There is a great light beyond the ...breakers—er-ahem! over which you ...must be cast before the darkness of the ...night is lifted for you He will with ...God's blessing, direct you to the ...which lead away from the pits into ...which your unfortunate parents drifted ...in their wilfulness Will you be good ...enough, Mr Presbrey to tell them" ...He broke off the injunction It was ...hardly a request in the middle and ...settled back with complacent confidence in his pastor's intuition

The worthy pastor cleared his throat, and began. With his uncle's first words Eric felt a sickening horrid lump rising in his throat Something seemed to tighten about his whole body Folding him in a grip so relentless that he could scarcely breathe He sat there, staring wide eyed and helpless at the lean face of the man who was to say things he knew would hurt as nothing had ever hurt him before Twice he swallowed hard, but the lump was there to stay He heard the quick bewildered catch in Mary's breathing Without looking, he knew that her lip trembled He knew they were about to attack his father He knew instinctively what charge would be brought against him—and he had loved him so dearly so fiercely Words struggled to his lips.

"It was a duel" he managed to say in a pitiful effort to anticipate pain

Mr Presbrey hesitated He wondered who had given this version to the boy

"Alas, my boy you have been misinformed—er—I should say you have misconstrued the words of your informant," he said uneasily It suddenly occurred to him that either Mr or Mrs. Blagden, in a moment of weakness, might have told the boy that there was a duel in that event it was necessary for his to proceed with tact with caution

"Who told you that Eric demanded his uncle and aunt simultaneously

"It doesn't matter" supplied Mr Presbrey indulgently, quite at ease once more. "It may have been that as a very small child he heard something to that effect, and his memory has retained it after a fashion Quite likely, er—quit natural Very frequently a word spoken in the presence of the merest babe finds lodgment in its immature brain and makes itself manifest strangely in after years I knew of an instance——"

"Don't keep the child waiting Arthur dear" put in his wife He seems so eager to hear about his father She meant to be kind, I've no doubt

Therefore, Mr Presbrey with the permission of the erring woman's brother, plunged into the history of Philip Midthorne and Mary Blagden, ordering his language in its simplest form so that his small listeners might read as they ran so to speak The whole ugly business, from start to finish, was laid bare for their benefit—and their future glorification The helpless little Midthornes heard him through to the end sitting immovable on the edge of the sofa, never once lifting their dry, half closed eyes from the carpet at their feet They heard the beings they loved best of all in the world, albeit they had known them so briefly, characterized as creatures of iniquity, their sorry misdeeds held up to them as warning examples very much as the hangman of old left his victim swinging by the roadside so that all who contemplated evil doing might see and be guided into paths of rectitude.

I will not attempt to follow the good Mr. Presbrey's preamble nor to repeat his saintly interruptions of himself that he might point out lights among the shadows when occasions suggested themselves. He dwelt with particular intensity on the devils that entered into and warped the nature of Philip Midthorne, transforming him into a common murderer when he might have been an honor and a credit to his people—especially to those innocent God-fearing connections in Corinth At some length, he dwelt with the impulses that conquered the man and pointed out to Eric the signs of them already appearing in him Violent temper lack of self restraint, the desire to inflict bodily injury ungovernable spells of fury sullenness, secretiveness and so on and so on- against all of which he must steel himself unless he was determined to follow in the footsteps of his ill-fated father.

"You do not want to be a murderer, Eric," he said at one stage bending his luminous blue eyes on the bent downcast face of the boy You do not want to come to an end like his, my boy—do you" Ah, I am sure you do not. And yet—ah, me! I shudder to think of what may come to pass if you do not safeguard yourself "Come unto Me and I will give you rest' Let me be your guide, my boy, let me lead you into sweet, gentle fields, where strife and bitterness are not to be encountered."

Mrs. Presbrey, carried away by the earnestness of her husband, cried out "Oh, Eric, think twice—always think twice!"

"Think of the great, good God, who ———" began Mr. Presbrey, but Eric, who, all through the blighting recital had been trying to concentrate his mind on the admonition "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long in the land," could control himself no longer.

"I wish I could kill you—and you!" he cried from the bottom of his harassed soul, lifting his blood-red face to glare first at one and then at the other Presbrey.

There was a full minute of utter silence.

We must do Chetwynd justice. He was secretly wishing that, by some chance. Eric might have a fair sized rock in his pocket, and also the coolness to heave it accurately.

"There, there!" murmured Mr Presbrey, rather helplessly This benign adjuration, with its expressive hand accompaniment, was meant for the distracted boy, but somehow it went farther It was the means of checking the caustic reprimand that rose to the lips of each of the elder Blagdens, as well as putting his scandalized wife in her proper place before she could utter a word which was something he had never been able to do before. "You must not give way to rage like that. You should try to govern, try to conquer the vicious impulse that is back of such outbursts. I am sorry—very sorry, Eric—to hear such words from your lips Only ruffians and the besotted of our world utter such threats. Compose yourself. You can overcome these base thoughts if you will but try. Try, my boy, try. I——"

Amen!" exclaimed his wife.

Amen!" added Chetwynd from his chair in the corner Mr Presbrey turned a dark red He was conscious of ridicule in the boy's dolorous iteration

Mr Blagden " he began warmly

Chetwynd!" thundered the young man's father Leave the room!"

What have I done?" whined Chetwynd, thoroughly frightened.

Never mind Mr Blagden, I beseech you, cried Mr Presbrey in haste, reconsidering an impulse "I am sure Chetwynd spoke with sincerity in his heart Do not chide him, I implore" Mr Blagden shook his finger at Chetwynd and the incident was closed But in one of the undiscovered recesses of Mr Presbrey's soul, a small, bitter thing took root and from it, all unbeknownst to him, a most unchristian aversion to Chetwynd was to grow with amazing swiftness Mr. Presbrey never had hated anyone or anything in all his life But he was destined know the feeling and to enjoy it

He renewed his appeal to the boy on the sofa You would have though that he already stood in the shadow of the scaffold so eloquently did the excited gentleman plead for his redemption The boy after his single outburst shrank within himself, crushed humiliated, trembling Somehow he knew now that old Jabez had lied to him and that these horrid sentences contined the truth The light went out of his soul, the warmth from his heart A beautiful ideal was being shattered as he looked on, and he could offer no resistance to the demolition It was all true His father was a murderer He had shot down a man without mercy without fairness. There was nothing left for the boy to build on nothing that could stand firmly enough for him to attach his dreams to—nothing' The minister was telling the truth The minister could not lie. Old Jabez had lied Old Jabez could lie, he recalled in a hazy fashion as he tried to prop up his hopes by putting the old seaman's word against that of the divine

His face was white with the frost that had entered his blood His eyes were burning, his soul was faint. Twice, even thrice, he looked to his uncle and aunt for succor, though he knew not why Something told him beforehand that they would not come to his relief that they had no desire to shield him from the truth—aye that they had brought it about for some inexplicable reason of their own He did not feel the convulsive clutching of his sister's fingers he was dead to everything except the steel that was slipping into his heart

Once he heard Mr Presbrey say as if from afar 'Don't you remember, Eric dear, the man who was hanged in Ridgely county last fall" Think of that! Think of that man's feelings!'

But he could not think of that man's feelings He could only think of his own, of his sister's, of his father's Why should she ask him to think of that man's feelings" What was that man to him or to his sister? What had he to do with the case? That man had only killed his wife He had not killed a scoundrel as his father had done

Come to Christ' Come to Christ' droned the gentle, persistent voice of the minister punctuating his harangue with earnest appeal from time to time Out of the maze Eric heard his uncle's voice

Do not hesitate on my account, Presbrey Tell them of their mother."

In the middle of Mr Presbrey's devout castigation of Horace Blagden's protagonistic sister, little Mary threw herself on Eric's shoulder and sobbed as if her heart would break. Eric's trembling voice broke in on her sobs, in the feeble effort to comfort her.

'Don't cry, Mamie, please don't' Listen' You never can be like that. You've got me, I'll stand by you. Nothing can ever happen to you" Then he turned fiercely upon his uncle "Why do you let him say such things about your sister, Uncle Horace? She was your sister, my mother was. I'd kill a man, if I was a man, if he said such things about my sister' As an afterclap, he added shrilly "Even if they hung me for it!"

But Mr Blagden retained the unruffled composure that made him the great man of Corinth He felt of his watch fob—mind you, he did not fumble it—and gazed blandly at Mrs Presbrey, a queer little smile of apology on his lips As much as to say 'In my own house, dear me"

'I won't listen to any more,' cried Eric coming to his feet and facing them all 'I shan't stay here. Mary shan't either We'll go away tonight I know where we can go I—"

'Eric' Be quiet!" commanded his uncle "And sit down"

(Continued next week.)

Who Knows?

Thou art the soul of a summer's day,
Thou art the breath of the rose
But the summer is fled
And the rose is dead
Where have they gone, who knows, who knows?

Thou art the blood of my heart o' hearts,
Thou art my soul's repose
But my heart grows numb
And my soul is dumb
Where art thou, love, who knows, who knows?

Thou art the hope of my after years -
Sun for my winter snows,
But the years go by
Neath a clouded sky
Where shall we meet, who knows, who knows?

—Paul Laurence Dunbar

The Draw Tender.

Two things I do
I let the river craft go safely through
Then lock the bridge back in a pathway true—
These things I do.

I let them by,
Their whistles shrieking to the peaceful sky
The trains that make old timbers creak and cry—
I let them by.

These things I know—
The look of shipping as it passes slow
The tugs and schooners as they come and go—
These things I know.

I know the tide
I see its changing currents wash and glide
All day along the weedy old pier side—
I know the tide.

I am content—
For such plain work my life was surely meant,
Let others follow each his chosen bent—
I am content

—H J. Hall in Collier's Weekly

The Memphis inventor of a street car fender has declined to patent it, preferring that humanity should reap the benefit

Housework Is a Burden

It's hard enough to keep house if in perfect health, but a woman who is weak, tired and suffering from an aching back has a heavy burden.

Any woman in this condition has good cause to suspect kidney trouble, especially if the kidney action seems disordered.

Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of suffering women. It's the best recommended special kidney remedy.

An Iowa Case

Mrs. M. Clinker, N. State St., Tama, Iowa, say "For two years I was afflicted with dull pains in the small of my back and in my shoulders. If I sat long I could hardly get up and mornings my back was extremely lame. On a friend's advice I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they fixed me up in good shape. I am now in good health."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

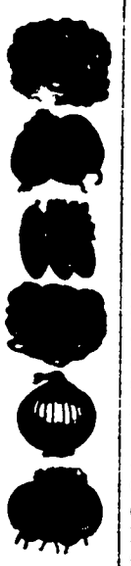
One's True Friends.

Three men are my friends—he that loves me, he that hates me and he that is indifferent to me. Who loves me, teaches me caution Who is indifferent to me, teaches me self-reliance —Panin

Alfalfa PUREST ON EARTH

More than 30 years ago Salzer's Catalog boomed Alfalfa, years before other seedsmen thought of its value Today Salzer excels! His Alfalfa strains include Grimm, (Montana Liscom, Agr. College inspected). Salzer's Dakota Registered No. 30—all hardy as oak.

For 10c In Postage



We gladly mail our Catalog and sample package of Ten Famous Farm Seeds, including Speltz, "The Cereal Wonder;" Rejuvenated White Bonanza Oats, "The Prize Winner;" Billion Dollar Grass; Teosinte, the Silo Filler, Alfalfa, etc., etc

Or Send 12c

And we will mail you our big Catalog and six generous packages of Early Cabbage, Carrot, Cucumber, Lettuce, Radish, Onion—furnishing lots and lots of juicy delicious Vegetables during the early Spring and Summer.

Or send to John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box 706, La Crosse, Wis., twenty cents and receive both above collections and their big catalog.

More Like It.

Aren't you ashamed of yourself," said Mrs. Trubble, "coming home in the condition you did last night—when I had callers, too?"

'Madam," replied her husband, "you do me an injustice. I was as sober as an owl."

"Yes, as a boiled owl, you mean."

FACE BATHING WITH

Cuticura Soap Most Soothing to Sensitive Skins. Trial Free.

Especially when preceded by little touches of Cuticura Ointment to red, rough, itching and pimply surfaces. Nothing better for the skin, scalp, hair and hands than these super-creamy emollients. Why not look your best as to your hair and skin?

Sample each free by mail with Book. Address postcard, Cuticura, Dept. XY, Boston. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

As It Seemed to Fitztop.

'Was your father a pirate?" asked young Fitzstop of the girl of his choice at a clandestine meeting, after the old sea captain had urged his exit from the family mansion on the hill by the use of his pedal extremity.

"No, my darling," was the reply. 'Why do you ask?"

"He seemed to me to be a good deal of a free-booter," said the young man, reflectively.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

No Information.

"Are the new people neighborly?"

"Neighborly? I should say not! Their hired girl is deaf and dumb."

INDICATIONS OF AN EARLY SPRING

Great Prosperity Ahead for Western Canada.

The most recent advices from all points in Western Canada report that conditions are apparent for an early spring. Farmers are going over the implements, getting their seeders ready for operation, the plows in shape for extended breaking, and there is a general optimism. A great many new settlers have already arrived, and the reports from Canadian Government agents in the United States point to the fact that in a few days there will begin the usual emigration from various of the Central and Western states From the Eastern states the number of farmers going to Canada will be greater than in any past year

There has been a fairly large snowfall during the winter, which will greatly add to the precipitation of last fall, which in the opinion of old-timers was in itself sufficient to insure a good crop during the present year.

There will be very little tilled land that will be without a crop this year. The authorities, though, are pleading with the farmers to seed only such land as has had careful preparation, for rich as is the soil of Western Canada, it is no more fitted to produce good crops uncultivated than is that of any other land anywhere else. There have been accounts of failures in some portions of the agricultural districts of Western Canada, and also reports of small yields in some districts. A good deal of this is accounted for from the fact that notwithstanding the advice of men of experience, there are farmers who will persist in seeding land not properly prepared. This may be done this year, but those who cultivate on reasonable and logical methods will be certain of a paying crop. There is every reason to believe that the high prices of all kinds of grain will continue.

With thousands and thousands of acres of land waiting for the husbandman to bring it forth with a crop, it is no wonder that Western Canada is continuing to prove such an inviting field for the agriculturist.

Seventy million dollars is a conservative estimate of orders which came to Canada as the direct result of the war. Governments of the allies have been placing large orders in Canada and buying huge quantities of supplies for cash.

The total value of exports to Europe from Canada has jumped about 15 per cent since the war started, while in certain lines the increases have been enormous.

Therefore the results of the demand of the allies for war and other material is beginning to be felt in the financial life of the Dominion. There is a marked activity in many commercial lines, and conditions are fast becoming normal.

Western Canada is receiving a relative benefit to the East.—Advertisement.

A Militant Man.

"It is easy enough to please women and children," said a business man the other day. "I once owed several thousand dollars and did not have any idea how I should pay the amount, but finally resolving to forget the whole business, I sent down a big box of roses and a wind-up train that ran on a track. You have no idea how happy the household was then.

"But I am still wondering how I am going to pay my debts."

Then—and Now.

"Squabbling and fighting—there's another very frequent cause of divorce," said Prof. J. Watts Ingersoll, in an address before the Cleveland Antidivorce league.

"A man had been haled before a Cleveland magistrate for nonsupport or some such fault.

"'But, let me see,' the judge said, 'aren't you the chap who was married in a cage of wild, man-eating tigers and leopards?'

"'Yes, your honor, I'm the man, was the reply

"'Exciting, wasn't it?' said the justice

"'Well, your honor,' said the man 'it seemed so then It wouldn't now'"

Look out for domestic squalls after a December-May wedding.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

According to the Times.

"I say, old boy, have you a fiver to lend for a week or so?"

"Here's a church member note."

"What kind might that be?"

"One that is bound to keep lent."

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids: No Smarting—just Eye comfort Write for Book of the Eye by mail Free. Murine Eye Remedy Co. Chicago

Just Any Kind.

Betty and two of her playmates spent an hour shaking Betty's bank and then rushed to the corner store with the single coin they were able to entice through the slot.

"What's for you, little ones?" asked the storeman

Throwing the coin on the low glass case, Betty replied with an air of contented indifference:

"Our folks are all rich Just give us a cent's worth of any kind of candy"

The Cough is what hurts, but the tickle is to blame. Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops stop the tickle—5c at good Druggists

They Won't.

"It is a great pity," said the girl who is popular, 'that young men won't arrange their visits on the short-and sweet plan."

"What is that?" asked the other girl.

"Go home early and leave a box of candy"

A frenzied financier is a man who collects every dollar due him and stands off every bill collector that calls on him.

VISIT

California's Expositions

Low Round Trip Fares

Northern Pacific Ry

GARDINER GATEWAY

Yellowstone National Park

A. M. CLELAND, ... Pass. ... A. ... Northern Pacific R... St. Paul, Minn.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 13-1915.

W. L. DOUGLAS

MEN'S $2.50 $3 $3.50 $4.00 $4.50 $5 $5.50 SHOES

WOMEN'S $2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 & $4.00 SHOES

BOYS' $1.75 $2 $2.50 $3.00 MISSES' $2.00 & $2.50

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY WEARING W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

W. L. Douglas shoes are made of the best domestic and imported leathers, on the latest models, carefully constructed by the most expert last and pattern makers in this country. No other make of equal prices, can compete with W. L. Douglas shoes for style, workmanship and quality. As comfortable, easy walking shoes they are unsurpassed.

The $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes will give as good service as other makes costing $4.00 to $5.00. The $4.50, $5.00 and $5.50 shoes compare favorably with other makes costing $6.00 to $8.00. there are many men and women wear shoes. Consult them and they will tell Douglas shoes cannot be excelled for

CAUTION! When buying W.L. look for his NAME stamped on the bottom. Shoes thus stamped are always worth the price paid for them. For 32 years W. L. Douglas has guaranteed their value and protected the wearer against high prices for inferior shoes by having his NAME AND PRICE stamped on the bottom before they leave the factory. Do not be persuaded to take some other make claimed to be just as good. You are paying your money and are entitled to the best.

If your dealer cannot supply you, write for Illustrated Catalog showing how to order by mail.

W. L. Douglas, 210 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.

If you could visit the W. L. Douglas factory at Brockton, Mass., and see how carefully the shoes are made, and the high grade leathers used, you would then understand why they look and fit better, hold their shape and wear longer than other makes for the price.

W. L. Douglas shoes are sold through 80 stores in the large cities and shoe dealers everywhere.

Wherever you live ing W.L.Douglas you that W. L. the price.

Douglas shoes AND PRICE

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES

LOCAL ITEMS

Rev J M. Howdeshell was a Garner visitor, Thursday.

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale Mrs. G. O. Miner.

FOR SALE—Good work team.
Chas. Ax.

WANTED:—Some milk cows and steers. Phone 106 John Coobs.

Mrs. Geo. Ahrenkiel and daughter, Mrs. H. E. Bonwell were Goodell visitors, Tuesday.

A. C. Lau & Son shipped a car of hogs to Chicago, Saturday night and Wm. Becker a car of cattle.

W. R. Bloom shipped a car of hogs to Chicago, Wednesday. A. C. Lau accompanied the shipment.

I will give a handsome pillow free with every $6.00 cash purchase.
Mrs. John Josten.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas. F. Busch

Be careful you don't overlook our big club of magazines which we are sending our subscribers this year.

FOR SALE—Sharples Cream Separator, in good condition, $25.
29 tf Wm. H. Milligan.

We will pay car fare to all Goodell purchasers. Mrs. John Josten, Milliner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wille returned from Iowa City last thursday, where Mrs. Wille has been in the hospital.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

The St. Patrick's dance held last Wednesday evening, was very well attended and a very enjoyaple time reported.

Mrs. T. L. Ruka was up from Belmond, Wednesday and Thursday visiting her daughter Mrs. S. J. Kirkwood.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate —J P Larsen & Sons.

Chris Lau returned to his home at Garber, Monday, after a two weeks visit with relatives and his many friends in this vicinity.

SEWING WANTED—I have decided to do sewing for the public, and will guarantee all work intrusted to me, will be found at the Wm Fuller home, just west of the English M E church Miss Rose Yahnke 29p.

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

CALL AND SEE THE
ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

HORSES CLIPPED

All those who have Horses they wished clipped this spring, bring them in and we will do the work right and promptly.

City Livery Barn

Rock Island
Scenic Circle Tours

The Expositions in California—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego, and the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, offer the greatest opportunity ever presented to the American people to see something of their own country.

Choice of routes, with a number of limited trains to choose from, including the famous "Golden State Limited," "Rocky Mountain Limited" and "Californian." Low fares for round trip. Liberal stopover privileges. Long return limit.

Get a copy of our folder on the Panama Expositions. Tells you how to go and what you can see.

Our representatives are travel experts who will help you plan a wonderful and an economical outing, give you full information and look after every detail of your trip.

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. White and son went to Mason City, Tuesday, where Mrs. White remained to take osteopathic treatment from Mrs. Dietz.

The school program which was to have been held was postponed indefinitely on account of some of the children who were to take part in the program.

You do not have to make excuses for Klemme if you will take a trip and see how far ahead we are with improvements than the averege town of this size.

Lord French of England states that the European struggle is about end. Come out and hear Dr Herbert next Thursday evening, April 1st and get his view point.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kirkwood and daughter from Ringsted. Wednesday evening for a couple of days visit at the A. Kirkwood home and to take in the St. Patrick's dance.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia.

When you want it you get it. When you don't want it you don't get it, and don't you forget it at the North elevator.
Yours for business,
Grain, Coal and Live Stock,
A. C. Lau & Son.

Dr. Herbert, the lecturer who so greatly pleased his audience here a short time ago will be with us again on Thursday evening, April 1st. Those who heard him before will want to hear him again and those who missed hearing him before should not pass up this opportunity.

The "Missouri Girl" at the opera house, Tuesday evening was one of the most pleasing shows that has paid us a visit in many a moon is the verdict of the good sized crowd that were out to be entertained. They were advertised as a "fun show" and from all reports we believe that they were.

There are two good reasons why we feel sure that Spring has arrived First that the Robins are here with their welcome chirp, and second that some of the boys have begun to toss the ball around and were successful in throwing it through one of the shades of the electroilers on main street Tuesday.

The following parties are taking in the Mason City Auto Show F H Ridder, C W Wiles, F A Arnold, C L Yahnke A H Yahnke, S J Kirkwood, Ed G. Ell, John Henschen, Frank Rhodes, A W Ross, Al. Koerner, N L. Palmer, Hartley Blewitt and Philip Behringer.

The largest prettiest and best display of trimmed hats in Klemme. We have every conceivable shape and and a wonderful variety of styles. We can please you no matter how hard you are to please. A call will convince you. Our prices will suit you. Mrs. John Josten

The following candidates were placed in nomination on the People's party ticket held at a caucus last week Mayor, Aug Lau Treasurer, F A Arnold; Councilmen, Wm Bachman, C F Busch, C W. Wiles, Fred Mosfeldt and J E. Harlan, Assessor Fred Henschen Both tickets are good and a close race is looked for

Dr Swale, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in Northern Iowa passed away at his home in Mason City, Sunday morning following an illness of only a week's duration. Dr Swale was very well known in this immediate community having been called here in consultation with local physicians on numerous occasions. A few years ago in company with some of his brother practioners of Mason City he established the Park Hospital and was at the head of that popular hospital up to his death He was forty four years of age and besides his very large number of friends leaves to mourn his untimely death, his wife and one son, and other near relatives.

GOODELL

The dance was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. J. H. Bremmer enjoyed a visit from her sister, Mrs. Smith from Iowa Falls, and also her mother from near Dows.

The Rev. Burress from Belmond, will give a free lecture in the opera house, Friday on Oddfellowship.

Mrs. Lemke from Garner, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Beier.

Val Josten was down from Klemme, Tuesday.

Miss Mamie White returned from Minneapolis, and Spirit Lake, where she has been visiting friends the past few weeks.

John Savogue went to Belmond, last week to visit his sister, Mrs. Kinney who is very sick.

The Ladies Aid will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Geo. Hall, Wednesday

Miss Vida Houghton and little sister, Daphne were Garner callers, Saturday.

AVERY CENTER

Martin Kearney is on the sick list this week.

Maude Wilkins returned to her school duties, after a week of vacation.

Quite a number of young people from this vicinity attended the St. Patrick's dance at Klemme, Wednesday evening.

Myrtle Bill was to Garner, Saturday, having dental work done.

Anna Fitz Patrick of Woden is visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

O. G. Tracy from Belmond was an over Sunday visitor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Cleo Brugman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bachman are the happy parents of a baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rhodes were Goodell visitors, Monday.

Florence and Leona Wilkins are suffering with the mumps at present.

Several of the young people of this vicinity visited at the Fred Bachman home, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Henry Idbe and children Mathilda, August and Edward left Tuesday, for their new home in Minnesota.

IN THE SELECT LIST

The following are the patrons of the Klemme creamery who received one dollar per day or more for butter fat during the month of February.

A. C. Carpenter	362.57
V. A. Cook	59.54
W. C. Schmidt	57.07
J. J. Stille	54.36
E. J. Arnold	50.57
Geo. Albers	50.09
C. Medaus	49.00
A. J. Schoenwetter	47.09
Ed Schaefer	45.81
G. O. Miner	44 13
Fred Gates	35.83
W. Nuehring	35.52
Geo. Greiman	35.38
J. E. Stille	35.06
Geo. Schoenwetter	34.22
Geo. Schaper	33 67
Lubbe Albers	32.57
H. L. Suckow	31.71
J A Trumbell	29 77
W. X Smith	29.33
H. Schlichting	29.31
H. Wille	29 16
Geo Ahrenkiel	28 85
John Mull	28 21
Lew Griffin	28 21
W. H. Lemke	28.00
W. L. Sherwood	28.00

LOOK HERE

9 lots in Klemme, Ia, at a sacrifice price, other good farms at easy terms. Write for information,
Wolle Land Agency,
Belmond, Ia.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing Henry Lau & Son

A GUARANTEED ATTRACTION COMING

Klemme Opera House, Wednesday, APril 7th

At last we have secured an attraction we feel safe in recommending—an attraction that for the last eight years has been breaking the records, playing to capacity business. The Mysterious Smith Company is this season carrying a much larger company than ever before, with a beautiful velvet setting.

There will be many new features seen with this attraction this year.

Other new feature specialties, such as musicians, jugglers, and contortionists.

Never in this country has there been prodhced such big illusions and mysteries as Mysterious Smith will present this season.

His work does not consist of magic. Don't go to the theatre thinking you will see sleight-of-hand, as that small work passed his hands many years ago and is now devoting his time to semething new in the way of big illusions and mysteries.

Don't fail to see this show, as it is one of the greatest treats of the season, and comes to your city as one of the best recommended attractions on the road today. If you desire good seats, get your tickets early.

Look at ad. for prices.

For Eastern Laughs.

"Mr. Dewer called again this morning," said the new office boy as Mr. Wilson entered the office. "Did you tell him I had gone to California, as I told you, Frank?" "Yes, sir." "What did he say?" "He asked when you would be back, and I said, 'After lunch.'"—Indianapolis News.

Fit Your Boy Out With A New Suit

Selections are good and the stock comprises all the new effects in the neatest patterns to be had.

FINE CASSMERS, WORSTEDS TARTAN PLAIDS and SERGES PRICES - - - - $1.95 to $8.00

FREE! With every Boy's Suit at $3.50 and up we will a pair of Stilts.

See Them In Our Window

GET TO KNOW
GILDNER BROS. & JONHSON
GARNER, IOWA

A Talk About Groceries

It's easy enough to claim that this grocery store is the best within your reach. Claiming so doesn't make it so. But as a matter of fact we not only claim it, but we back up our claim with the facts.

We are receiving Fresh Groceries every day, and we are buying only Reliable Groceries that will appeal to your discriminating taste. You will always get full weight and first-class grades at this store.

The High Cost of Living

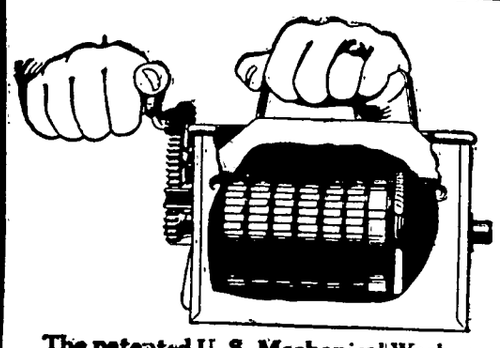
Can be avoided to a great extent by careful, intelligent marketing. Good wholesome, nourishing food staples, are but little higher than they ever were. From our stocks the table can be provided with food to suit all the family, with variety to suit the varying tastes, and at the most moderate price. Come to us and let us point you to the way of economical and satisfactory living.

A Safe Place To Trade

J. N. DAY

FURNISHED FREE!! A Washer and Sterilizer

WITH EVERY NEW UNITED STATES CREAM SEPARATOR



The patented U. S. Mechanical Washer and Sterilizer saves hours of time.

The U. S. Mechanical Washer is a marvelous cleaner. It is a marvelous sterilizer. In a year this Washer actually saves days of time over other ways of washing skimming devices.

The U. S. has the only cream separator bowl that can be successfully washed, rinsed and sterilized mechanically, for the following reasons.

It has the only bowl through which the water can be driven with such tremendous force that its cleaning power is superior to hand washing, and lots quicker and easier.

The U. S. Separator has the only skimmer built of solid Nickel Silver sections. They always remain smooth and non-adhesive.

You could not wash a silver platter any cleaner in the dish pan than you can the Nickel Silver skimming sections in the patented Mechanical Washer.

Mrs. Elmer Nixon, Victory, Wis., says, "The new washing device is a dandy. Mrs. Nixon declares that washing the separator is now a pleasure and that with the new Washer the U. S. can be washed in one-third the time required to wash any other separator."

Why not buy the most improved separator—the U. S. You will use it twice a day for the next ten years.

Old separators taken in trade. A demonstration of the new U. S. gladly given at your home, without obligation.

ED. G. ELL

A Progressive Newspaper
In The Most Progressive
Town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 30 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department. Our earned Surplus of $15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy

THE "PRUDENT MAN" WILL BE WARE OF SMOOTH STRANGERS WITH NICE SEEMING SCHEMES

If all of those schemes which "Smooth" strangers are around to peddle are such great "Money Makers" why don't they KEEP them themselves?

When a man is trying hard to sell you a proposition there is something in it for HIM—that's a sure thing

Is it not better for us all to keep our money here at home, invest in and build up OUR OWN Community?

The man who does this is prosperous.

MAKE OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interst on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00 | Total $30,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00 |

Can you beat it?

Every Farmer Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

DOCTOR MISSMAN
PHYSICIAN — SURGEON
OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE—North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109
Radiographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

HER ROOST OR BOOST
KNOCKING DOES NOT PAY ANY DIVIDENDS

CITIZEN'S TICKET ELECTED MONDAY

Nearly 100 Votes Polled---C. L. Yahnke is the New Mayor

The election of town officials Monday caused a little excitement for the excitable a little amusement for the amusable, and a satifactory result for the majority of the voters at least. Ninety-eight votes were cast. The big fight seemed to be centered on the mayorship, C. L. Yahnke winning out over August Lau by a majority of ten votes.

Following is the vote on the two tickets

CITIZENS TICKET

Mayor

C. L. Yahnke 54

Councilmen

Tom Blank
J. N. Day 52
Ed. G. Hill
F. H. Ridder 63
G. W. Knockhoun

Treasurer

Ernest Lenz

Assessor

L. Sampson

PEOPLES TICKET

Mayor

August Lau 44

Councilmen

Wm. Bachman
C. F. Busch
C. W. Wyes 29
Fred Mosfeldt
[illegible]

Assessor

F. A. Arnold

Fred Hoeschen 30

TEST ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED

Prof. Barker Speaks Before the Association, Friday Afternoon

Klemme farmers once more show their progressive spirit when twenty-six of them recently organized the first Cow Testing Association in Hancock county

Prof Barker of the Dairying Association of Iowa will speak before the association or any who might be interested, in the basement of the First National bank, Friday afternoon, when he will tell of the best rations for the dairy animal and give out other information that will be helpful to the organization or anyone interested in dairying. At this time the matter of hiring the tester will be settled

Right here we might say that the farmers tributary to Klemme are progressive in more ways than one and if they keep up their present gait will make the balance of their agricultural brothers in Hancock county sit up and take notice—in fact they are already doing so.

FREE DRAINAGE LECTURE

Prof. H. M. Sparboe of the State Dairy Association Speaks Monday Eve

Every farmer or anyone interested in the drainage question are requested to be present at the lecture of Prof. Scarboe at the opera house on next Monday evening, April 5th as guests of the Klemme Commercial League. Any farmer or farm owner will likely be able to pick up many valuable pointers at this lecture and should make it a point to attend.

War and Etiquette.

Many a little convention has had its death knell sounded on the battlefield, and after every great war new customs are born. D'Israeli relates an instance of this in a more confined field in Italy. "Such was the party hatred of the Guelphs and Ghibellines, the two great Italian factions, that they carried their rancor even into their domestic habits. At table the Guelphs placed their knives and spoons longwise; the Ghibellines across; the one cut his bread across, the other longwise. Even in cutting an orange they could not agree, for the Guelph cut his orange horizontally and the Ghibelline downward."

Has the Right to Wish.

But there is no law to prevent a woman from stopping in front of a milliner's window and wishing she had a bank account of her own.

Value of Education.

"De value of an education," said Uncle Eben, "is de same as dat of a razor It depends on what you takes a notion to do wif it."

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Newcastle, Ind.—The most daring thief in the world is operating here. The police department has a wonderfully fine and savage watch dog. The thief stole the collar from the dog's neck.

Washburn, Wis Lafayette Reuter, 23, died here last week after his relatives and kept him alive for 50 days by artificial respiration. Night and day, for seven weeks, one or another of the man's relatives has pumped air into his chest with their hands.

Sunbury, Pa. Miss Alice Rhoades, 18, is in the hospital here. At her home in the country she attempted to take a drink from a glass in the dark. Picking up the wrong tumbler she swallowed several hundred tacks and pins.

Charleston, W Va.- For the theft of 150 pennies from a railway office, Berdie Smith has been sentenced to the penetentiary for life. It was his fourth conviction on larceny charges and he was sentenced under the habitual criminal act.

Harrisburg, Pa.- Governor Brumbaugh has admitted that his probe of the expense accounts filed by the legislators recently elected has failed to show any contributions which would obligate the men to liquor interests He also announced that he had been unable to find at the capitol any expense accounts of liquor interests or organizations for campaign expenses

Elkhart, Ind Twenty nine years ago a thief stole a new pair of trousers from J S Banniman Last week the "pants" were returned by parcel post. Mr. Banniman is wearing the breeches, which have meanwhile turned from black to green There is no clue to the conscience-stricken thief

A GUARANTEED ATTRACTION COMING

Klemme Opera House, Wednesday, APril 7th

At last we have secured an attraction we feel safe in recommending—an attraction that for the last eight years has been breaking the records, playing to capacity business. The Mysterious Smith Company is this season carrying a much larger company than ever before, with a beautiful velvet setting.

There will be many new features seen with this attraction this year.

Other new feature specialties, such as musicians, jugglers, and contortionists.

Never in this country has there been prodhced such big illusions and mysteries as Mysterious Smith will present this season.

His work does not consist of magic. Don't go to the theatre thinking you will see sleight-of-hand, as that small work passed his hands many years ago and is now devoting his time to something new in the way of big illusions and mysteries.

Don't fail to see this show, as it is one of the greatest treats of the season, and comes to your city as one of the best recommended attractions on the road today. If you desire good seats, get your tickets early.

Look at ad. for prices.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, prairie lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

LOOK HERE

9 lots in Klemme, Ia., at a sacrifice price, other good farms at easy terms. Write for information,

Wolle Land Agency,
Belmond, Ia.

I will give a handsome pillow free with every $8.00 cash purchase.

Mrs. John Josten.

"Time tells what you did yesterday. Make to-morrow better by starting a Bank account to-day."

¶ If, for no other reason than the unforseen demands incident to human life, you owe yourself a Bank account

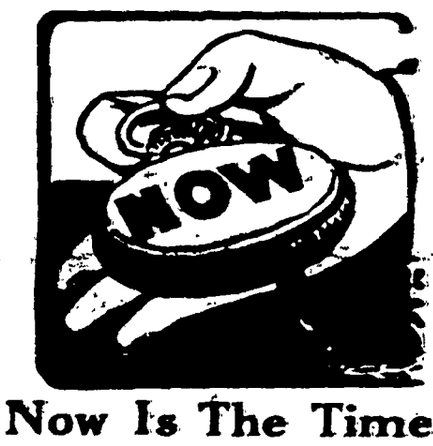
¶ It's a duty because you haven't the power to predict the future but you have power to start a Bank account and fortify for the future. Besides we want to help worthy young men to succeed. Begin today with $1.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

Lumber, Lath,
Shingles,
Posts, Sash,
Doors, Blinds,
Cement
Fencing
Lime
Plaster
Roofing
Sewer Pipe
Drain Pipe
Brick



Now Is The Time
To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve You
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here
THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best
That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

Easter Flowers

Cut Flowers---
Easter Lillies Carnations Roses
Johnquils Hyacinths Tulips
1 full box mixed and varied flowers $1.00 to $5.00

Beautiful Line of Plants---
Lillies, each, 50c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50
Rose Plants, in bloom, 75c, 1, 1.50, 2
Fine Hyacinths 20c each
Azalias, each, 1., 1.50 and 2
Hydringas, each, 2. to 1.50

Order Early

Hill City Greenhouses

FOREST CITY, IOWA

Arthur Wellemeyer, Agent

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

he ... er, the uniformity in the size or other characteristics of the American county It means something entirely different from the English county, which will average 1,000 square miles and a population of 300,000 The smallest county in the United States is Bristol county Rhode Island, which covers 25 square miles. The largest is Custer county Montana, which embraces 20,490 square miles. The smallest in population is, or was 10 years ago, Brown county, Texas, which had four inhabitants. The largest is New York county which contains between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 Before Nevada was made a state it was Nevada county of the Utah territory, covering more than 100,000 square miles. There is no question that in a number of states counties might be much fewer than they are, with advantage to everybody concerned, unless perhaps the officeholders. We can make this statement because in proportion to population Massachusetts has a less number than any other state, and except for topographical conditions they would be fewer still.

The Japanese secretary of the British legation in Tokio has recently summarized the teachings of the 14th century writer Kenko on what is to be regarded as bad taste The objects to be avoided as violations of taste are Too much furniture in a living room, too many pens in a stand too many Buddhas in a private shrine too many rocks, trees and herbs in a garden too many children in a house too many words when men meet but too many books in a bookcase there can never be nor too much litter in a dust heap"

Uncle Sam's army of laborers numbers 38,167,338

Nuremberg is the world's greatest hop market. For several centuries this district and the northern portion of Bohemia were the only considerable hop regions. Although Nuremberg is favorably situated, it was not until railroad transportation became general about 1860 that other towns in the vicinity lost their importance as hop markets and Nuremberg took the lead. Since that time municipal authorities have encouraged the trade and converted the old city warehouse and arsenal on the Kornmarkt into commodious quarters for hop merchants

The least thoroughly explored and worst mapped portions of the earth's surface according to a remark by President Freshfield, of the Royal Geographical society are the heart of Arabia, the interior of New Guinea and the upper region of the Amazon. In these three areas are refuges for the imagination of the romancers. Before the Roosevelt expedition Conan Doyle's tale of "A Lost World" and Kingsley's Westward Ho found advantage in the mysteries of the Amazon [illegible] ness

It was reported from London a fortnight ago, that the newspapers were returning to their normal appearance. Articles on general subjects besides the war were creeping back to their old places the daily essay in the Times has been restored and the women's pages were reappearing. Within a year the Manchester Guardian has added a woman's page to its Monday issue devoted to fashions, food and other subjects of particular interest to women readers

A South African tribe has an effectual method of dealing with bores, which might be adopted by western people This simple tribe considers long speeches injurious both to the orator and his hearers so to protect both there is an unwritten law that every public orator must stand on one leg only when he is addressing an audience. As soon as he has to place the other leg on the ground his oration is brought to a close

English statisticians have calculated that 52,287,637 bushels of malt were used in brewing their beer last year It is estimated that every bushel of the grain would have made at least 15 four-pound loaves of bread. This would have provided a four-pound loaf every day for a year for the 2,000,000 fighting in Belgium, with 1,000,000 loaves left over for the hungry at home.

It is known generally that many of the later additions to Lord Kitchener's army have had to be content with navy blue clothing, while waiting for their khaki uniforms. It is not so generally known, perhaps, that London postmen have cheerfully consented to forego their new winter and summer uniforms for 12 months so that the material for them could be given to the army.

The investigations of breathing air at different temperatures and conditions of movement conducted by Dr Leonard Hill F R S are confirmed by the New York state commission on ventilation in respect to Dr Hill's statement that chemical purity of air is not the prime consideration. Coolness and keeping the air in gentle motion are the chief needs.

When a thief drove out of the town of Silverfield, Nev with a team of horses belonging to Curley Jones, a mine owner, he took with him the only conveyance in the town. As a result, Jones was compelled to walk 35 miles over mountain and desert to notify the sheriff.

A machine has been devised for imitating the noise of an aeroplane engine, with the object of alarming hostile troops The Servian and Montenegrin troops used a rattle during the Balkan war to imitate machine gun fire

Should the eaves of a man's house project over his neighbors land, the latter may pull them down at once, according to British law, unless they have so projected for 20 years.

The keenness of birds in hunting out food was once attributed to their sense of smell but it has been shown that it is due to their remarkable sight

The Philippine government recently granted its first concession to foreign capital an English company getting a 21 year right to develop hardwood forests.

The German crown prince will be 33 years of age next May He married the Princess Cecilie of Mecklenburg-Schwerin in 1905 and has four sons.

The leading newspaper of Prague, Bohemia was recently produced by photograph from typewritten copy because printers were not available.

Draft is the distance in feet from the lowest part of the bottom of a vessel to the actual water line at which the vessel is floating

The total railway mileage of the world is about 584,840 miles. Of this Europe has 139,346 miles and the United States 248,888 miles.

In Italy there are more theaters in proportion to the population than in any other country

IOWA TAXES WILL BE HIGHER IN 1915, AS INDICATED IN LEVIES

Chief Revenue Clerks Find No Local Reductions to Meet High Valuations.

Des Moines, Ia., March 27.—Property owners of Iowa will pay more taxes this year than in 1914, according to figures received from county auditors, by Will H. Williams, chief revenue clerk of the office of auditor of state.

A reduction in local tax levies was anticipated, owing to the agitation last summer over high taxes. However the figures received so far indicate that almost every taxing body has arranged for greater revenue in 1915 than for the previous year

The school taxes paid in Iowa in 1914 amounted to $15,976,244. The taxes to be collected this year for school purposes will total $17,272,482. This is an increase of $1,296,238.

Cities of the state will have $731,520 more revenue this year than they had in 1914. Last year the taxes for municipal purposes amounted to $6,477,544. This year the levies will produce $7,209,074.

The counties and townships of the state will have $3,818,044 available in 1915 for road and bridge building from direct taxation according to Williams figures. This is a reduction of $199,287. The amount available in 1914 was $4,017,331.

The bridge fund will be increased about $100,000 while the road fund will be decreased about $300,000 from the 1914 figures In 1914 the counties of the state had $3,750,165 for bridges This year they will have $3,951,298 In 1914 the counties had $5,267,166 for road building This year they will have $4,367,746.

The total revenue to be raised by taxes this year in Iowa will be more than $46,000,000, according to Mr Williams. This includes the state, county city school township and all other taxes.

STATE COLLEGES IN FIGHT ABOUT APPROPRIATIONS

Des Moines, Ia., March 27.—Hostilities between Iowa State university at Iowa City and Iowa State college at Ames over appropriations to be made by the general assembly are about to be opened, according to the members of the senate and the house.

Friends of the state college assert that the friends of the state university are attempting to kill an appropriation of $360,000 proposed for the agricultural college They say that an attempt also will be made to prevent the teaching of history English, political economy and other so-called liberal arts subjects at the state college

On the other hand university men say that the state college has been getting too much money for the work done there It is reported that a representative in the house has had an expert accountant at work for several weeks going over the accounts of the Ames institution.

MAHASKA COUNTY WOMEN OPEN SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN

Oskaloosa, Ia., March 27.—Mahaska county women are the first in the state to perfect a county organization for equal suffrage Mrs James A Devitt as county organizer will preside over and direct the work. Mrs. Frank D Reid is treasurer and Mrs. C C Caldwell is secretary of the county organization, which was perfected at a public meeting at the Mahaska county court house. The meeting was attended by about 250 persons, of whom probably one-fifth were men. It was marked also by an address on 'Equal Suffrage' by Miss Elizabeth Perkins, of Des Moines, state organizer for the Equal Suffrage association

MRS. CAROLINA SMITH IS WINNER IN LEON CONTEST

Washington, D C., March 27.—Despite bitter protests from a large number of democrats at Leon the president, on recommendation of Postmaster General Burleson, today reappointed, as recess appointee, Mrs. Caroline Y Smith as postmaster of Leon. Her appointment was urged by the state democratic organization. The protests alleged she was a republican and a nonresident.

Other Iowa recess appointment were Ezekiel S. Thompson, Eldora Amos Ingalls, Green Geo. F Smith, Keosauqua E. T Wall, Osceola.

Thomas H Ryan was named as recess appointee for postmaster at Elk Point, S. D

PROVISIONS OF BILL TO REGULATE JITNEY BUSSES

Des Moines Ia. March 27.—Jitney busses will be operated only on designated streets and at fixed schedules in Iowa cities and towns if the Frailey bill becomes a law The measure provides

All cities and towns shall have the power to regulate, tax and license so called jitney busses, and all motor vehicles operating upon the streets and avenues of such cities and towns and engaged in carrying passengers for hire, on a plan similar to that followed by street railway companies, to fix and determine the streets and avenues upon which they shall be permitted to operate, to require such vehicles to be operated over reasonable routes, and upon reasonable schedules to require the owners or operators thereof to file with such city or town a proper indemnity bond for the protection of the city or public against damages resulting from negligence in the operation of such vehicles and to impose penalties for the violation of this act

CAPITOL EXTENSION REPEAL NOW ON HOUSE CALENDAR

Des Moines, Ia., March 27.—Representative Ball, of Jefferson county, has resurrected his bill to repeal the capitol grounds extension tax. His attempt to do so the day the sifting committee took charge of all bills was smothered, but he made another effort and the measure was placed on the house calendar without recommendation by a vote of 96 to 6.

The senate highways committe introduced a measure as a substitute for the Johnston bill, which passed the house last week.

Minimum wages and maximum hours for female labor are provided in a bill reported for passage to the Iowa senate. The minimum wage is fixed at from $1 a day for minors to $1.40 for adult women. The maximum hours for the week is 54.

IDA GROVE COUPLE HAD KEPT MARRIAGE SECRET

Ida Grove, Ia., March 26.—"Married, in Franklin, Pa., September 14, 1914, Miss Hattie Getman and Mr. Howard Smith, both of Ida Grove." This announcement was made by the bride to her intimate friends this week and disproves the old adage that a woman cannot keep a secret. These young people slipped away to Pennsylvania last fall and were married and have just announced the wedding. Both are well known and have spent the greater part of their lives here. At present the groom is representing a clothing house in Ohio, but expects to be in Iowa soon.

IOWA LOBBYISTS MAY BE UNDER NECESSITY OF OPEN ACTIVITIES

Regulatory Measure Passed By House—Bill on Calendar to Reduce Commission.

Des Moines, Ia., March 27.—By a vote of 82 to 7 the house passed a measure to regulate legislative lobbying through a requirement for registration. The measure is very similar to the present laws on that subject in South Dakota, Wisconsin and other states. In actual operation the law tends to put a label on each lobbyist and thus minimizes, to some extent, the force of their activities. It does not raise a barrier against lobbying by any person or interest which conforms to the conditions

Some of the provisions are

Requiring legislative counsel or agents to register with secretary of state to obtain a certificate

Requiring statement of business, residence persons or corporations employed by and brief review of legislation interested in

Prohibiting lobbyists approaching legislators on floor of either house

Requiring members of firms or corporations desiring to urge legislation to register with secretary of state

Prohibiting other than licensed lobbyists to attempt influencing legislation at any time or place except constituents of members upon measures affecting the district

Requiring corporations or persons employing lobbyists to file with secretary of state within two months of close of session itemized statement of disbursements for influencing legislation.

The measure carries a drastic penalty for violation of its provisions, making each offense punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or a maximum sentence of one year in jail. Attorneys employed for the purpose of drafting bills or giving advice to clients are excepted from the provisions of the bill.

Not Going to Primary.

The house "drys" have practically decided to abandon the effort to have the equal suffrage amendment submitted to the voters at the primary election. The bill carrying this provision is on the calendar as a special order, but it is understood will either be withdrawn or referred to the sifting committee leaving submission to go automatically to the general election of 1916. This decision was arrived at at a secret conference of "dry" leaders yesterday

Turner Ring, Green and Anderson of Montgomery were named as a steering committee to look after the senate liquor enforcement bills now in the house sifting committee.

Pledging Candidates.

Senator C. C. Helmer thinks he has discovered a way to prevent the legislature being flooded each session with bills to increase salaries of public officials from election judges up to, but not including governor. He would accomplish such an end by adding the following to the statement which candidates for nomination for office at the primary sign

"And I will not ask for, receive nor accept during the term for which I am elected, any increase in the compensation of such office as now allowed or authorized by law"

A candidate for office, while not absolutely compelled to sign such a statement, would do so in every instance, Senator Helmer thinks. He doesn't believe any salary grabber would have the nerve to let the voters know his intentions by refusing to subscribe to such conditions.

Smaller Commissions.

Commission plan cities of more than 25,000 population are given the right on petition of 10 per cent of the voters to vote on the question of whether the city council shall be cut from four to two members and the mayor under a bill drafted by the house committee on municipal corporations and reported for passage today

It is understood that certain city members are supporting the measure as a means of trimming to meet the loss of saloon revenue.

State supervision of insurance rating bureaus and the elimination of competition in fixing rates is provided in a bill passed by the house by a vote of 61 to 34. The measure requires insurance concerns to co-operate in maintaining insurance rating bureaus, authorizes the insurance commissioner to hold a hearing and review any rates fixed by such bureaus and provides for uniform rates in risks of the same classification.

REPRIMAND IS VERDICT IN ROCKWELL CITY CASE

Washington, D C March 27.—A reprimand has been given by a court of inquiry, and approved by Secretary Daniels, to naval medical officers responsible for the shipment of the remains of Wesley R. Williams, boatswain's mate, from the New York naval hospital to his home at Rockwell City Ia. The body was not properly cared for and was enclosed in a moth-eaten uniform. Senator Kenyon protested on request of citizens of Rockwell City Secretary Daniels ordered an investigation. Growing out of this case stricter supervision of shipment of bodies will be enforced in the nav

CRESTON—Well I guess I'll kill you here then calmly spoke Walter Land, when August Strey declined Lang's invitation to meet him at the stock yards, for what purpose was not indicated. Land pulled a revolver and aimed it at Strey The latter a Burlington car repairer was at work in the yards with another employe, and when Land undertook to shoot Strey the latter's companion landed on Land's back, bore him to the ground and the two disarmed him and took him to jail. It is believed Land's mind is affected.

SAC CITY—The funeral of Charles E. Balchtal, a blacksmith, whose death occurred Tuesday of Bright's disease was held Wednesday He was born in Adel, Ia., in 1868. About 34 years ago he came to Sac City, where he has made his home ever since. Surviving are a wife, one son and two daughters.

DUBUQUE—Mrs. Katharine Specht, mother of several children, yesterday pleaded guilty to manslaughter, in having smothered her new born baby some months ago. She was given an indeterminate sentence in Anamosa reformatory

MAHONEY ALIENATION SUIT NOW ON TRIAL AT LOGAN

Logan, Ia., March 25.—Trial has commenced here of the case in which S. G. Mahoney, a prominent farmer of western Harrison county, is defendant in a $10,000 damage suit instituted by a former employe, Paul Holstein. The plaintiff alleges alienation of his wife's affections, while Mr. and Mrs. Holstein were employed on the Mahoney farm. Mrs. Holstein secured a divorce, but the decree was later set aside, and the case is still pending in court. In the defendant's answer to the suit he denies improper influence or relations

FULFILLS CONDITION OF WILL AND CLAIMS IOWA FARM PROPERTY

Adopted Daughter Legal Heir Only When She Has Child Five Years Old.

Keosauqua, Ia., March 26.—Nearly a quarter of a century ago Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pettit, who lived at Birmingham, Ia., decided to brighten their childless home by adopting a little girl whom they named Iva.

Mr Pettit was a man of careful business ability and succeeded in his mercantile calling. He was elected sheriff of Van Buren county and bought a home in Keosauqua.

Miss Iva grew to womanhood and cared for her foster parents as a dutiful daughter and in every way proved herself a lovable girl.

The mother died and the daughter proved a blessing in the capacity of homemaker Several years later the father died

By the terms of Mr Pettit's will, his estate was bequeathed to his adopted daughter but she was not to come into full possession of it until she had an heir who had arrived at the age of 5 years

The daughter became Mrs Brown, wife of R O Brown of Emporia, Kan. and now has a little girl aged 5 years, and she has just returned to her old home to take possession of her estate from which she has derived the income [illegible] past years

WOMAN AND CHILD DIE IN MARQUISVILLE FIRE

Des Moines Ia March 26. Mrs. Peter Brugioni and her 6-year-old daughter Elvia, were victims of a fire which broke out in the house the family occupied at Marquisville, yesterday morning.

The child was burned to death in the home and the woman died yesterday afternoon at [illegible] o'clock

According to those who first reached the scene of the fire Mrs. Brugioni used gasoline to light the kitchen fire. It exploded, throwing burning oil over her clothing She ran screaming from the house and before the flames were extinguished she had been fatally burned

The house was quickly a mass of flames and the little girl was forgotten until too late to rescue her She lay asleep in an upper bedroom and the charred body was found two hours after the fire

GIVES SECRETARY TOO MUCH AUTHORITY IN TAXATION

Des Moines Ia March 26.—Protests against the tax commissioner and county assessor bill introduced by the senate ways and means committee are beginning to make their appearance in the Iowa legislature From the positions sent in the objection made to the tax commissioner bill is that taxation matters are turned over to a person not elected by the voters nor responsible to them All the powers now voted in the executive council would be given over to the county secretary who is designated in the bill as the tax commission

Iowa railroad commissioners will not ride on passes in the future if the legislature passes the Chase bill which was reported for passage by the senate railroad committee The bill forbids members of the commission or their secretary accepting passes from the roads. It provides that the state shall pay all traveling expenses when members of the commission or their representatives are inspecting a road.

The Grayson teamsters' bill was called up again in the house yesterday afternoon and failed to pass the vote being 48 to 39 Supporters of the bill failed to gain any strength over their efforts of 10 days ago

NEARLY $5,000,000 FOR IOWA HIGHWAYS IN 1915

Des Moines, Ia March 26.—Iowa will have $4,967,746 87 from direct taxation for use in road improvement in 1915 according to reports made to the auditor of state by the county auditors This is $300,000 less than the amount available in 1914 The bridge fund is not included.

Will H. Williams revenue clerk of the auditor's department, has prepared a statement of assessed values for 1915. It shows that the executive council last summer fired the taxable values of property in the state at $926,900,000, but that the actual values taken from the county books amount to $932,476,000 or more than $5,000,000 over the figures of the executive council

The total amount collected in direct taxes in 1914 for road improvement was $5,267,166 27 The amount this year is $4,967,746.87 This is due to the fact that a few of the counties lowered the tax rate

MERCHANT ARRESTED FOR TRYING TO SUBSTITUTE

Boone Ia., March 26.—Suit for fraudulent advertising recently is brought against Sam Solomon, manager of the King Shoe company for advertising an imitation shoe as the genuine "Martha Washington" The manager was indicted and upon a plea of guilty was fined $25 The name "Martha Washington," when applied to the sale of shoes is the copyrighted trade mark of the F Mayer Boot & Shoe company of Milwaukee, Wis and cannot be used in any way, shape or manner except when applied to the genuine shoe made only by the Milwaukee manufacturer The prosecution here was instituted by the Ad club of Boone

COUPLE HAD NOT MET UNTIL DAY OF WEDDING

Spencer, Ia., March 26.—The marriage at Royal of Miss Carrie Christenson and Harold V. Pederson was the culmination of an arrangement by friends, and neither had ever seen the other until Mr Pederson appeared to claim his bride. Daniel Jesperson, a former Royalite, and a fellow homesteader of Mr. Pederson, had persuaded the groom to write Miss Christenson, who answered. The exchange of letters continued until an engagement was entered into, and last week Mr. Pederson appeared in Royal to claim his bride. The couple left on the evening train for the groom's home in Alberta, Canada.

KENYON AND COSSON RIDE "FULL MOON" GOAT

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 24.—Attorney General Cosson and United States Senator Kenyon last night were put through all the initiation stunts of the Knights of the Full Moon, the Council Bluffs booster organization, before a crowd of 1,200 people. Both were given "all that was coming to them." Governor Clarke was present, but was spared the initiation. All three were included as speakers at the annual banquet of the Commercial club earlier in the evening.

WADE NOT CONNECTED WITH CONCERN WHICH SOLD CANADIAN LOTS

Resents Newspaper Efforts to Link His Name With Case Against St. John.

Des Moines, Ia., March 25.—Judge M. J. Wade, recently appointed to the federal bench, resents the efforts of Chicago newspapers to connect his name with the affairs of the Transcontinental Townsite company, and declares the efforts were strained and gratuitous. In an interview given out here today Judge Wade said

Connecting my name in the newspapers with the recent arrest of Mr. St. John in Chicago is a vicious outrage. A man by the name of Toner charges him with false representations in the sale of some stock in the Transcontinental Townsite company, of Winnipeg, of which Mr. St. John has been manager since it was established I never had a dollar of interest in the company referred to, directly or indirectly I never sold any stock, nor had I anything to do with the sale of the stock, directly or indirectly I know nothing personally of the controversy between Toner and Mr. St. John. I never saw Mr Toner to my knowledge, and never had any communications from him of any kind.

My firm has been for many years attorney for the Wisner estate at Eldora, Ia. and if anyone has any cause to complain about the management of the corporation our clients have. They have invested something like $225,000 in the company and their confidence in the company has been such that they never took any security of any kind have never received a dollar of interest, or profit, or money for any purpose from the corporation, nor have they sold a dollar's worth of stock to anyone So far as our firm or myself are concerned any interest that we have taken in the matter has been in behalf of those clients, and not in behalf of the corporation or Mr. St. John.

The company was forced into liquidation the same as many other large companies in Canada, as a direct result of the European war. The company has plenty of assets to pay all its debts, and if the property is not sacrificed, to protect its stockholders.

Our clients were proposing to advance additional money to pay all indebtedness and take the properties out of the hands of the receiver

I have been cleaning up the odds and ends of my personal business so that my partners could proceed intelligently with the work of the firm, and I went to Chicago to confer with the stockholders there, and tell them of our clients' willingness to aid further in this emergency We had a very pleasant conference, and I feel satisfied that a plan will be worked out which will be satisfactory to everyone. Of course I have nothing more to do with the matter but I am satisfied that it will all be cleared up without reflections on anyone

It is painful to be compelled to submit to the publicity which Mr Toner has inspired, especially when I know that so far as our firm, or our clients are concerned every act has been honest and square It is especially unjust because if Mr Toner had called upon me or written me, or asked me to see him, I feel satisfied that I could have convinced him of the injustice of his attitude

I have withheld qualifying as judge to enable me to get the interests of my various clients in shape so that other counsel could proceed with their business. I have been working night and day to accomplish this, and I hoped to be able to leave my clients' interests in this corporation safe, and all interests harmonious. The action of Mr Toner has been a grave injustice not only to me personally but to all the other stockholders in the concern.

PARK GETS 15 YEARS FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Logan, Ia., March 25.—J. C. Park, who shot and killed his wife on the Jardin farm near Mondamin, December 1 entered a plea of guilty to murder in the second degree and was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary

The letter from "another man," which Park previously gave as the cause for the shooting, and which had not been given out before, was submitted as an extenuating circumstance. Park claimed he was merely threatening his wife while trying to get possession of the letter, and that the shooting was largely accidental, due to the struggle

The letter to Mrs. Park was written by Nick De Rose of Omaha, and was as follows

My Dearest Sweetheart I know you would but it looks to me like I would be doing you wrong to ask you to leave when I am not in condition to furnish you with a home How I did hate to read about J C Buying a revolver You cannot tell what the brute may do Try and get hold of the gun. If you do have it where you can use it if you need to.

Nick.

SENATE "DRYS" COMPLETE PROGRAM OF REGULATION

Des Moines Ia March 25.—The last of the 10 prohibitory law enforcement measures indorsed by the "dry" caucus was passed by the senate yesterday afternoon. The six bills passed yesterday are

To authorize the confiscation of vehicles used in the transportation of liquor for unlawful purposes.

To provide prison sentence for persistent bootlegging.

To provide prison sentence for person in contempt of liquor injunction.

To make liquor injunction statewide instead of judicial district wide.

To authorize sheriffs to serve notice on imposition of mulct tax on property where three citizens have been proceeding.

To forbid persons carrying liquor in suitcases for unlawful purposes on trains, street or interurban cars.

One law enforcement measure remains to be disposed of It is the state agent bill and has been recommended for indefinite postponement. The bill has been passed by the house and probably will be called up this week.

IOWA SUPREME COURT.

Des Moines, Ia., March 25.—The Iowa supreme court today handed down the following decisions:

Tuttle vs. Hutchinson, Carroll county proceedings annulled and cause remanded.

Beckwith et al vs. Corn Belt Land & Loan company appellant, Polk county; affirmed.

EMMETSBURG—Morris Powers, aged 16, whose mother lives at Sigourney, disappeared Thursday, not returning from school. He is about five feet high, and weights about 125 pounds. He has black hair and his face is freckled. When leaving here he wore a dark blue serge suit, knee pants, a plaid mackinaw and plaid cap.

RUTHVEN—The women of Ruthven and vicinity have organized a community welfare club, with 50 members. It is their plan to build for a better town and community in every way. The officers elected are: Mrs. G. Baldwin, president; Mrs. H. F Taylor, vice president; Mrs. H. [illegible] ver, vice president; Miss Edna Olsecretary, and Mrs. Orie I. Hymer, treasurer.

DUNLAP—S. M. Childs, well known pioneer resident of Harrison county, with his residence at Dunlap since 1867, veteran of the civil war, former postmaster at Dunlap, died at his home Sunday afternoon as a result of a long illness.

SUBMARINE CRE... TRAPPED IN ... ON BED OF OC...

Lost Diving Craft Locate... 300 Feet of Water at E... trance of Harbor—Mark... er Buoy Found.

BUT LITTLE HOPE FOR ...

Dredging Boats Expect to ... F-4 to the Surface This A... ernoon—Efforts to Tow ... Her Out Fail

Honolulu, T H. Mar... ing of the United ... F-4, lost in the dee... Honolulu harbor sin... has been held up ... cables attached to ... tested.

An electrical buzz... used to determine ... fastenings on the ...

It is planned to ... the surface so ... lowered to super... the work.

The great depth ... which the submar... makes the work of ... difficult.

There is fear that ... cached to the craft ... however, is progressing ...

There is a report ... firmed, that a batter... the F-4 on March 6 ... age.

Rear Admiral ... commandant of the ... the reported accident ... the F-4.

"I had heard some ... ery explosion aboard ... but it was not serious ... sidered of sufficient ... reported.

"The chances are ... serious enough to disable ... would have killed some ... the men.

"One man was burned ... as we know It had ... the present accident

Honolulu, March ... marine F-4, which ... outside the harbor ... raised late this ... well, according to ... by captain of the ... Duffy says he believes ... ing chance to save ... imprisoned in the ... ocean floor in 300 ...

The dredger ... from the Pearl Harbor ... response to a radiogram ... scene at midnight ... work immediately ... work with the ... the submarine flotil... system will probably be ... the F-4. Chains will be passed ... the bow and stern of the ... submarine, the dredger ... and water and the chains tightened ... the water will then be pumped ... the dredger causing her to rise ... in the water thus providing the ... power to raise the submarine

The army department hospital ... readiness to care for ... F-4 submarine is ... ert has placed his ... equipment at the ... The weather is fine ... light facilitated the work ... night.

Grapplers Find Her.

Rescue vessels dragging the ... bed with grappling hooks ... on the stricken craft at a ... feet. Making fast to the F-4 ... tug Navajo and the steamer ... began to tow their ... water.

Quantities of oil came to the ... proof that it really was the ... Soon afterwards a submarine ... buoy, descried far below the ... moved all doubts that the F-4 ... been found.

Just when the marker buoy had ... released by the disabled boat ... no means of determining ... nal was given after the grappling ... of the rescue vessels took hold. ... the crew—or at least some of ... were still alive.

For more than an hour the ... the steamer struggled with ... wieldy burden. Soon ... became apparent that it would ... possible to tow the submarine ... enough to shore to bring her ... surface and a hurry call was ... the naval station for a wrecking ... Naval authorities admitted they ... given up hope of the F-4's crew ...

WASHINGTON HAS LITTLE HOPE FOR ENTOMBED

Washington, March 27.—Every ... that passes without favorable ... from Honolulu, lowers the hope ... any of the men in the sunken ... marine, F-4, may be alive While ... is always the possibility of life, ... authorities are agreed that it ... little short of miraculous if any ... F-4's crew should survive their ... ordeal.

Secretary Daniels and ... anxiously awaited some word ... Rear Admiral Moore, the ... of the submarine, Flotilla ... they might base hope, but as the ... went none came.

Frederick Gillman, gunners ... and Frank N. Herzog, electrician, ... names were included in the revised ... of the crew of the F-4, formerly ... St. Louis, Mo., and Salt Lake ... Utah, respectively. Mrs. Louisa ... mother of Herzog, lives in Salt ... City.

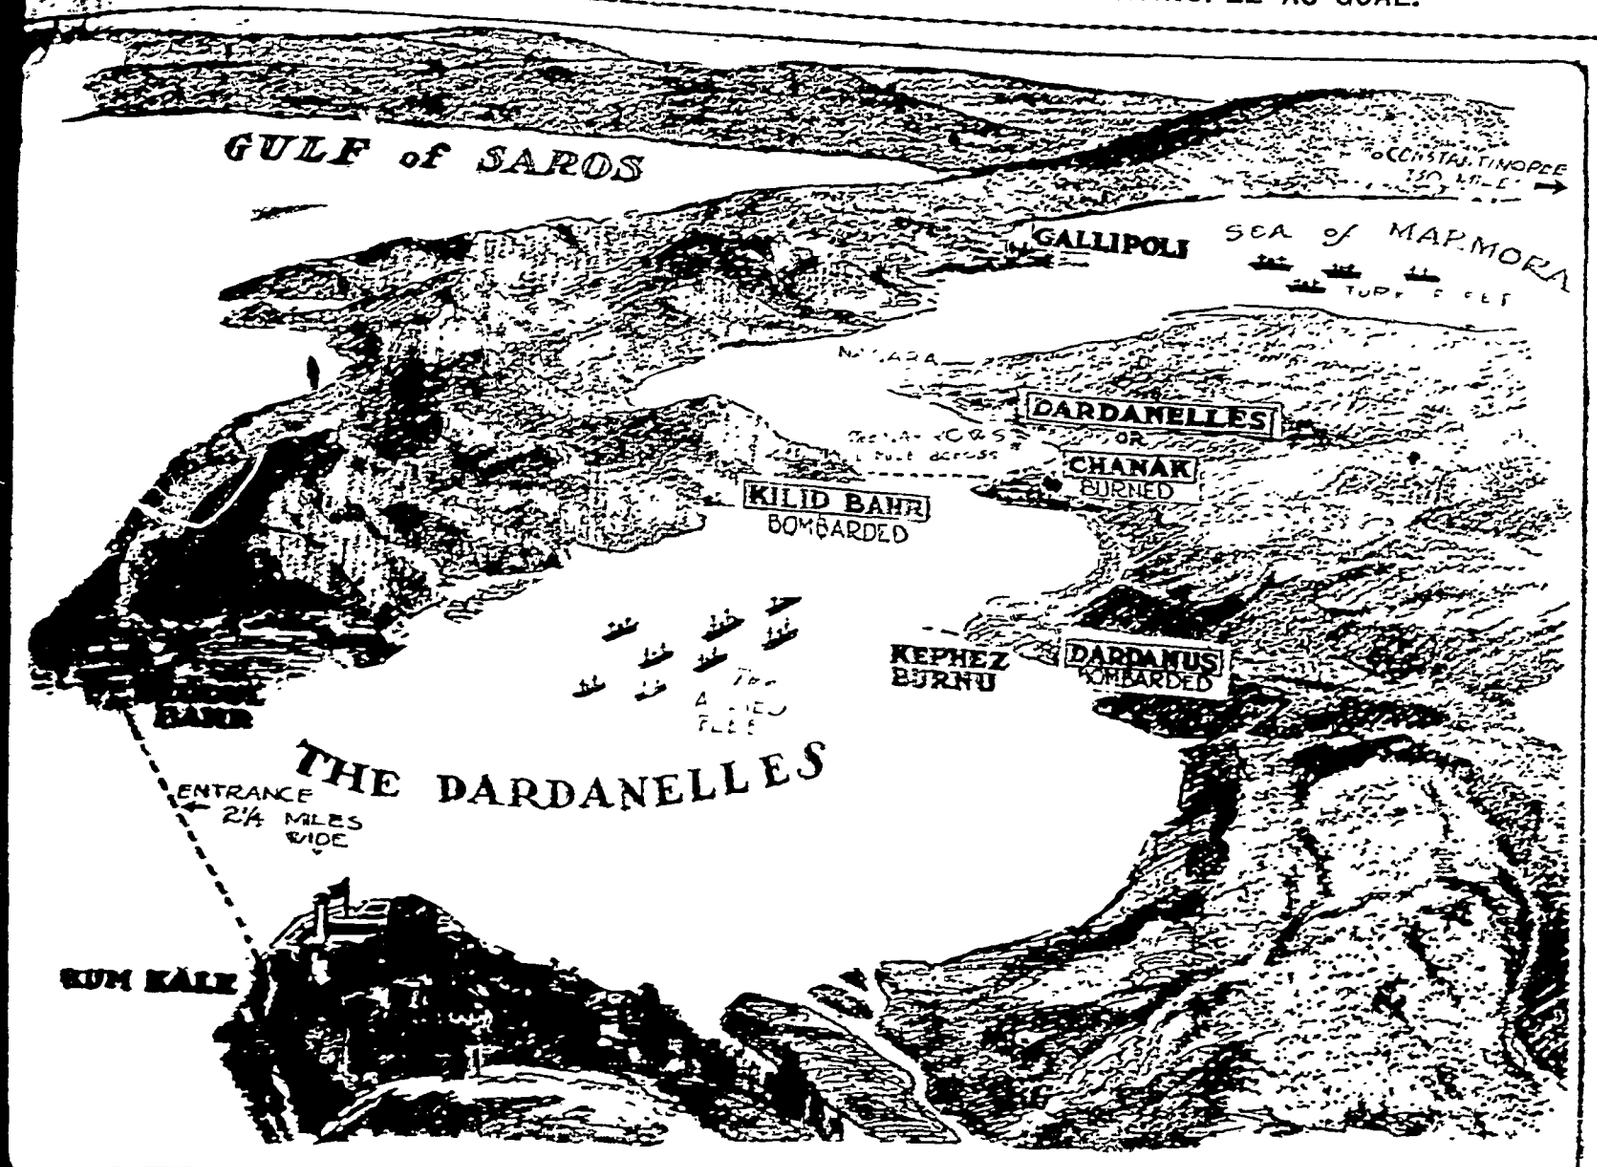
AMERICAN SUSPECT SEIZED BY ENG...

London, March 27.—Joseph ... claiming American citizenship, ... been taken in charge by Scotland ... officials and will be sent to a ... tration camp. Weglan obtained ... porary American passport in ... then went to New York, and ... started back for the German ... with the expired passport, on a ... ship. A British warship took ... from the vessel and brought ... England.

Weglan, who is 24 years old, ... many years in Germany. Has ... were German, but his father had ... in America for 20 years, during ... time he had been connected with ... goods house in New York.

The Church of Scotland has 1,... isters.

WHERE ALLIED FLEET POUNDS AT TURK FORTS WITH CONSTANTINOPLE AS GOAL.



Birdseye of the Dardanelles showing general arangement of fortfications.

Can the powerful Anglo-French fleet row in the Dardanelles force its way through to Constantinople? The task now appears to be tremendous, but the prize sought is great. The capture of Constantinople would be the most important event of the war. It would put Turkey out of the fight, dishearten the Teutonic allies, release vast stores of Russian wheat now in Black sea ports, encourage other nations to enter the war on the side of the allies, and enable hundreds of thousands of Russian soldiers to join the French and British armies on the western front.

ORIGIN OF EASTER INTERESTING TALE

Next to Christmas, Easter is the greatest festival of the Christian church. In primitive times it was usual for Christians to salute one another on the morning of this day by exclaiming "Christ is risen," to which the saluted person replied "He is risen, indeed," or "And hath appeared unto Simon" a custom still retained in the Greek church.

The common name of this festival in the east was the paschal feast, because kept at the same time as the Jewish passover, and in some measure succeeding to it. In the sixth of the Ancyran canons it is called the "Great day."

The term "Easter" is derived from "Eostre," a Saxon deity, whose feast was celebrated every year in the spring, the name being retained when the character of the feast was changed. Easter is in name as well as in reality, the feast of the resurrection.

Although there has never been any difference of opinion in the Christian church as to why Easter is kept, there has been a good deal as to when it ought to be kept. It is not fixed to one particular day like Christmas day. Easter moves backward and forward, according as the full moon next after the vernal equinox falls nearer or farther from the equinox. The accepted rule for ascertaining the day upon which Easter falls is as follows: Easter day is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st day of March, and if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after.

The paschal controversy which for a time divided Christendom, grew out of a diversity of custom. The churches of Asia Minor, including many Judaized Christians, kept their paschal feast on the same day that the Jews kept their Passover, the 14th of Nisan, the Jewish month corresponding to our March or April. But the churches of the west, remembering that the Lord's resurrection took place on a Sunday, kept their festival on the Sunday following the 14th of Nisan. By so doing they hoped not only to commemorate the resurrection on the day of the week on which it actually ocurred, but also distinguish themselves more effectually from the Jews.

For a time this difference was borne with mutual forbearance and charity. And when disputes began to arise, Polycarp, Bishop of Smyrna, went on a visit to Rome, and conferred with Anicetas, bishop of that city, upon the question. Polycarp pleaded the practice of St Philip and St John, while Anicetas adduced the practice of St. Paul. Concession were made by neither side, and so the matter was dropped, or rather held in abeyance, but the two bishops continued in christian friendship and concord. This was in A. D 158.

Toward the end of the century, however Victor bishop of Rome resolved to compel the eastern churches to conform to the western practice, and wrote an imperious letter to the prelates of Asia, commanding them to keep the festival of Easter at the time observed by the western churches. They naturally resented this and declared that they would keep the day at the time they had been accustomed to observe it. From this point the dispute gathered strength, and became the source of much bitterness during the following centur. The east divided from the west and all who after the example of the Asiatics, kept Easter day on the 14th, whether that day was Sunday or not, were style "Quartodecimens" by those who adopted the Roman custom.

At the commencement of the Fourth century matters had gone to such a length that the Emperor Constantine thought it his dut, to take steps to stop the controversy, and to insure uniformity of practice. For this purpose he had a canon passed in the great ecumenical council at Nice, A. D 325, "That everywhere the great feast of Easter should be observed upon one and the same day, and that not the day of the Jewish Passover, but, as had been generally observed, upon the Sunday following."

And to prevent all future disputes as to time the following rules were laid down. That March 21 shall be accounted the vernal equinox. That the full moon happening upon or next after the 21st of March shall be taken for the full moon of Nisan. That the Lord's day next following that full moon be Easter day. But if the full moon happen upon a Sunday Easter day shall be the Sunday after.

As the Egyptians at that time excelled in astronomy, the bishop of Alexandria was appointed to give notice of Easter day to the pope and patriarchs. But it soon became evident that this arrangement could not endure. It was too inconvenient and liable to interruptions. The fathers of the next age began, therefore, to adopt the golden numbers of the Metonic cycle, and to place them in the calendar against those days in each month on which the new moons should fall during that year of the cycle. The Metonic cycle was a period of 19 years. It had been observed by Meton, an Athenian philosopher, that the moon returns to have its changes on the same month and day of the month in the solar year, after a lapse of 19 years, and so, as it were, to run a cycle. He published his discovery at the Olympic games, B. C. 432, and the cycle has ever since borne his name. The church hoped, by this cycle, to be able always to know the moon's age, and as the vernal equinox was now fixed to March 21, to define Easter forever.

But though the new moon really happened on the same day of the year, after a space of 19 years as it did before. It fell an hour earlier on that day, which, in the course of time, as will be seen, created a serious error that had to be reckoned with.

A cycle was then framed at Rome for 84 years, and generally received by the western church, for it was then thought that in this space of time the moon's changes would return, not only to the same day of the month but of the week as well.

During the time that Easter was kept according to this cycle Britain was separated from the Roman empire, and the British churches for a time after the separation continued to keep Easter according to this table of 84 years. British and Irish churches adopted the Alexandrian rule, according to which the Easter festival could not begin before March 8. About 100 years later the English churches conformed to the Roman rule. The Roman system now prevails the world over, and Easter is celebrated the same day everywhere.

LAHOMA POSSE ATTLES BANDITS

Banks Robbed at Stroud Henry Starr, Noted Outlaw, Shot By Boy—Gang Now at Bay.

lahoma City, Okla., March 29—early today of $5,000 and one robbers, said to be Henry Starr, nose capture the state has offered reward was shot and captured. n men were in the band which afternoon was surrounded by a of 300 in a gully two miles east oud.

e men rode into Stroud at 10 k and their horses at the stock and proceeded to loot the banks. e news spread, citizens were soon g into the streets, armed with weapons as they could gather. Many shots were fired.

one of the robbers was mounting horse Paul Curry, 15 years old, ed his rifle at the robber nearest op your gun or I'll shoot," Curry the man now believed to be Starr, ed the revolver the boy fired. bullet struck the man in the leg e was unable to mount. The boy d his captive over to the authori. The other robbers rode out of under a shower of bullets. Less 30 minutes later they were surd in a pasture two miles east oud.

e man captured had diamonds n to have been in Starr's possesHe also was identified by picsent out and a description cird by officers several weeks ago. e of the robbers, who gave the of Bill Estes, fell from his horse a out of Stroud and was captured. d been shot.

1:30 this afternoon the robbers were surrounded in the pasture hots are being fired at them. They hidden in a grove, evidently waitr nightfall.

y Turner, a farmer, was said to been fatally wounded in the First nal bank, when he refused to y with the robbers' orders to up his hands.

ry Starr, a half-breed Chickasaw, ears has been one of the most ous outlaws in the middle west. e main his activities had been ed in the old Indian territory and klahoma, his home being in the hills near Tulsa.

ecent act of the Oklahoma legisla- offered a reward of $1,000 for r capture, dead or alive. At e is a fugitive from justice, ed with violating his parole in ahoma.

RSHALL PARTY TO SEE SAN DIEGO FAIR

n Francisco, March 27.—Vice Presi- Thomas R. Marshall and Mrs. nall, assistant secretary of the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. velt and their party left today for ord, Cal., for a visit at the home nited States Senator James D. .

today they will continue their by Sam Diego, Cal., where the rs of the party will be the guests officials of the Panama-Cali- exposition.

attending the San Diego exVice President and Mrs. Marwill visit in Arizona.

NCH AIRMEN MAKE RAID ON METZ FORTS

Paris, March 29.—The following official statement was issued last night: "Several hostile airmen dropped bombs on the southern part of Metz [illegible]. They were driven away by our fire. Three soldiers were [illegible] but no material damage was done."

"SPIRIT BRIDE" GONE; "CULT" LEADER HELD

Police and Coroner Seek to Clear Up Mystery of Death of Amy Tanner

[illegible]

JOHNSON AND WILLARD POSTPONE THEIR FIGHT

President of Cuba Asks That Battle Be Not Held on Easter —Will Take Place April 5

[illegible]

CRUISER EITEL IS LIKELY TO INTERN

Rumored She Will Either Put to Sea or Ask Permanent Protection Soon

[illegible]

THREE GERMAN SHIPS ARE SUNK IN BALTIC

One Vessel Lost With All Her Crew—Cause of Disasters Is Unknown

[illegible]

CANCEL JOINT RATES ON SOUTHWEST FREIGHT

[illegible]

GET POSSESSION OF STEAMER ODENWALD

[illegible]

WILSON AND TAFT TO ATTEND CEREMONIES

[illegible]

MEXICANS WAGING FIGHT ON BORDER

Big Battle Opens at Matamoras Endangering Brownsville, Tex.—Belligerents Warned.

Brownsville Tex March 29 The [illegible] siege of Matamoras, the Mexican town opposite here began about noon today. Cavalry men opened heavy rifle firing on the breastworks west of Matamoras near the Rio Grande.

Simultaneously the cavalry totalling [illegible] men began spreading to surround the city on the west and south. A Villa officer told the Associated Press correspondent that artillery is due to reach the firing line some time this evening.

Attack from the west apparently would not endanger Brownsville, but attack from the south if the guns overshot would tend to rake streets and sidewalk traffic here as the streets lie in almost direct line of such fire.

Villa infantry and artillery men said to number 3,000 men reported to be advancing to support the cavalry are apparently still beyond a zone of 50 miles outside of Matamoras.

Brownsville Tex. March 27.—Owing to grave apprehension that shrapnel shells will fall in Brownsville in the battle expected at Matamoros, opposite here, Col. A. P. Blocksome commanding the United States lower border cavalry patrols here, today sent word to both forces to avoid firing in any manner to endanger American lives and property.

Matamoros which is about a mile and a half from Brownsville, apparently was ready today for siege by the approaching army of General Villa, whose advance guard was within cannon shot of the city's outer defenses.

These defenses include a line of earth breastworks, 12 to 15 feet high, inclosing the city on the two sides, west and south while the Rio Grande curves around the other two sides.

The troops are approaching from the west and apparently the hardest attack is expected from that quarter. The reported disposition of the approaching Villa army was believed to indicate that serious fighting would not begin for a day or two.

JAPAN PLANNING TO FORESTALL GERMANY

Teutons Intriguing In China They Claim—Favor "Open Door" Policy.

St Thomas Ont., March 29.—Japan stood for the "open door" in China and the far east and Germany was the only nation which objected to the Japanese policy according to statements of M Yada, Japanese consul general for Canada, at a Canadian club luncheon here yesterday. Germany was at present intriguing, he declared, as she did in Turkey, and for this reason Japan has been compelled to act promptly in dealing with China.

The principle of the "open door" and "equal opportunity" among foreign nations in China, is described as the fixed policy of Japan. It was the foundation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Japan had no territorial ambition in China, nor did she want in the least to interfere or violate any right or interests of other powers in China.

ARTHUR HUFF KILLED.

Des Moines, Ia., March 27.—Arthur Huff, for five years cashier of the Anchor Fire Insurance company, of Des Moines, was kicked in the temple and killed today at his farm near Norwalk. He retired to the farm a year ago.

WHAT EASTER IS AND WHO OBSERVES FETE DAY

From the Mobile Register

Easter is a festival observed in the Christian church from early times, in commemoration of the resurrection of the Savior. It corresponds to the Passover of the Jews, which in the King James version of the bible is called once by the name of Easter (Acts xii, 4). The name appears several times in earlier versions of the bible. Easter is observed by the Greek, Roman Catholic, Anglican and Lutheran churches, and by many among the non-liturgical churches who do not generally regard the church year. The esteem in which it is held is indicated by its ancient title, "the great day."

Easter is the Sunday which follows the 14th day of the calendar moon which falls next after the 21st day of March. This is true, both of old style of dates and new, and the rule has been used, though not universally, from a very early day.

Easter is said to have been a spring festival in pagan times and this is quite likely. Of whatever sort may be the religion of a people the feeling of thankfulness demands expression after the winter's storms have passed and nature's new life springs into being. What more appropriate time could have been found for the demonstration of the up springing of spiritual life as well! Christmas is the holy season and Easter is the joyful season. Christmas brings promise of redemption, and Easter brings the fulfilment.

Easter is the symbol of a new birth—man rising on his dead self to higher things—abandoning what has been proved to be wrong, and living with a better purpose.

The great purpose of life is to make the world better, and this is accomplished by each person striving to make himself better—to be charitable in thought and deed, to love what is true and hate what is false, to seek a resurrection into a glorious manhood, which is near akin to divinity.

The War in Everyday Life.

Elizabeth Robins Pennell in the March Atlantic.

First it was my French butcher who left, taking with him all immediate chance for the neat French fricandeaus and filets piques that reconcile me to the occasional joint. Then it was the porters of my French grocer, so that the superior Italian in pince-nez was obliged to leave the cashier's desk and struggle up the four flights of our back stairs with bags and boxes, to his supreme wrath and my equal embarrassment. Then it was somebody from almost every shop where I deal in Soho. And worse, almost at once it was Marcel, a chef, who is also Augustine's husband—in which capacity he has lived with us many years and become an indispensable member of our household. On Monday morning came his call from the French consul, by Tuesday afternoon he had given up his excellent post in the city, his good wages, the chances of that careful education it is his ambition to give to his two small daughters, and was well on his way to Paris. Even M. Jules, who shampoos my hair, wrote me that "the outbreak of hostilities between his country and Germany has placed him in the position to serve under the French colors"; and though he had never worn the petit ploupiou's red trousers and blue coat, never handled a gun, never done a day's march and was too old to begin, his capable hands, whose heaviest task had been the washing and waving of ladies' hair, could be useful in the harvest fields and vineyards of France. I had been served and waited on by heroes without knowing it.

Welcome Easter.

It was Robert Louis Stevenson who said "The world is so full of a number of things, I am sure that we all should be as happy as kings!"

Today the word should be inserted the world is full of a number of "beautiful" things—for never was nature so beautiful. The balmy weather of the past few weeks having made everything burst into bud and blossom; the strawberries to ripen; the azaleas, violets, peach trees, wisteria, pansies, yellow jasmine to furnish hues so varied, with the blue sky above and the golden sunlight flooding the earth, until one asks can any one in the world be unhappy?

Then society wakens with a sigh of supreme content for the resurrection means to them the beginning of social life all over again which for six weeks has been more or less quiet.

So Easter is the most welcome of festivities and just as Christmas, the birthday of the Savior is marked with loving and unselfish thought of others, so is Easter—the triumph of the King of Kings—celebrated, too, with great joy as the resurrection holds out the hope of salvation to a sinful, erring world, therefore spiritual thoughts lead with the material and social world coming after, in the rejoicing over the risen King.

Size of Soldiers.

From the Indianapolis News

The present war has brought again to the front the old contention among military men as to whether the tall or the short fellow makes the more efficient soldier. This question was considered as fairly settled at the close of the Russo-Japanese war, when the smooth-faced little brown men were victors over the big bearded Muscovites. In the great war now in progress the average height of the English, as well as that of the French soldier, is considerably less than that of the Teuto: The men sent to the British army by Wales, many of whom are miners, are much below the standard heretofore required by the British army, but it is declared that they will make first class fighting men. Dr. Sir S. Pembrey, of Guy's hospital, London, gives his opinion in favor of the "bantams." He maintains that the essential organs are in the head and trunk and that these are often better developed in the short than in the tall man. "Moreover," says the doctor, "tall men of full proportions, are heavy and often slow, and there are strong physiological reasons for the greater activity of the small man who does not suffer from the mechanical disadvantages of hight and weight, and the small man has a greater capacity for work and endurance and a stronger resistance to disease."

The geological survey has estimated that the Colorado river in an average year discharges into the Gulf of California 338,060,000 tons of silt and salt, equal to 20 tons for each square mile of land the river drains.

THE EASTER LADY.

May fairies fashion frocks for you
From sunbeam, shadow, dawn and dew;
Many elfin milliners devise
Your hat from wings of butterflies;
May goblin gardners pluck a pair
Of lady's slippers for your wear;
And may some swift, audacious sprite
Wing up and up into the night.

And filch for you, howe'er he may,
A fragment of the Milky Way,
To scarf you and bright stars to deck
The slender softness of your neck.

And then, when you are all arrayed
As doth befit so fair a maid,
O gods and fairies grant that I
May glimpse you, lovely passing by!
—Julian Street.

The lord lieutenant of Ireland receives an annual salary of $100,000.

Poultry Pride

CHANTICLEER was a proud youngster, the cock of the walk in the barnyard drama.

But he had nothing on us.

We're as proud as any fowl that ever strutted over the way we pick out fresh, tender, choice poultry for our trade.

As good butchers with a reputation to uphold we take the greatest gride in offering you only the very best in select poultry at prices that won't make your pocketbook look sick.

J. P. Larsen & Sons

Let us help you choose the right paint varnish or enamel

Tell us about the painting or decorating you are planning to do and we will help you select the right paint, varnish or enamel. There is a

Lowe Brothers Paint, Varnish, Enamel or Stain
for every household purpose

For painting floors there's nothing equal to Lowe Brothers Hard Drying Floor Paint. For refinishing furniture, floors and woodwork "Vernicol" makes the finish ideal For the walls and ceilings "Mellotone," "soft as the rainbow tints," is highly artistic, fadeless, durable and washable. These are only a few of the Lowe Brothers products—come in and let us help in choosing right and selecting the most pleasing colors.

G. A. PABST

The Druggist, Klemme, Iowa

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations
By "Our Man About Town"

A newspaper article from Washington, D. C., says; The Department of Agriculture has for several years been testing various poisons to discover the most efficient means of eradicating the troublesome dandelion from lawns and although others have been found quite satisfactory, the common salt is best for general use because there positively can be no danger accompanying its application. The best way to kill the individual plants is to cut off their tops as near the ground as possible. This will leave the roots protruding thru the ground. About a thimbleful of salt should be poured directly upon the roots. This plan is porbably the best to use if the lawn is not too thickly dotted. If it is, some sort of spray should be used. Salt is injurous to grass, so it should be used carefully

During the last few years, so a paper from that state says, the superintendent of parks in Grand Forks, N D, has been studying different methods of eradicating the pest His conclusions are about the same as have been given in the previous suggestions of this column Where there are but a few plants, cut the tops and pour gasoline or kerosene onto the roots exposed. He differs with the above suggestion only in using the liquids instead of salt. Where the plant already has taken possession of a lawn, he suggests the use of a sulphate of iron spray, as mentioned last week. He advocates a stronger mixture, however, advising a pound and a half of the sulphate to one gallon of water. This, he says, should be applied on a bright morning when there is little probability of rain that day.

AND ALONG CAME RUTH

"Every time I fill a lamp I get so tearing mad I nearly swear."

"Why, Auntie," said Ruth, "I'm amazed."

"You can well be, for so am I. However, I'll refrain from the sin this time if you'll tell me how to avoid losing my temper in such cases."

"Well, dear soul, I can help you in that simple manner. Just drop a brass button or any bright object into the bowl of the lamp. Then watch for it to bob into sight just before the oil reaches the danger line. Even a ten-cent piece will do, if you are buttonless; or the tip off the kerosene can spout—for it "can spout," can't it, Auntie?"

And along went Ruth.

THE WEEK IN HISORTY

Monday, 29.—England adopts minimum wage law, 1912. Truce of Antwerp, 1609.

Tuesday, 30—Alaska purchased, 1867.

Wednesday, 31.—Treaty, U. S. and Japan, 1855. Dingley tariff bill passed, 1897.

Thursday, 1.—Lithography invented. 1807.

Friday, 2.—Thomas Jefferson born 1743. U. S mint established, 1792.

Saturday, 3.—Manufacturing aluminum patented, 1887. Tyre captured by French, 1799.

Sunday, 4.—Henry Hudson sailed, 1609. Present flag adopted, 1818.

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching service at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Subject—"The Christ Tincture in Human Life."

Sunday School at 11:00 o'clock,

An Easter program will be given in the evening. The Bible Class will have charge of same, and will be assisted by the Young People's class. Some splendid special music will be rendered. Everybody welcome Bring an Easter offering for missions.

Sunday School at the Wayside school house at 2:00 o'clock p. m and preaching at 3:00.

Rev J. M. Howdeshell Pastor

A POPULAR COURSE

The following letter was given us for publication by Harry Harter the young man who worked for C. A Arnold last summer and who made a number of friends while here

To Hancock County Farmers:

In the year 1910, a two year course in Agriculture was offered by the Iowa State College to all farm boys who were at least 17 years of age and who had finished the 8th grade.

The first year 70 farm boys accepted the chance to become better farmers. They were taught how to feed and manage live stock. How to grow corn, small grain and grasses. How to manage a farm. They were taught carpentry, black-smithing, farm machinery and farm motors Soils, veterinary, orchard management, vegetable gardening and many other subjects essential in the success of the farmer, not only of today, but also of tomorrow

Statistics show that 100 per cent of the students that graduate from the Two Year Course in Agriculture return to the farm These boys have been taught the value of better farming, clear thinking, and right living They go home inspired with new thought and new ideas. All progress in civilization depends on having each farmer produce more than his father produced Mr Farmer, is your son among these boys?

Very respectfully yours.

Harry Harter.

Monster Cheeses for Presidents.

The first monster cheese presented to a president of which we can find record is that offered with great publicity to Jefferson in 1802. The cheese was made, one might almost say built, in Cheshire, Mass., in a press giving it the great dimensions of 4 feet in diameter and 18 inches in height. After being successfully pressed it was drawn from Cheshire to Washington in a six-horse dray amid popular rejoicing. With regard for the dignity of his office, the president insisted on footing the bill to the tune of $200. There is record of an even greater cheese presented to President Jackson; and President Van Buren received a great cheese every year of his incumbency. With him the custom seems to have ended.

Human Vanity.

We all try to be wise; and inasmuch as most of us have very little to be wise about of our own conception, we endeavor to be wise through the medium of communicated ideas and precepts. If you make a statement to the ordinary man, and that statement seems to him to have elements of information or understanding or novelty or rationality, he repeats the same statement when he gets an opportunity—not as your statement, but as his. The sages have been remarking on the prevalence of human vanity for some thousands of years.—Samuel G. Blythe in the Saturday Evening Post.

Here's a Triple-Lever Disc Harrow That Beats Them All!

The new Rock Island Triple-Lever Disc Harrow, Bonanza Jr., has, through its many exclusive features, jumped into a class of its own—'way ahead of every other disc harrow made. For years it has led all others in service, durability, ease of operation and speed. Now, with its new third pressure lever, its new steel stub pole and its new double leaf spring steel seat, it is beyond comparison. The first time you see this wonderful triple-lever disc harrow you'll know why it is outselling all other disc harrows at any price.

Rock Island Bonanza Jr. Triple-Lever Disc Harrow

Here are a few of the many exclusive features of this great harrow.

Instead of being angled from the center, the gangs are angled from the ends. The side thrust is delivered directly to the bumpers. No matter at what angle the gangs are set, these bumpers always bump, and the angle or point of contact doesn't change, so the bumpers never cut or wear out.

See the Bumpers They Always Bump

Saves expense, repairs and draft. The inner ends of the gangs are always together.

They roll against each other at one rounded point. End thrust is entirely neutralized by these bumpers.

The new steel stub pole cannot split or break and adds strength to the harrow, making it even more durable than it was before. Neat in appearance—light in weight.

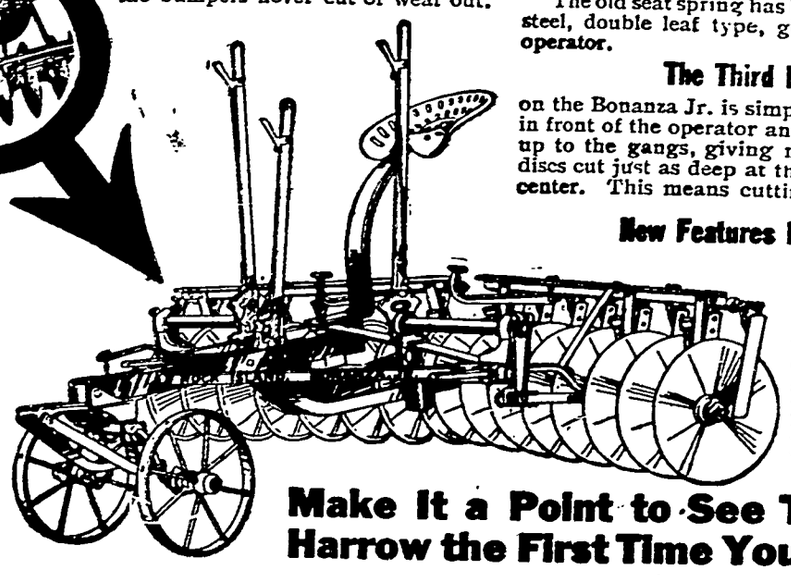
The old seat spring has been replaced by one of spring steel, double leaf type, giving greater comfort to the operator.

The Third Pressure Lever

on the Bonanza Jr. is simple and strong. It is directly in front of the operator and the pressure is applied close up to the gangs, giving more leverage. Bonanza Jr. discs cut just as deep at the outer ends as they do in the center. This means cutting at an even depth always.

New Features Plus the Old Ones

Remember all the new features of the Bonanza Jr. have been added without sacrificing any of the old ones. You can't make any mistake in buying the Rock Island Bonanza Jr. Disc Harrow—it's a sure winner.



Colter Steel Discs, Spring Steel Scraper Blades, Hard Oil-Boiled Maple Bearings

Make It a Point to See This Great Disc Harrow the First Time You Come to Town

HENRY LAU & SON

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay If it fails, we will give your money back. 25-lb pail only $2 50. In packages at 25c., 50c and $1.00

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN
"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

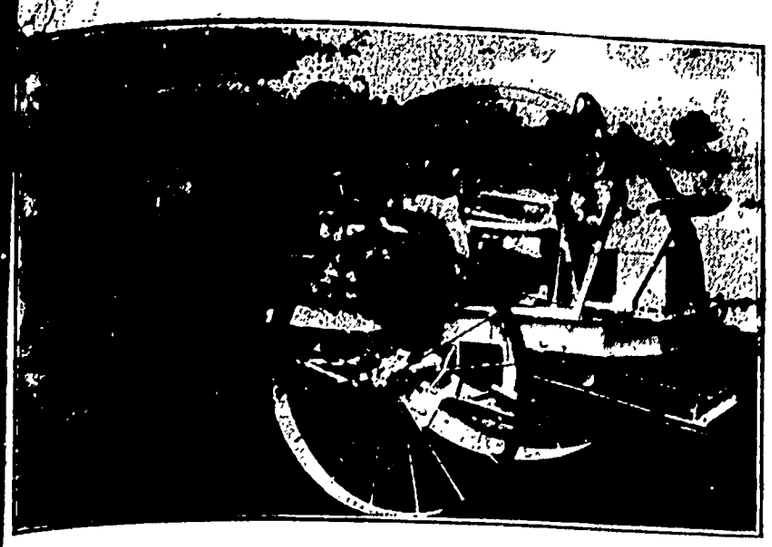
KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

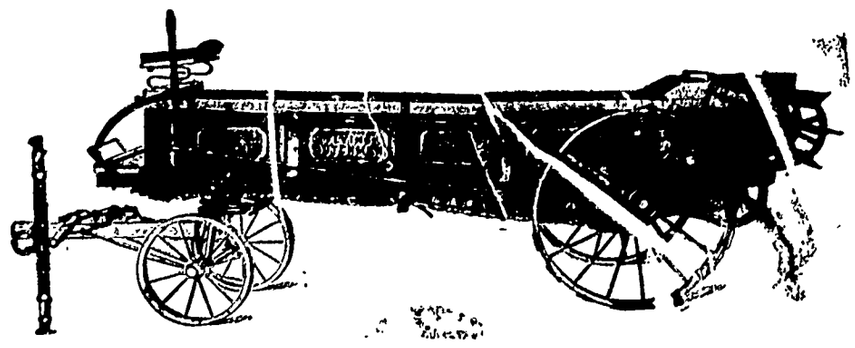
A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant



Machinery Opening



Our line of Machinery is now ready for your inspection. We are selling some of the best lines on the market, lines that have been tried and also have given the best of satisfaction. You may talk all you wish about Garner, Goodell or Miller, we are at Klemme with a full line of Farm Implements and we are selli ng everything at a right price. We also sell the Alter, 5-passenger automobile and the Metz car---the best cars for the money.

Gas Tractors

We sell the Little Tractor also the Big Bull Tractor. These are two of the best tractors on the market, and we can cite you to many satisfied owners. Buy a tractor, do more work easier and save horse flesh. We sell 2, 3, 4, 6 or 8 bottom plows, which can be used with our Bull Tractor or others Let us sell you a complete outfit.

Gasoline Engines

We handle the leading makes of gasoline engines in all the various sizes from 1½ h.p. up at bottom prices.

Hay Loaders and Hay Tools

We sell the famous Moline Gearless Hay Loader---no chain, no gears; no sprockets; no trouble or delay. Also the Rock Island Hay Loader Two dandies.

Plows and Cultivators

Our stock of plows and cultivators include the following well known makes---Rock Island, Moline, Sattley and Ohio and you cannot go wrong on any of them. If you need a plow this spring we are here to save you money.

We sells the best grades of Oils and Greases by the gallon or barrel.

Corn Planter

Hayes, Moline and Sattley Co are our three leaders. You w. ways before you can find as from which to make a selecti price will not worry your pocke

Discs and Harro

The popular Rock Island, M Ohio lines at right prices.

's rn Planters ill go a long good a line pm and the t book.

ws loline and

If you roof leaks why not try Arco Sealit? We sell it under an iron clad guarantee.

Grinds more feed on less gasoline

You can save 25 per cent on your gasoline bill by using the

LETZ SELF-SHARPENING SILENT BUHR FEED MILL

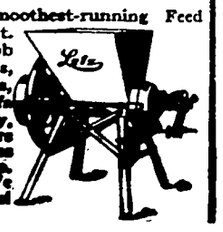
The swiftest, smoothest-running Feed Mill on the market. Grinds corn, with cob and husk, oat hulls, wheat screenings, grain, hay and alfalfa easily and quickly, on low power. Rubs shovels themselves and last a long time. Mill can't clog. We sell this wonderful Feed Grinder.



Manure Spreaders

We sell the best Manure Spreader made---the Flying Dutchman, also the celebrated Great Western.

Harvesters and Mowers

A little early in the season but we want you to know that we sell the Acme and Adriance lines.

Carbo Steel Posts and Moyer Steel Gates

Two necessary articles on the modern farm.

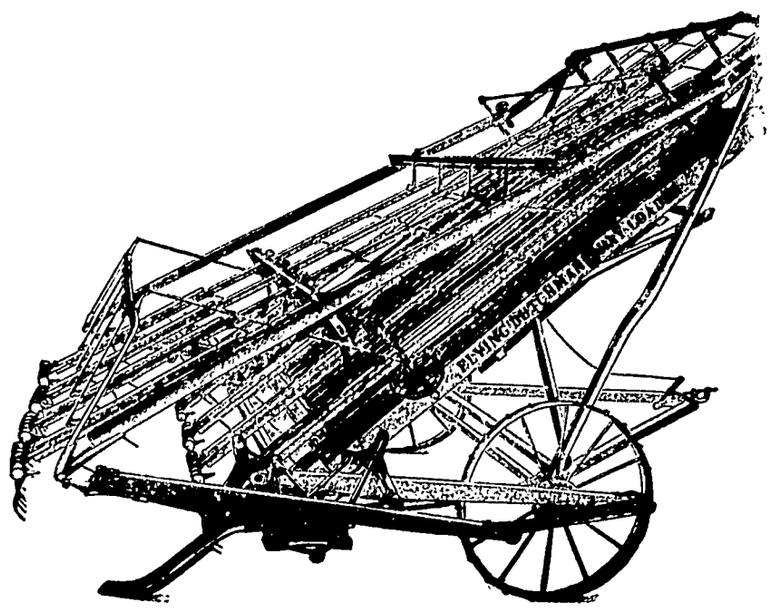
You Will do Well to Buy all of Your

Farm Machinery, Etc.

of

Henry Lau & Son

KLEMME, IOWA



H. A. PRIEE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA

Estimates Furnished

Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
M. D. BARROWS, Prop

Two Good Barbers At Your Service

The Place To Go For First-Class Work

Everything Neat and Clean

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

J. E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
Door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
1st. Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Practice limited exclusively to treatment of
RHEUMATISM AND HEART
Office First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

ELL CENTER

The farmers are busy testing seed corn, cleaning oats and getting ready for seeding

Mr and Mrs J F Stokesbary and family spent Sunday at Hod Lowhorn's.

Mrs. W, H Greimann was a Mason City visitor, Thursday

Mrs. Edith Haner-Meyer and son Carol are visiting with her grandmother in Nebraska.

Wm Yohn of Clear Lake was in Klemme, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hansen of Garner visited with their son Alfred and wife Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs W. Hempel and family spent Sunday with Mr, and Mrs. Neils Bock.

W. H. Greimann and Herman Stromer were among those from this vicinity who attended the auto show at Mason City last week

The Wagner and Yohn families spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs. Henry Meyer.

Mrs. Bert Auchampaugh came home Saturday for a few days. She is at Ventura much of the time helping care for her father who is very ill.

The young people were entertained at the John Loudon home last Thursday evening and again Monday evening at the Thrun home. Those who attended report a pleasant time.

AVERY CENTER

Emil Kearney has been quite sick the past week but is improving rapidly.

L. J. Brugman was a business caller to Belmond, Monday.

Mable Wilkins spent Sunday at the home of her parents.

W. L. Sherwood and Thos Nelson were to Mason City the latter part of the week.

Maude Griggs returned home Friday evening for a vacation after teaching a very successful term of school.

Mrs. Brugman went to Belmond, Saturday evening for an over Sunday visit with relatives

Adrian Belefeldt was a Meservey caller, Thursday.

Jay Griggs was a Mason City caller the latter part of the week

Manilla Carlson spent Sunday at the home of her parents

Mr and Mrs Fred Chase are the parents of a new baby boy

GOODELL

A trained nurse arrived Tuesday to take care of Mrs John Suurballe, who is somewhat better at this writing

A baby boy arrived at the Fred Chase home Tuesday and one at the Steve Hamilton home, Friday.

Mrs Frank Costello from Forest City is here visiting relatives,

Geo. Ahrenkiel and daughter, Mrs. Harry Bonwell came down from Klemme, Tuesday, to visit relatives.

Mr and Mrs. Chas. Peterson and children returned from Dows, Monday where they have been spending the past few days with relatives

G. W. Markle from Minnesota visited his father here the past week.

Henry Johnson from Kanawha spent Sunday at the Frank McNutt home.

Lucky Horseshoe.

It was about the middle of the seventeenth century that the superstitious use of horseshoes as emblems of good luck originated in England. They were at first deemed a protection against witches and evil spirits, and were nailed on doors of houses, with the curve uppermost. It was the belief that no witch or evil spirit could enter a house thus guarded. The custom of nailing horseshoes to ships and other sailing craft is still in vogue in all English-speaking countries. To find a horseshoe with an odd number of nails attached to it is considered the forerunner of good luck, and the more nails the greater the good fortune that is likely to attend the finder. A person about to be married who finds a horseshoe believes that a happy matrimonial career awaits him.

Willing to Help.

"Mr Editor, we are trying to start a movement to establish a home for disabled poets." "Fine," said the editor. "There is a whole bunch of poets in this town that I will disable as soon as you are ready for them."

Clearing the Way.

Norwich—"So she now looks forward to a perfectly happy life?" Mrs. Newrich—"Yes. She has snubbed the last of the old friends who knew her in the early days when she was poor."—Town Topics.

Doubles in Geography.

The "doubles" of geographical nomenclature are endless. They may be partly accounted for by the tendency of all people to assimilate place-names to something with which they are familiar The Galicia to which our eyes are turned now takes its name from the town of Halicz: but the Hungarian king who annexed the region at the end of the twelfth century called himself "Rex Galatiae"—presumably recalling the country in Asia Minor known to us through St. Paul's Epistle. And now we call England by the same name as the northwestern corner of Spain once inhabited by the Callaici of Gallaeci. And close by are the Carpathian mountains, which have no connection with the Carpathian sea, the part of the Mediterranean near Rhodes named after the island of Carpathus.—Manchester Guardian.

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

COMING!

Klemme Opera House
Wednesday, April 7th

Mysterious Smith
The Greatest ILLUSIONIST
In the World

SUPPORTED BY A COMPANY OF HIGH-CLASS VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS

REDUCED PRICES
Children 15cts : Adults 35cts

Napoleon Near Capture.

After the passage of the Mincio (at Valeggio) Napoleon, having concerted all his plans and pursued the enemy in every direction, entered a castle on the left bank of the river. He was troubled with a headache and used a foot bath. A large detachment of the enemy, in great confusion, arrived, having ascended the river as far as the castle. Napoleon was there and only a few persons were with him; the sentinel on duty at the gate had just time to close it, exclaiming, "To arms!" and the general of the army of Italy, in the hour of victory, was compelled to escape through the back gate of the gardens with but one boot on!—"The Napoleon Anecdotes," W. H. Ireland.

Egypt and Egyptians.

Egypt—"the country like no other"—is notable for stately women and dirty-looking children. In the fashionable parts one may still see the well-groomed mother followed by her apparently neglected offspring, often perfect tatterdemalions. By making them outwardly unattractive, so as to excite neither admiration nor envy, the Egyptian mother hopes to protect her little ones from the malign influence of the "evil eye." Boys are said to arouse more envy than girls, and for that reason are often disguised in their sisters' garments. And when the influence of evil spirits is suspected the mother fumigates her child with the ashes of alum and salt.

Wonderful Snow Figures.

The delicacy and beauty of snow figures have no parallel in the product of man or insect. The most beautiful of webs, wondrous as they are, of the strange insect called the spider bear no comparison with snow crystals. The rarest of gossamer laces, stitched by deft fingers that have inherited the art throughout generations, have no such delicate figures, though they have found inspiration in leaf and verdure and flower of rarest structure.

To Soften Water.

A simple method to soften hard water is to boil it for a quarter of an hour, pour it into an earthen jug, add a quarter of an ounce of common soda to each two gallons, stir, and when cold carefully pour off the clear water from the sediment.

Friendship Is Not Blind.

In friendship we see only those faults which may be prejudicial to our friends, while in love we discern no faults but those by which we ourselves suffer.—La Bruyere.

Geo. ZII
Physician & S
Phone No. 19. KLEM
Office in Building of Gruetzmacher ness and Shoe Sho
Eyes Tested.
Glasses F

G. W. GRIMM
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, IOWA
Conducts Sales of an kind.
Makes Farm S ales a
Specialt y.
Guarantees Sat isfaction. 20
Years F xperience.
See or Wr ite Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load, All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

THE MESSAGE OF EASTER.

Walter Williams, in Pueblo Chieftain

Easter is a promise that weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning. There are no cemeteries in the New Jerusalem. There is no sorrow there nor tears. It is always Easter morning in heaven.

So Easter means a shutting up of the fountains of grief, an unclosing of the sources of smiles. It brings back, in the bloom of health, the stricken form we laid away but yesterday, outworn with life's battles, in the vault of earth. In its glorious lige we see, toddling up from the tomb the dear little figure so dear to use that we listen for its pattering feet with every passing hour, so dear that we can never close our eyes to the memory of its face or our ears to the echo of its long silent voice. the little child comes back to flow with use forever. "There shall be no night there, and no tired children be called away from use at evening ide to rest.

Dearer dead than child or friend or brother somtise are hopes and aspirations. No mourners go about the streets when we lay therese away. We wear no crape we show no outward signs of grief, save a certain grimness about the mouth or downward droop of the eyes. Only when we sit alone in our chamber or when we unbare our heart's holy of holies to our closest friend do we ever admit the death and burial. Yet when a great hope is put to interement forever, when an aspiration is stricken unto death the soul is bowed in sorrow deeper than that for which we wear the world's sack cloth. Easter comes to bring comfort even here. There is resurrection even for the graces of buried hopes. No righteous cause is ever lost. No hope has come in to man's heart to uplift and inspire that will not bless him again in the days to come beyond. Buried aspirations have their Easter mornings. No great thought, no great desire, no large and loving ambition has ever yet or will exist in vain.

Defeat is sometimes success. The largest disappointment often means the greatest victory. The hymn of the conquered is to be desired, many times, more than the paeans of triumph. The failures of history are in the Easter time of the present, the world's greatest successes. Paul was executed. Latimer beheaded. Savonorola burned at the stake. Ignatius Loyola was misinterpreted and misunderstood. Roger Williams was driven from Boston. John Wesley was made a social outcast and John Knox an exile. The Master died upon the cross—but Easter came.

The happiest of all funerals is that at which we bury ourselves. There is this lesson in Easter use. We amount to little in this world as long as we are ourself. We must lose this snarling [illegible] self before we can be of service. He who would save his life must lose it. This is the glorious paradox that comes as corollary to the [illegible] of Easter time. When we [illegible] peaceful service and tranquil [illegible] the [illegible] of self-mastery [illegible] ster of the soul. We [illegible] God before we arise from [illegible]. When sorrow [illegible] this [illegible] will be Easter all the [illegible] longer be a yearly [illegible] it will bring [illegible] and peace to [illegible] We shall indeed [illegible] losing lost our lives we shall [illegible] them again forever. [illegible] world bears this paradox [illegible] be no more [illegible] and bloodshed. The Master will be no longer in the tomb nor [illegible] His children suffer.

The Easter lily rods at the altar. It is [illegible] of purity to come when the [illegible] of soul shall never more be stained with seeking of self. It is yet dark but the stone has been rolled away from the sepulcher and [illegible]

The Lily at the Window

[illegible] old fast-shed cottage
[illegible] to call to mind
[illegible] and sutters
[illegible] in behind
[illegible] of fate's infection
[illegible] of quaint design
[illegible] here a mother
[illegible] sentiment divine
[illegible] kitchen window
[illegible] southern side
[illegible] a flower a lily—
[illegible] Eastertide
[illegible] Resurrection'
[illegible] petal tomb
[illegible] sleep then waking'
[illegible] simple room'

Through the long and dreary winter
She had nurtured it with care,
Dreaming that with spring's returning
Happiness could blossom there.
She had watched with love believing
That her eyes and wrinkled hands
Have a touch that can a lily
Like a baby understands.
And now low before her window
Fair as Eve's the fairest sky
Blooms the children of her nurture Gladdening each passerby.
This the sweet reward for patience
For the nest blown buds impart
Spring's glad message "He is risen!"
And she feels it in her heart.

W. M. Herschel in Indianapolis News

State Nicknames and Flowers.

Alabama Cotton, golden rod. Arizona, no nickname, ocotillo. Arkansas, Bear, apple blossom. California, El Dorado, golden poppy. Colorado, Centennial, columbine. Connecticut, Nutmeg, mountain laurel. Delaware, Blue Hen, peach blossom. District of Columbia, no nickname, nasturtium. Florida, Peninsula, orange blossom. Georgia, Cracker, Cherokee rose. Idaho, no nickname, syringa. Illinois, Sucker or Prairie, the native violet. Indiana, Hoosier, carnation. Iowa, Hawkeye, wild rose. Kansas, Jayhawker, sunflower. Kentucky, Bluegrass, golden rod. Louisiana, Pelican, magnolia. Maine, Pine Tree, pine cone and tassel. Maryland, Old Line, blackeyed susan. Massachusetts, Bay, no flower. Michigan, Wolverine, apple blossom. Minnesota, Gopher, moccasin. Mississippi, Bayou, magnolia. Montana, no nickname, bitter root. Nebraska, Blackwater, golden rod. New Jersey, no nickname, golden rod and violet. New Mexico, no nickname, cactus. New Hampshire, Granite, no flower. New York, Excelsior, Empire rose. North Dakota, no nickname, wild rose. North Carolina, Turpentine, no flower. Ohio, Buckeye, scarlet carnation. Oklahoma, no nickname, mistletoe. Oregon, Web Foot, Oregon grape. Pennsylvania, Keystone, daisy and violet. Rhode Island, Little Rhody, violet. South Carolina, Palmetto, no flower. South Dakota, Blizzard, anemone patens. Tennessee, no nickname, golden rod. Texas, Lone Star, blue bonnet. Utah, Mormon, sego lily. Vermont, Green Mountain, red clover. Washington, Evergreen, rhododendron. West Virginia, Panhandle, rhododendron. Wisconsin, Badger, violet. Wyoming, no nickname, blue fringed gentian. Missouri, Bullion, no flower. Nevada, Silver, no flower.

While Rome Burned.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The old gentleman beamed upon the little boy who stood on the crest of the hill one night at twilight, a happy, contented smile on his lips.

"I am very pleased to see you watching the beautiful red glow of the setting sun, my little man,' he said, patting the youngster's back. "Do you watch it every night?"

The little lad chuckled.

"Oh, no, sir,' he said gleefully. "That's not the sun setting. That's our school burning down.'

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON.

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911, By Dodd, Mead & Co.

CHAPTER III—Continued

"I don't care what happens to me," flared the boy, struggling with his tears. "What's the use? I'm—I'm foreordained, ain't I? Ain't we all fore-ordained? What good is it going to do to pray? Prayer won't help a fore-ordained boy will it? It won't." He was plunging recklessly, heedlessly into the deepest currents of his creed, inspired by a courage born of despair. It is the same spirit that urges on the wretch who is courting suicide. Mr. Presbrey cried out in horrified accents, checking the bitter flow of words.

"Stop! You do not know what you are saying. Listen to me, my boy."

"I won't listen. I'm forever damned, so what's the use. Let me out of here! Come on, Mary!"

He made a rush for the door dragging his sister after him. Mr. Blagden leaped up from his chair and put himself between them and the door.

"You go back there at once, sir, and beg Mr. Presbrey's pardon," he hissed, grasping the boy by the arm. "What will he think of you? Where are your manners?"

Eric whirled and threw himself into a chair, burying his face in his arms, a great wail of anguish escaping his lips, to be followed an instant later by a rush of sobs.

Mr. Presbrey sprang to his feet, an exalted look in his face. He lifted his eyes and clasped his hands in the ecstasy of spiritual triumph.

"Glory be to God! Praise the Lord!" he cried in thrilling tones. "He is saved! He has seen the light! The spirit of evil is broken! Praise the Lord! Let us give thanks for the sign! Let us bow our heads in prayer."

He fell upon his knees beside the quivering boy and lifted his voice in prayer. The others stood with bowed heads, even Chetwynd being carried away by the rush of the conquerors. Little Mary clinging to the doorknob stood transfixed gazing in helpless astonishment at the picture.

Later the two children were led to their room by Mrs. Blagden herself, attended by the soulful Mrs. Presbrey.

"Go to sleep, you poor dears," said the former, tears of emotion in her voice. "You will feel better in the morning. It will all come right in the end. Try to believe all that Mr. Presbrey has said to you. He knows best. He will be your best friend."

Perhaps if Rena Blagden had never come to Corinth to live she would have been a different woman, a gentler one.

"Mr. Presbrey will come to see you in the morning, children," said Mrs. Presbrey. "Keep a brave heart and put your trust in the Lord. He will give you strength." Then to Mrs. Blagden, as that lady gently closed the door on the children: "Don't you think you'd better lock the door, my dear?"

CHAPTER IV

THE ENTRANCE OF ADAM CARR

Mr. Presbrey came the next day and for many days thereafter with a regularity that deserved something more (I was about to say better) than the mere salvation of two small souls. Sometimes he got it, and sometimes he didn't. It all depended on what Mrs. Blagden had in the house.

In any event, he was sincere in the task unto which he had set himself. I am not trying to make Mr. Presbrey out a hypocrite. He was not that. He honestly, firmly believed that he was following the dictates of a Christian spirit in befriending the heart sick boy with his words of advice, and caution, and consolation. At least there was attached to his prerogative all the virtues to be found in good wool—it wore well and did not shine.

Eric, after the effects of that cruel night had washed themselves away in tears, rose manfully to the exigencies of his position. He turned to Mary, forgetting his own troubles in the resolve to lessen hers. She could not fail to respond to the strength and earnestness of his devotion. Young as she was, she recognized the spirit of unselfishness, the real heroism that moved him to think first of her, then of himself. She was never to forget the first few days following that wretched awakening. Somehow, it came to her that Eric was a grown man and a strong one with the will and the power to stand between her and all adversity, all things cruel and unkind.

Together they submitted to the importunities of the good pastor enduring with a grace that had all the marks of a patient sullenness. They were temporarily broken, they had no power of initiative, they could not even nourish the resentment that strove so hard to grow in their ploughed harrowed hearts. They listened numbly to the unceasing repetition of such sentences as these, coming not only from the Presbreys, but their uncle and aunt as well.

"It is all for the best, my dears.

"You will thank us some day."

"God is good. He will show you the way."

A contrite heart, etc."

You must not be allowed to follow in the footsteps of your unhappy father, Eric!"

"We would not be doing our Christian duty if we failed to warn you against the impulses that wrecked your misguided mother."

Your uncle knows best, Eric?"

"Your aunt knows best, Mary."

"Mr. Presbrey knows best, children." These, and other concomitants of woe.

Chetwynd's oft-repeated fling was this, with appropriate variations:

"You're a nice one to talk, you are."

The older boy never missed the opportunity to grill his wretched victim with scornful allusions to "the Midthorne courage," "the Midthorne honor," "the Midthorne virtue," "the Midthorne prospects."

Eric's half hour with that unfortunate, though kindly prevaricator, Jabez Carr, was one that the old man was not likely to forget, even in his years of failing memory. The boy burst in upon him while the ignoble wounds in his heart were still festering, and his pathetic arraignment of the old seaman was the very essence of gall. He did not blame, but rather thanked the old man for his deliberate deception, and yet there was that in his words which compelled Jabez to look upon himself as the veriest blackguard unhung, the most misguided fool alive. For days thereafter, the bluff old fellow moped; and when he was not moping, he was cursing himself; and when he was not doing that he was cursing Horace Blagden. I will not attempt to enumerate the countless and varied devices practiced by the old man to win back the confidence of his young friend, nor will I try to describe his alternating moods as these devices prospered or shriveled. This much I will say: He became a very dull and uninteresting story teller for the obvious reason that he maintained a strict and rigid adherence to the truth. His veracity was truly oppressive. The days of the pirates were over. In their stead were commonplace narratives in which he seldom performed anything more heroic than the swabbing of a deck, or, perhaps, an encounter with an obstinate pawnbroker. As time went on, the two children began to look upon him as a very tiresome and unprofitable person. Finally, one day, long after his regenerate period began, the anxious anticipation in Mary's starved soul burst its bonds, and she almost wailed:

"Uncle Jabe, why don't you tell us any more grand stories?"

"Because," said he, "it ain't right to tell lies."

"But how would we know they were lies?"

"You can allus tell when a feller's lyin', if you once ketch him in one," quoth he.

"Well, they are lots of fun, just the same, protested she. "Ain't they, Eric?"

"Yes," said Eric rather gravely, "if you tell 'em in fun."

"I'll tell 'em all you like," said Jabez, his face brightening, "if you'll promise to believe they're lies."

"Then, how will we know when you're telling the truth?"

He pondered. After five puffs at his pipe, he said: "Well, if I begin by sayin' they're the God's truth you can believe 'em. If I don't say that, you'll know they're lies."

And so it was that old Jabez came joyously into his own again.

This narrative, with your permission, kind reader, has little more to do with the Midthornes as small children. Suffice to say, they were more or less like other children in this respect, they could not remain young forever. They had to grow up. In passing, it may be stated that the sage counsel of old Jabez alone kept Eric from running away from the grey house on the hill in those early days of shame and resentment.

"You can't afford to do that, sonny," he announced. "Jest put it right out of your head, once and for all. If you was alone in the world, I'd say skip. But you ain't. You got to look out for Mary. It's plumb foolish to talk about takin' her with you. That would be the quickest way to send her to the gutter. I know it goes against the grain to stay up there with them people, but it's a derned sight better'n starvin' to death on the streets. You jest stick it out. You wouldn't be so crool as to skip out and leave her there for them to pester and bulldoze. They'd make a drudge of her, and worse'n that, maybe. You'd be a mortal coward to run off and leave her, and you jest can't take her with you. No, siree, my boy. You stick it out. Stand by your guns. Just you wait a few years. I know what I'm talkin' about. You see, I run away when I was 15 and went to sea. I wished a thousand times I hadn't, 'cause my stepfather was nasty mean to my sisters and my mother."

He hesitated for a moment and then went on: "You wait a few years and then you can tell 'em to go to hell." After a few reflective puffs at his pipe, he vouchsafed: "And, mind you, Eric, there is such a place as hell."

Eric at 16, was as handsome a lad as you'd see in a week's journey. He was growing with a steadiness that promised a good six feet at man's estate, and he was as straight and as strong as a young sapling and as lithe and graceful as an Indian. He excelled at all the games in which strength, agility and quick wittedness were paramount. In baseball, football, skating, racing and sailing he was a leader because he was an adept, because, while fearless, he was never headstrong, while conscious of his natural superiority, he was not arrogant. It was not unusual for him to step aside to give a less accomplished friend the chance to carry off honors that might easily have been his. This trait did not go unrecognized, nor was it unappreciated by his companions. An extremely uncommon condition marked this attitude toward him on all occasions. Instead of boasting of their own prowess, they freely admitted that "Eric Midthorne could do better than that if he half tried." Nor was there the faintest touch of jealousy or envy in their summing up of his deeds.

The gentle, pleasant ways of the southland were strong in him; he was prone to resent an affront with vigor, and as quick to repent. The hot blood in his veins was hard to control, but he always had the better of it. There was no indignity so grave that he could not deflect it without losing his temper entirely. He was afraid of the shadow that stalked beside him, the shadow he had inherited. If others knew the story of his antecedents, they were generous enough to keep the knowledge to themselves. In all the years he lived in Corinth, no one outside his own family, the Presbreys and old Jabez, spoke to him of his father and mother. He knew that they knew, and he was deeply sensible of their well meant restraint. Their kindly reticence had a sting, however, there was no minute in his life that his pride was not being hurt by the knowledge that they were being generous.

He was in the high school of Corinth, a leader in his classes as well as in the sports of the season. In two years he would enter Harvard. Mary, quite the prettiest girl in town, was his pride and joy, and constant care. She was gay, volatile, and deeply sensitive to the approach of slights and criticism, from which, when they came, she was quick to recover. She had him to lean upon, to look up to in case of trouble, and it is not surprising that the eternal feminine in her took advantage of that very stable support.

Chetwynd was in Harvard, where he was trying for the crew and eleven, and for very little else. If Eric had entertained the hope that he might grow big enough and strong enough to "thrash" his bully of a cousin, he was likely to be disappointed. Chetwynd was a perfect young giant, he was the real and visible lord of "the giant's castle." There was no gainsaying that. To the surprise of every one—his father in particular—the indolent boy developed into a rugged, towering mass of muscle and endurance. In his 20th year he stood well over 6 feet and in his rowing togs tipped the beam at 180—which seemed to be just what was wanted at Harvard.

Can you picture Chetwynd? Is not your imagination strong enough to see him in all his physical glory? Have you any doubts as to his attitude toward the lesser physiques of Corinth? Given, a boy who has had arrogance as a birthright, snobbishness as a product and moral stealth as a necessity, add two years of athletic triumph at Harvard, and you have Chetwynd.

He went in for boxing and punching the bag. This was advised by his trainers. In college there were stalwarts who could maul him with impunity—and science—because Chetwynd really lacked moral stamina, but when he got back home for the summer vacation or the holidays he revelled in a perfect whirl of boxing glove victories. It was never quite fair to hit Chetwynd hard, but it was an education to be slammed vigorously by this elegant expert.

"You've got to learn how to take it some time," was his usual response to their objections," and the sooner the better. Be a man."

Eric came in for some sound drubbings in the name of science. He was slighter and not so tall as his cousin, but he was gamer than the rest of the boys who put on the gloves" with the magnificent sophomore. While Eric knew little of boxing as it is taught, he could stand punishment for the sport of the game—and he could inflict it, too.

More often than not, Chetwynd was compelled to remind him in the thick of combat that if he couldn't box like a gentleman and not like a murderer he would not take him on again. Whereupon Eric, considerably depressed and hurt, would lose much of his fierceness, and, as a result received a lesson entirely satisfactory to Chetwynd.

"Oh, if I way only big enough!" the boy cried time and again to old Jabez, in announcing the result of his most recent contest.

"You'll grow sonny," mused Jabez. "He's a coward at heart and if you wasn't so derned sensitive you could put it all over him."

One day, toward the close of the summer vacation, Eric succeeded in drawing blood from Chetwynd's nose and in the fusillade that followed, landed a blow which discolored the big boy's eyes—a most ignominious illumination. Chetwynd, in wild rage grappled with his lighter antagonist, and hurling him to the ground beat him unmercifully, all the time calling him a murderer's son—and even worse.

Eric, as usual carried his tale of woe to the old seaman. He was bitterly lamenting his unhappy position in the Blagden family, and the insults he was forced to endure, when a stranger appeared on the scene.

It was a warm September day and they were sitting on the bench under the shade trees just inside the gates to the park. Eric was nursing a bruised cheek and a twisted elbow. He had experienced some difficulty in evading his sister and Joan Bright the one girl in Corinth who held an undisputed place in his loyal young heart. They were playing croquet on the lawn and he in shame-faced defeat had been obliged to crawl over the fence on leaving the cellar (where the boxing contest took place) in order to avoid a meeting and certain questions. He would have given much to be able to stride before Joan Bright, a year or two the bully on whom for reasons inexplicable to Eric she professed to have a marked interest. Joan by the way, was the daughter of Judge Bright, not quite 15 and amazingly pretty.

But I am on the point of digressing. It really doesn't matter about Joan at this particular juncture. She will come in later, very handily I'm sure. It is only necessary to repeat that by skilful dodging he managed to skirt the lawn without coming face to face with the girls, and reached the friendly bench on which he and Jabez was found by the stranger I came so near to overlooking. Which would have been a deplorable oversight as he is to have a most important part in the unraveling of this tale.

He was stock well [illegible] of man with a singularly hard and forbidding face, recently shaved his cold grey eyes were set far back in his head and were shaded by straight bushy brows of black. His mouth was wide and rather sinister in its expression. There was a suggestion of a smile in its corners but not a smile of mirth rather one of derision. Eric's first glimpse of him came when he happened to turn his eyes, as if urged by an impulse that was far from voluntary in the direction of the watch house by the gate. The stranger in his shirt sleeves and smoking a short pipe was leaning in the doorway, idly surveying the two on the bench. The boy started for a moment, the words dying on his lips.

It was the first time he had seen a human being other than old Jabez, about the little house. He was at once struck by the fact that the stranger was quite at home and on familiar terms with the gate keeper.

Eric never knew why it was but he suddenly found himself contrasting this hard featured individual and the assiduous eyed tormentor of his soul, the excellent Mr. Presbrey. He was afterward to enjoy the humor of that ludicrous comparison.

"Oh," said old Jabez, with a start, "that's my son Eric. He's stopping in town for a week or two, so's he can come over to spend his vacation with me. Adam, come here and shake hands with my young friend, Mr. Eric Midthorne."

The man came forward, extending his hand. A half smile grew in his weather beaten face.

(Continued next week.)

Hard at Work.

From Life

"It seems a pity, my dear Miss Gotham, that you New York society women don't give up more of your time to raising money for the war sufferers."

"My dear Marjorie, how can you say such a thing! Haven't I sat up until 2 o'clock for three nights now playing charity bridge?"

The Empty Room.

The lock is rusty, the slow key grates—
Turn it more daringly, open the door!
Only a ghost at the threshold waits,
They that have crossed it cross it no more.

Heavy the unbreathed air of the room—
Throw wide the casement, let the wind blow,
Once it brought breath of roses in bloom,
Of the dew of a morning long ago.

Speak low—there are presences here of old,
Sighs and sorrows and sweet desires,
Falter of prayers, and wild tunes trolled,
And here love lighted his sacred fires.

The dreams that some woman haply dreamed,
The smiles that shone on her tender face,
Here where the moonlight over her streamed,
Unseen, unshaped, still haunt the place.

For the tense string touched sings on and on—
Do you hear music? A cradle song.
Lightsome laughter? The voice is gone,
But the soundless thrill still sings along.

Friend and lover, and man and wife,
The child's sweet babble—stay, feel the spell!
The empty room brims over with life,
As you hear the sea sing in the shell!

—Harriet Prescott Spofford in Scribner's.

High grade cattle fodder is a new French product from tomato seeds. The seeds are dried in a furnace, sifted to remove wood fiber, crushed by heated millstones, freed from oil in a hydraulic press and compressed into four-pound loaves.

LOW ROUND TRIP FARES TO CALIFORNIA'S EXPOSITIONS AND THE PACIFIC COAST

Low round trip fares are now in effect via the Scenic Highway of the Northern Pacific Ry. to California's Expositions via the North Pacific Coast. These tickets permit liberal stop-overs and enable the tourist to include both Expositions as well as a stop-over at Yellowstone National Park via Gardiner Gateway.

If you will advise when you will plan your western trip, I will be pleased to quote rates, send a copy of our handsome Expositions folder as well as Yellowstone National Park and travel literature, and assist you in any way possible in planning your 1915 vacation trip. A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, 517 Northern Pacific Ry., St. Paul, Minnesota.—Adv.

Proof Positive.

"How are you today, John?" said a landlord to one of his tenants, whom he met on the street.

"Vera weel, sir, vera weel," answered John, in his usual way, "if it wisna for the rheumatism in my right leg."

"Ah, well, John, be thankful; for there is no mistake, you are getting old like the rest of us, and old age does not come alone."

"Auld age, sir!" replied John. "I wonder to hear ye. Auld age has nacthing to do wi't. Here's me ither leg jist as auld, and it is quite sound and soople yet."—Youth's Companion.

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids; No Smarting—just Eye comfort. Write for Book of the Eye by mail Free. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Have Sharp Ears.

"Women are not good listeners."

"Evidently you've never had much experience with female help."

Nothing kindles the fire of suspicion quicker than an unnecessary explanation.

MRS. WILLI... LONG SICK...

Yields To Lydia E. ...ham's Vegeta... Compound.

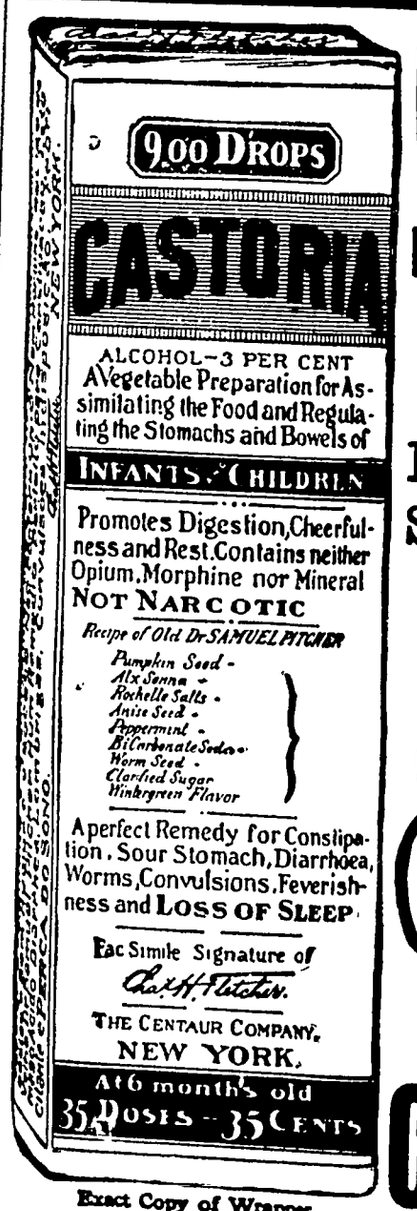
Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered ...teen years from organic ... female ... pain and ... ties. The ... my sides ... creased ... or stand... feet and ... awful ... feelings, ... pressed ... and beca... pale with ... eyes. I ...

...tors from whom I received ... rary relief. I decided to give ... Pinkham's Vegetable Compo... trial and also the Sanative W... now used the remedies for ... and cannot express my thanks ... they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of ... you have my permission to ... them."—Mrs. SADIE WILL... James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta... pound, made from native roots ... contains no narcotic or harmful ... and to-day holds the record of ... most successful remedy for ... we know of, and thousands of ... testimonials on file in the ... laboratory at Lynn, Mass., ... prove this fact.

If you have the slightest ... that Lydia E. Pinkham's ... ble Compound will help you, ... to Lydia E. Pinkham Medi... (confidential) Lynn, Mass. ... vice. Your letter will be ... read and answered by a ... and held in strict confide...



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTOR...

For Infants and Childr...

Mothers Know T... Genuine Castori...

Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

For Ov... Thirty Year...

CASTORI...

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Rheumatism Muscle Colds

"It is easy to use and quick to respond. No work. Just apply. It penetrates without rubbing."

Read What Others Say:

"Have used your Liniment very successfully in a case of rheumatism, and always have a bottle on hand in case of a cold or sore throat. I wish to say I think it one of the best of household remedies. I would not have used it only it was recommended to me by a friend of mine who, I wish to say, is one of the best boosters for your Liniment I ever saw."—J. W. Fuller, Denver, Col.

"Just a line in praise of Sloan's Liniment. I have been ill nearly fourteen weeks with rheumatism, have been treated by doctors who did their best; I had not slept for the terrible pain for several nights, when my wife got me a small bottle of the Liniment and three applications gave me relief so that I could sleep."—Joseph Tamblyn, 615 Converse Street, McKeesport, Pa.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Good for Neuralgia, Sciatica, Sprains and Bruises.

All Dealers 25c.

Send four cents in stamps for a free TRIAL BOTTLE.

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, Inc. Dept. B Philadelphia, Pa.

Hidden defects in Roofing

...ing is not guaranteed by responsible company against the risk of finding defects after it is on the roof. It costs no more to get a roofing with the best reputation behind it.

...terials that last

Certain-teed Roofing

...r product—is guaranteed 5 years for 1-ply and 15 years for 2-ply. We also make lower priced roofing, ...d shingles, building papers, wall ...oor paints, plastic cement, etc. ...ler for products made by us. ...onable in price and we stand

...ofing Manufacturing Co.
...rgest manufacturers of Roofing and Building Papers
Boston Chicago Pittsburgh
Atlanta Cleveland Detroit
...land Kansas City Minneapolis
Seattle London Hamburg Sydney

...cial Denial

...on Homestead Land in Canada

...at a war tax is to be placed on ...nds in Western Canada having ...considerable circulation in the ..., this is to advise all enquirers ...tax has been placed, nor is there ... to place a war tax of any nature ... (Signed) W. D. Scott, Supt. of ... Ottawa, Canada, March 15th, 1915.

...use for Dejection.

"...udder, what am goin' on in ...illage, anynow?"

"...ah, we am celebratin' de ... de oldest citizen one hun...nd ten yeahs old, sah!"

"...t who's de long-faced lookin' ...e her?"

"...t's de son-in-law. He been ...life insuahance on 'er foh de ... yeahs!"—Minneapolis Jour...

...Y A FEW PIMPLES

...More, May Come If You ...Them. Try Cuticura Free.

... Soap and Ointment are ...tive in clearing the skin of ...blackheads, redness, rough...ng and irritation as well as ...e scalp of dandruff, dryness ...g, besides satisfying every ...he toilet and nursery. ...each free by mail with Book. ...postcard, Cuticura, Dept. Y, ...Sold everywhere.—Adv.

...ked Dipper Saves Life.

...Glse, a building contractor ... Pa., resorted to a novel ...o save himself from shoking ...when a piece of meat lodged ...at. Realizing that he would ...ore a physician could ar... grasped a dipper with a ...andle and dislodged the im...but lacerated his throat ...bly.

A Great Scheme.

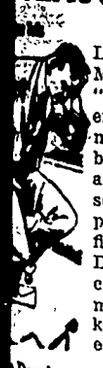
"...are you going to spend your ...vacation?"

"...oing to put it in traveling from ...mer resort to another until I ...worth a million or two who ...loved and married for her...."

...wer the Alarm!

...back makes a day's work twice ... Backache usually comes from ...idneys, and if headaches, dizzi..., urinary disorders are added, ...wait—get help before dropsy, ... Bright's disease set in. Doan's ... Pills have brought new life and ...ength to thousands of working ... women. Used and recommend...world over.

An Iowa Case



Enoch Lewis, 1431 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa, says: "Hard work weakened my kidneys and my back ached so badly I couldn't get around. The kidney secretions scalded in passage and were filled with sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills corrected these ailments and made my kidneys stronger in every way."

Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

...Liver ...logged Up

...Why You're Tired—Out of Sorts ...No Appetite.

...R'S LITTLE ...PILLS

...you right ...days. ...do

...n, Indigestion and Sick Headache ...ALL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. ...ture must bear Signature

Brentwood

...CK LOSSES SURELY PREVENTED ... Cutter's Blackleg Pills. Low-priced, fresh, reliable; preferred by Western stockmen, because they ...ork where other vaccines fail. Write for booklet and testimonials. ...10-dose pkge., Blackleg Pills $1.00 ...50-dose pkge., Blackleg Pills 4.00 ...Use any injector, but Cutter's best. ...Quality of Cutter products is due to over 15 ...years' experience in vaccines and serums only. ...If unobtainable, order direct. ...Laboratory, Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.

...CITY PTG. CO., NO. 14-1915.

HOLY WEEK.

From the Indianapolis News

In the round of days no span of a week marks the fickleness of human nature as does the one drawing to a close The same multitude that cried "Hosanna to the Son of David blessed be He that cometh in the name of the Lord," only a few days later cried "Crucify Him" He was welcomed as a king, and immediately on His entry into the city on Palm Sunday He exercised kingly authority, as when He purified the temple clearing it of hucksters and money changers. His followers today can find few more profitable subjects for meditation than this cleansing of the temple—this calling the people back to the realities of their religion. The days following were crowded with events. The acclaimed King spoke some of His most wonderful parables. He confounded the scholars in several doctrinal controversies, told of His second coming ate the Passover, and instituted the Lord's supper. Finally He was crucified dead and buried"

The week is the most solemn of the Christian year In the life of Him who was a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief" no other days were so burdened with suffering and sadness or so full of the word and act of active benevolence, of declaration of kingship—a kingship which, before the week was ended, was "nailed for our advantage to the bitter cross" It is this consummation that the tune commemorates.

Christianity is essentially a joyous religion and ends with the resurrection Even those who deny the King are not proof against the joyousness that hails the day of His birth But even those who own Him reckon little of His death The world does not often keep death days, though the calendar is studded with the birthdays of men that have left their impress on their time Christ's death means as much to the world as His birth Memories such as those that cluster about the crucifixion ought to be very precious to Christians They draw the human heart for a brief season to a contemplation of the suffering that has made its joy wholesome, and that, when truly realized by the heart, must chasten and purify it

COLORING EASTER EGGS.

The coloring of eggs for Easter is an old, old custom Anciently the grown ups presented these eggs to each other, the children coming in for a share, but in modern times these favors have been in this country at least, almost exclusively for the children. The ease with which these Easter eggs are now colored, by means of aniline dyes, detracts, no doubt, from the pomp and circumstance that attended the coloring of these Easter favors in the days of our grandmothers when the dyeing was done with logwood, indigo and madder Now and then a grandmother with finer artistic sense would sew the eggs into bits of fadable calico, from which would be printed some rare and radiant Dolly Varden patterns which were a delight to look upon Such treasures were often cherished in the household, displayed in a dish on the parlor mantelpiece for weeks and months to be shown to visitors, that they might marvel at grandmother's wondrous art. And at the end of this time, as there must be an end to everything, these long kept trophies were regretfully fed to old dog Tray, ever faithful.

Years ago it was customary in some Sunday schools to provide great quantities of colored eggs for Easter to be given to the children It took no small amount of time and care to prepare this donation, as beside the color each egg was to bear upon its side a brief bible text written through the color with a pen dipped in acid This removed the color and the letters of the text showed up in gleaming white.

In England, in the quaint old town of Chester, the Pace or Pask eggs (from the French word Pasque for Easter) going back almost to the time of William the Conqueror were not forgotten Then, as now, the eggs were boiled very hard in water colored with red, blue or violet dyes, and inscriptions were written upon them An old chronicle says "Eggs were always in such demand at that season that they always rose greatly in price"—which would indicate that the law of supply and demand was in full vigor even at that early time and even without the meretricious aid of the storage house and the middleman

The same chronicle notes that "boys played with eggs as balls, for ball playing on Easter Monday was engaged in by every rank, even the clergy could not forego its delights and made this game a part of their service Bishops and deans took the ball (or egg) into the church and at the beginning of the antiphone began to dance, throwing it to the choristers, who handed it to each other during the time of the dancing and antiphone."

At an Easter Wedding.

Reginald Vanderbilt said at a pre-Easter wedding in New York

"How interesting it would be if we could know how all these pretty weddings came about' Often, no doubt, the girls themselves brought them about, unless, indeed, the man was too inordinately dense, like Travers.

"Travers met a pretty girl last winter in Bermuda. He danced with her, he wheeled with her for strawberries and cream, and he bathed with her in the pretty blue pool with its lining of azure tiles.

"But he didn't propose Was he too bashful? The girl, at any rate, one afternoon in a tea garden, offered to read his fture, and holding his big brown hand in her slim white one, she murmured, as her fingers moved delicately across his palm

"'This line indicates that before you lies—happiness'

She paused, with downcast eyes But nothing followed The young man sat beside her, grinning sheepishly Her lip curled in disdain, and she added in a clear, cold voice

"'But this other line indicates that you'll never overtake that future. You are too slow'"

New Uses For Skimmed Milk.

From the Pathfinder.

A process has been developed by an American inventor for using skimmed milk in the manufacture of moving picture films. This material can also be used for making buttons, piano keys, "French ivory," toilet articles, etc. The process converts skimmed milk into a material similar to celluloid, which is capable of being manipulated, colored and worked in various ways

Shrewd Old Man.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"You're an old married man. What do you do when your wife begins to scold?"

"Encourage her. I talk back—discreetly, of course. I say tantalizing things. I make foolish excuses. I stammer and get husky"

"But doesn't that make her a good deal madder?"

"Of course it does. That's the intention. I want her to get so mad that she won't have any voice left to ask me for money"

"Gee! I wonder if I'll ever get as hardened as that!"

Don't Forget!

An eminent physician lays down these simple rules for better health:

1.—Drink lots of water. 2.—Eat slowly. 3.—Chew your food well. 4.—Have plenty of chewing gum on hand. Use it shortly after meals and chew until the "full" feeling disappears.

Be sure of the Perfect Gum in the Perfect Package—made clean, kept clean, sealed against all impurities:

WRIGLEY'S

The Wrigley Spearmen want to help you remember these beneficial, long-lasting aids to teeth, breath, appetite and digestion. So they have done all the old Mother Goose "stunts" to the "tune" of the new Wrigley jingles. Their book is 28-pages in four colors. It's free. Send for your copy today. Address

WM. WRIGLEY JR. CO.
1318 Kesner Building
Chicago

UNITED PROFIT-SHARING COUPONS

Save the Coupons! Get the Premiums!

510

Not an Owner.

"Do they own an auto?"

I don't think so. His hands seem to be fairly clean"

IMMENSE QUANTITY OF WHEAT TIED UP

There Will Still, However, Be a Heavy Deficit of the World's Normal Crop.

A grain expert who has been watching the grain markets and the world's grain fields for a number of years, says:—

"There is at the present time about two billion bushels of wheat, the production of the countries at war, tied up. This is about one-half the world's total production of wheat, which is four billion bushels. One writer argues that, granting that the warring nations produce a one-half crop in the coming year, a deficit of one billion bushels will still be shown. The three countries upon which the filling of this deficit of one billion bushels will rest are the United States, Canada, and Argentina. The combined output of these three countries is only 1,249,000,000, their exportable surplus would of course be much less, so it can easily be seen that the question is not one to be easily solved and it behooves all the above countries to increase their respective productions as much as they possibly can, for when the war is over and trade begins to re-establish itself and the nations undergo a process of rehabilitation, the demand for all breadstuffs will be enormous.

"During the three years following the declaration of peace the farmers of all neutral wheat-producing countries will have ample opportunity to market their wheat at good prices, and it may safely be assumed that the demand will be heavy. Canada has an unusual opportunity in that she has the natural environment for wheat production, she is under the protection of the British flag, and she will not be molested upon the water to any great extent; she can increase her acreage and greatly enhance her production. In other words, she can become a far greater wheat-producing country than she is at the present time."

If the summing-up as made by this expert be correct, is there not the very best reason for the continued effort that is being made by the Government of the Dominion of Canada to secure settlers on the productive vacant lands of the country? Not only are these lands capable of producing high class wheat in large quantities, but cattle, pigs, sheep and horses also do well. The climate is admirably suited. —Advertisement.

The chances are that the man in a great hurry may be trying to get away from something.

Europe Loses Sweet Tooth.

The girls they left behind them when the British Tommy, his French colleague and his German enemy went off to the war suffered a good deal more than has been supposed up to this time.

The candy export figures from this country prove it. Europe curtailed the bean supply of the United States when Austria's exports were stopped. Now America has retaliated by reducing the quantity of candy sent to the old world

The first five months of the war caused a decrease of $153,823 in value of candy exports from the United States, as compared with the same period of the year before. The value of the total exports of candy for the calendar year was $1,185,894

OTTUMWA MAN'S STOMACH TROUBLE QUICKLY RELIEVED

T. H. Lewis Tells How He Was Quickly Restored by a Single Bottle.

Thomas H Lewis of 1102 West Second Street, Ottumwa, Ia., was a sufferer from stomach ailments. He took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and got quick relief.

The very first dose convinced him. Mr Lewis wrote.

"I received your remedy and wish to state that it is wonderful The first bottle made me feel better than I have felt in years. Would be glad to recommend it to anybody who needs a stomach remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—Adv.

The Outside of the Cup.

Aunt Mittie Mills enjoyed a wide reputation among her acquaintances for all the household virtues. She was as neat as the proverbial pin. Once, however, in order to sustain that reputation, she admitted resorting to deception.

A neighbor, an intimate friend, passing her home, discovered her industriously scrubbing her piazza floor, and sought an explanation.

"I thought," said Aunt Mittie, catching a breath, 'if passers-by see this piazzy clean they wouldn't suspect how my kitchen looks."—Youth's Companion

Didn't Break Her Word.

"Maud married! Why only last June she told me she wouldn't marry the best man that walks the earth."

"That's all right; the man she married rides in an automobile."

The Kind.

"The politicians are looking in the campaign barrel and licking their chops."

"That's because they're pork chops."

The Man's View.

Penelope—My book of dancing rules says, "Don't hold the lady too close."

Percival—Impossible!—Judge

Nightly coughing and torturing throat-tickle quickly relieved by Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops—5c at all Druggists.

The man who doesn't secure the services of that great teacher, experience, may live to a green old age.

His Tour.

"That man never seems to stay long at any one place. What is he doing, anyway?"

"He is helping to take a census of the birds."

"Oh, that accounts for his being constantly on the wing."

Mediocre talent properly advertised will discount genius every time.

Polarine

Let It Stand Between Your Motor and Deterioration

Hundreds of thousands of motorists in the Middle West alone—all won to POLARINE in the last seven years—know the protection, the efficiency and the pleasure resulting from this scientifically perfect lubricating oil.

Do YOU know this oil?

—an oil sufficiently fluid to lubricate and completely cover the remotest friction surface.

—an oil of maximum durability and correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

—an oil that pays back its cost, not only by saving repairs but by maintaining a high resale value for your car.

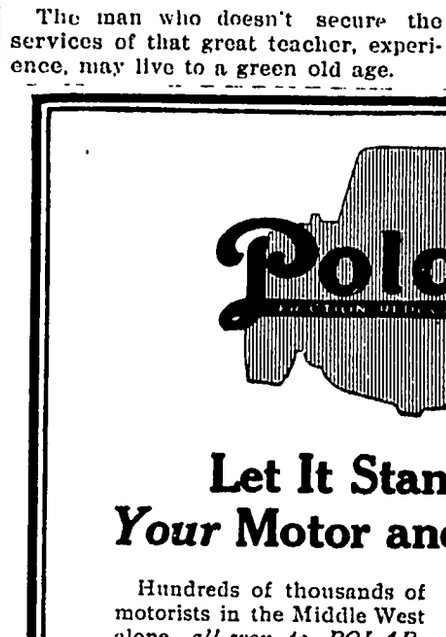
Why experiment?—when the greatest of all specialists in matters of lubrication have experimented for you. Use Polarine.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (AN INDIANA CORPORATION) Chicago, Ill.

Use RED CROWN Gasoline. It means More Power, More Speed, More Miles per Gallon

(334)



Canada is Calling You to her Rich Wheat Lands

She extends to Americans a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help to feed the world by tilling some of her soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think what you can make with wheat around $1 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. Military service is not compulsory in Canada but there is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

J. M. MacLachlan, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.;
W. V. Bennett, 220-17th St., Room 4, Fee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents

Annnouncement

We are now ready for business. Prior to this date we were unable to make an announcement on account of the non-arrival of our counters and other fixtures, but we have received same and we are now prepared to take care of our customers. You will find us located one door west of First National Bank in a fine new one-story brick building—you can't miss it.

We have one of the finest lines of Groceries, Dry Goods,

Shoes, and Hardware

Including Paints, Oils, Hand Power and Electric Washers. All we ask of you is to give us a trial, our goods and prices are right,

Our Motto: "We Aim To Please."

J. W. Waterman & Son

Announcement

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

There's Something about Spring and the Coming of Easter that Maees Everybody Want New Things. The World takes sort of a New Start; Cleans Up; Everything Fresh.

THAT'S WHY WE TALK NEW CLOTHES TO YOU KNOW. YOU MUST SEE THE NEW VARSITY FIFTY FIVE A VERY STYLISH NEW DESIGN BY

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Not Only Suits but Furnishings, Hats and Caps, Newest Things in Shirts, Correct Styles in Shoes. All are Here. You ought to come in See Them.

GET TO KNOW

GILDNER BROS. & JOHNSON

GARNER, IOWA

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living. Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today. A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay. Demand "5-Drops." Don't accept anything else in place of it. Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Newark, Ohio, and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent you.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

CALL AND SEE THE

ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

HORSES CLIPPED

All those who have Horses they wished clipped this spring, bring them in and we will do the work right and promptly.

City Livery Barn

Rock Island Scenic Circle Tours

The Expositions in California—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego, and the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, offer the greatest opportunity ever presented to the American people to see something of their own country.

Choice of routes, with a number of limited trains to choose from, including the famous "Golden State Limited," "Rocky Mountain Limited" and "Californian." Low fares for round trip. Liberal stopover privileges. Long return limit.

Get a copy of our folder on the Panama Expositions. Tells you how to go and what you can see.

Our representatives are travel experts who will help you plan a wonderful and an economical outing, give you full information and look after every detail of your trip.

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

Rock Island

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

LOCAL ITEMS

Few Thoroughbred Pekin drakes for sale. Mrs. G. O. Miner.

A. H. Yahnke transacted business at Buffalo Center, Monday.

Potatoes For Sale—Early Ohios and Rurals. Ed. G. Ell.

Now is the time to buy your poultry remedies. Ed. G. Ell.

Chickozone the best chicken dope on the market. Ed. G. Ell.

WANTED:—Some milk cows and steers. Phone 106. John Coobs.

Rev. Witter went to Mason City, Tuesday, to assist in special meetings.

P. M. Griesemer transacted business at Charles City and Garner this week.

The Misses Gail and Esther Bloom are home from Ellsworth College to spend the Easter vacation.

J. P. Larsen and A. F. Hubbard departed Thursday for Dallas, South Dakota, on a business mission.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place. Chas. F. Busch

POTATOES FOR SALE:—
Early Ohios, 65c. Rurals, 50c
Ed. G. Ell.

FOR SALE—Sharples Cream Separator, in good condition, $25.
29 tf Wm. H. Milligan.

We will pay car fare to all Goodell purchasers. Mrs. John Josten, Milliner.

FOR SALE—Some old machinery left from sale, at right price.
A. Caroles.

Mrs. C. Quandt and children came up from Belmond, Saturday, for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank.

Mrs. Fred Daum and daughter, Arline, of Buffalo Center, are here for a visit at the J. N. Day and Wm. X. Smith homes.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate.—J. P. Larsen & Sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ell returned to their home at Mason City, Saturday after a weeks visit with their son, Ed. G. and other relatives.

Mrs. George Schroeder and Mrs. Charles Schroeder and daughter departed last week for New Albion, for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. L. Powell is enjoying a visit from her daughter, Miss Muzelle, and her sons, Harry and Charles, who are here to spend the Easter vacation

Walter Lau and Oscar Musfelt left for Minneapolis, Wednesday, where they will visit relatives for a week. They will also visit at Walnut Grove and Tracy, Minnesota.

Casey Blank returned Saturday from Chicago, where he has been attending school and went to Belmond, Thursday, here he has accepted a position in the electric light plant.

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you.
Dr. R. W. Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia.

Rex Bowen who was very well, known here, died at his home in Garner, Sunday morning. He had been ailing for the past two years and death came as a relief to his suffering. A number of his young Klemme friends were up to Garner, Tuesday to attend the funeral and pay their respects at the last sad rites.

The largest, prettiest and best display of trimmed hats in Klemme. We have every conceivable shape and and a wonderful variety of styles. We can please you no matter how hard you are to please. A call will convince you. Our prices will suit you. Mrs. John Josten.

Ira S. Sankey, Herman Murray, Homer Rice, Mike and Wm. Dore and Charles Moore all of Louisburg, Kansas, arrived Tuesday and will work here during the summer. The three latter named worked here last year. They are a mighty fine bunch of young men and some of them are going to prove mighty handy in band and base ball circles.

Philip Gorkow who has been assisting in the Times office during the past winter departed Friday for Hayfield, where he will work during the summer months. This leaves us rather short handed which this weeks paper will show. Philip developed into a very handy man to have around a print shop during his short stay with us and we were sorry to have him leave. He was also a very proficient cornetist and will be greatly missed by the band.

C. A. Larsen and Ed. Jeffers were among the later ones of the Klemme contingent to attend the Mason City Auto Show last week. Ed expected to contract for a car but could not find any with the following requirements: A beautiful car with a cymbeline body, dispatch and denounceable rims, epileptic springs, eclectic starter, infernel expanding brakes, autocratic wind shield, black untrammeled headlights, interval power plant, flash jubilation, three-point indention, three speeds horrid and one perverse, amateur on the dashboard, aggravated ebony rim on the steering wheel, copellerator throttle peddler, sanitary transition, jump-spark intuition, jimpson bearings, a set o'lean gas primers and all other excessories.

Dangerous Bridges.

According to the Engineering Record, many states have a large number of inferior bridges, of both wood and steel. The town and county officials who have the bridges and highways in charge often put off needed repairs to the bridges, because they prefer to spend the money at their disposal in improving the surface of the roads—work that the public is much quicker to notice and praise them for. Merely from the point of view of safety it is wise to improve no road until every bridge on it is put into proper shape, for smooth, metaled roadways and weak, poorly maintained bridges form a dangerous combination. In cases in which the road commissioners have little control over the bridges the conditions are likely to be even more dangerous. Putting so much of the money into the bridges rather than into the roads may not be practicable in every case; but in every case enough money should be put into the bridges to make them safe beyond question.

Debt Liquidated.

"Well, I've settled that there note I've been owin' Jack Gap for so long!" triumphantly stated a prominent citizen of the neighborhood of Rumpus Ridge. "That so?" returned another and equally prominent resident of the same locality. "Where'd you git the money?" "Aw, it didn't take no money! I just shot Gap."—Judge.

Acquiring an Education.

Nobody ever drifted into an education. Conscious effort to direct one's reading and thinking into the best channels is an absolute requisite. Choice must be made of books, of friends and of pleasures. One cannot read trash and think literature.—Amos R. Wells.

A Talk About Groceries

It's easy enough to claim that this grocery store is the best within your reach. Claiming so doesn't make it so. But as a matter of fact we not only claim it, but we back up our claim with the facts.

We are receiving Fresh Groceries every day, and we are buying only Reliable Groceries that will appeal to your discriminating taste. You will always get full weight and first-class grades at this store.

The High Cost of Living

Can be avoided to a great extent by careful, intelligent marketing. Good wholesome, nourishing food staples, are but little higher than they ever were. From our stocks the table can be provided with food to suit all the family, with variety to suit the varying tastes, and at the most moderate price. Come to us and let us point you to the way of economical and satisfactory living.

A Safe Place To Trade

J. N. DAY

Progressive Newspaper
Most Progressive
Town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX NUMBER 31 KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1915. $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department
Our earned Surplus of

$15,000.00

is proof of the success of this policy

It is the business of our bank to investigate the SECURITY of investments.

Whether you be banking with us yet or not. come in see us if you wish our opinion on any deal you figure making.

We wish to see EVERYONE in this community live and prosper and without charge shall take pleasure advising with you.

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interst on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00
Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

Every Farmer
Should Have Printed Stationery

We are prepared to do your printing in a prompt and neat manner and at a right price.

Come and see us the next time you are in town.

The Times Printery

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON
OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109
X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

THER ROOST OR BOOST

KNOCKING DOES NOT PAY ANY DIVIDENDS

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Washington, D. C.—Few people realize how many women hire out on farms for field labor. In this country there are a million and a half field workers, more than all the women dressmakers, milliners, women tailors, hat, cap, collar, cuff and shirt workers combined

Turbotville, Pa.—William Grittner, a shoe dealer, fitting a shoe on John Barlow, a customer, grasped the upper and bade Barlow "push hard." Barlow pushed hard, Grittner's grasp slipped, the heel of the new shoe struck Grittner's body, breaking three ribs and causing internal injuries

Montgomery, W Va Bob Ross, State prisoner, working on the highway in Kangwha County, has tendered to Governor Hatfield an offer to serve out the time of his friend, Ed. Adkins, if the Governor will give Adkins a pardon Adkins is now ill in a local hospital. Adkins' time will be up in 90 days. Ross' in 10

Chicago, Ill The health department has just discovered the source of the great quantities of dust which in spite of the clean streets, fill the air on windy days From the roofs of three down-town buildings fourteen wagonloads of dirt and rubbish more than was swept from four and one half miles of streets were removed one day last week Hereafter the roofs of all buildings must be kept clean

Piedmont, W Va A family passed through Piedmont on a Baltimore & Ohio train last week consisting of twenty-one members. The father was 38 years old, the mother 36 years and there were nine pairs of twins. Fourteen of the children passed free, being under the age limit

YOUNG CHICKS RATIONS

Suggestions for Feeding Them During First Week of Their Growth

No one ration for chicks can be recommended as best for all conditions, but the following has been used at the poultry farm at Iowa State college with good results·

Cracked Grains.

Grain ration "A" fed first 8 weeks. Cracked corn, 2 parts, cracked wheat, 1, steel cut oat meal, 1.

Grain ration "B" fed after the 8th. week. Coarsely cracked corn, 2 parts wheat 1, oats, 1

Fed twice daily in litter from one to six inches deep

Groun Feed

Mash ration "C" fed first two weeks. Stale bread, 3 parts, oat meal, 3; eggs (tested from incubator), 4; bran, 1½; corn meal 1½, ground bone, ½.

Mash ration "D" fed after the second week. Corn meal, 3 parts; wheat middlings or high grade shorts, 2; wheat bran, 1; beef scrap, 1; ground oats. 1; ground bone, ½; salt, 1,10.

Ground feed made moist with sour milk and beef scrap and meat meal fed in hoppers

No feed is given to chicks until they are from 48 to 60 hours old because they are hatched with much food in their digestive tracts.

EAST ELL

Florence Groves spent Sunday at the home of her parents.

Miss Frieda Lemke who is working at the E. J Arnold home spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs H E. Lemke. .

The party at Thrun's was very well attended and everyone had a very nice time.

Albert Kraus spent Sunday east of town.

AVERY CENTER

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Brugman visited relatives at Belmond, Sunday.

Miss Nettie Bachman visited with relatives at Lake Mills the latter part of the week.

Miss Lulu Wilkins visited with her brother Fred over Sunday.

Miss Florence Groves is spending her vacation at home.

Miss Henrietta Meinderts went to Belmond. Monday, to work for Mrs. C. E. Longley.

Miss Shirley Griggs began her spring term at Ell No. 7, Monday.

Miss Maude Wilkins is suffering with an attack of the mumps. Florence is taking charge of her school.

Jerald Tracy of Belmond visited with his sister, Mrs. L. J. Brugman, the first of the week.

H. W. KASTNER DIES

Father of Mrs, Auchampach Passes Away at Ventura Last Friday

The people of this community were grieved last Friday when the news was passed around that H. W. Kastner, father of Mrs. Berry Auchanpach, had passed away that day at his home in Ventura. Mr. Kastner had been very ill since early last fall when he underwent an operation for the removal of a cancer and very little hopes were entertained for his recovery at that time Mr Kastner was born at Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, December 25, 1858, and passed away Friday, April, 2nd, 1915 at his home in Ventura, being 57 years, 8 months and 23 days old at the time of his death He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, and three children. Mrs. Frank Auchampach of Grove City, Minnesota, Mrs. Bert Auchampach of this place and William who is at home. The funeral services were held at the U B church in Ventura, Sunday afternoon at 3·00 o'clock being in charge of Rev. Cooper and the remains were laid to rest in the Ventura cemetery. Mr. Kastner had a host of friends in this community who sympathize with the bereaved in their loss.

ROTATE POTATO CROP

Yield is Decreased Seriously by Continuous Cropping

"Don't try to grow potatoes this year in ground that was in potatoes last year" That is one bit of potato wisdom that Prof. A. T. Erwin of the Iowa experiment station says ought to be followed by every man in Iowa who expects to grow potatoes this year. One of the mistakes that pulls down the potato yield in Iowa is the mistake of putting this crop onto the same ground year after year The result is that the soil becomes potato sick, making the yield low and quality poor. Another imporant step that ought to be considered by potato growers is the treatment of seed for scab. It is a very simple operation to soak potatoes in a solution of formalin and the expense is light, for one pint of good formalin will treat 20 bushels of seed. Dilute this pint of formalin with 30 gallons of water and soak the potatoes for two hours. It is also important that Iowa potato growers limit themselves to several outstanding varities. Those who grow potatoes for market in large quantities find no greater obstacle to satisfactory selling than lies in indiscriminate mixture in potato varieties. The experiment station has found that the three outstanding varieties for Iowa planting are Rural, Early Ohio and Irish Cobbler. The following are also grown in Iowa to a greater or less extent: Green Mountain, Burbank, Peerless or Pearl and Bliss Triumph.

GOODELL

Dennis Conlan spent Sunday with Belmond friends.

L. Wilson went to Belmond Monday where he will do carpenter work.

Dave Kinler who has spent the past year here moved to Kanawha recently.

Harry Bonswell from Klemme was a caller here Tuesday.

Mrs. Jay Buchanan came up from Belmond Wednesday to visit her parents.

Mr. Blomgren from Kanawha autoed over to visit friends here Friday.

Ed. Cashman came down from Hayfield Saturday to visit relatives over Sunday.

Mrs. W. P. Church and grandson Cyril were Garner callers Saturday.

John Savogue and Wm. Knisley went to Belmond Sunday to attend an I. O. O. F. funeral.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, praire lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us, are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

¶ We will be pleased to meet those who contemplate making a bankinff change or opening a new account.

¶ As custodians of public funds we assure safety first and endeavor to render to our customers every legitimate aid in keeping with reasonable banking. You will find efficient and courteous service as a depositor and we extend our good will and advice to prospective customers as well.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank,
Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

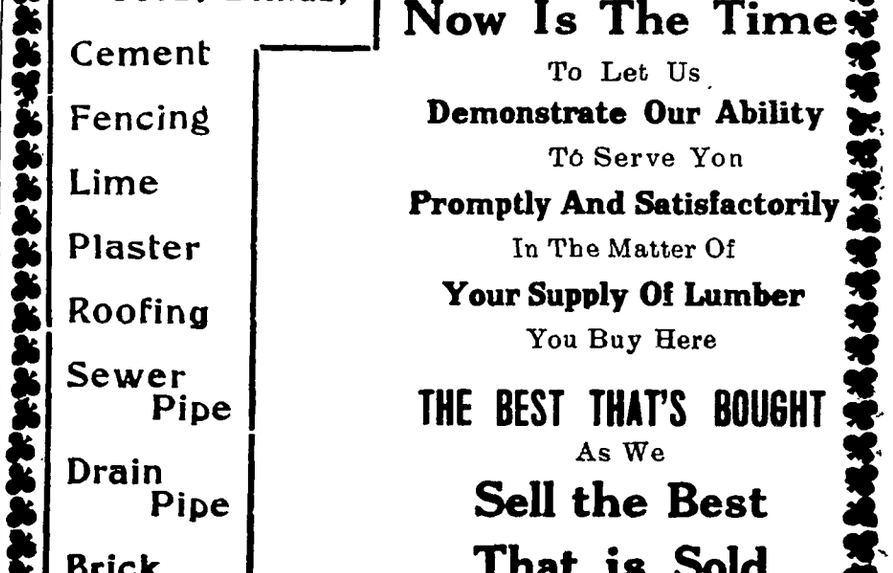
Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us
Demonstrate Our Ability
To Serve Yon
Promptly And Satisfactorily
In The Matter Of
Your Supply Of Lumber
You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT
As We
Sell the Best That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent NORTHERN LUMBER CO.



Spades
Rakes
Hoes

FOR THE GARDEN

Weeders
Sprinklers
Seeds, Etc.

Garden time's HERE. See us for all kinds of tools. We carry a BIG NEW STOCK of GARDEN IMPLEMENTS at LOWEST PRICES in town. We also carry everything in TOOLS and HARDWARE. Satisfaction or money back.

J. W. WATERMAN & SON

BUTTER AND EGGS SAME AS CASH

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

London is one of the greatest fur markets of the world, and it is claimed that a year's auction sales in that capital often amount to more than $20,000,000. Many curious incidents and caprices of the London market are recorded For instance, ever since the middle ages ermine has been the fur of royalty, and it is still used in the trimming of the state garments of kings and queens. In time, however, it fell into disfavor with women of fashion, White ermine skins became so cheap that the Candian, Siberian and Chinese hunters no longer sent them to market About 20 years ago, however, the word went around from some mysterious fashionable source that ermine should once more be the mode. Whereupon all the buyers began to demand ermine skins, and the price went up to a high figure. As might be expected, the market was soon glutted. Chinese hunters sent to London no fewer than 10,000 ermine skins in the spring of one year. And then they promptly went out of fashion again. The ermine is white, with the exception of the tail, which is black. These tips, dressed with the white fur at regular intervals, make the spotting of black which is seen on state garments of ermine. Among the costliest of furs in the Siberian zibeline or sable, an animal which is said to be rapidly nearing the point of extermination. This little creature, known to science as mustela zibeline, is about 18 inches long, with a bushy tail and a sharp, whiskered nose. It has a remarkably rich fur dark brown or black, and very lustrous. The imperial court at Petrograd has always demanded that the finest of the zibelines be reserved for its use. They are known as "crown zibelines"

The newer German naval and military airships of the Zeppelin and Parseval model are equipped with wireless apparatus of much greater power than ever before. The wireless impulses are diffused and received by an aerial made of a three-millimeter phosphor-bronze wire that, as the airship rises is unwound from a spool to its full length of 750 feet, and that when the airship is aloft floats freely in the air The apparatus itself is very compact, with its small dynamo it weighs 270 pounds. It has a minimum range of 120 miles and can produce wireless waves from 1,000 to 4,000 feet long According to the Wireless World, every large aerodrome in Germany has its wireless station, those at important centers like Johannisthal, Cologne, Friedrichshafen, Frankfort and Mannheim are very powerful. Taken together they form a continuous ring round the borders of Germany, and keep German airships in constant touch with a German base. They also serve as a sort of wireless compass, for they enable the navigating officers when out of sight of land to fix their position with more than a fair degree of accuracy.

The Aero Club of America has officially indorsed the suggestion to send an aeroplane fleet to the rescue of Stefansson, the explorer, who, with several members of his party are lost in the arctic regions It is proposed to fit out a suitable boat which will locate at a point in the Alaskan waters, and from which base daily trips by aeroplane will be made In the course of the month which would be available for work of this kind, a thorough exploration of the whole area within which the Stefansson party should be will be made and the members rescued, if yet alive The project has been endorsed by several arctic explorers, who seem to think that it is feasible and the air experts are very keen to make this test of the aeroplane The cost of the expedition is estimated at $110,000, and an effort will be made to raise this amount a large part of which has been pledged conditionally

Toothache was not an incident of campaigning with which ancient armies had to reckon. The silence of the classics certainly seem to indicate that the Greeks and Romans suffered very little from their teeth. Words for toothache and for teeth extracting instruments can, indeed, be found in the Greek and Latin dictionaries, but the authors quoted for them are generally late and always uninteresting We can hardly believe that if toothache had been common in Athens, Airstophanes would have made no jokes about it. But a classical scholar may pretty safely be defined to cite a single Greek or Latin passage about it Even Lucretius, when he gets on to the subject of teeth in a passage where a reference to toothache might be expected, merely refers to the iar given to the teeth by very cold water or by biting a stone in one's bread.

The "doubles" of geographical nomenclature are endless. They may be partly accounted for by the tendency of all people to assign place names to something with which they are familiar The Galicia to which our eyes are turned now, takes its name from the town of Halicz, but the Hungarian king who annexed the region at the end of the Twelfth century called himself "Rex Galatiae"—presumably recalling the country in Asia Minor, known to us through St. Paul's epistle. And now we call this country by the same name as the northwestern corner of Spain once inhabited by the Callaici or Gallaeci And close by are the Carpathian mountains which have no connection with the Carpathian sea, tho part of the Mediterranean near Rhodes named after the island of Carpathus.

While tearing up the floor in his library to install a lighting system, S. B Hanks, a farmer living near Decatur, Ill., found the partition below packed with honey, some almost black with age Holes bored in the floors of the other rooms showed that practically all the floors were full of honey Hanks said that for the last 20 years bees had found their way into the walls through the ventilators and had never been disturbed

The Rt. Hon Thomas Burt, who rose from pit boy to privy councilor, and who is known as "the father of the house of commons," is to retire on account of his age. At the age of 10 he went to work in a mine and remained a miner until he was 25. He was elected to the house of commons as a liberal in 1874, and has been a member ever since. He is 77 years old and is loved and respected throughout England.

John A. Rupert-Jones, R N R., who will accompany the international oceanographic expedition on the longest voyage for scientific research ever undertaken was formerly engaged in hydrographical work for the British admiralty He has written several works on ocean survey and deep sea soundings.

Sometimes at the birth of a Japanese baby a tree is planted, which must remain untouched until the marriage of the child When the nuptial hour arrives the tree is cut down and a skilled cabinet maker transforms the wood into furniture for the house of the young people.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS NOT GOING TO FATHER "NEAR BEER" SYSTEM

No Consolidation Effected at Conference Held to Decide Party Attitude.

Des Moines Ia., April 3.—If the proposal to permit manufacture of "near beer" goes through the Iowa legislature it will not be as an open and notorious republican measure At least it is claimed that no agreement was made at an extended conference held last night to consider the "near beer" question from the standpoint of party welfare. It is stated today that the "drys" and "wets" will continue to vote their individual sentiments.

Some of the republican leaders imbibed the notion that it would be a "fine thing" to get behind the "near beer" bill as a party attitude, thus drawing support of the liberal element without arousing special hostility from the prohibition forces. On closer analysis the idea did not seem so brilliant, at least to some of the members, and there is doubt about any extended support for the mild malt product

Two attempts were made to take straw ballots to get a line on the situation but both failed. Members of the legislature were willing to express their views, but not to vote before roll call or pledge their votes.

Among those who attended the conference outside of the legislators were Charles A. Rawson, republican state chairman, Attorney General Cosson. Ed Cunningham, speaker of the house in the Thirty-fifth assembly, and Harvey Ingham.

SENATE REGISTERS AGAINST JOHNSTON HIGHWAY BILL

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—Supporters of the Johnston highway bill, a measure which had passed the house, lost out yesterday afternoon in the attempt to get this bill on the senate calendar as a substitute for the senate committeived 15 votes, with 35 in opposition ceived 15 votes, with 35 in oposition. The Johnston bill abolishes the highway commission and substitutes a state engineer, with actual experience in highway work

The vote came after an all-day debate, one of the most spirited during this session of the legislature. D C Chase, of Hamilton county, offered the substitute as soon as Nicholas Balkeman, chairman of the committee, had finished telling what the provisions in the committee bill are

In his speech Chase made a bitter attack on the state college at Ames. He declared it always had been given an advantage over the state university in appropriations, that it always has better presidents than the university, and that, through the highway commission, extension courses and the like, a political system has been built up over the state.

If the senate passes the committee bill that measure must go to the house, where it will be referred to the sifting committee. That committee is favorable to the commission and probably will report the bill for passage. If by that time the insurgents still are in control of the house they can amend the senate bill, thus forcing the fight to a conference committee.

LOW LANDS INUNDATED IN VICINITY OF MUSCATINE

Muscatine, Ia., April 3 Flood stages which now prevail on the Cedar river have inundated thousands of acres of low land in Muscatine and adjoining counties, cut off all means of travel and communication and endangered life and property Herds of live stock allowed to remain in the lowlands met death in the rapidly rising waters The rise of the river during the early part of the week shattered previous records, a jump of three feet being made in 10 hours on Tuesday. Muscatine is shut off from the west part of the county by the flooded highways and dislocated bridges. Several farmers in efforts to travel along the flooded roadways narrowly escaped drowning when the teams plunged into washouts on the highways. Thousands of dollars will need be expended to place the highways in good repair, it is estimated, and it is expected that fully two weeks will elapse before the water will recede sufficiently to again permit of through travel.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL WANTS EXTENSION FUNDS CONTINUED

Des Moines, Ia. April 3 —The state executive council yesterday issued a statement of available assets and disbursements in connection with the capitol extension act, which was called for by the senate. Senator Chase, who presented the resolution for the statement, was not pleased with the report asserting on the floor that it was merely an argument in favor of the project.

So far $1,011,725.28 has been expended on the capitol grounds. It is estimated that $140,000 additional will be needed to complete the purchase of the property in the zone in addition to the annual allowance.

In closing its report the executive council says

The executive council begs the privilege of suggesting to the senate its very great hope that it will not halt or cripple this great enterprise by reducing the amount provided for it during the next biennium. The law itself, as now written, reduces the amount provided during the last biennium, $315,00 a year, $150,000 per annum is not a burden and not to allow that sum would leave a deplorable condition about the capitol building and subject the state to financial loss under conditions as they now exist.

GOT $300 IN ENGLAND ON ALLEGED BAD CHECK

Council Bluffs, Ia., April 3.—Suit was instituted in the district court here yesterday against George W. Adams, railroad promoter, by the Midland Railroad company, of London, England, to obtain $300 on a check which Adams is said to have cashed at their office in London while there in 1914 trying to float bonds to finance the Iowa and Omaha Short Line railroad. The plaintiff claims payment was refused by the Treynor bank, upon which the check was drawn.

INSURGENTS OF M. B. A. SELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 2.—C D. Shippey, of Oelwein, yesterday was elected president of Modern Brotherhood of America insurgents at the third annual convention held here. Louis Carlis, who has been most active in the insurgent movement, was elected assistant treasurer in addition to his position as secretary. Resolutions adopted censure former insurgent Pres. James H. Hughes for circulating alleged false statements, and also denounce supreme officers for the recent arrest of Carlis.

HOUSE VOTES TO CUT 10-ACRE TRACT FROM STATE CAPITOL PARK

Minor Concession Made to Members Charged With Mission on This Project.

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—The Iowa house yesterday afternoon voted to "lop off" about 10 acres from the broad expanse added to the state capitol grounds by the legislature of two years ago. This concession came about as a check to the Turner bill, which proposed to make a more drastice return to former conditions. When the Turner bill came up on the calendar the Ball bill was substituted and passed by a vote of 66 to 38. The question has not been before the senate.

Extension promoters thought they had the opposition scientifically smothered at this session, and the action of the house yesterday came as something of a shock. The repeal bill, a few days ago, was reported for indefinite postponement and the report was adopted, thus apparently disposing of the measure. The author, however, secured a reconsideration and got his bill placed on the calendar The contest occupied the entire time of the house yesterday afternoon

Elwood, of Howard, offered an amendment providing that the question of selling the tract included in the Ball substitute should be sent to the people for their decision This was defeated by a vote of 53 to 52. An amendment by Lee, of Sac, leaving the sale of the excess grounds to the executive council as to the time of sale was defeated, 53 to 45.

MORE STATE FUNDS FOR CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—State aid for the consolidated schools of the state is increased from $50,000 to $125,000 in a bill by Senator Jones, which passed the senate yesterday The vote was 34 to 1 The number of consolidated schools organized in the last two years has been far in excess of the number anticipated when the state was provided two years ago. If the house concurs in the appropriation renewed efforts will be made in many localities for the centralized schools.

A final effort to repeal the statute of the last general assembly which made county superintendents of schools appointive by presidents of the school boards, instead of elective, will be made in the senate soon. A motion has been filed by Senator Everesmyer to reconsider the vote by which the bill was lost

MAY HAVE SHOT RUSSIAN BUT DID NOT STEAL WHEAT

Mason City, Ia., April 3.—Philo Stephens is a free man once more. Two months ago the sheriff of Aberdeen, S. D., came to this city and with the assistance of Sheriff Marsh soon located Stephens. He was arrested on a warrant accusing him of shooting a Russian It was also told that Stephens had stolen a load of wheat. Stephens didn't seem to care so much for the charge of shooting a Russian, but he protested against stealing the wheat He said that he owned the load of wheat and some fellows tried to get it from him and in the mixup there was some shooting. He has just had his trial at Aberdeen, and the jury after considering the evidence, acquitted him. He has returned to this city where he has been living for some time

ALLEN WITHDRAWS HIS PATENT MEDICINE BILL

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—Senator Allen's bill to write into the statutes the holdings of the supreme court in forbidding sale of certain patent medicines containing alcohol, as well as malts, ran against a snag in the Iowa senate yesterday afternoon The snag was an amendment by Senator Francis Heald to include under the provisions of the law only those beverages and compounds which the federal government classes as intoxicants by levying the internal revenue tax. Heald's proposal was adopted, 27 to 20. Allen immediately asked consent to withdraw the bill, and it was granted As a result he can introduce the bill again Had the senate disposed of the measure in the usual form it could not have been considered again at this session

POLK TOWNSHIP OFFICERS INDORSE JOHNSTON'S BILL

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—Des Moines newspapers which have been clamoring against the Johnston highway bill were given a decisive jolt yesterday afternoon when the township officers and road superintendents of the county, in session here, passed a resolution, without dissent, voicing emphatic approval of the Johnston bill. The resolutions condemned the present law and declared for home rule in matter of local interest. An oral statement by one of the road superintendents expressed the sentiment that farmers and rural road builders are not impressed with the various newspaper assumptions of knowledge on the question of highway improvement "Some of those who do the most agitating," he said, "do not see a country highway once a year"

FAMOUS WOMAN FARMER INCINERATED AT CLINTON

Clinton, Ia., April 3.—"Farmer Mary was burned to death Tuesday night in a bondfire on her big farm near Bulgers Hollow.

Miss Mary Baird, aged 85, who wore men's clothing over women's garments, chewed tobacco and brought hogs to town in a wagon behind spirited horses, was a well known character and a wealthy woman.

Death apparently was due to the fire getting into the bunched feminine clothing under the overalls. Her charred body was found beside the bonfire by her niece.

ALTA—The Alta Commercial club has been reorganized with a membership of 50 members. The officers are as follows President, C. C. Childs; vice president, A. E. Harrison; secretary, R. C. Brogmus, treasurer, N. E. Dahl; directors, Dr. C. F. Sangston, George C. Isbell, C. A. Van Buskirk, Dr. C. W. Ellyson and A. R. Browne, finance committee, Claus Liendlef, N A. Christensen and A. R. Browne.

W. E. AUSMAN PROMOTED IN ILLINOIS CENTRAL SERVICE

Fort Dodge, Ia., April 1.—W. E. Ausman, formerly chief dispatcher at Cherokee for the Illinois Central, has been promoted to a position as train master of the Cherokee, Sioux Falls and Onawa division of the Illinois Central. C. G. Anderson, formerly trick dispatcher, takes the position of chief dispatcher. The appointments take effect today.

Architect Steele's plans for the new Sacred Heart church in this city have been approved, to cost $100,000.

ONLY FOUR PLUMBERS SENTENCED TO ALLOW ECONOMY ON APPEAL

Defense Selects Two and Government Two—One Man Is Granted Release.

Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—Upon the suggestion of Judge Pollock, in federal court today, only four of the 36 plumbers convicted of violating the Sherman anti-trust law were sentenced. They will appeal to the highest court. The judge stated that the expense would be much less than for the 36 to appeal.

The defense selected two men for sentence and the government selectd two. The defense picked the two whom it claims are the least guilty, the government selected two against whom it considered its case the strongest.

J P Cunningham, of Kansas City, and George H Wentz, of Lincoln, selected by the defense, were fined $500 each.

Robert Knauer, of Des Moines, and H. B McCarten, of Dubuque, selected by the government, were fined $1,000 each.

They will appeal at once. E O Wilkerson, of Kansas City, was discharged

HOUSE CONSERVATIVE ON CHANGING LAND TITLE PLAN

Des Moines, Ia. April 2 Iowa needs a new system of land titles, but it must be brought about gradually appears to be the sentiment of the house members as a result of action taken on two important measures before that body

The Greene bill to introduce the Torrens system of perfecting registering and transferring title to real estate in Iowa, was defeated by a vote of 50 for to 34 against

The Kopp bill, to clear up titles to real estate prior to 22 years ago, was passed by unanimous vote.

The Torrens system does away with abstracts and makes the state sponsor for title. Owners of property have their own option as to whether they care to come under the system. Provision is made in the Greene bill for the equity division of the district court to preserve a record of titles to real estate. When title to a piece of land has been properly certified to the court, all there is to a transfer of ownership is to secure a certificate of title from the clerk. The state guarantees the title.

SAYS BANK INSPECTION IN IOWA IS FARCICAL

Des Moines Ia. April 2 —The outstanding feature of the debate preceding the killing of the Jones bill for the inspection of private banks was the utter contempt in which state inspection was held by some of the banker-legislators who spoke

Senator John W Foster of Guthrie county, who championed the cause of the private banker declared that state inspection amounts to nothing. He said inspectors never find out that anything is wrong until after the bank has failed He challenged several senators to name an instance in which crooked bookkeeping or other irregularities had been discovered by a state inspector before it was too late Senator F F Jones, author of the inspection bill, did not object to Foster's estimate of the inspection work done.

CHIEF GUNNER ON F-4 FORMER IOWA RESIDENT

Mason City Ia. April 2 — Chief Gunner Frank Pierard of the ill-fated submarine F-4, was a former resident of this city and married a Mason City girl, Miss Frances Slater They were married in 1911 and twin children, a boy and a girl, were born to them

TWO CITY MANAGER BILLS PENDING IN LEGISLATURE

Des Moines Ia April 2 - Two city manager bills have been passed by the Iowa house and senate, but it will take more than a conference committee to reconcile them Both could be passed and worked without conflict they are so unlike.

The senate passed the bill by Foskett of Page county, which merely legalizes the proceedings of the councils in Bloomfield, Clarinda Chariton and Iowa Falls, where managers have been named. No change in the form of city government is adopted and only cities of 25,000 or less population are included in the law Commission governed cities are exempted.

The McFarlane bill which passed the house, provides for a new form of government by a vote of the people. The council is to be elected by the people and appoints the manager All cities are included in this measure

"DRY" BILL SPECIAL ORDER IN HOUSE NEXT TUESDAY

Des Moines, Ia April 2 —The entire 11 bills comprising the "dry" program for enforcement of the prohibitory law were lumped together in the house and made a special order for next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock

The wets made vigorous objection to the action and personalities were indulged in between Brady of the drys' and Rayburn, of Powkeshiek while the question was being discussed

Rayburn accused Brady of going to sleep when other than his own bills were up for consideration. Brady retorted by accusing Rayburn of attending matinees and neglecting his own bills. There was a lively tilt later in the rear of the house chamber, according to Brady, in which Rayburn accused him of being a liar and threatened to smash his face

The motion for a special order finally was passed on a rising vote, 47 to 36.

MASON CITY—Insult was added to injury when a bunch of yeggs literally "walked off" with the safe from the Standard Oil company office in this city They moved the strong box several blocks, to a quiet spot, and there proceeded to rifle it. They secured $75 in cash and a large amount of 2-cent stamps One suspect has been picked up, but there is little evidence to connect him with the crime.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN PROBABLY ST. JOE RESIDENT

Chariton, Ia., March 31 —The dead body of a strange man was found lying between the rails on the C B. & Q. track near Troy. In his pockets were papers and cards bearing the name of Harry Culver, St. Joseph, Mo. There was also a receipt for dues paid in the Eagle lodge. The members of that order took charge of the remains, which were brought to Chariton, and later they accompanied the body to St Joseph where the parents live

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH IN HOUSE IN EAST DES MOINES

Mother Faints When Unable to Reach Them, After Getting Badly Burned.

Des Moines, Ia., April 1.—Two children, Forest, aged 12, and Rose, aged 9, were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed the home of Charles O'Brien in East Des Moines. Mrs. O'Brien, who was in the back yard when the fire started, was frightfully burned in attempting to rescue the children.

A wall of fire cut them off from escape and she fainted with the wailings of the doomed children ringing in her ears.

O'Brien is ticket agent at the union depot, and Forest and Rose were the only children.

IOWA ELECTION RESULTS.

Mayors were chosen at Iowa elections yesterday as follows

Hampton, C. E. Salisbury; Washington, J D. Glasgow, Maquoketa, F. W. Myatt, Cedar Falls, J. B. Newman; Newton, E. P. Malmburg; Indianola, J J. Orr, Estherville, Mack J. Groves; Webster City, P. M. Banks; Mount Pleasant, Henry Mills, Knoxville, Geo. L. Boydston, New Hampton, E. D. Griffin, Eagle Grove, J. S. Fort; Oelwein, J F Cole, Atlantic, J. G. Burnea, Charles City, J. H. McLeod; Storm Lake, A. R. Biddle; Jefferson, Warren Adams, Clarinda, D. M. Creal; Creston, A. G. Smeltzer; Chariton, J. C. Copeland, Independence, C. E. Purdy, Osceola, Jess Fleming; Tama, J. A. Phillips, Vinton, E. T. Bryant, Toledo, Carl Stiger

LeMars—For mayor, F J Smith, democrat, 594, M. Hilbert, republican, 538. For treasurer, A. Langhout, democrat, 704, John Cooper, republican, 412. For assessor C L. Pinney, democrat, 663; George Lamb, republican, 453. For aldermen at large, J. Pemberton, democrat, 442, J Vollmer, democrat, 488; E. Eastman, republican, 26; J Harker, republican, 670. For alderman, First ward, J. Laners, democrat, 91, N Bryant, republican, 194. For alderman, Second ward, A Thoma, democrat, 93, F. Beattie, republican, 185. For alderman, Third ward, A. Dornbusch, democrat, 248, J Wilters, republican, 183.

Cherokee—The city election here resulted in the election of D. W McNeal over Charles L. Knapp for mayor, by a vote of 490 to 201 For alderman, Second ward R. H Kuhrts was elected over Lloyd Knipe by 103 to 40. The other caucus nominees, Lawrey, for assessor, Brummer, for treasurer; Younger and Morrell, for alderman at large, and Graves, for alderman, First ward, and Scott, Second ward, were elected without opposition. The park commission question carried, 463 to 194.

Sac City—At the municipal election in Sac City, Mayor N O Gishwiller was re-elected mayor over B. G. Perkins; C E. Harding was elected treasurer, and P T Van Patten, assessor For councilmen at large, F G Smith and F C Pontious were chosen The ward councilmen elected were Dr Carl Olson, R. A Lane, A. H. Quail and B. A. Younge.

Fort Dodge—A W Hawley, for mayor, Rasmus Lund and John Abel, for councilmen composed the losing ticket. The vote was Ford, 1,945, Hawley, 1,554, Collins, 1,881, Smith, 1,883; Abel, 1,858, Lund, 1,558. The hot contest which developed brought the biggest vote ever polled here Voting began as soon as the polls opened and continued heavy all day Both forces were well organized and the city was alive with autos carrying voters to the polls. The administration will begin its third term in office Its members compose the original ticket voted into office when the commission form of government was adopted here.

Marshalltown—I S. Millard was re-elected mayor over A. D. Meeker. M. S. McFarland and E T Austin were elected councilmen.

Mason City—T A Potter defeated the incumbent mayor, John Stanton, 2 to 1 L. F Kirk and Gould defeated the present commissioners, W. E. Miller and H E. Stanbery, by equally heavy majorities. The vote for mayor was 1,701 to 840.

Iowa City—With the exception of the re-election of Mayor Koontz by 39 majority, and the placing of two ward aldermen by narrow margins, the republicans swept the city in the election here The election will change the entire regime.

Storm Lake—A. R Biddle was elected mayor over E. L. O'Banion by 16 votes. All councilmen were re-elected.

Boone—At the city election held here, M J Lockard republican, was elected mayor over McBirnie, democrat. Republican councilmen at large were also elected

SUNDAY GOSPEL TEAM SPENDS DAY AT SAC CITY

Sac City Ia April 1 Between 50 and 60 persons responded to the invitation of the Billy Sunday gospel team at the various meetings held in Sac City, Sunday The team comprised John L. Bleakly, D. R. Guthrie, Isaac Wilkinson, L. E. Vallandingham, Miss Pearl DeJarrette, Earl VanFleet, and Miss Helen Hillman, all of Des Moines. They came in response to an invitation from the four leading churches of the city

The auditoriums at each of the churches were well filled at the morning services, members of the team occupying the various pulpits and taking a prominent part at the Sunday school sessions. Mass meetings for men and for women were largely attended, more than 300 men listening to an address by Mr Wilkinson, a Sunday "trail hitter"

VICTIM OF GRAFTERS KILLS HIMSELF AT GRAVE OF SON

Cherokee Ia., April 1.—An inmate of the state hospital, while out for a walk, found the body of M. G. Snord. He had shot himself near the grave of his son and the body probably had been there over 24 hours.

This is the man who lost a considerable sum of money while enjoying the gay life of Sioux City.

LYON COUNTY MAY SHOW SMALL POPULATION, LOSS

George, Ia., March 30.—Lyon county may show a small loss in population. Larchwood reports 367 inhabitants, whereas in 1910 it had 393. In 1900 it had 365. This is a loss of 26 for this year's count. Sioux township gained 18 George's last count was 606 and Assessor Rudolff now has a few more than 700 counted This town will gain about 100 Little Rock is also growing, and Rock Rapids expects around 2,400 If the county passes the 15,000 mark it will be the growth in the towns that saves the day.

IOFFRE PREDICTS EARLY CESSATION OF EUROPEAN WAR

French Commander-in-Chief and King Albert of Belgium Agree Victory For Allies Is Now In Sight.

PEACE TALK WON'T DO

Petrograd Paper Learns Emperor of Austria Has Appealed to Pope to Use Influence With Kaiser.

Paris, April 5 General Joffre predicted a speedy termination of the war in victory for the allies according to a dispatch from Dunkirk, published today in the Eclair The dispatch from Dunkirk reads

"General Joffre the French commander in chief in the course of his visit to Belgian offices to decorate certain Belgian officers with the Legion of Honor, told King Albert and Premier De Broqueville that the war soon would come to an end to the advantage of the allies"

Petrograd, April 5 The Russian Slovoe returns today to the subject of the alleged Austrian peace overtures. The paper asserts that the Austrian emperor or appealed through the pope to the Kaiser William's obstinate desire to continue the war, but that this method has failed and that he is now trying through the same medium in Petrograd to secure a separate peace, offering to surrender Bosnia Herzegovina and Galicia.

RUSSIANS ARE BREAKING DOWN AUSTRIAN RESISTANCE

London, April 5 The fierce struggle in the Carpathians seems to be nearing its decision, according to dispatches reaching London By means of desperate rushes amid ice and snow, Russian troops are said to have carried a number of Austrian lines and in the view of British observers, they bid fair soon to break through in force between Lupkow and Uzsok passes.

In the west conditions border on stagnation prevail The allies are watching the Germans in the dark as to their and where the big thrust will come.

The British press in addition is voicing universally outraged that the Germans should protest to the American embassy regarding the segregation of the crews of submarines now held prisoners of war is making much of the death of Leon Thresher the American who lost his life in the sinking of the Falaba.

"What will Washington do" asks today's Westminster Gazette and other papers debate along the same line.

GERMANS REPULSED FRENCH AND BELGIAN OFFENSIVE

Berlin, (by wireless to Sayville) April 3.—German army headquarters today gave out a report on the progress of hostilities at the front

"The Belgian attempt yesterday to win back Klosterhoek farm, which the Germans occupied March 31, resulted in failure

"A French charge in the forest of LePretre was not successful.

"A French attack on the road south of Nieder Aspash, west of Metzeral, was repulsed

"Nothing of importance has occurred on the eastern front"

HEAVY LOSSES RESULT FROM AUSTRIAN ATTACK

Vienna, (via London), April 5 The fighting in Bukowina according to information obtained from government sources, appears to be of more importance than is evident from the official indications in official reports. Apparently the Austrians have made there a success of considerable portions.

The Russians had massed in force to check a threatened Austro-Hungarian invasion and reoccupy northern Bukowina. They are said to have attached considerable weight to this operation because of the effect it might have on public opinion in Rumania. Austrian advices are to the effect that the Russians were completly defeated and driven back into Bessarabia with heavy losses in proportion to the numbers engaged.

FRENCH GAIN BY MINE WARFARE; HIT AEROPLANE

Paris, April 3. (by wireless to London)—The war office made the following announcement this afternoon

"In the regions of the Somme, Boisselle and Dompierre mining warfare continued with noticeable advantages for the French The total number of prisoners taken at the former Le Pretre, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, March 30 to April 1 is more than 200 including six officers.

"A German aeroplane was brought down yesterday after dropping bombs on Rheims. When fired on it immediately came to earth. The two aviators, who were unhurt, were taken prisoners."

REFUSES TO REMOVE THE BAN ON POTASH

Washington, April 3.—Efforts of the United States government to obtain concessions from Germany which would permit the importation of German potash fertilizer failed today, it became known here, when American officials were advised that Germany would make no alteration of her embargo. Negotiations had been in progress since the outbreak of the European war.

COLLECTED $1,000,000 IN MONTH OF MARCH

More than $1,000,000 in taxes were collected by the county treasurer during the month of March. This was the heaviest collection in the history of the office. Of this amount, practically all will be distributed within the next 30 days to the state, the city and towns. Sioux City will receive the largest share.

During the closing days of the month hundreds of taxpayers were in line before the treasurer's office in order to pay up their taxes before the penalty went into effect March 31. On the last day the receipts amounted to $203,646.78.

T STEAMSHIP IS BANKRUPT; AULT INTEREST

ational Mercantile Marine pany, Morgan Concern, able to Meet Interest on Bonds.

KLIN NAMED RECEIVER

Corporation and Subry Organizations Opted More Than 120 Ships of All Sorts.

York., April 5.—The Internaercantile Marine company, or- by J. P. Morgan & Co., and ing a great fleet of steamships between the United States and was placed in the hands of a today by the federal court. eceiver named was P. A. S n, vice president of the com-

n against the company was by the New York Trust comrustee of its $52,744,000 4½ per llateral trust bonds, interest on has been defaulted. The pro- are understood to be

Franklin was placed under a bond and empowered to conhe business of the company. ammoth fleet that flies the flag International Mercantile Marine y was brought together by a te of American and British capunder the leadership of the late Morgan. The corporation, in its form, was chartered by the t New Jersey in 1902 and succ the International Navigation y undred and nineteen steamships the flags of Great Britain, the States and Belgium, were opaccording to the latest available and they were then building ships. Some of these have since mpleted.

than $100,000,000 of the comauthorized capital stock of $120,has been issued. J. P Morgan are large stockholders. Mr Mora director of the company, whose debt is approximately $70,000,his is made up of two issues of the big issue, on which interest en defaulted, and an issue of 00 first mortgage 5 per cent of the International Navigation ny interest on the $52,744,000 bond as due October 1 last, but a in the bonds gave the company nths' grace to make payment. rm expired April 1.

rans-Atlantic steamships were operated by the company, their on being left to subsidiary corns, whose stock was held by the tional Mercantile Marine com- These companies directed the on of the White Star line, the ar line, the American line, the c Transport company, the Leyne, and the Dominion line It ld the receivership proceedings not in any way disturb the oper- of the company or its subsidi

IAN AMBITIONS FAVORED BY RUSSIA

g Question In Diplomatic otiations Settled—Rome Also Warned.

e, April 3 (via Paris), April 5 — etrograd Telegraph agency, a fficial organization, has author- correspondent here to issue a ent asserting that Russia is in thy with Italy's territorial as- ns, around the head of the Adri- ut hopes that the Italian gov- t will not urge excessive claims. tatement says the imperialistic towards the Adriatic attributed ia is due to German instigation.

announcement from Petrograd s special significance because of warlike preparations and the ef- to adjust the boundary question Austria territory indicated is inhabited by people of Italian stock, would include the provinces of and Trieste.

British embassy at Rome denied rt that Lord Rosebery or any erson is going to Rome on a mission for Great Britain

N NEW SHIP ABLE TO LIFT SUBMARINES

York, April 3 - Plans for a large er ship of a new type, intended e submarines disabled as was the Honolulu are under considera- t the New York navy yard it was oday A vessel of the type sug- would be twice as large as any present submarine tenders and be constructed on a new design, portion of the underbody so hol as to enable the "mother ship" w away the submarine after lift from the bottom of the sea. It be equipped with chains long to reach to a great depth and engines sufficiently powerful to waterlogged submarine unaided.

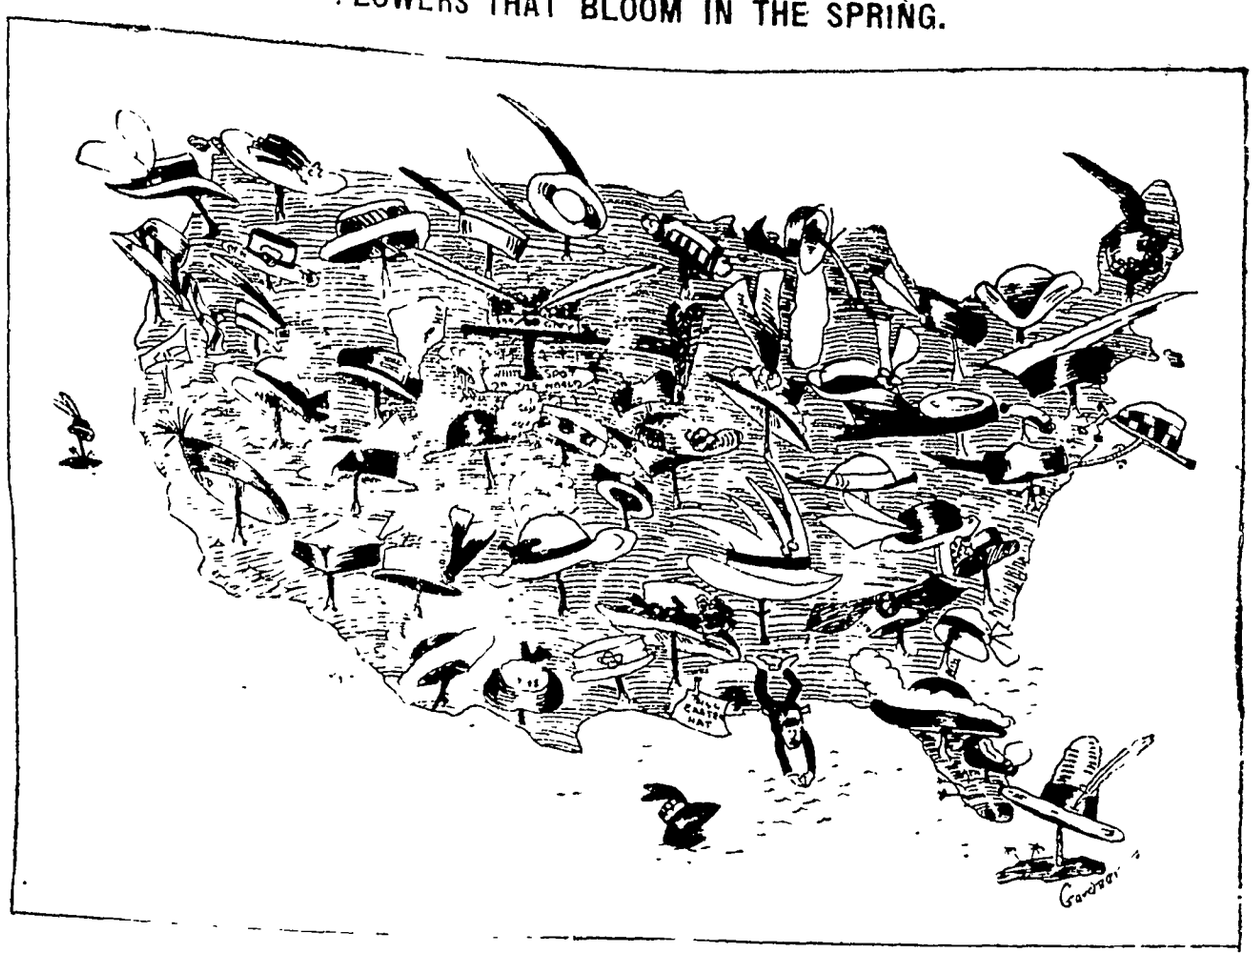
TRIAN TRAITORS ARE PUT TO DEATH on, April 3.—A dispatch to the g Post, from Berne, says that pal Councilor Matejouvusky and cipal employes of Prague, Bo- have been found guilty of high and sentenced to terms of im- ent, ranging from three to 14 The men were charged with cir- news unfavorable to Austria- y to the correspondents.

ienna court martial," the corre- t continues, "condemned 52 per- death for high treason, among the Countess Harrach. Eight of persons have been executed, but ntences of the others were com- to terms of four to 10 years' im-

ee grows wild in German East

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING.



ALLIES MUST PAY PRICE OF VICTORY

British Public Warned That Great Sacrifices Will Be Necessary to Conquer Turk Empire.

London April 5 A dispatch to the Times, from Mytilene late Thursday says

"Except for [illegible] and the reported bombardment of Turkish positions near the gulf of Saros by the Queen Elizabeth there has been no fighting to-day in the Dardanelles region

"The British public which may have taken too light hearted a view of the campaign against the gates of the Turkish empire will have to exercise patience and be prepared to accept heavy losses with equanimity Owing to the weather and other reasons the Turks and Germans had time to strengthen greatly the positions on both sides of the strait They have a fair supply of artillery mounted in excellent positions which the allies naval guns cannot always reach

"There is nothing to show that the absence of comradeship between the German and Turkish [illegible] has in any way diminished the fighting efficiency of the army to any considerable extent The Turk shows himself to be an admirable defensive operations and must expect fighting in which the allies must suffer heavy losses if they may be expected before the allies are able to force the passage of the straits

TURKS ARE DEPRESSED BY IMPENDING CRISIS OF WAR

London April 5 Travelers from Philopolis arrived at Dedeagatch says the Times Sofia correspondent "report public feeling in Constantinople as greatly depressed It is generally feared that a great catastrophe is impending

"Munitions are running short and the hope of obtaining fresh supplies from Germany through Rumania and Bulgaria has been abandoned

Reuter's Sofia correspondent reports feverish activity in preparing the defenses of Turkey

LOVED MAN HELD FOR MURDERING HUSBAND

Kansas Woman Says Paramour Tried to Induce Her to Poison His Rival

Paola Kan April Mrs Maude McElheneys widow of Geo B McElheney formerly postmaster of Louisburg, Kan who was slain by a shot through the window of his home October 14, 1912 testified in the preliminary hearing in connection at the preliminary hearing here of Roscoe Hornbaker a rural mail carrier in connection with the killing of alleged relations with Hornbaker both before and after her husband's death

Hornbaker is a married man and is Mrs. McElheney when her husband's came postmaster

Two or three months before the postmaster was killed the widow testified Hornbaker gave her a bottle of strong poison and urged her to put some in her husband's food She refused to do so and later broke the bottle and threw the contents away

FLOWER MONEY USED IN CAUSE OF CHARITY

New York, April 3 New York churches will spend less money for Easter flowers this year than usual owing to the fact that the demands for charity during the winter have been great. The flowers however are much cheaper than in former years The Easter lily use of which had almost been abandoned has again been adopted, the florists say Prices for lilies this year average 12 cents a blossom

JOE ALLEN ENTERS RACE FOR IOWA GOVERNORSHIP

Des Moines Ia April 3 Senator Joe Allen's gubernatorial boom was launched at a dinner today at which he and 18 republicans were guests of C C Pugh of Des Moines presided It was stated that Allen will definitely announce his candidacy when legislature ends.

AMERICAN EXPERTS TO HELP SERBIANS

Rockefeller and Red Cross Finance Expedition to Combat Typhus and Other Plagues.

New York April 5 -The Italian line steamer Duca D Aosta, which sails today for Naples carries nine sanitary experts composing the American Red Cross sanitary commission, which will endeavor to conquer the typhus fever and other dread diseases epidemic in Serbia

The expenses of the commission will be borne jointly by the Red Cross and the Rockefeller foundation From Naples they will go to Saloniki Greece and then proceed into the heart of the plague ridden regions The commission will be under the direction of Dr Richard P Strong of Harvard university who already is in Europe

Those who sail are Dr Thomas W Jackson chief sanitary inspector Dr Hans Zinser bacteriologist Dr W Sellards Dr George C Shattuck Dr F P Grinnell Dr F W Caldwell Hobart D Brick W S Standifer and Louis De La Pena The last two named were members of General Gorgas' staff in the sanitary campaign that rid the Panama canal zone of fever

CRUISER EITEL IS STILL AT ANCHOR

Report That She Had Dashed to Sea Under Cover of Snowstorm Proves Without Foundation.

Washington April 3 A whirling gale and snow storm which enveloped the Virginia capes last night and today did not tempt the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friederich to make a dash for the sea through the cordon of hostile cruisers outside, and at 1 o'clock this afternoon an official government dispatch from Hampton Roads said the German raider still was moored to her wharf

The storm which drew the curtain of secrecy over the Prinz Eitel for a few hours by destroying all means of communication with the Hampton Roads district, save wireless, started a crop of rumors saying the German cruiser had dashed behind the curtain of snowflakes and past the watch dogs at the entrance to Chesapeake bay

The governmental agencies got in touch with Newport News, Va and established that the Prinz Eitel had attempted no new daring exploit

She had provisioned and repaired the Prinz Eitel has been lying at her [illegible] day to day mystery, leaving unanswered the question of whether Commander Thierichens would finally [illegible] intern his ship and men for the war or attempt a dash through the fleet of allied cruisers which have hovered outside the three-mile limit beyond the capes

[illegible] of an unarmored ship [illegible] that cordon was regarded as [illegible] by naval officers [illegible] the almost general belief that the Eitel would be interned by the first moment of her [illegible] But such a storm as today's makes certain out to sea a fair [illegible] route and many admirers of the German commander regard the [illegible] exploits in seven months of roving, before he came to Newport News would not be surprised if he accepted the fortunate opportunity the elements afforded

LUSITANIA SAILS WITH LARGE PASSENGER LIST

New York April 3 -- The Cunard line steamer Lusitania sailing today for Liverpool had an exceptionally large passenger list There were more than 200 first cabin passengers and 175 in the second cabin Among them were Richard Croker and his bride and Mme Lalla Vinderveldt wife of the Belgian minister of state who has collected nearly $200,000 here for the relief of Belgium

Captain Turner expected that two fast British destroyers would meet the Lusitania near the Irish coast and convoy the steamer to Liverpool, where she is due to arrive on Friday

Several of the most common diseases, including typhoid and arthritis, have been practically banished from the United States navy by the use of distilled water for cooking, as well as drinking

WOMEN POLITICIANS STAGE REAL RIOT

Chicago Supporters of Thompson Pack Sweitzer Meeting and Break It Up—Police Called.

Chicago, April 5 -A demonstration approaching a riot in its uproar and disorder marked a woman's political meeting here late yesterday and was brought to an end only when managers of the theater in which the meeting was held dropped the steel curtain and some spectator sent a riot call for the police.

The meeting was called by Miss Marion Drake who a year ago was the progressive candidate for alderman of the first ward and was decisively beaten by John (Eath House) Coghlan Miss Drake had organized the "Can't Stand for Thompson" club and until she declared herself yesterday for Seymour Steadman the socialist candidate for mayor was believed to have favored Robert Sweitzer, the democratic candidate as against William Hale Thompson the republican

As a Sweitzer supporter, Miss Drake would have been aligned with Coghlan, his colleague, Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna and other politicians whom she had attacked in her campaign a year ago.

Woman supporters of Thompson intimated Miss Drake had formed such an alliance and the meeting either by chance or design, was well filled with those antagonistic to Miss Drake Among the Thompson supporters present were Miss Dora Earle, Mrs. Susan L. Jenks, Mrs Marke A Rolfe, Mrs. E. W Applegate Mrs. Gertrude Presenell, Miss Helen Goldsmith, Mrs Louise Osborne and others well known in suffrage affairs here

Stedman and John H Hill, the prohibition candidate had made speeches, when Miss Drake rose to introduce Sweitzer He had only bowed when the outbreak began "Where's Thompson Get a man. We want to hear the men" were the calls as men and women through the theater rose to their feet and these were followed by less polite exclamations including a prolonged request for some one to "get the hook."

The curtain dropped as a score of volunteer speakers began haranguing for their particular candidate from a score of locations in the big hall.

When the police came, the theater was cleared.

GARY MILLS RUNNING AT FULL SPEED NOW

About 10,000 Men Given Jobs —Steel and Car and Locomotive Works Busy.

Chicago, April 5 —Nearly 10,000 men are working in the steel mills of Chicago Heights for the first time since the first of the year, when business depression and lack of materials caused the mills to close down. Several hundred more were put to work in the mills at Gary and South Chicago. Eighty factories and locomotive works resumed work on a normal scale

The Central Locomotive & Car Works alone took on 4,000 men, working two shifts, for the first time since last December The Calumet Steel company took on 800 men. The Chicago Pneumatic Tool company put on 500 men, working in three shifts. The Cannedy-Otto works furnished jobs for 1,200 men, and are now running full capacity The American Maganese Steel company hired 3,500 men.

Practically every mill and factory in Chicago and surrounding suburbs are now operating, most of them full time, with full crews of men.

STEAMER TORPEDOED; ALL OF CREW SAVED

London, April 3.—The British steamer, Lockwood, was torpedoed by a German submarine, Friday night, off Start Point, in Devonshire The members of the crew were saved

The steamer Lockwood was owned in London. Built in 1896, she was of 677 net tons and 236 feet long.

A German submarine pursued the Lockwood for several miles before being able to gain a position from which she could discharge her torpedo. The projectile struck the steamer abaft the engine room, but the crew of 25 found time to lower a life boat. Later they were picked up by a trawler and brought into port

IOWA LEGISLATURE THINKS OF QUITTING

Seasonable Attack of Laziness Brings Talk of Adjournment.

Des Moines, Ia. April 5 - Spring fever has attacked the Iowa legislators They want to go back home. Several acts of the house and senate in the last 24 hours indicate that adjournment will be forthcoming just as soon as the business now on hand can possibly be disposed of

The house Friday afternoon voted to adjourn Monday, and then changed its mind and decided to work Saturday forenoon, when adjournment was taken this noon. It was decided to reconvene this afternoon instead of taking the usual Saturday afternoon vacation.

Bruce, of Pocahontas, introduced a resolution that all bills on the calendar, excepting appropriation, retrenchment and reform and special order measures, be turned over to the sifting committee.

Senator Helmer, of Carroll, introduced a resolution to limit debate in the senate to five minutes, with 10 minutes for the closing argument of the author This rule is now in force in the house

FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF WOMAN AND BABES

Believed North Bend Woman Drowned Children and Herself.

Fremont Neb April 5 —Search was resumed here today for Mrs. Arch Ferguson, who is supposed to have thrown two children, aged 2 and 3, into the Platte river, south of North Bend, and leaped in herself Dragging and dynamiting has been conducted four miles south of the bridge, but not a sign of bodies has been found yet. Efforts to locate the husband, who left North Bend Wednesday morning on a freight train going east, have been unsuccessful so far

Every house in the vicinity of the river was visited by searchers, but none of the inmates have seen Mrs. Ferguson or children. John Kent, of North Bend who crossed the bridge at 12:30 yesterday, says he passed Mrs. Ferguson and two babies on the bridge She was writing in a notebook and did not look up Francis Griffin who brought the empty baby buggy in from the bridge, saw nothing of Mrs Ferguson, but when he lifted the baby pillow the notebook fell out of it The letter was apparently intended for the husband, but no address was written on it Mrs. Ferguson was 28 years of age and was married to Ferguson eight years ago. They had five children As Nellie Strayer, a few years ago she was regarded as one of North Bend's prettiest girls.

ROAD INSURGENTS LOSE ATTEMPT ON COMMISSION

Des Moines, Ia April 3.—Road insurgents in the senate made an unsuccessful attempt to put the state highway commission "in bad," today Senator Chase of Hamilton who went down in defeat as general of the Johnston road bill forces, introduced a resolution calling upon members of the highway commission to pay back to the state money allowed them for expenses. Senator Chase declared the law did not authorize the expenses in question

The amounts were as follows. A. Marston, $757 67 J W Holden, $1,085,-62. H C Beard, $1 481 40 The resolution called upon Attorney General Cosson to secure the repayment of this money and all other amounts illegally paid

The vote was 10 for to 21 agains.

KEEPING CLOSE GUARD OVER INTERNED SHIPS

New York, April 3.—An unexpected trip by the destroyer Parker up the Hudson river early today from her anchorage near the Narrows, gave rise to reports that some of the interned vessels of the German ship lines might try to slip out of port without clearance papers. The Parker is one of the warships stationed here to maintain the neutrality of the port. But, after cruising along the Hoboken piers, where the German vessels lay, the Parker returned to her anchorage. It was said at the navy yard that the move was merely precautionary.

STRIKING MINERS TO TURN TO AGRICULTURE

Bridgeport Ohio, April 3 —Striking miners of the east Ohio coal fields, who have had no work for more than a year, are preparing to farm the hillsides of Belmount county that have been placed at their disposal by friendly farmers. Officers of the union today dispatched a letter to the department of agriculture in Washington asking the government to donate garden seeds.

NEBRASKA HOUSE PASSES REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Lincoln, Neb., April 3.—The judicial reapportionment bill by Nichols of Madison, providing for another judge in the Ninth district and addition Stanton county to this district, passed the house this morning by 65 to 21. It still has to run the gauntlet of the senate. The senate passed a grist of minor bills, among which were the relief appropriation measures totaling about $40,000. Both houses adjourned at noon to go to Omaha on a special train.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT MUST GET MAJORITY VOTE

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—A majority vote of lawful delegates present is necessary to elect county superintendent of schools under the new law, which will be used for the first time next Tuesday, according to a ruling by John Fletcher, assistant attorney general, today. The acts of the Thirty-fifth general assembly, which provide that the superintendent be appointed by the presidents of school boards of the county, are indefinite as to what is necessary to elect A question has arisen whether a plurality, or a majority, is necessary.

Paxtine

A Soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed

For Douches

In the local treatment of woman's ills, such as leucorrhoea and inflammation, hot douches of Paxtine are very efficacious. No woman who has ever used medicated douches will fail to appreciate the clean and healthy condition Paxtine produces and the prompt relief from soreness and discomfort which follows its use. This is because Paxtine possesses superior cleansing, disinfecting and healing properties.

For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been relieved say it is "worth its weight in gold." At druggists. 50c large box or by mail. Sample free. The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

GOT THE MESSAGE TWISTED

Jenkins Believed in Brevity, and All That Kind of Thing, But He Had a Sad Awakening.

Jenkins' wife was away on a visit. Now, Jenkins was a very busy man He believed not in lengthy communications. In letter-writing, brevity was the synonym of excellence.

He loved his wife devotedly, enjoyed hearing from her often, and always devoured her brief letters with the keen appetite of an enthusiastic lover.

But to wade through a long, drawn-out letter of 16 pages was to him an utter waste of time and eyesight.

So one day his heart danced with delight at the receipt of the following from her (a perfect gem of a thing—so short and sweet—so to the point.

"M. d. l.,

I b. s. d f t. n. a. n. o. t. W. m. f.

MARY."

He read it.

"I barely sleep, dearest, for thinking night after night of thee. With much faith, MARY."

He should have read it thus:

"Money down low. I bought silk dress for thirty-nine at Newburg's on tick. Wire me fifty. MARY."

Some Uprising.

Tim—My wife and I have had a quarrel. You know, she is getting frightfully stout and last night I told her she looked like an inflated balloon.

Jim—Well, you can't hardly blame her for going up in the air.—Judge.

The Kind.

"So they have cleared the water of mines 12 miles for the warships' advance in Turkish waters?"

"Yes, so I hear."

"Could that be called a sweeping victory?"

Preposterous.

"The poor fellow was simply driven to his grave."

"Well, why not? You wouldn't compel a dead man to walk there, would you?"

Not So Green.

Grass is naturally green, but after a man has bumped up against a grass widow he is apt to imagine he is color blind.

As Played by Ear.

"Why are you prejudiced against golf? You never saw a game?"

"No; but once I heard part of one."

Why pray to be delivered from temptation and then go around looking for it?

Three Devonshire (England) brothers who went to the front have returned (wounded) by the same train.

Ten thousand women are being added to the colleges every year.

THE WAY OUT

Change of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

An ambitious but delicate girl, after failing to go through school on account of nervousness and hysteria, found in Grape-Nuts the only thing that seemed to build her up and furnish her the peace of health.

"From infancy," she says, "I have not been strong. Being ambitious to learn at any cost I finally got to the High School but soon had to abandon my studies on account of nervous prostration and hysteria.

"My food did not agree with me, and I grew thin and despondent. I could not enjoy the simplest social affair for I suffered constantly from nervousness in spite of all sorts of medicines.

"This wretched condition continued until I became interested in the letters of those who had cases like mine and who were being helped by eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had little faith, but procured a pkg. and after the first dish I experienced a peculiar satisfied feeling that I had never gained from any ordinary food. I slept and rested better that night and in a few days began to grow stronger.

"I had a new feeling of peace and restfulness. In a few weeks, to my great joy, the headaches and nervousness left me and life became bright and hopeful. I resumed my studies, and later taught ten months with ease—using Grape-Nuts every day. I am now the mistress of a happy home, and the old weakness has never returned."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest

Poultry Pride

CHANTICLEER was a proud youngster, the cock of the walk in the barnyard drama.

But he had nothing on us.

We're as proud as any fowl that ever strutted over the way we pick out fresh, tender, choice poultry for our trade.

As good butchers with a reputation to uphold we take the greatest gride in offering you only the very best in select poultry at prices that won't make your pocketbook look sick.

J. P. Larsen & Sons

Let us help you choose the right paint varnish or enamel

Tell us about the painting or decorating you are planning to do and we will help you select the right paint, varnish or enamel. There is a

Lowe Brothers Paint, Varnish, Enamel or Stain for every household purpose

For painting floors there's nothing equal to Lowe Brothers Hard Drying Floor Paint. For refinishing furniture, floors and woodwork "Vernicol" makes the finish ideal For the walls and ceilings "Mellotone," "soft as the rainbow tints," is highly artistic, fadeless, durable and washable.

These are only a few of the Lowe Brothers products — come in and let us help in choosing right and selecting the most pleasing colors.

G. A. PABST

The Druggist, Klemme, Iowa

THE KLEMME TIMES

By M. M. Magner

Published every Thursday at Klemme, Iowa.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme as second-class mail matter.

(Copyright, by McClure Syndicate.)

Observations

By "Our Man About Town"

Are you swatting the fly? Have you seen any flies to swat? If not, be on guard and massacre the first one that shows himself. Scientists tell us that every fly we kill now means that there will be millions less to kill later in the season. And others, who were paid by commissioners to pay attention to the war waged upon this pest last year are firm in their belief that the nation is on the right track to exterminate the little nuisance. Last year was really the first when any determined effort was made, speaking broadly. Housewives all over the United States took arms against it as a common foe, and the result was that many communities reported even a distinctly visible decrease in the number of flies throughout the summer, and in some instances reports stated the extermination was almost complete. Think of thirty million women with perhaps as many children swatting a dozen flies a day! It is plainly seen the war can be won All that is needed is determined effort in every home And the swatter need not be the only instrument used. Aided by the use of a good fly paper or traps, the work will go forward much more rapidly. It's a cause worthy of your co-operation. At first, the idea of exterminating the fly by killing was ridiculed, but a season's determined effort proved that it is not impossible, and the coming summer will give even more positive proof But all must help. Do your swatting early

AND ALONG CAME RUTH

"Here, Auntie Dear, is a present for you," said Ruth, entering the kitchen in her own happy way. "What in the world am I to use so large a sieve for?" her aunt asked, jerking her hands from a basin of hot water at the time. "Remember your scalded hands last month?" asked Ruth. "Well as sieves are not particularly good for scalded hands, but they work wonders for the "unscaldedness." You see it fits nicely into your rinsing basin. Place the dishes in it as washed, then the whole can be lifted right out of the scalding water by the handles and there is no danger of a burn.

And along went Ruth.

THE WEEK IN HISORTY

Monday, 5.—Gibralter ceded to England, 1713. New York Chamber of commerce established 1768.

Tuesday, 6.—Peary discoveder north pole, 1909. First G. A. R. post organised 1866.

printed, 1828. Bacon's rebellion, 1,676.

Thursday, 8.—Mergenthaler Linotype patented, 8190.

Friday, 9.—Lee surrendered to Grant, 1865. Death of Lord Byron, 1626.

Saturday, 10.—Peace of Utrecht, 1713. Brigam Young resigned, 1873.

Sunday, 11.—Napoleon abdicated, 1,813. Edward Everett born, 1794.

TWO KINDS OF MEN

Civilized man makes roads; the savage does not. That is the safest test of civilization. Among us, in all communities, are individuals who are not really civilized, they don't take any interest in roads. A man's scale in civilization is very correctly tested by his attitude toward the stone which has rolled into the road, or the tree which has blown down across it. The man who drives around an obstacle day after day is one sort of man, the one who stops his team and rolls or drags it away is another. And a person passing along a road which he does not expect to retrace, who removes the obstruction for the sake of the stranger who comes after him, responds to the very high test of civilziation He feels socially This can be applied to rubbish that accumulates in front of your store and residence. To remove same means that you are the right sort of a man To let it remain and be removed by another, is just the opposite Many times an accident has been prevented by the removal of paper, boxes, and the like, from public places

ODE TO KLEMME

Out in Iowa's fertile plain
There lies a town so fair—
It's praises and it's virtues
Go singing through the air.

This town is quite a city
And Klemme is it's name;
Just go there for a visit
You'll find life never tame.

They have both stores and factories
To give the people wealth,
(And right here let me mention
It can't be beat for health)

It has railroads, schools, and churches
And many homes of beauty
And to help improve the city
Is everybody's duty

They have fine trees, and a city park,
That covers one whole block,
Three miles from there, on Gibb's farm
They're raising fancy stock
The children as they trudge to school
Sing out with childish glee
The slogan of their fathers
"It's me for Klemme Klemme for me

The little birds join the refrain
And from each leafy tree
The echoe comes in silvery notes
"Its me for Klemme Klemme for me"

Life Amid Deathlike Stillness.

In the rainless interior of Australia there is a "silence of the grave." This deathlike silence has a peculiarly depressing effect If two men are camped and one of them goes to a distant township to get provisions while the other remains behind to look after the camp, the man who is to remain says to his friend in forcible, gold fields language "Now, Bill, don't be long away You know what kind of a place this is to live in by yourself." Or words to that effect. If his mate is away for two or three days the silence gets on the man's nerves, and in the end he shouts to make a noise. And often he is afraid of the sound of his own voice.

Constable in Hard Luck.

The special constable was chaffed by his friends for appearing on parade without his badge. "You see," explained the "special," "I was in rather a tough crowd getting on the car the other night, and when I got in I found that someone had pinched my badge. They really ought to have detectives to watch the busy spots on tram routes."—Manchester Guardian.

Daily Thought.

You get entertainment pretty much in proportion as you give. And here is one reason of a dozen why the world is dull to dull persons.—Stevenson.

The Horse Draws the Wagon that carries the Load that Brings Wealth to the Farmer.

But without HARNESS neither horse nor wagon would be of avail. Any harness will draw "a load" but our harness will draw "a HEAVY load." It is all in the making and we know how to do it. A GOOD harness costs no more than a POOR one.

Frank Gruetzmacher

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR

Warm Meals and Lunches

A. KIRKWOOD & SON

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Fred Kluckhohn, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

It Makes Hens Lay

Pratts Poultry Regulator

Gets the laying hens into the egg-a-day class and starts up the lazy ones. Puts life and vigor into the whole flock and gives a healthy relish to the feed.

Costs but a trifle—the extra eggs pay for it many times over. Come in and let us prove to you that it will make hens lay. If it fails, we will return your money back. 25-lb. pail only $2.50. In packages at 25c, 50c and $1.00

For Sale By, ED. G. ELL

G. W. KLUCKHOHN

"THE LAND MAN"

If you wish to sell your farm—list it with me.

If you wish to buy—ask me about some good farms.

6% Money 6% Money 6%

Loans may be obtained for any purpose on acceptable Real Estate security: liberal privileges; correspondence solicited.

A. C. Agency Company

758 Gas, Electric Bldg., Denver, Colorado.

446 Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

C. M. BREDBENNER, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Leave Orders at Kirkwood's Restaurant

Here's a Triple-Lever Disc Harrow That Beats Them All!

The new Rock Island Triple-Lever Disc Harrow, Bonanza Jr., has, through its many exclusive features, jumped into a class of its own—'way ahead of every other disc harrow made. For years it has led all others in service, durability, ease of operation and speed. Now, with its new third pressure lever, its new steel stub pole and its new double-leaf spring steel seat, it is beyond comparison. The first time you see this wonderful triple-lever disc harrow you'll know why it is outselling all other disc harrows at any price.

Rock Island Bonanza Jr. Triple-Lever Disc Harrow

Here are a few of the many exclusive features of this great harrow.

Instead of being angled from the center, the gangs are angled from the ends. The side thrust is delivered directly to the bumpers. No matter at what angle the gangs are set, these bumpers always bump, and the angle or point of contact doesn't change, so the bumpers never cut or wear out. Saves expense, repairs and draft. The inner ends of the gangs are always together

They roll against each other at one rounded point. End thrust is entirely neutralized by these bumpers.

The new steel stub pole cannot split or break and adds strength to the harrow, making it even more durable than it was before. Neat in appearance—light in weight.

The old seat spring has been replaced by one of spring steel, double leaf type, giving greater comfort to the operator.

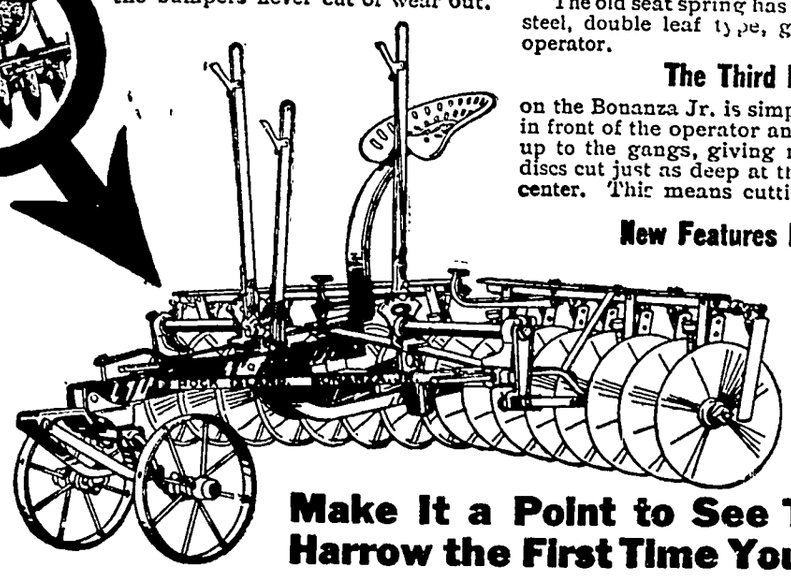
See the Bumpers They Always Bump

The Third Pressure Lever

on the Bonanza Jr. is simple and strong. It is directly in front of the operator and the pressure is applied close up to the gangs, giving more leverage. Bonanza Jr. discs cut just as deep at the outer ends as they do in the center. This means cutting at an even depth always.

New Features Plus the Old Ones

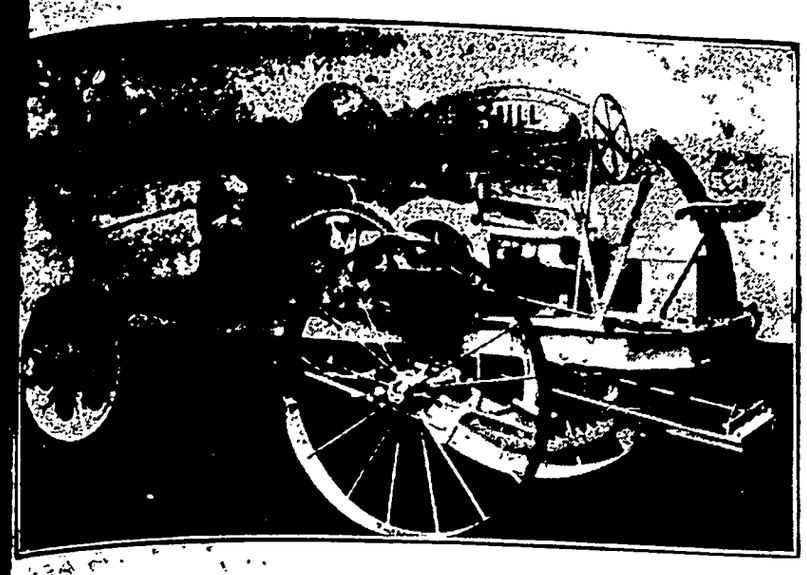
Remember all the new features of the Bonanza Jr. have been added without sacrificing any of the old ones. You can't make any mistake in buying the Rock Island Bonanza Jr. Disc Harrow—it's a sure winner.



Colter Steel Discs, Spring Steel Scraper Blades, Hard Oil-Boiled Maple Bearings

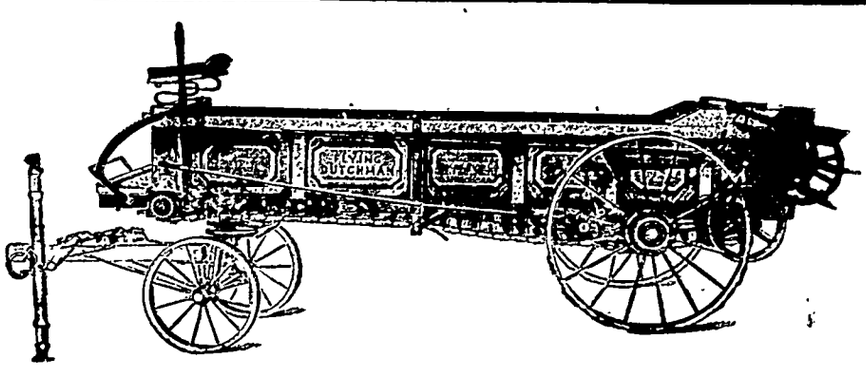
Make It a Point to See This Great Disc Harrow the First Time You Come to Town

HENRY LAU & SON



Machinery Opening

Our line of Machinery is now ready for your inspection. We are selling some of the best lines on the market, lines that have been tried and also have given the best of satisfaction. You may talk all you wish about Garner, Goodell or Miller, we are at Klemme with a full line of Farm Implements and we are selling everything at a right price. We also sell the Alter, 5-passenger automobile and the Metz car---the best cars for the money.



Gas Tractors

We sell the Little Tractor also the Big Bull Tractor. These are two of the best tractors on the market, and we can cite you to many satisffed owners. Buy a tractor, do more work easier and save horse flesh. We sell 2, 3, 4, 6 or 8 bottom plows, which can be used with our Bull Tractor or others. Let us sell you a complete outfit.

Gasoline Engines

We handle the leading makes of gasoline engines in all the various sizes from 1½ h.p. up at bottom prices.

Hay Loaders and Hay Tools

We sell the famous Moline Gearless Hay Loader---no chain; no gears; no sockets; no trouble or delay. Also the Rock Island Hay Loader Two dandies.

Plows and Cultivators

Our stock of plows and cultivators include the following well known makes---Rock Island, Moline, Sattley and Ohio and you cannot go wrong on any of them. If you need a plow this spring we are here to save you money.

We sells the best grades of Oils and Greases by the gallon or barrel.

Corn Planters

Hayes, Moline and Sattley Corn Planters are our three leaders. You will go a long ways before you can find as good a line from which to make a selection and the price will not worry your pocket book.

Discs and Harrows

The popular Rock Island, Moline and Ohio lines at right prices.

If you roof leaks why not try Arco Sealit? We sell it under an iron clad guarantee.

Grinds more feed on less gasoline

You can save 25 per cent on your gasoline bill by using the

LETZ SELF-SHARPENING SILENT BUHR FEED MILL

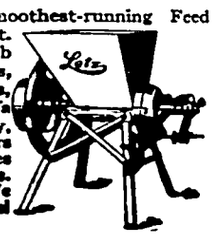
The swiftest, smoothest-running Feed Mill on the market. Grinds corn, with cob and husk, oat hulls, wheat screenings, grain, hay and alfalfa easily and quickly, on low power. Buhrs sharpen themselves and last a long time. Mill can't clog. We sell this wonderful Feed Grinder.



Manure Spreaders

We sell the best Manure Spreader made---the Flying Dutchman, also the celebrated Great Western.

Harvesters and Mowers

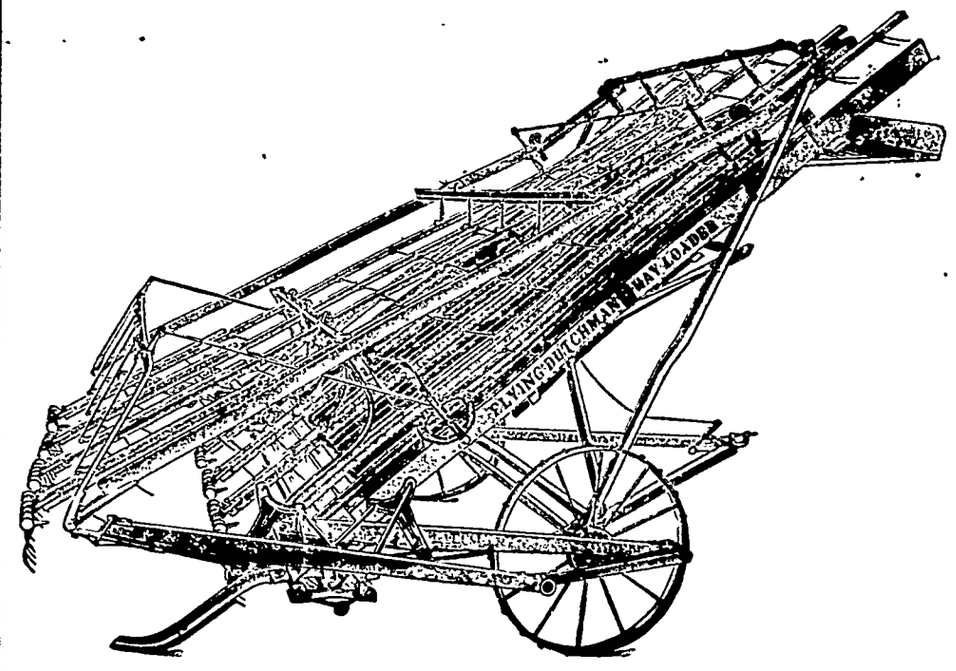
A little early in the season but we want you to know that we sell the Acme and Adriance lines.

Carbo Steel Posts and Moyer Steel Gates

Two necessary articles on the modern farm.

You Will do Well to Buy all of Your Farm Machinery, Etc. of Henry Lau & Son

KLEMME, IOWA



A. PRIEBE
Contractor and Builder
KLEMME, :: IOWA
Estimates Furnished
Give Us An Opportunity To Figure on Your Work

THE SANITARY BARBER SHOP
H. D. BARROWS, Prop
Two Good Barbers At Your Service
The Place To Go For First-Class Work
Everything Neat and Clean

DR. R. M. THOMAS
VETERINARIAN
GRADUATE IOWA STATE COLLEGE
Phone No. 30 KLEMME, IOWA
All Calls Answered Promptly

E. BAUMGARTNER
The Tonsorial Artist
Give you an easy shave or a neat hair cut.
Try our New Bath Tub
Door west of State Savings Bank
Call in

DR. L. R. PARSONS
DENTIST
1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

DR. A. OSHANA
Office limited exclusively to treatment of
RHEUMATISM AND HEART
Over First National Bank Building
MASON CITY, IOWA

DIVORCED WOMAN STARTS A SCUFFLE

"Million-Dollar Bride" Refused Sight of Child Pulls Mother-in-Law's Hair.

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Keith Donaldson, divorced wife of Keith Donaldson of this city and New York, and formerly known throughout society circles in the South as "the million-dollar bride," was arrested and locked in a cell on charges preferred by her mother-in-law, after a sensational hair-pulling match at the latter's home here

Mrs. Donaldson, who said she came to this city several days ago, soon after her arrival from London went to the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. William Donaldson, and requested permission to see her seven year-old daughter, who had been left in her husband's custody after her divorce several years ago. When her request was refused and she attempted to enter the house a scuffle started between her and the maid, each afterward accusing the other of pulling out her hair.

Mrs. Donaldson was pushed out upon the sidewalk but later gained entrance to the house and engaged in an altercation with her mother-in-law until the arrival of a policeman. Mrs. Donaldson walked several squares with the bluecoat to the police station, where she was at first placed in a cell, but afterward in charge of the matron

Engaged in an Altercation With Her Mother-in-Law.

CHILD REARED BY MONKEYS

A Real Mowgli Found in Jungle in India Can Hear, but Cannot Talk.

London.—A discovery which recalls the story of Mowgli in Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book," has been made in India.

In the jungle near Naina Tal, says a Bombay letter, a wild-looking creature, apparently a human female child, has been found. That she is human is proved by the fact that there are vaccination marks on both arms, but exposure to the elements has caused a thick growth of hair down each side of the face and spine, which makes her appearance more like that of a monkey than a human being. There is evidence to show she has always walked upright, but her sitting posture is that of a monkey, as are all her actions

She was very frightened when first caught, and cried and whimpered. She would eat only grass and raw potatoes, but later was induced to take bread and milk She is unable to talk, but there is no doubt that she can hear Everything points to the conclusion that she was abandoned in infancy and monkeys were her foster parents. Natives in the bazaar, however, declare that the child was reared by bears.

At present the child is in the Naina Tal hospital.

MAN NIPPED BY GIANT EEL

Member of New Jersey Boat's Crew Has Hard Fight With Six-Pounder.

Anglesea, N. J.—In the big batch of fish landed by passengers and crew of the Goldy Budd, one of the fleet sailing from here, was a six-pound eel which came in on the line of John C. Goughan, a member of the crew The big fellow caused a heap of excitement on board the craft and, as Goughan was about to take it from the hook, it turned and closed with its heavy jaws upon one of his fingers With a howl he tried to shake it off, but it was necessary to strangle the eel and then pearly all the flesh of the man's finger

Goughan was losing much blood, but one of the anglers improvised a tourniquet about his wrist and he managed to pull through till the boat landed.

Starts Peculiar Suit.

Hackettstown, N. J.—William Mishpaugh, a farmer, has sued Hope township for money and time spent in carrying his son to and from high school.

FACT AND FANCY

By MAUDE BREWSTER.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Marie was a street singer, but Marie had dreams. While she sang for pennies and dimes that were tossed to her from the windows of apartment houses she fancied herself a grand opera singer bowing gracefully before a great audience of music lovers. As she glanced from time to time at Lecco, the young Greek who was her accompanist, and who turned the hand organ mechanically, Marie fancied him to be a great and wonderful conductor waving his baton and carrying her rhythmically through her operatic arias.

The afternoon upon which Marie and Lecco stopped before the studio apartments on West Fifty-seventh street was fraught with much excitement and interest for both the Greek and the little singer from Italy.

John Orth, artist and philanthropist, was giving a tea in his sumptuous studio when Marie's voice arose from the streets and startled his guests with its sympathetic timbre and clarity of tone.

"What do you say to asking them up here for a song?" he asked.

"Great! Here's a chance for Orth to take another protege under his wide wing," Billy Craven made answer.

The idea was no sooner suggested than carried out, and a moment later Marie and Lecco, together with the old hand organ, were up in John Orth's studio and facing a company of Bohemians who eagerly pressed forward and encircled them.

Marie had always fancied herself singing before a critical audience. It was no doubt that long, half-conscious training in the world of dreams that carried her successfully through the ordeal.

Before leaving, Marie had promised John Orth to return the following day to receive instructions preparatory to beginning a course of study in vocal and instrumental music. Also they had been taken into the dining-room, where Orth's servants offered them tea and cakes such as would make the mouths of less hungry people water.

When they had finally left the studio John Orth sat in deep study. His guests, now that the tense moments were slipping into the past, began to chide him.

"I am hard hit," he admitted slowly. "If that girl takes advantage of her studies and makes a name for herself I—"

"You'll marry the girl," laughed Jimmy Craven.

"Yes, I think I will," John Orth said.

Days slipped into weeks and Marie progressed slowly, but with great intelligence. She found study tedious and the demands put upon her time wearisome. Her brain, unaccustomed to training, rebelled at the long hours of application to technique, sight reading and endless scales, both vocal and instrumental. She felt much like a bird that had been caged, and Marie longed passionately for her freedom. Her fancies had never embodied this constant toil. The fact was less attractive to her than her wonderful dreams and castles in the air.

Lecco, too, seemed unconsciously to add to her troubles. That he was occupying himself with business was evident in the enlarged store and increased trade. Marie wondered at the loneliness and sudden strangeness of the world, and it was to Lecco she went with her woes.

"Meestair Orth—he would marry me," she said finally. "He say he loves me."

Lecco's face went white. "I love you, too, Marie," he cried swiftly, and would have stopped the rush of words to his lips had not Marie crept happily into his arms.

"You nevair say so to me; nevair told me you love me," she whispered in the wonderful tones that would have made her famous had she loved happiness less. "I have loved you forever, Lecco."

A flame leaped into Lecco's black eyes and he bent his head over the lips that were to him red poppies flung on an oval of alabaster.

W. R. BLOOM
The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.
We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.
Business Established 1890

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA;
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

G. W. GRIMMS
"Up-to-date Auctioneer"
CLEAR LAKE, -:- -:- IOWA
Conducts Sales of any kind.
Makes Farm Sales a Specialty.
Guarantees Satisfaction. 20 Years Experience.
See or Write Me For Dates.

Col. J. J. Wilson
Livestock Auctioneer
MESERVEY, IOWA
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Dates can be made at the State Savings Bank, or phone me at Meservey, Iowa, at my expense.

Sand and Gravel
Sand 60 cents per load, cash, or paid in 30 days, after 30 days 70cts per load. All small amounts strictly cash.
Henry Griffen,
Klemme, Iowa.

MARY MIDTHORNE

BY

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON.

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," etc.

Copyright, 1911 By Dodd, Mead & Co

CHAPTER IV—Continued.

"Glad to meet you," said he His voice was hard and unmusical, but friendly

"Thank you, sir," said Eric, as they shook hands. Adam Carr's hand was soft but firm. It was hardly what Eric expected. He looked like a man who had known nothing but hard labor

"Father says you and he are great friends. It's very good of you to come and cheer him up as you do. His manner was tender but his voice and eyes hard as flint if the metaphor is permissible.

Old Jabez chuckled "I reckon he gets something for his trouble, Adam I fill his brain chuck full of hair raisin' lies He'd oughter make a grand novel writer, if he can jest remember all I tell him."

"You surely don't believe all my dad tells you, do you?" said Adam removing his pipe to grin the better

"No, sir," said Eric promptly "He always tells us when they're not true."

"That's more than he ever did at home," said Adam with a sly wink.

"Are you a sailor?" asked the boy

"Not a regular sailor,' said the other deliberately. "I've been a little of everything in my time It don't pay to stick to any one thing too long. You get in a rut, and life's a poor job if you stay in the rut so long that you don't feel like making the effort to get out of it. Been in a scrap with somebody?" he asked, eyeing Eric's bruise.

"Just a friendly boxing match," said Eric, with a quick glance at Jabez.

"Feller much too big for him," remarked Jabez. "His cousin. A dirt mean college chap."

Adam's hard, mirthless smile returned. Do you know much about boxing?" Eric confessed his ignorance of the finer points. 'I'll give you a few instructions, if you'd like 'em," said Adam Carr, a strange light coming into his eyes. "I can show you a few things that will jolt this chap so's he won't get over the surprise for a week"

Eric jumped at the chance "I'll borrow the gloves," he cried.

"All right," said Adam, sitting down and complacently relighting his pipe "We'll begin tomorrow morning. I'll be here for a week. Can you come to my room in the Massasoit House?"

The next morning Eric appeared with the gloves Every day for a week, he visited Adam Carr's room in the cheap water front hotel The man's skill with the gloves was a revelation to the boy Chetwynd was the merest novice in comparison Try as he would Eric could not break through his guard, nor could he, in all his wild clumsiness, dispel the calm indifference that marked his manner Adam was as light as a feather, and as quick as a cat despite his stocky frame and phlegmatic bearing Time and again, the boy would stop panting, to grin sheepishly and bewail the fact that he could make no impression on his adversary

"You're doing splendidly" said Adam, without so much as a quickening of the breath "The main point is this I can't hit you as easily as I did in the beginning. You're learning how to take care of yourself You're managing to keep cool and that's the chief thing in boxing You are sidestepping and ducking pretty neatly—something you could not do at all in the beginning I don't wonder your cousin knocked your block off Now, I'll begin to show you a few tricks at the game, a few punches You won't hurt him or the girls think. I'm here, but you'll have him well enough to upset your cousin in good shape There's one thing to guard against don't let him rush in and clinch He's too big and strong for you He'd murder you in a wrestling match Keep dancing away all the time Get him rattled get him mad."

Two days after Adam Carr's departure from Corinth Eric in the presence of half a dozen envious boys who had suffered ignominy at Chetwynd's hands effectually humiliated his big ragging cousin. He hit him at will successfully evading the returns that were meant to lay him out, kept out of clinches, and cleverly outboxed the cock of the walk. No greater insult could have been offered to Chetwynd than this He returned to Cambridge fully a week earlier than he had intended much to the surprise of his parents, who, somehow, rejoiced in a certain profound thoughtfulness that came over their son

Eric was not a boaster He took his triumph over Chetwynd with becoming grace. "It's nothing to brag about," he explained to his friends "That's only once for me Just think how many times he has whaled me" Nevertheless, he had come upon a new joy in living His heart was lighter His victory may have increased Chetwynd's hatred, but it also served to create a wholesome respect in that young gentleman's breast There was something in that.

There was a dense atmosphere of mystery surrounding Adam Carr Eric was unable to penetrate it, and he could obtain no light from the man's father. Old Jabez was resolutely noncommittal He would shake his head over Eric's eager questions, and answer evasively when driven to a corner

"Now, don't pester me any more about Adam," he finally exploded when Mary added her inquiries to those of her brother "What business is it of yours what business he's in? It's an honest business and it's none of your fighting, either"

"How did he learn so much about boxing?" demanded the persistent pupil.

Jabez glared "From his father!" he roared "I learned him all he knows about it"

"Oh, rats!" scoffed Eric, not at all impolitely

"Oh, Uncle Jabez" added Mary reproachfully

"Do you mean to call me a liar?" gasped the ancient

"No, indeed," cried both of them in a breath.

"Well, see that you don't," muttered he, very uncomfortable. "Adam's business is his business, just you bear that in mind."

They were not to see Adam Carr again for more than a year, nor were they to hear of him He had sunk back into the void from which he emerged so unexpectedly on that warm September day

With Adam temporarily out of the way, we can devote our time and attention to an infinitely more attractive creature—Joan Bright Joan was an only child As a rule, an only child is not popular outside his or her immediate family Somehow, we have a prejudice against an "only child." I daresay the grudge is atmospheric, and comes from the fact that we ourselves have never enjoyed the exclusive privilege of being an only child. With Joan Bright, this phase of antagonism did not hold good; she was adored by everyone. No one thought of criticising her for being a petted, indulged "only child." It really wasn't because she was the daughter of a very distinguished gentleman, the Honorable Oswald Bright, of Upper Corinth and the commonwealth at large. Not at all. A great many people did not like Judge Bright, even though they respected him He had made a multitude of enemies by administering justice as it is meant to be administered. You should not be asked to like a judge who has ruled against you. But you would have liked Joan You would have adored her Everyone else did, and you could not possibly have been an exception.

Judge Bright—sometimes called "His Honor Bright"—was no longer involved in the adjudication of local disputes. He had gone beyond that some years ago. Today he was one of the justices in the supreme court of the state, and there was some talk—in Corinth, at least—of a seat on the United States supreme bench when he had become too old for active service in his present capacity But that is neither here nor there His home was in Corinth.

They called the hill part of the town Upper Corinth in these days, for social as well as geological reasons. If you lived above Twelfth street you were of Upper Corinth. Your business would have to be below Twelfth street No one but landscape gardeners and architects did business above. (It was before the day of chauffeurs and vacuum cleaners.)

Joan, whose mother died when the girl was 6, was the particular and devoted friend of Mary Midthorne, although nearly two years her senior. Two more lovely, lovable girls could not well be imagined, much less created Both were fair to look upon, slim, proud, aristocratic, yet simple hearted and unspoiled They were dark eyed—but why describe them now? They are half grown children, mere prophecies of womanhood. We can only say that they were adorably pretty, and pray that they may not outgrow their charms as so many do If they are as lovely when they grow up—as they will long before this tale is ended—it may be worth while for me to describe them and for you to contemplate them without reference to the old saying which condemns a fair child to unattractive maturity

Joan was shy Few pretty girls are shy They may be bashful but not shy There is quite a distinction. Joan was not bashful, which is the same thing as saying she was not clumsy or awkward She was perfectly sure of herself, possessed a certain amount of poise and had an air You may ask, then, why she is depicted as shy. Why is the pet deer that feeds complacently from your hand shy? Not because it is afraid of you You would not speak of a cow as a shy creature. The deer is shy because it is high strung, delicate sensitive. Well, Joan was like the deer

She was the apple of her father's eye. She held his heart strings in those slender fingers of hers, and she drew them so gently that he never suspected he was being led whither she willed He quite approved of her friendship for the Midthorne children, although he was in full possession of their lamentable history As a matter of fact, Horace Blagden's appointment as guardian of the children had been made in Judge Bright's court before his ascendency to the supreme bench. He not only knew the history of the children but he sympathized with them He had been very fond of Mary Blagden and he had liked Phil Midthorne. But what may be more to the point, he was aware of the handsome bequest which Horace controlled as guardian

It has already been hinted that Eric was interested in the judge's daughter He had known Joan Bright since the first days of his residence in Corinth, and for just that length of time he had been her devoted, but diffident adorer. It began at the age of 6, when he performed for her especial benefit such deeds of valor as standing on his head or hands (chiefly on the back of his neck or his ear), turning somersaults, walking fence rails.—we've all gone to such lengths to produce an effect on the first lady of our heart. As time wore on, he became more enamored but less valiant. When he was 16, he was positively timorous He was not in the least backward so far as other girls were concerned, no one was more at ease more cocksure of himself, more debonair But with Joan—ah, well! It is an ancient affliction. No man is complete in himself unless he has had this disease and the measles—and recovered from both.

It must be admitted that she, with all the perversity of her sex, denied him the most because she liked him the best. Even young girls are capable of this. It's what makes women of them—the kind of women we go the farthest to please and to whom we are always grateful if the road is tortuous. Joan treated him most cavalierly at times. There was a good and sufficient reason, one affected by all girls of spirit, the tender suspicion, slyly encouraged, that she was in love with him.

Of course, she explained to herself, it was not at all true, and she went to a great deal of pains to convince herself of the fact,—to such pains, I may say, that he also was convinced. She was so confidently heartless in the matter that she rather enjoyed the sensation of being a dear friend to his sister It is a great comfort to be devoted to the sister of the man you despise.

Eric despaired. Manfully, of course, and in secret. His pride stood in the way of open attention to her. He never danced with her more than once in an evening; he seldom skated with her. But his heart was sore, and he was jealous.

He was grateful to her for the frank affection she bestowed on Mary. It proved Mary's position, and he cared more for that than for anything else in the world. She could hold up her head in Corinth when she walked with Joan Bright. As for himself, he dumbly realized that Joan Bright could never be more to him than the friend of his sister; he could ask for nothing more, being the son of a slayer of men. Was she not the daughter of a judge of men?

To be sure, Mary was cautioned by her aunt not to put evil ideas into the head of the innocent Joan! She had a selfish motive in preserving Judge Bright's daughter from contamination. Joan was an unwitting candidate for the hand of Chetwynd. The alliance, it seems, was desired by Horace. Neither Joan nor Chetwynd was consulted. Nor Judge Bright, for that matter. The Blagdens would see to all that when Chetwynd was a little older.

Mary was permitted to read "The Scarlet Letter" when she was 12. Her aunt professed a holy horror of the letter A, though just why she thought of it in connection with a mere child—or even an unmarried person—is not quite clear

An ordinary bomb, aimed at the smug Blagden serenity, in all likelihood would have created no perceptible disturbance, but one day there came an explosion that not only startled Horace and his wife out of their complacency but quite upset them for all time to come.

Chetwynd was expelled,—dishonorably expelled,—from Harvard'

CHAPTER V.

SEAWARD

It was said that Horace aged 10 years in less than a week. The shock came about the time of the Easter vacation, and fell from a clear sky Chetwynd and another youth had been found guilty of indiscretions that could not be overlooked by the powers at Harvard. The true story never quite came to light, but there was a great deal of talk about two chorus girls disgraceful orgies, voluptuous dances and a brawl in which one of the young women was severely beaten.

Chetwynd was bundled off to Europe, with his mother, to stay until the thing blew over, or, at least, until Horace could clear his perturbed brain of the something that seemed to clog it. Besides, there were the ugly newspaper accounts to be lived down that is to say, the stories that were printed in the Boston and New York papers. It goes without saying that the Corinth Courier ignored the matter There was not a line of it in the columns of the local paper Horace Blagden owned the publisher of the Courier, body and soul, as well as considerable of the stock in his newspaper

Todville unhesitatingly assisted in giving voice to all the tales, true and untrue, that came to notice. There was general rejoicing among the inmates of the Seaman's Home, and along the water front. In the barrooms and grogshops there were contests between all who struggled to create the coarsest jests at the expense of the great and spotless man of Corinth. If he could have heard them, the subject of these ribald quips would have shriveled within himself and groaned.

Eric and Mary were wise enough to hold their tongues, and to curb a very natural elation From afar off, they watched the comings and goings of the Rev Mr Presbrey, and somehow their keen inner consciousness told them that he, too, in his own way, rejoiced in the downfall of Chetwynd, who had long been a thorn in his side, a thorn he could not well afford to extract, but must endure in patient humility—as, for instance, the Hindo fanatic suffers himself to lie on his bed of pointed spikes.

In course of time, Mrs. Blagden and Chetwynd returned to Corinth. The summer was waning and raw, fog laden winds were sweeping in from the sea. All summer long, when other men were sweltering in the heat, Horace Blagden's heart was feeling the raw, chill winds of the sea, there was no warmth in the world for him Something had frozen within him, and it would never thaw. He went to Boston to meet the returning voyagers he came back with them to Corinth, outwardly as proud and confident as ever, but inwardly as desolate and humble as the lowliest of Lazaruses.

The sore that hurt him most was the one that opened every time he thought of Mary Blagden's children Why could it not have been one of them instead of Chetwynd? Why should an ironical malevolent fate have led his son into the very mire he had prescribed for hers? Horace could not understand why God had done this thing to him, while Mary's son was so available

Corinth received the wayward youth without reserve Houses and arms were opened to him just as Horace expected, and the tactless assistant paying teller in the bank who politely asked if Chetwynd was to return to Harvard next week, was the one who lost his place in order that the president's son might begin his career as a banker—a little earlier than his father had intended, to be sure, but in accordance with a destiny he had personally arranged The tactless teller assisted fate to a certain extent by putting the question for Mr Blagden was in somewhat of a quandary as to how he could make room for Chetwynd without removing a competent employe Of course it was quite obvious that a competent employe would never have asked if Chetwynd were to return to Harvard. It made it very easy to remove him

Chetwynd rather objected to going into the bank at first. He was quite sure he could make the crew at Yale, if the Governor would only go down to New Haven and "fix it up" with the heads of the institution. It did not enter his head that a man so powerful as Horace Blagden could fail to influence the officials of any college, in spite of the Harvard episode But Horace said he hoped he would never be called upon to resort to anything so desperate as the sending of a son of his to Yale!

So Chetwynd began his career as a banker sullenly, and in defiance of what he considered his own best interests. He started a mustache, and insisted that it was his right to smoke cigarets having taken a course in the art at college

(Continued next week.)

The Modern Spirit.

From the March Atlantic

The modern world thinks and lives and speaks in terms of the body, not of mind and soul The soul, that secret of personality, conceived as a part of one not wholly caught in the mechanical chain of things, capable of choice, was their great concern To them a little child was something sacred, immortal, whose endless destiny commanded on the part of those to whom it was entrusted alertness watchfulness, lest its feet should go astray from the narrow path that led to the heavenly hills Words spoken near the cradle where the new born baby lay turned the spot to holy ground To those of us who are most advanced today a little child is a little animal few are left who, in its presence, think of sacredness any more than in the presence of a little pig. There is the utmost alertness in meeting its physical needs; there is, if possible, a trained nurse to bring scientific knowledge to its requirements, to keep loving fingers away, but the ideas that encircle it concern for the most part its body Meanwhile, the most progressive thought of the age is busy with the question as to whether its standard cannot be raised to that of choice animal stock, whether the infant human being may not be bred, as colt or calf of approved ancestry is bred, by choice of the physically fit. This represents the farthest vision of the future, this is the goal against which the imagination of the present dreams.

Militarists Always Alarmed.

From the New York Evening Post.

The reduction of the Dardanelles forts was brought forward as an argument by Senator Lodge for heavier coast fortifications. If the forts had held out and the allied ships had suffered Senator Lodge would have asked for more battleships No matter who loses in Europe the prophets of "preparedness" always win

Chemists know about 150,000 organic chemical compounds and are increasing the list by from 5,000 to 8,000 a year.

A MASTER OF RETREAT

By Capt. C. S. Goldman, M. P.

I have just returned from France where I have visited the Compiegne-Soissons battle fields, and wherever I went I heard expressed on all sides the highest admiration for Sir John French—for his splendid spirit in co-operating so closely with General Joffre and subordinating himself to the general strategical plan

Somebody once, at a London dinner while proposing his health, said French was "the incomparable Ney" of the British army. That was after the Boer war when he had again and again proved his skill as a leader of cavalry; but it is not every colonel that makes a good general, or a good general a supreme commander in the field. French has not only been a brilliant leader of cavalry, but has proved himself to be a general of no mean order. In fact the war has produced the man.

French in South Africa went his way regardless of praise—he was rarely mentioned in dispatches; his operations were too swift and secret for the war correspondent to get alongside and it was not till the conclusion of the war that people began to reflect that no one had anything to say against French.

Silent, good-tempered, and alert, there he was, ready to do his duty if called upon, but refusing to press his claims at all; he stands in the minds of Englishmen as a type of man on whom they can rely in moments of emergency—solid, steadfast, and capable.

When history comes to be written we shall know all the early blunders of the war. The French false opening by raiding Alsace and Lorraine—how the Belgians said they could withstand the torrent for so long but must be relieved by such and such a date—how the French were not ready and were not able to keep the appointment—what time the Belgians were being cut to pieces—how "the contemptible little British army" was hurled across the channel under French and took a hand as they alighted from the footboards of the panting troop trains

General French must have known that it was not military strategy which took him to Mons—but sheer humanity. The story of that retreat will stand out in the pages of history blazoned with brilliant deeds. The Spartans at Thermopylae and Sir John Moore at Corunna made great retreats, but I believe for coolness, order, and precision, Sir John French's retreat from Mons will stand beside either.

Von Moltke always shook his head with perfect seriousness when praised as a general "Ah! I never had to retreat, that is the true test of generalship." And when you come to think of it, it must be so.

Our soldiers fought all day—seemed to drive the enemy back and then retired. They naturally wanted to know why, and if they had not had complete confidence in their leader, would have lost heart

Again and again the cavalry had to wheel round and fight rear-guard actions—for it is so fatally easy for a quick walk to become a run—for a retreat to become a rout "Keep them on the run" is a commonplace of warfare The difficulty is to set the pace and find where you can stop This General French did He led them nearly to the walls of Paris and then suddenly the Germans came to the conclusion that the retreat was not so successful as they had hoped Indeed, in the words of Chatham, "They had done nothing and suffered much" And that was due to Sir John French

"Every Inch a King."

Years ago, the present king of the Belgians visited this country, when he was heir to the Belgian throne Reginald Wright Kauffman, since the author of "The House of Bondage," but then a young journalist, wrote of the visitor. "His is a fine, upstanding figure, with a face frank and clean It is a face firm and brave and honest, but thought it has the dignity that belongs with these qualities, it is wholly free from arrogance, and the bearing manner and conversation of its owner are those of a manly, democratic leader of men This is a prince that should make Belgium small as she geographically is a great moral power among the nations The race of kings is dying out, but what is good in the diminishing candle has, unless all indications fail, become a pure flame in the next king of the Belgians."

Now Mr. Kauffman has just returned from Belgium, where he has seen the fulfillment of that prophecy and where he gathered the material for his new book, "In a Moment of Time," a record of his personal experiences during the war, a terrible but thrilling volume.

"The king of the Belgians," said Mr Kauffman recently, "displays today, in his hour of severest trial, the development of those qualities that made him popular in America during his visit here His honesty is admitted even by the enemies of his country, his firmness is already a matter of history, his bravery has been proved again and again (I know of one instance where he seized a dead man's rifle and fired from the trenches), and his easy, democratic manner wins the hearts of all with whom he talks. He is 'every inch a king,' but he is something more than that he is a real man"

The Bitter Time o' Year.

From the Indianapolis News.

Perhaps it was about this time of the year—perhaps it was a little later, that they used to begin to dose us up with a sticky, sweet and bitter tonic The time of the dose probably depended on whether it was given as a cure or a preventive. If it was a preventive, it was given about this time, if it was a cure it was given a little later to take the bad taste out of our mouths That is the trouble with this time of the year The world has a bad taste in its mouth It is chilly and feverish and disagreeable and cross most of the time The sun is not to be depended on the wind whines round, and now and then the sky weeps The trees are like dead things, and are decorated dismally with last year's bird's nests The green things that have ventured out of the ground are pounced on by the last breath of winter until they beg to be covered up again Our last year's straw hats are as dismal as the bird's nests, and our winter garments, if not repentant, are certainly not the most cheerful company in the world We should be glad enough to fling them in the fire of spring or into the furnace, for that matter, but they insist on sticking round everywhere we go, threatening all sorts of unpleasant things if we discard them Even the shop windows can not get rid of the winter suits and furs, but must have them crowding the spring models, and reminding us that the winter season is not gone. No wonder we used to have to take a tonic. The world itself needs a tonic, or it will in a few weeks, a tonic of sweet and bitter—sunshine and spring hats, along with the May taxes—a tonic to take the bad taste out of its mouth, and start it blooming and smiling again

Blues and Blues.

If you must sit high and sigh,
And have the blues,
Why don't you try to realize
That there are sighs and sighs,
And blues and blues,
From which to choose?

There are heavenly blues, and blue of tranquil seas,
Both pleasant—if you have them, pray have these.

—Annie L. Scull in Nautilus.

The population of the earth at the present rate of gain will be about 4,000,000,000 in the year 2014.

THE KING'S SCHEME.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Once upon a time there was a king who wanted to take a long journey, and he wished to leave his vast wealth in gold with some one who would guard it and at the same time send to him such amounts as he should need, for it would be very inconvenient to carry about so much gold.

So he chose from his servants one named Kali, and told him of his plan. "Guard this room well," said the king, "for in here is all my gold, and when I return I will reward you."

The king set out upon his journey and Kali guarded the gold, sending each time the amount his master requested. When at last his master had been gone a year Kali thought that he would not wait for his master to return but help himself to the gold. So he took away as much as he could carry each night and hid it in a cave in the woods.

Another year passed and at last the gold was almost gone, and when his master sent to him for more Kali sent word that some one must have worked a magic spell upon the gold, for it was nearly gone, and his master came hurrying home, only to find himself a poor man, for, as Kali had said, there remained but a small quantity of the gold.

"I have guarded the gold well," Kali told the king "I have slept here, and, as no robber has broken, it must be that some magic art has been worked upon us."

Now the king did not believe what Kali told him, but he pretended that he did, and in the morning he asked Kali to ride with him When they reached the woods the king said: "We will ride through here This path looks cool and shady"

After they had ridden awhile the king said, "I believe we are lost, for the path is nowhere to be seen, and we are deep in the forest, we shall have to sleep here for the night"

The king had purposely lost the path, for he wanted to bring Kali before two witches that lived in the forest, and they did not make themselves seen until midnight.

Kali was tired and not having anything better to do, he soon fell asleep. He was awakened by a bright flash, and when it cleared away he saw before him two witches standing beside a boiling pot, which they stirred with two long sticks. Black cats with green eyes stood near them, and every once in a while they would yawn and fly about in a frantic manner

Kali rubbed his eyes, for he thought he must be dreaming, but he saw the king standing a short distance away with folded arms, looking at him in anything but a friendly way.

"Are you quite ready Madame Witches?" he asked stepping close to the pot "And are you quite sure that the liquid is hot enough?"

Both witches nodded their heads and said in concert in a singsong tone.

Plunge him in the boiling pot,
And if the gold he stole,
He'll find the water boiling hot,
If not, he'll find it cold"

Kali was trembling by the time the witches finished their singsong verse and he would have run away, but the black cats were standing on either side of him and looking at him out of their green eyes in a manner that plainly told him escape was out of the question

The king took him by the collar and said "You have nothing to fear if it is true that a magic art was used to take away my gold, but if you have told an untruth and took it yourself, the water will burn you until you tell where it is."

Kali looked at the steaming kettle and fell on his knees before the king. "Mercy! Mercy!" he cried. "I took the gold, master, and I will take you to the place where it is hidden if you will save me from the steaming pot."

"That will do," said the king, tossing some gold to the witches, who stopped stirring and the pot stopped steaming.

Kali took the king to the cave where he had stored the gold, and the king had it carried back to the castle, and Kali was punished by being made to work in the stables of the king, instead of being a trusted servant, as he was before he stole the gold

Recognizing South America.

From the Louisville Courier Journal.

Survey of the consular readjustments made under the law passed by the last congress reveals a gratifying disposition on the part of the state department to attach increased importance to South American posts. There is little doubt that the southern republics have been somewhat slightingly treated in this regard in the past, for this mistake North American business has paid in dollars and cents. Inadequate and inefficient representation at these posts has contributed to the difficulties besetting any efforts at trade expansion with the countries south of us. A change in the state department's policy is welcomed by every sentimental and practical consideration.

We can not expect a very eager or lively commercial exchange with a continent that we have chosen to make a dumping ground in the consular service; and this is what we have done, in many instances, with South America. Criticism on this score has been made from time to time both by American business men in this country and by officials and business men in the republics themselves. A change that will indicate a higher regard for those countries in the United States, at the same time that it furnishes real assistance to commercial exchange, is doubly gratifying.

In some of the republics the rank of the offices has been raised, in others experienced men have been placed, and in still other instances we are to have efficient representation where heretofore we have had none. Up to the present time we have had no representation at Sao Paulo, the second largest city in Brazil and one of the most active commercial centers in South America—an omission difficult to understand; certainly a readjustment that stresses the importance of such a post as this has not come too soon. Under the new arrangement the Sao Paulo post is to be filled by Maddin Summers, now serving at Santos, Brazil.

In the same week bringing word of these readjustments comes the announcement from Washington that negotiations are under way looking to the exchange of money orders between the United States and South America. All this is exceedingly gratifying to those who believe that commercial relations between North and South America are capable of enormous expansion, with a little display of practical and intelligent effort.

PLAYFUL DOG CH...

Tragic End for New Yor... That Came With T... Game

Thomas Santerano, ... age, and his cousin An... seven, were playing in t... their home with a cloth ... him down a cellar door an... then tying him to clothe... dangled from a fire escape.

A real dog, unkempt, lea... lineage whatever, entered ... and the children forgot the ... to play with the stranger

Thomas, standing on the ... flipped the clothesline, and ... seized it. He tugged one ... Thomas the other the boy ... around on the cellar door a... ing. In some way the rope ... his neck. He tugged to fr... and the dog resisted

The little girl didn't ... why her cousin didn't shout ... any more. She ran scre... the tenement. When the ... came they found the boy d... drove the dog away and ... boy to his mother.—New Yo...

PREMATURE BALD...

Due to Dandruff and Irrita... vented by Cuticura.

The Soap to cleanse and ... Ointment to soothe and he... shampoos with Cuticura ... occasional applications of ... Ointment gently rubbed ... scalp skin will do much to ... hair-growing conditions.

Sample each free by mail ... Address postcard, Cuticura, ... Boston. Sold everywhere.—...

Just Recreation.

A weather-beaten damsel ... over six feet in height and ... of shoulders proportionately ... peared at a back door in ... and asked for light housew... said that her name was Lizzi... plained that she had been ill ... phoid and was convalescing.

"Where did you come from ... inquired the woman of th... "Where have you been?"

"I've been working out on ... ranch," replied Lizzie, "dig... holes while I was gittin my ... back."

For Identification Purposes.

"Gentlemen," began the ... thus putting himself en rap... his auditors, flattering their ... teem, though committing the ... uttering a pale, white lie

"Gentlemen," he repeated, ... bing it in, "I desire to call y... attention to the four poems ... about to recite"

A sub rosa groan escaped t... ered audience.

"Only the first of these poe... nounced the speaker, "is min... other three are by Longfellow

With an audible sigh of re... audience settled back prep... endure the worst

The Truthful Traveler.

"How did you find it ... tropics?"

"All that I expected it to be.

"You were not disappointed ...

"Not at all. I thought it w... to be the next thing to Ha... it was."

A broken promise can be r... but it can never be made as ... new.

SOME HARD KNOCKS

Woman Gets Rid of "Coffee ...

The injurious action of coffe... hearts of many persons is well ... by physicians to be caused by ... This is the drug found by che... coffee and tea.

A woman suffered a long ti... severe heart trouble and fin... doctor told her she must give ... fee, as that was the principal ... the trouble. She writes

"My heart was so weak it co... do its work properly. My h... would sometimes have to ca... from the table, and it would se... I would never breathe again.

"The doctor told me that co... causing the weakness of my he... said I must stop it, but it se... could not give it up until I w... in bed with nervous prostratio...

"For eleven weeks I lay the... suffered. Finally husband ... home some Postum and I qui... and started new and right. S... got well. Now I do not have an... aches, nor those spells wit... heart. We know it is Postu... helped me. The Dr said th... day: 'I never thought you w... what you are.' I used to w... pounds and now I weigh 158...

"Postum has done much for ... I would not go back to coffee ... for I believe it would kill me ... at it. Postum must be prepa... cording to directions on pkg.... has a rich flavor and with c... fine."

Name given by Postum Co.... Creek, Mich. Read "The Road ... ville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum — must ... boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a solub... der. A teaspoonful dissolves ... in a cup of hot water and, with ... and sugar, makes a delicious b... instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delici... cost per cup about the same

"There's a Reason" for Po...

—sold by G...

...EN FROM ...55 TESTIFY

...rit of Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound during Change of Life.

...Me.—"I was passing Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my ..."—Mrs. LAWRENCE MAR... St., Westbrook, Maine.

...Wis.—"At the Change of ...red with pains in my back ...til I could not stand. I also ...sweats so that the sheets ...wet. I tried other medicine ...relief. After taking one bot... E. Pinkham's Vegetable I began to improve and I ...its use for six months. The ...se, the night-sweats and hot ...less, and in one year I was ... woman. I know I have to ...for my continued good health ..."—Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, ...Wis.

...ess of Lydia E. Pinkham's ... Compound, made from roots ...is unparalleled in such cases. ...nt special advice write to ...inkham Medicine Co. (confi... ...ss. Your letter will ..., read and answered by a ...d held in strict confidence.

...Wretchedness ...onstipation

...y be overcome by ...S LITTLE ...LLS.

...getable ...y and ...the ...re

...digestion. They do their duty. ...L, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. ...ne must bear Signature

...ew Good

...roper Surroundings.

...called a conference of lead... ...s to consider assisting the ...d Europe."

...ride a nice lunch for those ..."

...ave out the lunch. Let 'em ...y is to be hungry. They'll ...the situation better."—Kan... Journal.

FOOT-EASE for the TROOPS ...packages of Allen's Foot-Ease, the ...owder to shake into your shoes, are ...by the German and Allied troops at ...because it rests the feet, gives in... ...to Corns and Bunions, hot, swollen ...ter feet, and makes walking easy. ...where, 25c. Try It TODAY. Don't ...substitute. Adv.

Matter of Sex.

...s one of the spiciest books I ...d," remarked the hardware ..., as he turned over another ...

...queried the hotel clerk. ...the name of the authoress?"

...N DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU ...Bye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery ...Granulated Eyelids; No Smarting— ...mfort. Write for Book of the Eye ... Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

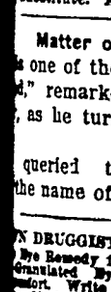
Hardly.

...on a submarine quite cheer... ...uld think it would rather in... ...sinking feeling."

...All Used Up?

...our back ache constantly? Do ...sharp twinges when stooping ...? Do you feel all used up— ...could just go no further? ...weakness brings great discom... ...hat with backache, headache, ...and urinary disturbances it is ...one feels all used up. ...Kidney Pills have cured thou... ...just such cases. It's the best ...ided special kidney remedy.

...South Dakota Case



Mrs. F. L. Mann, ...1000 W. Main St., Vermillion, S. D., says: "I had such bad pains in my back I could hardly straighten after stooping. Mornings I was all worn out and doctors said my bladder was inflamed. I lost weight and often had to lie down for relief. On a druggist's advice I used ...Kidney Pills and they restored ...d health."

...at Any Store, 50c a Box

...AN'S KIDNEY PILLS ...LBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

...cial Denial

...n Homestead Land in Canada

...that a war tax is to be placed on ...lands in Western Canada having ...considerable circulation in the ..., this is to advise all enquirers ...tax has been placed, nor is there ...to place a war tax of any nature ... (Signed) W. D. Scott, Supt. of ..., Ottawa, Canada, March 15th, 1915.

...CITY PTG. CO., NO. 15-1915.

MAKE THE BEST OF LEFT-OVERS

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There is not so much waste in the kitchens of the land as there was 15 years ago, at least that seems to be the case. Such a violent campaign in the interests of using up by-products and left-overs has been made that almost every household has heard of it and enlisted in it.

But many cooks, many housewives, do not yet know how to make the best of left-overs. They serve the left-over beefsteak a second time, but they simply heat it in the oven. It has by that time lost its original freshness, and makes its appearance as a rather crisp and unappetizing dish.

Cold steak can be ground in a meat chopper, formed into little cakes, and fried on each side for a minute or two. Then it can be served with tomato sauce. Or it can be formed into croquets, with boiled rice and white sauce.

Cold roast lamb, beef, veal, chicken, kidneys, etc., may be heated up deliciously in the casserole. Heat any gravy that is left over to almost boiling point and then put in slices of lamb or beef and let them get warmed through, do not cook them. In the absence of gravy, a rich beef juice could be used. For boiled or fricasseed chicken have ready some boiled rice and put this first in the casserole. Take off the skin of the chicken and bone it, place the bits of butter, add seasoning if needed and a dust of curry powder. Then cover the casserole and let rice and chicken heat to the cooking point. When heating the lamb and beef slices the casserole must not be covered, as the steam toughens the meat.

Any kind of cold cooked vegetable almost, may be converted into a tempting salad. Spinach may be chopped and mixed with oil and a little vinegar, pepper and salt, chilled, garnished with minced boiled egg and served in lettuce leaves. Peas and beets may be mixed together with mayonnaise. Peas and beans and cauliflower, with French dressing, are delicious. Here is a recipe for a very elaborate salad, one which, however, may be adapted to the use of such left-overs you have on hand. It is a Russian salad.

Take the cold remains of fowls, partridges, pheasants or chicken, and of some fine fish, and cut them in thin slices. Add a small quantity of cooked cauliflower, carrots, turnips, asparagus tips, all cut in very small pieces, capers, shrimps, a little caviar and a pinch of finely chopped shallots. Then make a dressing with red and white pepper, salt, oil, vinegar and mustard. Beat the whole with the yolk of one egg and pour it over the salad. Keep on ice until served.

Any left overs, of meat or vegetables, can be put into the soup kettle and with a bone, a handful of rice and good seasoning may be converted into a delicious soup.

Breaking Bad Habits.

Ethel Shackelford in Nautilus

Generations of unprofitable thinking are responsible for the discouraging idea that a bad habit is a fact when, as a matter of truth it is a phase. The deepest set mistake requires but three things to eradicate it and accomplish its forgiveness. These are:

The desire to change.

A method for making the change and

Ten minutes a day.

Habits bad and good are mental. They start progress and die right in the same place—the mind.

It is not the gossip's physical tongue that is to blame for keeping the neighborhood in turmoil. A burglar's left hand is not the place of his crime or his reform, nor does the right knee pan of the drunkard cause a chaotic home. The complications originate, live and stop all in the same place in his thinking. We have been told this thousands of times.

Let us say that a bad habit is a mental ailment which has besetting results in various ways. Let us believe, too, that its unhappy possessor sees his fault and wishes to overcome it. To such a being we can say that diffused as he may be from the wearisome pounding of his own wrong point of view, blurred as he may be from illness and the constant repeating of such vitality sappers as: "This strain is killing me." "I can't sleep more than four hours a night." "I feel I am losing my mind." surely he can acknowledge the first rule of physics? No two objects can occupy the same space at the same time.

This law makes the foundation of our method. We make a spiritual paraphrase for the eradication of bad habits: No two characters can occupy the same mind at the same time.

ADVANTAGES OF FARM HOMES IN IOWA COUNTY

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, James A. King, an agricultural engineer, writes an article entitled "A Home Water and Sewer System." He describes one that was installed in an Iowa farm home and is now in successful operation. In the following extract from his article he makes a comparison of the old fashioned farm home with the modern farm home.

"A farm home offers advantages that cannot be had in town or city at any price. They are advantages that go far toward making a wholesome and a happy life. Until recently town and city life afforded certain physical comforts which were not to be had in the farm home, and the absence of which detracted greatly from the attractiveness of farm life. There were the advantages and comforts that go with furnace heat, waterworks, and sewer systems. But recent developments now make it possible to have these advantages in the country home at no greater expense than in the city home. So now country life holds out all of the advantages, with none of the disadvantages, of city and town life."

The Happy Dead.

The place of the dead is fair and still.
The gravestones gleam like doors in the hill,
When the sun goes red
And the moon comes white.

The trees on the hill are kingly high,
Their plumes swing proudly against the sky
In the blaze of noon,
In the ghostly night.

Why moan you there by the peaceful dead,
And cry on the earth and hide your head,
On the stormless hill,
By the tearless bed?

Oh, rest, sweet rest for the quiet dead,
Beneath the grass in their lovely bed—
Not a twinge of pain,
Not a hunger pang!

I weep for those in the place of life
Whose hearts have died of the bitter strife
Not the sleeping dead,
Not the happy dead.
—Marjorie Sutherland in the Craftsman.

It was stated in a recent police court prosecution, at Newport, Mont., that the Great Western company had 30,000 towels stolen from its car lavatories last year.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE NEUTRAL GROUND

Bessie Beatty in San Francisco Bulletin.

Is there any neutral territory in your home?

Have you any little harbor where the bark is safe when whitecaps top the water and a squall is threatening?

Listen to this little scheme. It is the plan of a man and a maid, who, three years ago, set up their household gods on a hearth of their own and drew up terms for a long partnership.

"Three years without a semblance of a quarrel," says he.

"And do you want to know how we do it? The big chair deserves all the credit. When we were married we had less than $100 with which to buy furniture. A quarter of it went into the purchase of a chair big enough to hold us both—and now it holds her and me and a little chunk of a fellow besides."

That chair was ceremoniously christened neutral territory.

A house rule was made that whenever anything went wrong the offended should summon the offender into the good natured depths of "neutral territory" and talk things over quietly and sanely. In neutral territory no high pitched voices or excitable states of mind are permitted. The stories that big chair could tell would fill a book but according to its owners it has never failed to accomplish marvels as a friction eliminator.

That story starts a lot of thought. Neutral territory. It's what we seem to need almost everywhere in life.

Talking it over is the best medicine for all misunderstandings—provided we talk on neutral territory, talk with soft voices and a desire to speak a common language.

Silence is a blessed blessing at times but silence in the face of misunderstanding is more dangerous than matches in the hands of babes.

Silence breeds sullenness. It takes wee little molehills and heaps trouble upon trouble on the ache until it has built a mountain of woe. Assisted by imagination it erects barriers so high that some people never succeed in climbing over them.

There is probably not a man or woman among you who can not look back upon some barrier built in just this way.

They divide friend from friend, brother from brother, husband from wife, nation from nation and race from race.

And neutral territory and talking it over would always save the day.

We provide against one emergency and ignore another more important. We stock the larder with canned groceries and keep the linen closet stocked against the coming of an unexpected guest. We buy life and fire and accident insurance and put savings (if we have any) in the bank. But we don't provide neutral territory.

Most people start friendship and partnerships with little thought for all the difficult adjustments that must be made. They forget in the joy of new relationships that every human being is an individual, and as such has points of difference from every other individual.

It takes a big chair to meet these differences. It takes the state of mind that the big chair represents. For what does the big chair mean but merely an excuse for getting closer together, for striving to look sympathetically and with love in our hearts at the other man's failings, the while we are conscious of our own.

Antofagasta.

From the Washington Star.

Antofagasta is a town in northern Chile and it is quite as bad as its name. By rights, it is no place for white folks to live. The huge bulk of a naked mountain overshadowes it, and the sun fairly shrivels it. It is a blistered, dust ridden transfer station between the desert and the ocean.

The few sickly looking green things to be seen are kept alive by constant nursing with water that comes through a pipe 180 miles long.

The hack drivers carry feather dusters in the whip sockets of their cabs, because they need them more than whips and the bartenders have to cater to the fiercest thirst on earth.

When the housewife in Antofagasta would go to market for fruit and vegetables she listens for the whistle of a visiting steamer, hires a rowboat and is pulled hurriedly out into the harbor. When the whistle blows she can't take much time to powder her nose or fuss with her back hair, else all the other housewives in Antofagasta will have hired all the rowboats and gobbled up all the fruit and vegetables.

On one side of the lead covered buildings along the wharf the word "Nitrate" is spelled in great black letters. This explains the appearance of the white people and the town itself. Were it not for nitrate and the trade of the inland mining camps the lizards would soon be left in possession of the shifting sands of Antofagasta. The white people have taken much treasure from the desert, but they have had to pay dearly for it. High up on the mountain are the gleaming shafts of an overgrown graveyard. The thickly studded headstones flash in the sun as if to signal the desert's challenge and its warning.

It is no easy matter to live where you have to go to market on a tramp steamer and have your drinking water come through a pipe 180 miles long.

In Ye Olden Time.

Hallam Winter in National Magazine

At that time there were few railroad and steamboat lines; there were no telephones to save time and shoe leather and expedite business and social converse. Stoves were rarely used except in the cities and larger towns, and even then open grates and "airtight" wood heaters were chiefly in evidence. A few hot air furnaces were in use, but steam and hot water heating plants had scarcely been perfected even for large theaters, churches or other public buildings. The sewing machine had just begun its beneficent mission in home and workshop, lessening immensely the labors of the housewife and the purchaser and seller of ready made clothing.

Candles of tallow, spermaceti and wax, with whale oil and especially dangerous camphine lamps, "made darkness visible" in the majority of homes, and only the larger cities as a rule were lighted by gas of poor quality and burned by inferior tips and pressure service. Electricity as a source of light, heat, and power had been known only in the speculations of Faraday and other great scientific seers, whose costly laboratory experiments were to pave the way for the practical and economic discoveries and labors of an Edison.

Food was cheap, but many foreign fruits and commodities were then rare luxuries, which today are within the reach of every industrious mechanic, and the cuisines of 100 races have contributed to make our diet varied and luxurious beyond anything dreamed of in 1850.

Man's Two Sides.

God be thanked, the meanest of His creatures
Boasts two soul sides, one to face the world with,
One to a woman when he loves her!
—Robert Browning.

The cost of the immense Krupp guns is not known outside a certain circle; nor is there data available to show what is costs to fire them. However, one may form a conjecture from figures in the United States ordnance reports. If a three-inch battery costs $86,000 and fires a 15-pound projectile, at a cost of $15 for each shot; a six-inch battery costs $169,000 and fires a 108-pound projectile, at a cost of $60; a 16-inch gun throws a projectile weighing 2,400 pounds, at a cost of $12,000—what, then, must be the cost of a 25-inch cannon and the load of ammunition discharged from it?

W. L. DOUGLAS

MEN'S $2.50 $3 $3.50 $4.00 $4.50 $5 $5.50 SHOES
WOMEN'S $2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 & $4.00 SHOES
BOYS' $1.75 $2 $2.50 $3.00 MISSES' $2.00 & $2.50

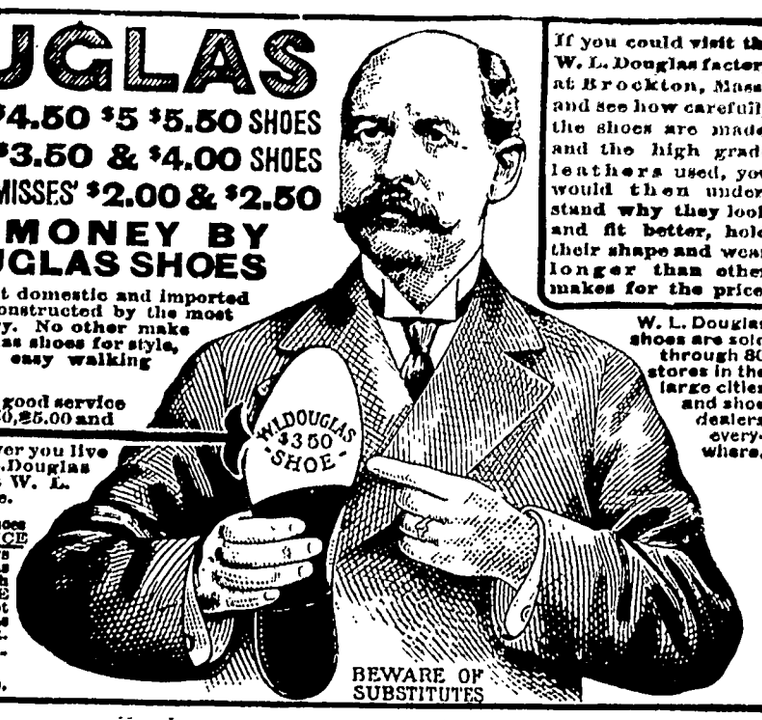
YOU CAN SAVE MONEY BY WEARING W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES

W. L. Douglas shoes are made of the best domestic and imported leathers, on the latest models, carefully constructed by the most expert last and pattern makers in this country. No other make of equal prices, can compete with W. L. Douglas shoes for style, workmanship and quality. As comfortable, easy walking shoes they are unsurpassed.

The $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes will give as good service as other makes costing $4.00 to $5.00. The $4.50, $5.00 and $5.50 shoes compare favorably with other makes costing $6.00 to $8.00. Wherever you live there are many men and women wear shoes. Consult them and they will tell you that W. L. Douglas shoes cannot be excelled for the price.

CAUTION! When buying W.L. Douglas shoes look for his NAME AND PRICE stamped on the bottom. Shoes thus stamped are always worth the price paid for them. For 32 years W. L. Douglas has guaranteed their value and protected the wearer against high prices for inferior shoes by having his NAME AND PRICE stamped on the bottom before they leave the factory. Do not be persuaded to take some other make claimed to be just as good. You are paying your money and are entitled to the best.

If your dealer cannot supply you, write for Illustrated Catalog showing how to order by mail.
W. L. Douglas, 210 Spark St., Brockton, Mass.



If you could visit the W. L. Douglas factory at Brockton, Mass., and see how carefully the shoes are made, and the high grade leathers used, you would then understand why they look and fit better, hold their shape and wear longer than other makes for the price.

W. L. Douglas shoes are sold through 80 stores in the large cities and shoe dealers everywhere.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES

The Grinding.

Real love wears, endures and, like an oak, grows stronger with the years, more firmly rooted by every struggle with opposing conditions, every weathered storm. One of our great composers made the hand organ the test of the popularity of each of his new musical creations. "Will it grind?" was his earnest and wistful question. The love worth while is the love that will grind, that has in it such real music that all the monotony and grind of married life cannot kill its sweetness, its inspiration, its melody and harmony.—Little Problems of Married Life.

NO WAR TAX ON CANADIAN LANDS

Untruthful Reports Circulated by Interested Parties.

Defaming a neighbor at the expense of the truth does not help those who are guilty of the practice, and it may be said that those spreading false reports about Canadian lands, in the hope that they may secure customers for their own, will certainly fail of their purpose. False statements so maliciously circulated will sooner or later be disproved. And, as in the case of the lands of Western Canada, the fertility of which is now so well known to people of every state in the United States, the folly of this work shows an exceeding short sightedness on the part of those guilty of the practice.

The present war has given some of these people the opportunity to exercise their art, but in doing it they are only arousing the curiosity of those who read the statements and a trifling investigation will only reveal their untruthfulness.

A very foolish statement has recently appeared in a number of papers, reading in part as follows:—

"It is believed that as a result of the war tax on land imposed by the Canadian Government a number of former Dakota farmers who went to the British Northwest will be compelled to return to the United States. Information has been received that the tax will amount to about $500 for each farm of 160 acres, which in the case of many of the former residents of the two Dakotas would practically amount to confiscation."

To show that the public has doubted, hundreds of inquiries have been made the Government at Ottawa, Canada, only to bring out the most emphatic denial. A full-fledged lie of this kind has, of course, only a short life, and will tell in the end against those who forge it and spread it, but, as a Winnipeg paper points out, it is most complimentary to the agricultural possibilities of Western Canada to find that rival farming propositions need audacious mendacity of this description to help them.

What is the truth? The Saskatchewan Government has authorized a levy of $10 per quarter section on uncultivated lands owned by non-residents. The Alberta Government has imposed a Provincial tax of 10 mills on the assessed value of all uncultivated lands. There are some special applications of these taxes, but the main provisions are as above. Those vacant lands held by non-residents in Western Canada form a grave problem. They are making for poor communities, poor schools and poor social and economic conditions generally. By having them cultivated the owners as well as the districts in which they are located will benefit alike. It is for this reason that the Government has recently asked the co-operation of the non-residents. The high price of grain for some years to come, and the general splendid character of Western Canada land will make the question well worth consideration.—Advertisement.

Slighted.

Dorothy overheard her parents talking about Bible names.

"Is my name in the Bible?" she asked.

"No, dear."

"Why, didn't God make me?"

"Yes, dear."

"Then why didn't he say something about it?"

Business Coming.

Bill—He'll have a lot of business after the European war is over.

Jill—Why, what's his business?

"He's a mapmaker."

Knew What He'd Do.

A British officer inspecting sentries guarding the line in Flanders came across a raw-looking yeoman.

"What are you here for?" he asked.

"To report anything unusual, sir."

What would you call unusual?"

"I dunno exactly, sir."

"What would you do if you saw five battleships steaming across that field yonder?"

"Sign the pledge, sir."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Marvel of Training.

Rose had called on her afternoon out to see her friend, Arabella. Arabella's mistress had just purchased a parrot, and Rose was much interested in the bird.

"Birds is shore sensible," she observed. "You kin learn them anything. I uster work for a lady that had a bird in a clock, an' when it was time to tell de time ob day it uster come out an' say 'cuckoo' jest as many times as de time was."

"Go along. Yo' doan say so," said Arabella, incredulously.

"Shore thing," replied Rose, 'and de mos' wonderful part was dat it was only a wooden bird, too."—Harper's.

SUFFERED FOR FOUR YEARS.

Mr. J. M. Sinclair of Olivehill, Tenn., writes: "I strained my back, which weakened my kidneys and caused an awful bad backache and inflammation of the bladder. Later I became so much worse that I consulted a doctor, who said that I had Diabetes and that my heart was affected. I suffered for four years and was in a nervous state and very much depressed. The doctor's medicine didn't help me, so I decided to try Dodds Kidney Pills, and I cannot say enough to express my relief and thankfulness, as they cured me. Diamond Dinner Pills cured me of Constipation."

Mr. J. M. Sinclair.

Dodds Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Dodds Dyspepsia Tablets for Indigestion have been proved. 50c. per box.—Adv.

It is possible to entertain an angel unawares, but you can't entertain a bore that way.

Little Mary Knew.

Two small girls were playing together when one of them suddenly became very thoughtful. "Bessie," said the thoughtful one, "I think that when I die and go to heaven I will take my raincoat and rubbers and—"

"Take your raincoat and rubbers!" wonderingly interjected Bessie. "Why, Mary, it doesn't rain in heaven, does it?"

"Of course it does, you little chump!" was the positive rejoinder of Mary. "Where else does it ever come from?"

Explicit.

"Do you say you've known this man all his life?" asked the lawyer.

"No," returned the careful witness. "I've just known him up to now. When he's hung, after you all get through with him, I'll say I knowed him all his life."

VISIT

California's Expositions

Via

Northern Pacific Ry

and Great Northern Pacific S. S. Co.
Low round trip fares—liberal stopovers. Daily transcontinental trains from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul or Minneapolis to North Pacific Coast Points through the Scenic Highway.

Enroute Stop at Wonderful Yellowstone National Park
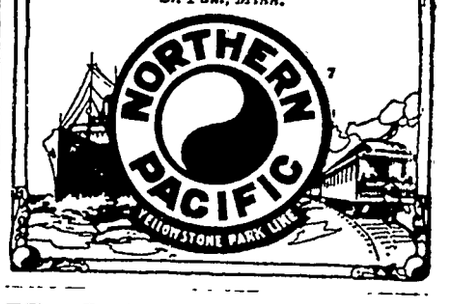
Nature's Own World's Exposition

Enter via Gardiner Gateway reached only by Northern Pacific Ry. View the strange phenomena and unequalled beauty of wonderland. Personally escorted tours to and through the Park during the season. Send at once for free Expositions folder, travel literature, and information and let us assist you in planning your 1915 "Made in America" vacation.

A. M. CLELAND, Gen'l Pass. Agent
517 Northern Pacific Ry.
St. Paul, Minn.



Kodaks DEVELOPING and PRINTING

Send for Catalogue and Finishing Price List.
ZIMMERMAN BROTHERS, 606 Pierce St., Sioux City, Ia.

Cooks Fast, Slow or "Fireless"

You can cook three ways with this NEW PERFECTION with the insulated oven. By adjusting the flame you get the quickest kind of quick heat for fast baking, or the slow steady kind you need for baking bread and roasting.

Seal the oven and turn out the flame and you have a fireless cook stove—the easiest managed, most convenient fireless that was ever invented.

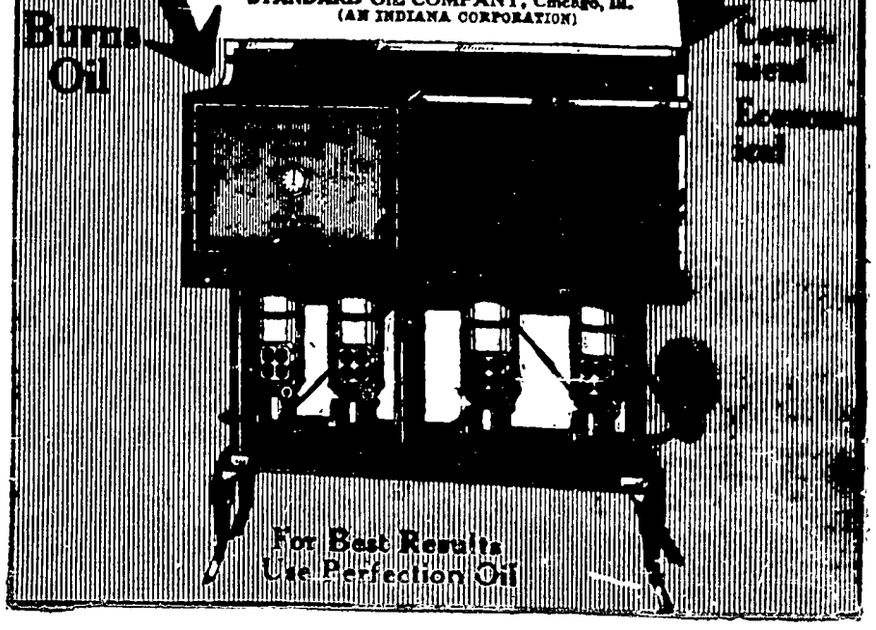
The insulation keeps the heat in the oven and out of the kitchen. This saves fuel all the year 'round and is a blessing in the summer. A spacious cabinet top warms up the dishes, there is ample room behind the burners for keeping food hot.

Burns oil—clean, convenient, economical. Why carry coal and wood in and dirty ashes out when with a NEW PERFECTION all you need is matches. Price amazingly low—this splendid range and fireless cooker combined costs very little more than a good fireless and less than any coal or wood range that would begin to do the same work.

See this NEW PERFECTION Wick Blue Flame Cook Stove at your dealer's. He has it in two sizes, as well as a big line of other NEW PERFECTIONS. Look for the triangle trademark.

72-page cook book free for five 2-cent stamps to pay for mailing.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.
(AN INDIANA CORPORATION)



LOCAL ITEMS

Wallace Pavey is the new marshal.

E. M. Boren transacted business in Goodell, Wednesday.

P. M. Griesemer transacted business at Garner, Wednesday.

J. Gus Thaves of Germania transacted business here today.

A. Wellemeyer went to Chicago, Monday, on a businesf mission.

Now is the time to buy your poultry remedies. Ed. G. Ell.

Bargains in Millinery at Mrs. C, F. Bier's. Hats that are up-to-date.

Potatoes For Sale—Early Ohios and Rurals. Ed. G. Ell.

WANTED:—Some milk cows and steers. Phone 106. John Coobs.

Joe Miller returned Saturday from Belmond, where he had been doing some painting

Automobiles and Fords are again getting plentiful since the roads are again passable.

Fred Westendorf of Woden was a visitor at the U G. Smid home, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs W. F. Lau were over Sunday visitors with relatives and friends in this city.

We have pasture for 75 to 80 head of cattle. Let us know at once.
Miner, Stain and Hoyt.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Pain leaves almost as if by magic when you begin using "5-Drops," the famous old remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and kindred troubles. It goes right to the spot, stops the aches and pains and makes life worth living Get a bottle of "5-Drops" today A booklet with each bottle gives full directions for use. Don't delay Demand "5-Drops" Don t accept anything else in place of it Any druggist can supply you. If you live too far from a drug store send One Dollar to Robinson Rheumatic Cure Co., Norwich, Ohio, and a bottle of "5-Drops" will be sent you.

Buy all your magazines of us We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

CALL AND SEE THE

ROBINSON MANURE SPREADER

HORSES CLIPPED

All those who have Horses they wished clipped this spring, bring them in and we will do the work right and promptly.

City Livery Barn

Rock Island

Scenic Circle Tours

The Expositions in California—the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego, and the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, offer the greatest opportunity ever presented to the American people to see something of their own country.

Choice of routes, with a number of limited trains to choose from, including the famous "Golden State Limited," "Rocky Mountain Limited" and "Californian" Low fares for round trip. Liberal stopover privileges. Long return limit.

Get a copy of our folder on the Panama Expositions. Tells you how to go and what you can see.

Our representatives are travel experts who will help you plan a wonderful and an economical outing, give you full information and look after every detail of your trip.

Finest Modern All-Steel Equipment

For tickets, reservations and information see

T. F. Mitchell, Agent

Chickozone the best chicken dope on the market. Ed. G. Ell.

Dr. and Mrs. Parsons enjoyed an over Easter visit from his mother whose home is at Traer.

Hats that are pretty; Hats that are classy, Hats for everyone at the lowest prices. Mrs. C. F, Bier.

FOR SALE—My house and small out buildings, good well on place.
Chas. F. Busch

POTATOES FOR SALE:—
Early Ohios, 65c. Rurals, 50c
Ed. G. Ell.

FOR SALE—Some old machinery left from sale, at right price.
A. Caroles.

Mrs. George Schroeder and Mrs. Charles Schroeder and daughter returned Saturday from a visit at New Albion.

Mrs. Montgomery returned Tuesday Iowa Falls, where she had been visiting her daughter and numerous friends.

We are selling pork in halves and quarters at very reasonable prices. It will pay you to investigate.—J. P. Larsen & Sons.

Mrs. Fronia Davis and little daughter came over from Mason City, Saturday, for a few days visit with relatives and friends

Miss Gretchen Blank went to Belmond, Tuesday, to assist in caring for her sister, Mrs. C. Quandt, who is reported as being quite ill.

The "Mysterious Smith" Co. at the opera house Wednesday evening was greeted by a fair house and everyone seemed to enjoy the show.

RUGS from Carpet, Clothing, anything; free freight; cheapest; best. Catalog explains. 844—6th Ave.,
Des Moines, Iowa.

Wallace Pavey had his great toe on his right foot badly bruised today when a large horse which he was shoeing let down too much on the injured member ic a very ungentle manner.

The school ertertainment recently postponed on account of sickness will be held at the opera house on the evening of Thursday, April 15th The proceeds of the entertainment are for the benefit of the school library.

Mr and Mrs Fred Lenz of Beltrami, Minnesota, who recently came down for a visit with relatives in this vicinity are now spending a few days in town with their son, Charles, and with his brother Ernest

When you become tired of drugs as many do, Osteopathy stands ready to demonstrate its usefulness to you
Dr R W Shultz,
Osteopathic Physician
Garner, Ia

A large number from town and surrounding community were Garner visitors, Tuesday A majority were up on drainage matters, while a few were delegates to the county convention of school presidents who that day reelected County Superintendent Baggs.

A large and appreciative audience was out to hear H. M Sparhoe at the opera house, Monday evening He did not dwell much on drainage but gladly answered any question along that line after his lecture the general theme of which was civic improvement and to say the least he made a hit with those present.

Word has come to us that Mrs Dietz of Mason City is not an osteopath but sailing under false colors and we are glad to make the correction, as we do not wish to mislead anyone She may understand her business but it is not osteopathy and those who wish osteopath treatments should bear this in mind

We have 40 Iowa newspapers on our exchange list representing that many towns and it is safe to say that fully 75 per cent of these towns are just organizing consolidated school districts of just going to. What is Klemme going to do on this important and popular question? Shall we wait and let the other fellow do it like we did with the rural routes? You cannot reasonably get away from consolidation under the new school law which takes effect this year unless you are in favor of higher school tax.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, etc., required by the Act of August 24, 1912, of the Klemme Times, published weekly at Klemme, Iowa, for April 1915.

Editor, M. M, Magner.
Managing Editor, M. M. Magner.
Business Manager, M. M. Magner.
Publisher, M. M. Magner
Known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities: None.
M. M. Magner.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 7th day of April, 1915.
F. J. Wenck, Notary Public.
(My commission expires July 4, 1915.

We believe that it is up to the town officials to see that there are enough hitching posts to satisfy the demand. We have repatedly called attention to the fact that we are badly in need of a lot more suitable hitching racks for the convenience of the farmer. When any one has a grievance of that nature they generally inform the newspaper man knowing he will likely try to jar something loose, but we have failed to do so every time a complaint has been made. The farmer is entitled to a decent and convenient place to hitch his team and let's provide one for him.

WORK WANTED

Anyone desiring the services of one or two good men for any kind of work Notify this office at once.

LOOK HERE

9 lots in Klemme, Ia., at a sacrifice price, other good farms at easy terms. Write for information,
Wolle Land Agency,
Belmond, Ia.

English M. E. Church Notes

Preaching service at 10;00 o'clock a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Sunday School at 11:00 o'clock.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Preaching at the Groesbeck school house at 3:00 o'clock p. m.

Rev. J. M. Howdeshell, Pastor.

Experience.

Experience teaches a lot of things we never cared to learn.—Judge.

THE FORGOTTEN WORD

By VICTOR RADCLIFFE.

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

"The word, sir?"

"Ha—hum! I declare!"

The challenge, sharp and suspicious, came through a tiny slot in a door that seemed to guard a lodge room, or some like secret place of convocation. The embarrassed response was from Prof. Achilles Dabney, savant and student of antiquity.

"I—how awkward! You see—dear me! how could I forget so readily? I have lost the word"

Snap! went the jealously guarded slot cover, but the professor beat hastily and peremptorily on the door, and, to him, the evil eye again appeared at the orifice

"I have come nearly five hundred miles," fluttered the professor excitedly and with eagerness "I am Professor Achilles Dabney Surely you have heard of me? I am deeply interested in the discovery of the great connecting link your illustrious society has on exhibition"

"Sorry, sir, but only to members of the Anthropological Assembly, or those accredited by some officer of the same, is admission granted, provided they have the password."

Professor Dabney groaned audibly as he left the place. All his thoughts were bent upon devising some way of getting in among the scientists. He racked his brain for a suggestion of some method of encompassing the great desire of his heart. In his abstraction, crossing a crowded thoroughfare, he jumped two feet up into the air at the sharply yelled words

"Hi, there—out of the way!"

"Mercy me!" gasped the professor as the teamster's horses nearly bore him down

"Look out!" came a second startling injunction, and the professor faced the new dilemma of a speeding automobile coming from the other direction

Directly in front of him was a little girl about nine years of age. She was directly in the course of the oncoming machine. The professor was not only a scientist but a true humanitarian He made a dash for the child. Just in time he pushed her out of the way of the crushing wheels of the auto, was knocked aside himself by the edge of the machine, and reached the curb, where a policeman was trying to sooth the crying, frightened child

"You are a good, grand man!" lisped the child, seizing and fondling his hand "Sister will never forget you, any more than I will. Oh, you must come with me and let her thank you! She would never forgive me if I let you go!"

So, in his meek, accommodating fashion, the professor allowed the little one to lead him along the street, followed by the approving and admiring smiles of the crowd. She finally paused at a small flat building, went up to its top story and pushed open a door, with the excited words:

"Oh, sister, dear! I've had such a time, and only for this gentleman you would never have seen me again!"

A lovely young girl arose from some fancywork in which she was engaged, paling at the hurried story of the little one, and then beaming her gratitude and interest upon the bashful and confused visitor.

The tired scientist glanced about the bright, cheery room. His gracious reception had warmed his heart. All his wealth and prestige, his lonely, selfish life faded into nothingness before the intensely human and inspiring influences of this neat little home nest. The little one insisted on his staying to lunch.

He arose to go, after the happiest hour of his life, and he thrilled as the hand of Miss Weston rested in his own at parting.

"Oh, Sister Rhoda! make him promise he will come to see us again—" began little Idaline, and then she paused, dismayed, for the professor had made an extraordinary

tion

"The lost word!" he fairly shouted, quivered all over with excitement, and, seizing his hat, fairly rushed from the place

It was just at dusk when there came a knock at the door of the little flat. Rhoda Weston looked glad and pleased as she welcomed the professor. He seemed supremely happy

"I had to come back to apologize for my rude departure," he exclaimed, "but you see that name, your name, Rhoda, by a strange coincidence, happened to be the password at that scientific assembly I told you about."

"Why, I am very glad to know that your great desire was met," said Rhoda,

"But come more about those [illegible] red ants," pleaded Idaline, climbing into his lap.

Why, Professor Dabney lingered in the city now that his mission was accomplished he could not himself exactly analyze But he did stay, and every evening he visited the little flat

"I am going home tomorrow," he told Rhoda one evening. "Perhaps I had better say what I was going to write," he continued

"Then why not do so?" she smiled encouragingly

"One word, a lost word, discovered through you, did me great service," said the professor, "and you have enabled me also to find and understand

Mosquitoes Near Pole.

The presence of mosquitoes in myriads within the bare, uninhabitated arctic circle is surely in some degree a mystery. The mosquito is a bloodsucker, but in these universal plains he is for the most part and of strict necessity a vegetarian. A few birds excepted (and the birds are furnished with impervious feathers) there is no local life whatever. The Lapp in summer drives his reindeer to the sea, and no native crosses the field if he can help it. Yet in this region, "seemingly the most unsuitable for its effective working," the mosquito flourishes, "a primeval and enduring curse, inexplicably developed to its utmost."

Where Life's Span is but a Day.

It has been computed that the day fly lives twenty-four hours, the May fly six weeks, the butterfly two months, the ant, the cricket and the bee a year each, the hare and sheep six to ten years, the wolf twelve to fifteen years, the canary bird fifteen to twenty years, and the nightingale twelve years. The dog lives fifteen to twenty-five years, cattle twenty-five years, the horse twenty-five to thirty years, the eagle thirty years, the stag thirty-five to forty years, heron, lion and bear fifty years each, the raven eighty years, elephant, turtle, parrot, pike and carp one hundred years each.

Chi

The earliest [illegible] were of Chines[illegible] is impossible t[illegible] of those still ex[illegible] fully well made, [illegible] manufactured [illegible] middle of the [illegible] Chinese locks[illegible] actly the same [illegible] forefathers had, fo[illegible] pic and primitive: [illegible] ments in tw[illegible] o[illegible] and worki[illegible] When he has finis[illegible] available in one nei[illegible] tens the two cabine[illegible] rod and slings it o[illegible] He tramps through [illegible] dened in this way, an[illegible] is called, much as a [illegible] or umbrella mender d[illegible] try.—Wide World Ma[illegible]

Life's High I[illegible]

We have more or less [illegible] what our own human li[illegible] —of what opportunities [illegible] have for the developmen[illegible] ulties—of what home an[illegible] college, youth and marriage[illegible] age, work and rest, ought [illegible] ourselves and our familie[illegible] to be as truly zealous and[illegible] other classes or other ind[illegible] we are for our own class o[illegible] family or ourselves.—Charle[illegible]

New Spring

In Men's, Young [illegible] Boy's Suits and Othe[illegible] Apparel

Our Stock is complete with ev[illegible] correct in dress, and the p[illegible] styles are the newest to [illegible]

Hart Schaffner & [illegible]

SUITS $18.00 AND U[illegible]

OTHER GOOD LINES AT $12.5[illegible]

We can Suit and Fit You in Whatever You[illegible] to see new Spring Styles in Shoes. Dress Shoe[illegible]

GET TO KNOW

GILDNER BROS. & JOHN[illegible]

GARNER, IOWA

A Talk About Groceries

It's easy enough to claim that this grocery store is the best within your reach. Claiming so doesn't make it so. But as a matter of fact we not only claim it, but we back up our claim with the facts.

We are receiving Fresh Groceries every day, and we are buying only Reliable Groceries that will appeal to your discriminating taste. You will always get full weight and first-class grades at this store.

The High Cost of Living

Can be avoided to a great extent by careful, intelligent marketing. Good wholesome, nourishing food staples, are but little higher than they ever were. From our stocks the table can be provided with food to suit all the family, with variety to suit the varying tastes, and at the most moderate price. Come to us and let us point you to the way of economical and satisfactory living.

A Safe Place To Trade

...sive Newspaper
...Most Progressive
...town In Hancock County

KLEMME TIMES

Independent In Most Things
But Neutral In Nothing

VOLUME XIX. NUMBER 32 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1915. — $1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

When You Select This Bank

to do your banking business with, you can feel assured of prompt and faithful service in every department. Our earned Surplus of $15,000.00

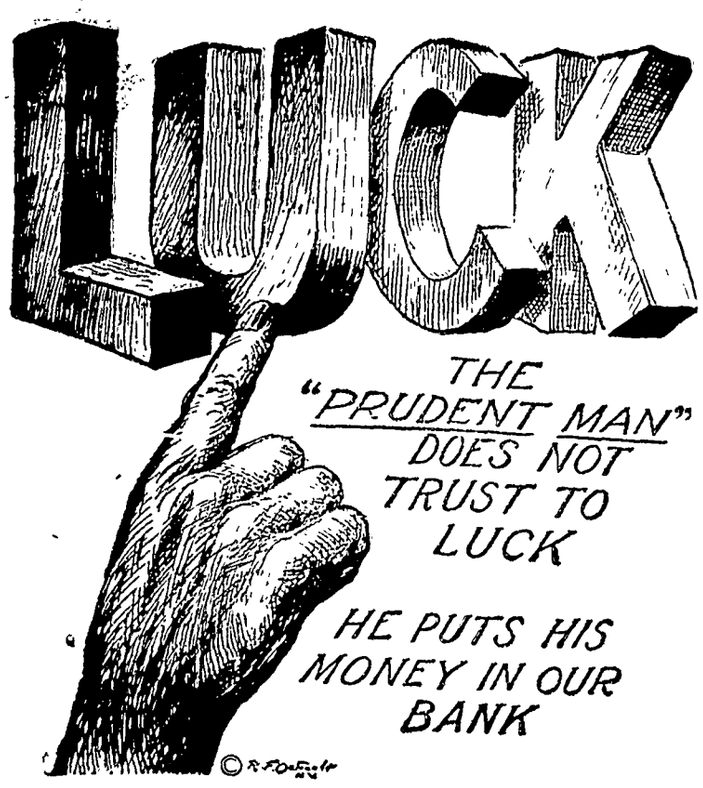
is proof of the success of this policy



The CAREFUL man—the man who ... chances—is the one who ... goes blindly into things and ... stop the success of a man who ... and regularly BANKS a part of ... or his business. Is it not better ... keep your balance GROWING—... GEROUS "luck"?

Make OUR bank YOUR bank

We pay 5 per cent interst on time deposits

State Savings Bank.

Klemme, Iowa

Capital $15,000.00
Surplus $15,000.00
Total $30,000.00

Can you beat it?

THIS IS

BOY'S SUIT WEEK

Buy Your Boy A Suit This Week

The selections are good and we show them at any price you wish to pay.

Some Suits with two pairs of pants ---a big saving to you.

With every Suit from $3.50 and up, we will give a pair of Boy's Stilts Free.

Bring the Boys in and Fit Them Out

Suits $2.00 to $8.00

GET TO KNOW

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

GARNER, IOWA

Odd Bits of News

Interesting and Novel Items From Here and There

Washington D C —Reports from Vienna, Austria, and the members of the Hapsburg family the royal family of Austria, not including Emperor Francis Joseph, purchased in the United States during February real estate and American stocks to the value of 70 000,000 crowns, about $17,500,000

Galesburg, Ill — A lady in this city cleaning a silk dress with gasoline, took the garment out into the yard to dry She began brushing the silk ... with her hand, causing a spark of static electricity which igniting the fumes burned the lady severly and destroyed the dress

Hampton Roads Va In the list of supplies requisitioned by Capt Thierichens of the German raider Prince Eitel Friedrich was an item of 50,000 bottles of beer 100 bottles for each man on board The naval board cut down every item on the list except this one

Clarksburg W Va Mrs Kathe Dent was struck and fatally injured at Barnes Crossing near here by the same engine that struck and instantly killed Ulysses E Waters at a neighboring crossing the same day

Los Angeles Cal William Flynn 37 months and Alene Houck, 17 months eugenic babies have been betrothed by their parents They are winners in the recent baby show here

Binghampton N Y After giving all his wages to his wife every week for 25 years R H Walker is now suing ... money She ... with him even the ... another man

... Miss Mary Farrell ... Bradford were married the ... by Justice of the Peace Mc... license which ... Both contracting parties are more than 70 ... no reason for the long delay in their nuptial arrangements

Winsted, Conn.—Physicians say an operation by which Richard Briggs, dairyman wears a new eyelid made ... is successful

New York Mary Gunos asked her teacher to excuse her for being tardy She was delayed in reaching school by ... her three year old sister and ... months old brother from suffocation in a fire

CONTROLLING MITES

These Expensive Pests May Be Disposed of With Little Trouble.

A very large part of the loss suffered every year by poultry raisers may be traced to the two common parasites the chicken mite and the chicken louse Yet either one of these pests may be disposed of if the poultry raisers is diligent with only moderate trouble and expense Since the mites leave the fowls by day and breed in cracks and filth, they may be gotten rid of very easily Clean up all the filth and thoroughly disinfect the buildings and fixtures with one of the disinfectants given below. Repeat the treatment as often as necessary and remember that sunlight, cleanliness and ventilation are three excellent preventatives As the lice spend their entire life on the fowl the treatment must reach them on the fowl as well as disinfectaing the house Dusting the fowls and using paste or ointment is the best method of fighting lice Below are given a number of liquid and powder exterminators that have been proved effective by the Iowa agricultural experiment station. Carbolic acid-kerosene Paint.—To 3 parts of kerosene add 1 part crude carbolic acid. Apply with brush, as a paint.

Whitewash—Slack 1 peck of lime and dilute to 40 gallons, add 2 pounds of salt, 1 gallon of crude carbolic acid. Apply with a spray pump.

Louse powder—3 parts gasoline, 1 part crude carbolic acid. Mix together and add as much plaster of Paris or land plaster as the mixture will moisten. Allow to dry and apply liberally to fowls. This is rather strong for young chickens.

Louse Ointment—1 cup lard, 1 tablespoonful crude carbolic acid.

LOOK HERE

9 lots in Klemme, Ia., at a sacrifice price, other good farms at easy terms. Write for information,

Wolle Land Agency,
Belmond, Ia.

SHEEP ARE PROFITABLE

Farmers of This State Are Missing an ... Opportunity in Not Producing More Mutton and Wool.

Iowa farmers are losing a good item of profit in their failure to grow more sheep than they do, according to Prof W. H Pew, head of the animal husbandry department of Iowa State college At the present time Iowa has about 750,000 sheep on its farms, a very small number when compared to other states no better adapted for sheep growing

Sheep are valuable to the farmer for a good many reasons They are commonly known as the farm scavengers because they destroy so many weeds and grasses and turn these wastes in money But they are profitable for other reasons It takes only a small investment to found a flock, they produce two crops a year one of meat, the other of wool and both sell readily for cash, they are cheaply maintained as far as feed is concerned, they may be housed in very inexpensive buildings, and finally they hold a place in the first rank for restoring ferdility to the soil, particularly on old, worn out pastures

The price of one car load of 900 pound feeding steers at $5.25 will buy 118 head of $8 00 ewes, says Mr Pew They will produce in the spring 150 per cent or one lamb and a half and also a shear of fleece of wool weighing from 6 to 10 pounds The price of this car load of steers will found a flock of 37 pure bred ewes at $23 per head, the fleeces of which will pay for the keep for a year and the ram lamb in the fall ought to bring in nearly the purchase price of the ewe

The sale of the product the same year produced as in the case of the lamb born in the spring and sold in the fall means quick returns from the investment and as a matter of fact if properly handled, the ewe can be bred so that the lamb will be ready for market by the time it is 10 to 15 weeks old If the lamb is born early enough in the season and forced along so that he has a marketable weight at the age mentioned, he will bring a very high price, market quotations showing this spring $8 to $10 per lamb weighing 55 to 65 pounds

It is pointed out that this is a particularly opportune time for getting into the sheep business, because both mutton and wool are likely to command more than usually good prices this year

GOOD RATION FOR SOWS

Corn, Alfalfa and Meal Tankage Make Very Good Feeds

Corn, alfalfa and meat meal tankage should make a very exceptionally good trio of brood sow feed if happily combined, says John M Evvard, animal husbandry experimentalist at Iowa State college. A suggestive ration which would be quite economical would be to give the sows, gilts and little ones enough corn to keep them in good condition adding alfalfa in a rack and giving them about 1-4 to 1-5 pound of meat product daily. The alfalfa may be ground and mixed with corn, say 100 pounds of corn to 100 pounds if alfalfa, and same allowed in a self-feeder. An average gilt of 250 pounds will eat about 5 to 6 pounds of this daily, so to get the necessary tankage into it, mix with every hundred about 5 pounds of this meat product. If the sows are too fat, increase the proportion of ground alfalfa accordingly—the results should be happy at farrowing time. Don't forget the common salt at free will, and plenty of good, wholesome water.

New Country, Just Opened

New railroads, new towns, soil deep black loam with yellow clay subsoil, praire lands with poplar groves, crop failures unknown, no stones, no stumps, cheap land, easy terms, the poor man's chance to get a home, and the rich man's opportunity for investment. Maps and printed matter free

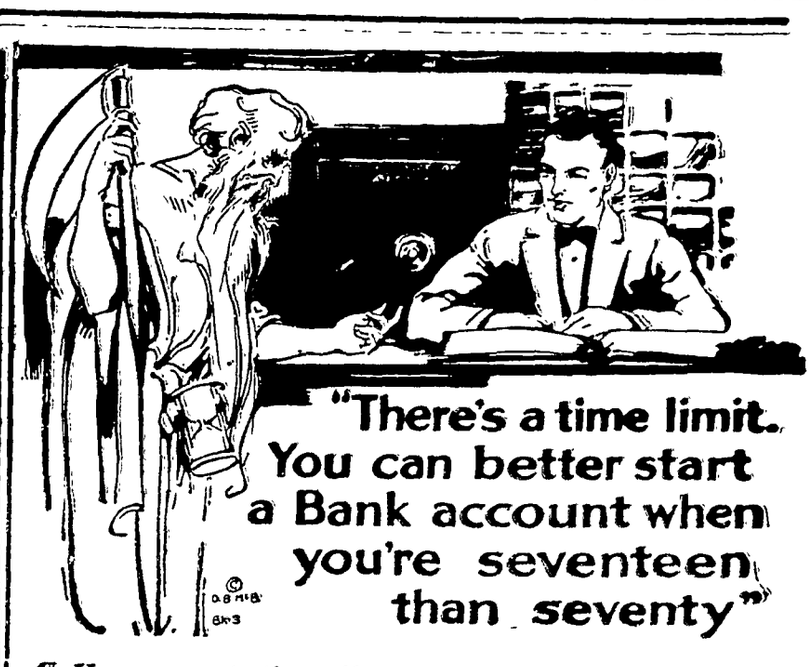
We also have a few farms to exchange for other desirable property

Thief River Land Co.,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

LOOK HERE

Those that have not paid their account with us are invited to come and pay same at once. We need the money. Everybody pay up. We thank you in advance for so doing. Henry Lau & Son.

Buy all your magazines of us. We can give you three magazines one year with The Times for only 25 cents extra.



"There's a time limit. You can better start a Bank account when you're seventeen than seventy"

¶ You are not stingy if you save money, but sensible.

¶ What other people spend foolishly is making others rich and somebody is saving a part of what you spend. You don't deny yourself pleasure when you save, because saving becomes a pleasure and results in comforts and pleasures that no one can enjoy but those who have saved. Don't deny yourself a Bank account. Start with $1.

5 Per Cent Interest Paid on Savings

First National Bank, Klemme, Iowa

We Sell at Right Prces

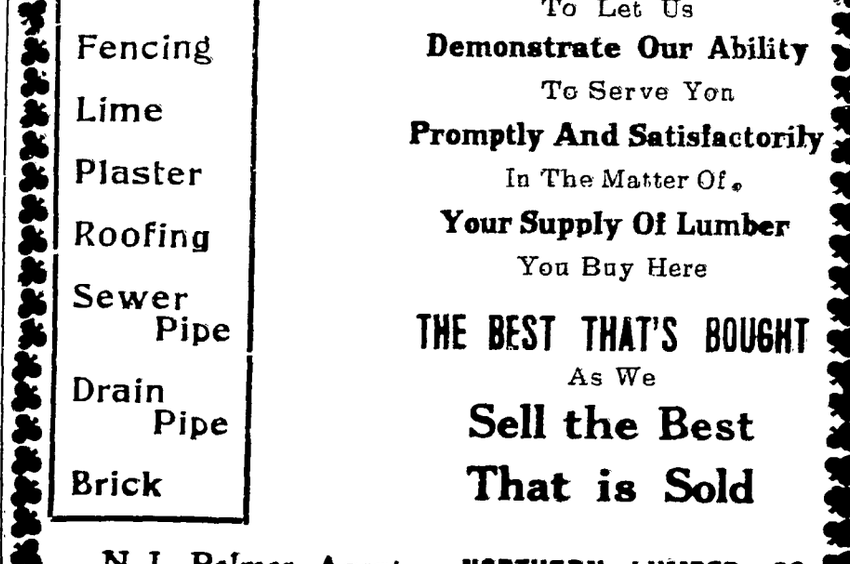
Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Posts, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Cement, Fencing, Lime, Plaster, Roofing, Sewer Pipe, Drain Pipe, Brick

Now Is The Time

To Let Us Demonstrate Our Ability To Serve You Promptly And Satisfactorily In The Matter Of Your Supply Of Lumber You Buy Here

THE BEST THAT'S BOUGHT As We Sell the Best That is Sold

N. L. Palmer, Agent — NORTHERN LUMBER CO.



Spades
Rakes
Hoes

FOR THE GARDEN

Weeders
Sprinklers
Seeds, Etc.

Garden time's HERE. See us for all kinds of tools. We carry a BIG NEW STOCK of GARDEN IMPLEMENTS at LOWEST PRICES in town. We also carry everything in TOOLS and HARDWARE. Satisfaction or money back.

J. W. WATERMAN & SON

BUTTER AND EGGS SAME AS CASH

THE KLEMME TIMES

M. M. MAGNER, Publisher.

KLEMME, IOWA

North and South Carolina are again at war over the question of Jackson's birthplace. Tar Heels admit that Jackson himself believed that he had been born in South Carolina, according to his statement in a letter written in 1814. "I was born in South Carolina, as I have been told, at the plantation whereon James Crawford lived." But this statement is not the most certain conceivable, and in 1903 North Carolinians were electrified by the discovery that the land records of the ground upon which Jackson was born and which later became part of the Crawford plantation, were recorded at Charlotte, N. C. Ever since that discovery South Carolina has been on the defensive, but it has been an offensive defensive, at times developing into a counter offensive. To confirm her claim South Carolina has erected a monument upon the sacred spot which, as time goes on, will itself come to constitute part of the evidence in the case. Historic maps and letters are hazy things, which the ordinary person seldom sees and more seldom understands, but there is no getting away from a monument.

The French have lately put into the field a number of batteries of 75-millimeter field pieces mounted on strong, swift automobiles. The French "75" is already famous as the finest field piece in existence. Mounted in this way so it can be advanced along the road at high speed it becomes one of the most terrible weapons so far invented. It can be used to good effect against the hitherto troublesome armored automobiles of the enemy, though the rapidity with which it can be brought into play to aid or to repel an infantry attack is doubtless its greatest asset. Those who have seen the gun are full of praise for its perfection, while the cannoneers who man these new batteries are said to be the proudest soldiers in the French army.

The New Zealand government has introduced into the house of representatives of that colony a bill to provide for a referendum vote at the next parliamentary election to determine whether the bible shall be read in the public schools under the supervision of teachers, but without sectarian teaching and whether provision shall be made during school hours for religious instruction by a minister or his substitute, to be chosen by the parent. If the bill, which has received the indorsement of the government, shall pass, it will be submitted to the voters at the next election and the result will be laid before parliament at the opening session of 1915.

The Prussian ministry of war has issued regulations concerning the employment of prisoners of war as agricultural laborers. It prefers that the prisoners shall be hired out in squads of from 80 to 100 men, but is willing, in special circumstances to permit squads of 10 men to be hired. The farmers employing the men have to provide food and shelter for the prisoners, and to bear all the cost of guarding them. If the prisoners work in the vicinity of a regular prisoners' camp the employers must pay the military authorities 4 cents a day for lodging and guards. If the prisoners are removed some distance from the camp the employer must pay their railroad fares.

It was the year 1775 that saw the birth of our navy. News reached the Continental congress that two British transports laden with munitions of war had sailed from England for Quebec. Congress determined to capture them, since our army was in great need of supplies. Plans were made to build two sailing vessels, one to carry 10 guns and the other 14. On the 30th of October 1775 it was decided to fit out two more ships, others soon followed and a list of names for officers were prepared by the naval committee with Esek Hopkins as commander in chief and Paul Jones among its lieutenants.

No fewer than 34 men can find standing room in one of the dippers of the new Panama canal dredges that are now being completed. Three dippers of each of these mammoth dredges measure no less than 10 feet 9½ inches, in height from the bottom band to the upper edge of their manganese steel lips. They have a capacity of 15 cubic yards, and it is expected that each dredge, which has a displacement of 1,500 tons, will be able to excavate about 300,000 cubic yards a month in actual operation on the isthmus. The dredges are designed to dig to a depth of 50 feet.

Lilliputian has become a word almost entirely substituted for dwarf, yet the term was only invented by Jonathan Swift in 1727, when he wrote his famous Gulliver's Travels. In this weird little fable Swift created the island of Lilliput of which the inhabitants were no greater in size than a man's finger. Swift, who was dean of St. Patrick's at Dublin, was a queer character of an unhappy nature, and most unfortunate in his love affairs.

The six provinces that form what is known as Sevillian Andalusia and Extremadura contain a population of over 6,170,000 and cover 34,059 square miles—a density of population of approximately 100 to the square mile, or three times that of the United States, which is 30.9, but less than one-third that of Germany, which is 310.96 to the mile. In this territory there are 48 cities and 519 towns containing (with the smaller country towns and isolated houses) 533,047 edifices.

There is a theory that the circular crater like mountains of the moon are not of volcanic origin, but are the result of the moon's being hit by planetoids. Another new theory is to the effect that the earth was at one time encircled by a ring similar to that which now encircles Saturn and that this gradually coalesced, gathering first around a large number of nuclei and finally uniting a single sphere—the moon.

One of the scarcest of American autographs is said to be that of John Eliot, the famous "apostle to the Indians." This fact lends interest to the recent sale of several letters from him one of which quaintly says that "in the hot sumres the Indians delight to goe in linnen and work if in any garment only a linnen garment if they can get it."

A Yorkshire M. P., noted for love of punctuality and lack of humor, says Christian Life, is superintendent of a local Sunday school. A few Sundays ago he had the pleasure of making the following announcement: "Dear fellow workers and children, out of the entire school only one person is absent today—little Maggie. Let us hope that she is ill!"

A solar physics laboratory is to be erected in New Zealand, at Nelson. The site will probably be on a summit known as the Fringe, which has an elevation of 2,500 feet above sea level.

ANTI-TIPPING BILLS HAVE BEEN APPROVED BY DECISIVE VOTES

Each House Has Passed Its Own Measure, But Agreement Seems Certain.

Des Moines, Ia., April 10.—The Thirty-sixth general assembly is bound to place a curb on the practice of tipping in Iowa. The senate has passed the bill by Hagemann of Emmet county, which seeks to enact a new statute on the practice of giving gratuities. The house has passed a bill by Peterson of Cedar county on the same subject. Representative Peterson has promised to support the Hagemann measure in the house and to drop his own bill. The Peterson bill only amended a present statute on tipping and is quite drastic, as the penalty provided is a fine of from $25 to $50. The Hagemann bill provides a fine of $5 to $25 for violation. Judging from the almost unanimous vote given the Peterson bill in the house it is believed the Hagemann measure will receive a like reception.

The Hagemann bill is worded as follows:

Every employe of any hotel, restaurant, barber shop or other public place, and every employe of any person, firm, partnership or corporation, or of any public service corporation engaged in the transportation of passengers who shall receive or solicit any gratuity, tip or other thing of value or of valuable consideration, from any guest or patron, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $5 or more than $25.

BEST BOY CORN GROWERS GET EXPOSITION TRIPS

Ames, Ia., April 10.—In 13 counties of the state arrangements have been made to send the boy who grows the best acre of corn with the excursion of boy corn growers to the Panama-Pacific exposition, next fall. Director R. K. Bliss, of the agricultural extension department who is promoting these contests in co-operation with the bankers of the state, believes that a large majority of the counties will make similar arrangements.

The 13 counties in which arrangements have already been made include the following, with the names of the donors of the money for the prize trip:

Floyd County—George E. May.
Marshall County—A. F. Balch.
Cerro Gordo County—C. H. McNider.
Calhoun County—J. H. Bradt.
Plymouth County—P. F. Dalton.
Boone County—George B. Irick.
Blackhawk County—Citizens Savings bank of Cedar Falls.
Cherokee County—W. A. Sanford.
Greene County—Paul E. Stillman.
Hardin County—A. W. Mitterer.
Hamilton County—W. L. R. Perry.
Benton County—Vinton Farmers Savings bank.
